TEMPERATURE SOARS TO EQUAL RECORD

115 Degree Reading Wednesday Equals All-Time Record

The past ten days—Aug. 3 to Aug. 12—have been the hottest of any similar period in the history of the local Government observation station, records kept by Mrs. Fred Sanders, in charge.

For the ten day period an average high temperature of 106.2 degrees has been recorded, ranging from a "low" of 100 degrees to 115 on the hottest. The latter figure, reached Wednesday by the soaring mercury, equals the highest ever recorded here.

A similar temperature prevailed for three consecutive days in 1933, when on July 13, 14, and 15 this section sweltered under a temperature of 115 degrees.

The local station was established in 1908, Mrs. Sanders says, and only four times since that year has the mercury reached the 115 point—Wednesday of this week, and the three days in 1933.

Nearest approach was in 1910, on Aug. 3, when 114 degree heat prevailed for one day.

Cooler summer, records show, was during 1926, when the temperature reached the 100 mark on only one day.

16-Day Temperatures

High temperatures for the past ten day period, as furnished by Mrs. Sanders:

Aug. 3, 100; Aug. 4, 100; Aug. 5, 102; Aug. 6, 104; Aug. 7, 104; Aug. 8, 105; Aug. 9, 110; Aug. 10, 110; Aug. 11, 112; Aug. 12, 115.

First Bales From County's 1936 Cotton Crop Ginned This Week

CONSUMPTION OF WATER HIKE BY MERCURY'S CLIMB

Average of 175,000 Gallons Being Used Daily by Local Residents

Water consumption has reached its highest peak of the year during the past few days of torrid temperatures, according to City Water Superintendent Rogers Gilstrap, who stated Wednesday that two available wells were "cut in" this week in order to provide ample supply for the demand, which totals almost 175,000 gallons daily at the present time.

Average consumption at its lowest is around 85,000 gallons daily during winter months, Gilstrap said, rising to an average of 165,000 gallons per day during the summer.

No fear is felt that a water shortage will occur any time soon, the water superintendent added, as the water level in all city wells has not been appreciably lowered during the present dry weather period. The present municipal plant can furnish 250,000 gallons of water daily if needed, Gilstrap estimated.

As a part of recent improvements to the local water plant, semi-automatic valves for the chlorinator plant will be installed within a few days, officials state, and this will eliminate the "bad taste" discernible at times in the past when chlorine gas has been mixed with the water as a purifying element. Heretofore it has been necessary to use large quantities of the chlorine in each operation in order that all parts of the system might be reached, but the new equipment will automatically mix uniform quantities of chlorine with the water as it is pumped from the wells.

FARM RESIDENCE WEST OF HASKELL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Eight-Room Structure on the Tubbs Farm Burns; Loss Estimated at $3,500

Fire which was thought to have originated in a clothes closet this morning, destroyed the large 6-room residence on the Tubbs farm five miles west from Haskell on the Rule highway.

The large wooden structure, long a landmark in this section, owned by Mrs. M. M. Tubbs of this city, was occupied by Roy Miller and family. Members of the family noticed the fire, but attempts to extinguish the blaze failed, and an alarm was turned in to the local fire department when it became apparent that the flames could not be brought under control.

Fire Truck Damaged
In answering the alarm, Driver Carl Maples and Assistant Chief Clay Smith in the department's pump truck burned out a bearing in the truck motor before reaching the scene. Cause of the mishap was attributed to a faulty oil line. The truck was towed back to town and the damage quickly repaired.

The house and practically all contents were destroyed, members of the family being able to save only a few household effects. Loss on the house is estimated at $2,500, with $1,500 insurance.

Mr. Miller could furnish no estimate of his loss, and had no insurance.

TWO BALES GINNED IN THIS CITY WEDNESDAY

Rule Farmer Gets First Honors With Second Bale Coming Soon Behind

First bale of cotton to be ginned in Haskell from the 1936 crop was rolled from the press at the Haskell Cooperative Gin shortly after midnight last night, quickly followed by bale No. 2.

S. S. Dozier, farmer living west of Rule, brought in the first bale—a load of 2,000 pounds of "snappey" cotton—late Wednesday evening. Ginning of the cotton was delayed several hours while ginners "belited up" machinery and placed equipment in readiness, the unexpected call having caught them unprepared.

Dozier's bale weighed 482 pounds and was called as middling grade. Ginning of the first bale was done free of charge.

Second bale brought to town was from the farm of Jim Cox, resident of the Howard community, early Wednesday night. After ginning, the bale weighed 505 pounds. No premiums have been paid on the first and second bales, but it is expected that suitable awards will be made by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Cotton Opening Early
Continued hot, dry weather has damaged cotton considerably, some estimates ranging from 25 to 40 percent, causing the immature bolls to open, and local ginners are predicting that if rain is not received within a week, gathering of the staple will be under way in all sections of the county.

First Bale in County Ginned Monday
To C. I. Lauderdale, Rochester farmer, belongs the distinction of producing the first bale of cotton to be ginned from the 1936 crop in Haskell County (Continued On Page Eight)

Value of the reservoir and tower offered for sale, was estimated at $4,600 recently by engineers who installed the new water tower improvements. Government Predicts 12,481,000 Bale Cotton Crop

A cotton crop 1,842,609 bales larger than was grown in the United States last year was forecast Saturday by the department of agriculture at Washington.

In its first production report of the season, it estimated the amount to be grown this year at 12,481,000 compared with 10,638,391 last year and 9,636,000 in 1934.

A larger yield per acre and better crop condition generally than average also were reported.

The department said the indicated yield per acre was 190.7 pounds, 13.4 pounds more than for 1935, 22.1 higher than 1934 and 29.8 higher than the ten year average of 1923-32.

The condition this year at 73.3 per cent of normal was slightly under the 73.6 percentage for last year but well above the 1934 average of 60.4 and the ten year average of 67.7.

State adjoining the Mississippi river were said to "have especially favorable prospects." Record yields were forecast for Missouri and Mississippi.

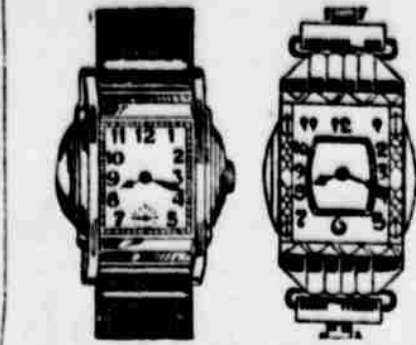

Better than average yields per acre were listed for all states except Virginia, the Carolinas and Oklahoma, the latter being hard hit by the drought.

The department said dry weather also affected cotton in Virginia and the Carolinas and part of the crop in North Georgia.

Earlier private forecasts of the crop had ranged from 11,500,000 to 13,700,000.

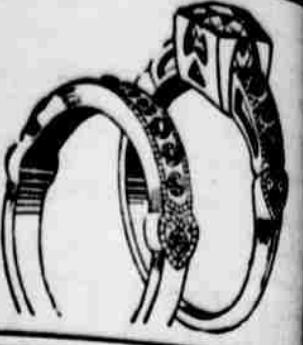

The crop in Texas, largest producing state, was estimated at 3,150,000 bales, well above the 1935 crop of 2,356,000.

Loss caused by boll weevil this season was indicated at less than average.

Classes Fort Worth With Gayest of World Capitals

Because of the Fort Worth tradition... or at least largely so... Billy Rose is director of what is acknowledged to be the largest enterprise devoted exclusively to entertainment in the world, the Fort Worth Frontier. Only three other towns in America could have secured his services, New Orleans, San Francisco and Chicago.

The Fort Worth enterprise did not spring full grown from the Rosean cerebellum. He has cudgeled the idea for several years, even before his "Jumbo" was produced. Back further still in pre-Billy Rose music Hall days he schemed. An amusement enterprise of huge proportions... the largest in the world to be truthful... in which several great attractions might be seen at moderate admission fees... such was the Rose vision.

When Fort Worth wanted to celebrate 100 years of history... leaving the historical part to other communities... by a "wild and Whoop-ree" party Rose, as the foremost of living American showmen, was offered the job. He accepted with alacrity. It wasn't entirely that the financial deal was to his liking either. It was that Fort Worth was and is Fort Worth.

"There are certain cities in the United States noted for their liberality while others have equal repute for piety. In the latter class are such chaste communities as Los Angeles, Boston, Cincinnati and Dallas, Fort Worth, Reno, Chicago, New Orleans, Butte and San Francisco come in the other category. Ever since its cow town days Fort Worth has been sterile ground for prudets. That's why I can put on a show like my Casa Mañana in Fort Worth," declared the producer in a recent interview.

TO THE VOTERS OF TEXAS:

I take the liberty of handing you here with some reasons why I favor Geo. Terrell for our Commissioner of Agriculture. Having had the unusual experience of having served the State in the capacity of Chief of the Pecan work under the appointment of Fred Davis, Geo. Terrell and J. E. McDonald, I favor Mr. Terrell because of his good moral character, honesty of purpose, his knowledge of the law concerning his duties and responsibilities. He is morally clean in both his public and private life.

The citizenship of the State can point with pride to Geo. Terrell as a worthy example in official life; to the youth as an example worthy of their emulation.

The office of Commissioner of Agriculture is of greater importance to the citizens of the State than Governor or any other office in the gift of the people.—J. H. BURKETT, Clyde, Texas.

Hunters Match Wits With Killer Animals; One Wolf Causes Cattlemen Loss of $25,000

Thirty million dollars is a mighty big board bill for one year, yet that is the amount the aggregate annual income of Western farmers and ranchers was reduced by the voracious appetites of predatory animals before the government hunters got on the job. This figure has been cut down considerably, but it is still high and the hunters are still hot on the trails of the killers.

The Biological Survey has estimated the average damage done by each one of the animals during its life. Heading the list are the wolf and the mountain lion with $1,000 worth of dead livestock credited to each of them. Each bear that turns killer accounts for about $500 of the losses. And the bobcat and coyote are each thought to kill about $30 worth of stock during their lives. This average is brought up a great deal by a few individuals who kill wantonly for the love of it. One wolf added $25,000 to the losses of the cattleman and an old grizzly who defied all hunters and carried on his depredations for over 10 years was believed to have killed close to $75,000 worth of cattle.

A successful hunter needs both skill and patience. There are a few accounts on record at the Biological Survey where a hunter has bagged four or five or more of the marauders in one day, but this is extremely unusual. It is not unusual, however, for a hunter to spend several weeks or months on the trail of one killer. Often he will think that he has him cornered with a good chance of ending his bloody career only to hear that his quarry has escaped and made a raid on some herd perhaps 50 miles away. The cunning of the more clever animals often thwarts all the ability and patience that man can scrape together. Delicious looking morsels of fresh meat filled up after one hasty sniff, cleverly concealed traps are detected with uncanny precision, and the wary creatures seem to sense human presence at just the right moment to escape well-aimed bullets.

It is impossible that such a business be without its thrills. Taking a 200-pound mountain lion or a 1500-pound bear is ticklish business at its best, and when certain little unforeseen accidents occur which put the hunter face-to-face with his intended victim he is provided with a few bad moments which he is not apt to forget some time. The old Arizona grizzly who conducted his reign of terror for 10 years and whose victims included huge bulls weighing close to a ton was taken under such circumstances. Tracked down and cornered by a government hunter with a pack of dogs, he turned and put forth every ounce of fight in his 1,500-pound body. The result was that he completely whipped the dogs and a deadly charge had carried him within 15 feet of the hunter when he was stopped by a timely bullet.

Probably the most notorious wolf was an "Old Killer" that ranged around Custer, S. Dak., and was also known as the Custer wolf. For nine years he eluded the best hunters in the country, and then $25,000 worth of killings brought a $500 prize on his head. Even this, however, failed to produce immediate results. With the whole country in arms against him, he would swoop down upon unsuspecting herd, kill enough to feed

Observatory At Mount Locke Will Be Completed 1937

That five to 10 months may elapse before the big two-and-a-half-ton pyrex mirror is installed in the McDonald Observatory on Mount Locke at Fort Davis, Texas is the latest word from observatory builders and officials.

It had been thought in some quarters that the mirror would be in use by early autumn, "but the probabilities are against it now," said Dr. Otto Struve, of Williams Bay, Wis., director of the McDonald and Yerkes Observatories.

"Long and delicate work is necessary in polishing the great 82-inch disc," Dr. Struve pointed out. "Every care is being taken by the makers to obtain perfection of the concave surface to the greatest possible degree. The hollow grinding is under way. A test of the surface was made recently. Many more tests will be necessary, it is understood. But it appears safe to say that the glass will be in and the observers busy in less than a year—perhaps considerably less, but scarcely by early autumn."

Two diesel engines of the latest model have been installed in the observatory power house. One is 96 horsepower and the other just half that size. And room has been provided in the building for three gasoline engines, to be installed later. Every precaution is being taken to prevent any stoppage of electric current under any circumstances. The dome has been built to turn by electricity. The telescope will be set to photograph heavenly bodies, and will turn across the sky with whatever body the mirror is set on. For the dome to stop would be to interfere with or impair hours of careful work.

Much work is under way "on the hill," as the mountain-top is referred to locally. Thirty-five men were in employment a few days ago, at the powerhouse and in constructing partitions on the first and second floors for the director's office, other offices, living quarters, study rooms, and assembly room and a library. The assembly room, on the second floor, will be the largest in the great metal structure, it was stated, while the library will be second

Henry Ford

Today, July 30, marks the 73rd milestone in the life of one of the United States' great industrialists.

Henry Ford was born the present-day city of Dearborn, Michigan July 30, 1863. Forty years later he organized the Ford Motor Company and the manufacture of automobiles and in an interim of 33 years this company has manufactured more than 24,000,000 vehicles.

Inventive genius of Ford insured the future of the automobile—which leads to the remark that sound business founders of companies present have made it possible for us to insure YOU against loss in the future from the reds of ever-present hazards.

tears inspired by mingled shame and fear. I know these men. I make it a practice to speak an encouraging word to fan the tiny spark of hope that smolders in the heart of even the man who is being strapped into the electric chair. In his mind these flashes the recollection of a last minute reprieve. These chained men turn my words over and over in their minds as the miles are covered by my transfer truck, each man shaping his future around him in the light of his peculiar circumstances.

Does Not Boast

I do not say this boastfully. Men have repeated my words to me in after years when precious freedom had been regained. It is greater than I am: it is human to err and divine to forgive. This is the secret of my having handled more than 100,000 men without having lost but one. This practice and not the gun I wear, has made this record possible.

Says Hope Is Not Dead

There was another thief who died on that day. He reviled and cursed the Master with his last breath, demanding that he release them if it were true that he was God. I have handled that man's prototype, too. Hope was not dead in that man's heart, nor is it dead in the breast of his prototypes. But this kind of hope is cold and selfish. For that type of man these really is no hope.

Let me select at random a face from this horde of chained men.

It is an intelligent face. Clear-cut features indicate breeding and culture. Most of the accountants, bookkeepers and men of that walk of life can be classified under this face. The reason for their downfall are as multitudinous as their number, but the sum total is arrived at simply. The laws of God and the laws of man are inevitable since they function in harmony. Community schemes avail the wrong-doers naught. It has been my grim duty to transport to prison mother and daughter, father, son, brother and brother, and com-

Transfers Many Boys

Before the war my prisoners were mature men. Since the war I have transferred an alarming number of mere boys. School kids too; that is why I am writing this article.

Could Furnish Library

In event you have one in mind who has defied the law and "won," compare him with the 100,000 who have lost their all. He will lose as surely as all the rest have lost. The rule is universal, there is no exception: Crime does not pay!

More Whites Transferred

Another pertinent observation is that prior to the war, I transported negroes at the ratio of two to one white man. Since the war, the ratio is reversed. I now handle two whites to one negro.

Remember the 100,000 men and women I have handled whose income reached staggering amounts.

But in the end they died penniless and alone. It is heart-rending to view these forgotten men and women in their last days. Thousands of faces swirl before my eyes the faces of the damned, a sea of faces. Unhappy is the man or woman whose destination is the prison. Hope is locked from their hearts.

Ex-Governor Pat Neff recently introduced me to the students of Baylor University, and in his speech he said, "Bud Russell has handled more prisoners than any other man in the world."

The next time he says anything about me I want him to remark, "Bud Russell is now handling less prisoners than any other transfer man in the world." If all the young people of Texas had seen the one hundred thousand faces I have seen, this wish would become a reality. Crime not only does not pay, it piles up a debt that will make a slave of you forever!

Meat Has Heating Effect Meats, especially pork and beef, definitely raise the body heat, so only a moderate amount of meat should be eaten and substitute dishes such as eggs, cheese, legumes and nut dishes, in the menu give the proper amount of protein, Dr. Purdy continues. Eggs may be fixed in a number of ways. After eggs have been deviled they may be put into a baking dish and a well-seasoned cream or white sauce poured over them. The whole dish should then be put into the oven and heated through.

"Scrambled eggs acquire a creamy texture when cooked over hot water or in the top part of a double boiler," the food specialist explains, "and the method of fixing them is really quite simple. The eggs should be mixed well with milk, allowing two tablespoonsfuls for each egg. Pour the seasoned mixture into a pan with melted butter, one-half teaspoonful to each egg. The egg mixture should be stirred constantly while cooking."

As a final admonition to housewives to plan cool menus for hot days, Dr. Purdy says to try using more fresh fruits for dessert this summer, fix generous amounts of fruit and berry juices, cut down on heat-giving foods, as meats, and include plenty of milk and vegetables in the menu.

Local Gob Recalls Thrilling Times As Member War Fleet

Several interesting experiences which occurred during his service in the United States Navy, have been recalled by Alvin Chamberlain of this city, and believing they will be of interest to our readers we are printing his account of an incident while he was a member of the crew of the U. S. S. May.

Just Another Storm

In checking over the diary I kept a portion of the time during the World War I noticed an entry during the month of December 1917, that is to my memory more than a passing interest. It occurred between the Azore Islands and the coast of Portugal. The night was extra cold for a night in the tropics. For more than a day we had headed into one of the worst storms ever experienced upon the sea. It was more dangerous to be upon the deck during daylight when you had the advantage of perfect light, but that night the clouds dipped low and were very dark, the breakers dashed hard and heavy, washing the decks with out clock like regularity, and the ship, despite the fact that we were headed straight into the storm, rocked, reeled and listed as never known before; yet, being in the submarine zone we were denied even a spark of light. Water would roll over the decks so deep and with so much force that all the compartments were filled to the depth of several inches. The listing of the ship was so great that at a

Other was the Helenet owned by George Gould, as we left that contingent at Gibraltar memory fails me as to the owners of the remainder, however there were ten such boats and one supply ship, the Hannibal. In addition to our own we helped a number of submarine chasers owned by and manned by the French Government across, any way in all there were over twenty ships in the fleet. In the incident above referred to one of the men washed overboard, being a good swimmer managed to remain on top of the water and by riding the waves was washed aboard one of the French boats, safe and sound reported to the French captain ready for any service he might render. However during the storm that same night one of the French boats lost two men. But such was only an incident that occurred in the European waters during the war. There were many more that were probably more exciting, but I doubt if any made the impression upon the crews that this did. I often wonder what has become of the man and if he had a special mission to perform after the war. To me it looked like a greater hand than human rescued that night."

Inter date Mr. Bleu told me that we went through an experience that night that no record of such like experience was ever made. That was, that the ship listed upon a degree and then righted itself to such an extent that he had no knowledge of the same feat ever occurring before. I very distinctly remember during the night that ever so often you could hear someone hit the deck of the compartment; the plunge was so great and hard that the boys would be dumped from their bunks upon the deck. This storm though very fierce spent its force in about three days.

But the most interesting incident of the entire storm occurred upon another ship. Happily we had no serious mishap, but some of the other boats were not so lucky. One of the ships, I believe now it must have been the Cyteria, however not making the entry as to which ship, memory from nineteen years lapse could be in error, had two of its crew washed overboard. In this connection there occurred an incident that the navy had no previous record of the like every happening before. Before I go farther let me state that this fleet was a contingent of what the Department often referred to as the "suicide fleet" or the "mosquito fleet." It was composed of ten boats known as converted yachts, in fact they were private boats of rich individuals that the government took over, manned with guns, placed a crew upon them with instructions to sink submarines. The one that I was on was owned by the De Lemars of Philadelphia, another was the Helenet owned by George Gould, as we left that contingent at Gibraltar memory fails me as to the owners of the remainder, however there were ten such boats and one supply ship, the Hannibal. F. M. Robertson FOR District Attorney 39th Judicial District

I wish to thank every citizen of the 39th Judicial District for the fine vote I received for District Attorney in the first primary. It is through your kind consideration that I am in the "run-off" election to be held on August 22nd.

As you probably remember I made the race 4 years ago and was defeated by a small vote in the second primary. I am in the same position again and I believe that I deserve advancement to the office at this time over my good friend and opponent.

I am thirty-five years of age, have had nine years actual experience as a lawyer, four years of which I served as County Attorney of Haskell County.

Should you see fit to elect me at this time I assure you that my services will reflect honor to myself, and that you will have cause to be proud of your part in giving a native son of the 39th Judicial District a boost in his second effort to be elected your District Attorney.

I earnestly solicit your fair and serious consideration of me and my claims.

TOWNSENDISM IN TEXAS

Townsendism in Texas does not amount to much. That is the conclusion inevitably reached when one studies official returns of the Democratic primary election on July 25th in the various congressional districts where Townsend candidates were in the race. In twelve of the State's twenty-three congressional districts where Townsend candidates endorsing the Townsend plan sought the votes of the people. And of these twelve men who based their campaigns on advocacy of the California physician's plan, only one survived the primary, thus winning the right to enter the runoff primary on August 22nd—and this one, after seeing how few votes his opponent lacked of obtaining a majority in the first primary, withdrew from the race. So Texas will send no Townsendites to Congress this year. That is all to the good, of course, and it is our idea that it is a very creditable reflection on the sensibility of Texas voters. It would have been surprising if any result other than the defeat of Townsend candidates had come about, in view of the manner in which Texas voters placed themselves on record against making State pensions payable on any other basis than need and the defeat they administered to proponents of various wild tax schemes. It is all in line with the theory that common sense thinking predominates in Texas just now, whatever may have been the case a few months ago.—The Texas Weekly.

LIFE Surer BUT NOT LONGER

The Census Bureau having released new life tables, showing that life expectancy has advanced from under 50 to about 61 years, moves many writers to remark that "life grows longer" and to speculate upon the extra 11 years added to man's life. The truth is that life is not longer but that it is surer. The baby born in the United States today has a much surer chance of surviving to manhood or womanhood, but it has no basis to expect to live 11 years longer than the adults of the years behind us.

Life expectancy tables are based upon the age of death for millions of people, including babies that die within the first year. Obviously if two babies are born and one dies in infancy and one at sixty, the average, or life expectancy, is 30 years. If the two babies had lived to 40 years of age and then died, the average, or expectancy, would have been forty years. However, the length of the life of the individual baby would not have been increased.

From this example, it should be seen that "life expectancy" may advance considerably through the better care of new-born babies without making it probable that years are being added to average life. This is shown by the recent statement of Dr. Alexis Carrel that a middle-aged man today has a smaller chance to live to be 80 than his grandfather did. However, a baby born in 1936, has a far greater chance of becoming an adult than the babies that were born in, say, 1900.

ENDANGERED BY A MINORITY

Recent surveys of automobile fatalities have shown that the great majority of serious accidents are caused by a small minority of drivers, many of them previous offenders.

In other words, your average motorist is a pretty safe bet while, relatively, a handful of drivers contribute danger and death to the highways. This is shown by the recent statement of Dr. Alexis Carrel that a middle-aged man today has a smaller chance to live to be 80 than his grandfather did. However, a baby born in 1936, has a far greater chance of becoming an adult than the babies that were born in, say, 1900.

Better police work and a rigidly enforced program for keeping incompetent drivers off the road would do much to solve our traffic problem.

PASSING OF VILLAGES

Indications that the "small town" is doomed are reported by federal and state planning commissions. The trend in many states, in the Midwest particularly, is away from the scattered villages, toward the larger centers of population where there are better marketing conditions.

The change is not surprising. It has been coming for many years, along with improved transportation and rural free delivery, so that today the economic justification of many of these little towns as service centers is practically nil.

Hence America may lose one of her most colorful features—the crossroad village. What the ultimate effect of that loss will be, nobody knows. But it is sure to leave a real gap.

EQUAL WORK, EQUAL PAY

"Equal pay with men for equal work" is a feminine-propelled slogan winging its way around the world these days. And it's getting results, too. In Paris, for instance, the International Federation of Business Women has just endorsed the principle.

"We don't want to be known as women chemists, women artists, and women teachers," said one speaker at the Paris conclave. "We are chemists, artists, and teachers, and we have a right to the salaries appropriate to those professions."

Women's participation in business and government has long since settled any question of the equality of the sexes. This new request of equal pay for equal work is wholly justifiable.

CURRENT COMMENT

A BREAK FOR DEMOCRATS

Open, frontal attacks are always more to be desired in political warfare than the sniping, guerilla style of fighting.

Democrats should welcome direct assault by certain rebellious gentlemen who refuse to go along with their party and have indicated they prefer Gov. Landon to President Roosevelt.

A call has gone forth for the irreconcilables to foregather in Detroit on Aug. 7 to map a definite program for a campaign in behalf of the Republican nominee for President.

Notable among those who have received the call are former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson, and James A. Reed, erstwhile Democratic senator from Missouri.

A more dissident group of political leaders could not be found in America. All stood repudiated by the people before they began their vilification of President Roosevelt. All have been signally honored by the party whose present leadership and policies they seek to overthrow in favor of a party which, during 12 years of political misrule, inflicted misery and privation upon millions of people, carrying the nation to the very brink of disaster. All have very little influence in their respective communities. Before turning renegades, all were retired to private life because the people wanted them no longer.

If there is anything that the average American citizen despises in political activity it is a renegade. Such a person not only earns the contempt of partisans whom he deserts, but fails to command the respect and confidence among those whose cause he joins.

Let Smith, who led his party to its greatest disaster in history, and all the rest take up the Republican cause aggressively and openly. The Democrats should hope for a no better break in the 1936 campaign.—Huntington Herald-Advertiser.

Refunding of the bonded indebtedness of Haskell county, which was accomplished a while back mainly through the efficient work of County Judge Sanders will result in the following benefits: A reduction of interest from six to five per cent was secured, which will amount to $3,799.74 in the aggregate. And on account of the longer time the new bonds have to run, the sinking fund required to be set aside yearly for redemption purposes is reduced $1,035 a year, making it possible to reduce the annual taxation that much. By the county judge and commissioners attending to the matter personally the transaction was accomplished at comparatively small cost.

There is nothing in the Bible to advocate compulsory prohibition. The religious development of every soul is predicated upon a voluntary allegiance to the high principles of the kingdom. Naturally, there can be no coercion of the spirit for the adherence of each individual must be willing and spontaneous to produce the contentment and peace of mind which go with membership therein. However, there is much in scriptural teaching to warn each individual against the folly of excess, of intemperance, or any practice which hinders the supreme development of man's immortal soul.

Compulsory prohibition is justified for a government as a police measure to prevent property, disease, crime and vice. Once again we note that alcoholic liquors have always been associated with promoting the least desirable characteristics of man. There has never been a time in the world's history that an individual ever felt called upon to take a stiff drink to encourage a good deed, but human records are full of those who resorted to whiskey to dull their moral sensibilities when they wanted to engage in some nefarious undertaking. Common experience of mankind teach us that much.

The following article, sent out by the Associated Press, appeared in the New York Times for January 23, 1933: "Washington, Jan. 22—In reporting the $800,025,598 Treasury Postoffice Supply bill today, the House Appropriations Committee conceded that it has misjudged the effect which prohibition-repeal would have on liquor-smuggling. As a result the committee allowed the Coast Guard $4,000,000 more than was carried in the measure last year. "The appropriations for the Coast Guard were drastically reduced at the last session in connection with this bill," the committee reported, "in the belief that the anti-smuggling work of the organization would be very greatly diminished with the repeal of prohibition. This situation has failed to materialize as fully as expected."

"There is considerable activity particularly in the smuggling of 190-proof alcohol, and the Coast Guard officials estimate the loss of revenue in customs and internal revenue taxes due to these smuggling operations at between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 annually! Custom Bureau and Coast Guard spokesmen testified at hearings on the bill that liquor-smuggling has been gaining rapidly since March after falling off in the wake of repeal. Traffic in aliens, narcotics, and criminals was described as linked closely with the liquor trade. Commander S. V. Parker of the Coast Guard, said that fifteen to twenty liquor-running vessels operate the coast north of the Cape in an active week and perhaps in Southern waters." Emmett Starr made a Brownwood last week-end.

Don't Let Your Dollar Become a

"TRAMP"

THERE is a Big Difference in Dollars.

There is the "Tramp" dollar—the dollar that is spent away from home. Then there is the "Home" dollar with its "home" circulation, "home" benefits and "home" profits.

Though both of these dollars are marked "One Hundred Cents" the "home" dollar continues to multiply itself—"at home"—for community interests are mutual. Not so with the "tramp dollar"—once spent it is gone forever.

The success of Haskell and its surrounding territory contributes to the success of everybody in it. A prosperous town rests on the individual prosperity.

The advantage to you of spending your dollar in Haskell is far greater than the "tramp" dollar can possibly buy—even if it bought a hundred cents' worth—and which it cannot possibly do, because the other fellow in the out-of-town field must make a profit.

There is big truth in this worthy of your serious thought. It pays to trade at home with your "home" dollar.

Judge Roy Bean Finds New "Lilly"

Judge Roy Bean, once famous as "The Law West of the Pecos," had a tremendous affection for the famous Lilly Langtry, of the stage. In the replica of the "Jersey Lilly Saloon," at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas, Ross Hoyt plays the part of the frontier judge. He has no Lilly Langtry, but seems to be doing quite well with Mona Leslie, featured dancer of the Saloons of Paris.

"WILD AND WHOPEE" TYPIFIES F. W. SHOW

Within the last few weeks the likeness of a rather scantily clad but buxomly beautiful young woman whose brief costume is adorned with stars presumed to symbolize the state of Texas, mounted on an agile and 'onery paint pony, has become almost as familiar as the bearded brothers on coughdrop boxes or the gent with luxuriant moustacho identifying a certain brand of safety razors.

GALS AND HOSSES

Fort Worth Trade-Mark

The young lady... to say nothing of the horse... is calculated to make you Fort Worth Frontier conscious. With a costume rather more attenuated than is the custom in the cow country one might gather the implication that there is truth in the press agent's assertion, "you'll see more girls and more of 'em than any time since Cabeza de Vaca barnstormed from Buffalo Bayou to El Paso." Yes, there will be girls and horses... and more girls.

To add zest to Frontier publicity the slogan, "Wild and Whopees," has been coined. This, lest one surmise that the Fort Worth affair contemplates aught save entertainment. With hundreds of communities throughout the state celebrating along historical and educational lines Fort Worth is going in for giving folks a good time... and in a big way.

TREACHEROUS MONTHS WHEN WE CATCH COLDS. Why do people "catch cold" more easily during winter than in summer? In most cases it is due to indoor living conditions. The generally accepted theory of "a cold" is that you carry cold germs in your throat constantly. As soon as you become tired, overheated or chilled you are susceptible to attack. Any sudden change in temperature disturbs the heat-regulating apparatus of the body and the cold germ rises to the opportunity to undermine your health. Therefore, quick changes of temperature should be avoided. The threat of the cold germ is limited during summer months largely because warm weather living habits make it exceedingly difficult for cold germs to become active. In summer, there is an adequate circulation of pure, warm air throughout the home. Since the temperature is approximately the same in each room during the warm weather season, your family is not subject to sudden changes. On the other hand, UNLESS you provide adequate heat and proper circulation of pure, warm air in every room of the house during winter, sudden temperature changes are unavoidable. Members of your family go from a heated room into a cold hall or unheated adjoining room. Then shivering and chilled, they return to the heated room. Each time this happens during the winter season, they have unnecessarily subjected themselves to the vicious attack of the cold germ. It is good health insurance to take the simple precaution of providing adequate heat and proper circulation of pure, warm air in every room in the house during cold weather. Use your home to the fullest this winter as you have during the past summer. You will find it of valuable assistance in protecting your family from America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ. COMMUNITY NATURAL GAS CO.

Well-Known Rule Resident Buried Monday Morning

Funeral services for Mrs. T. J. Johnston, 74, who died Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, were held at the First Baptist Church Monday morning at 10 o'clock with the pastor, Rev. H. R. Whitley, officiating. Interment was in Willow Cemetery.

Death was attributed to heart disease, Mrs. Johnston having been in failing health for several months.

Born February 1, 1862 in Randolph, Ala., Mollie Elizabeth Lemmond was married to T. J. Johnston Dec. 22, 1887 in Clay county, Alabama. They later moved to Ellis county, Texas where they made their home until coming to Haskell in 1909. Mrs. Johnston had been a member of the Baptist Church since 1883.

Excellent Yield of English Peas From Small Plot Reported

By planting English peas early and irrigating when needed Mrs. B. F. Seltz cooperated in the Blue Bonnet club, was able to produce enough peas to can 90 pints and provide fresh ones for the table for several weeks. There were three different plantings about one week apart; so they would mature at different stages and would not all be ready for canning at the same time. This made the supply last much longer and kept any of them from going to waste by not having an over supply at one time.

Miss Minnie Ann Meyer is spending this week with friends in Archer City.

Mrs. W. R. Cook left last Thursday for Houston to attend the funeral of her nephew who was killed in an automobile accident.

4-H County Winner In Livestock Project To Receive Medal

The Tho. E. Wilson gold medal for the outstanding county 4-H livestock club member is again offered in all counties of Texas announces the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

It and other attractive prizes provided in this national contest are to be awarded by club leaders at the close of the feeding and showing season. Reports of county winners must be submitted to the state leader's office to allow for judging before Nov. 2. Forms for the use of contestants may be secured of county agents.

The winner of state honors receives a $50 gold watch and becomes eligible to compete for one of four all-expense trips to the 15th National Club Congress to be held in Chicago Nov. 27-Dec. 5 in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition. From the four trip winners three will be chosen to receive cash scholarships of $300, $200 and $100.

In addition to giving 18 boys successful in the six past contests a start on college careers, participation by hundreds of others has helped them to master problems of livestock production and to establish valuable herds of their own. Their examples also have led to the adoption of better practices by entire communities in livestock farming.

First Sheep Brand to Be Registered In Haskell County Since 1897 Was Filed Recently

For the first time since 1897, deputies in the County Clerk's office last week officially placed on record a registered sheep brand in Haskell county.

Thursday August 6th, H. E. Nutt, prominent sheep raiser of Haskell and Fort Stockton filed his brand, a Green X (X) in the brand record book and casually inquired of Miss Janie Lytle Martin, deputy clerk, if any other brands had been registered recently.

His inquiry brought to light the fact that for a period of thirty-nine years not a single sheep brand had been registered, although a large number filed during early days of this section came to light after inquiring clerks began peering into musty record books in the courthouse.

The last sheep brand registered, records show, was that of the late F. M. Morton, late capitalist and landowner of this section, whose brand was recorded in 1897.

Oldtimers recall that this section was first settled by sheepmen, the ranges later being taken over by cattle-ranching interests until the large herds of sheep gradually diminished to the vanishing point.

In the past few years, and more noticeably during 1934 and 1935, farmers and others have begun stocking small holdings with sheep with profitable results. Today it is estimated that 3,000 head are owned in the county.

Of this number, Mr. Nutt reports that he has sold Haskell county farmers in the past two years approximately 1,750 head of Rambouillet ewes, delivering them from his Fort Stockton and San Angelo ranches.

The Spring wool clip in this section sold for around 27c per pound, Mr. Nutt stated, allowing a nice profit to sheep owners on their investment.

First Bales

The bale, ginned Monday afternoon by the Farmers Gin at Rochester, weighed 415 pounds, and the gin paid 15c per pound for the staple in addition to ginning the bale free.

Mr. Lauderdale, who lives one and one-half miles southwest of Rochester went over 12 acres of cotton in gathering his first bale. He is cultivating 93 acres of cotton, and states the extremely hot weather prevailing recently has greatly damaged cotton in his section.

King County Bale
First bale produced in King county from this year's crop was also ginner at Rochester Monday by Andrew Smith, who brought his bale to that city several hours ahead of Mr. Lauderdale. Ginned at the Shaver Gin, Smith's bale weighed 450 pounds.

Miss Katherine Kinney is spending the week with relatives and friends in Gorman.

A. L. Foster of the Stamford office West Texas Utilities Co. is in the Haskell office this week during the absence of H. C. King, local manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry Wintermire of Waco were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Davis Wednesday. They were en route to Ballinger on business.

Violin Stolen Here Recovered; Three Negroes Charged

Recovery of a violin belonging to Miss Wilma Whitley that was stolen early in May, and the arrest of three negroes charged in connection with the theft, came about through unusual circumstances last Friday.

Rev. H. R. Whitley, Baptist minister of this city while in Abilene on business Friday, stepped into a music store, and in looking over a stock of violins offered for sale recognized one of the instruments on display as the one belonging to his daughter. The violin, a clock and several other items were taken by persons who entered Meacham's Studio near the North Ward school on the night of May 3rd.

Rev. Whitley telephoned the sheriff's office at Haskell, and Chief Deputy Mart Clifton immediately went to Abilene where investigation disclosed that the violin had been sold to the store by a negro.

An Abilene negro, Marvin Lewis, was arrested Friday and brought to Haskell charged with burglary. Lewis implicated two other negroes, Leon Green and Earnest Whitesides, who were apprehended by Bryan officers. Deputy Clifton accompanied by District Clerk Roy Rattliff, went to Bryan Monday and returned Green and Whitesides to Haskell Tuesday.
