NUMBER 12

Amendments Go to Voters, Bowman Is Unopposed On The Ballot

Although the campaign is underway to pass the school finance equalization amendment, one major question remains: How is it going to affect my school district? But to answer that question, lawmakers have to tackle what may be the biggest bugaboo left in this legislative session other than the state budget—drafting a school finance bill.

Thus far, state leaders have been reluctant to jump in and get to work on writing enabling legislation to carry out the proposed constitutional amendment that will be put to a statewide vote on May 1. That doesn't mean that there aren't school finance plans on the table. At least six to eight plans are on the drafting board and have been for quite some time, including SB 313 by the School Finance Working Group sponsored by Senator Bill Haley. Other plans range from legalizing county education districts (SB 7 by Ratliff) to a combination of county and statewide recapture (HB 639 by Johnson) to mandatory consolidation of school districts (HB 769 by Hochberg, et al).

Nevertheless, some optimistic observers attribute lawmakers' hesitancy to get on with the plan as simply (1) an effort to slow down and carefully think out what should and should not be in the enabling legislation, (2) a period to review all the options available, (3) waiting to see how much new money public schools will receive before they tackle the plan, or (4) waiting to see if the amendment passes.

Other, less optimistic observers, see the lull as an attempt by state leaders to (1) stall, because they know that any school finance plan presented before May 1 will look bad because of the small amount of state funding expected to be added to the system, thus giving rise to increased property taxes and potentially killing the amendment at the polls, or (2) confusion.

No doubt all four scenarios are at work, but the scenario that is being played out the most in Austin appears

John Bowman will be unopposed on the ballot in the race for mayor of the City of Silverton in the general election to be held Saturday, May 1. Mayor Wayne Nance has chosen not to seek re-election.

Two seats on the Council are to be filled, that vacated by Bowman and the one left vacant by the resignation of James Griffin last year. Those who have filed for places on the ballot are W. D. Rowell, Lane Garvin, Vance Childress, James Edwards and Rick Minyard. Two are to be elected from this field.

Incumbents Dewey Estes and Tom Burson have offered themselves for re-election as trustees of the Silverton Independent School District. In addition, Penny Carpenter is a candidate for one of the places on the Board. Two are to be elected, and this balloting will be from 7:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. Saturday, May 1, at the City Hall.

Absentee balloting in both the city and school elections begins April 12 and continues through April 27, from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Absentee votes in the City election are cast at the City Hall, and those in the School election are cast at the Towe Office Building.

Director to be Elected at Meet

Briscoe County cotton producers and agribusiness representatives will elect a Producer Director to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. at 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, March 25, at the showbarn in Silverton. The election will be held in conjunction with a meeting conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Announcement of the election comes from George Reed of Silverton, current Briscoe County Producer Director to the 25-county cotton organization, and Rex Johnson, also of Silverton, Business Director.

Each county in PCG's service area has two directors, one a business person and the other a cotton producer. They are elected on alternate years for two-year terms. Each is eligible for re-election every second year.

All producers and business people are invited to the meeting; however, under PCG By-Laws, only current dues-paying members of PCG will be eligible to be elected a director or to vote in the election. This provision of the by-laws will be fully explained at the meeting.

A PCG representative will conduct the election, review and answer questions about recent and planned PCG activities.

Amendments Go to Voters, But Finance Bill, Issues Remain to be one the papers are less apt to mention—behind the scenes negotiations. To get certain groups to work for passage of the constitutional amendment (or at least, to get them to agree not to stand in its way), Capitol sources say deals are being cut as to what will and will not be included in the enabling bill or passed in some other legislation that comes down the pike. Among the issues rumored to be in "negotiations" are five of particular concern to the Texas Association of School Boards:

(1) Extreme accountability and school district performance language that threatens local control of school districts and school board authority.

(2) Teacher salary increases that could siphon off scarce funds needed to handle student enrollment growth and to maintain existing programs.

(3) Automatic rollback election that would be triggered when a school district ups its tax rate by a certain percentage or dollar amount.

(4) Voucher, tuition tax credit, or scholarship programs that use public funds to send students to other public and private schools of their choice.

(5) Level of funding for public education, specifically, negotiations on how much new money to put into public education and how much of it should go to the program or salary increases.

Texas Association of School Boards believes that passage of the equalization amendment is an important step toward finally solving Texas' school finance equity crisis, but other steps remain. The most important of these are (1) adoption of enabling legislation in line with the School Finance Working Group's plan before May 1, and (2) adequate state funding for public education. At the same time, TASB remains concerned about possible provisions that may be added to the enabling legislation (such as those mentioned). The Association urges board members and administrators to continue to communicate with their lawmakers about these issues and the needs of Texas public schools.

May 1 Texans will go to the polls to vote on a series of proposed constitutional amendments that could change the way Texas finances its public schools. Understanding what those amendments entail, what they do and don't do, is key to explaining the proposed amendments to the public.

Simmons was graduated from Pampa High School and received music degrees from Wayland Baptist University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. While attending Wayland, he was a member of the International Choir, Spirit of America Singers, Spinning Wheels and Phi Mu Alpha. He served as president and student conductor of the International Choir, and received the James D. Cram Memorial Award and the Outstanding Church Musician Scholarship. Spring Revival Services Begin Here March 28

First Baptist Church will be in Spring Revival Sunday-Friday, March 28-April 2. Sunday services are at the regular times of 10:30 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. Morning services are scheduled Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:00 a.m. beginning with a light breakfast. Evening services each weekday Monday-Friday will begin at 7:00 p.m.

Children, grades 1-6, will have a hot dog supper Monday evening at 5:30, and the youth are invited to a supper on Wednesday evening at 5:30.

Coming to lead the revival services are Dr. Gil Lain, pastor of Paramount Baptist Church, Amarillo, and Terry Simmons, singles minister of First Baptist Church, Plainview.

Dr. Lain, in Amarillo since 1991, has previously pastored at Coggin Avenue Baptist Church, Brownwood; Crestmont Baptist, Burleson; First Baptist Church, Rio Vista, and First Baptist Church, Centerville.

After graduating from Hamlin High School, Dr. Lain received a bachelor of science degree from Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, and a master of divinity and a doctor of philosophy degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

Dr. Lain has led revivals and conferences in several states as well as in Spain, Switzerland and Brazil; has served as adjunct professor in New Testament at Howard Payne University, Brownwood, and in Preaching and Field Education at Southwestern Seminary. He has written for several Baptist periodicals.

He and his wife, Mary Lynn, are parents of two sons, Caleb and Cody, and a daughter, Krissie.

Terry Simmons, who will be leading the music portion of the revival, came

Attends Training For Ombudsman Volunteers

Lois Nance was in Amarillo Friday to attend quarterly training for ombudsman volunteers.

The meeting was held at the Medical Center at Bivins Memorial Nursing Home.

Weldon Scarborough, district ombudsman, was in charge of the training session.

Melinda Butler, director of the new alzheimers wing of the Bivins Nursing Home, presented an interesting program and guided tours of the beautiful home.

John, Darrah, Marshall and Laura McCammon of Boerne spent Tuesday night with Virgil and Eudean Crow. They had spent a few days snow skiing in Red River, New Mexico, and were on their way home. The children were on their spring break. The McCammons always enjoy seeing their friends when they return here.

GOD GAVE US OUR WORLD TO LIVE IN AND BE ITS GUARDIANS

There is a faction that, judging by their statements and actions, would apparently like to see the whole world covered with nothing but shopping malls and housing developments. Of course, there is an increasing need for these things as our population continues to burgeon, but it would also seem that we could find it in us to leave some space for undisturbed nature. If we were all biology experts, we would understand that God made the plants and animals for a reason, and that they are as helpful to us and to our environment as we should be to them. Otherwise, we could easily turn our planet into a dust bowl. We learn in the Book of Genesis that God made all the animals and plants, and "saw that they were good." So let us respect and protect them; not only for their sake, but also for our own.

CARD OF THANKS

To the Silverton Volunteer Fire Department: We thank you for putting out our fire last week. Because you answered so promptly, the fire was contained into a small one which otherwise could have been a very major one.

Again, thanks and bless each of you!

A big thank you to the 911 ambulance service, to Connie and Sally, for taking me to Lubbock.

Also to everyone who called, sent cards and came to see me.
