Auxiliary marks 30th anniversary

The 30th anniversary of the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will be observed here Thursday with a banquet honoring the group's years of service to the community and to the hospital.

It will begin at 7 p.m. at the Snyder Country Club.

The auxiliary was formed in 1958 and, through the end of last year, had contributed some 271,000 volunteer hours.

This effort has resulted in scholarship programs for both doctors and nurses. A medical student scholarship effort begun by the auxiliary has to date brought four practicing physicians back to Snyder with a fifth still in residency training.

In addition, the group was instrumental in raising some $61,000 recently to equip the mammography unit at Cogdell. Auxiliary members also co-sponsor blood drives here.

On a daily basis, volunteers operate the hospital snack bar, gift shop, reception desk and serve as floor workers.

They also deliver mail and flowers to patients and collect rental fees for television and telephone use. At Thursday's event, presentations will be made to individual members honoring the number of hours they have worked the past year.

New members of the auxiliary officers and executive board will be introduced also.

New officers will be Kathy Smith, president; Virginia Clark, first vice president; Teddie Hatcher, second vice president; Dot Casey, recording secretary; and Dora White, corresponding secretary.

New members of the executive board are Katherine Ervin, Kathryn Dodson and Sue Mize.

Current officers for the auxiliary are Katherine Ervin, president; Dot Casey, first vice president; LaRue Williamson, second vice president; Ruby Anderson, recording secretary; and LaNelle Rabin, corresponding secretary.

Current members of the executive board are Katherine Ervin, Carol Davis, Wilma Dillard and Dora White.

The program for Thursday's event will be a fashion show by auxiliary members.

The Snyder Independent School District will now join with 63 other districts throughout Texas in a lawsuit against a manufacturer of asbestos products in an attempt to regain some of the expenses already incurred and expected to be incurred by Snyder ISD in relation to asbestos "encapsulation" and "abatement."

Wednesday, the school board voted unanimously to enter into the class action suit being filed against National Gypsum, one of three major manufacturers of asbestos in the U.S.

With that motion, the board voted also to designate attorney Dan Cotton as their local legal counsel related to the lawsuit.

Assuming the district eventually realizes some portion of a settlement or monetary award from the lawsuit, Cotton told trustees Wednesday it will likely be "only a piece."

The law firms bringing the suit are both Houston-based, Bracewell and Patterson and the attorney's office of Martin W. Dies III. The board used a telephone linkup Wednesday to talk with firm representative Bob Watts.

It was noted during discussion that the Houston firms have already represented Texas school districts in successful litigation challenging another major asbestos manufacturer, W.R. Grace.

That lawsuit resulted in monetary awards which went to such area schools as Abilene, Big Spring and Colorado City ISDs.

To enter into the suits, the district was required to make an "upfront" commitment of some $6,600. This amount was negotiated down by the board Wednesday from an initial asking fee of some $9,000.

In addition, the district will be liable for "actual costs" related to its particular claim. Such expenses would involve fees incurred by attorney's during the "discovery" phase of the lawsuit, which includes such items as depositions from witnesses.

Also, once a final settlement is reached, the Houston attorneys involved in the case will receive a fee of 35 percent of this amount.

Whatever final costs are, Watts noted that with the just completed litigation, the cost to the plaintiffs was only some 4 percent of the settlement ultimately received.

School districts throughout Texas and the nation now face an October deadline to meet newly revised government standards related to asbestos.

Snyder ISD recently awarded a bid amounting to some $27,000 to comply with these new standards, which included an inspection of all school district buildings plus a management plan to address future plans for all asbestos identified.

Once, a common building material, asbestos has since been found to be dangerous when it becomes "friable" or crumbly.

Friable asbestos releases the fibers that can cause a variety of respiratory ailments, including lung cancer.

In the past, school districts have been ordered to either remove it (abatement) or to stabilize it (encapsulation).

The reluctance of some schools to comply with these rules are credited with the newest EPA guidelines, which include the Oc-

WTC announces two top students at morning event

Western Texas College honored its outstanding students for 1987-88 at the annual Awards Day held Thursday morning in the Fine Arts Theatre.

Shauna Gibson of Vernon and Robert Dyer of Roscoe were named the Outstanding Female Student and Outstanding Male Student of the year. Runners-up for the female honor were Mitzie Lindsey of Dickens, Staci Wood of Colorado City, Kathy Hall of Snyder and Jo Ditt Danley of Mesilla Park, N.M.

Other nominees for the male honor were William Sherrard and Joe Luera of Snyder and Henry E. Salonus Jr. of Baton Rouge, La.

Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, presented the nominees for the Outstanding Female and Outstanding Male awards and then introduced Miss Gibson and Dyer.

Britt Canada, president of the WTC Faculty Association, served as master of ceremonies. The Faculty Association sponsors the awards program.

Musical selections were presented by the WTC Flute Ensemble directed by Brent Hardegree and the invocation was given by Dr. Gil Flier.

Also announced were awards presented by instructors who selected the students to be recognized. Students who had earlier been named to Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges were recognized.

SHS junior at national DECA event

A Snyder High School junior left Wednesday for Salt Lake City, Utah and a national Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) competition.

Qualifying for the event is SHS junior Donald Anderson. He advanced by winning a state DECA contest in Fort Worth March 5.

At that competition, Anderson entered a four-part project entitled "Entrepreneurship: the Spirit of Free Enterprise."

In addition to his project, Anderson will be interviewed by contest judges as part of the competition Friday.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Swelled heads are nature's way of filling a vacuum."

There's trouble in Paradise Valley. The big flap is over speeding tickets, and whether a "robot" has the constitutional authority to issue a speeding citation.

Paradise Valley is a conservative Arizona community made up of what most would describe God-fearing, law-abiding citizens. They do, however, have a heavy foot-like a lot of God-fearing, law-abiding citizens.

City fathers in this community of 14,000 decided to be the first to employ a Swiss-made robot to nab and photograph speeders. So far, some 3,000 tickets have been issued by mail.

The robot has long been in use in Europe. The device marries radar and photography. A signal is aimed at oncoming traffic. When a speeder is detected, it trips a camera shutter and stroboscopic light. The vehicle's owner is identified by tracing the license number, and a summons is mailed.

The system has aroused loud protests that it is a "big brother" abuse of authority. The legality is untested except in the city's traffic court.

Already, more than 50 motorists have scheduled trials to contest the robot's constitutionality. City fathers are convinced higher courts will find in their favor.

The system's use involves a considerable amount of private enterprise. Local officers monitor its use, but a Texas company owns technology rights in the U.S. and that company provides the equipment mounted in the rear of a Ford Bronco without charge to the city.

The company processes the photographs, identifies vehicle owners and mails the citation. In exchange, it keeps $20 out of each ticket that a motorist pays.

We don't understand the flap. We've personally observed that most officers can write a speeding ticket with the same efficiency and determination as a robot.

Iran-Contra

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge in the Iran-Contra case is threatening to dismiss charges against Oliver North and three other defendants unless the Reagan administration stops withholding key documents.

"A stone wall is being built up between this court and the trial," U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said Wednesday.

Gesell said he was troubled by "the government's intentional withholding of documents necessary for the defense."

Police arrest 3 employees of fast-food establishments

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — They were selling more than ice cream and hamburgers to students of three Fort Worth schools at the Mr. Softee on the city's north side, police say.

The owner of the fast food establishment, and two employees were arrested Wednesday after an undercover officer bought five 4-gram bags of marijuana for $10 each, Fort Worth Police Capt. Ray Armand said.

The officer made seven other buys, including some in which he ordered food or beverages and $10 bags of marijuana during the month-long investigation, Armand said.

The employees put the food and the marijuana in a paper sack and handed it across the counter to the officer in exchange for his cash, Armand said.

The food was on the house, but the marijuana receipts were rung up on the cash register and listed daily in store records under "ice cream sales," Armand said.

Charles M. Pike II, 19, the manager, was arrested shortly after he sold what police described as marijuana to the undercover officer while two other officers watched from a nearby booth inside the business.

The owner, Todd Mitchell, who shares his Haltom City home with Pike, was arrested shortly later at his second business, Dynamite Ice Cream, which owns ice cream trucks that cater to children in several Fort Worth neighborhoods, Armand said.

Police also arrested Elizabeth Ann McKenzie, 25, of Fort Worth, who was named along with Pike on a warrant accusing them of selling marijuana to an undercover officer at Mr. Softee, Armand said.

Pike was released from Tarrant County Jail in lieu of bonds totaling $10,500, a jail spokesman said.

Mitchell and McKenzie were being held late Wednesday pending a bond hearing, the jail spokesman said.

The Mr. Softee is located within three blocks of Diamond Hill-Jarvis High School, Meacham Middle School and M.H. Moore Elementary School.

"I hate to think we've got elementary school kids buying, but nothing surprises me," Armand said. "These people are out to make a dollar."

Pike claims he never sold drugs to children.

"A few high school kids come in here, but they don't buy marijuana," said Pike, who dropped out of Saginaw schools in the ninth grade. "I tell by looks if they're over 20."

Pike, who said he first smoked marijuana when he was 13, admitted in an interview with the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that he decided to start selling marijuana out of Mr. Softee after some neighborhood teen-agers suggested it.

"I told a few people, and then they told their friends," he said. "It was fun, and I wanted to make some money. There are other ways to make money, but this is quicker."

Narcotics Officer Mike Camp disputed Pike's statement that he didn't sell to kids, saying it was a common claim by dealers who know it looks bad to exploit children in drug deals.

A search of the two businesses and Mitchell's home turned up several handguns, rifles and ammunition, about 40 sandwich bags containing small amounts of marijuana and other items, police said.

Mother Has Hard Words For Store's Easy Credit

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Today, my daughter, who is substantially under 18 years old, unemployed but loves clothes, received a credit card from a major department store!

I telephoned the store's credit department and asked if there was an age requirement for those who applied for credit cards. I was told there was not. Then I asked if a person had to be employed in order to obtain a credit card. I was told no.

When I explained that my daughter was an unemployed student, I was told that if she were supported by a parent, that was the only "employment" necessary.

Abby, I am a single mother working full time to support myself and my daughter without financial aid, and I am struggling to stay afloat. I feel as though I have been stabbed in the back! I'd appreciate your comments.

place."

After driving around for a while, as we were going through a pleasant woodsy park, she said, "Pull over here." Then she got out and threw the garbage into a clump of bushes.

I've often pondered whether she ever wondered why I never asked for another date.

DISGUSTED IN SEATTLE

DEAR DISGUSTED: You don't say how many years ago this happened, but I would hope that "neighboring city" has since passed an ordinance or statute making dumping garbage just anywhere in violation of the law. I hope the girl who dumped the garbage in the bushes sees this in case she's wondering why you never called her again.

CASH ONLY

DEAR CASH ONLY: Laws concerning credit extended to unemployed minors differ in the various states, but if there isn't a law stating a parent is not responsible for merchandise purchased by a minor child, there ought to be.

DEAR ABBY: "Frustrated in Glenwood Springs, Colo." complained about people who are always finishing other people's sentences. Well, I'm one of those people, and I'll tell you why I tend to become impatient with folks who like to drag everything out, so I finish their sentences to kind of hurry them along.

Abby, it would be a public service to tell people that if someone is always finishing their sentences, they are either talking too much, or too slow. Probably both.

GUILTY AS CHARGED

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago, on my first visit to the home of a new girlfriend in a neighboring city, as we were about to go out for a drive, her mother said, "Don't forget the garbage, Peggy."

"I won't," she said. She went to the kitchen and returned with a cardboard box of smelly trash, which she put in the backseat of my car.

"Don't you have a garbage service in this city?" I asked.

She replied, "Yes, but we can't afford it."

"All right, where's the nearest dump?"

"There isn't any, so we'll just drive around until we find a good

Bridge James Jacoby

Playing it half-safe

By James Jacoby

There are many inferior contracts waiting to be arrived at in bridge. When you have the good fortune of getting to a sound contract, don't jeopardize it by being cute.

When South opened two no-trump, North decided that he would probably play five clubs, but along the way he thought he might check to see if South might have four spades. So he bid three clubs to ask for a major. Lo and behold, South bid spades and North bid the spade game.

With the lead of the queen of diamonds, declarer could see there would be no trouble unless spades split 5-0, but he wondered if he could not do something clever if East held four spades to the Q-J. He won the ace of diamonds, played ace of spades and then a low spade. His thinking was that he could handle four spades in the East hand (ruff a heart in dummy, pick up East's spades via a finesse and then run the clubs). His blind spot was that he failed to realize the trap if West, not East, had length in spades. Sure enough, West won the second spade, cashed the jack of diamonds and continued a diamond. Declarer ruffed in dummy, came to the club ace and ruffed a heart. But now the defenders took another spade and two heart tricks for down two.

South was too clever for his own good. Sure, his play would work against trump length in the East hand, but why present the opponents with an easy set when West has the trump length?

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Modular clothing is project at Stargazers Extension Club

Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club met April 18 in the home of Mildred Rogers. Daisy Lewis, vice-president, presided.

Roll call was answered by telling something money can't buy. The thought for the day was, "Don't resent growing old, many are denied the privilege."

The homemaker's hint was to use bay leaves in flour and spices to repel insects.

Members discussed plans to attend the National Extension Homemakers Week beginning May 2.

Kathryn Roberts, extension agent, gave a program on "Modular Clothing." She showed how to create and lay out the pattern. She pointed out that stable, stretchable and two-way knits must be used for modular styles.

Roberts also demonstrated how to attach ribbing and washing and care of the garment. She showed various ways to belt the garments for different looks. A self-fabric bow was also shown to vary the style.

Roberts modeled a dress, jump-suit and top. Anyone interested in the project may contact Roberts at 573-5423 for patterns and instructions.

Stargazers will meet May 23 for a program on toxic chemicals. The only extension group meeting at night for working women, Stargazers welcomes new members.

MODULAR STYLES — Pauline Withers of Stargazers Club and Kathryn Roberts, extension agent, model modular clothing demonstrated at the club meeting April 18.

Sterling family reunion held

Sterling family members gathered at the Ira Community Center April 24 with 47 relatives and guests present.

Ira residents in attendance were Mack and Ilene Kruse, Gus and Jean Sterling, Tommy H. Randa, Kara, Julie and Seth Sterling, Raye Sterling, Emogene Sterling and guests, Agnes Sorrells, Anita Erwin and Carla Denson.

Those from Snyder attending were Buford and Gradine Sterling, Robbie, Marla and Cody Sterling, Leon and Billie Jean Sterling, Billy Leon, Regina, Dusty, Cole and Tyrel Sterling, Helen Allen, Rebecca Boyd and Trent, Morgan, Sandy and Shane West, Kevin, Nancy and Emily Jones and guest, Trey Wilson.

Others in attendance were J.M. and Lucille Sterling of Colorado City; Jimmy, Theresa, Tara and Karen Sterling, Vincent, Marshall, Mary Nell and Denise Sterling of Abilene; Mark and Lesa Wallace of Justin.

Ilene Kruse received the gift for being the oldest family member present and Emily Jones received the honors for being the youngest member in attendance.

Agnes Sorrells received a gift for being the oldest guest present.

The 1989 reunion will be held the last Sunday in April.

The Boston News Letter, the first American newspaper printed on a regular basis, was published for the first time in 1704.

Plainview Club homemakers meet

The Plainview Home Extension Club met April 19 at the Northeast Community Center.

Nancy Higgins gave a report on the District meeting held in Levelland.

Members also went to Texas Tech Friday for a field trip through the textile department.

Extension Agent Kathryn Roberts gave a demonstration on modular styles and fabrics.

During the brief business session, the group donated funds to the Council.

Refreshments were served; Jimmie Cummins was "Luck Lady."

Intra-Andean exports, excluding petroleum, rose by 27 percent — from $455 million in 1985 to $580 million in 1986, says the Inter-American Development Bank. If petroleum is included, however, those exports rose by only 1.1 percent, owing to lower fuel prices. The actual value of total intrazonal exports was $720 million in 1985 and $728 million in 1986.

Bordelon's kin mourns loss of sailor on submarine

WILLIS, Texas (AP) — The family of Robert Bordelon Jr. had looked forward to a November reunion, but instead they were making funeral plans for the career Navy man killed during an explosion aboard the USS Bonefish submarine.

The body of Bordelon, 39, and two other crewmen who had been missing since the Sunday explosion in the 30-year-old submarine's battery compartment were found early Wednesday inside the vessel.

A Navy lieutenant's 6 a.m. visit to the home of Bordelon's mother east of Willis confirmed relatives' worst fears.

"The door bell rings at 6 o'clock in the morning, and you know. In our minds, we probably knew he was dead. But, in our hearts, we were still hoping," said Richard Etie, the fiance of Bordelon's mother, Adell Burger.

In telephone conversations with relatives before boarding the submarine in mid-April, Bordelon expressed concern over mechanical problems on the Bonefish.

On Wednesday, relatives were trying to cope with the realization that Bordelon would not be coming home.

After almost 20 years of military service, the petty officer 1st class had planned to retire in November and settle in his hometown of Willis, a town of about 2,500 people, located 40 miles north of Houston. Relatives said he wanted to remarry and raise a family and possibly manage restaurants, the Houston Chronicle reported.

His son, Robert John B.J., Bordelon, 14, lives with Bordelon's ex-wife.

"My feeling is if a man has put 19 years and so many months into the service and is fixing to retire, you don't send him out on a training mission. I'm sure he was training other people, but I don't think like the government, I guess," said Etie.

David Bordelon, 37, said the Navy indicated it would be two to three days before his brother's body is flown back to Texas. The family plans a military funeral at Conroe's Metcalf funeral home with burial at Willis Cemetery.

"We're going up to clear the plot today," said the brother, who lives in Houston. "We were all praying and hoping that he could still be alive. It's really rough." He said he's sure his brother died while saving others during the submarine's mass evacuation.

"There's a lot of information we're still waiting on," said his brother. "I hope we know some of the details soon."

Relatives said they found it strange that Bordelon called all his relatives before boarding the submarine.

"It was like he knew something was wrong," said another brother, Larry Roach, 32, of Trinity. "He didn't want to go."

His stepfather, L.C. Roach of Willis, said he could better cope with the tragedy had his son been in an attack situation, "not just a routine training deal."

"He told me 'Dad, I just don't want to go,'" he recalled of their last telephone conversation. "I think if the circumstances were different with his death, I'd cope better with it."

FIRST IN LUBBOCK — Kim Massey, Kris Randolph and Ricky Graham were the first-place dairy-judging team at the regional FFA contest in Lubbock and thus will be one of the favorites in the state contest Saturday in College Station. Graham was second-highest individual and Randolph the 10th-highest scoring individual in the contest. (SDN Staff Photo)

Repeat of strep can't be avoided

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Twice in the last year I've contracted a severe strep infection — erysipelas. Both times, it started abruptly with a 102-degree fever and settled in my right leg, causing an inflamed, tender rash. What can I do to prevent recurrence?

DEAR READER: Erysipelas is a diffuse infection of the skin, caused by streptococcus bacteria. For unknown reasons, the condition may recur. On occasion, a persisting focus of infection — such as athlete's foot — can harbor strep and provide a source of repeated infection. The treatment of choice for erysipelas is penicillin, which should be administered for a minimum of two weeks.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter, 3½, has had problems with her ears, nose and tonsils for several months. One pediatrician suggested she have the tonsils removed. Another doctor said they would get smaller and cause fewer problems as she gets older. We don't want to subject her to unnecessary surgery, but can't let her continue to be sick all the time. To whom do we listen?

DEAR READER: You're probably better off listening to the doctor who counsels against surgery.

First, tonsillectomies were performed frequently in the past. When I was a kid, everyone had a tonsillectomy; it was almost a rite of passage. Today, doctors are much less inclined to remove tonsils.

Tonsils, the lymph glands at the back of the throat, enlarge during childhood until about age 12, then they regress. There is some evidence that tonsils help boost our immune systems. Doctors tend to leave them in now, unless specific indications for removal — such as repeated strep tonsillitis or blockage of the throat — are present.

Second, tonsillar surgery (although relatively safe) is surgery — and, as such, has risks. Better to avoid those risks if possible.

Third, antibiotics take care of most of the problems caused by enlarged tonsils and adenoids. Ear infections and strep throats are readily treated by modern drugs. In a child of 3½, antibiotic therapy — even repeated antibiotic therapy — is far preferable to tonsillectomy. When she is 8 or 9, you can re-evaluate the situation.

In summary, most children under age 12 do not need tonsillectomies. Antibiotics will cover all but the most unusual situations associated with tonsil problems. If in doubt about surgery, ask for a consultation with an ear, nose and throat specialist.

Since you mentioned that your daughter has trouble with her ears, I'm sending you a copy of my Health Report on EAR INFECTIONS AND DISORDERS. Other readers who want a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Different types of grass require different mowing levels. For bluegrass, fescue and other upright grasses, Bolens Corp. suggests cutting at 1½ to 2 inches to provide enough leaf surface for healthy growth. Horizontal grasses — Bermuda grass and zoysia — need to be kept at about three-quarters inch high. Any grass cut too short eventually will burn out and die.

Ex-POWs planning reunion

HEREFORD, Texas (AP) — A group of Italian ex-prisoners of war are scheduled to arrive Friday for a two-day visit to the Hereford POW camp where they were held during World War II.

One of the first stops for the 50 POWs and their wives will be a historic chapel that the POWs built in 1944 using cement they mixed by hand.

The group will hold a news conference Saturday, said Grant Hanna, an ex-staff sergeant at the camp.

Hanna said the group will visit the camp compound that was built in 1942 and torn down in 1946. He said the camp held between 7,000 and 8,000 prisoners while Hereford was a town of 2,300.

"While there we'll explain to them where their quarters, fences and jailhouse all were located," he said.

Later the POWs will go to the American Legion Hall where they will be served a Texas-style barbecue supper, followed by a short program and exchange of gifts.

On Sunday, the Italians will visit Umbarger where they will attend Mass at St. Mary's Catholic Church where several POWs painted murals.

'Secret' cave to become attraction for tourists

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The state that's home to the Grand Canyon and the Petrified Forest will soon acquire another natural wonder — a spectacular 2½-mile cavern kept secret for years for fear it would be vandalized. The Legislature and Gov. Rose Mofford on Wednesday rushed to enact legislation allowing the state to acquire the cavern discovered 14 years ago near Benson in southeast Arizona.

Mrs. Mofford perched a spelunker's helmet atop her beehive hairdo as she signed the bill passed by lawmakers only an hour earlier.

The cave's existence had been a closely held secret since it was discovered in 1974, because its owners feared vandals would destroy its beauty.

"It is a major natural resource find," said state Park Board Director Kenneth Travous, who has twice squeezed through the tiny opening to view the cavern. "It's fabulous," Travous said. "Walt Disney couldn't have done any better for the state of Arizona. Your imagination goes crazy when you get down there."

The two-room cavern is about 7,000 feet long and from 50 to 100 feet high inside. Thousands of still-growing stalagmites and stalactites ranging from a few inches to 60 feet are found throughout. It's also home to a colony of 700 bats.

In about three years, Travous says, about 100,000 to 150,000 people a year will get to travel by elevator to see the cave. Officials plan to use state park revenues to acquire the site for $1.6 million within a year from the Arizona Nature Conservancy, which soon will buy the site from the family of the late James Karchner, a Cochise County rancher and educator.

"I imagine I walked over this thing — I don't know how many times hunting deer" but never realized the cavern was underneath, said Rep. Gus Arzberger, whose district includes the cave.

The state on Friday sent park rangers to guard the site on an emergency basis as word of the cavern's existence began to leak out. The bill was quickly enacted

Wednesday to allow the state to continue to oversee the land.

The cavern's co-discoverer, Randy Tufts, 39, said that finding it along with Gary Tenen, 37, was "a once in a lifetime discovery for the cavern."

"People go out and hunt and hunt and hunt for caves; 99 times out of 100 you never find anything," Tufts said.

Tufts said he and Tenen wanted the cavern turned into a park because that would be the best way to protect it from vandals. Because it is near a major highway, Tufts said it was inevitable that other people would find it.

Morton star signs with Lady Dusters

Valery Jackson, considered one of the top athletes coming out of the West Texas area, signed an agreement Wednesday afternoon to attend Western Texas College. "We're real excited about Valery's decision to come to Western Texas," said a smiling coach Kelly Chadwick of the 5-9 all-state player from Morton. "She played on a state championship hallclub and she is a winner. She had division I offers but I think she wanted to come here and improve her skills. She didn't want to go somewhere where she might sit on the bench. I think in a couple of years she'll be able to go to a top 10 major college program."

Jackson earned all-state, all-region and all-District 5-2A honors as a junior and a senior. She was also All-South Plains both years and named to the Amarillo Globe News Team. As a junior, she was an honorable mention USA Today all-

American.

She averaged 18 points, 8 rebounds and 5 assists for Coach Bob Shield's team this past season as Morton advanced to the regional semifinals. As a sophomore, when she also earned all-district honors, Jackson and her teammates also advanced to the regional semifinals. In 1987, when she was a junior, Morton claimed the state 2A championship.

Coach Chadwick believes Jackson can play any one of several positions for the Lady Dusters.

"She's a good leaper, has adequate speed and quickness, handles the ball well and is a good passer. She sees the floor real well. I think she could play any one of three positions for us," said Chadwick. "First, we'll probably play her some in all three positions. Eventually, by her sophomore year, we'll decide where she can help us the most. Right now, I think she'd make a great point guard."

"Valery is a good student and very, very coachable. We're glad to have her with us."

Jackson concentrated on basketball as a senior at Morton High School, but showed her all-around athletic ability as a junior when she was district triple jump champion and tennis singles champion.

Her skills do not stop at the gym door, however. Jackson is a member of the National Honor Society, is student council president and senior class president.

Final Southwest rodeo opens; Western Texas aiming for top

STEPHENVILLE - Western Texas tries to wrap up a CNFR berth and make a move on the Southwest Region championship when Coach Bob Doty's bunch begins an assault on the Tarleton State University NIRA Rodeo here tonight.

First and second place teams in the region advance to the College National Finals Rodeo. Western Texas is solidly in second place heading into the final regional rodeo of the season, and trails leader Odessa by just 10 points.

Performances are set tonight, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., with finals set for 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

WTC teammembers this week will be Troy Budvarson, Denny McLanahan, Adam Brewster, Michael Gaffney, Wesley Henderson and Ray Brown. Women's teammembers are Sandy Scott, Tana Mahoney and Jessie Colburn.

WTC's women are in fifth place in the women's division, which is being led by Tarleton with 1,145 points.

Budvarson is scheduled up this evening in the saddle bronc and team roping. McLanahan is out in the bareback and Henderson is out in the team roping. They are the only teammembers scheduled tonight.

Other WTC students out this evening are Shawn Goemmer, Shane Goemmer, Lance Luttrell and Melanie Graf.

Ryan misses shot at no-hit shutout

HOUSTON (AP) - Nolan Ryan said he was disappointed he didn't get his sixth career no-hitter Wednesday night, and even more disappointed he didn't get a victory over Philadelphia.

Ryan, the major league's all-time strikeout leader, came within one out of his first complete game since April 25, 1986, and two outs of his sixth no-hitter when Mike Schmidt lined a single to center.

"I'm disappointed," Ryan said. "It would have been my first complete game and shutout in quite a while. I don't even remember when my last one was."

"If I'd just lost a no-hitter and won the game, I wouldn't have been as disappointed. I let the lead get away and I was one out away from winning the ballgame - a complete ballgame," said Ryan, who struck out nine.

Dave Smith came in the 10th inning and got the victory as the Astros won 3-2 in 10 innings.

Ryan shrugged his shoulders after Schmidt's hit and retired Von Hayes on a fly ball but Lance Parrish doubled to deep left-center, scoring Greg Gross and pinch runner Bob Dernier and tying the game.

Besides his five no-hitters, Ryan has pitched nine one-hitters, 18 two-hitters and 26 three-hitters.

Ryan, 41, would have missed by four days as being the oldest player to throw a no-hitter. Cy Young accomplished that feat in 1908.

Ryan's first no-hit game came May 15, 1973, in Kansas City when he played for California.

Last year, Ryan's 270 strikeouts led the majors. He joined Rube Waddell and Jim Bunning as the only pitchers ever to lead each league in strikeouts.

Davis seeking control of the Dallas Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) - Denver billionaire Marvin Davis has been negotiating with Dallas Cowboys majority owner H.R. "Bum" Bright and is close to deal to buy the National Football League team and Texas Stadium Corp., the Dallas Morning News reported today.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying John Davis, one of Marvin Davis' sons, has been in Dallas for several days with attorneys to work out a deal for total control of the team and Texas Stadium.

"I think they have already cut a deal," the source told the newspaper.

The newspaper said John Davis had been seen in Bright's office, at Texas Stadium and had been seen lunching at Heinz Simons's, a Dallas private club.

The source said that the sellers of the franchise, of which Bright owns 40 percent, will make a large profit if the deal goes through as negotiated.

Attorneys are drawing up the papers to purchase the interest of Bright and his limited partners, the source said. Davis, whose fortune has been estimated at $1.45 billion, has been active in attempts to attract a major league baseball team to Denver.

Jim Francis, a spokesman for Bright, said Wednesday, "We have no comment on any of the rumors that have been flying around today. And we are not preparing to have a statement anytime soon."

The Dallas Times Herald reported today that a deal could be forthcoming between now and the start of the football season for the sale of the 40 percent interest owned by Bright.

Bright, who recently has had financial problems, has told friends and associates that he would like to place a greater emphasis on his energy business.

Forbes magazine recently estimated that Bright's assets are worth $300 million, about half of what he held a year ago. His loss in the First Republic Bank crisis alone was estimated at $25 million.

T-ball signups being held now

Registration for Boy's Club T-Ball begins today and continues Friday and Saturday at the Scurry County Boy's Club.

Registration hours are 3 p.m. until 7 p.m. today and Friday, and from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

Boys must be at least age 7 by July 31, 1988. A birth certificate is required at registration.

Fee is $12.

In NBA playoffs tonight...

Mavericks entertain Rockets

DALLAS (AP) - Remember 1987.

"Although not as enduring as 'remember the Alamo' it will serve as inspiration for the Dallas Mavericks in the first round of the NBA playoffs beginning tonight."

The Mavericks host the Houston Rockets in a best-of-five series at Reunion Arena in the first playoff meeting between the two franchises.

"We remember how humiliating it was last summer," said Dallas guard Rolando

Blackman. "We don't want to spend another summer answering questions of what happened."

Blackman was referring to the shocking first-round ouster of the Midwest Division champion Mavs by Seattle, a team it had swept during the regular season.

The Mavs, who beat the Bill Fitch coached Rockets four times in six games this season, are being constantly reminded of what happened last year.

"We have the incentive to do better in the playoffs this time," said guard Derek Harper. "The loss to the Sonics was fluke. We'll show everybody that this year."

Mark Aguirre, the Mavs' leading scorer, admitted Dallas was overconfident last year. "We figured there was no way we weren't going to meet the (Los Angeles) Lakers in the Western Conference finals," Aguirre said. "This year we're taking nothing for granted because we don't want to go through a humiliation like that ever again."

Dick Motta retired after the upset without ever saying why, but his feuds with Aguirre were well publicized.

Oil cartel friendly, but hard to pin down

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A generation after OPEC learned the tricks of the oil trade from America, a self-styled envoy from the heart of U.S. oil country has come to OPEC to see how the cartel works.

He's Kent Hance, a handsome, smooth-talking, 45-year-old former U.S. congressman who currently is a member of the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates that state's large petroleum industry.

Hance's attendance as an observer to a special meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has received widespread attention and aroused U.S. criticism that Texas could become an accomplice to the cartel's price-fixing strategies, which often have been seen as harmful to American interests.

Hance rejected the criticism as groundless. "We're not in love with OPEC, but we need to have input" into decisions by an organization that control about 35 percent of the world's oil supplies, he said in an interview Wednesday.

Ensclosed in his hotel room in central Vienna, Hance patiently awaited word on a twice-postponed appointment to see Rilwanu Lukman, the Nigerian oil minister who doubles as OPEC's president. Vienna is the cartel's headquarters.

Hance said OPEC is a friendly group that's "glad to have someone from the United States to have a dialogue with." But he finds it hard to adapt to OPEC officials' disregard for time schedules.

He'd been told by Lukman's aides that he could see the minister after an OPEC meeting that initially was set for 2 p.m., then rescheduled for 3 p.m., then 4 p.m. The session finally started about 5 p.m.

He said he was still trying to adjust to what outsiders call "OPEC time."

Hance said he sees his mission as opening a dialogue with the cartel that the U.S. government refuses to deal with.

"I look at what's happened to our Texas economy" since oil prices crashed in 1986, he said. "No one else is going to be speaking up for the state of Texas, and someone had to do something."

A Republican, he acknowledged that "I'm subject to criticism" for talking with OPEC about ways to stabilize oil prices, in defiance of the stated wishes of the Reagan administration.

He said the two other members of the Texas Railroad Commission are "too cautious" to undertake such a controversial venture.

"I was the one who thought of this idea last fall," he said. "If I think of something that might work, I'll take a risk."

Hance met Monday with Fadhil al-Chabibi, the OPEC deputy secretary general who administers the cartel's secretariat, and other OPEC staff members.

He also held meetings with the oil ministers of Venezuela and Indonesia, as well as officials of non-OPEC oil-producing countries such as Norway.

Hance said he's been impressed by the OPEC oil ministers' knowledge of the business.

"They have a good understanding of oil," he said. "What they just can't understand is why a country that is the No. 1 oil consumer and the No. 2 producer doesn't have an energy policy."

Hance said the U.S. government should be in direct and regular contact with OPEC as part of a national energy policy.

"If I were a farmer and I grew carrots, and that's all I did and there was one entity, one person, in the world that set the price of carrots, I would want to know that person and have some input," he said.

OPEC will become increasingly important to the United States in the next decade, Hance said, predicting that 65 percent of American oil supplies would be imported by 1992, up from 40 percent now.

"We have to have some input... rather than burying our heads in the sand and hope OPEC treats us okay," he said. "How have they treated us without (U.S.) input? Not very well."

He rejected suggestions that the United States should not deal with an organization whose market-rigging methods it dislikes.

"We don't agree with the Soviets. They're our enemies. But we still have a dialogue with them."

Strike by Arabs said widespread

JERUSALEM (AP) — A protest strike virtually shut down Arab east Jerusalem and cities in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip today despite Israeli claims that the 5-month-old Palestinian uprising was on the wane.

Following two infiltrations by

Arab guerrillas, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said on Wednesday that guerrillas were trying to mount a spectacular attack on Israel because the uprising was "petering out."

Today, however, east Jerusalem streets were deserted in response to a strike call by uprising leaders. Even fruit and vegetable vendors, normally active during strikes, had closed.

In the Gaza Strip, young Palestinians whose faces were masked with checkered Arab scarves stopped cars to ensure workers did not go to jobs in Israel, according to Arab reports.

Wrecked cars and huge rocks blocked roadways in the West Bank town of Bethlehem and oil was spread on some streets to discourage drivers. Bethlehem's Manger Square, normally busy with traffic and vendors, was nearly empty.

An Arab reporter noted that even bakeries were shut in Nablus, the West Bank's largest city.

In Baghdad, senior aides of Yasser Arafat on Wednesday said the Palestine Liberation Organization chairman traveled to the Iraqi capital to meet with his commanders "to discuss ways of escalating the Palestinian uprising."

Only scattered clashes were reported in recent days in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, where 174 Arabs and two Israelis have been killed since anti-Israeli protests began Dec. 8.

Protesters and Israeli soldiers clashed twice on Wednesday evening after Moslems ended the sunrise-to-sunset fast that is kept daily during the holy month of Ramadan, according to reports.

Jewish settlers and Israel radio reported that Arab residents in Hebron stood on roofs and shouted "Slaughter the Jews!" in a disturbance that lasted late into the night. Soldiers used tear gas to disperse the protesters. No injuries were reported.

The incident began when youths stoned a group of Jewish women walking through downtown Hebron at 11 p.m., said Miriam Levinger, who was in the group.

"We were a group of about 15 women on a stroll when Arabs began throwing stones at us," Mrs. Levinger said. "The army came immediately and fired tear gas at the Arabs who disappeared into an alley."

Earlier, the army said, Arabs in the Dheishe refugee camp near Bethlehem stoned troops who responded with tear gas and rubber bullets.

A military spokeswoman said seven Palestinians were taken to the hospital, treated and released. Israel Television said some suffered rubber bullet wounds and others fractures from beatings.

Both guerrilla infiltrations this week were near Mount Dov in the Golan Heights, on Israel's northeastern border. In Tuesday's clash, three guerrillas and two Israeli soldiers were killed in a fierce gun battle.

The two guerrillas killed on Wednesday planned to take hostages to exchange them for Arab prisoners held in Israel, using U.S. Ambassador Thomas Pickering as a negotiator, said a military source, citing documents found on their bodies.

Trade official says Reagan veto likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Trade Representative said today President Reagan will veto a massive trade bill passed by the Senate and called on congressional Democrats to revive it "very quickly" without a controversial plant-closings provision.

"We need a trade bill this year," Clayton K. Yeutter said on NBC-TV's "Today" program.

"There are a lot of good things in that legislation, so if a couple of necessary corrections are made and the bill comes back, I'm really quite confident the president would sign it," he said.

The bill would increase the power of the U.S. trade representative to act against other countries that use unfair trade practices, make it easier to curb imports, repeal the windfall profits tax on oil companies, and increase agricultural subsidies.

The governments of Japan and Korea today urged Reagan to veto the measure. There was also a warning from the European Economic Community of retaliatory action if Reagan doesn't kill it.

Japan's chief government spokesman, Keizo Obuchi, said the bill which imposes sanctions against Toshiba Corp. may hinder world economic development. "The government of Japan strongly hopes that such a bill will not finally be enacted," said Obuchi.

South Korea Foreign Ministry spokesman Kim Hwang-kyung said the bill would hinder international trade and the government hopes the Reagan administration "will take appropriate actions in line with its much publicized stand on the bill."

Willy de Clercq, EEC commissioner for external trade, said the EEC "will react" to measures in the bill it considers protectionist and harmful to European interests if Reagan does not veto it.

The Senate approved the bill 63-36 Wednesday. That left Democrats at least three votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to enact their version over Reagan's objections.

The bill would get Reagan's signature, said Yeutter, if it were not for the provision requiring companies to give workers 60 days notice of intended plant closings.

Couple identified for stolen credit card use

A Loraine couple has been identified as having used a stolen credit card in purchases Monday at a Snyder service station, and the case will be presented at the May session of the Scurry County grand jury, a city detective said Thursday.

The 22-year-old man and 17-year-old female are accused of using the stolen credit card to buy a battery and battery cable ends at Chandler's Gulf, the detective said, adding that the items have been recovered.

He said the merchandise was recovered "along with items taken in a car burglary in Roscoe approximately one month ago" and that the stolen card was also used for purchases in Colorado City and Lubbock.

He said arrest warrants will be issued for the couple if the grand jury indicts them.

In other police action, a 41-year-old man was arrested for DWI at 3:38 a.m. Thursday in the 3300 Block of Ave. J after two women had reported that he had beaten them at a west Snyder apartment complex.

A city patrolman had gone to the Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room to take a report from one of the women, who was treated and released, and the other had gone to the police station to file a complaint about an assault on her.

Police were told that the man had kicked in an apartment door during one phase of the episode.

A 26-year-old man was arrested for misdemeanor possession of marijuana and Class B theft and his 30-year-old female companion was taken into custody for Class B theft for stealing cigarettes and pencils at 8:34 p.m. Wednesday at a College Ave. store.

A 27-year-old man was arrested for Class C theft at 2:31 p.m. Wednesday at a College Ave. store for stealing two cassette tapes valued at .17.

Polish workers defy pressure to end strike

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Management today said a strike at one of Poland's largest steel mills was illegal and threatened to call in riot police to end the three-day walkout, according to strike leaders.

Organizers said 16,000 workers, or half the workforce, were on strike at the huge Lenin steel works outside the southern city of Krakow in Poland's largest work stoppage since martial law stifled Solidarity 6 1/2 years ago.

The government has raised prices 42 percent so far this year as part of a program to make the economy more market-oriented, and there is widespread discontent that wages are lagging behind inflation.

Negotiations at the Lenin works broke off early today.

Authorities later told workers the stoppage was illegal and asked each to declare in writing whether he was on strike, said Zbigniew Lenyk, an opposition activist in Krakow. The 16-member strike committee told the workers to ignore the forms that foremen were passing out, he said.

On Wednesday, the strikers rejected a government offer that nearly met their demand for a 50 percent pay increase.

Management later told strike leaders that if no agreement was reached, it "would not be responsible for the security of the strikers," Solidarity adviser Jacek Kuron said today in Warsaw.

Stanislaw Handzlik, a strike committee member, said by telephone that more than 12,000 strikers were at the plant this morning. Organizers, said workers were rotating inside the plant, staying two shifts then going home for one.

Maciej Mach, another strike leader, said there was no sign of police activity nearby. Negotiation at the Lenin mills broke off after nearly three hours on Wednesday evening, and another round held early today lasted just 15 minutes, strike committee members said.

Trash fire doused

Firemen extinguished a grass and trash fire Wednesday night near Snyder County Club between the railroad tracks and the Old Lubock Hwy.

The call came in at 7:34 p.m., and the firefighters were at the scene until 8:40 p.m.

The cause had not been determined.

tober date for inspections and management plans.

Snyder ISD is now considered to be among the minority of U.S. schools—estimated at some 22 percent—which has met all EPA rules related to asbestos.

School officials stress that due to these steps, the substance poses no threat in local school district buildings.

This compliance has not been without its cost, however. Bill Sealy, maintenance director, estimates the encapsulation of areas suspected to have asbestos has cost the school district some $286,000.

When this asbestos is removed, and school officials note this will have to occur when the buildings are ultimately replaced or renovated, this abatement cost is now estimated at from $5 to $6 per square foot.

Sealy estimates the district has some 167,000 sq. ft. of building space affected by asbestos.

Texas homeowners cry 'lemon' due to recent purchases

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Furious because support beams were missing from their garage and attic and because their central air conditioning and heating hasn't worked since they moved into their home in February, Donna and Robert Dowdy hung up a banner, emblazoned with a lemon, in their front yard.

Two weeks after the couple displayed the six-foot-wide banner, they were visited by neighbors.

"That's when we found out we were not alone," said Ms. Dowdy.

"We've had people stopping to compare notes with us. They're having the same problems, too."

At least 18 homeowners in Grand Prairie, Cedar Hill and south Arlington now have reported finding hidden flaws in their homes, built by Berkshire Homes of Dallas.

Homeowners claim that construction was shoddy, that they were not reimbursed for repairs and that subcontractors who contended they had not been paid filed liens against their homes.

Residents also complain of cracked foundations, framing joints that don't align and poorly mounted cabinets and railings.

Others, who have paid an average of $1,000 each in earnest money on homes they want to buy, say they cannot get their money back, persuade Berkshire officials to finish the houses, or close the sale of the home.

At least one couple, Gerald and Georgia Russell, filed suit seeking to get their earnest money back or have the house completed.

"Owning your own home is the American dream," Mrs. Russell said. "It's turned into a nightmare for hundreds of us."

The Dowdys said they put up the banner in their front yard after months of pleading with officials of Berkshire Homes to honor their homeowners' warranty policy and correct the problems.

The majority owner of the 3-year-old homebuilding company said he is trying to correct problems created by one of his former managers.

"Basically, Berkshire is in pretty severe financial difficulties," said Berkshire's George Kopecky.

But many residents doubt Kopecky's company is that bad off. It infuriates them, they say, to see him drive a Porsche to his house, where the air conditioning and heater work.

Kopecky said previous mismanagement created a cash-flow problem. Little money is available for honoring warranty repairs, Kopecky said.

"When I started seeing the problems in October, I moved over and tried to straighten them out. But unfortunately, I only saw the tip of the iceberg," he said.

Residents criticized Kopecky for transferring the former president of Berkshire to another company project in Southern California. They said the former president should have been fired.

Repairs are being made and liens paid off only when a home sale occurs, Kopecky said. But sales have slowed because residents have begun complaining to city officials in Arlington and Grand Prairie and because of bad publicity, he said.

Kopecky is the president of another area homebuilding company, Camden Homes. Many of Camden's designs are identical to the Berkshire homes and are being built in the same areas. But Kopecky said he expects none of the problems he has with Berkshire because Camden is a separate corporate venture.
