

Pct. 1 court seat contested

A contested race for commissioner, Pct. 1, developed Monday on the final day to file as Fred Cross announced against incumbent Duaine Davis.

Cross, 50, was a candidate for the commissioner's post also in 1984—against then-incumbent Eldon Perry—and in 1986 for Perry's unexpired term.

In June of '86, he was in a runoff race for the post against Davis, 59, who was first appointed commissioner in July of 1985.

Cross is a lifetime resident of the Loyd Mountain area, where he farms. He is a director on the Scurry County Producers

He and his wife Ann have a son, Matt, age 20, now attending Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene; and a married daughter, Robin Downing of Snyder.

District judge post gains 2 candidates

Two candidates—both seeking the Democratic nomination—announced Monday for district judge of the 132nd District, which includes Scurry and Borden Counties.

Candidates are Pete Greene, 42, who served as district attorney here from 1971-84; and Tommie J. Mills, 54, who was also DA here in the early 1970s and who currently serves as city municipal judge.

Both seek to face incumbent Gene Dulaney in the General Election next November. Dulaney, as a Republican, will be unopposed in the March primary ballot.

Greene was a Democratic candidate for the district judge's post in November of 1984 versus Dulaney. He resigned his DA's post that year in order to run for district judge.

Since that time, he has been in private practice in Snyder.

He is a native of Scurry County. He attended Texas Tech University, receiving his undergraduate degree in 1966.

He received his law degree in 1968 from Baylor University and served as an assistant county attorney in Lubbock before being drafted into military service in April of 1969.

He served in the U.S. Army's legal branch for two years and was appointed DA here in 1971 shortly after returning to Snyder from military service. His wife's name is Donna.

Mills has been a resident of

His first venture into public office was his appointment as DA in 1970. He ran unopposed for a full four-year term, then resigned the post in 1971.

In May of 1986, he was appointed city municipal judge, a

Four local political races contested

District judge, two commissioners and constable

Scurry County voters will go to the polls next March 8 to decide contested races here for district judge—with three candidates now announced—two county commissioner's seats and the post of county constable.

The deadline passed Monday at 6 p.m. to file for all paid political offices and candidates surfaced on the final day for both the district judge's race and for commissioner in Pct. 1 (see related stories).

All but one of these races will be effectively decided in the primary. For the district judge's seat, however, two Democratic nominees will seek their party's nomination in March to face the incumbent Republican next November.

For judge of the 132nd District Court—which includes Scurry and Borden Counties—incumbent Republican Gene Dulaney, 68, seeks his second four-year term. Seeking to unseat him are Democratic candidates Pete Greene, 42, who served as district attorney for 14 years here, and Tommie J. Mills, 54, who has served as municipal judge for the City of Snyder since May of 1986.

The two other contested races here all involve Democratic candidates.

On Monday, a Democratic candidate filed to run against incumbent Pct. 1 Commissioner Duaine Davis, 59. Now announced is Fred Cross, 50, who faced Davis in June of 1986 in a runoff race for an unexpired term in Pct. 1. Cross is a farmer in the Loyd Mountain area.

Davis has held the post since being appointed in July of 1985. He now seeks his first full four-year term.

For county commissioner, Pct. 3, C.D. Gray Jr. 51, will be challenged for his second four-year term by Lawton Taylor, 50, who currently serves as chief engineer for Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

For the county constable post, Bill Love, 64, a retired barber who has held the post since 1975, will face Jim Haynes, 46, a former city building inspector here who currently works with the C&W convenience store chain.

The conclusion of filing Monday assured four-year terms for five other candidates for public office here—barring the possibility of a write-in campaign. These terms in office will begin on Jan.

This list includes one newcomer to elected political office, deputy county clerk Frances Billingsley, 55, who is now a candidate for county clerk.

Incumbent Jenna Vee Miller, appointed by commissioners earlier this year, had indicated at the time she would not be a candidate for the office in the upcoming election.

Beverly Ainsworth vacated the post due to health reasons after winning a new four-year term in November of 1986. Billingsley, now an unopposed candidate, has

State rep race unchanged

The filing deadline for candidates passed Monday with no one in the area state representative's race but the two who had already announced, incumbent State Rep. Steven Carriker of Roby and former Snyder mayor Rod Waller.

Carriker, a Democrat, and Waller, a Republican, will thus be unopposed in their parties' primaries in March and then will face each other in the November General Election for the next two-year term in the Texas House in Austin.

Carriker is in his third term as the District 78 representative, representing Cottle, Fisher, Garza, Jones, Kent, King, Knox, Lynn, Nolan, Scurry and Stonewall counties and part of

Bomb threat gains second indictment

A 27-year-old woman who was involved in an alleged bomb threat against District Attorney Ernie Armstrong was among 10 persons to be indicted Monday by a Scurry County grand jury.

Brenda Jane Blackwell, who listed a post office box address, was indicted for possession of a prohibited weapon, a pipe bomb.

She and her 25-year-old husband, Carson, were arrested last month when police unveiled the alleged plot.

Officers said a man who was living in a mobile home that the Blackwells had been living in brought the bomb to the police station and that an Army bomb disposal squad flew into Snyder to disarm the reportedly powerful device at the city dump.

Carson Blackwell, who listed a motel address, was indicted in December after police said they had learned that he planned to use the explosive device against Armstrong.

Both cases were presented to the grand jury by a special prosecutor, assistant Midland County district attorney Randall L. Fluke.

Other true bills issued Monday included one against Paul Thompson II, 20, of 1707 Cedar Creek for burglary of a habitation in connection with a Dec. 4 break-in at the 2311 29th St. home of Mike Adams in which several firearms were stolen.

Joe John Vera, 18, of Sweetwater was indicted for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle in the Dec. 13 theft of a 1985 Buick from Wesley Graves.

Rosario Antonio (Roy) Carreon, 26, of 3005 Ave. M was indicted for injury to a child in connection with a Friday incident in which he is accused of hitting a 1-year-old boy in the face with his hand.

Carol Johnene Morris, 37, and Sylvester Harrell, 52, both of Midland, were indicted for forgery by passing in connection with a Dec. 9 passing of a $617 check at American State Bank.

Ice causes rollover Tuesday

A 39-year-old man was undergoing treatment at mid-day at Cogdell Memorial Hospital for injuries suffered in a 6:45 a.m. accident near Gail in which the pickup he was driving flipped three times.

Reydecel Rojo of 2008 Ave. O was traveling west on FM 2350 14 miles east of Gail when the 1984 Ford pickup spun around three times on ice, hit the dirt roadside and then overturned three times, the Department of Public Safety said.

The pickup came to rest on its side with Rojo hanging out the driver's side window and pinned under the vehicle. He was taken to the hospital by Snyder EMS Ambulance Service after bystanders raised the pickup with a trailer jack, a DPS trooper said.

There were three passengers in the dual-cab pickup, but Rojo was the only one of the group to be injured, the DPS said.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "What every political campaign needs is a working smoke detector."

More often than not, the performance of our federal lawmakers fails to meet the standards of a typical West Texan. One local C-Span observer suggested that voters might do well to change the method of pay.

We could pay 'em what they're worth—but they won't work that cheap. Someone else suggested that we put 'em on straight commission. Their bonus could be based on how much they have saved.

But the job of representing this vast nation is more difficult than it might first appear. Efforts to reach a tax bill agreement is sufficient proof.

One might advise—just listen to the folks at home. But the folks at home are giving mixed signals—according to a recent survey.

Offered an assortment of options on how to trim the federal budget, most Americans could only agree on how not to trim costs—the poll revealed.

Only eight percent of Americans supported a cap on automatic cost-of-living increases in benefit programs. And just nine percent supported raising additional taxes. A few more, 23 percent, favored cuts in non-defense domestic spending.

A larger number, but still less than half, wanted to cut defense spending. Seventy-seven percent opposed an increase in the gasoline tax, 69 percent were against a two-point cut in COLA increases and 63 percent were opposed to an increase in the federal income tax.

In other words, cut his program—but don't dare touch mine.

Maybe what we need is more salesmanship.

We heard about the guy who was leading his company in panty hose sales, "Sometimes, if the woman of the house is really interested, I put them on for her."

"You must sell plenty that way," smirked the friend.

"Not really," said the salesman. "My legs look jousy in nylons."

More shuttle delays reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — NASA officials say it may be as late as mid-August before America's astronauts again fly into space.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday that the puzzling breakup of a rocket nozzle part during a test may add six weeks to 10 weeks to the delay in getting the shuttle Discovery off the ground.

That could push the resumption of shuttle flights into mid-August, 2½ years after an explosion destroyed the shuttle Challenger and killed its crew of seven.

"NASA at first hoped to be able to fly again in the summer of 1987. But the complexity of redesigning the shuttle booster rocket caused that first-launch date to slip steadily — to February this year and then to June 2."

The new failure has pushed that liftoff target even farther into the distance. A full-scale test firing of the redesigned booster on Dec. 23 was considered a success until engineers found pieces of an 8-foot-diameter "boot ring" inside the nozzle and on the ground outside.

The industry magazine Aviation Week and Space Technology said in its Jan. 4 edition that the most optimistic launch date is September and that shipment of the aft rocket segments to the Kennedy Space Center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., has been delayed until March 24 at the earliest.

Five months is required to prepare a shuttle for flight after the booster rocket segments arrive by rail at Canaveral.

Morton Thiokol Inc., which builds the rockets in Utah, was to have shipped aft sections for the first flight by rail last Saturday, but the shipment was delayed. David Drachlis, a NASA spokesman at Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., said that if everything goes well, the shipment might take place in the latter half of February.

The boot ring, 2 inches thick and 7 inches wide, was used for the first time in the December test. The ring attaches a flexible boot that allows the rocket nozzle to swivel in flight.

"At this point, we know we are not going to use the component," said Sara Keegan, a NASA spokeswoman. She said it wasn't certain whether a version of the ring that had withstood an earlier full-scale firing will be used instead.

Mrs. Davis says settlement with Cullen no longer valid

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A much-publicized $5 million settlement agreed to between Priscilla Davis and her ex-husband, T. Cullen Davis in a wrongful death suit, is no longer a settlement, Priscilla Davis says.

The announcement of the non-settlement came Monday night during a meeting of the Fort Worth chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi.

Priscilla Davis, who spoke at the meeting about her plans to write a book and sell a screenplay about her life, said the settlement is off because Davis and his lawyers broached the agreement by announcing details of the settlement to the news media.

The settlement had been in a personal injury and wrongful death suit Priscilla Davis had filed against her ex-husband in connection with the shootings at the Davis mansion Aug. 2, 1976.

A man dressed in black shot to death Andrea Wilborn, 12, Priscilla's daughter from a previous marriage and Stan Farr, a former Texas Christian University basketball player, who was identified as Priscilla's lover.

Wounded in the shooting spree were Priscilla Davis and a houseguest, Gus "Bubba" Gavrel.

Priscilla Davis, Gavrel and another witness, Beverly Bass, all identified Cullen Davis as the man in black.

Cullen Davis was acquitted in the Wilborn slaying in a 1977 trial in Amarillo.

A civil court jury in Fort Worth last year deadlocked 8-4 against Cullen Davis in a $16.5 million suit brought by Priscilla and Andrea's father, Jack Wilborn.

Davis, once considered one of the world's wealthiest men, later filed for bankruptcy and was relieved of $850 million in debts in bankruptcy court last Dec. 2.

On Dec. 16, Eddie Roush Jr., a lawyer for Cullen Davis, announced that a $5 million settlement had been reached with Priscilla.

"There is no deal," Priscilla Davis said Monday night. "We're dropping it. There is no settlement. It was not filed."

"Unfortunately, they (Cullen's lawyers) chose to go to the press. By doing that, they violated the agreement," she continued. "We're going back to court. The end of the movie has not been written yet."

Routine Company Physical Probes Too Deep for Worker

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both employed by the same large company. Recently we were required to take physical examinations for health insurance.

We were each given a questionnaire to fill out. On the form was a section "for women only." The women were asked: "At what age did you have your first sexual encounter?" (The men were not asked this.)

I refused to answer it, and told the examining nurse that I thought it was nobody's business. She insisted it was "scientific and important to complete the report." As a matter of principle, I left that question unanswered, but I suspect the nurse filled it in for me so the questionnaire would be "complete."

Abby, would you have answered that question? And of what possible use could that information be in a routine health examination?

A PRIVATE PERSON,
ATLANTA

DEAR PRIVATE PERSON: Congratulations. You are also a thinking person. I would not have answered that question. It was inappropriate, irrelevant and an invasion of privacy.

Thank you for giving me this opportunity to again tell my readers that they are not obligated to answer a question in a questionnaire simply because it is asked. Leave a blank space, or write in "not relevant" to the questions you find an invasion of your privacy.

That did it! I will not have anything in my house that is not made in this country. I am taking this phone back — I don't care if I have to resort to smoke signals. And another thing, why did they change the bell? I was so accustomed to the old ringing sound.

Lord knows we pay enough for telephone service without having to put up with an instrument that not only is made in China but sounds like a sick turkey gobbling.

HAD ENOUGH

DEAR HAD: You may have had enough — but there's more! In order to buy a telephone like the one that gave out, you may have to buy a secondhand instrument. New is not always better. We're lucky these days if what we can get is as good as what gave out.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently become a vegetarian (it's been a year now), and with my new meatless lifestyle, I am faced with a problem: When I am invited to someone's home for dinner, would it be appropriate for me to inform the hostess when I accept that I am a vegetarian? Or should I just wait until I get there, and eat "around" the meat? I don't want to put my hostess in any inconvenience.

MEATLESS IN MARYLAND

DEAR MEATLESS: Tell your hostess in advance. If I were the hostess, I would appreciate knowing if any of my guests required special dietary considerations.

DEAR ABBY: I am so disgusted I don't know what to do, but I have to tell somebody, so I'm telling you.

We had a telephone with a clear-ringing bell for as long as I can remember — and I am not young. The phone gave out and had to be replaced, so I just went to AT&T and bought a new one. Well, this phone does not ring. It sounds like a sick turkey!

It cannot be heard if the TV is on, and worse yet, it came in a box marked "Manufactured in China."

Cook up a new pizza for winter treat

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

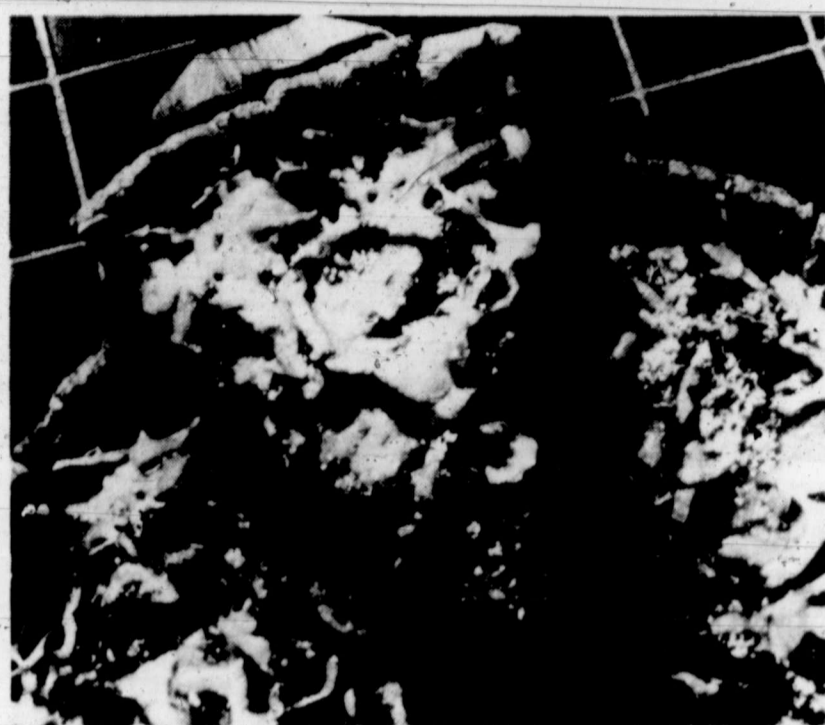

The next time you make pizza, try this crisp, nutty-flavored crust. To make the oat flour, place 1 1/4 cups of rolled oats in a blender container or food processor bowl and blend or process until flour forms. It takes just minutes to stir together the oat flour and other crust ingredients. Cook the meat and get the toppings ready while you pre-bake the crust.

PIZZA WITH THREE-GRAIN CRUST
1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup oat flour
1/4 cup cornmeal
1 teaspoon baking powder
3/8 cup milk
1/4 cup cooking oil
5 slices bacon
1/2 pound ground beef
Two 8-ounce cans pizza sauce
1/2 green pepper, cut into rings
1/2 sweet red pepper, cut into rings

1/4 cup sliced pitted ripe olives
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 ounces)
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese (4 ounces)
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

In a medium mixing bowl combine whole wheat and oat flours, cornmeal and baking powder. Stir in milk and oil; mix well. Using greased hands, press dough into a greased 14-inch pizza pan. Build up edges slightly; snip at 1-inch intervals. Bake in a 425-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes.

In a skillet cook bacon until crisp; remove. Drain on paper towels; crumble. In same skillet cook ground beef until brown; drain off fat. Spread pizza sauce over crust. Spoon beef over sauce. Top with pepper rings, olives and bacon. Sprinkle with mozzarella, cheddar and Parmesan cheeses. Return to oven. Bake 10 to 15 minutes more. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Elderly contribute to museum's information

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — The antique hog scraper is more than a museum artifact to the white-haired women and men whose chairs and wheelchairs are pulled into a circle at the nursing home where they live.

The wood-and-metal tool tells them tales of their past lives. It evokes the sights and sounds of calling a hog over on butchering day and scraping off its hair before killing it. It recalls being careful not to nick the hog's skin, which would ruin the bacon rind.

It reminds a woman vividly of how she would leave the farm on butchering day because she couldn't stand to hear the pigs squealing.

The scraper, along with once-commonplace objects such as lye soap, husking tools and a tatting shuttle, is part of the McLean County Historical Society's Reminiscing Box.

The box is the focal point of a new program in which the society's Anita Bohn taps the memories of people who once used the objects and learns more about them than any reference book could ever tell her.

And she leaves behind a group of people enlivened by happy reminiscences.

"Every time I pick up something (from the museum)," says Ms. Bohn, the society's museum educator, "it's amazing how much we don't know about it," in terms of popularity, how, where and when it was used, and problems with it.

So, Ms. Bohn has begun calling on elderly people in the community for detailed reminiscences, telling how now-obsolete objects were used in their daily lives.

Her Reminiscing Box includes ice tongs, a butter mold, hair receiver, derby hat, candlestick telephone, gas iron, darning egg, curling iron and celluloid collar.

Tape recordings of the Reminiscing Box sessions will be transcribed, with selected information and anecdotes used to augment information in the museum's files.

Reference information otherwise available about the objects, most donated by McLean County residents, Ms. Bohn says, usually is "bare bones."

The hog scraper is a good example. "Here we have several in the collection, and not one of us knew how it was used and why," until she went to nursing homes. People don't write about common domestic objects, Ms. Bohn points out, so after they fall out of use, no one knows what they were.

The Reminiscing Box idea evolved in a discussion between Ms. Bohn and McLean County Historical Society Director Greg Koons.

For the elderly, its benefits go deeper than entertainment.

When Ms. Bohn brings out an object, some residents strain to see from the back row, others throw up their hands in delight and call out the name of the thing. People talk all at once.

One woman takes the tatting shuttle and spends the rest of the time working with it until she remembers how to tat lace. After one program, Ms. Bohn is told one vocal contributor ordinarily never says a word.

"Those things are a testimony to the power of the objects," Ms. Bohn says, "and how much of our memories are tied up in objects."

She suspects "confusion and disorientation" in some older people may be because "they are living outside of a context of objects that are familiar to them ...

When I brought those objects into their environment, I was moved to see how much was elucidated."

As far as anyone at McLean County Historical Society knows, the Reminiscing Box is an original idea. The program is unusual in another respect, Ms. Bohn says. "I think it's unique in nursing home programs in terms of saying, 'We need you.'" played low on tricks one and two, and although East could now have beaten the contract by switching to a heart, he made the safe play of a third spade. Declarer won the ace and played the jack of clubs, overtaking with dummy's queen. He now led the eight of diamonds. When East and South played low, Werner won with the diamond ace. He then played the 10 of hearts. Place yourself in declarer's chair. Who would not assume that East held the queen of diamonds and the king of hearts as well? And what declarer worth his salt would not be able to count three clubs, two major aces and four diamonds for nine tricks after East was marked with the diamond queen? Sure enough, declarer rose with dummy's heart ace to take another diamond finesse. West won the queen and cashed the setting trick with the heart king.

Obviously if West took the first diamond trick with the queen, declarer would have no choice but to take the heart finesse and make his contract with three diamonds, three clubs, two heart tricks and the spade ace.

Red-suit trickery

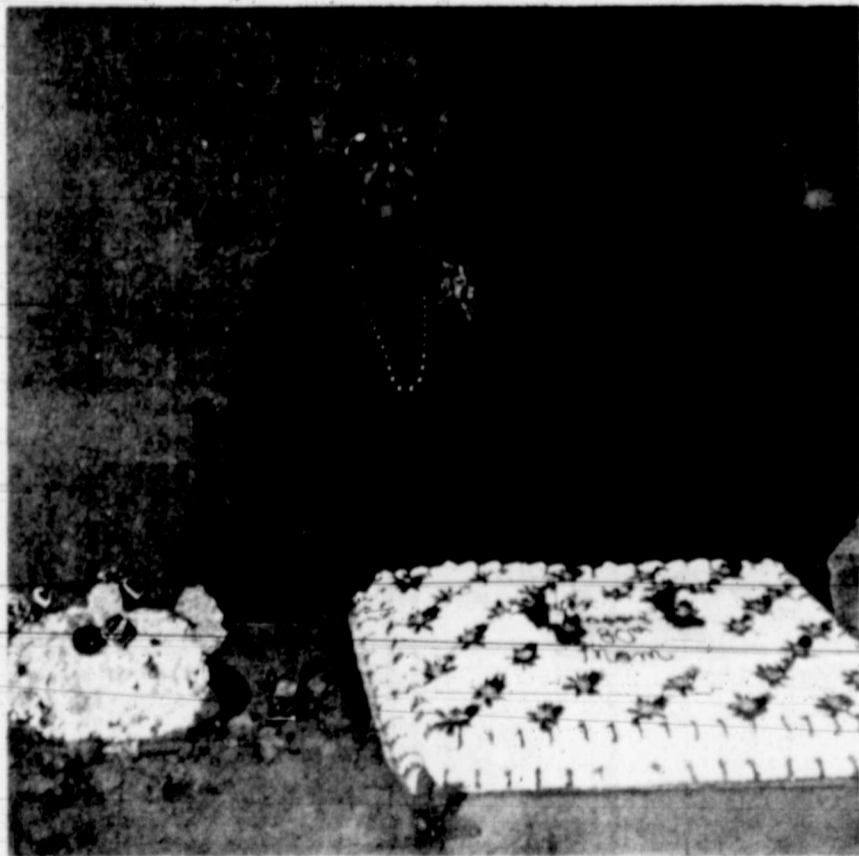

By James Jacoby

More than a generation ago Swedish expert Einar Werner found a deceptive defensive play to hoodwink declarer. Attribute the bidding to methods used in Scandinavia in the mid-1950s. You and I might open one no-trump with the South cards, but the actual bidding was as shown, with Werner sitting West.

Against three no-trump, Werner led his partner's suit, a top-of-nothing eight, and continued spades. Declarer

Rockets blast Mavs, 117-107

HOUSTON (AP) - Results are starting to accumulate from the Houston Rockets surprising trade that brought Sleepy Floyd and Joe Barry Carroll from the Golden State Warriors. "Credit should go to their front office for taking a gamble," Dallas forward Mark Aguirre said after Houston won its fourth straight, defeating the Mavericks 117-107 Monday at The Summit.

In the Dec. 12 trade, the Rockets sent 7-foot-4 center Ralph Sampson and guard Steve Harris to the Warriors.

"They have improved. They hurt us in so many areas tonight that they didn't use to hurt us in," Dallas center James Donaldson said.

Carroll and Floyd combined with pre-season acquisition Purvis Short for 58 points. Akeem Olajuwon led the Rockets with 31 points and 11 rebounds.

"We've had a couple of practices together now. We know what to do now," Olajuwon said. "I'm very excited about this team."

"People didn't know what kind of trade it would be. I knew right away we would have a good team," Olajuwon said.

Floyd agreed with Olajuwon that a recent practice session helped the new players learn the Rockets system and improve the team.

"I know the offense is better. I know when I'm supposed to run and where people will be situated," Floyd said.

The Rockets style of play takes on a new dimension according to Donaldson.

"They seem to be playing with more intensity. They're doing the dirty little things that have to be done to win," he said.

Dallas, 18-9, entered the game with a five-game winning streak. Houston, 16-12, cut Dallas' Midwest Division lead over the Rockets to 2 1/2 games.

The Mavericks suffered injuries to starting guard Roland Blackman and reserve forward Detles Schrempf.

"We'll just wait until tomorrow and let the doctors look at them," Dallas Coach John MacLeod said.

Lamesa. For now, however, Coach Larry Scott's Snyder Tigers will have to concentrate on Big Spring, which like Snyder, Andrews and Lamesa, is undefeated in District 2-4A competition.

Snyder entertains Andrews on Friday, and travel to Lamesa on Tuesday, Jan. 12. Andrews, the loop preseason favorite, is 4-0 in district play. Lamesa is 3-0.

Tippoff for the game is 7:30 tonight at Scurry County Coliseum. A sophomore game is set for 4:30 p.m. and a junior varsity game is slated for 6 p.m.

In an equally important confrontation, Coach Ken Housden's Lady Steers bus to Big Spring tonight for a 7:30 p.m. contest. A junior varsity game is also scheduled at 6 p.m.

Scott's boys are 12-5 for the season and 3-0 in District 2-4A competition. The Steers, which have defeated Snyder twice this season in non-district action, are 13-6 and also 3-0. Big Spring knocked off the Tigers 68-58 in the Levelland Tournament and 70-56 in the Denver City Tournament.

Big Spring is led by 6-6 standout senior Brian Mayfield, who scored 48 points, pulled down 20 rebounds and had seven blocked shots in Saturday's 91-88 victory over Fort Stockton. Mayfield, who has already committed to Southern Methodist University, is averaging 33 points, 15 rebounds and five blocks an outing.

Big Spring's girls boast an impressive 18-1 record overall and are atop 2-4A with a 5-0 district mark. The Lady Steers won 18 straight games this season until falling in the finals of a Lubbock tournament over the weekend to highly-touted Lubbock Monterey.

Katrina Thompson, a 5-6 senior, averages 15 points a game for the Lady Steers. Tami Wise, a 6-0 junior, averages 13.

Snyder's Lady Tigers are 10-6 for the season and 3-2 in league play. The Tigers are in good standing in the jumbled-up 2-4A picture, but need a win tonight to remain that way.

Big Spring's ladies defeated Snyder 61-36 in the Big Spring Tournament in November.

Welch leading way for SHSU Lady Cats

Brenda Welch, who helped Western Texas College to a fourth-place finish in last season's NJCAA National Tournament, is leading the way for Sam Houston State University now.

Welch and two other former Western Texas Dusters players, Deann Marr and Gigi Robinson, have played in all eight of the Lady Cats' games this season.

SHSU, which competes in the Southland Conference, is 6-2 on the season - a sharp contrast from last season's overall mark of 9-18 and conference record of 10-10. The Lady Cats open conference play later this month.

Welch, a 5-11 junior from Louisiana, has been SHSU's leading scorer in seven of eight games this season. She is averaging 22.4 points, 6.1 rebounds and is hitting 54.4 percent of her field goal attempts.

She scored 22 points as SHSU defeated Baylor University 66-49 on Monday.

Marr is averaging 2.6 points and 2.9 rebounds while Robinson is averaging 2.1 points and 2.8 boards. Both have played in all eight of SHSU's games.

Welch was named Southland Conference player of the week recently after scoring a season-best 36 points in a 128-48 win over Pan American. The scoring effort was one point shy of the Sam Houston State school record. Welch was 12-of-12 from the free throw line in the game and hit 12 of 18 field goal attempts. She also pulled down eight rebounds.

Sam Houston is coached by Royce Chadwick, son of Western Texas College coach Kelly Chadwick.

And that suits Glanville fine...

Oilers get no respect

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers get no respect from the oddsmakers and other NFL teams, but that's fine with Coach Jerry Glanville.

The Oilers, who will face Denver in the semifinals of the AFC playoffs in Denver Sunday, are once again the underdogs.

"I think that's great, and I hope the feeling continues," Glanville said Monday. "It's more fun to be the Rodney Dangerfield of the league and try to get respect in three more weeks."

The Oilers defeated Seattle 23-20 in overtime Sunday in the AFC wild card game. They were underdogs against Seattle and they'll be even less of a favorite against the Broncos.

"We've only been favored in one game we've played all year, so we're just going for upset No. 10," Glanville explained. "We'd all be totally shocked if we were anything but underdogs."

The Oilers were favored to beat Cincinnati, 4-11, in the regular season finale and they won 21-17.

The Oilers hadn't had a winning season since 1980 and finished 5-11 the past two seasons until they rebounded to a 9-6 record this season.

Glanville says the Oilers aren't just happy to have made the playoffs. They want more.

"We have a goal to win four games in this mini-season (playoffs)," Glanville said. "We're not thrilled just to be going to Denver. We are thrilled to go up there and have a chance to win."

The Oilers led the injury-plagued Seahawks into the closing minutes but Steve Largent caught a 12-yard touchdown pass from Dave Krieg with 26 seconds left in the game, forcing an overtime period.

The Oiler defense that had contained the Seahawks throughout the game, stopped Seattle on three plays in overtime, allowing Tony Zendejas to kick a 42-yard field goal with 6:55 to go in the overtime period.

Seattle's Curt Warner, the AFC's No. 2 rusher, missed the game with an ankle injury.

The comeback advanced the Oilers to Denver's Mile High Stadium where they'll face not only the Broncos but possibly icy weather.

"We can't give in to Denver or to any other conditions, including the weather," Glanville said. "We went to overtime (losing 13-10) in Cleveland last year and it was 9 degrees."

Coach Landry rebuts report 'I don't know anything about it...'

DALLAS (AP) - A television report that Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry will resign and be replaced by University of Miami coach Jimmy Johnson drew a quick rebuttal from Landry.

The Dallas Times Herald reported today that a Miami television station had reported Monday night that Landry would retire and be replaced by Johnson, who coached the Hurricanes to the national championship in a season culminated by last week's 20-14 victory over the University of Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Told of the report, Landry told the newspaper, "There's nothing like a vote of confidence."

Does Landry plan to resign? "If I'm going to resign, I don't know anything about it," Landry said. "I'll be at my office in the morning."

Landry was returning Monday from a week-long vacation. He and the coaching staff will begin their 1987 review today.

Cowboys president Tex Schramm was also returning from a vacation in South Florida. But he said he has had no contact with Johnson.

"That's the kind of report you don't dignify with a reaction," Schramm said.

Schramm said he did meet Johnson at a cocktail party in Dallas about a year ago.

Johnson, 44, told a post-Orange Bowl news conference he would consider leaving Miami for the right job, especially if the school toughens academic standards for

SMU talks with Bruce; will interview others

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist University Athletic Director Doug Single says his interview with fired Ohio State football coach Earle Bruce does not mean that a decision is imminent on the selection of a new coach for the school's troubled football program.

Bruce was on the SMU campus Monday for the interview with Single, but did not meet with SMU President A. Kenneth Pye, Single said.

"Don't jump to the conclusion that if Earle Bruce is here today that we're going to name a new coach tomorrow," Single said. "He certainly will not be the only candidate we will talk to."

The new coach will replace Bobby Collins, who resigned during the final days of the scandal that led to the suspension of the school's football program by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The school was given the NCAA's so-called "death penalty" for violating NCAA rules against paying players at a time when the school was on probation for previous rules violations.

The NCAA action suspended the Southwest Conference school's 1987 season and placed severe sanctions against the school for the 1988 season, prompting SMU officials to cancel any plans to resume play until 1989.

Bruce was fired at Ohio State only a few days before the end of the season after the Buckeyes had compiled a 6-3-1 season. Ohio State finished with a 6-4-1 season.

Bruce compiled an 81-26-1 record in nine years at Ohio State and had the best Big 10 record of any coach during his tenure with the Buckeyes.

Single has already interviewed Minnesota coach John Gutekunst, who apparently said he was not interested, and plans to interview several other candidates.

The other candidates reportedly include former Kansas City Chief coach and Dallas Cowboys assistant John Mackovic and L.D. Bell High School coach Tim Edwards. Another coach mentioned for a possible interview is William & Mary coach Jimmie Laycock.

Single has said he plans to interview five or six candidates and hopes to name a new coach within two weeks.

Soviets expect to compete in 1988 summer Olympics

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) - For the first time 12 years, the Soviet Union and the United States will face each other in a Summer Olympic Games.

"We do not intend to boycott the 1988 Seoul Olympics," Marat Gramov, chairman of the Soviet Sports Committee and chief of the National Olympic Committee, said Monday.

The final decision on Soviet participation will be made at an NOC meeting next week, Gramov said.

The United States and the Soviet Union last competed together in the 1976 Games at Montreal. The United States boycotted the 1980 Games at Moscow in a protest of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. The Soviets responded with a boycott of the 1984 Games at Los Angeles, citing security concerns.

Gramov, whose committee oversees all sports activities, including Olympic preparations, was the official who announced the Soviet boycott in 1984.

Gramov said the Soviet NOC has discussed the question of participating in the Seoul Games.

"We find the Olympic movement positive, as it unites the youth of the world," he said.

He said that the Soviet athletes were "seriously preparing" for both the winter and summer games. The Winter Games will be held at Calgary next month.

The official deadline for accepting invitations to the Summer Olympics is Jan. 17. The Games will be held Sept. 17-Oct. 2.

Gramov's statement appeared to clear the way for all Soviet bloc countries to participate in the Seoul Games, and to further diminish the threat of North Korea leading a communist boycott. Last month, Hungary and East Germany became the first Soviet bloc countries to officially announce they would send teams to South Korea.

Czechoslovakia's sports chief, Antonin Himl, said on Saturday that his country also would participate in the Games, although the official decision will not be made until Jan. 15. Czechoslovak athletes would compete in 16 Olympic sports, Himl told the state-run radio.

Gramov spoke at the start of a six-day visit to West Germany for talks with sports officials.

He said the problem of North Korea and its demands to stage some of the events remained to be solved. But he recalled that International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch said in a recent Soviet newspaper interview that the way was open for more talks on the issue.

The North had insisted on staging at least half of the events as co-host of the Games, but both the IOC and the Seoul organizers refused that demand. South Korea has offered North Korea some events, but talks between the two sides, under IOC auspices, have so far failed to resolve the issue.

Clark's future with Cardinals still undecided

NEW YORK (AP) - Will Jack Clark stay in St. Louis or will he go?

The Cardinals say he'll stay. Clark's agent says no.

Jack Clark has indicated to me that he will not re-sign with the Cardinals," Tom Reich, who represents Clark, said Monday.

"Negotiations are continuing," Cardinals General Manager Dal Maxvill said. "I'm hopeful that we can get it done by Friday midnight."

Clark is the most prominent of the 11 free agents who must re-sign with their former clubs by Friday or be barred from re-signing with them until May 1.

"The time for talking, we're past that," Reich said. "I think it's academic with respect to the Cardinals at this point. I expected a St. Louis deal but it's not meant to be."

Reich said that negotiations with the Cardinals reached an impasse in December and that is when Clark began to think about going elsewhere.

GOP and Democrats finalize ballots

AUSTIN (AP) — Former state Sen. Lloyd Doggett is back in politics, and all major Republican and Democratic presidential candidates have filed in time for Texas' March 8 primary elections.

Doggett, now an Austin lawyer, surprised many Democrats by filing Monday as a candidate for the party's nomination for Place 1 on the Texas Supreme Court.

Former Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado was the last major Democratic presidential candidate to file. His campaign paid the $4,000 fee a few hours before the 6 p.m. Monday filing deadline.

Former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont also filed Monday to fill the slate of Republican presidential candidates. The GOP requires its presidential candidates to file by submitting petitions with at least 5,000 signatures.

Doggett was immediately criticized by another candidate in the Place 1 Supreme Court race, former Congressman Jack Hightower.

"I have been talking to Texas voters about my candidacy since June 1. Doggett's hasty decision somewhat deprives the electorate of an opportunity to thoroughly examine his credentials and reason for seeking the Democratic nomination," Hightower said.

But Doggett said voters know him well after his 11-year Texas Senate career and his unsuccessful 1984 bid for the U.S. Senate.

"My campaign rests on my record and one word — fairness. I expect to act as a judge that will assure justice and fairness for every Texan, regardless of social status or economic condition," Doggett said. Doggett, 41, served in the Texas Senate from 1973 to 1984. In 1984, he won a bitter Democratic primary for U.S. Senate over then-U.S. Rep. Kent Hance and former U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger, but lost the general election to Republican Phil Gramm.

Texas has joined about a dozen other states in participating in the "Super Tuesday" regional presidential primary this year. Texas is the largest state taking part in the super primary and will send the third-largest delegations to both party national conventions this summer.

GOP presidential candidates who filed were Vice President George Bush, Pat Robertson, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, former Secretary of State Alexander Haig, and du Pont.

Democratic presidential candidates filing included Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee, former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, and Hart.

Others seeking the Democratic presidential nomination are political extremist Lyndon LaRouche Jr.; David Duke of Metairie, La., who said he is president of the National Association for the Advancement of White People; Norbert G. Dennerl Jr. of Columbia Station, Ohio, who listed his occupation as educator; and W.A. Williams, 61, a Dallas oilman.

State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle said, "I could have done without Lyndon LaRouche and Duke. They kind of put a little trash on the ballot. That's what I think of their viewpoints."

In a top statewide race, U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen filed for reelection to the office he has held since 1971, while four Republicans seek the nomination to oppose him. Also filing for the Democratic Senate nomination is Joe Sullivan, a San Antonio college professor.

"I don't think anybody's going to beat Lloyd Bentsen — Democrat or Republican," Slagle said.

One of the Republicans, Amarillo Congressman Beau Boulter, told a Capitol news conference Monday that the GOP needs to mount a full-scale challenge to Bentsen.

"I know that Lloyd Bentsen is almost an institution in Texas and that the self-appointed political wizards and so-called experts say that it can't be done. But I have overcome the political odds before, and I intend to do it again," Boulter said.

Others seeking the GOP's Senate nomination are Ned Snead, a Georgetown businessman; former Houston state Rep. Milton Fox, and Wes Gilbreath of Houston.

For the first time in four years, voters will see candidates on the ballot for the State Board of Education.

That 15-member panel has been appointed since the House Bill 72 school reforms took effect in 1984. But because voters last year rejected a proposal to keep the panel appointed, the board reverts to an elected body at year's end.

Also filing Monday were candidates for Congress in all 27 Texas districts, the Texas Senate, Texas House, Railroad Commission, Texas Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Candidates also filed for numerous local offices around the state.

Heart surgeon Cooley files for bankruptcy protection

HOUSTON (AP) — Famed heart surgeon Dr. Denton Cooley, who performed the first successful heart transplant in 1968 and the world's first artificial heart transplant in 1969, filed for personal bankruptcy protection claiming debts of about $100 million.

Cooley, doing business as Cardiovascular Associates, Southwest Apartment Homes, Point of the Southwest, Southwestern Plaza, Texas American Bank Building and Cool Acres Ranch, filed Monday under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

Cooley, 67, listed among his assets real property valued at $44 million including several undeveloped tracts, at least one apartment complex, a six-story office building, two beach houses and oil and gas royalties.

Other assets include six vehicles, including two Rolls-Royces.

Among his debts were 11 unsecured debts of $26.5 million ranging from $19.9 million owed to First City National Bank of Houston, which is itself in the process of being reorganized with the help of a Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. contribution, to $523 owed a local sandwich shop.

Cooley's filing said he has $2.7 million in tax liabilities, but he indicated that at least a portion of that is under contest.

Cooley's wife, Louise, told The Associated Press Monday evening her husband was at the Texas Heart Institute; but hospital officials said he would not be in until today.

The native Houston doctor, founder and head of the Texas Heart Institute at the Texas Medical Center in Houston, performed his first heart transplant in 1968, almost a year after Dr. Christian Barnard first removed the diseased heart of a South African man and sewed in a new one.

Man donates 18 gallons of blood over 20 years

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Coy Evans says he doesn't mind being stuck by a needle — for a good cause.

Over the past 20 years, Evans has watched more than 18 gallons of his blood flow out of his veins and into a Lubbock blood bank. That's as much blood as is in 12 to 14 average humans.

Evans, whose blood is type A-positive, says giving blood every eight weeks — as often as doctors will allow — isn't a blood-curdling experience.

"They have some good technicians that really know how to stick you," he said.

The 59-year-old Slaton resident is one of United Blood Services' most consistent donors. According to blood bank records, Evans has given 18 gallons and two pints, said Linda Elliott, donor resource specialist.

But Evans' lifetime total for giving blood is actually higher. Before becoming United Blood Service's top donor, Evans gave blood while in the Air Force, he said.

He said he began bleeding to help others in 1950 when another serviceman at Kirtland Air Force Base in Albuquerque was in the hospital and needed blood.

In 1978, he started to give blood on a regular basis. Evans' father-in-law was hospitalized with cancer, he said, and he had to find blood donors. Since then, he has donated on schedule and said he'll continue to do so as long as he's healthy, he said.

"A lot of people out there need blood," Evans said Monday. "It's a small thing to do, so I go ahead and do it."

He also urges others to make a contribution to the blood supply by coordinating the Lion's Club blood drives every eight weeks in Slaton, where Evans works for a power company.

"I've known people who've had open-heart surgery and I'm glad to help them," he said.

BILLY CRYSTAL and Danny DeVito agree to an exchange of murders in the new comedy "Throw Momma From the Train."

drunk he does here.

But the movie drags on and on, and it never justifies paying such close attention to outcast Frances and his bedraggled life. Everything is studied, overly literary, dead. It's like "Barfly" without any of the good times — or even the psychological amplitude. GRADE: ***

SEPTEMBER (PG) Woody Allen shot this movie once; then, unhappy with the results, he went back (with a somewhat different cast) and did it again. He should still be dissatisfied. Like "Interiors," it's one of Allen's relentless stabs at arty seriousness — an aspiring-to-Bergman-and-Chekhov portrait of familial angst.

The central conflict — that of an absentee mother/minor celebrity (Elaine Strich) and her withering daughter (Mia Farrow) — draws upon the Lana Turner/Cheryl Crane murder case but depends for its life on Bergman's "Autumn Sonata." (The two movies even share an autumnal color scheme.)

The only real reason to seek out this talky, ill-focused doodle of a film is for Strich's bravura performance as a vodka-swilling, emotionally armored tough broad. GRADE: ****

THE SECRET OF MY SUCCESS (PG-13) MCA, $89.95. Michael J. Fox stars as a callow corporate climber who beds the boss's wife (scene-stealing Margaret Whitton) on his way to the top. This comedy was a big hit at the box office, even though — or maybe because — it treats Fox's opportunism as cute. GRADE: * (Film grading: * — excellent,  — good,  — fair, * — poor)

Workers try to jury-rig connections

WEST ELIZABETH, Pa. (AP) — Utility crews worked today to jury-rig pumps and bring water to Pittsburgh suburbs where thousands of residents have been forced to buy bottled water or lug buckets from tank trucks in the aftermath of a million-gallon oil spill. "I was shocked when I got home," said Judy Schramm, pouring water into a plastic container from an emergency tank. "Not a drop came out of the spigot. Nothing. I just don't think people prepared enough."

Ms. Schramm, of Robinson Township, was among 14,000 to 15,000 Allegheny County residents without running water as of 9:30 a.m., said county Health Department spokesman Guillermo Cole.

Authorities were optimistic that jury-rigged pipes and hoses pumping water in from other districts would avert further water cutoffs today. Many public and Catholic schools and several businesses were closed.

"Most of our tanks are depleted. They're empty," said Robert Ross, vice president of Western Pennsylvania Water Co., which serves 750,000 people and had to close one of its two Monongahela River intakes.

"It's really a bad situation. It's close to panicky," said Joseph Facnda, senior vice president at Giant Eagle supermarkets, where bottled water sold out almost as quickly as it hit the shelves.

On Saturday, a 40-year-old Ashland Oil Co. tank crumpled and spilled 3.5 million gallons of diesel fuel as it was being filled. A dike captured 2.5 million gallons, but 1 million gallons splashed over the barrier and poured into the Monongahela 27 miles upstream from Pittsburgh.

The Coast Guard said today that patches of oil were visible on the surface up to 27 miles downstream from the city, and officials said that the oil was mixing into the water and might reach the Mississippi.

Only 30,000 gallons of the diesel fuel had been siphoned off the river by late Monday, with 1.4 million gallons sopped up from the tank site, officials said. Workers spread 23,000 feet-of booms on the rivers to trap the oil.

The Monongahela, which usually churns with commercial traffic, was closed from the Ashland terminal to Pittsburgh until a channel was opened at 10:30 p.m. Monday, said Coast Guard spokesman Todd Nelson.

No drinking water was polluted, but water companies shut down their intake pipes from the Monongahela and Ohio rivers Monday as patches of smelly oil were reported 53 miles downstream from Pittsburgh at Newell, W. Va.

West Penn was getting 3 million gallons per day from temporary hydrant-to-hydrant connections with Pittsburgh's water system, and crews were installing a permanent connection that would supply an additional 10 million gallons.

Ross estimated it would be "at minimum three to four days, more than likely five to six days," before the closed West Penn intake pump can be turned back on.

"Conservation is the password for the time. This is a regional disaster," said Joseph Dinkel, a West View Water Authority spokesman.

COLORADO CITY—Services were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Kiker-Seale Chapel for Annie Hartman, 79, who died Sunday in a Colorado City hospital. Burial followed in the Dunn Cemetery.

Born in Scurry County, she moved to Hermleigh three years ago. She was a homemaker and a member of the Methodist Church.

Survivors include a daughter, LaRue Goss of San Angelo; a son, Tom Arlis Cotton of China Grove; a brother, Hubert Webb of Lamesa; six grandchildren; and 14 great-grandchildren.

Randolph Marion

BIG SPRING—Services are set for 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Nalley-Pickel Chapel for A. Randolph Marion, 68, who died Monday in a Big Spring hospital after a long illness. Burial will follow in the Mt. Olive Memorial Park.

He was the brother of Lila Mae Newton of Snyder.

Born in Haskell County, he moved to Big Spring in 1925. He had lived in Seagraves, Denver City and Idalou before moving back to Big Spring in 1984.

He married Marguerite Adkins on April 23, 1938 in Carlsbad, N.M. He was a farmer and oilfield worker.

Survivors include his wife, Marguerite; two sons, Leon of Denver City and Jerrey of Sacramento, Calif.; two daughters, LaVerne Newton and Barbara Tadlock, both of Hobbs, N.M.; another sister, Lily Pearl Bloodworth of Idalou; three brothers, Jack Marion and Eddie Marion, both of Denver City, and Milford Marion of Roswell, N.M.; 13 grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

Fewer eggs being eaten

WASHINGTON (AP) — The legendary ham 'n' eggs breakfast is gradually giving way to lighter fare among many health-conscious Americans, and Agriculture Department experts say the trend is hurting poultry producers.

"Americans are reducing their consumption of eggs, pulling down egg prices," economist Jack S. Ross says. "A recent report by a government-sponsored panel of health specialists recommends that doctors monitor their adult patients' cholesterol level and prescribe corrective diets for risk cases."

Ross continued: "If doctors heed this report, there is no doubt it will hurt demand for high-cholesterol foods, contributing further to the long-run decline in egg consumption."

Older Americans in the 50-plus age group are the greatest consumers of eggs, he said. They were brought up by parents who often ate eggs for breakfast.

But younger people, the baby-boomers, consume fewer eggs, probably as a matter of preference, Ross said. Therefore egg consumption is expected to decline in the future.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Houston is opposed by San Antonio college professor Joe Sullivan in the Democratic primary, with Republicans Beau Boulter of Amarillo, Ned Sneed of Georgetown, Milton Fox of Houston and Wes Gilbreath of Houston seeking the Republican Senate nomination to face the Democratic nominee in November.

Boulter is a congressman, Sneed a businessman and Fox a former state representative. Gilbreath's occupation was not listed in an AP election story.

U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, who represents Scurry County in Congress, is unopposed for re-election, a staff member in Washington said Tuesday morning.

TU program helps needy

TU Electric's Energy Aid Program has helped some 37,000 needy, elderly, ill or disabled residents during the past five years by providing almost $2.5 million to pay for essential energy services, the company reported recently.

Energy Aid was begun in early 1983 with initial contributions by the company and its employees, to pay for electricity, natural gas, and other energy sources such as butane and propane for those unable to afford essential services.

TU Electric customers were then asked to add a dollar or more to their monthly electric bill payment to continue the program. Energy Aid is administered by experienced social agencies in the cities served by the company. In Scurry County it is administered by the United Way Campaign.

Customers completing pledge cards designate an amount to be added automatically to their TU Electric bill each month. Cards were included in the December bills of all the company's customers. They are also available from local TU Electric offices. One-time contributions are still accepted, although a check box for the program no longer appears on the bills.

worked in the clerk's office since 1951.

Other county office holders who will be unopposed for new terms this election year are:

—District Attorney Ernie Armstrong, 40, a Democrat, who is completing his first four-year term after being elected in November of 1984.

—County Sheriff Keith Collier, 55, a Democrat, who has served as sheriff here since January of 1965.

—County Attorney Mike Line, 34, a Republican, who was appointed to the post in February of 1985. He now seeks his first full four-year term.

—County Tax Assessor-Collector Rona Sikes, 53, a Democrat, now seeks her second four-year term after being first elected in November of 1984.

Utilities overcollected

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas ratepayers could get immediate refunds of more than half a billion dollars in overcollected taxes from electric utilities under a measure pending in Congress, according to a consumer watchdog group.

The money was collected by utilities before the federal tax rate on utilities was lowered from 46 percent to 34 percent in 1986, Joseph Kriesberg, an energy analyst for Public Citizen, said Monday.

The House Ways and Means Committee is to consider a bill this year that would allow state regulators to order the money to be returned through immediate refunds, which now are prohibited by federal law, he said.

Brief session needed for 2 bids, rezoning

Bids and a rezoning request were the only agenda items before Snyder city councilmen Monday at the regular January meeting, and the board dispensed with its business in a brief 20-minute session.

Regarding bids, little decision was required since only one bid estimate had been received for both a one-half ton pickup to be purchased for water treatment plant employees and for a used dump truck for the city street department.

The pickup purchase was awarded to Mal Donelson Chevrolet at a cost of $10,625, an estimate which did not include a trade-in.

The dump truck—which was described as in excellent condition with some 200,000 miles on its diesel engine—was purchased for $33,000 from West Texas Equipment Company of Abilene.

The "old business" item before councilmen was a second reading for a zone change request submitted by Rickey Hernandez, who sought to change the zoning for two lots and a portion of a third from M-1 (light manufacturing) to R-3 (general residential). The lots are located in the 1800 Block of Ave. T.

Mayor Troy Williamson presided and councilmen attending the meeting were Paul Zeck, Ralph Williamson, Joe Fowler and John Johnson. Absent were Fred Castillo and Mike Post.

Fungus infection may run its course

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son has just developed histoplasmosis of the eyes. How is this cured?
 DEAR READER: Histoplasmosis is a fungus infection that rarely needs treatment. It runs its course and, after healing, leaves scars in lungs, lymph glands and the eyes. Ordinarily, the scars themselves do not affect health.

A more serious form, called progressive histoplasmosis, can sometimes be fatal and can infect large areas of the body. The problem faced by doctors is to determine whether the histoplasmosis is "burned out" (leaving scars) or whether it is active and requires treatment. Special blood tests can help differentiate between active and inactive forms of the disease.

If your son lives in an area — such as the Mississippi and Ohio River valleys — where histoplasmosis is endemic (very common), he may simply be showing the innocuous consequences of the infection. Nevertheless, his ophthalmologist will wish to test him in the event that the eye lesions reflect active disease and, hence, should be treated.

DEAR DR. GOTT: During a CT scan, cysts were found on my right kidney and liver. My doctor says this is not uncommon in persons my age (61) and not to worry. Do you agree?

DEAR READER: One of the problems of new medical testing is that doctors often discover more than they need to know. Tests are more accurate and sophisticated than they were years ago.

For example, computed tomography, or CT, can show small abnormalities that were easily missed by older, more traditional X-ray examinations. Case in point, kidney and liver cysts. These small, benign, fluid-filled structures rarely cause problems. They are common and may inadvertently be found during scanning for other, more serious conditions.

Your doctor is correct.
 DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm female, 60 and play senior tennis tournaments. During matches, my heart beats rapidly, I become lightheaded and tired, and my arms seem to be made of lead. I'm 5 feet 1 and weigh 100 pounds. Your natural advice would be "give up tennis," but it gives me real pleasure. Should I worry?

DEAR READER: As a tennis player, my "natural advice" is: Don't give up the sport! However, I do encourage you to see a doctor, because the symptoms you describe may indicate illness. In particular, you may be anemic or have a heart condition that needs attention.

At rest, our bodies have a basic metabolic demand. This demand is increased enormously when we exercise. Your tennis-induced fatigue and rapid heartbeat suggest that your system is overworking in order to supply your muscles with the oxygen necessary for strenuous activity. If you are anemic, less oxygen is carried in the blood cells; if your heart's efficiency is impaired, less blood — and less oxygen — will circulate. See a doctor and get checked out before your next tennis match.

For further inspiration, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, EATING RIGHT FOR A HEALTHY HEART, which offers suggestions on how to help protect yourself from heart and arterial disease. Other readers who are interested in this Health Report should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.
