All this lie about Senator Sanderford going to withdraw from the race for Governor and that my wife TRENTON, N. The commercial truck is more dangerous to the traveling publie than any war or storm or earthquake that ever happened. limb and it has now resolved itself into a national tragedy. In the present labyrinth of confusion what Moses in the present an accumulated surplus in excess of what consumption is taking? Texas trucks kill twice as many people as passenger cars. While setup of acknowledged leaders up will undertake with any posithe railroad did not kill a single passenger during the year 1935, tive assurance of success a restoration of normalcy? the commercial truck killed 572 people and injured 3327 more. Contemporary with present-day events is heard a voice from If we were to read in the paper some morning that a storm had the past, saying: "In that day, I will shake, not only the totally destroyed the town of Terrell or Waxahachie, it would earth"-governments and commerce-"but the heavens"-orcause such a fear and panie throughout the state from which the ganized Christianity-"also; in order that those things"-the people would not recover in months. Yet in four years time these truth in equity—"which can not be shaken may remain." death dealing trucks have killed or injured more people than live in either one of these towns. The appalling fact about deaths by truck is that the number continues to increase year by year. In 1932 the number of persons killed in Texas were 241. In the year 1933 it was 362. In the year 1934 it was 515 and the year 1935 it was 572. And since the first of January 1936 dispatches would indicate that the truck tombstones will go far ahead of any other year before. The question that confronts the people is: "What are we going to do about it?" Shall we sit idly by and pay no attention to the moans and groans of men, women, and children as they gasp their last, the victim of a death dealing machine HE House rules committee is the omnipotent traffic cop of distr ss financially on industry, ways and means must be found Europe. that infests the highways of Texas? You ask me what is the remedy and I say first that the commercial truck ought to be taken off the highways of Texas by law House labor committee power to subpoena unwilling witnesses and if the love of money is such that that can't be done then the complete its investigation of the silicosis tragedy at Gauley height than that of passenger cars. Many of the trucks are nearly 90 inches or 71/2 feet wide. If we will just examine this operation of trucks in relation to their width, we can see why the truck kills and injures so many more people than the passenger car. I think the people right now ought to begin asking the prospective candidates for the Legislature to state their position on this truck question. It is more dangerous to the lives of our people than anything that ever came up for settlement.

It is true we have a few wide roads in the country and somebody may say widen the roads. The answer to that is that it would take 25 years to widen all the roads in Texas to where they would be safe for trucks and in the meantime the damn things would be safe for trucks and in the meantime the damn things would kill half the people in the state. If the people will just financed f:ishing trip will cost the American taxpayers eight make their views known to the members of the Legislature soon to be elected, it will be easy to pass through the next Legislature a law restricting the height, weight and width of commercial trucks to the same specification for passenger cars. Merely land and materials will not satisfy dictators. There is no aggrandisement in going out to buy a load of hay, or a trainload of wheat.

There is no peace while dictators have armies. Don't expect it. Always the shadow of Mars is thrust across the landscape. The news from Europe every day is about wars, how soon they

ECONOMIC JUSTICE

(By A. P. PEIRCE)

CREDIT MONEY NO. 2

President Lincoln, it seems from reading our financial history, was about the first to realize that it was the fiat of the government backed by the legal tender quality that made paper money safe and useful as a medium of exchange. He like Jackson, realized that the profit from issuing paper money should belong to all the people. President Lincoln persuaded Congress to issue that $60,000,000.00 of full legal tender money that has been referred to in previous issue. The best money ever issued by our government for the common every day people. This money, however, did not suit the bankers. Such a howl came up from New York City, and such a lobby was sent to Washington, that when the president had to ask for another issue of this money it was stabbed in the back, so to speak, by a refusal of Congress to make it full legal tender. All subsequent issues were crippled with the following phrase, "Legal tender for all debts except duties on imports and interest on the public debt." Ought not any school boy to know that such withholding of part of the legal tender form and that such a thing would make an extra demand for function would rob this money of part of the duty it could pergold and silver that would send them to a premium?

Maimed as it was, the full expense of the war, over two billions had to be paid in paper money bearing this blemish, however, it was the means of winning the war for the union. The large amount required was made necessary by the fact that banks were afraid to loan to the government until the war was about over for fear that the South might be the winner.

So good was this money that the people never had better times than they did following the civil war when this money was in use. This money showed what a blessing inflation can be for the common people and it showed also how quickly that can be turned into a curse by listening to the bankers demand for deflation.

As soon as it was evident that the South was defeated the bankers of the country became very willing to buy government bonds. They asked to be allowed to buy bonds with greenbacks and to have the greenbacks destroyed. They demanded that in this way the greenbacks be retired. The president, however, stood pat and told them that this money seemed good enough for the people. He told them also that they were "enemies of the government even worse than the enemy in the saddle." The President was soon put out of the picture and then the bankers had little trouble to persuade Congress and the Secretary of the Treasury to retire most of the greenbacks and to hand over to them the profit from issuing our currency.

The following table shows the amount of money, per capita, millionsthat was in circulation from 1866 to 1877 inclusive.

1866	$50.76	1870	$19.99	1874	$17.84
1867	36.68.	1871	18.74	1875	17.89
1868	22.08	1872	17.97	1876	15.89
1869	19.85	1873	17.48	1877	14.60

This rapid and awful deflation was caused by the retiring of the greenbacks, it was in this period that banks were allowed to purchase bonds with greenbacks and the greenbacks were de- the Bar-

With such prices farmers can pay their taxes and reduce fellow-patriotstheir indebtedness. By 1877 hogs sold as low as $2.00 per cwt. and corn at 10c per bushel. Wheat, cotton and wool were as low astyaccordingly. What can a farmer do with such prices? Please look again at the table and see if you do not see there the cause. Do you not see that it was the deflation that caused all that trouble and not the inflation as some would have you think?

The following table shows the amount of money, per capita, in circulation from 1920 to 1930 inclusive.

1920	$51.38	1925	$43.93	1928	$40.52
1921	45.44	1925	42.20	1929	39.62
1922	46.55	1926	42.29	1930	36.71
1923	43.35	1927	41.48

Is there not a simularity in these two tables? Do they not both show deflation? In 1920 price levels were high. Some foolishly complained of the high cost of living. At that time a mechanic could pay that high cost and have something left every week to Courtput by for a rainy day. Farmers could pay their taxes so that the school teacher could collect her pay. Please look at the table again and see what deflation did for us. When some financier tells you the horrible things about inflation just ask him if he does not mean deflation instead. Ask him how he got his wires

HOME MARKETS OR FOREIGN MIRAGES, WHICH SHALL IT BE?

Shall we return to the antique custom of "living at home and boarding at the same place," or shall we continue to buzz around the web of entangling difficulties by crusading in Europe and edother foreign countries for markets which no longer demand nor will take our wares? Much is being said of late anent the falling off of our exports, meaning that foreign markets are not little selfishlaying orders for our goods as formerly. And we have become so accustomed to the habit of shipping our goods to foreign markets that at first thought we feel as if we can't get along

In March issue of "FORTUNE" a monthly magazine published in New York at $10 a year, appears a most comprehensive and essary hasteall embracing sketch of our agricultural problem which ought to be of material aid to us in arriving at a solution of these difficulties. According to statistics presented in this review, time Labor. was when we had open markets abroad ready to take all our excess agricultural products. Quoting from the magazine: "The market which enabled U. S. agriculture in its plenty to live was the market of Europe, Europe, — was in process of industrialization, and required cheap food from abroad which we supplied.' The sketch then proceeds in detail showing that, "From the Civil War to the end of the century exports of American agricultural elseproducts steadily increased. Averaging wheat exports in the late sixties were 35,000,000 bushels, in the late nineties, 197,-000,000 bushels; corn exports in the late sixties were 10,000,000 bushels, in the late nineties 193,000,000 bush. beef and beef product exports 55,000,000 pounds and 637,000,000 pounds; pork and prok products 128,000,000 pounds and 1,500,000,000 pounds; cotton 900,000,000 pounds and 3,500,000,000 pounds.'

Came a change with the introluction of competition of other and newer agricultural nations than our own, which nations were able to produce their products cheaper than we had been doing. "The grass lands of America were not the only grass lands turned up by the plow. The great plains of the Ukraine and the Danube, and Argentine and Australia with the broad expanses of the pampas of South America followed them." A few years later note this result: "Beef exports dropped from 352,000,000 pounds in 1901 to 6,000,000 pounds in 1914; bacon from 650,000,-000 pounds in 1898 to 152,000,000 pounds in 1910; wheat from 235,000,000 bushels in 1902 to 146,000,000 bushels in 1914; corn from 213,000,000 bushels in 1900 to 11,000,000 bushels in 1913.'

Truly a discouraging prospect, if we must depend on foreign markets to sustain us in our industries here, especially those of agriculture. Fortunately, up to the date last mentoned, "Cotton servantsand tobacco were practically noncompetative with European agriculture, and faced, at the time, little competition from new agricultural countries of South America and the Pacific." But what toryabout the present?

"This then was the situation at the outbreak of the war. And The Garment Worker.

it was the situation which re-established itself once the abnormal JAPAN, SOVIET war demand for foodstuffs subsided. Is it a situation which can it was the situation which re-established itself once the abnormal now be changed? Can the happy days of American agricultural supremacy in the market of Europe be recovered? Those who think so delude themselves."

Then follows another phase of the problem as an aftermath of war. And if "European agriculture may not justify itself economically, of its political justification there can be no question .- Only so long as the nations felt relatively secure could they trust their food supply to others. Once that confidence was destroyed—and no man doubts that it has now totally vanished desperate efforts were made to regain self sufficiency. And with and Japan have exchanged angry desperate and amazing results.
