

U.S. troops may return home soon

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — President Jose Azcona Hoyos said Nicaraguan troops are retreating from Honduran territory and the 3,200 U.S. soldiers on an emergency mission in Honduras probably won't be needed much longer.

Some of the American soldiers practiced military maneuvers at a Honduran airstrip only 20 miles from the Nicaraguan border on Sunday.

In Nicaragua, the government said direct cease-fire talks between Sandinista and Contra rebel officials would take place as scheduled today, despite the fighting along the Nicaragua-Honduras border.

In the United States, the focus in Washington turned to a renewed debate over U.S. aid to the Contras. The Reagan administration indicated support for a new $48 million proposal advanced by a bipartisan group of senators.

"Things are getting back to normal," Azcona said Sunday, one day after a Honduran air raid aimed at driving out about 600 Sandinistas that officials said were leaving Honduras too slowly.

The government said two U.S.-made F-5 fighter jets fired rockets at the Sandinista troops.

Honduras said the air raid Saturday was eight miles inside its borders, but Nicaragua said it was five miles within its territory.

Nicaragua formally protested the Honduran air raid as an unwarranted act of aggression. It has denied that its troops crossed the jungle-choked border between the nations.

"If there are no more incidents, the Americans will leave," Azcona said. He did not say when the U.S. troops, which began arriving Thursday, would leave.

A high-ranking Honduran military official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said late Sunday that Honduras planned to position troops all along the 500-mile-long border with Nicaragua to guard against future incursions.

President Reagan ordered the U.S. troops in after Honduras said 2,000 Sandinistas had crossed the border in an effort to drive Contra rebels out of Nicaragua. Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-

Miss., a member of a congressional delegation that ended a fact-finding mission to Honduras on Sunday, said he expects the U.S. military personnel to pull out in about a week.

"I think it'll all be over by then," Montgomery, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said at a news conference at Palmerola, headquarters for the American military operation in Honduras.

In Washington, a national security adviser, Lt. Gen. Colin Powell, also said the fighting was essentially over.

Jackson gains Texas delegates; GOP bickers

DALLAS (AP) — While Jesse Jackson strengthened his position as a Democratic presidential candidate in Texas, supporters of Republicans George Bush and Pat Robertson battled over who should write the party's platform and rules.

Although statewide tallies weren't available, it appeared that Jackson would have as many delegates as Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis when Democrats hold their state convention this spring. Party Chairman Robert Slagle said Sunday.

Dukakis earned more delegates in Super Tuesday's primary voting in Texas, but Jackson appeared to have gathered more at-large delegates in Saturday's 270 county and senatorial district conventions across the state.

With about two-thirds of the 5,288 delegates accounted for, Jackson had 40 percent, Dukakis had 38 percent, Tennessee Rep. Albert Gore Jr. had 9 percent, Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt had 3 percent and Illinois Sen. Paul Simon had 1 percent. Gary Hart, who has pulled out of the race, got one delegate.

"I would just guess the state convention will be composed of one-third Jackson, one-third Dukakis and about a third of the people either Gore, Gephardt or uncommitted," Slagle said.

Democrats held relatively tranquil conventions as they tried to gain important at-large delegates not decided in the Super Tuesday primary.

Many counties reported a record turnout at GOP conventions, but although party officials called for mending fences, petty fighting broke out.

Bush won all of Texas' 111 national delegates to the convention, but there was friction between Bush and Robertson supporters at some Republican conventions.

Delegates named, resolutions passed at two conventions

Resolutions and delegates to state conventions slated in June were approved Saturday at county conventions held by local members of both the Democratic and Republican Parties.

Local Republicans proposed a slate of nine resolutions for their party, while Democrats offered only one—a resolution in support of increased enforcement powers for the state attorney general's office in relation to the collection of child support payments.

At their county convention, Republicans passed resolutions urging:

—That the U.S. immediately proceed with research, development and deployment of President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative.

—That the Republican Party urge congress to resume aid to the Nicaraguan Contra freedom fighters.

—That the U.S. Dept. of Justice initiate an investigation into the illegal financial dealings and the unorthodox use of influence by Speaker of the House Jim Wright in the Texas Savings and Loan scandal.

—That the Republican Party formally oppose a state income tax.

—That the INF Treaty not be ratified until all Soviet troops are withdrawn from Afghanistan and plans for a Soviet-sponsored puppet government are dropped.

—That the Republican Party support the right of children to voluntary prayers in Texas public schools.

—That the Republican Party affirm its faith in God and its belief in the importance of the family.

—That the Republican Party oppose abortion except in cases of rape, incest or danger to the life of the mother.

—That the Republican Party request the administration and congress to abrogate the Panama Canal Treaty, thereby returning the canal to the U.S.

Delegates from both parties were named also. These groups will attend the upcoming state See CONVENTIONS, page 9

New site for trial denied

At noon Monday, District Judge Gene Dulaney denied a defense motion for a change of venue in the aggravated kidnapping trial of 25-year-old Grady Allen Davis of 505 33rd St.

After hearing arguments from defense attorney Pete Greene and District Attorney Ernie Armstrong, Dulaney said publicity about a January trial of one of Davis' co-defendants was "minimal" and insufficient to affect the objectivity of the general public.

The judge pointed to testimony of two local citizens who testified for the state, Dan Devers and Bill Dryden, who said they did not believe the case has attracted an unusual amount of interest.

The defense had called on testimony of Davis' mother and girlfriend, who said they had heard a great deal of talk about it.

Prospective jurors summoned to 132nd District Court to hear the trial were dismissed until 1:30 p.m. Monday while the change of venue hearing was being conducted.

Zone contest set at SHS Tuesday

Snyder will host east zone schools for UIL one-act play competition Tuesday with performances slated from San Angelo Lake View, Lamesa and Sweetwater in addition to the SHS performance of "The Corn is Green."

Snyder will be third on the list of schools. The contest will begin at 1:30 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium.

The public is invited to view all plays, but admittance will be allowed during intermission only.

Two plays will advance from the east zone and the west zone contest, also scheduled Tuesday. These four will comprise entries for the District 2-AAAA event slated next Monday in Big Spring.

Schools competing for the west zone title include Andrews, Big Spring, Fort Stockton, Monahans and Pecos.

From district, schools will advance to the area contest, scheduled in Snyder April 8. It will be followed by regional competition April 23 in Brownwood and the state finals May 6 in Austin.

The following schedule will be observed at Tuesday's zone competition here. After the start, times are approximate:
—1:30 p.m., San Angelo Lake View performing "Bad Seed."
—2:30 p.m., Lamesa High School performing from The Canterbury Tales, the "Wife of Bath."
—3:30 p.m., Snyder High School performing "The Corn is Green."
—4:25 p.m., Sweetwater High School performing "Suppressed Desires."

Bids again rejected by county

Scurry County commissioners Monday morning rejected all bids for a new supply of tables and chairs at the county coliseum because some of the bids did not meet published specifications.

County members told coliseum manager Wes Pertain that state law would permit him to purchase the tables because the purchase price apparently would be under $5,000 and thus would not have to be bid.

The court tabled the table and chair bids last Monday because no local bids were received.

After a lengthy discussion of the two local bids received since that time and two from out of town, the court decided that the low bid, $11,321 from Bud's Office Supply, could not be accepted because it did not offer the double-hinged or heavy duty chairs that had been specified. See BIDS, page 9

Q. — Since it is a federal building, can you smoke at the post office?

A. — At present, yes. The lobby of the facility is not posted and a postal official said there is nothing to prevent individuals from smoking there. As for employees, smoking is allowed only in designated areas.

In Brief

Water leaks

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A leak at the Rolling Hills water treatment plant that contractors refused to fix will cost Fort Worth consumers an undetermined amount in repairs, city officials said after agreeing not to fight the company.

S&B Constructors Inc. of Houston began an expansion of the water treatment plant in 1983. In 1985, the company spent four months repairing a leak in the system, pumping an expansion joint with foam to stop the flow of treated water onto the muddy ground at the south end of the plant.

No order

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to order a Texas bank to pay $69.4 million pending further appeals of a jury verdict that found the bank illegally had reneged on a loan to an oil and gas drilling company.

The court, without comment, let stand a ruling that neither the bank nor the federal corporation that insures its deposits can be forced to put up the money — believed to be the largest judgment ever against a national bank — while appealing the case.

MBank Abilene was accused of backing out of an oral commitment to lend $3 million to finance oil and gas drilling operations by a group headed by Harry Lemaire and Richard E. Patton, who has since died.

City session

The Snyder city council will have a work session at 5 p.m. and a meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at city hall.

The work session is to discuss the pending franchise agreement related to the cable TV operation here. As an action item, the council will consider calling a bond election to help finance utility lines for the Texas Department of Corrections prison unit.

An executive session is due also to discuss pending litigation against the city.

Bankruptcy case said costly

DALLAS (AP) — Working out the legal tangles of the millionaire Hunt brothers' bankruptcy court cases has involved hundreds of attorneys, with legal costs estimated at close to $6 million a month, a newspaper reported.

Bankruptcy cases for Dallas-based Placid Oil Co. and the estates of William Herbert, Nelson Bunker and Lamar Hunt now involve more than 20 banks, three federal agencies and hundreds of creditors, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday.

"This has been a seven-day-a-week case since it started. Just keeping up is the hard part — we (send) notices to the world every time we do something," said Thomas Armstrong, an attorney with Simon, Anisman, Doby, Wilson and Skillern and administrator of the Placid case.

Armstrong sends copies of any developments to everyone on a master list of parties involved in the Placid case that includes names of more than 150 different legal firms.

"This is an enormous case requiring an enormous amount of hours to keep up with it," said Grover Hart, the deputy attorney in charge of the U.S. Justice Department's tax division office in Dallas. "It is certainly one of the biggest cases our office has ever handled."

The Justice Department, Internal Revenue Service and Securities and Exchange Commission are involved in the two cases.

The William Herbert Hunt estate has the largest service list with 172 parties, Placid is second with 155 and the Nelson Bunker Hunt estate is third with 94, court documents show. Documents for the Lamar Hunt estate were not available.

The number of lawyers involved is proportionate to the amount of money in question, said R. Paul Wickes, an attorney for Thompson & Knight, which represents First Republic Bank in its dealings with Placid.

"The number (of lawyers) may be abnormal but there are not many bankruptcies that involve close to $1 billion in assets," Wickes said. "It is the kind of case that takes a lot of people putting in a lot of time."

Henry Simon, who is the lead counsel representing Placid, and other attorneys must submit applications to Federal Bankruptcy Judge Harold Abramson before being paid. Simon estimates he charges $350,000 to $450,000 a month.

Ed Creel, the lawyer representing the William Herbert Hunt estate, estimates his fees are between $50,000 and $60,000 a month.

Prevention Is Best Antidote To Accidental Poisonings

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I wrote to tell you that the incidence of child deaths from aspirin had been reduced by 88 percent due to the child-resistant caps on pill containers.

I also mentioned that because older people with painful arthritis in their fingers complained about how difficult it was to open those child-proof caps, regular caps could be obtained from the pharmacist for the asking. I then urged you to warn grandparents to poison-proof their homes in case their grandchildren visited them because small children love to explore the cupboards, cabinets and drawers in their grandparents' homes.

I was at the Seattle Poison Center at the time — and I am still here — so I hope you will run your valuable tips again on how to poison-proof your home. It would be ideal if you ran it during the week of March 20-26 as that is Poison Prevention Week.

Thank you, Abby, on behalf of all your readers who will clip that column and keep it handy.

BEDROOM: all medication, jewelry cleaner, cosmetics, perfume.

LAUNDRY: bleaches, soaps, detergents, disinfectants, bluing, dyes, spot removers.

CLOSETS, ATTIC, STORAGE PLACES: rat poison, roach poison, mothballs, insect sprays.

PURSE: aspirin, all drugs, cigarettes.

BATHROOM: all drugs and pills, shampoo, wave-set lotions and sprays, nail polish and polish remover, suntan powder, shaving lotions, toilet bowl cleaner, rubbing alcohol, room deodorizer, hair remover, boric acid, denture tablets, deodorants, pine oil and bath oil.

GARAGE, BASEMENT, WORKSHOP: lye, kerosene, bug killers, gasoline, lighter fluid, turpentine, paint remover and thinner, paint, weed killers, anti-freeze and fertilizers.

GENERAL: flaking paint, repaired toys, broken plaster. Some flowers and plants are poisonous.

FIRST AID FOR POISONING: Keep syrup of ipecac on hand in your home, but do not use it except on the advice of your physician or the poison center. (Call information now for your local poison center's 24-hour hot-line number, and keep it on or near your phone.)

Poison prevention is the best antidote for poisonings, but accidental poisoning can occur in any home. The natural impulse is to act at once, but the wrong treatment for poisoning is often more harmful than none. So call your physician or your local poison center for advice immediately.

Rancher determined to recover loss

ALBANY, Texas (AP) — One rancher says she considers herself lucky to have saved her 75 head of cattle from raging wildfires, even if the blazes did turn the 1,200 acres of ranchland she owns into charred wasteland.

Ruth Blackburn saved her cattle March 11 as fire ripped the hills west of her ranch. The animals were corralled with a honking pickup.

fellow ranchers throughout the state that have been pouring in since the fires were brought under control.

Once the donated feed runs out, the cattle will be transported to a friend's ranch in Callahan County, Mrs. Blackburn said.

She estimates it will be three months before her cattle can return to the blackened land.

Patti Fulton of the Albany Soil Conservation Service said about 200 cattle perished in the fires and another 100 could die from pneumonia. Their smoke-damaged lungs now make them susceptible to the disease.

Mrs. Blackburn said the setbacks are burdensome, especially for a woman who didn't pay much attention to the ranching business while her husband was alive. But she pledges to persevere to save the ranch she and her husband bought in 1968.

"We've been here too long," she said. "That's just our way of life."

No one was injured in the blaze that engulfed at least 300,000 acres, but flames destroyed fences that will be expensive to replace, torched many ranches and killed livestock.

Callahan County Sheriff Bill Skinner said Friday one of the fires that sparked the destructive blazes was intentionally set and may be linked to a string of suspicious grass fires set in the county last month.

The first fire to set off the blaze began accidentally in Callahan County when a pile of burning tires — wept out of control, authorities said.

Major crimes in state increased during 1987

AUSTIN (AP) — The number of major crimes in Texas showed a moderate increase last year, the Department of Public Safety reported today.

DPS Director Col. Leo Gossett said major crimes totaled 1,296,829 last year, an increase of 60,995 or 4.9 percent from 1986.

"However, this rise of 4.9 percent was only a third of the percentage crime increase which occurred in 1986," Gossett said.

All four violent crime categories went down, with the number of murders decreasing by 296 to 1,960 — 13.1 percent, and the number of rapes dropping 540 to 8,068 — 6.3 percent.

Robbery cases fell 6.3 percent to 38,049 and aggravated assault was down 1.9 percent to 57,903.

Thefts were up 7 percent, burglaries by 4.1 percent and motor vehicles thefts by 3.6 percent.

The crime rate increased to 7,724.3 crimes per 100,000 population, compared with 7,408.2 in 1986.

The overall clearance percentage of major crimes in Texas last year was 20 percent, the same as 1986.

Reported arsons were down 5.1 percent, and there were 61,850 drug arrests, a 6.2 percent increase from 1986.

The land is acreage that Mrs. Blackburn and her son, W.H. Blackburn III, have tended since the death of her husband two years ago.

Now that she has saved her cattle, she has to find a way to feed them. Most of her grazeland was lost in the brush fire which was brought under control by hundreds of firefighters, volunteers and National Guardsmen last week after burning for four days.

"You don't feel sorry for yourself. The only way to get it fixed is to get up and go after it," said Mrs. Blackburn, 58.

M&F Plastic Pipe has variety of sizes

M & F Plastic Pipe is your locally owned dealer for polyethylene pipe, sales and rental, with a wide range of sizes and pressure ratings.

Polyethylene pipe is now replacing steel pipe and PVC pipe in many areas. It is much more versatile than PVC and more economical than steel. Its flexibility makes it easier to handle, therefore saving you time and labor. The durability of this pipe has been proven under all kinds of weather conditions and it can be re-spooled and re-laid several times without damage to the pipe.

They have spooling trailers, reel trailers and a spooling truck to handle pipe up to three inches. Pipe that is four inches or larger comes in joints and must be laid by hand. It is "welded" together by using an electric iron that melts each end of the pipe and then it fuses when put together. This eliminates the worry about leaks from bad threads or not being tight enough such as in steel pipe or the hassle of cleaning and gluing as in PVC.

Poly pipe can be used for water lines in homes, stock tanks, water wells, water supply for drilling, transfer lines, gas lines or production flow lines.

They will lay new or used pipe, provide you with valves, fittings, ditching, etc. to suit your needs and will also repair your lines, relocate it or replace it if needed.

M & F Plastic Pipe is owned and operated by Ricky and Teresa Trammell. Please feel free to call them or Darby K. Scott, manager, for prices or information at 573-8612.

Campbell Oil Ltd. has completed the No. 2-33 4JK in the Dover field, 12 miles south of Post. The well produced 114 barrels of 39.8 gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 55-1 with perforations from 8,311-318 feet. Location is in Section 33, Block 1, G. E. Lockhart survey.

Graham Royalty Ltd. will drill the No. 504-T-S North Huntley unit in the Huntley field, 4.5 miles northwest of Post. The re-entry is planned for a depth of 3,315 feet,

Your Birthday

March 22, 1988

In the year ahead your ambitions will be in high gear, and the targets you establish will be lofty. What you want will be attainable, but it might not come easily.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you try to satisfy your personal ambitions at the expense of others today, you could be courting disaster. The only way to succeed is to succeed collectively. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against tendencies today to spend too much time dwelling on the negative aspects of your involvements rather than their positive possibilities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is not a good day to participate in unfamiliar, speculative ventures. It might be difficult to get back what you put in, let alone make a profit.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful today that you do not delegate authority to someone to make an important judgment for you. This person may know less about the situation than you do.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A co-worker with whom you've had disagreements previously might be a thorn in your side again today. If an incident arises, be careful about how you handle it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It appears that everyone but you is out of step today, stop for a few moments of self-examination. Responses you receive could be reflections of your behavior.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Poor judgment on the part of your mate today could create a problem both of you will have to unravel later. Keep a weather-eye on all of his/her moods.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may experience difficulty in getting others to do your bidding today. If so, it could mean your requirements are too demanding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll get yourself in a financial bind if you spend beyond your means today. Keep a tight rein on your purse and your mind on your budget when shopping.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you are rather a self-sufficient person, but today, you might rely too heavily on individuals who don't come through in the clutch.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The ends do not justify the means today where your objectives are concerned. Don't slip beneath your standards and use methods that could embarrass you if they're later exposed.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If there's something your well-heeled friends want to do today that you can't afford, don't be too proud to bow out. They'll understand.

President resigns from jr. college

CORSICANA, Texas (AP) — Controversy surrounding courses for nursing home residents was only one reason Navarro College President Kenneth Walker resigned, the chairman of the school's board of trustees says.

Walker, 52, will become president of Oklahoma City Community College on June 13.

Navarro College and Walker have been under scrutiny since questions arose in August about courses for nursing home residents. The state auditor's office began investigating after relatives said nursing home residents were being recruited for courses to bolster enrollment figures and make the college eligible for more state funds.

Officers of law are targets of violence

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Recent bloody attacks make it clear that a policeman's job is more dangerous than ever, law enforcement officers across Texas say.

In Dallas, three officers were shot to death over a six-week period in January and February, and 21 other officers were injured.

In San Antonio, six officers were wounded by gunfire during a 10-week period from December to February.

In Arlington, a policeman was shot when he stopped to help a woman who he thought was having car trouble. The officer, wearing a bullet-proof vest, suffered only bruises when he was shot by a woman who smiled as she pulled the trigger.

"There's no question people are getting more violent against cops. Maybe with the badge and gun, they should issue a bulls-eye," said San Antonio police Lt. Rudy Vernon.

"It's a risky job," he said.

Police officials, unions, criminologists and patrol officers increasingly are confused by the rising violence and are trying to pinpoint the causes.

"It's a very tough burden on all the officers here," said Carole Eberhart of the chief's office at the Dallas Police Department. "They grieve for their fellow policemen who died. Then they go right back to work out on the streets."

Overcrowded prisons, lax paroles, a failing economy, rising crime rates, increased drug trafficking and a general decline in the country's moral fiber all are cited as causes.

"There's a lot of anger and fear," said Michael McMains, a San Antonio Police Department psychologist. "Recently, I've heard many more officers say they will be much more careful and a lot more suspicious on the street."

Doug Moore, a former officer now teaching criminal justice at Sam Houston State, said being a police officer today is much more difficult than it used to be.

"A lot of young officers are dropping out, not because of the boredom or even because of the danger, but from the realization that the people out there hate them," he said.

Question: did Meese profit?

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 10 months, one of the many unanswered questions in the criminal investigation of Attorney General Edwin Meese III is whether he benefited financially from his efforts on behalf of an Iraqi oil pipeline project or scandal-plagued Wedtech Corp., sources familiar with the probe say.

Last May 11, independent counsel James McKay launched his inquiry of Meese's assistance to Wedtech and the probe has spread to the attorney general's involvement with the pipeline.

In both instances, McKay's investigators have been examining stock trades made on Meese's behalf by his investment manager, W. Franklyn Chinn. Chinn and Meese were brought together by Meese's longtime friend E. Robert Wallach, a central figure in both the Wedtech scandal and the pipeline project.

It was disclosed earlier this month that:

— In connection with the $1 billion proposed pipeline, Swiss oilman Bruce Rappaport paid $150,000 to his attorney Wallach, who directed the funds to an account owned by Chinn.

Totally lost despite map

In bridge, opportunities can be lost when problems remain unsolved. In today's deal, the North-South bidding gave East a road map that he failed to read.

After North had supported spades, South had values to make a game try, so he bid his second suit. From North's point of view, game was on, but just in case South was cue-bidding with the thought of slam, he showed his club king. East came to life with an ill-advised double. South passed, content to play four clubs doubled if North had support, but North was a little nervous about the meaning of South's pass, so he returned to four spades.

Against four spades, West led the queen of hearts. East overtook with the king and returned the jack of diamonds. Declarer won the ace, played three rounds of spades ending in his hand, and led a low club toward dummy's king. West showed out as East won the ace. East played a diamond to dummy's king, and declarer led a club from dummy, setting up the clubs when East split his honors. And that was it for the defense — a heart and two clubs, and declarer took the rest.

The lost opportunity came at trick two. East should know that West failed to lead a club only because he had none. So, after taking the king of hearts, he should return a low club. West will ruff, and eventually East will get his two club tricks with his A-J-10, enough to set the contract.

FILMETER

What's new in movies and video
 Robert DiMatteo

In Movie Theaters

SWITCHING CHANNELS (PG)
 This remake of "His Girl Friday" — the Rosalind Russell/Cary Grant screwball comedy that was itself a remake of the great newspaper comedy "The Front Page" — has the thankless task of attempting to measure up to a classic. The better one knows "Friday," the more disappointed one is likely to be by this picture, which updates the story to the era of TV journalism. It's harmless and moderately enjoyable, though.

Kathleen Turner stars as an ace Chicago anchorwoman who decides to ditch her high-pressure job working for a slave driver of an ex-husband (Burt Reynolds); she's all too happy to leap into the arms of a fatuous-but good-looking millionaire (Christopher Reeve). Reynolds and Turner have one of those can't-live-apart/can't-live-together relationships that are almost the romantic ideal of Hollywood comedies, so it's only a matter of time before he tricks her into postponing her wedding — ostensibly to finish reporting one last sensational case.

Reynolds is livelier here than he's been in years, and Reeve — mocking his pretty-boy image — is surprisingly funny. The game supporting cast includes Henry Gibson as a Houdini-aping convict slated for the electric chair, and, in a few inspired moments, Ned Beatty plays a corrupt gubernatorial candidate with a ravenous appetite. Some of the slapstick and machine-gun-fire repartee is heavy-handed — one sign that the movie lacks a sure, unifying comic rhythm and tone. A lot of this film just gets by, but it does get by. GRADE: ★★½

THE UNBEARABLE LIGHTNESS OF BEING (R) This three-hour amateur epic by the risk-taking director Philip Kaufman ("The Right Stuff") intertwines love, sex and politics. Its source material is Milan Kundera's playfully obsessive novel about Tomas, a womanizing Czech brain surgeon who is torn between the dualities of commitment and freedom, love and sex, marriage and polygamy.

The setting is late-'60s Prague, the period when Czech society blossomed in open defiance of Soviet influence only to endure the repressive measures brought on by the subsequent Soviet invasion. All the while, Tomas' dichotomous nature is embodied by two women — his faithful photographer wife Tereza (Juliette Binoche) and his free-spirited painter mistress Sabina (Lena Olin).

The book's triangular romance is filtered through Kundera's savorily intellectual digressions — Nietzsche's idea of eternal return, an analysis of kitsch and so on. The movie, scripted by Jean-Claude Carriere and Kaufman, takes a necessarily more linear approach, and, by casting Daniel Day-Lewis ("My Beautiful Laundrette") as Tomas, it centers on a more boyish Casanova. Happily, the film achieves its own independent life, becoming as delicately thoughtful and poetic as an American movie as we've had in a long time.

The trio of lead performances is a quiet marvel. Day-Lewis makes Tomas bright-eyed and avid. As Sabina, Lena Olin is a ravishingly saucy femme fatale in a black bowler hat; in contrast, Juliette Binoche's Tereza is a lovely gamine with doelike pathos.

In one great erotic sequence, these two women photograph each other naked in Sabina's studio, amidst cascading crosscurrents of feeling. Here, and throughout, Kaufman and his team keep us suspended between teasing sensuality and dreamy melancholy. To paraphrase a line in Kundera's book: The film's form is sadness, its content happiness. GRADE: ★★½

New Home Video

THE PRINCESS BRIDE (PG) Nelson, $89.98. Rob Reiner's full-length fractured fairy tale is like the Brothers Grimm as told by a Borscht Belt comic. It's very pleasant, with some canny casting: Chris Sarandon as a dashing arrogant evil prince, Mandy Patinkin as a Spanish swordsman, Wallace Shawn as a dastardly kidnapper, and Billy Crystal as a wizened Yiddish miracle man. But it's also very mild: Some of us think the film could have used a little more bite and zest. GRADE: ★★½

Police 'brokers' cash in DALLAS (AP) — About a half-dozen officers in the Dallas police department supervise a system in which most of the city's off-duty security jobs are assigned to their colleagues. The Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story.

Assistant Police Chief Charles Busby, the department's fourth highest ranking officer, is one of at least two officers who set the standards for hiring security guards at private and public functions for which they broker jobs, the newspaper reported Sunday.

They also distribute the jobs, pick the officers to work, handle the payroll and accept the administrative fees.

A survey of police departments in the nation's 10 largest cities shows that Dallas has the least restrictive off-duty policy, the newspaper said.

Unlike other metropolitan police departments, Dallas does not have any safeguards against patronage and conflicts of interest, the News said.

The policy has allowed an unaudited, mostly cash-only system to flourish without the internal oversight required by policies of 10 other large cities.

An estimated 70 percent of Dallas' 2,400 police officers work off-duty jobs, with many saying they moonlight because they need the extra money.

Busby created Authentic Security Services in 1985 to help with billing for the off-duty jobs he oversees.

The Board of Private Investigators and Private Security Agencies is examining Busby for operating an unlicensed private security agency. The investigation began in January, a board spokesman said, after a private security firm in Dallas complained.

Busby contends he is exempt from state licensing requirements because he is not an employer.

"There's no ad in the Yellow Pages that says if you want an off-duty officer, call such-and-such," Busby said.

Prison guards largest target in Philly corruption probe

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Corruption is so widespread here that crooked guards may be watching crooks who may have been arrested by crooked cops, defended by crooked lawyers or sentenced by crooked judges, longtime observers say.

"The only thing in the last 10 years that hasn't been crooked is both the DA's and the U.S. attorney's office," former District Attorney Edward Rendell said.

Various investigations in the nation's fifth-largest city, where the Constitution was written 201 years ago, have resulted in convictions or charges against judges, police, defense lawyers and prison guards, the latest target of prosecutors.

The wave of corruption has hit City Hall, itself.

A federal jury last year convicted Councilman Leland Beloff and an aide of conspiring with reputed area mob boss Nicodemus "Little Nicky" Scarfo to extort $1 million from a developer.

Last week, District Attorney

Ronald Castille announced that the arrests of seven prison guards and a cook in an escape and an inmate's beating were part of "Operation Ferret," an investigation expected to yield more than 100 arrests among the city's approximately 1,400 prison guards.

Also last week, a federal judge ordered former Common Pleas Judge Kenneth Harris to begin serving a 12-year sentence for extorting bribes to fix cases. Harris, 67, is one of three former city judges who have been convicted and one of 16 who have been named in various investigations.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court in February ordered eight judges to be removed from the bench.

She died Saturday in Amarillo. She was born in Mountain Home, Ark. and had been a member of the Union United Methodist Church when she lived in Scurry County.

Enrique Castillo

COLORADO CITY—Services for Enrique Castillo, 84, of Colorado City will be at 3 p.m. Monday at First Baptist Church with the Rev. Paul Vasquez officiating. Burial will be in Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker-Seale Funeral Home.

He died Friday at a local hospital. Born in Bastrop, he moved to Colorado City in 1947. He was a retired farmer and a member of Emmanuel Baptist Church. Survivors include his wife, Adela Castillo of Colorado City; five daughters, Luz Gomez of Kansas, Mrs. Frank Davila and Mrs. Ennos Garcia, both of Odessa and Delfina Castillo and Sennida Pineda, both of Colorado City; four sons, Tony of Big Spring and Tom, Ernest and Henry, all of Colorado City; a sister, Maria Garza of Kansas; three brothers, Thomas of Colorado City, Bill of Brownfield and Jim of Wisconsin; 50 grandchildren; 35 great-grandchildren; and a great-great-grandson.

Bilingual school in need of funds

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-nine years ago, a Russian clergyman started a unique bilingual secondary school with unlimited funds on deposit at the "bank of faith and hope." Actually, it had $23. Today, St. Sergius High School has about $150,000 less than it needs to keep going and the Rev. Archimandrite Anthony Grabbe, its founder, says it might have to close this week unless it raises the money.

Reagan favors new Contra aid plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is indicating support for a new congressional plan to send military aid to the Contra rebels, but congressional leaders say its survival depends on this week's peace talks in Nicaragua.

"It should go forward," said Secretary of State George Shultz, offering the administration's first comment on the proposal by a group of senators.

Shultz, commenting Sunday on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," said the package was "a little low on money" but under study by the administration.

The $48 million plan, which would permit the delivery of as much as $2.5 million of previously authorized arms and ammunition, was proposed Friday by a bipartisan group of senators in the wake of President Reagan's decision to airlift more than 3,100 U.S. troops to Honduras.

Reagan dispatched the troops Wednesday after Nicaragua's leftist government mounted an offensive against Contra rebels along the Honduran border.

Administration officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Reagan could express support for the new aid plan, perhaps as soon as today. "It's his last-ditch effort," said one aide.

"It seems like this is the administration's bill," added another administration official. "We're encouraged, because there's many points in it we like."

But some in Congress say the administration, if it chooses to back a new Contra aid request, must confront doubts about the seriousness of the border clash and perhaps even a backlash in Congress prompted by the sudden airlift of troops.

"There is... a very serious lack of full trust here, which goes back many years," said House Majority Leader Thomas Foley, appearing on CNN's "Newsmaker Sunday."

Reagan's national security adviser, Lt. Gen. Colin Powell, denied Sunday that he had misled Congress when he briefed lawmakers Wednesday. He acknowledged, however, that he had failed to mention Reagan's decision in principle to send troops to Honduras if President Jose Azcona requested them.

"We did not go into the specific options because we did not want it all over the newspapers," Powell said during an appearance on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley."

The national security adviser said the fighting on the Nicaraguan-Honduran border was "pretty much over" and offered assurances that it was unlikely U.S. troops would become involved.

Teens on break creating havoc

PORT ARANSAS, Texas (AP) — High school students pose the greatest menace at spring break time, said officials still reeling from a wild weekend that included a riot, four stabbings and the deaths of two young men whose car plunged off a ferry dock.

"That's our worst time, when the San Antonio high school students are here," City Manager Gordon Beck said Sunday.

Beaches were once again packed with partying teen-agers early today.

"I think things are back to normal for a spring break, which is in no way normal," Beck said.

Authorities said mainly high school students appeared to be involved in a three-hour riot that was subdued by tear gas and helicopters early Sunday. At least one person was charged with inciting a riot, authorities said.

The disturbance began when a motorist struck a 16-year-old girl on the beach and then attempted to leave, said Police Chief Don Perkins. Angry youths began to attack the driver, but he was pulled away by police.

The youths then tipped over the man's car and torched it, Perkins said.

"They stomped the car, broke all the glass out of it and flipped it over," said Tom Frazier, 22, a student at the University of Texas.

Conventions held locally

The Republicans will gather in Houston June 9-11, to be followed by the Democrats June 17-18. From Scurry County, Democratic delegates chosen to go will include Evelyn J. Malone, Elizabeth Jenkins, Flora Gladson, Hassie Sneed and Gene Bowlin, who will serve as chairman of the delegation.

Alternates named were Shaun Terrell, Vernest Tippens, Willard Gladson, Betty Sneed and Nancy Bowlin.

The Republican delegation will include Rod Waller, Annette Waller, Barbara McCormick, Homer Godair, Shirley Jones, Bill Jones, Donnie Burk, Mary Strelecki, Stan Paregien, Sally Walton and Jeanne Bullard.

Those named as alternates include Kristen Walton, Sally Jordan, Eddie Don Floyd, Terry Martin, Martha Martin, Loy McSpadden, Bernhard Bartels, Lois Bartels, Nona Morrison, J.O. Morrison and Doug Flynn.

as. More than 100 police officers worked to control the crowd, aided by tear gas and hovering Coast Guard helicopters with searchlights. The disturbance began at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday night, authorities said.

The 16-year-old girl was treated for minor injuries at a local hospital while the driver, John Montanes, 26, of San Antonio, was charged with failure to stop and render aid and was in Nueces County Jail Sunday night in lieu of $500 bond.

Two law enforcement officers were injured and eight people were arrested as a result of the midnight melee, police said.

Authorities reported at least four people were stabbed in unrelated incidents and a car containing the bodies of two young men was fished from Corpus Christi Channel. The car crashed through a barrier and sank in water 20 to 25 feet deep, said Coast Guard spokesman Anthony E. Lloyd in Corpus Christi.

An investigator for the Nueces County Medical Examiner who did not wish to give his name identified the victims as Augustin R. Marmolejo, 19, and Merced Gutierrez, 26, both from San Antonio.

The investigator said examiners had not determined a cause of death for the men, pending autopsies still to be performed.

At least one teen-ager was sobered by the weekend's events. "Some bad stuff has really happened," said high school senior Chris Stevens, who decided to cut his vacation short and head back home to San Antonio. "You can get into a lot of trouble here."

Bids rejected by county court

Continued From Page 1 Other bids were $11,382 from El Paso Chair Co.; $11,544 from Adirondack wholesale company in New York City; and $11,742 from Bennett Office Supply of Snyder for the 600 chairs and 70 six- and eight-foot tables.

Firemen battle rural grass fire

A controlled "burn" got out of control Saturday morning off Old China Grove Rd. 10 miles southeast of Snyder and kept firemen busy for two hours with the grass fire that resulted.

The call came in at 11:25 a.m. to property owned by Weldon Perry, although Perry was not present when the fire started, firemen said.

Are some banks too big to fail?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emergency action by federal regulators to stabilize two big banking companies hit by deposit runs is sure to revive charges of a double standard for dealing with ailing financial institutions.

While small banks are closing at a rate unseen since the Great Depression, the government, in effect, has declared large banks too big to fail, the critics say.

The best known example of the "Too-Big-To-Fail Syndrome" is Continental Illinois Corp., which in 1984 required $4.5 billion in the largest-ever government bailout.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., the agency that insures deposits in commercial banks, hopes to recover all but $1.7 billion of that by selling its stake in Continental. But nearly four years after the bailout, the FDIC is still the major stockholder in the bank.

AP analysis

Two government moves last week to prop up institutions nearly identical in size to Continental are renewing concerns.

The FDIC on Thursday pumped $1 billion into First RepublicBank Corp. of Dallas, which has lost nearly $2 billion in deposits since the start of the year. With $33.2 billion in assets, it is the nation's 13th largest commercial bank holding company.

The agency also promised to protect all depositors and general creditors of the company's 73 subsidiary banks.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates savings institutions, made a similar pledge on Friday regarding the $33.7 billion Financial Corp. of America, owner of the Stockton, Calif.-based American Savings & Loan Association.

The second largest thrift holding company in the country, FCA had lost $493 million in deposits in January and February. Its request for $1.5 billion in assistance is under review.

The eventual price tag of solving the problems at First RepublicBank and FCA isn't known for certain, but analysts believe the bailouts ultimately could rival, and possibly even surpass, the Continental Illinois rescue.

The promises made by the FDIC and bank board go beyond the agencies' normal practice. Usually, deposit accounts are protected only to $100,000, and creditors are not protected at all.

When smaller banks fail, as 184 did last year, the FDIC pays off depositors up to the insurance limit or arranges for the accounts to be transferred to a solvent institution.

Big banks, with their extensive ties to other banks, present a more complicated problem. The failure of a large institution could cause a chain reaction of insolvencies at smaller banks and end up costing the FDIC more than the amount needed to keep the big bank operating.

Using government aid to entice private investors to take over an ailing institution also is often cheaper than a straight payoff of depositors.

That logic doesn't make it any easier for executives who watch their small banks go under while their colleagues at large institutions stay in business.

Beyond the big bank-small bank double standard, there is what some regard as a dual standard in dealing with large regional banks like First RepublicBank and the even bigger money center banks deeply involved with shaky loans to Third World countries.

Paul Getman, a financial economist with The Wefa Group, a Philadelphia consulting firm, said bankers at the large regional institutions, whose loans are in real estate and energy, believe regulators are much more reluctant to force money center banks to write down the value of overseas loans.

"Texas bankers feel... the FDIC is not clamping down as hard on New York City banks because the nature of their bad loans is such that they can get away with saying they're worth 50-cents on the dollar, for example," Getman said.

"There's a lot of political play (in how loans to Third World countries are valued), whereas everyone knows that loans on Texas real estate are worth 15 cents on the dollar," he said.

Rep. Ferdinand G. St Germain, D-R.I., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said he plans hearings this spring on the criteria used to decide "who survives and who fails among the troubled institutions."

St Germain has voiced concern in the past about "sweet fail-safe deals for private investors."

FDIC Chairman L. William Seidman, however, has pointed out that government bank rescues bail out depositors, usually not stockholders, corporate debt holders or management.

Bert Ely, a private financial institutions analyst in Alexandria, Va., defended bailouts as saving money for the insurance funds, which are funded by premiums paid by banks and savings and loans and ultimately backed by the taxpayer.

Ely argued that regulators ought to make bailouts far sooner than they usually do.

"The important thing is that they end the tragedy... Every hour that goes by increases banks' losses and the losses (to the insurance funds). It is so critical to get that assistance in there and stop the bleeding right away," he said.

Weekend arrests are varied here

A 28-year-old man was arrested for disorderly conduct at 1:21 p.m. Saturday after two officers answered a disturbance call in the 1000 Block of 27th St.

They had received a report of a man and woman fighting.

A 15-year-old boy was arrested for Class C theft, with a value of under $20, at 2:48 p.m. Saturday at a College Ave. store. He was charged with stealing fishing line and turned over to a juvenile officer.

Another 15-year-old boy was taken into custody as a recent escapee from a state juvenile detention center in Amarillo at 4:17 p.m. Saturday at a home in the 200 Block of 33rd St.

A 24-year-old man was arrested for public intoxication at 10:43 p.m. Saturday in the 1200 Block of 26th St., and two 29-year-old men were arrested, one for DWI and driving with his license suspended and the other for public intoxication, at 2:05 a.m. Sunday in the 2400 Block of Ave. E.

Dukakis happy with nomination

NEW YORK (AP) — While Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis campaigns for the presidency, another Dukakis is quietly in the running for her own version of the American Dream.

Olympia Dukakis, the governor's first cousin, says she "jumped up and down 50 times, like a child," when she learned she had been nominated for an Oscar as best supporting actress for her performance as Cher's mother in the hit comedy "Moonstruck."

The Greek-American actress, probably best known for her "Aunt Millie" spaghetti commercial, says she thinks it's good luck that her cousin won the New Hampshire Democratic primary in the same week she received her nomination.

"There's something going on, up in the stars," she says in this week's People magazine.

In 1986, Latin America increased its borrowings over the previous year by $11 billion. Such borrowing accounted for 72 percent of external financing inflows. At the end of 1986, the debt of the region stood at $388 billion, according to the Inter-American Development Bank.

Landers talks to counselors

CHICAGO (AP) — Newspaper columnist Ann Landers followed her own advice and talked to counselors — 5,000 of them at once.

Landers, a Chicago Tribune advice columnist whose words are carried in thousands of papers nationwide, gave the opening speech Sunday at the convention of the American Association for Counseling and Development.

"I could talk to you tonight on one of three subjects," said Miss Landers, whose real name is Eppie Lederer. "I could talk about problems, I could talk about the wonderful people in counseling or I could talk about sex."

"Because this is such a good audience, I'm going to combine all three and talk about the sex problems of the wonderful people who do counseling," she said as the audience erupted in laughter.

McDonald's recruits

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — McDonald's is recruiting in a working-class area for employees at a restaurant in this affluent community 70 miles to the north.

Radio commercials last week urged bilingual job-seekers to apply for the openings here at a Hialeah McDonald's. Workers would be bused to and from Palm Beach County, with the travel time counted as work hours.

"It's just an extension of our age-old tradition of always trying new, creative ways to staff our stores," said Les Lucas, McDonald's regional personnel manager.

Sudden change upsets digestion

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband and I are vegetarians for moral reasons. We are careful about our nutritional requirements. I have a 3-year-old son from a previous marriage. He is with us four weeks, then with his father one week. Perhaps out of spite, my ex-husband pumps him full of hamburgers, hot dogs, white sugar and no vegetables during the boy's visit. While I'm not concerned about my son eating meat (he can make that decision on his own when he's older), he does have problems being unable to move his bowels for days after returning home.

My "ex" will not listen to me at all. Perhaps if you explain medically the trauma my son's digestive tract goes through every five weeks, he will try and help his son by at least giving him fruits and vegetables.

DEAR READER: Vegetarianism is more a question of preference than of medical necessity. Clearly, Americans eat too much red meat and saturated fat. We would probably be a healthier nation if we ate more vegetables and grain. However, a strictly vegetarian diet is not necessary for good health.

Most people adapt to their diets. Bowel problems, such as diarrhea and constipation, can appear when diets are suddenly changed without the body being given an opportunity to adjust. Evidently, this is what is happening to your son when he is repeatedly changed from a high-fiber diet to low-fiber foods.

Since children are often misused as pawns in divorce situations (and sometimes long after), you probably won't get anywhere trying to convince your ex-husband of the pure health (or moral) benefits of vegetarianism. However, I think that he might respond to the observation that your son is physically uncomfortable when his digestive tract is denied the roughage to which it is accustomed. I think that any reasonable adult would want his child to eat a balanced diet, including vegetables and fruit. Try a reasoned approach based on the fact that your son is having difficulty assimilating divergent diets.

If your ex-husband truly refuses to listen to you, perhaps he would be willing to sit down with the boy's pediatrician and discuss the child's nutritional needs. You might also consider sending along a bag of fresh fruit with your son when he goes to visit.

Al Pacino gets Marc Antony role

NEW YORK (AP) — Et tu, Al? That's right, Al Pacino, like his predecessor Marlon Brando, is bringing an urban accent and street-wise ways to the patrician role of Marc Antony in a production of "Julius Caesar" this week.

"Casting Brando was a great idea because Brando is a great actor — and so is Al," the producer, Joseph Papp, said in an interview published Sunday in The New York Times.

When the film version of "Julius Caesar" was made in 1953, Brando was best known as the brutal Stanley Kowalski in "A Streetcar Named Desire." Nevertheless, he won favorable reviews for his portrayal of the highbrow Antony.

"The image, the idea that Brando had done it, was an encouragement to me to think that I could do it too," said Pacino, who grew up in the South Bronx. But he insisted, "I have taken my own route."

Also starring in the production, which opens Tuesday as part of Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival, are Martin Sheen as Brutus, Edward Herrmann as Cassius and John McMartin as Julius Caesar.

Florida Baptist administrator gets arrested

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Members of the Florida Baptist General Convention are in an "uproar" over the drug arrest of their executive director.

The Rev. John Taylor, 25, was one of 139 people arrested Thursday in Operation Crackdown III by the Broward Sheriff's Department, deputies said. He was charged with trying to buy crack cocaine from an undercover officer, police said.

Dr. Henry J. Lyons, a minister and president of the St. Petersburg-based group, said Taylor has been suspended without pay. That leaves vacant the convention's top administrative post two weeks before the 500,000-member organization convenes its annual meeting.

Dole gives reasons for staying in race

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Leaning back in his chair at a hotel suite as he waited for his next campaign appearance, Sen. Bob Dole reflected on his reasons for remaining in the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

While some have begun to speak of concerns about splitting the GOP, Dole spoke Sunday about responsibility and confidence.

"It's about the best thing that could happen to the party," Dole said of his decision to stay in the race even though he has not won a primary since he captured the GOP caucuses in Iowa.

"It's the responsible thing to do. We've had a dozen Republicans either look at this or formerly run as candidates. Now we're down to two and we can get down to business."

Although some have speculated that a loss in the Wisconsin primary April 5 may force him out of the race, Dole said he thought his campaign work was only starting and a loss did not necessarily mean he would drop out.

"It's the first day of spring, and we still haven't debated the issues," he said. "We've had little press conferences that they called debates ... but now we have a real chance to debate George Bush."

Dole had challenged Bush to a debate before the Illinois primary, but Bush refused. Dole said he will try to arrange a debate before the Wisconsin primary — perhaps in Wisconsin itself.

"We'll talk about any subject. He'll pick two and I'll pick two — no notes, no moderator, just an hour or hour-and-a-half debate."

Dole kicked off a three-day campaign swing through Wisconsin just hours after receiving news of a Milwaukee Journal poll that showed him trailing Bush nearly 3-to-1 among Wisconsin voters likely to vote in the primary.

He said the poll was probably inaccurate but admitted "I've got a lot of hill to climb."

"It's not surprising, but I don't think its accurate," he said. "It was taken right after Illinois with Super Tuesday still hanging over my head. My view is that you give voters a couple of weeks."

Dole was trounced by Bush on Super Tuesday and then lost again in Illinois. "We've been hearing the end is near, but people forget George Bush stayed in eight weeks after he began losing to Ronald Reagan. Eight weeks was enough for him to lose," he said in reference to the 1980 GOP race.
