couldn't speak before a crowd; he couldn't teach a class, but when it came worship time he brought the folks "enmasse" . . . He couldn't sing to save his life, in public couldn't pray, but always his "jalopy" was crammed on each Lord's Day.

Although he could not sing, nor teach nor lead in prayer, he listened well and had a smile, and he was always there, with all the others whom he brought, who lived both near and far, and God's work prospered—for you see, he had a consecrated car.

If the church aims to hit sin, it should pull the trigger . . . If you really want the church to go, then get up and go to church . . . The church is not made up of people who are better than the rest, but of people who want to become better than they are now . . . Having your name on the church roll is a poor substitute for real Christianity . . . Too many church members are starched and ironed, but not washed . . . Remember an ounce of church is worth more than a ton of police court . . . Most churches are fairly supplied with conductors, with a shortage of engineers, but a big oversupply of "brakemen" . . . What the church really needs is more men who talk less and work more . . . I am persuaded that this is true . . .

Remember this for sure, there is a hotter place than the church in summer . . . The retiring usher was instructing the youthful successor in the details of his duties. "And remember, my boy, that we have nothing but good people. They are all good Christians—until you try to put someone else in their pew" . . . This sign was displayed outside the building: CH??CH — what's missing?

You may well ask, why do people go to church anyway? (The critic answers) Some go to church to take a walk, some go to church to laugh and talk. Some go there to meet a friend, some go there their time to spend. Some go there to meet a lover, some go there a fault to cover. Some go there for speculation, some go there for observation. Some go there to doze and nod, but the wise go there to worship God.

Recently a dedicated TV audience was startled into thought when someone read a letter from a girl on the topic: "Why I Go to Church." She said, "I go to church every Sunday so when they carry me in one day, the Lord won't turn and ask, 'Who is this?'

Do you ask me what's the matter? Do you wonder what is wrong? When the nation turns from worship, sermon and sacred song? Why do people rush for pleasure, leave religion in the lurch? Why prefer a padded auto to the cushioned pew in the church?

Hand in hand, in Sunday dress, parents with their children go, asking God their lives to bless, wanting all His love to show.

Amen.

or clues, he is ready to suspect a supernatural killer. Blood on the rocks . . . a body on the high mesa . . . Leaphorn must stalk the Wolf-Witch along a chilling trail between mysticism and murder.

"The Wolf Path," by Judith Van Gieson. Gieson's growing legion of admirers will applaud the fourth appearance of her singular sleuth, Neil Hamel. She leaves her shoestring Albuquerque law practice for southern New Mexico, where her client, a radical environmentalist, has been accused of murdering a federal official. As a favor to a friend, Neil agrees to keep an eye on Juan Sololobo, an anglo, who has come to New Mexico with his wolf, Sirius, to campaign for the reintroduction of wolves to the area. Juan and the ranching community are instantly at odds.

On "Cashelmara," at once beautiful and frightening, is the great house that dominates the Irish estates of the de Salis family, obsessing them from generation to generation, dominating their lives, fortunes, irresistibly drawing them away from the quiet and settled world of mid-Victorian English aristocracy into the violence, passion and danger of Ireland. Castillo Wins '94 Spelling Bee

The Silverton School auditorium was the setting for the annual Amarillo Globe-News Spelling Bee held Wednesday, March 23. There were 26 spelling students who participated, from the fourth grade level through eighth grade. There were 65 words given before Junior Castillo was named as the champion. Amber Aulbach earned the runner-up position upon misspelling the word "census". Junior correctly spelled "census", as well as "ceramic" to win the competition.

At the completion of eight rounds of spelling, the number of entrants was down to the final two spellers who sparred back and forth for about five more rounds. The other competitors were Nicholas Vargas, Kylie Green, Kina Garrison, Jimmy Castillo, Nicole Maddox and Brandi Rice, who represented the fourth grade; Kendra Rhoderick and Brooke Garvin were the fifth grade entrants.

From the sixth grade were Tyra Younger, Paul Donahoo, Jordan Sarchet, Misti Mattheus, Kayla Davis and Vanessa Reyna. The seventh grade sent last year's winner Lindsey Jennings, as well as Junior Castillo (this year's winner) and Destiny Ivory.

Rounding out the list of participants was a large group of eighth graders who offered some stiff competition, Amber Aulback (runner-up), Trey Ziegler, Jackie Cherry, Molly Brooks, Kenzie Burson, Lacy Brunson, Miles Comer, Michelle Warren and Shauna Kingery.

All of these students deserve recognition for their efforts in this voluntary competition at such a busy time of the year when preparations for other academic events are in high gear.

Mrs. Mary Ann Rauch and Mrs. Shelly Brock graciously took time out from their busy school schedules to serve as judges for this year's Bee. Mrs. Debbie Holt coordinated the event and pronounced the words for the spellers. Mrs. Holt presented Castillo the winner's prize of a Webster's dictionary at the conclusion of the contest.

Castillo will represent Briscoe County in another competition to be held on the West Texas A&M campus next month. He will be facing other county winners from the Texas Panhandle.

Soil and Water Loans Available

"Conservation of the soil and water are upmost issues in today's headlines," says Ross W. James, Swisher County FmHA Supervisor. The Farmers Home Administration is making soil and water loans and providing technical management assistance to owners and/or operators of farms and ranches for the purpose of developing, conserving, and making proper use of their land and water resources.

Funds may be used for many varied purposes which include:

- ★ Developing wells and otherwise improve water supply systems for irrigation, home use, and livestock
- ★ Purchase pump, sprinkler systems, and other irrigation equipment
- ★ Construct and repair ponds, tanks, ditches, and canals for irrigation
- ★ Build dikes, terraces and other erosion structures
- ★ Sprinkler systems

The maximum repayment term is 40 years. Today's interest rate on this type of loan is 6½%. The loan cannot exceed the amount needed for improvements and cost connected with the loan or the market value of the security less other debts against it.

Applicants must first seek a Guarantee loan before a direct loan can be considered. Applicants also must meet the basic eligibility requirements and have the cash flow to service the debt.

Anyone who is interested in this program may contact the Tulia Farmers Home Administration office at (806) 995-2318.

Wayne and Jimmie Hunter of Flomot and Carrie Dickerson of Silverton were in Abilene over the weekend to attend the MHS soccer game in which their grandson, Ross Hunter, was a participant. The team won its game and was to advance to the State Quarterfinals this week to play El Paso.

While in Abilene, Mrs. Dickerson also visited Bertha Mae Allard, who is recuperating from a broken hip in the home of her granddaughter, Sue Morris. She reported that Bertha Mae is missing her family and friends and is looking forward to being able to return to her home in three weeks.
