Iranians now refueling hijacked jet

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iranian workmen began refueling a Kuwaiti jetliner today after hijackers holding 50 hostages fired five shots at police and threatened to take off with near-empty tanks, the Iranian news agency said.

The gunmen earlier threatened to blow up the plane and demanded that the runway at Mashhad airport in northeastern Iran be cleared, the Islamic Republic News Agency reported. IRNA said that the taxiway had been closed "to prevent the plane from flying."

Iranian officials agreed to refuel the Kuwait Airways Boeing 747 after the hijackers threatened to take off anyway, plane, IRNA said. The agency was monitored in Nicosia.

"Disciplinary and relief forces are on full alert while the situation is presently out of control and anything may happen at any moment," it said, adding that an Iranian delegation in contact with the hijackers was advising them to "keep cool."

The shooting erupted after the hijackers demanded that the plane be refueled and allowed to take off for an undisclosed destination, IRNA said. Iran had refused.

The agency did not mention any casualties in the gunfire.

Earlier, IRNA reported that Iranian officials have announced they would supply the hijackers with food and fuel provided that the passengers and crew members be released.

But the refueling went ahead without any release being reported.

A member of the Kuwait royal family held on the plane appealed to Iranian authorities to provide the plane with fuel to take off.

The hijackers have demanded that Kuwait free 17 convicted pro-Iranian extremists.

"We're very tired and our brothers (the hijackers) are very serious in their threat to blow up the plane," Fadel Khaled Al-

Sabah told the control tower by radio, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency reported.

The hijackers followed the Kuwaiti's appeal with their own, saying they would carry out their earlier threats to blow up the Boeing 747 if their demand for fuel was rejected.

The Iranian agency, monitored in Nicosia, said officials at Mashhad Airport in northeast Iran "urged the hijackers to give up their threats."

Cancer drive due organization meet

Volunteers for the annual residential education and fund-raising crusade of the American Cancer Society will have an organizational meeting from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday in the community room of Snyder National Bank.

Scurry County residential campaign chairman Lavada Cates said crusade packets will be distributed and that "all walkers are urged to attend."

The group tries to increase community awareness of the drive at its outset because the walkers are better received if people know they are coming, Cates said.

The theme of this year's drive is mammography and the high success rate of the test and related treatment.

"Mammography, a low-dose X-ray of the breast, may often detect a tumor before it becomes large enough to be felt, even before the woman or her doctor know it's there," Cates said.

The residential fund-raising goal for this year is $7,500, a 9 percent increase over 1987.

Cates said 40 percent of the money raised here will be used for work in Scurry County with 20 percent going for statewide programs and the rest for national programs and research.

Service and rehabilitation chairman Sandra Galyean, a registered nurse, said $11,272 in services was provided for 27 patients in Scurry County from August 1986 to August 1987, including "Reach to Recovery" programs for persons who have undergone mastectomies, esophageal speech lessons for laryngectomies, ostomy rehabilitation and the loaning of hospital beds, wheelchairs, commode chairs and walkers.

Galyean said expendable items such as dressings, hospital gowns, bed pads and pillows were also provided.

The campaign here will be from Saturday through Saturday, April 16.

Play schedule told for 'area' one-acts

The third step is due Friday in what supporters hope will be the 20th appearance of a Snyder acting troupe at the state UIL one-act play contest in Austin.

Beginning at noon, Snyder High School will host the area competition between schools from its own District 2-AAAA and District 1-AAAA.

The two entries from District 2-AAAA, Snyder and Andrews, will compete against the two winners from District 1-AAAA, Borger and Levelland. The district competitions for both were held March 28 and zone contests were held March 22.

Snyder's entry this year is "The Corn is Green," the story of a Welsh school teacher in the early 1900s who sets up a school to serve the children of the Welsh minefields.

It is the third scheduled play Friday in Worsham Auditorium. The estimated time schedule for plays at the area meet includes:

- Noon, Borger High School performing "Picnic."
- 1 p.m., Andrews High School performing "Tom Jones."
- 2 p.m., Snyder High School performing "The Corn is Green." —3 p.m., Levelland High School performing "The Rimers of Eldritch."

Two schools will advance from area to regional competition April 23 and, from there, eight schools will be chosen from the four regions of Texas for the state contest in Austin the weekend of May 7.

Snyder High School has made the trip previously 19 times since 1967.

Judge Friday will be Lou Lindsey, chairman of the drama department at Bee County College in Beeville.

After the first play begins at noon Friday, all subsequent plays will start at approximate one hour intervals.

The schedule of plays Friday will begin earlier than normal to accommodate night rehearsals for a Class AAAAA one-act play competition scheduled Saturday in Worsham Auditorium.

That contest will begin at 1 p.m. and will see performances by San Angelo Central, Sherman High School, Lubbock Monterey, Midland Lee, Amarillo High School and Keller High School.

Cogdell to consider bill charges

The noon bill paying session for the Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers Friday will include a proposal to eliminate finance charges on hospital bills classified as past due as well as five equipment purchase requests.

The finance charge proposal will be brought by Administrator

Tom Hochwalt, who noted that the hospital currently receives only a small percentage of these charges and that this amount is offset by the bookkeeping as well as good will problems the charge creates.

The interest rate is assessed when bills are more than 90 days past due.

Regarding "capital equipment requests," Hochwalt will present to the board proposals to acquire a "Chic" brand orthopedic fracture table; a Dynamap blood pressure monitor for the critical care unit and the emergency room; electronic thermometers; a backup switchboard; and a

Rural business again experiences break-in

The sheriff's office is investigating a burglary discovered Wednesday at BLJ Salt Water Depot in which a toolbox, a large amount of frozen food and other items were stolen.

Deputies were already investigating a March 28 burglary at the same office-storage building at the company six miles southwest of Snyder.

Tommy Huddleston reported Wednesday morning that a hasp had again been forced off the office door to gain entry.

In the first burglary, fishing tackle and tools were found missing.

Added to this list Wednesday was a red, six-drawer toolbox full of assorted tools, frozen Country Pride food and meats, a Sears 10-amp battery charger and a Q-beam spotlight.

Investigators said Huddleston had put up a sign offering a reward for the arrest of the burglars from the first incident and that the perpetrators of the second burglary had written "Horse" on it. Investigators said they had no explanation for the single word notation.

In another incident being investigated by the sheriff's office, the north office of Chevron USA reported that an Atlas radial tire and wheel were stolen from the bed of a 1983 Chevrolet pickup truck parked in the office yard.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "One good thing about being lazy—you don't get tired."

What this district needs is a bald congressman. Instead of running off to Europe to "wine and dine" on an agricultural trade mission—a bald congressman would be up to more hair-raising missions.

The 17th district congressman is one of several U.S. officials attending a World Food Conference in Belgium. A side trip is to Vin Italy, a top international wine show.

We suspect it wouldn't cost much more to load up all the marble tops in the area and ship 'em to China to sample that new miracle hair tonic.

Already, Japanese tourists are paying up to $3,000 to see the Great Wall, eat Peking duck and to grow hair. A bald public servant, especially one up for re-election, would have already suggested such a hair-finding tour for his constituents.

The treatment is said to contain a mysterious, magical hair-restoring tonic made from a secret recipe of about 30 medicinal herbs.

A second Japanese delegation has already taken the baldness "cure" on a tour package basis that includes treatment at the Jinsong hospital in eastern Beijing.

The first 20 are reported to already started to grow hair from the tonic which is said to be the result of more than 10 years of private research.

According to China's official news agency, more than 100,000 Chinese have been treated since production began a year ago. The success rate is said to be in excess of 97 percent.

Like in many trade endeavors, the Japanese are getting a head start on hair growth while we worry about the wine market in Europe.

Q. — Has anyone estimated yet what percentage Scurry County's oil production will decrease for next tax year?

A. — There has been no official word, but a "best guess" estimate at present is 15 percent. For the past two years, production has declined some 20 percent each year. Regarding tax value, a slight decrease in the estimated price per barrel of oil is expected next tax year also, according to appraisal district officials.

In Brief

Banks-aid

DALLAS (AP) — Two more Texas banks suffering financial losses from poor real estate loans are seeking help from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., according to a published report.

Industry sources told the Dallas Times Herald in today's editions the banks are Texas American Bancshares of Fort Worth and the San Antonio-based National Bancshares Corp. of Texas. They are reported to have $515 million and $258.2 million in problem assets, respectively.

Sedition trial

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Jurors reached a verdict on a charge that white supremacists conspired to kill a federal judge and an FBI agent, but were rebuffed by the judge when they said they were deadlocked on two other charges.

With deliberations set to continue for a fourth day today, the jury was still undecided on a count of seditious conspiracy brought against nine of the 13 defendants and a count of transporting stolen money faced by two defendants.

Teacher, students tell different tales

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Lou Ann Hogan describes herself as a good high school English teacher who got along well with her students, but school administrators say she may have gotten along too well with one of them.

Mrs. Hogan, 24, is fighting for her job after four male students told school administrators they saw her having sex with Chad Cadenhead, a 17-year-old emotionally troubled teen-ager who committed suicide a month after the alleged sex acts took place.

The case has drawn a great deal of local coverage and attracted national attention after Mrs. Hogan was fired from Clark High School on charges of "immorality" and her contract for the next school year was not renewed.

Mrs. Hogan, who has filed a $400,000 lawsuit against the teenagers, claiming defamation of character, said they are trying to find an answer to the teen-ager's death.

The students claim they don't want to hurt anyone, but simply are compelled to tell the truth.

It's a stalemate so far, but both sides convincingly claim they are telling the truth and want the civil case tried quickly to settle the issue.

"I'm mad, but what do I do?" Mrs. Hogan said. "It will come out that they are not good boys. I just want to stare them in the face. I want to see how they would react."

When that time comes, Taylor Sommer, Scott Autry, Jeff Beckel and Hector Torres, who are named in her suit, said they will tell the truth, that on the nights of Dec. 5 and Dec. 11, they saw Mrs. Hogan and Cadenhead engaged in sex.

Sommer, 16, and Autry and Beckel, both 17, are students at Clark High School and Torres, 19, a former Clark student, now attends the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Rumors about who's telling the truth and who's lying are abundant at Clark High School and throughout the North Side Independent School District.

"We're getting made to look like the bad guys for the telling the truth," Sommer said in an interview. "I'm not mad. It's tough, but I'm telling the truth, so I'm not worried."

The twisted tale began in November when Cadenhead told friends he was having a sexual relationship with Mrs. Hogan, a second-year teacher whose youth allowed her to relate to students.

Sommer, Autry and Beckel did not believe Cadenhead, who according to an autopsy report was an emotional teen-ager with suicidal tendencies who had undergone psychological counseling.

Cadenhead told friends that he would set it up so they could watch the teen-agers said.

On Saturday, Dec. 5, 1987, Sommer, Beckel and Torres said they went to Cadenhead's house, peeked through a bedroom window and saw Cadenhead and Mrs. Hogan engaged in sex. On Dec. 11, Autry and Beckel said they were spending a night at Cadenhead's home when Mrs. Hogan called and said she was coming over.

Autry and Beckel said they slipped out of the house and stood near Cadenhead's bedroom window. They said Mrs. Hogan arrived, went to Cadenhead's room and she and Cadenhead again had sex.

But Mrs. Hogan said the charges are ludicrous. She and her husband, Mike, said they were together on the nights the alleged acts took place.

Dear Abby

Son Disowned by Parents Owes Them Nothing Now

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "My Turn in Minnesota." His parents disowned him six years ago when he was 19. (He got his 20-year-old girlfriend pregnant, and when he told his folks, they put his belongings on the front lawn and said, "You are no longer our son, and you are no longer welcome in our home!") The son had a job and never asked for money — only their love and moral support.

He married the girl, and did very well for himself, then he received a letter from his father saying his company had gone bankrupt and he needed $500 a month "for a while."

I couldn't believe your answer, Abby! You actually advised him to meet with his parents and discuss how he could help them. This is how I would have answered their letter:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so: Six years ago when I needed your love and support, you threw me out of the house and told me that I was no longer your son.

"So, if I am not your son, how can you be my parents? I know families should help each other out, but we aren't a family anymore. Good luck. Yours truly, Abby. I don't think this young man owes his parents a thing after the way they treated him.

MRS. M. E. HIGGINS, ABERDEEN, WASH.

DEAR MRS. HIGGINS: My readers clobbered me on this one. Thus far the score is: Readers, 289; Abby, 1.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you asked how much profit the telephone company makes on local and long distance calls. I cannot begin to answer that question, but the information in the enclosed article by Vic Sussman (Washington Post-Magazine) might interest you.

A READER IN POTOMAC, MD.

DEAR READER: Indeed it did. In part, Mr. Sussman said: "In 1987 the U.S. phone companies lost $14 million to toll frauds alone. (Add to that all the unpaid telephone bills, and it comes to $500 million.) The phone companies obviously don't want to absorb such losses, so they raise their rates to compensate, and we all get stuck with the bill in the end. The problem — which isn't getting any better — involves a wide social cross section, from teen-genius hackers to white-collar professionals and unemployed executives who charge calls to telephone credit cards they're no longer entitled to use.

Last year, 415 students at a local university were nailed by MCI after stealing $25,000 worth of phone time with computer-generated codes and telephone credit cards stolen from mail boxes; 300 students at a Texas college got caught after taking Metromedia Long Distance for $100,000; and at a North Carolina university, 27 students were charged with stealing $600,000 in calls from MCI."

I accused "Ma Bell" of soaking the consumers when she reached out and "touched someone." Methinks I owe her an apology.

DEAR ABBY: My grandsons, ages 7 and 5, sleep with their mom. She always has an excuse like: They're afraid of the dark, weren't feeling well, and now she's divorced. My question is, could this lead to my grandsons becoming homosexuals? They all sleep in the same bed.

WORRIED GRANDMA, GENEVA, ILL.

DEAR WORRIED GRANDMA: People do not "become" homosexuals; they are born that way. Just as heterosexuals and bisexuals are.

Don't put off writing thank-you notes, letters of sympathy, etc. because you don't know what to say. Get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." High school friends start own business HAPPY, Texas (AP) — They started kindergarten together, graduated from high school together, and now they're in business together — doing work for farmers who don't have enough time or equipment.

Jerry Sims and Pat Wilhelm, both 23-year-old graduates of Happy High School, joined forces three years ago and began custom cutting and hauling hay near their hometown.

They hauled hay together in high school and saw the business potential, Sims said.

"We wanted to go into business when we were still in school, but we just couldn't afford it then," he said. "So as soon as we could, we bought a used round baler and went to work."

The used baler saw long hours of work for two years and finally wore out, so Sims bought a new John Deere 530 last November and is ready to begin the haying season.

The men each bought a used tractor and other equipment needed for the custom work. Wilhelm owns a swather, Sims owns hay rakes and the baler.

"Farmers still have their own equipment and do most of their own work," Wilhelm said. "But putting up hay takes so much equipment and farmers are usually pressed for time, so haying is good for custom cutters."

The men build their hay bales to last and wrap each 6-foot bale with string spaced 1½ to 2 inches apart, Sims said.

"We use more string than most people and wrap the bales tighter," he said, "but the bales stay together better and you can still pick them up after they've been in the field for awhile."

Although hay baling is seasonal, the weather during the last two years was good for the crop and the men put up between 15,000 and 20,000 bales in 1987, Sims estimated. Wheat hay is cut in late April and May, while hay grazer is cut in September and October.

"More farmers have started to bale wheat because of the government program," Sims said, "and a lot of people will plant hay grazer for cattle."

The men work with their customers on payment plans and sometimes take a percentage of the hay crop as payment to feed their own cattle, Sims said. He also built trailers to haul the big, round bales, and modified a front-end loader on a tractor to pick them up.

Wilhelm also bought a grass drill last year and is seeding grass on a custom basis.

"It looked like grass seeding was going to be a good venture for awhile," he said. "The government program is encouraging people to plant grass and some of my neighbors were asking if I could do it."

Weather conditions were favorable for establishing good grass stands, and Wilhelm hasn't had to do any replanting, he said. He began planting in January of this year and will continue until the program deadline of June 1.

Netters get set for district; first-round matches noted

Coach Charlie Chrane said the Tigers will have to play to the best of their abilities to reach the finals of the District 2-4A Tennis Tournament, scheduled to open Friday at Odessa College.

"You have to get into the finals to win first or second and advance to region. Everybody on our team, with the exception of maybe one, has been beaten by his first-round opponent once already this year. Now, some of them have also beaten their first round opponent, too. But we'll have to play real well to get there. If we don't, we won't. If we do, we may," he said.

Second-round action will also be held Friday. Semifinals begin at 9 a.m. Saturday with finals and third-place matches set for noon.

The sale as to each property is to be made to satisfy the Judgment rendered against that particular property and the Defendants named in connection with that particular property. The proceeds of the sale of each property are to be applied to the satisfaction of the Judgment against that particular property, and the remainder of the sale proceeds, if any, are to be applied on the law directs.

Judge questions difference in amounts spent on education

AUSTIN (AP) — An appeals court judge said the amount spent on education by Texas schools ranges from $2,112 to $19,333 per student, and he asked attorneys defending the system to explain the difference.

"What about this disparity across the entire state? We're talking about human beings at both ends of the spectrum," said Justice Robert Gammage of the 3rd Court of Appeals Wednesday, when attorneys presented legal arguments to a court panel.

Local property taxes imposed by districts ranges from 9 cents to $1.55 per $100 valuation, Gammage said, citing legal briefs filed in the case. Local taxes are supplemented by state aid.

State District Judge Harley Clark last year ruled the school finance system violates the state constitution. He said the system does not give each district the same ability to obtain funds to educate students.

The state, joined by a number of districts, appealed the ruling. The appeals court could take months to rule, attorneys said.

Attorneys for the state and for the districts that sued over the finance system indicated that an appeal to the Texas Supreme Court is likely after the appeals court makes its decision.

The state, and districts that want to preserve the present finance system, said although it is imperfect, it is constitutional.

The Texas Legislature has a "pattern of improving equity in school finance," said attorney Jim Turner, a former lawmaker who is representing 40 districts.

with average and above average property wealth. He cited the 1984 public school reforms that pumped more money into school districts with low property wealth.

Kevin O'Hanlon, assistant attorney general, said the state meets its responsibility of providing access to a basic education by giving additional state aid to districts that are poor and cannot raise as much through property taxes.

"The proper test should be, is there enough money under the educational finance system to provide those things that are required under state statute? The undisputed evidence in this case is yes, there was," O'Hanlon said after the hearing.

But Attorney Al Kauffman of the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund said the state has not done enough to provide an equal educational opportunity to all students.

"The state denies equal protection for children. Large numbers of children in poor districts are treated differently than large numbers of children in rich districts," Kauffman said.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I injured my leg in a fall two years ago. The doctor's diagnosis was reflex sympathetic dystrophy. Since then I've developed RSD in my other leg and both of my arms. Pharmacological and physical therapy haven't helped much. What can you tell me about this devastating condition?

DEAR READER: Reflex sympathetic dystrophy is a form of neuropathy. It is also called Sudeck's atrophy and post-traumatic neuralgia. Following injury to a bone or soft tissues, some patients develop an unusual reflex reaction: skin, bone or joint shrinkage coupled with pain and malfunction of circulation and sweating in the injured area. No one knows why this happens. Treatment consists of physical therapy, including TENS (transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulation), special exercises, deep massage and acupuncture. Sometimes, medicine is useful. For example, local nerve blocks with anesthetic drugs, anti-depressants, cortisone and calcium-channel blockers have all been used successfully to treat the syndrome.

The symptoms may disappear without treatment; in rare cases, surgery to block pain-carrying nerves may be necessary.

DEAR DR. GOTT: When my daughter was vaccinated as a child, she developed a keloid. At 16 she had it removed and was treated with steroids, but it grew back. She's now 19 and it has been recommended that she have her tonsils removed. What are the chances of her developing a keloid in her throat?

DEAR READER: Keloid, an overgrowth of scar tissue, appears to be an inherited tendency. It usually affects the skin, causing a heaped-up, painless but cosmetically embarrassing collection of tissue. Keloids are less common on "internal" structures, such as mucus membranes. Nonetheless, your daughter should inform the surgeon of her keloid propensity before she has a tonsillectomy. The doctor may wish to alter his technique so as to minimize the risk of keloids. For example, the tonsils can be frozen, thus sparing the adjacent mucous membrane and making keloid formation less likely.

To give you more information on surgery in general, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on SURGERY. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: When I touch my tongue to my hands or arms, they taste as if I've had a salt bath. I don't perspire very much and this salty taste is a new development. Is this something to worry about?

DEAR READER: Our bodies constantly secrete small amounts of salty perspiration. As the moisture evaporates, trace amounts of salt are left on the skin which, when licked, can taste salty. This is normal. Don't worry about it.

County welcomes beer truck today

ALBANY, Texas (AP) — It's against the law to sell beer in Shackelford County, but a beer truck will be welcome here today.

The Adolph Coors Co. will deliver 44,000 pounds of feed grain pellets made from malt left-overs of brewed beer for cattle left without grass because of last month's huge range fire.

Shackelford County is a "dry" county, meaning that alcoholic beverages cannot be sold there.

Local officials say the delivery will be one of the largest donations given to ranchers, who are struggling to keep their cattle alive after a range fire began March 10 and consumed 300,000 acres in five West Texas counties.

The beer truck will deliver the feed from Golden, Colo., to a county barn, Bob Livingston, legislative affairs manager for Coors in Austin, said.

Filing dismissed

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Leroy Bank is a bank and thus is not entitled to seek protection from creditors by filing bankruptcy, a bankruptcy judge has ruled.

Bankruptcy Judge Leif Clark said Wednesday he realizes his dismissal of the bankruptcy filing because of a lack of jurisdiction would have a "rather distasteful result, but the law was clear."

"It looks like a bank, it tastes like a bank, feels like a bank, and smells like a bank," Clark said. "The people of Leroy believed it was a bank over 80 years. It's a bank."

Banks cannot file for bankruptcy protection under the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Clark acknowledged that the dismissal strengthens claims of First RepublicBank Waco over those of depositors.

First RepublicBank cleared Leroy Bank's checks through the Federal Reserve system, and claims the private bank owes it $1 million.

Course helps students learn

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Charles Laws teaches with a truck instead of a textbook. It's more effective, he says.

Between the hiss of an 18-wheeler's air brakes and the rumbling of its monstrous diesel engine, his students say they're glad he taught the fleet safety course the way he did.

"I thought he was kidding last week when he said we'd have to drive this thing," said Pam Vickers, an employee at a savings and loan whose petite stature defied climbing up the five feet to the seat of the truck — in a skirt and heels, no less — to sit behind the steering wheel, the circumference of a standard barrel bottom.

Laws tells his group of students, which includes mothers and housewives, a Jefferson County juvenile probation officer, secretaries, salesmen and a mother-and-daughter team, both of whom are refinery workers, the way things are done in the trucking industry.

After their first "road test," conducted in the Montagne Center parking lot at Lamar University, Laws reminded his students that most of the trucks they would be driving, should they choose that profession, would be dealing with fast traffic coming up from feeder roads onto the interstate instead of the bright orange plastic cones students tried so hard to dodge as they zigzagged the truck around them — or onto them — during their driving test.

The 15 students, most of whom attend Lamar part-time and hold full-time jobs, are going through a two-year program called Occupational Safety and Health Management. The course is a requirement in the OSHA program that deals with safety in all modes of transportation, including rail, shipping and trucking.
