City, school views 'absentee' solution to voter confusion

Because of expected confusion regarding "who votes where," officials with Snyder ISD and the city are encouraging individuals to vote absentee in the upcoming May 7 election for boards governing these two entities.

With recent changes in Texas law, voters no longer have to state a reason for voting absentee, making the ballot process "before" the election much simpler.

Both the city and school will be electing members to single member districts, the second time either entity has conducted an election under the new system.

Because of this, officials with both said they believe there is still considerable confusion among the voters regarding which single member district they reside in.

This is compounded since the single member district boundary lines of the city and school are not the same.

Nick Williams, assistant superintendent for business at the public schools, said staffers would be available all through the working day, to include the noon lunch hour, at the school administration building for those wishing to vote. The office hours are from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

At Snyder city hall, City Manager John Gayle said individuals may vote during regular business hours and through the lunch hour also. City hall is open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Voters may also request an absentee ballot by mail. They need to list a specific residential address, however, so that their correct See ABSENTEE, page 6A

Truck driver killed

Rig crashes into dirt embankment

A 41-year-old Abilene truck driver was pronounced dead on arrival Friday at 1:28 p.m. after the truck and pipe trailer he was driving crashed head-on into an earth embankment adjacent to U.S. Hwy. 84 north of Snyder.

Killed was Bobby Gene Wooldridge, an employee of Re-Entry Inc. of Abilene.

The wreck occurred as he was driving the truck down FM 612, the steep hill road connecting Fluvanna to the Lubbock Highway. The Fluvanna turnoff is located some 15 miles north of here.

He was hauling 77 joints of 42 ft. oil field casing pipe. The impact of the crash drove the pipe into the embankment, shearing away completely the truck cab.

An exact cause of the accident has not been determined, according to investigating Department of Public Safety officers, but they noted there were no skid marks at the scene to indicate the driver

Local assumes 'patient advocate' role

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

Wilma Dillard, known for her volunteer work in a range of Snyder goodwill efforts, has assumed the post of Cogdell Memorial Hospital's first patient relations coordinator effective this past week.

While not a new idea in the medical care industry, the concept is new at Cogdell and has been implemented by Administrator Tom Hochwalt.

In Dillard's words, her job will place her in a position to be "the patient's advocate" at the hospital, a mix of mediator, friend, help-mate and information specialist.

"Also, to be a person who cares," she noted.

Hochwalt echoed this assessment, noting that her chief responsibility will be to deal with the "personal" side of patient care.

"We think this will relieve our hospital staff to do their job more effectively, which is primary medical care," Hochwalt said.

Dillard's involvement with the patient will cover all aspects of their stay at Cogdell, to include interaction with their relatives and friends, the hospital staff who looks after their medical needs and the medical staff who prescribes their treatment.

"If there's a brush fire in any of these areas, my job is to put it out," she said.

Hochwalt called it, "identifying the needs of the patient."

He noted the concept of a patient relations coordinator is one which is becoming more recognized in the medical service industry.

"We're starting to realize that we're essentially a service industry and the only thing we have to differentiate ourselves from other hospitals is the quality of service we provide."

Chamber 'mobs' aim at new memberships

Improbable as it might sound, two groups calling themselves David's Mob and Herbie's Highrollers will be accosting Snyder residents for three days this week to add to the chamber of commerce membership rolls.

Led by David Kattes and Herbert Figueredo in "The Great Chamber Caper," the groups will have a kick-off breakfast at 8:27 a.m. Wednesday at the chamber and a 4:44 p.m. Friday hamburger cook out at Towle Park Pavilion, with the team that has recruited the fewest new members doing the cooking.

Visitors to Snyder last Monday for the TDC observance are sending back rave reviews about the cooperative and progressive spirit of the community.

Folks from the big cities have difficulty believing the kind of unity that exists in a small town and the kind of determination that persists in Snyder.

One Austin visitor told us, "Most of the time we have trouble just agreeing on a meeting time and place."

We were proud of the way Snyder citizens came out to show their support of the TDC. We can assure you it made a positive impression.

There's more good news. The highly-respected Kiplinger Texas Letter recently made population projections for the state for the year 2000—and that's just 12 years away.

The newsletter used data compiled by the Texas Water Resource Board.

The trends indicate that Scurry County will have a population of 25,324 by the turn of the century—an increase of 27.9 percent—well above the state average.

We're delighted to be able to pass along some positive news for our area.

More good news:

The following letter, written by Charles Smith of Big Spring, appeared in that city's newspaper.

"Recently, on a trip to visit relatives in north-central Texas, I became aware of what caring people could do. While passing through Snyder, Towle Park caught my eye; the cleanliness of the grounds and the restroom facilities. The park was nicely landscaped—you could tell the people who lived there care."

Railey held liable for attack on wife

DALLAS (AP) — A state district judge has ruled that Walker Railey, a former prominent Methodist minister, "maliciously and brutally tried to strangle his wife" in an attack that left her in a coma. Judge John Whittington issued the judgment Friday in a civil lawsuit filed by Peggy Railey's mother, Billie Jo Nicolai. Whittington, quoting from the lawsuit, also ruled Railey established a "false alibi" to cover his actions. The default judgment was announced a year and a day after Mrs. Railey, 39, was found lying unconscious on her garage floor. She has been comatose since the attack.

Although he was served twice with the suit, Railey, 40, never responded in court to the allegation that he attacked his wife, though he has denied it out of court.

"If you bring allegations against the defendant and you give the defendant notice of the allegations and an opportunity to come in and respond to those allegations, and he refuses to do that, the court can hold the defendant liable and hold those allegations as true," said Bill Arnold, Mrs. Nicolai's attorney. Arnold said a jury trial should determine this summer the damages Railey will be ordered to pay. Arnold said he will seek actual damages for Mrs. Railey's past and future medical bills and punitive damages for the pain and suffering of Mrs. Railey and her family.

Railey, the former senior minister at Dallas' First United Methodist Church, has said he was doing research on the Southern Methodist University campus the night his wife was attacked.

After a suicide attempt following the attack, Railey refused to talk with police and refused to answer questions before a grand jury investigating the attack.

Royal couple visits Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — With barbecue, broncos and bull riding, Sweden's King Carl XVI Gustaf and Queen Silvia celebrated their country's ties with the United States and Texas.

"That's a long way to go for a rodeo, ain't it?" said bareback bronc rider Jim Richards, 32, of Spurger during the royal visit Friday.

Queen Silvia, a self-described animal lover, cringed briefly at the Mesquite rodeo. But, near the end of a 14-hour day spent in Dallas, the monarchs scarcely reacted as the bull named Honky Tonk tossed its rider, Joe Wimberly, into the air on its horns.

Earlier, the King laughed and pointed excitedly and the Queen buried her head against his shoulder as bullriders were thrown in the rodeo's first event.

Eight-time World Bull Riding

Champion Donny Gay, president of the Mesquite Rodeo, hosted the monarchs at a barbecue dinner outside the arena and explained calf roping to the king as they sat together during the show.

"I like the skyline," the king said of Dallas. "They're more sculpture — the buildings — than sculpture itself."

Dallas was the couple's first stop on the Texas tour, designed to celebrate New Sweden's 350th anniversary and Sweden's contributions to the United States.

The monarchs began a national tour in Washington April 10 and arrived in Dallas after a visit to Atlanta.

The royal couple, earlier in the day, washed down lunch with West Texas wine as they toured Dallas in a fleet of blue Volvos.

Mayor Annette Strauss toasted, "Skol," in welcoming the monarchs, following lunch, which was served with Lubbock County 1986 vintage white wine.

The mayor presented the monarchs with keys to the city and a crystal Lone Star, part of the couple's haul of gifts received at different stops Friday, including a statuette, a child's painting, a cowboy hat, three belts, two bouquets of flowers and a set of spurs.

"It is only in Dallas, or rather nearby Mesquite, that you are being exposed to true folklore Americana — the Old West," Mrs. Strauss said.

The king responded to the toast, saying, "And of course we met old friends, Nobel laureates who had been in Sweden, so in that sense there has been a very close link between Sweden and ... the city of Dallas."

Friday morning, the royal couple visited the University of Texas Southwest Medical Center, where they met the 1985 Nobel Prize winner for physiology and medicine, Dr. John Goldstein.

Airline passengers cannot smoke due to rule change

By Marcy Gordon
Associated Press Writer

It's butts out for about 80 percent of all domestic flights today, but airlines and experts have some healthy advice for inveterate smokers climbing the cabin walls: Take deep breaths, chew gum and snap a rubber band.

The federal ban on smoking on domestic flights of less than two hours went into effect at 12:01 a.m. EDT today.

"I'll just have to smoke like a fiend until I get on," said Linda Navarro of Fullerton, Calif., as she prepared to board a flight at Los Angeles International Airport.

The regulation carries more than a wrist slap for violators: a fine of up to $1,000 for smoking and $2,000 for tampering with aircraft lavatory smoke alarms.

Those who disobey a flight attendant's order to put out a cigarette could land in jail. Airlines say they may ask police to meet the plane at its next destination, or even divert the aircraft in cases involving unruly smokers.

"The majority of us absolutely support the new law," USAir flight attendant Suzanne Houghton told the Los Angeles Times. "I don't look forward to the conflicts that will come with it, though. There are going to be problems. There are passengers who rip your head off on a 28-minute flight if they can't smoke."

But the hopelessly hooked needn't despair. The airlines plan to offer substitutes for cigarettes, including hard candy and a chewing gum designed to lessen withdrawal symptoms.

Dr. Don R. Powell, executive director of the American Institute for Preventive Medicine, advises putting a rubber band around the wrist of your smoking hand and snapping it whenever a nicotine urge strikes.

"Our employees have been briefed," said Paula Musto, a spokeswoman for Eastern Airlines. "The flight attendants, as the front-line people, will have to deal with it more than anybody."

Under the new rules, airlines are required to announce before takeoff that smoking is prohibited, and to keep "No Smoking" lights illuminated.

Even if a flight is delayed in the air or on the ground and goes beyond two hours, smoking will be prohibited if the schedule lists it as lasting two hours or less, according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

American Airlines is providing cinnamon hard candies to smokers, suggested by the American Heart Association and the American Lung Association as a cigarette substitute. Continental Airlines is distributing more than 430,000 pieces of a gum called "Ban Smoke," formulated to temporarily control the urge. Northwest Airlines, whose anti-smoking policy goes beyond the federal requirement by banning smoking on nearly all domestic flights, is handing out candies and mints as well as brochures.

The American flag was raised at Monterey, Calif., after the surrender of the Mexican garrison in 1846 and the U.S. annexation of California was proclaimed.

Accutane maker will devise new safeguards on its use

WASHINGTON (AP) — The maker of a popular anti-acne medication that can cause birth defects says it will try once again to devise a way to keep women from taking the prescription drug if they are pregnant or likely to become pregnant.

The Food and Drug Administration said Friday it has convened an advisory panel next Tuesday to consider reports that more pregnant women than previously believed are taking the drug Accutane despite strict warnings that it is likely to cause birth defects.

Short of an outright ban, the agency has no way to guarantee the drug will not be used by women who are pregnant or become pregnant while taking it. And there was no indication whether the FDA was actively considering ordering it off the market.

The New Jersey-based maker — Roche Laboratories — issued a statement late Friday saying it will propose a new series of safeguards at the Tuesday meeting.

It said it will propose tighter restrictions on use of the drug in women of childbearing potential and offer to provide "innovative blister-packaging to ensure that female patients receive the pregnancy warning with every prescription."

The statement did not detail what type of restrictions the company will propose for the drug in the United States. The drug is marketed in 40 countries worldwide.

The warnings accompanying the drug since its introduction in the United States in 1982 are explicit: Don't take the drug if you are pregnant and don't get pregnant while you are taking it.

Radiocarbon dating...

Sample taken from shroud

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A tiny sample has been cut from the Shroud of Turin for radiocarbon-dating that may determine whether the cloth existed at the time of Christ's death on the cross, the Vatican announced.

The linen, which appears to bear the image of a crucified man, is venerated by some as Christ's burial cloth.

The operation, eagerly awaited by scientists, was carried out Thursday in Turin under the supervision of Cardinal Anastasio Ballestrero, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Turin, Italy, with the collaboration of Dr. Michael Tite of the British Museum, the Vatican said.

The British Museum has agreed to guarantee the scientific validity of the carbon-dating, which is to be done independently on nuclear atom-counters at Oxford, the University of Arizona and the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology at the University of Zurich.

The Vatican, which owns the shroud, had resisted carbon-dating on grounds it would damage the cloth, which is 14 feet, 3 inches long and 3 feet, 7 inches wide. But the development in the 1970s of an atom-counter known as an accelerator mass spectrometer made it possible to date objects with much smaller samples.

The shroud, whose history is well-documented from the mid-14th century, has been kept in the Turin Cathedral since 1578.

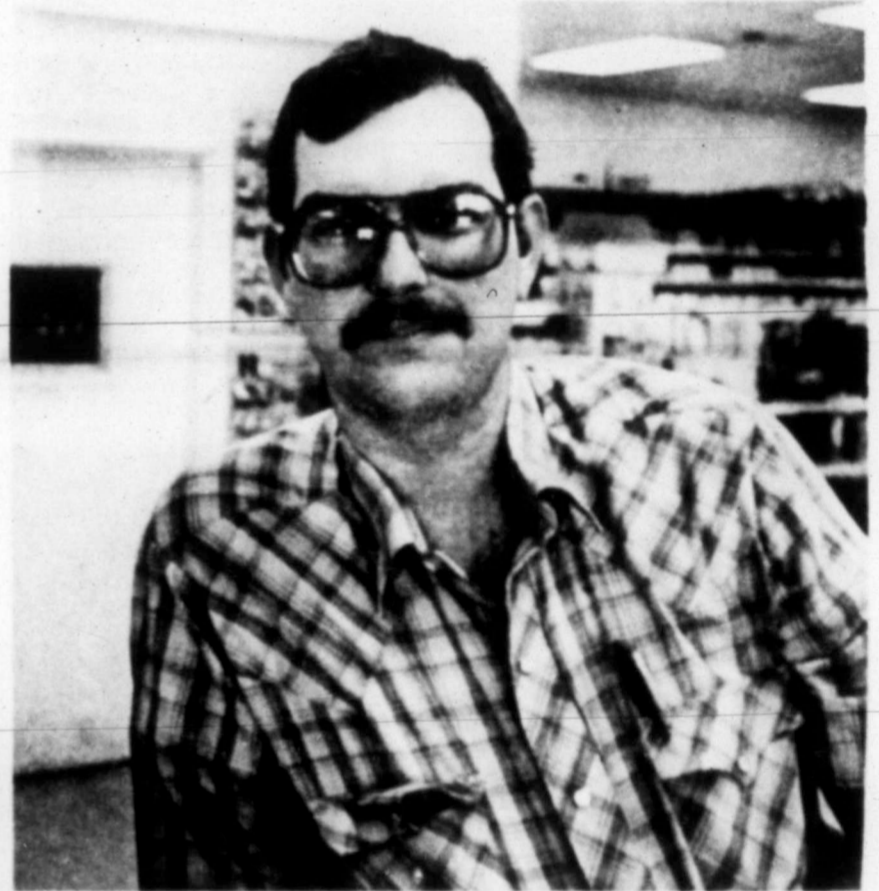

A piece of cloth measuring just 1 centimeter by 7 centimeters (four-tenths of an inch by 2.8 inches) was cut from the shroud, then cut further into three samples for the laboratories, Friday's Vatican announcement said.

Each laboratory will also receive two dummy cloth samples, one carbon-dated and the other dated historically but not scientifically to see if they get consistent results for all three samples. The labs are not being told which sample is from the shroud, the Vatican said.

Tite has said the triple carbon-dating should reveal the shroud's age within a 200-year range. The results are expected to be announced by summer.

The tests will not prove that the image on the cloth is Christ's.

In-fighting continues on the plans for well rescue movie

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A Los Angeles company was selected to produce a movie about the rescue of Jessica McClure from a West Texas well, but some issues still must be resolved before filming begins.

A special committee appointed by Mayor Carroll Thomas settled a 2-month dispute between rival rescue associations Friday by recommending Interscope Communications Inc. over Larry Spivey's Highland Communication Group Inc.

Interscope has produced such television movies as "Murder Ordained," and the motion pictures "Three Men And A Baby," "Outrageous Fortune" and "Revenge of the Nerds."

Although all parties — including Jessica's parents, Chip and Reba McClure — said they'll go along with the selection of Interscope, Kragg Robinson, president of one rescue association, said Friday that he hopes Interscope had changed its initial approach to filming Jessica's rescue.

At 18 months old, Jessica spent 58½ harrowing hours trapped in an abandoned well shaft.

Robinson said he knows little about what the company's current plans are, but "their first presentation I didn't like" because it strayed from authenticity.

He said he was concerned about reports the company planned to spice the movie with sex and planned to combine rescue characters.

John Kander, Interscope's executive co-producer for the movie, denied Robinson's claim about sex in the movie as "absolutely untrue."

The proposed based-on-a-true-story movie would be carefully researched and rooted in fact, Kander said.

Kander conceded that some characters who helped in the rescue will be combined, but said that's necessary because of the large number of people who played a role in rescuing Jessica.

The exclusion of people was one reason given by Robinson for splitting with the initial rescue association formed by and comprised of municipal workers.

Convinced that the municipal group wanted to restrict the size of the association, Robinson started an association of more than 70 private volunteers, 33 of whom signed an agreement with Spivey.

Officer wounds suspect

DALLAS (AP) — A police tactical officer shot and wounded a suspect who authorities said drew a large-caliber pistol and aimed it at him during a drug raid at an apartment.

The 19-year-old suspect was in critical condition early today with gunshot wounds to the face and chest, said Keith Guir, night administrator at Methodist Hospital.

Officers also arrested a 22-year-old man who was inside the apartment at the time of the raid. He remained in custody early today. A third suspect found in the complex was arrested on related narcotics charges, said Capt John Holt.

"The setup in this crackhouse is the same we have seen throughout the city in that there are young Jamaican nationals usually recruited out of New York City, given a place to sell crack, given a quantity of crack to sell and are heavily armed and become very, very dangerous," said Holt.

Officers from the police narcotics division and the tactical squad went to the apartment with a search and arrest warrant issued in response to complaints from neighbors in the complex and management, police said.

Police identified themselves and forced opened the apartment door. One of the officers was met by a man who drew a large-caliber automatic pistol, Holt said.

Car bomb in Tripoli kills 45 people

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A car bomb exploded in a crowded vegetable market in the northern port city of Tripoli Saturday. Police said 45 people were killed and 54 wounded.

The 8:45 a.m. (2:45 a.m. EDT) blast gutted several shops and set fire to dozens of cars in the low-income Tabbaneh district of Lebanon's second largest city, 50 miles north of Beirut. "It was a real massacre. Several pedestrians and vendors were torn to pieces," said a police spokesman who could not be identified under standing regulations.

Gorbachev says he has had it with ideological lectures

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev accused President Reagan of wrongly claiming superpower relations had warmed thanks to U.S. pressure on the Soviets and suggested Reagan stop sermonizing, the official Tass news agency reported. The agency said Gorbachev told Secretary of State George P. Shultz Friday that despite recently improved superpower relations, "sermons are again being delivered to us and we are being instructed on how we should behave ourselves."

"Our foreign policy is being assessed only negatively while the policy of the U.S. administration is assessed only positively,"

he was quoted as saying. "Moreover, everything that has been achieved in Soviet-American relations is being ascribed to the policy of strength and 'putting pressure on the Soviets,'" the Soviet leader told Shultz, according to the agency. "We are not going to re-educate the United States and do not recognize that it has any right to re-educate us," he was quoted as saying.

Gorbachev was apparently referring to a foreign policy speech given by Reagan Thursday in Springfield, Mass.

In it, the president said the United States and Soviet Union cannot have "a normal relationship" unless Moscow changes its ways and stops intervening in nations such as Afghanistan.

After his meeting with Gorbachev, Shultz told reporters "the going is hard" in trying to conclude a treaty for sharply reducing long-range nuclear weapons that Reagan and Gorbachev could sign at their May 29-June 2 summit in Moscow.

In talks Thursday and Friday with Soviet leaders, Shultz sought to make headway on arms control problems and regional disputes. In a joint statement Friday, the U.S. and Soviet teams said negotiators would deal with the disputed issues "on a priority basis."

Shultz was scheduled Saturday to visit Kiev and Tbilisi, stop in Brussels to brief the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Monday, then fly home. He is to hold another session with Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze before the summit.

Miles Standish, the leader of the Pilgrim Fathers, died in 1658.

Dillard assumes new hospital post

The concept of "what is quality care" has given rise to the patient relations coordinator positions.

"Quality of care is truly in the eye of the beholder," Hochwalt said, noting that one patient may believe the most important aspect of their hospital stay is the food served, while another may place more importance on such things as the nursing staff's attitude or the number of room visits.

"That's why you have to identify the needs of the patient as an individual and address those needs," he said. This will be the job of the patient relations coordinator.

In Dillard's case, this will start first thing each morning, as she makes a morning round of each patient's room.

While the patient is listed as the first priority for the post, its job responsibility also involves staff relations at Cogdell.

"I think it can be said that the employees determine the image for this hospital," Dillard said. "If we can get them to feel good about themselves and the hospital, that will reflect into the community."

Working with patients, hospital and medical staff are the immediate needs of the job. On a long range basis, Hochwalt said they also hope to have the post become more involved in the community as a whole.

In line with this, there are future plans to establish a "speaker's bureau" comprised of hospital staffers. These would be used to make presentations in the community when asked, to help explain the facility's operations and to answer any questions related to it.

Dillard brings to the job more than 12 years experience working as one of Snyder's most visible volunteers. Prior to that, she was an executive secretary for banks in Odessa and Cortez, Colo. as well as for an independent oil company. She also worked for one year as an office manager for a seismography service employed by the Atomic Energy Commission in Mercury, Nev.

Her community work includes serving as one of a three-member committee responsible for raising $61,000 to equip the Mammography Unit at Cogdell.

She has also been a member of the Medical Student Scholarship Committee at Cogdell which raised more than $200,000 to go towards med school scholarships for young doctors.

This program has been instrumental in bringing four physicians to Snyder who have established practices here.

In addition, she served as president of the United Blood Services Board when it implemented donor incentive programs which saw its individual drive totals rise from an average of 40 to an average of 180 blood units per drive.

Her two longest standing associations include her membership with the Cogdell Hospital Auxiliary and as a United Way director. She has served both organizations since 1973.

Her other memberships include as a director on the advisory council for the Scurry County Senior Center, the Snyder Country Club and the Martha Ann Woman's Club board.

voting district may be identified.

The absentee vote began Monday and will continue through May 3, a Tuesday.

Absentee voting is underway also in connection with three posts on the Western Texas College board. Voters here cast ballots "at-large" rather than by single member districts, however.

Also at the city, voters will decide a revenue bond issue related to the construction of utility lines to the Texas Department of Corrections prison site.

The absentee turnout as of Friday was very light with 12 votes cast at the city, two at the school and six at the college.

On May 7, the polling location for all three elections will be combined to a single site—Snyder City Hall.

Candidates involved in the upcoming Snyder-based elections are:

WTC Board

- Place 5: Dennis Ball, Bob O'Day and John Fagin.
- Place 6: Billy Sam Houston and incumbent R.C. Patton.
- Place 7, incumbent John Gayle.

Snyder School Board

- Place 2: incumbent Mike Jordan.
- Place 3: Ruben Martinez and Terry Martin.
- Place 5 (unexpired term): Mrs. Wayland (Ann) Walton, Lesa Oudt and Jerry House.

Snyder City Council

- Place 1: Vernest Tippens and Walter E. Cox.
- Place 2: incumbent Ralph Williamson.
- Place 3: Joe Coronado and Evelyn J. Malone.
- Place 4: Jack Greene Jr.

Governor says no tax overhaul

AUSTIN (AP) — With last year's budget crisis apparently resolved, the Legislature lacks the inclination to reform the state tax system next year, Gov. Bill Clements declared Friday.

"I think the chances of considering a restructuring of the Texas tax system, in the 1989 Legislature those chances are nil," Clements said.

The governor said a $5.7 billion package of tax increases approved by lawmakers last July — after a grueling 12 months that included one regular session and three special sessions — seems to have done the trick.

State government's $1.2 billion deficit is being paid off, a $700 million cash shortfall is being covered and Comptroller Bob Bullock is predicting a $350 million surplus by the end of the two-year budget cycle, Aug. 31, 1989, Clements said.

Dukakis and Jackson are battling gently

BY Evans Witt
AP Political Writer

Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson are battling gently for the Democratic presidential nomination, trading good-natured jibes about a running mate and saving their potshots for Republican Vice President George Bush.

Going into the final weekend before Pennsylvania's primary Tuesday, the two surviving Democratic hopefuls found little to disagree about in their first head-to-head debate Friday night in Philadelphia.

"Any combination on this stage against George Bush... will beat the Republicans in November," said civil rights leader Jackson.

"The two remaining — and I guess that makes us the leading — candidates for the Democratic nomination are the son of immigrants from Massachusetts and a black man who grew up poor in South Carolina," the Massachusetts governor told the hour-long debate in Philadelphia. "I think that says everything there is to say about this country."

Bush, his nomination victory well in hand, spent Friday fishing in Florida.

Both Democrats headed back out across Pennsylvania Saturday, looking for votes in the Tuesday balloting with 178 delegates at stake. A second debate was scheduled tonight in Pittsburgh.

The good humor of the debate sponsored by the Pennsylvania Democratic party stood in sharp contrast to the harsh racial and religious overtones of the New York primary only a week ago.

Jackson insisted it is a close race for the Democratic nomination, but Dukakis is firmly in the front-runner's spot with a widening lead in the national delegate battle and a substantial edge in the polls for the Pennsylvania primary.

Who will fill the No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket occupied much of the debate. It has also dominated the Democratic campaign since Dukakis won his big New York victory to become the odds-on favorite to win the presidential nomination at the party convention in Atlanta in July.

"It's a bit premature to be giving out coronation roses for the governor and taps for me," Jackson said when asked if he would accept the No. 2 spot. "We're now moving into the last GATESVILLE, Texas (AP) — Family and friends of William Elmo Powell finally got a chance to honor him in his U.S. flag-draped coffin Saturday, 20 years after the Air Force fighter pilot was killed when his plane was shot down over North Vietnam.

For 18 years, his parents had hoped he was alive — despite evidence that he didn't get a chance to bail out of his plane and despite a change in his status, five years later, from missing in action to killed in action.

There were many years to prepare for the worst. Then, two years ago, the Air Force reported it had tentatively identified a casket of remains as those of Powell.

It took that to shake loose his parent's grip on hope before they died last fall, within a month of each other.

"My parents found it real difficult to ever give up hope — some hope," his brother, Charlie Powell Jr. said Friday at his parent's house in Gatesville.

In December 1985, the Vietnamese government released Powell's remains to the United States. They were tentatively identified in February, 1986, but final word didn't come until less than two weeks ago, because complications required three experts to help identify the remains.

The family asked Art Hoffson — Powell's co-pilot in an F-14 fighter bomber on Aug. 17, 1968, Powell's 88th and last mission in North Vietnam — to accompany the remains Thursday in flight from Oakland, Calif., to Austin.

"I was extremely proud to be asked," said Hoffson, now a colonel who flies and trains fighter pilots at McDill Air Force Base near Tampa, Fla.

"I had gone to war with Elmo 20 years ago, and now I was getting to go home with him. It was like the last leg of the trip. It really gave me a sense of having him back," added Hoffson, who was Powell's training roommate and best friend.

Powell, who graduated from Texas Christian University's ROTC program, had looked forward to defending his country's interests in Vietnam.

He chose to do it at the controls of fighter planes.

"He was an outstanding pilot and officer," Hoffson said. "I think he was dedicated to the principles that we were over there for. He didn't have any doubt about why we were over there or whether it was right. He was very patriotic."

Their ill-fated flight started like the many others that had earned Powell two Distinguished Flying Crosses and 13 air medals. However, as they attempted to bomb a heavily defended portable bridge spanning a North Vietnamese river, anti-aircraft fire jolted the plane.

"The control was gone," Hoffson recalled. "We were in a 90-degree dive at 500 knots when we tried to bail out. I got out, and Elmo didn't."

For 4½ years, Hoffson's survival was punished in a North Vietnamese prison camp. After Powell's family learned that Hoffson was incarcerated, they had hope that Powell was alive, too.

There was even more evidence for hope: the Joint Chiefs of Staff told the family that two beepers had signaled, indicating that there had been two ejections from the plane. Later it was determined that Hoffson's seat possibly had signaled twice.

A reported sighting of two parachutes in the area also proved to be erroneous.

When Hoffson was released from prison in 1973, he had Powell's status changed to killed in action.

Charlie Powell said a group of Waco leaders went to Paris in the early 1970s to ask Vietnamese officials about several area MIAs. They asked specifically about Powell, but it didn't get them any closer to him.

Powell's niece, Paige Powell, who was born three years after he disappeared, was asked to sing the Lord's Prayer at his graveside services Saturday afternoon at Restland Cemetery in Gatesville.

University cracks down on fraternity named in rape

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — University officials suspended Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity Friday after a grand jury said an intoxicated, 18-year-old woman student was raped at the fraternity house and the group's members refused to cooperate with the investigation.

The young woman was found March 5 with "crude words" and a fraternity symbol written on her thigh, a Leon County grand jury said Thursday in an interim report.

She had been raped by more than one person, her clothing was in disarray, she had suffered multiple scratches and abrasions, and she was so drunk that her life was in danger, the report said.

"We informed Pi Kappa Alpha they are suspended immediately pending a formal hearing which will begin next Wednesday," Dean of Students James Hayes said Friday. "They are no longer a registered student organization at FSU. They lose all rights and privileges."

The incident marked the second time in a week the fraternity was suspended on a Florida campus. The Pi Kappa Alpha chapter at Stetson University in Deland was suspended April 15 in the wake of reports of a similar incident.

Hayes said Florida State officials were sickened over police information and the grand jury's interim report on the incident. No individuals have been charged, but the investigation was continuing.

The president of the fraternity, Brant Byrd of Bellair, told the Florida Flambeau, a student newspaper, that he was advised not to talk in public about the incident.

"My comment is that I'm very involved with final exams and exam week and my attorney told me not to concentrate on the grand jury but to concentrate on final exams," the Flambeau reported Friday.

The panel's report criticized the fraternity for not cooperating and urged witnesses to step forward.

"Possible witnesses have a civic and moral duty to come forward and report what they have seen or what they have heard from or about the perpetrators of this sordid incident," the grand jury stated.

The 18-year-old Florida State University student was found raped and "intoxicated to a life-threatening degree" early on March 5, the grand jury said.

The victim was found on the floor of the Theta Chi fraternity house, about a block from the Pi Kappa Alpha house, at about 5:30 a.m. and taken to a hospital for treatment and an examination.

The grand jury said members of Theta Chi and of Sigma Chi fraternity, where the victim said she had visited earlier, were cooperative. Campus police determined members of those two organizations were not involved and knew nothing about the victim or the crime.

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity members were uncooperative and evasive, the grand jury said.

The victim told authorities she had met a Pi Kappa Alpha member at a club, where she had been drinking beer and tequila. She said he took her to his fraternity house, giving her a bottle of wine, which she consumed.

Since mid-century, major changes have taken place in Latin America's population at large and in its labor force in particular, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. They include a virtual stabilization of the agricultural work force, a large increase of women in the labor force, the rising educational attainment of workers in general and the emerging deceleration of labor force expansion due to falling birth rates.

Special mammogram session due Saturday

To accommodate working women, Cogdell Memorial Hospital has scheduled a special Saturday opening for its Xero-Mammography unit next weekend.

The unit is normally closed on Saturday's, a schedule which has prevented many women who work during the week from receiving a mammogram screening, the baseline check for breast cancer.

As part of the April "Cancer Awareness Month," volunteers from the American Cancer Society will be on hand also to handle paperwork and to offer refreshments. They will also show a film on breast self-examination.

The cost of the screening will be $60, a fee which includes an interpretation which is mailed to the patient's family doctor for their files.

The staff radiology technician, Rory Doan, has donated her time Saturday for the special screening.

Registration is asked by telephoning the hospital before Friday at 3 p.m. Walk-ins will be accepted, however, on Saturday.

The appointment number is 573-6374, ext. 440.

Because of the lower than normal fee of $60, patients will be asked to file their own insurance reimbursement claims.

Radiology staffers also remind women that the use of underarm deodorant, lotion or powder can affect the mammogram process. Patients are asked to avoid use of these products on the day of the screening.

Registration will be in the front lobby of Cogdell.

Elmer Hinson

SLATON—Services are set for 3 p.m. Sunday in Englands Funeral Home Chapel for Elmer Hinson, 79, who died Friday in Lubbock's St. Mary of the Plains Hospital after a long illness. Burial will follow in the Englewood Cemetery.

He was the brother of E. T. Hinson of Snyder.

Reagan: Meese should remain

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is moving to fill one Justice Department slot and Attorney General Edwin Meese III is appointing temporary replacements for up to a dozen others in an attempt to end the turmoil caused by the March 29 protest resignations of two key Meese aides.

Reagan on Friday moved quickly to ease Meese's personal problems by nominating Francis Keating to fill the associate attorney general's slot, the department's empty No. 3 post. Reagan also said Meese should stay in office and the Justice Department is running "just fine," although two top Meese aides who quit told Reagan on Wednesday a "deep malaise" had "infected" the department and one of them said Meese should be indicted.

Keating would replace Stephen Trott, who left the department a week ago to become a federal judge. His was not one of the protest resignations, but the vacancy has been affected by the concern with Meese's leadership.

Keating, an assistant Treasury secretary, may come in to the Justice Department on an acting basis late next week.

Court agenda

Scurry County commissioners Monday will consider bids for 600 heavy-duty chairs for use at the county coliseum and bids for a computer system to be used by the county attorney.

Aside from approving minutes and paying bills, the bids that have been advertised for by coliseum manager Wes Partain and County Attorney Michael Line are the only items of business for the 10 a.m. meeting.

Two to meet

A called meeting of the Snyder school board is due at 7 p.m. Monday and the regular meeting of the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Board is set for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Transfer date

Students who reside outside the boundaries of Snyder ISD but who wish to attend public schools here next year must submit a transfer application by next Friday, April 29.

Those missing the deadline will be required to pay a tuition fee.

Parents should come by the school administration building to apply anytime between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. On Friday, the office will close at 3:45 p.m.

Western holding up well at H-SU Rodeo

ABILENE - WTC freshman Ray Brown made a bid to join teammates Wesley Henderson and Adam Brewster in the finals of the Hardin-Simmons University NIRA Rodeo here Friday night.

Brown clocked an 11.8 to move into a tie for third place in the calf roping. He was to aim for a spot in the steer wrestling finals when the Southwest Region rodeo resumed Saturday afternoon. Finals, which pit the top 10 individuals in each event, were slated for Saturday evening.

Henderson and Brewster competed Thursday night, staking early leads here. Henderson's 75 still controls the top spot in the saddle bronc. Brewster's 75 is now second in the bull riding. Ricky Keischnick of Vernon moved into the lead Friday with a 77.

Henderson had also teamed with Shawn Odom for a 9.4 clocking in the team roping on Thursday. Their time held up for second place heading into Saturday's action.

In other events here, Tana Mahoney timed a 4.7 to take over third in the breakaway roping and Jessie Colburn clocked an 18.20 to move into fourth in the barrel race.

Shawn Goemmer's 69 from Thursday is fourth in the saddle bronc. Kenny Taton scored a 68 Friday and is in fifth. Brewster's 68 in the bareback, marked Thursday, is now in fifth place.

Other WTC results were not as bright. Michael Gaffney took a no-score in the bull riding Friday while Bobby Moody timed a 12.8 in the steer wrestling and Clyde Himes had a 17.52. Neither of those times were expected to land in the top 10 by Saturday night.

Western Texas headed into Saturday's finals having won three of the past four Southwest Region rodeos. Coach Bob Doty's troops vaulted from a slow start in the fall and are now in second place in the region.

Continues Saturday, Sunday...

Local rodeo sees quick times

Some quick times peppered the first show of the Western Texas College Booster Club AJRA Rodeo, being at Scurry County Coliseum this weekend.

Friday's opening performance witnessed an effort of under three seconds in the breakaway, the 13's in the barrel races and good times in the calf roping, team roping and goat tying here.

The rodeo was to continue with performances at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Local cowboy Leddy Lewis joined with Alpine's Turtle Powell for the fastest team roping time, a 7.83 in the 13-15 age group. Mesquite roper Thomas Brockway led the calf roping with an 8.64 in the 16-19 division.

All-around prospect Lari Dee Guy of Abilene set an 8.63 pace in the goat tying. She was chased by Mitzi Mayes of Manor, who clocked an 8.84. Guy also leads the girl's 16-19 breakaway roping with a 3.07. Mayes timed a 3.26 for a close second and Crane's Jana Pierce got the job done in 3.77 for third.

The best breakaway time of the night was a 2.82 by Chris Connolly of Hamlin in the boy's 13-15 division.

Tops in the barrel races from Friday was Mayes, who turned a 13.82. Hometown cowgirl Jana Kincheloe is leading the 12-under girl's division with a 14.08, while Gail's Kelly Jo Ogden leads the 13-15 group with a 13.84.

Ryan Posey of Rotan was the only 12-under steer rider to point. He scored a 69. Leaders in other roughstock events going into Saturday's evening show were Brandon Woodall of Odessa with a 71 in the 13-15 bull riding, Shane Sanders of Water Valley with a 76 in the 16-19 bull riding and Ty Watkins of Odessa with a 63 in the bareback. Watkins also leads the saddle bronc with a 54.

Another top time Friday was Shawn Wharton's 4.47, which leads the steer wrestling. Wharton is from Mineral Wells.

Golfers place fourth in Region V tourney

MIDLAND - Western Texas College gave a good effort here Friday, but couldn't make up ground and placed fourth in the Region V Golf Tournament.

Odessa won the 54-hole, two-day event with an even par 852. Western Junior College Athletic Conference champion New Mexico Junior College took runnerup honors with an 857. Both qualify for the upcoming NJCAA National Tournament.

A close third was Midland with an 858. Western Texas shot 891, followed by Grayson with an 894 and Weatherford with a 914.

"The tournament went pretty much like I thought," mused WTC Coach Dave Foster. "We knew we had an outside shot but we weren't able to keep the momentum. I thought when the winds came up (Friday) that it might give us a chance, but the other teams played well in the wind."

Medalist was Odessa's Lance Posey, who turned in an 8-under par 205, which included a 64.

Western's top score was a 221, turned in by Andrews freshman Mark Burgen. Jeff Beal and Sean Gallagher shot 224s, Todd Neal had a 225 and Gary Schoen carded a 228.

No WTC player made the All-Region Team, although Beal was named all-conference earlier in the tournament.

Landing in the region's top 10, and thus making all-region, were Posey, Per Newman of NMJC with a 210, Chris Learmonth of Grayson with a 211 and Steve Alexander of Midland with a 213. Others, shooting 214, were Ross Cargile of Odessa, Chris Coffman of NMJC and Marty Scoles of Midland. Mike Ambire of Odessa shot 215; Tom Cismosiki of NMJC a 216; and Rob Anderson of Midland a 217.

"We didn't do as well for the year as we wanted, but we learned a lot and played a lot of freshmen," said Foster, who will return seven players next year, including five regulars. "I think we have some good players, but it's tough to make the transition from high school to college and the experience they gained this year will hopefully help us have a better season next fall."

Booster club meets Monday

Western Texas College Booster Club will meet noon Monday, April 25, at Golden Corral for a Dutch treat lunch.

Anyone interested in athletics at WTC is urged to attend.

Tiger miscues help Monahans, 6-5

Whether his Tigers can't stand prosperity or what, Coach Albert Lewis would like to know. One thing he does know, though is, they'll have to stop booting the ball if they want to win ballgames.

"So many mental mistakes I don't understand it. We work hard every day, but we're still making mistakes we made at the start of the season," frowned the Tiger coach after Snyder dropped a 6-5 decision to Monahans here Friday.

Unofficially, Snyder committed six errors. Two Lobo batsmen reached base on errors and later scored, and another reached on a hit and scored on an error.

 The Baltimore Orioles are at a loss on how to win a game - any game.

The Orioles fell 13-1 to Kansas City Friday night to extend their record losing streak from the start of the season to 16 games.

The Royals left little doubt it would be another defeat for the bumbling Birds by scoring nine runs in the bottom of the first inning.

Fun Run 5K winners are noted once again

Workers with the recent 5K Fun Run at Western Texas College have amended the original results to note that Margaret Beaver had the fastest women's time.

Beaver, competing in the women's faculty division, clocked a 25:20 to earn honors as the fastest runner. Nancy Bals won the women's student division in 25:30.

The top time of the day was run by Chris Jackson, a 19:19. Jackson, a freshman, competed in the student division, along with Tony Zombrono, whose 19:35 was second overall.

Other winners were Adam Romero, 20:03, in men's open; Mike Harrison, 22:15, in men's Snyder's Bert Otto, who gave up nine hits in seven innings, walked just two batters and struck out six.

"Bert did a good job. I'm really proud of Bert," said Lewis. "He was getting ahead on the count. He wasn't getting many strikeouts, but he was getting them to hit the ball down. We just weren't making the plays behind him."

Foster signs golfer from Breckenridge

Western Texas College golf coach Dave Foster has announced the signing of Thomas Tennison, a four-year starter for Breckenridge High School.

Tennison advanced to regionals three years and finished sixth in the Class 3A state meet as a junior. He is the District 6-3A medalist.

"Thomas had a good four years at Breckenridge. He's been a state and regional qualifier several times," noted Coach Foster. "He'll need to play a lot of summer tournaments to come in and be an impact player but I think he has a lot of ability. He's a very good student. We're real glad to get him. He's considered one of the better players coming

Now 10-11-1 overall and 4-6 in district play, Snyder will try to regroup on Tuesday, when the Tigers play in Big Spring at 4 p.m.

Snyder trailed 2-1 in the bottom of the fourth when Otto took matters into his own hands. The right hander tagged Monahans starter Tony Jimenez for a two-run homer over the left center field fence, putting the Tigers ahead out of 3A in the state."

Tennison was also a four-year starter in basketball where he earned all-district honors as a junior and a senior and was named area MVP.

He also participated in the student council and drama, and is FHA president at Breckenridge.

Tennison will be playing in the Region I 3A tournament next week in Odessa.

for the first time. Next-up Scott Lanier echoed Otto's effort with another home run, giving Snyder a 4-2 advantage.

Snyder was able to make it a 5-2 ballgame in the fifth when Tracy Braziel drew a walk off of relief pitcher Ralph Sanchez and scored on a single from Van Echols. Echols had also singled in the fourth, and was the man aboard when Otto drilled his homer.

The three-run advantage didn't hold up against the Lobos, however, who came into Moffett Field tied with Andrews for the District 2-4A lead. John Hinds led off the sixth with a home run, to serve notice that the Lobos weren't out of the game yet.

Otto battled back to strike out Cince Prieto and Homero Sabia, but walked Ronnie Molina and gave up a single to Paul Hildalgo. Back-to-back errors did the rest, as Molina, Hildalgo and Jimenez all scored.

Snyder put two runners on base in the seventh, but could not get them in.

Monahans had scored in the first inning when leadoff batter Molina doubled and came in on Sanchez's single two outs later. Snyder answered when its leadoff hitter, Randy Morris, singled and scored on a basehit from David Martinez.

The Lobos went back in front in the second as Nile Martinez reached and scored on errors.

Monahans improved to 15-6 for the season and 9-1 in District 2-4A play. Co-leader Andrews, also 9-1, was to play Fort Stockton on Saturday.

AMERICAN HOME WEEK

April 24-30, 1988

Pride in Property... Our Nation's Heritage

Join us in American Home Week activities that will improve private property, including homes, to make our town a better place.

Property ownership instills a sense of caring. REALTORS®—members of our local board of REALTORS® and the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®—are involved with and care about property in our town every working day of their careers. They not only care about home-town property, they care about the town itself.

These REALTORS® are demonstrating their care by improving and upgrading local property as part of the American Home Week celebration. They want to show, by action and example, that the value of property is measured not only in dollars but in terms of the pride in, and enjoyment of, the place where a person lives or works.

REALTORS® want property improvement to include people involvement. We hope that by setting an example our local board of REALTORS® will inspire community-wide participation in making where we live a better place to live.

Pride in property... Our Nation's Heritage... is important to today's quality of life.

Districts will not be thrown out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Republican challenge to the Democratic reapportionment of California's congressional districts in 1982 has been rejected by a federal court panel.

In a decision made public Friday, the panel voted 2-1 to dismiss a suit by Republicans that claimed the drawing of district boundaries by the Democratic-controlled Legislature violated the constitutional rights of GOP voters to equality in voting.

The court said a partisan reapportionment is unconstitutional only if one party is effectively "shut out" of the political process. Republicans cannot make that claim in California, as they hold the governor's office, a U.S. Senate seat, and 40 percent of the House seats, the court said.

"California Republicans represent so potent a political force that it is unnecessary for the judiciary to intervene."

EDUCATOR HONORED—Joan Parks Shrader, a teacher at Memorial Drive Elementary School in Houston's Spring Branch ISD and former Snyder resident, has recently been named elementary physical educator of the year. She has just returned from Little Rock, Ark. where she represented Texas at the Southern District Convention of the American Alliance of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance. Grain elevator complex explodes; two are killed

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Two explosions ripped through a riverside grain elevator complex Friday, killing at least two people, injuring three others and leveling two grain silos and an office building, authorities said.

Three more people were reported missing at the ADM Growmark complex, along the Des Plaines River about 40 miles southwest of Chicago, said Lynn Behringer, a spokeswoman for the Will County Emergency Services and Disaster Agency.

Officials on the scene confirmed that two people died and at least three others were injured, Ms. Behringer added.

Authorities suspect grain dust may have caused the first explosion about 11 a.m., which ruptured a natural gas main and touched off a second blast moments later, said Fire Chief George Plese.

The explosions leveled two of the complex's three silos, which hold up to 100,000 bushels, and blew the top off the third. One silo crushed the adjacent office building.

Rescue workers used dogs, bulldozers and a crane to search for the missing people, authorities said.

Disaster officials also dispatched four boats to search the river after a witness reported seeing someone fall off a barge nearby, Ms. Behringer said.

First couple gets checkups for cancer, dental work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first major examination Nancy Reagan has had since her cancerous left breast was removed six months ago showed no cancer in her right breast, White House physician Dr. John Hutton said today.

Dental X-rays performed on President Reagan at the same time showed that he requires no immediate treatment of any kind, Hutton said.

"The president had a series of routine dental X-rays in the dental clinic, while Mrs. Reagan had her first post-operative mammogram," the doctor said. "The mammogram was negative. No immediate treatment of any kind is required as a result of today's procedures on the president and first lady."

The Reagans spent a half hour inside the medical center. As he boarded the helicopter, the president made an "A-OK" sign with his fingers, but did not talk with reporters. They flew to Camp David, the presidential retreat in the nearby Catoctin Mountains in Maryland, for the weekend.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater described the procedures as "routine checkups ... not associated with any current physical findings or problems."

It is the first time Reagan has gone to Bethesda for dental work. The last time Reagan visited the hospital was in January, when he underwent his annual checkup for colon cancer.

Mrs. Reagan had her left breast removed on Oct. 17, 1987.

Vote FOR Snyder On May 7th

On Saturday, May 7th, you will have an important role in determining the prosperity of Snyder's future.

Please vote FOR Snyder.

Water and sewer services must be extended to the new prison facility.

The new bonds will not affect your property taxes.

Revenue bonds are the best and least expensive method to finance the projects.

Based on official estimates the new bonds will not affect your water and sewer bill.

A vote FOR the bonds is a vote FOR Snyder.

Q. Why do we need to expand our water and sewer systems?

A. The new state prison represents new economic opportunity for Snyder — new jobs, new commerce, new vitality. But to operate the prison, water and sewer services will be required. This will necessitate expanding parts of our water and sewer system.

Q. Exactly what do the projects involve?

A. With regard to water, the plans include water pipelines, pumping stations, and overhead storage tanks. Sewer system plans include sewer pipelines, lift stations, and related equipment.

Q. How much will these projects cost?

A. Preliminary engineering studies estimate each project will cost approximately $1.375 million — or a total of $2.75 million. These figures include right-of-way acquisition and other route costs.

Q. Can't the TDC build their own water and sewer plants?

A. The costs for these resources are not part of the state's construction plans, and it would not be economical for the prison to build its own plants. Furthermore, Snyder's treatment facilities have capacity to meet the added demand.

Q. But won't the prison's usage cause a shortage to city residents and other users?

A. No. The CRMWD supplies water to Snyder and assures adequate supply for the future.

Q. Why doesn't the City go ahead and extend the lines — do we have to hold an election?

A. Several financing options were explored by the City Council before the decision to conduct an election. While the revenue bond method is the only option requiring an election, it is also significantly the least costly of the methods available. Additionally the City Council believes voter approval is important.

Q. Is it smart to assume more debt during these difficult times?

A. The City of Snyder presently has no bonded indebtedness. The bonds proposed are revenue bonds meaning the proceeds from the sale of water and sewer services — not property taxes — will be used to repay the debt incurred.

Q. What about my taxes — will they go up?

A. Ad valorem or property taxes will not be used to repay debt on the water and sewer projects. In fact, the law prohibits using general tax revenue to pay off revenue bonds. Only water and sewer revenues will be used.

Q. Does that mean my water bill will increase?

A. Only if there is a drastic decline in population or water consumption — and that is not anticipated. In fact, despite a decline in population in recent years, water consumption has held steady.

Scurry County Folks...

By Shirley A. Gorman

Girl's basketball in Texas high schools has been a sanctioned UIL sport since 1951, which doesn't mean it hasn't been around a lot longer than that.

When Coy Shephard Scarborough was in high school during the early 1920's, she played forward for the Pleasant Hill School's girls basketball team.

Other members of the team included her sister, Opal Shephard Edwards, now of Corpus Christi; Florence Adams Henley, now of Big Spring, and her sister Larence Adams, now deceased; Mamie Merritt Deel, who lives in Abilene; Estelle Williamson Gary, who also lives in Snyder; and Opal Callas. Arthur Bullock was the principal and coach.

To the best of her recollection, Coy thinks the team photo which accompanies this story was taken in 1921 or 1922 when she was a senior in high school.

Pleasant Hill School was located seven miles southeast of Snyder and it closed in the early 1940s. All the members of the team lived several miles from the school and walked to class each day, she said. Coy lived 11 miles from Snyder and had a five mile round trip walk to school every day.

At first the Pleasant Hill School employed two teachers, but later a third was added to the faculty, she said.

"In those days all the communities in this area had schools and they all fielded teams," Coy explained. "We had a boys and a girls team. We all played each other and the team with the best record got to play Snyder."

One year that Coy played on the girls basketball team she remembers that they beat all of the nearby schools including Dunn, Plainview, Bethel, Ira, Canyon and Turner. But when they advanced to play Snyder, they were beaten.

"We practiced after school and at the noon recess," Coy said. "We would eat lunch real fast so we could have time to practice."

Uniforms for the girls consisted of red bloomers with a skirt worn over them, a white middle blouse and thick ribbed stockings and tennis shoes. They also wore tams to keep their long hair out of the way. Often the girls, discarded their skirts and just played ball in their bloomers, she said.

The thick, ribbed stockings were necessary because they had to play outdoors in those days and the ground could be rather rough and at times they played in bad weather. Usually, the games were only played March through April.

The outdoor courts often had to be swept clean before a game, she said. A 4x4 post was set up in the school yard to support the goal. "We had to be careful and not run into the pole," she said. "Sometimes the wind would knock it down."

The hoops also did not have nets on them.

The rules in those days differed, she said. Two lines were drawn in the court and a player could be fouled out for touching the line. In that case, the other team would get the ball.

Each member of the team had to stay in one certain area, she continued. Running all over the court was not permitted.

Games were played on Fridays as soon as school was out around 3:30 p.m. If they had to travel to another school, classes were dismissed around 2 p.m.

In the early 1920s, since there were no school buses, different people would volunteer to drive them to the games.

In those days, both the boys and the girls teams had one ball each to play with. Box suppers were often held to raise money to purchase these.

Communities also held various functions to raise money for community and school needs. Sometimes they sold hens and sometimes they held parties where everyone had to pay one cent for every inch around the middle they were, she said. Other times they paid a penny for every size they wore in socks.

Putting on plays was also a big form of recreation in those days, Coy recalled. The school children often performed at the area towns such as Fluvanna, Dunn and Camp Springs and they raised money for both the community and the school.

Coy and her sister, Opal, often sang in between the acts of the play. Plays were often used to raise money for things which the sports teams needed.

Community reports were also a popular part of every play, she

 She later married Hardy Coy, now deceased, who served in the local school tax office for 17 years. They raised two boys and three girls.

She said they moved to Snyder in 1930 and she has lived in Scurry County more than 70 years.

Coy said she played basketball because she liked sports in general and because it was fun. She said she never liked the boys' basketball games, though, because they were different from the girls and were too hard to keep up with.

Founder's Day to be celebrated by sorority

The Xi Alpha Alpha Theta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will celebrate Founder's Day April 30 with 12,500 chapters and 250,000 members throughout the world.

During the Great Depression, Walter W. Ross thought that young women needed more in their lives than work, responsibility and hardship. He thought a social and cultural outlet was needed and that he was the man to see that it was provided.

His efforts brought seven young women in Abilene, Kan. together April 30, 1931 to form that sort of organization. Beta Sigma Phi began and time proved Ross's idea a good one.

Because Beta Sigma Phi has continued to meet their needs, members of the largest Greek letter sorority in the world will remember Ross and his contribution.

Throughout 57 years of their history, members have enjoyed programs for cultural studies and numerous social events making a difference in their personal lives. As they took advantage of these opportunities for personal growth, they came to devote much of their time and effort to service; they made a difference in the world around them.

The chapters donate over three million dollars to charities reflecting some two million work hours. The International Endowment Fund has donated over two million dollars to health research groups, homes for underprivileged children and other worthwhile causes. Through Beta Sigma Phi's International Loan and Scholarship Funds, members and their families receive assistance in education.

Local projects include providing gifts and food to a needy family at Christmas, a contribution to the Beta Sigma Phi State Service Project, walk for Cancer Drive and the Pam Fowler Memorial Scholarship to seniors of active members of the local chapter.

The most important social of the sorority is Founder's Day celebration. The local chapter will meet April 30 at 6 p.m. in the home of Mona and Truett Bryan to observe the event. Chairmen are Brenda Hedges and Mona Bryan. The mistress of ceremonies for the evening will be Carolyn House.

A special guest will be present to present the message from the International Executive Council. Local members taking part in the program are Hedges, Mickey Baird, Barbara Bills, Bette League, Jeanne Johnson, Bryan, Lena Ellis, Sue Sewell, Jackie Buckland and Loretta Dodson.

Awards will be presented during the evening to outstanding chapter members, recognizing them for their sorority and community work.

Chrystal Godair of Odessa, niece of the bride, lit the candles during the harp prelude presented by Kim Gorman.

Other harp selections for the occasion included "Amazing Grace," "Trumpet Voluntary," and the traditional "Wedding March."

Vocalist Mike Dennis sang "Wedding Song" and "Never Thought (That I Could Love)". He was accompanied by pianist Bobby Wells.

Janice Godair of Stephenville, twin sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Chrystal Godair of Odessa, niece of the bride, and Kristi Head, sister of the groom.

The candle lighter and attendants were attired in royal blue satin gowns featuring off-the-shoulder necklines with a large bow accenting the back waistline. Each attendant carried two calla lilies dressed in blue tulle.

The groom wore a white shadow-weave full dress tuxedo with traditional styling.

Best man Doug Wilkinson and groomsmen Keith Head of Ellsworth AFB, S.D., brother of the groom, and Mike Murphy wore full dress tuxedos featuring pleated coats with silver buttons, royal blue ties and cummerbunds.

Ushers were Ricky Summers and Ty Wills of Fluvanna. A reception was held in the Garden Room of the church following the ceremony. Tammy Wilkinson registered guests.

The bride's table was covered in white eyelet and was centered with a silver epergne featuring white stock, starburst mums, baby's breath, and streamers of royal blue satin ribbon.

The four-tiered bridal cake was decorated with white starburst mums, baby's breath, gladioli florets, white sweetheart roses and loops of royal blue ribbon. Golden punch, nuts and mints completed the table.

Servers were Jayme Gregory and Rachael Everett.

The groom's table, covered in royal blue, featured a pewter stage coach with horse team belonging to the groom's father. Chocolate cake, coffee and cheese were served by Vicki Murdock and Ann Thames.

Following the reception, guests showered the couple with rice as they left for a honeymoon trip to San Antonio, Austin and Dallas. They will make their home in the Union community.

The bride and groom were SHS graduates. The bride attended Stephenville Beauty School and is currently employed at Eckerd Drug.

The groom attended Western Texas College and is engaged in farming.

Women were the co-inventors of everything from penicillin to the atomic bomb. But how many of their names and achievements are remembered by history? History is full of women inventors who have been overlooked or cheated out of their due.
Ranging from the momentous to the mundane, the discoveries and inventions of women have affected all our lives. This book presents the stories of these women and their inventions. Informative, poignant and sometimes very funny, this collection of history and talent can be appreciated by everyone from homemaker to nuclear physicist.
Anyone who reads "Mothers of Invention" will agree that the hand that rocks the cradle... probably designed and built it as well.

On April 30, 1945, with Russian forces approaching his bunker in Berlin, Adolf Hitler committed suicide along with his wife, Eva Braun, whom he had married the day before. One week later, Germany agreed to unconditional surrender, ending Hitler's Third Reich.

Joan Marie Godair and Michael Greg Head exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony at 4 p.m. March 26 in the First Baptist Church Chapel. Officiating was the Rev. Ken Branam, pastor of the church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Godair and Mr. and Mrs. Morris D. Head.

The chapel was centered with a brass arch trimmed in greenery and white blossoms. The arch was flanked by two 17-light brass hearts with diamond-cut votive cups and candles. Two brass stands holding arrangements of calla lilies, naphthytis, leatherleaf fern and tree fern completed the floral decorations.

The aisle was marked with votive candles and royal blue satin bows with streamers.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The bridal dress was in the romantic style of white crystalline organza over satin. The bodice, encrusted in hand-beaded sequins and pearls on appliques of Chantilly lace, featured a modified Sabrina neckline and full puffed elbow-length sleeves.

The keyhole back was highlighted with candy box bows and a cascading chapel-length train. The fingertip veil was of white organza attached to a headpiece of silk flowers and

Piano auditions set

There are 118 piano pupils from the classes of Lynn Bethel, Barbara Mott, Judy Neill and Barbara Tune registered as candidates for membership in the National Fraternity of Student Musicians. The fraternity is sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Teacher Division of The American College of Musicians of which the instructors are members.

The pianists will perform in the National Piano Playing Auditions to be held in the First Baptist Church Parlor. Each will strive for honors based on the number of standard classic, romantic and modern pieces chosen from the Masters of piano-forte literature the student can creditably perform in the presence of an examiner of note.

Rosemary Jenkins of Levelland will be adjudicator for the auditions April 25-30. Jenkins graduated from Texas Tech University where she obtained a master's degree in music. She serves as guild chairman in Levelland.

Area students registered for the event are from Jayton, Colorado City, Abilene, Roby, Rotan, Hermleigh, Fluvanna, Gail and Ira as well as Snyder.

Local guild chairman is Lynn Bethel of Bethel Studio of Music.

Living dangerously

By James Jacoby

Behind in a team match, South blasted to a shaky grand slam. (Seven hearts would be a laydown if spades split better and the heart king could be picked up.) South won the opening lead, cashed the spade ace and led to the club queen. He started the hearts by leading the 10. When that held the trick, he was still in dummy so he played the spade king. East ruffed small; declarer overruffed with the jack and cashed the A-K of clubs, pitching dummy's small diamond. Declarer ruffed a diamond, played another high spade ruffed by East's king and overruffed, and then ruffed his last diamond. He was now able to return to his hand by ruffing a spade low to draw West's nine of trumps with his remaining queen, and that was a precarious 13 tricks.

Could West have set the contract with a different lead? No, but East could have set it by covering dummy's heart 10 with his king. When East then ruffs each high spade with his eight and seven of hearts, forcing declarer to use the queen and jack, West's trump nine would be promoted to the setting trick. The contract is airtight if South could see East's hand. The play would go: diamond ace, spade ace, club to dummy's queen and a club back to the A-K (a diamond being pitched from dummy), diamond ruff, spade king ruffed and overruffed, and the last diamond ruffed. Now the heart 10 from dummy traps East's king, and West's nine does not get promoted.

ACNE MEDICATIONS STAIN HOME TEXTILES
Common acne medications will do more than clear up blemishes; they'll also remove color from clothes and other textiles.

Acne preparations containing benzoyl peroxide will remove color from fabrics, bedspreads, towels, sweaters or carpets. It causes spots and discoloration on all textiles in time, with color change accelerated by moisture and heat.

Since Benzoyl peroxide isn't water soluble, users may think they've washed it off their hands when it's still present.

Once textiles are stained, there's not much that can be done about it.

Vacuuming or brushing up the residue when it's fresh may help reduce damage to a carpet, but will not eliminate it entirely. Usually the only alternatives are to use a marker and try to match the color or to plug the damaged area with fresh carpet.

Spot removal and dry cleaning will not remove discoloration from benzoyl peroxide on clothing, although some fabrics can be dyed a darker color to cover it up.

Teenagers should know that acne treatments have the potential for permanently spotting their clothes, so they can try to avoid contact between the medication and the fabrics.

Washing hands with an abrasive soap and wiping them on paper towels may also help remove residue left on hands.

YOUNG PEOPLE NEED 4-H
4-H, the youth program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is aimed at developing youth through the involvement of parents and other adults who organize and conduct learning experiences in a community setting.

The United States has about 55 million young people between the ages of five and 24, but only one out of three of these now belongs to or have belonged to any character-building organization.

4-H is not just for the farm youngster — it's for everyone. No matter what your child's interests or hobbies, 4-H has a wide range of activities and projects available to meet those interests. These might include photography, gardening, gun safety, energy conservation, or housing plus the more familiar livestock, cooking and sewing projects.

4-H is an activity which parents and children can share, and this is what makes 4-H so special. 4-H is one of only a few organizations which promote the parent-child relationship.

Other advantages can be gained by becoming a 4-H member. 4-H provides the opportunity for leadership developed by working with and helping younger members on various projects while learning from older members. Also, 4-H presents an opportunity to serve others in the community. 4-H has a strong commitment to service, which should be emphasized when children are young.

To learn more about joining the 4-H family, contact the County Extension Office at 573-5423.

Following instructions when voting in the upcoming Beef Referendum is important, particularly regarding absentee voting.

Voting in the referendum will take place in County Extension Offices during normal business hours on May 10.

However, producers and beef importers who are unable to vote in person may request an absentee ballot from Dr. Milo Shult, Beef Referendum State Extension Coordinator, System Building 105A, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843; telephone, 409-845-7907.

Absentee ballots will be available through April 29 and must be marked and returned to the County Extension Office serving the county of voter residence by the close of business on May 3.

When requesting an absentee ballot, an individual must provide his or her name or name of company if voting for a business, mailing address, telephone number and county of residence or the county where the business headquarters is located.

Once the absentee ballot is received, it's important to read the accompanying instructions and to follow them properly. The absentee voter must return the ballot to the County Extension Office in the county of residence or location of business headquarters. The ballot must be in the special envelope that is provided and the voter must put his or her name and address on the outside of the envelope. Failure to follow these procedures will make the vote invalid.

Eligible voters are all producers and importers of cattle who owned or acquired cattle, beef or beef products during the period of Oct. 1, 1986 through March 31 of 1988. This includes 4-H, FFA and other youth who owned cattle during the designated period of time.

Ballots will be counted by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The ASCS will also determine eligibility of challenged voters and ballots, and report referendum results.

Researcher shares endearments in 'Elephant Memories'

NEW YORK (AP) — Cynthia Moss, native of Ossining, N.Y., philosophy major at Smith College and magazine researcher-reporter for four years, took a five-week vacation when she was 27 to visit a friend in Africa.

"I went to see one of the last wilderness areas, but I ended up falling in love with the country," she says.

And later with elephants. So much so that without any scientific training, she has become an authority on the elephants of Amboseli National Park in Kenya and has published an account based on 13 years of observing the population and its behavior through periods of drought and scarcity, plentiful rain and overabundance. She watched as poachers, Masai warriors, injury, disease and tourists interfered. Some survived. Some did not.

Her book, "Elephant Memories," tells much about the intricate bonding among elephants and the elaborate kinship throughout their lives. It's a story of a matriarchal society with rings and rings of relationships, from the most intense, the mother and her newborn calf, to the mother and her other immature offspring, through family units, bond groups and clans.

Moss was able to observe the canniness of the older matriarchs in times of drought. Confirming the powers of elephants' memories, they remembered from previous droughts where vegetation was most likely to survive. In tough times, she found, elephants break up into smaller groups to forage more effectively.

She saw that family members will risk danger, charging the poachers to protect their own, while more distant clan members will run.

"The book is not just about numbers," says Moss, director of elephant research in the park. "I want people to realize how special elephants are. How funny, how endearing they can be. I want people to know that so they care enough to save them."

She writes of the elephantine joy as they greet each other after a separation, or as young males gleefully play-fight with each other. She writes about elephant grief as the mother of a dead calf tries to force grass into its mouth to bring it back to life and tries over and over to hoist it to its feet.

She writes with wonder about what is going on in their brains as they come upon the bones of an elephant and minutely inspect them, throwing them in the air, perhaps to decipher the correct obituary.

One prestigious critic, who liked the book, accused her of anthropomorphizing the behemoths.

"That's a rather out-of-date thing to say," retorts Moss. "A scientist would not make that accusation. That is all part of field work."

Moss considers herself lucky for getting a head start in her field work by being offered a research assistant's job by Iain Douglas-Hamilton, a pioneer in using extensive photography so that he could eventually recognize over 500 individual elephants in a study in Tanzania. Moss worked with him for several years before embarking on her own.

"Today, it would be almost impossible to do it the way I did it," she says. "For someone with no field experience to get a paying job would be almost impossible."

Moss did not live all alone for long periods, such as Jane

Goodall did initially in her studies of chimpanzees, or the late Diane Fossey in her gorilla work. Other researchers were nearby.

"Because we were all expatriates and interested in the same things, there was a real camaraderie," she says. But she was out alone most days in her research vehicle following the elephants.

Observing, photographing, taking notes that would later be fed into the computer. The elephants had both descriptive names, such as Slit Ear, and three-digit code names more palatable to computer analysis.

It is still a hard life. Moss suffered through bouts of malaria and tick fever and was once badly frightened when menaced by a black mamba, a snake whose bite is fatal.

"The thing I don't like about mambas is that they refuse to run away like any other law-abiding snake," she says.

She has shoed leopards away by shouting at them, endured mock charges at her vehicle by the elephants and had her camp "totaled" by elephants when it was left unguarded and the smells of fresh bananas and other delicacies overcame whatever inhibitions they had.

Moss found love among the elephants a remarkable process. When bull elephants are in musth — ready to mate — they show swollen temporal glands on their cheeks that exude viscous liquid.

The bulls also exude a green substance from the business part of the anatomy, which she first mistook for some kind of infection or disease.

She tells about a young female, a bride the first time, who didn't know the rules after breeding with a powerful musth male. A more experienced female sticks close to her consort for three or four days, insuring that less-powerful but greatly interested other males keep a safe distance.

This novice kept wandering off from the musth male, drawing instant pursuit from the lesser males, who wouldn't have ventured close with the musth male on hand. He was forced to thunder across the plain to drive off his rivals.

Because of the duration of her study, Moss was able to note this female had learned proper etiquette by the time she was ready to breed again.

Some of the interesting tidbits, such as the fact that elephants also communicate on an infrasonic level, are not directly from Moss' research, but intertwined with other researchers.

Moss objects strongly to some parks' practices of "culling" the elephants, killing part of the population to keep the numbers under control.

"Elephants are not so many rodents to be exterminated; they deserve something better than that, and I am not afraid to say that ethics and morality should be essential considerations in our decisions for their future," she writes.

"Killing the elephants seems the simplest and most direct solution, but only to people who have not watched individuals over 14 years; have not seen the elephants greet one another with trumpets of joy; seen elephants, adults and calves alike, running and playing across an open plain in the moonlight; seen elephants trying to lift and hold up a stricken companion; seen a female stand by her dead baby for four days; or seen a 7-year-old calf gently fondle and stroke and feel the jaw of his dead mother."

"I wrote this book," she says, "to share this."

English poet Percy Bysshe Shelley died in 1822.

Boy pleads guilty to murder charge

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 14-year-old boy's guilty plea to a murder charge has set the stage for Bexar County's first test of a state law allowing lengthy prison terms for young offenders, prosecutors said.

State District Judge Tom Rickhoff, who handles juvenile matters, accepted the plea Wednesday and will decide next week the teen-ager's punishment for the robbery and shooting death of a city-owned tennis center employee.

Under a new state law, criminals younger than 15 may be sentenced to up to 30 years in prison for serious offenses such as murder.

"This is the first time we've prosecuted a case under this law," Assistant District Attorney Carmen Kelsey said.

The teen-ager was arrested eight days after the Feb. 3 robbery and slaying of Lerlean Fuller Shaw at the Fairdale Park and Tennis Center.

"Is it true or not true?" Rickhoff asked the youth after reading the charge.

"It's true," answered the boy, who appeared in rolled-up blue jeans, a black T-shirt and sneakers.

At the time of his arrest, police described the teen-ager as a "neighborhood terror" who had had several run-ins with the law. He was on probation for attempted burglary.

In a statement to police entered into evidence, the teen-ager said he was high on acid the day he shot and robbed the 59-year-old worker.

Youths convicted under the new law are sent to the Texas Youth Commission until they are 18. At that time, a hearing is held to determine whether the youth then continues his prison sentence in a Texas Department of Corrections adult facility, is released on probation or set free, Kelsey said.

Defense attorney Dennis McKnight told Rickhoff the decision to enter the guilty plea was a decision his client made.

Airlines gearing up for no smoking ban

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's airlines are bracing for new federal regulations banning smoking on thousands of domestic flights, and plan remedies ranging from free candy to legal action for dealing with smokers.

The ban, which takes effect Saturday, outlaws smoking on all domestic flights of less than two hours. Passengers who persist in lighting up face fines of as much as $1,000, while tampering with lavatory smoke alarms carries a $2,000 penalty.

The no-smoking edict will affect an estimated 13,600 flights a day.

Under the new regulations, airlines are required to announce to passengers before takeoff that smoking is prohibited on the flight, and to keep the "No Smoking" indicator lights illuminated for the duration of affected flights.

Many airlines also plan to make announcements in the gate area before passengers board.

American Airlines, for example, says it has devoted more than 4,500 man-hours and spent over $180,000 developing programs to comply with the federal ban. American's flight attendants and ticket agents have been given special instructions to inform passengers about which flights will be non-smoking, and boarding passes have been changed.

"We want to do everything we can to enhance the awareness and understanding of the new law among our passengers," said Robert W. Baker, senior vice president for operations at American, the nation's second-largest airline.

Northwest Airlines, which fired a no-smoking salvo last month by banning smoking on nearly all its domestic flights, plans to hand out candies and mints as well as brochures to passengers at gates and ticket counters.

American will provide hard candies suggested by the American Heart Association and the American Lung Association as a substitute for cigarettes.

Northwest, whose no-smoking policy also goes into effect Saturday, has been conducting a media blitz, including television commercials showing passengers applauding Northwest's smoking ban.

Airlines say they have briefed their cabin crews on the new regulations and how to handle potentially defiant smokers. Flight attendants will tell the rebels that they are in violation of federal law and advise them of the consequences.

If a passenger persists in smoking, airlines may notify authorities at the plane's next destination, arrange for the plane to be met by the police or even divert the aircraft in some cases.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Comments thoughtlessly uttered today could later come home to roost. Carefully weigh your remarks before voicing them to friends. This could avoid later repercussions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There's a possibility that you might not fully capitalize on your material opportunities today. You'll reap gains, but they're not likely to be what they could be.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today, you may run into opposition from people who are usually cooperative. Don't attempt to bully your way through — it will only complicate matters.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Problems with which you may have to contend today could be of your own making. Don't operate in ways that don't serve your best interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before involving yourself in new projects or ventures, give serious consideration to how they may affect your time and resources.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your views and objectives and those of people with whom you associate might be poles apart today. Test the waters before taking a stance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An issue about which you feel strongly may be opposed by companions today. Don't disregard all of their criticisms. Some could be valid and constructive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions could be tricky at this time where investments are concerned. Guard against becoming involved in something that could become more of a burden than a benefit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A decision pertaining to an important matter should not be made hastily today. It has more ramifications than may be apparent at first glance.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make an extra effort to be tactful and considerate when dealing with co-workers today. If you get off on the wrong foot, it could shut down the production line.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Use discretion when selecting companions today. Give a wide berth to people who deal in intrigues as well as individuals who are, too negative.

In the year ahead, you may be presented with an extremely unusual commercial proposal. It will have merit, but you'd be wise to seek expert advice before getting involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone who usually disagrees with you can be swayed to your way of thinking today. However, it will take some skillful selling on your part to do so. Major changes are ahead for Taurus in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be overly dismayed by a development early in the day that has negative overtones. It can be rectified rather easily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, you may get some flashes of insight regarding ways to improve your financial position. They'll have merit if implemented properly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Conditions that have an effect on your work or career are likely to be more favorable than usual today and tomorrow. Don't waste opportunities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your degree of success today is likely to be determined by your ability to make quick, on-the-spot adjustments to conditions as they arise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A better way of dealing with a social situation may occur to you today. Even though it means making an unusual change, it should be seriously considered.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Certain facts that have been hidden from view pertaining to a matter that affects your status will be revealed. They will vindicate your position.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though others will have more control than you regarding a matter that is meaningful to your security, it still looks like it will be managed to your satisfaction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This can be a rewarding day for you. However, don't allow yourself to be drawn into the complicated affairs of others where you have no real stake.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Try not to push subordinates too hard today, because they could cause problems you'll find unmanageable. Patience and tolerance will avoid this problem.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If your past methods and tactics have not been as productive as you hoped they would be, it's time to revise your thinking and try something different.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll receive some unexpected news today. It will enable you to make revisions regarding a decision you must make shortly.

Texas couple arrested in newborn kidnapping case

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — An infant taken from a hospital four hours after his birth has been found, and a Texas couple have been arrested in the case.

A policeman involved in the recovery happened to be the infant's godfather and namesake.

Albert Cecil Dwayne Lewis, 25, and Judy K. Lewis, 32, both of Crowell, Texas, were arrested in Holbrook after the infant was found early Thursday in the back seat of a car, said police Capt. Bob Reed.

The infant was taken Wednesday from Yavapai Regional Medical Center in Prescott, apparently by a woman masquerading as a hospital laboratory worker. Police said the woman told the mother she was taking the baby for tests.

Mrs. Lewis said in a court appearance in Holbrook that she was forced into participating in the abduction because her husband wanted a baby.

The Lewises were returned to Prescott, where they were being held in Yavapai County Jail in lieu of $137,000 bail each on charges of kidnapping, burglary, felony endangerment and custodial interference.

Yavapai County sheriff's Capt. Robert Carson said Friday that he was notified that morning that the initial three charges had been amended late Thursday to include the kidnapping count. He said earlier today that prosecutors were studying whether the couple could be charged with kidnapping.

Douglas Gerwitz, newborn son of Lisa and John Gerwitz of the Payson area, was discovered after Mrs. Lewis asked Holbrook police for traveler's aid, such as gas money and a place to stay, Sgt. Stewart Bracke said.

Amnesty applications flood center

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The local legalization center is being flooded with so many amnesty applicants that many are being asked to return later for required interviews, officials said.

Chief Legalization Officer Omer Bangs said Thursday that more aliens are applying for amnesty now because the May 4 deadline is quickly approaching.

"It looks like they're really getting serious (about applying) now," he said. "We were having large crowds before, but we were not receiving a large number of applications."

Parents alarmed by evangelist who is predicting nuclear war

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When Gloria Ahern arrived at her daughter's home about a week ago, she found an empty house, strangers at the door and family mementos in the trash.

The house, she learned, had been hurriedly sold, and her pregnant daughter, her son-in-law and grandchild had vanished.

A few days later, she said, her 35-year-old daughter called to say, "Hi, Mommy. We're in South Carolina praising the Lord."

"I said, 'Linda, you're sick. Please come home.' And with that she hung up."

Mrs. Ahern, of suburban Broomall, is among a group of 40 people in the Delaware Valley who believe their children have fallen prey to a Christian cult inspired by a southern radio evangelist called Brother R.G. Stair.

She said Stair's broadcast predictions of nuclear holocaust induced her children to sell their belongings for a song and seek shelter at his organization's farm in Walterboro, S.C.

Under his command or the dictates of his agents, his followers have abandoned their families and friends, signed over their funds and upended their lives, other parents said.

"That's ridiculous," said Stair, a 54-year-old self-proclaimed prophet, from his 74-acre farm on Thursday. "There is no power that I have that compels people to do anything. I'm like a doctor or a lawyer. I can give my opinion, I can tell them what's best for them, and that's as far as I can go."

"They have been under mind control, absolutely that's what it is, for months on end," Mrs. Ahern insisted. "They were like puppets on a string. If they were told to do something they did it."

Mary Del Guidice, also of Broomall, said she has put a lien on her daughter's house to try to stop her from leaving town.

"They think the world is going to end, we are all going to die and go to hell, except his people who go down south. There they are going to be safe," she said.

The parents have sought support from two area pastors and the Cult Awareness Network, a national non-profit group based in Chicago. The president of the Philadelphia affiliate, Marjorie Patton, said Stair's organization has all the characteristics of a cult, and she compared him to Jim Jones, whose followers committed mass suicide in Guyana.

"It's very important to recognize that the potential for tragedy is quite high," she said. "When a leader has that much control over people, then you know they can gain more control."

IRS revokes PTL's tax exempt status

ATLANTA (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service announced Friday it has revoked the tax-exempt status of the troubled PTL ministry.

The announcement follows a court ruling earlier this week dissolving a preliminary injunction that had prevented the IRS from taking such action.

Les Witmer, a spokesman for the IRS regional office in Atlanta, said the action was taken because "we felt the organization has not operated within the guidelines ... in its original charter."

He said court papers filed in conjunction with PTL's bankruptcy proceedings indicated that individuals in the organization had profited substantially from donations made to the ministry and that PTL had "excessive unrelated business income or income which was not really in keeping with the tax-exempt purpose."

Linda Ivey, a PTL spokeswoman, said ministry officials were not immediately available for comment.

An IRS statement said the agency "can no longer assure taxpayers of the deductibility of contributions to PTL," effective immediately.

Past contributions are fully deductible, however, it said. And if PTL appeals the action to federal court, contributions by individuals would still be deductible up to $1,000 until the appeal is decided, the IRS said.

The IRS said it would re-evaluate the situation if PTL is re-established or forms a new, exclusively charitable organization.

PTL's troubles began in March 1987 when its founder, Jim Bakker, resigned amid allegations of sexual improprieties. The ministry, based in Fort Mill, S.C., filed for reorganization in federal bankruptcy court in June 1987.

By Donny Brown

It's nice to think bad luck can't be worse than a 50-50 deal, but don't try to explain that to anyone undergoing a streak of the stuff.

By saying 50-50, we mean it figures that for every lousy, crummy thing that happens to you for no known reason, you should be due at least as many wonderful, unexpected things.

To what degree you believe this depends heavily on how things are going at the moment.

We do believe in a thing called random chance—that cosmic doo-hickey which makes a quarter come up heads or tails an even number of times. And we believe that what goes down comes around.

By taking a combination of these two assumptions, we figure the head foobah who directs such things should follow some road map of natural law.

Ipso-facto, that fuzzy unknown we call luck—both good and bad—has to be spread out evenly in some shape, form or manner.

But, and there are a whole bunch of "buts" connected with good and bad luck, we wonder this.

SDN Opinion Page

Editorials-Columns-Cartoons-Kid Stuff-Look Back-Letters

If it's a 50-50 proposition, why does bad luck seem to be self-perpetuating? In fact, it sometimes seems like an elephant gun wouldn't stop it.

This while good luck can be halted in its tracks by as brief a thing as a chance remark from an idiot bystander (hence the old superstition of never mentioning a lucky streak to anyone who happens to be on one).

The greatest good fortune all of us begin with is the fact that we are born. This, of course, events out in the end when we once again have our ticket pulled, often times entirely against our will. Again, a 50-50 deal.

Assuming it is true, the perspective of equal parts good to bad luck tends to drift because of those long middle times when nothing seems to happen.

Pity the poor fool who has just finished up a three-year run of good luck. Which means he'll have a brief middling period, then it's going to be dues-paying time for all that blessed good fortune.

Football coaches, motivational pitchmen and almost every successful nabob who can draw an audience will tell you that people make their own luck.

Don't assume we'll bad mouth such factors as a positive attitude and a willingness to work hard—self starting principles that will offer anyone an edge in the luck category.

But we can't shake the uneasy suspicion that if luck was an umbrella, some folks couldn't raise it sitting on a sack of fertilizer.

And that there are a few golden-plated souls who breeze through life with such ease, they hardly leave a wake of misfortune or malcontent.

One really scary possibility of the 50-50 theory is that it is calculated on a group basis rather than per individual.

For example, take a bunch of 100 folks. What if 70 of them are going to have good luck 70 percent of the time and 30 of them are going to have really rotten luck an equal 70 percent?

Apply some simple arithmetic to show who gets the short end of that proverbial stick.

The scary part is, it may not be fair, but it does average out.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

(This column is the second in a three-part series on illness and wellness.)

Last week I wrote about illness. This week I am going to write about wellness. It is, literally, a state of mind and a way of life. This week I'm going to speak in generalities. Next week I'll give you specifics, concrete things you can do to help yourself get well—or to stay well and live happier.

In the past 10 years, the medical community has become more and more aware of the complex interrelation between our minds and bodies. Through the pioneering efforts of people such as Norman Cousins, who became famous for "laughing himself well," doctors are finally realizing that the human being is not like an automobile engine, (it gets a little shaky so you add a squirt of oil). Even research scientists are learning that negative, destructive thought patterns and attitudes can poison our bodies, just as surely as positive, constructive thoughts and attitudes can heal.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not saying we should stay away from doctors. Far from it, I'm saying that standard medical treatment, COMBINED with an overhaul in attitude can have miraculous results in bringing about a cure, or at least substantially improving the quality of our lives during the course of an illness.

The beautiful thing about this is that it is as ancient as the Bible. Jesus told us not to borrow trouble by worrying about tomorrow, but to live, essentially, one day at a time. The apostle Paul wrote that we should saturate our thoughts with all that is good and pure and true. In short: positive thinking.

That's too simplistic, you say. In a sense, you have a point. There is a little more to it than just thinking positive thoughts. If we are ill and we want to be well, or if we are unhappy and don't know how to feel good, we are going to have to roll up our sleeves and do a little work. But first, let's look at some things we can do that require little or no effort at all.

Although Paul didn't have this in mind 2,000 years ago, here are some ways we can surround ourselves with positives today.

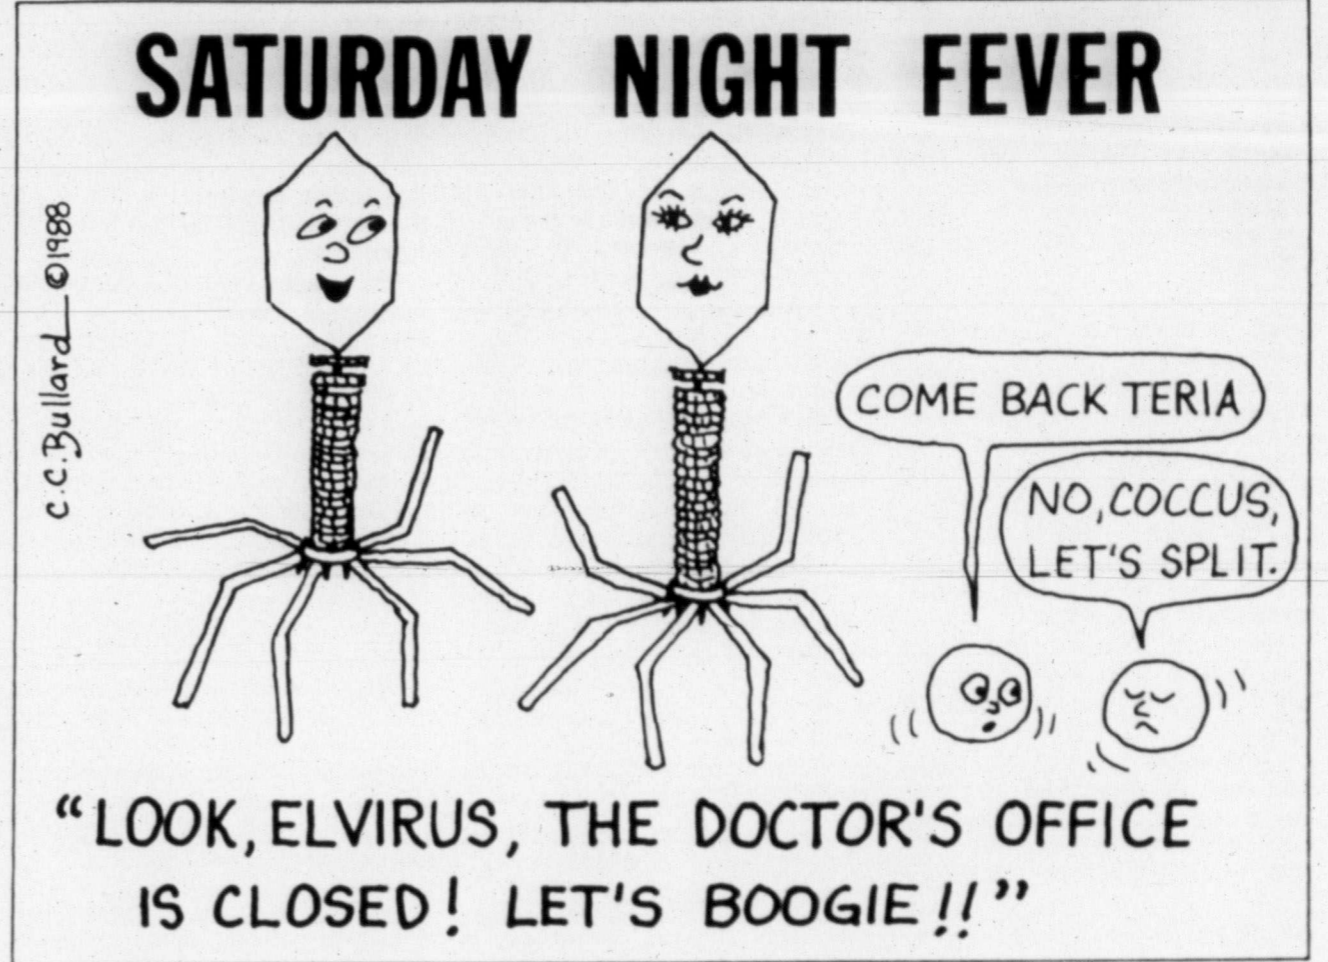

We can watch TV shows that make us laugh. Avoid intense movies or books with tragic, haunting endings. Spend time with friends who make us feel good about ourselves. Watch Daffy Duck. Go outside and play in the rain with kids. Learn from them how to be young again. Select music with a happy beat. I have a collection of "Big Chill" music I love—it's impossible to be depressed when you hear, "Jeremiah was a bullfrog, was a good friend of mine," on the stereo.

Laughter literally releases chemicals into the body called endorphins that heal as well as lift our spirits. We need to quit trying to be polite all the time. Learn to guffaw. There is nothing physically better for us than a good belly laugh.

One really important thing to do is set priorities for ourselves. What is REALLY important? What I was trying to say in last week's column is that my family and my writing are more important to me than a spotless home. I have only so much energy available to me each day and I use it for the important things. I don't worry about the rest. Supermom is dead.

Another healing thing to do is to get involved in some cause greater than and outside our own concerns. Giving of some of our time and energy—no matter how limited—to help other people makes us feel good—literal-

MONDAY

April 18

The heaviest rainfall of 1988 to date was reported across Scurry County Saturday night, showers that added up to 1.5 inches in some local areas, it was reported Monday.

The local rains were sufficient to require a change for the ground breaking ceremony for the new Texas Department of Corrections prison.

A crowd estimated at 600 individuals attended Monday's noon luncheon commemorating the ground breaking for the Texas Department of Correction prison unit here.

Keynote speaker was Texas Board of Corrections Chairman Charles T. Terrell, who said he will seek more money for expansion of prison units in the 1989 legislative session. He said he will seek also major changes in methods of dealing with inmates.

Following a conference call Monday with involved attorneys, District Judge Joe Evins of Edinburg has authorized an order be-drawn up allowing a "non-suit" sought by plaintiffs who legally challenged incentive offers related to the Texas Department of Corrections prison here.

Once the document is signed, it will end the legal challenge to the Scurry County prison "without prejudice." This qualification holds the door open for future lawsuits related to the prison issue.

City councilmen Monday night reviewed the proposed franchise ordinance to effect the sale of SCAT TV Cable to Snyder Cablevision Associates of Colorado City and New York City and indicated that the 29-page document should be ready for a second reading by the regular May 9 council meeting.

TUESDAY

April 19

Scurry County commissioners Tuesday discussed but took no action on moving the old Hermleigh School building from three miles south of that city to the Hermleigh Community Center grounds.

Members of the Sons of Herman Lodge, owner of the 1927-vintage two-classroom building, said it is in good condition now but will inevitably fall into disrepair or be destroyed if it is not moved from its isolated location.

But, Commissioner Ted Billingsley, whose precinct encompasses Hermleigh, said he had received a number of telephone calls in opposition to putting the building near the community center Monday night and Tuesday morning.

Snyder Chamber of Commerce directors Tuesday added their names to the list of those endorsing the newly formed group to support and promote the city bond issue referendum scheduled May 7.

An award has been instigated here to recognize individual achievement for a six-week period at Snyder High School by the Council for Educational Excellence, the organization formed to support academic endeavors in the Snyder public schools, it was reported Wednesday.

The first winner of the group's "Academic Achievement Award" is sophomore Robert Neblett. The student was nominated by his Spanish instructor, Dr. Albert Taylor.

The 1 percent sales tax return for Snyder continues to run ahead of last year with the latest report—totals which will be aided all year with the expanded sales tax base which went into effect in January, it was reported Wednesday.

Statewide, the returns were running an average of 6.5 percent head for the year-to-date, while Snyder's was quoted at a higher 8.9 percent.

In addition, the monthly return here was a 19 percent improvement over last year's figure. The latest monthly return equaled $57,840 compared to $46,742 last year.

All lawsuits over the construction of a power line by TU Electric through Winston Ranch property south and west of Snyder have been settled with an agreed $15,000 judgment for the Winston family, its heirs and potential heirs, it was reported Thursday.

TU Electric had deposited $59,990 with 132nd District Court when the dispute developed almost a year ago, and that will be returned to the company except for the $15,000.

Snyder High School's Symphonic Band was again a sweepstakes winner—indicating a Division I rating in three major competition areas—following the annual spring UIL contest held Thursday in Abilene.

In the fall, the Black and Gold marching band won a Division I in marching competition. Thursday, they added to this a I rating in both concert and sightreading at the Abilene Cooper High School event.

Drug could affect male fertility

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: After six years of infertility, I got pregnant three months after my husband switched from Dilantin to Tegretol for treatment of epilepsy. Could the drugs have affected his low and sluggish sperm count?

DEAR READER: According to the manufacturer, Dilantin has not been associated with sperm abnormalities in male patients. However, the drug has many side effects and, in my opinion, a relation to infertility is not out of the question.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My son and I are both bothered by charley horses. What can we do about them?

DEAR READER: Charley horses are muscle cramps in the legs, which can occur at night or, more commonly, in association with exercise. Nocturnal leg cramps can be treated by stretching or using quinine sulfate tablets at bedtime. Exercise-induced cramps are often helped by stretching, increasing warm-up time, massage, avoiding salt depletion and dehydration from sweating, or adding potassium and calcium supplements to the diet.

Since leg-muscle cramps can indicate a sports injury from overexertion, you and your son should be checked by your doctor to make sure that no injury has taken place.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My father is 71 and has had a traumatic brain injury for 10 years. He is on drugs for seizures. During the past year and a half, he's fallen and broken his hip, had a TUR and an inguinal-hernia repair, and has had two pacemakers for left bundle branch block. His complaints are constant tiredness, numbness in arms and fingers, constipation, ringing in the ears, leg pain, headache, etc. He feels that all of this is due to the brain injury. What do you think?

DEAR READER: I have difficulty blaming your elderly father's many ailments on one cause. He certainly has had his share of problems in the past year and a half, and I suspect that much of his ill health may simply be related to his various conditions. I suggest that you meet with his doctor and attempt to sort out your father's panoply of complaints.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am very self-conscious about the fact that my ears stick out. Does anyone still "pin" ears back?

DEAR READER: Yes. See a plastic surgeon to discuss the pros and cons of cosmetic surgery.

Women smokers risk their lives

If you're like me, you can't resist occasionally thumbing through old magazines of the 1930s and 1940s — especially Life and The Saturday Evening Post — just to look at the advertisements. Some of the products in the ads are still available, although, of course, they're marketed in a more up-to-date fashion. I particularly admire the old cars. They were glorious and were sold at what seem to have been extraordinarily low prices. The mid-century appliances, too, were quaint by modern standards.

However, it is the cigarette ads that really document the tremendous changes that have marked the evolution of this product.

At the turn of the century, smoking was reserved for the very rich, the very debonair — and the very "indecent." As late as the 1920s, tobacco companies refused to promote cigarettes to women, for fear of a prohibitionist backlash. In the 1940s, professional athletes — such as Johnny Weismuller — endorsed smoking as a healthful habit to increase physical performance and improve fitness. Today, we grimace at how misleading old cigarette ads were. We are dismayed at how naive we were to have believed them.

Modern entrepreneurs are much more skillful in presenting tobacco products, and these products are much more likely to be directed toward capturing a female market. In the past 30 years, cigarette manufacturers have cleverly identified smoking with women's emancipation and, recently, with slimness. Realizing that our culture equates obesity with social unattractiveness, tobacco promoters have repeatedly emphasized that women can control their weight by smoking because nicotine does reduce appetite. Themes like "you've come a long way, baby" have deteriorated into slick copy that panders to women's obsession to be thin and sexually attractive. In addition, cigarette packaging is often designed for feminine appeal. "Slim" cigarettes are in vogue. Some companies go so far as to offer discounted women's products in return for choosing a particular brand of cigarette.

Unfortunately, this marketing ploy is based, to a degree, on truth: Smokers do tend to weigh less than non-smokers. However, the trade-off in health is astronomical. In a recent study in the New England Journal of Medicine, scientists reported on the consequences of smoking in a group of 120,000 female nurses.

The results were astonishing. Depending on the number of cigarettes consumed per day, the smokers showed up to 500 percent increased risk for heart attack. Among women smoking in excess of a pack a day, more than 80 percent of heart attacks were judged to be directly attributable to smoking. Other effects of cigarettes included lung cancer, cervical and uterine cancer, possible breast cancer, chronic respiratory diseases, early menopause, fractured bones from accelerated osteoporosis, and deleterious effects on unborn children. Women smokers showed reduced fertility, increased rate of stillbirths and a panoply of medical conditions in their offspring, such as defects in growth, intellectual capacity and emotional development.

Currently, 26 percent of women smoke, compared to 32 percent of men. Today's female is a heavier smoker and starts at a younger age than in the past. More high-school girls smoke than their male classmates. "The prevalence of lifetime smoking has declined very slowly in women, from 51 percent in those now 68 to 77 years of age to 47 percent in those now 20 to 24," the study reported. "In sharp contrast, the corresponding decline in men has been from 77 to 38 percent."

In a few years, we will probably look back with shame on the indecent way women have been exploited by the tobacco industry. Shrewd advertising companies are making millions of dollars by inventing whatever messages will sell cigarettes. They say that to be beautiful, desirable and socially acceptable, you have to smoke. The ad executives fail to tell us the facts about smoking, namely, that smoking has repeatedly been shown to cause premature aging and death, along with other serious health problems in persons of both sexes, as well as in their non-smoking children. If women are truly going to maintain their emancipation and freedom, they should demand counteradvertising methods and smoking-prevention programs to overcome a powerful industry that seems increasingly to be encouraging us all to self-destruct.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Meese recuses himself from deals with wife's benefactor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III did not remove himself from government decisions involving the wealthy Bender family that supplies his wife's salary until a news report disclosed that a Bender partnership had won a $50 million lease for Justice Department offices, Meese's spokesman says.

Responding to questions Thursday, Justice Department spokesman Terry Eastland said Meese "indicated to me that as of his first hearing about any matter of the department that might involve the Benders, he has recused himself."

Eastland said Meese first learned of that relationship when he read an April 13 Associated Press story on the Justice Department's $50 million lease in 1987 with the Bender partnership. Eastland said he did not know whether Meese had put his recusal decision in a written memo to aides.

Meese's recusal came one week after Bender family members signed a separate, $1.1-million deal to provide additional offices for the Justice Department, government records show.

That is the second major lease involving the Bender family and the Justice Department since the family foundation began funding Ursula Meese's job in January 1986.

Meese and the Justice Department officials say he played no role in either lease and there was no connection between the deals and Ursula Meese's salary. Mrs. Meese's $40,000-a-year salary at the Multiple Sclerosis Society is paid by a grant from the Bender Foundation, the family's tax-exempt philanthropy, according to MS attorney James Bierbower.

Recusal is a common way government officials and private lawyers avoid conflicts of interest, or the appearance of them, by removing themselves from decisions in which they may appear to benefit financially.

Donald Campbell, general counsel of the Office of Government Ethics, said in an interview that recusal is the "safer, prudent" step for any Cabinet official who learns of a connection like the one involving the Meeses and Benders.

New York University law professor Stephen Gillers, an expert on legal ethics, said in an interview that "it's a little late" for Meese to recuse himself.

"Frankly, once she got the job, it was his job to inquire about the source of funds. ... As soon as he knew the Benders were the source directly or indirectly of Mrs. Meese's salary, he should have sent around (a) screening memorandum" telling subordinates he would take no part in Bender-related decisions.

Independent Counsel James McKay is investigating Mrs. Meese's salary and the Bender family's real estate dealings with the Justice Department as part of his inquiry into whether Meese has any criminal conflicts of interest. Mrs. Meese appeared before McKay's grand jury Thursday.

The Benders, two of whom have appeared before the grand jury, have refused to comment as has their attorney, Seymour Glazer.

The Bender family has large real estate holdings in Washington. The family has built U.S. government buildings, including FBI headquarters, and has leased several offices to the government.

The Bender family's role in paying Mrs. Meese's salary was publicly disclosed in The Washington Post on March 30.

On April 8, the General Services Administration, the government housekeeping agency, signed a two-year lease for $694,236 coupled with a $430,000 renovation contract with Blake Development Co. and Blake Construction Co., respectively.

Blake Construction Co. is a Bender family firm. Blake Development is a partnership which includes three members of the Bender family, Blake Construction and five other persons.

When The Associated Press first asked the GSA on April 5-6 for all Bender or Blake leases with Justice, this lease was not disclosed because negotiations were not final, GSA spokesman Dale Bruce said. It was provided April 20 after The AP called back and specifically requested it based on information developed elsewhere.

The lease covers 12,522 square feet on the fourth floor of The Blake Building, three blocks from the White House.

Tandy announces first erasable compact disk

NEW YORK (AP) — Tandy Corp. says it plans to sell the first erasable-recordable compact disk, an announcement that angered the recording industry, which fears consumers will use the product to copy music at home.

The Fort Worth, Texas-based electronics manufacturer, which markets its products through its Radio Shack stores, also announced Thursday it will introduce a fast new personal computer that follows the design of International Business Machines Corp.'s year-old Personal System-2.

Tandy said the compact disk, known as the Thor CD, would be available for music in 1½ to two years and for data about a year after that, once recording and playback devices are built. The Thor CD could also be played — although not recorded on — in standard compact disk players, Tandy said.

"We're always concerned about technologies that threaten to enable consumers to infringe on copyrights," said Trish Heimers, spokeswoman for the Recording Industry Association of America.

The association has fought digital audio tape, or DAT, technology that would allow people to make high-quality recordings at home.

Tandy said it would not only manufacture Thor CD equipment, but would also license other companies to make it.

Some day the invention might yield the company "hundreds of millions of dollars" a year in profits from sales and royalties, John Roach, Tandy's chairman and chief executive, said at a New York news conference.

The Verbatim division of Eastman Kodak has said it will introduce read-write compact disk technology, and several Japanese companies are known to be working on similar products. The New York Times reported today.

The Times said some industry analysts were skeptical about Tandy's invention, in part because Tandy didn't show working hardware at the introduction.

"This is by no means a perfected technology," said Tim Bajarin, an analyst with Creative Strategies in Santa Clara, Calif.

Tandy said it will be selling its Tandy 5000 MC in volume by July, a few months before Dell Computer Corp. of Austin, Texas, the only other company that has announced a PS-2 "clone."

Tandy officials said their new computer was covered by a patent cross-licensing agreement with IBM, although certain PS-2 patents that may be issued to IBM in the future are still subject to negotiations.

Tandy stock rose $2.62½ a share to $45.75 Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Bentsen says...

Boulter 'fair-weather' friend to energy industry in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Beau Boulter is a fair-weather friend of the Texas energy industry for voting against sweeping trade legislation that would also repeal the windfall profit tax on oil, a spokesman for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says.

The comments came after Boulter accused Texas' senior senator of holding the oil patch hostage to the interests of labor for supporting a bill that packages repeal of the windfall profit tax with a provision requiring all but the smallest companies to give 60-day notice of plant closings and large-scale layoffs.

Despite Republican opposition to the plant-closing part of the bill, the House passed the omnibus trade legislation Thursday by a vote of 312-107.

Although President Reagan threatens to veto the bill as long as the plant-closing section remains intact, the margin in the House is enough to override.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., planned to begin debate today. He was shooting for a vote on final passage early next week.

Texans in the House voted largely along party lines, with 15 Democrats and two Republicans — Mac Sweeney and Larry Combest — voting for the measure, and Boulter and six other Republicans voting it down.

Three other members of the delegation of 27 did not vote, including House Speaker Jim Wright of Fort Worth, who by tradition seldom votes, and Reps. Kika de la Garza and Lamar Smith.

Boulter will continue to push for a trade bill without the plant closing part, and said Bentsen's support of that provision shows the Democrat is putting "an ever-powerful labor agenda" ahead of the oil industry.

President worried about nuclear weapons treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is voicing fear that Senate failure to approve a nuclear missile treaty quickly will "put a strain" on his summit next month with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Answering questions from an audience in Springfield, Mass., Reagan also sought Thursday to lower expectations that the superpowers will agree soon on an accord to slash their arsenals of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

During a speech which White House officials said would outline some U.S. objectives at the May 29-June 2 summit in Moscow,

Reagan said relations between Washington and Moscow have reached "a period of realistic engagement."

The president said the United States has achieved some successes in recent dealings with the Kremlin because American policy toward the Soviet Union has placed more emphasis on preaching the gospel of freedom around the world — rather than merely seeking to contain communist expansionism.

Reagan's speech to the World Affairs Council of Western Massachusetts was the second of its kind in recent weeks as he and his aides prepare for the coming summit.

Asked by a law student to describe what would happen if the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces treaty is not ratified by the Senate by the time the summit arrives, Reagan said, "I think it would be very upsetting and it would put a strain on the summit."

"We hope and pray that they will (approve the pact), but the scheduling of it has been such that I am very concerned we may have to go without having it ratified," he said.

Reagan got little comfort on that score Thursday, as Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., declared, "I am not going to rush to judgment."

Continued From Page 8B coverage that the high school and college teams do, but they do get television coverage and personal recognition.

To qualify to enter the state games, our athletes had to place first, second or third in any one event entered at the area level. All 17 of the Go-Getters qualified for state. This speaks very well for our special athletes and for the few people who trained and coached them. Unfortunately, the team will not get to participate in the state games because there are not enough interested people to volunteer to help chaperone them. They must have chaperones!

Thanks to all who have volunteered training and coaching time. Thanks also to the faithful ones who have donated money to help the team be a part of the various events.

If anyone has any questions about Special Olympics or is interested in becoming a part of this very special group, please contact me at 573-0961.

Continued From Page 8B fund-raising and other activities that have kept that shelter open and functioning well. The sense of purpose actually increases my physical strength. Try it.

Another important thing for us to do is monitor our stress levels. Prolonged stress breaks down the immune system that keeps us well. Last fall, someone very close to me was suicidal for a time. (Don't worry. You don't know this person.) All those late-night despairing phone calls took their toll on me, and I suffered a severe relapse of all my symptoms. It's taken several months to rebuild my strength.

It takes time, but we can train ourselves to look at situations we confront in a positive, hopeful manner. At first, you have to force yourself to mentally list all the good points concerning a problem, what you can learn from it, how you can grow from it. There is something to the "glass is half empty-half full" theory. We don't ignore our problems. We just look at them differently. Another thing I've learned is to be open to new experiences — treat life as an adventure and myself as an explorer. And I've finally stopped tacking myself so seriously. My daddy used to say, "Life is a joke. Best learn to laugh at it."

Lastly, never underestimate the power of hope for the future and faith in a Being greater than ourselves to energize and vitalize our lives. Despair and cynicism are unhealthy. Hope and faith are healthy. It's as simple as that.

The life force that flows through all of us is a powerful current. When we learn to harness that current and let it work for us, it will take us on one exciting ride. Next week, I'll show you how.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

'Wet' city exists in 'dry' county

LOS YBANEZ, Texas (AP) — Three signs on the southern outskirts of Lamesa tell the visitor he is getting close.

One, a state road sign, points the way. Another asks travelers to visit the tiny community. A third, a small billboard, is even more pointed in its reference. "Los Ybanez — 1 mile — A Wet City In This County!" the sign proclaims.

A short drive down a paved county road leads the visitor to a copse of trees. There, situated on the better part of an 83-acre tract of land, are roughly two dozen wood frame homes, and the only store in Dawson County where one can legally buy beer.

Los Ybanez, which is on the site of a former labor camp built for migrant farmworkers in 1941, is the creation of Israel Ybanez, a proponent of legalized alcohol sales since the 1970s.

After backing several unsuccessful wet-dry elections, Ybanez' dream of legalized beer sales began to take form in 1980 when he bought the one-time labor camp.

Following his purchase, Ybanez began to improve the 40-year-old migrant workers' homes, encouraging friends and relatives to move into the buildings, he said.

In 1982, 39 residents of the area unanimously voted to incorporate the site into a town, and in December of that year, residents voted 50-1 to allow the sale of beer in the municipality.

Legalized beer sales, however, faced legal hurdles and objections by Dawson County residents. It was not until 1984 — following several court hearings — that the sale of beer for off-premise consumption was authorized.

Today, the passions of the past that swirled around the town and its owner appear to have subsided.

County Judge Glenn White said that Ybanez, who serves as city manager of the town, is working toward making Los Ybanez into a practicing municipality.

"He is trying to do a good job," White said. "They're trying to make it into a municipality. I haven't heard of any problems out there."

Ybanez, who works part-time in sales at a Chrysler-Plymouth dealership when he is not running the fledgling city, is as serious about citizenship, it appears, as he is about beer sales.

Customers encounter several signs when they approach the beer store's drive-in window.

One sign reminds customers to register to vote; another lists the penalties associated with drunken driving; a third is a chart listing the cumulative effects of alcohol.

"You won't find anything like that anywhere else," Ybanez will tell you when he points out the signs to visitors.

Ybanez said that, although legalized beer sales were always in the back of his mind, it was not the sole reason for establishing the town.

"Making it wet was not the the main reason," Ybanez maintains. The reason was that it would be a town where people would elect their officers ... and make it something to be proud of." Today, Los Ybanez has a city charter and is governed by four city councilmen and Ybanez' wife, Mary, who serves as town mayor.

The couple occupy a migrant worker's house that has been converted into an apartment; the other half of the building serves as city hall.

Across the street, a former community center serves as a church for the town.

Several unpaved streets wind through the community, but Ybanez said the roads will eventually be paved.

Meanwhile, he devotes most of his time and money to refurbishing the interiors of the former migrant workers' homes, leaving much of the daily operation of the beer store to employees.

"We help each other out," Ybanez said of his neighbors, adding that he hopes one day to sell the rental homes, giving city residents a shot at home ownership.

Seafood With Fishy Smell Is Likely Less Than Fresh

DEAR ABBY: Can you stomach another letter about cooking fresh fish? After 60-plus years in the seafood business, we know that fish smells "fishy" when it cooks, usually because it isn't fresh. Overcooked fish will also have that odor. The practice of thawing out frozen fish and trying to pass it off as fresh fish has given many a cook a bad experience. We recommend buying fresh fish only from a reliable fishmonger, or buying only top-quality frozen fish. Few home refrigerators are cold enough to store fish properly, so fish should be eaten the day of purchase.

The lady who complained about the cooking odors should present her neighbor with a pound of really fresh fish, accompanied by a recipe with the proper cooking time. We recommend 10 minutes per inch of thickness at medium-high heat. That means, a fillet that is 3/4 inch thick should be cooked for only 7 or 8 minutes. Adding a little wine, or water and lemon juice, to the cooking pan will prevent odors as well. Who knows, the lady who complained could end up staying for dinner!

NANCY BURHOP, CHICAGO

DEAR NANCY: Thanks. I learned something today. Readers, fresh fish should smell like cucumbers, and "fresh" means it's "never been frozen."

DEAR ABBY: I have a question for your readers. Have you ever come in from shopping and your child has fallen asleep in the car seat? Have you decided to let him sleep for a few minutes more while you open the door and throw your frozen foods into the freezer? If you have, think of this.

I shut off my car, went into the house, and approximately three minutes later, I smelled smoke. My car was on fire. Fortunately, I had not left anyone in the car — but I know of parents who do. Also, because I'm sure some readers will wonder — I do not smoke. My 1981 Pontiac burned in less than 10 minutes!

Abby, it had never occurred to me that a car could catch fire after the engine (motor) had been turned off. I hope your column will bring this to people's attention and prevent a tragedy.

LUCKY IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR LUCKY: Thanks for what could be a lifesaving item.

DEAR ABBY: Our father is 90 years old and requires complete care in a nursing home, which costs about $30,000 a year.

My sister says we should take Dad's money out of his name and put it all in our names, because we are told that in two years, the government will take over the cost of Dad's care and we can have what's left of his money.

My sister says this is legal, and our father planned to leave his money to us anyway.

It seems unfair to me to make our father penniless when he's worked hard all his life to have what he has. It's great that the government will take over when a person's money runs out, but I think this is taking advantage of a good thing.

What do you think? We need to make a decision.

SOMEWHERE IN OHIO

DEAR SOMEWHERE: Have you asked your father what he thinks? I cannot assume that because your father is 90, he is incompetent. If he is, and you and your sister have guardianship, I think you should consult with your financial and legal advisers.

Problems? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.

DEAR ABBY: At last! I've found it! I've been searching through boxes of papers — I knew I had it somewhere. Several years ago, I clipped the enclosed letter from your column and copied it for a "hand-out" to a class of teen-agers.

Tell me, Dear Abby, would you dare print such a letter today, or have your moral values changed as have those of the popular majority? Today, more than ever, this is the kind of counsel that should be preached from the housetops — and everywhere else.

Do you still consider illicit sex an immoral act? I pray you do. Think of the problems it causes, to name a few: unwanted pregnancies, unwed mothers, uncared-for children, poorly trained parents, aborted careers, welfare stigma — and now we have the horrible threat of AIDS.

Our young people need to be taught that abstinence until marriage, regardless of the message from movies, TV and society, is the only way to "prove your love."

MRS. LIONEL J. CHAMBERS, NORTH OGDEN, UTAH

Here's your letter:

WHAT IS REAL LOVE?

Girls need to "prove their love" through illicit sex relations like a moose needs a hatrack. Why not "prove your love" by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? And how about playing leapfrog in the traffic? It's about as safe.

Clear the cobwebs out of your head. Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked.

That "proving" bit is one of the rottenest lines ever invented. Does he love you? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants whatever is best for you. But now figure it out. He wants you to: Commit an immoral act ... surrender your virtue ... throw away your self-respect ... risk the loss of your precious reputation ... and risk getting into trouble. Does that sound as though he wants what's best for you? That is the biggest laugh of the century. He wants what's best for him; he wants a thrill he can brag about at your expense. Love? Who's kidding whom?

A guy who loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. In my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has proved that he doesn't love you. The predictable aftermath of "proof" of this kind always finds Don Juan tiring of his sport. That's when he drops you, picks up his line and goes casting elsewhere for bigger and equally foolish fish. If he loves you, let him prove HIS love — at the altar.

DEAR MRS. CHAMBERS: Nothing has changed. The above advice to teen-agers stands, unrevised.

Don't put off writing thank-you notes, letters of sympathy, etc. because you don't know what to say. Get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send a check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letters Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054 (postage and handling are included).

Since mid-century, major changes have taken place in Latin America's population at large and in its labor force in particular, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. They include a virtual stabilization of the agricultural work force, a large increase of women in the labor force, the rising educational attainment of workers in general and the emerging deceleration of labor force expansion due to falling birth rates.
