Q. — When will the revenue bonds approved last Saturday for TDC...
A. — This will likely occur as soon as possible after the final bid estimates for the project are approved, and this is scheduled June 15.

In Brief

Extra guards

HOUSTON (AP) — An extra guard has been posted at the Houston Zoo's cat facility and the large cats have been moved because callers have demanded the death of Miguel, the Siberian tiger that killed a zookeeper, officials say.

Officials said Friday the large cats, including the tigers, were taken out of the public exhibit areas into their holding cages for an undetermined length of time.

Bomb blast

KABUL... Afghanistan (AP) — A bomb exploded inside a truck today near reviewing stands being prepared for farewell ceremonies to mark the retreat of Soviet soldiers. Eleven Afghans were killed and 12 reported wounded.

The blast occurred in the heart of Kabul at 5:45 a.m. (9:15 p.m. EDT Friday) in a housing area on the banks of the Kabul River.

A Western photographer on the scene told The Associated Press that a baby and 11-year-old girl were among those killed and all the casualties were Afghan civilians. Most appeared to have been occupants of nearby homes destroyed by the impact of the explosion.

Local

Oil values

Scurry County taxing entity board members have been invited to a noon meeting Wednesday to hear a discussion regarding the oil values for next tax year calculated by the oil valuation firm Thomas Y. Pickett and Associates of Dallas.

The meeting will be held at The Shack.

Leader grads

Graduation ceremonies are scheduled Tuesday for this year's leadership class sponsored through Western Texas College and the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

Plaques and certificates will be given to members of Century II Leadership Scurry County at 4 p.m. at the chamber building.

Court agenda

The only business item on the 10 a.m. Monday Scurry County commissioners court agenda is consideration of renewing the county's contract with Big Spring State Hospital.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Friday, 84 degrees; low, 54 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 59 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1988 to date, 3.66 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Saturday night, partly cloudy with isolated thunderstorms. Rain chance less than 20 percent. Low near 60. Wind south 10 to 15 mph. Sunday, fair. High in the mid 90s. Wind south 10 to 20 mph becoming north to northeast 10 to 20 mph around noon.

Hospital changes full-time status; approves ER plan

A change in what is considered a "full-time" employee at Cogdell Memorial Hospital was approved and a solution to the facility's weekend physician staffing in the ER was revealed at a meeting of the hospital board Friday.

Board members approved a change in how full-time employees are categorized, to include nurses whose 12-hour shift schedules were causing them to be excluded from full-time status.

Administrator Tom Hochwalt explained that while existing regulations required full-timers to log 80 hours during each two-week pay period, nurses who work three 12-hour shifts in a week were reaching only 72 hours.

Their exclusion from full-time status and resulting benefits was hurting his recruiting, he noted.

Part-time employees at Cogdell have half of the vacation, holiday and sick leave benefits of full-timers, he said.

Part-timers will now be categorized as employees who put in between 40 and 72 hours per pay period.

Regarding the ER staffing, Hochwalt reported that a physicians' group, Emergencycare of Abilene, has agreed in a verbal See HOSPITAL, page 11A

STUDENT ADDRESS — Commencement exercises for some 113 Western Texas College grads Friday evening included addresses from four honor students, to include Robert Dyer of Roscoe, shown here, who earned a perfect 4.0 grade point average and graduated summa cum laude. In all, 36 students were graduated from WTC with honors in the commencement program held at the campus central courtyard. (SDN Staff Photo)

36 earn 'honors' at WTC

Thirty-six students were graduated from Western Texas College with honors in the commencement program held Friday night.

Graduating summa cum laude were 13 students. Receiving the associate in arts degree were Robert Dyer of Roscoe, Anita Talbott of Snyder and Kathy Witt of Sweetwater, all with perfect 4.0 grade point averages.

Also graduating summa cum laude were Mitzie Lindsey of Dickens with 3.95; Julie Kimmel of Snyder and Staci Wood of Colorado City with 3.94; Jo Ditt Danley of Mesilla Park, N.M. and Jenna Roberts of Snyder with 3.90; and Georzelle Hayes of Snyder with 3.85.

Receiving the associate in applied science degree summa cum laude were four students: Robert Neblett of Snyder with 3.96; Louise Ball of Snyder with 3.91; and William Sherrard of Snyder and Douglas Simpson of Stateline, Nev., with 3.85.

Magna cum laude graduates receiving the AA degree were James Herford of Snyder with 3.84; Donald Harbers of Rotan with 3.80; and Shauna Gibson of Vernon and Mary Martinez of Snyder with 3.79.

AAS graduates recognized as magna cum laude were Jacalyn Lowrance and Cody Pruitt of See GRADS, page 11A

Runoff absentee due through 28th

Monday will begin the first full week of absentee voting for two runoff elections scheduled here May 28 involving the Snyder city council and the Western Texas College board of trustees.

The council absentee vote, which will involve only residents of single member district 1—is at city hall. Absentee balloting for the college board will be at the administration building on campus.

The absentee ballot for both will end May 24—a Tuesday. The elections will follow that Saturday, May 28.

In the council race, the order on the ballot will include Vernest Tippens, 56, a custodial staffer at WTC; and Walter E. Cox, 58, a self-employed businessman and owner of Cox's Laundry.

In general, single member district 1 is represented by a large area of central Snyder. Its boundaries include 8th St. to the north and Ave. E to the east. Its southern and western boundaries meander but generally stay north of 37th St. and east of College Ave.

In last Saturday's ballot, Cox received 46 votes to 45 for Tippens. A single write-in vote threw the race into the runoff.

For the college board, in the first-ever runoff for a trustee seat there, the order on the ballot See RUNOFF, page 11A

China native seeks to understand U.S.

By BOB CAMPBELL
SDN Staff Writer

"Everything is fresh to me and different from my country, so I must learn everything from the beginning."

That is how Tony Liu, a 35-year-old native of China, expresses his viewpoint after completing his first semester at Western Texas College. He plans to spend the next two years learning English and absorbing American culture at WTC.

Tony Liu is the Americanized name he has adopted. His Chinese name is Xu Dong. Before coming to America, he worked as an English translator at a diamond drill bit factory in Wuxi (pronounced Wu-see), a city of 700,000 people in the vicinity of Shanghai.

He says the Chinese consider English an international language and learning it to be a key to linking the Chinese and American economies in the same way that Japan and the United States are linked economically.

"If I learn English very well here, maybe I can take Texas pronunciation back to China," he joked, explaining that at his stage of learning, the differences in Massachusetts and Texas speech, for example, are inconsequential.

In addition to English, he plans to study geography, history, economics, business and typing.

Liu was prone to seek an American education, he said, because his father studied at Iowa State University and a sister is a graduate student in biology at Einstein University in See CHINA, page 11A

Improved TEAMS scored by district

In what Snyder administrators believe is a first, students here in grades 3, 5, 7 and 9 scored higher percentages on this year's TEAMS tests in each of three test areas and at every grade level.

Results of the Texas Education Assessment of Minimum Skills were reported last week. Students are tested in the areas of mathematics, reading and writing.

The figures indicated Snyder third graders scored higher on all three tests by a combined average of 9 percentage points; fifth graders, 7 percentage points; seventh graders, 9 percentage points; and freshmen, 11 percentage points.

The actual percentage, by grade level indicated 86 percent of the third graders mastered all three test areas, 77 percent of fifth graders, 76 percent of seventh graders, and 62 percent of ninth graders.

Comparison figures for the rest of the state are not expected to be made available until mid-June. Last school year, Snyder students at the third and seventh grade levels exceeded the state average for every test area.

Fifth graders were above the state average in two of the three, reading and writing, and freshmen exceeded the state level in one test area, mathematics.

The district's goal has been to have a minimum of 75 percent of the students at each grade level achieve "mastery" of all three TEAMS test areas. Only the ninth grade failed to surpass this goal this school year.

One-act sets 2 local shows

Two hometown performances of Snyder High School's state-winning one-act, "The Corn is Green," have been scheduled.

The play will be offered Friday, May 20, and Tuesday, May 24. Both shows will begin at 8 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium. Tickets, to be sold at the door only, will be priced at $2.

At the Class AAAA contest in Austin May 7, the play earned SHS its 11th first place win. That performance also marked Snyder's 20th appearance at the state meet, 18 of these under the directorship of Jerry P. Worsham.

The record has earned Snyder the title of the "winningest school" in the history of UIL one-act play competition.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "There is still separation of church and state. The church teaches money isn't everything, and the government keeps telling us it is."

Nothing improves the attitude of folks like a good rain. Last week's rains couldn't have been more timely as the uniform date for planting cotton is just a few days away.

Over the years, good rains have been associated with various outdoor activities. For a number of years, Scurry County could also count on moisture during the July rodeo.

Most school kids will tell you the chances are better than excellent for rains on the last day of school, and graduation at both Western Texas College has been moved indoors because of rains on several occasions.

But in West Texas, folks never complain about the rains.

SHS band director Walter Reneau was recipient of good will obviously fueled by Wednesday's inch-plus rains. Reneau went to Snyder Farm and Ranch to buy fertilizer, and he interrupted a domino game.

Reneau observed everyone was in good spirits. "One guy wrote the ficket, one drove the fork lift, one loaded bags into his pickup, and the fourth gave advice on how to spread it."

Reneau said he was home before he realized the terrific service he had gotten. Rains do help.

Stanley Noah, who likes to brag about being retired, had an interesting experience with a fertilizer tank last week. He rented the tank to work a field southwest of Snyder.

Noah took Leon Autry with him. The chore was done early as the two golfers were obviously eager to get back in time for the regular golf round.

On the 15-mile trip back to Snyder, the golf conversation was so brisk that neither Noah or Autry noticed the trailer had come loose and they spent the rest of the afternoon looking for the errant trailer.

They found it about 8 o'clock that evening—several hundred feet off the road and in a farmer's pasture.

Those guys are true windshield farmers.

Olney S&L sets opening

The grand opening for Olney Savings' new building is scheduled here Wednesday.

Fran Farmer, vice president and branch manager, said "we'll open our doors for the grand opening from 10 until 3 for all of Snyder to tour our new facility."

During the day, refreshments will be served, door prizes will be given away and live entertainment will be offered by Olney Savings spokesman Ed Bernet and his banjo.

Prizes to be given away will include a color television and a set of patio furniture.

The new building, located at 3011 College Ave., includes two drive-in windows, a night depository and safety deposit boxes.

Week-old Soviet opposition party outlines bold platform

MOSCOW (AP) — A new opposition group challenging the Communist Party's political monopoly has outlined a platform that calls for free trade unions and an end to Soviet domination of the Baltic states and of Eastern Europe.

The week-old Democratic Union, whose members have been harassed by authorities as anti-social, said in unveiling the program Friday that it plans to try to register with the state but expects to be rebuffed.

Another coordinating council member, Alexander Lukashyev, outlined broad party policies. He said the group aims to present an opposition to the Communist Party's monopoly on power and political thought.

School bus overturns; at least one person is killed

HOUSTON (AP) — A 70-seat school bus overturned in a residential area Friday afternoon after a collision with a truck that killed the pickup's driver and injured several students and a young child.

Computer class offered at WTC

Beginning computer keyboarding (BKS 114) will be offered at Western Texas College in evening classes from June 21 to July 7. This course introduces students to the computer and helps them learn the keyboard or increase their speed and accuracy. Enrollment will be limited to nine students.

The young child, a passenger of the truck, was taken by LifeFlight helicopter to Hermann Hospital, hospital spokeswoman Theresa Rowpak said. He remains in stable condition and is being kept overnight for observation, she said.

NEA leader says teachers have role in fighting AIDS

ATLANTA (AP) — Teachers have a crucial role to play in fighting AIDS and can not only shape the lives of young people but "actually save those lives," says the president of the National Education Association.

"Children trust their teachers and they will go to their teachers for information. We must have factual information and know how to respond to young people," said Mary Hatwood Futrell, attending a three-day AIDS education conference sponsored by the NEA and the Centers for Disease Control.

Educators at the conference are discussing patterns of AIDS infection among young people, problems teachers face in AIDS education, legal issues and other topics.

"Some will say... 'Here you go again, getting involved in social issues,' but educators and students will not be immune" from AIDS, Ms. Futrell said in an interview Friday.

Dr. Gary Noble, CDC deputy director for AIDS, said the conference is aimed at helping teachers educate their students about the deadly disease.

"No one should die of ignorance," Noble said. "No child should reach the age of sexual maturity or experimentation with IV (intravenous) drugs without knowing about (AIDS) virus transmission. Teachers have a most unique opportunity to bring the facts out."

The conference was addressed Friday by John W. Washburn Jr., an AIDS patient who is retired superintendent of the Brighton School District near Rochester, N.Y.

"We can put a stop to this plague. You have important roles in this task," Washburn said.

Washburn, 48, was diagnosed last spring with AIDS and publicly disclosed his illness in January. He then embarked on a series of appearances and speeches to educate high school and college students and teachers about the disease.

Washburn said he does not think he is being unfairly exploited as a gay man willing to talk openly about his illness.

"Exploit me," he said. "My time is limited. I want to be exploited by whoever can use me to put windows on what is now happening with AIDS and what is likely to happen."

"My years in public school work have groomed me... I'm not embarrassed by the questions."

Other scheduled participants in the conference, which concludes Sunday, include officials and researchers of the Atlanta-based CDC. Discussion will include ways to incorporate AIDS education into the existing school curriculum, to help young people avoid the virus which causes the disease.

Jackson tones down Dukakis criticism after Cuomo meeting

By Denise Cabrera
Associated Press Writer
Praise for Jesse Jackson and a talk on party unity from New York Gov. Mario Cuomo helped calm troubled waters between Jackson and Democratic presidential front-runner Michael Dukakis, but Cuomo continued to withhold his endorsement of either man.

Vice President George Bush, meanwhile, campaigned at a defense plant in Fullerton, Calif., where he called Dukakis' views on defense "naive at best" and warned they "would be dangerous."

Dukakis spent much of Friday fending off attacks from Jackson and Bush, suggesting his Democratic rival's call for a big spending increase for education

"doesn't make any sense" in the face of federal budget deficits.

Cuomo emerged Friday from a 1½-hour private meeting in San Francisco with Jackson, saying the Democrats needed him.

"The Democratic Party needs Rev. Jackson for his personal input, for his personal capacity, for his ability to deal with the issues intelligently — not just to articulate them, which he does with eloquence and effectiveness, but understanding the issues, especially questions of foreign policy," Cuomo said at a fundraiser for a local congressional candidate.

But Cuomo, who eliminated himself as a possible presidential contender last month during his state's sometimes raucous primary, also praised Dukakis as "a man of great intelligence, great sensitivity and great practicality."

The balancing act helped Cuomo keep an earlier promise not to endorse any candidate until after the June 7 California primary, where 336 delegates to the national convention are at stake.

Jackson put in an appearance earlier Friday at a drug treatment center in Los Angeles. Jackson, who has made fighting drugs a primary theme of his campaign, criticized Dukakis for not putting forth "a comprehensive plan."

Workers keep digging; one survivor recalls his anguish

AGUASCALIENTES, Mexico (AP) — Rescuers cleared crumbled concrete on the fading hope that someone might still be alive under the rubble of an unfinished four-story building 11 days after it collapsed, killing at least 13 people.

At least 53 people were injured when the structure came crashing down as workers were about to pour the last concrete at a furniture factory that occupied the ground floor and part of the basement.

Some of the injured were buried for hours.

"I had finished working and was about to leave when... all of a sudden everyone started yelling hysterically that there was an earthquake," said Juan Flores, who was buried for five hours.

"I dashed under a table and all of a sudden everything went dark, and there was this terrific noise and there was dust everywhere," he told the Excelisior news agency.

He said a slab of concrete that fell on the table protected him from the rest of the debris.

Flores said he was quiet at first, but "the fear and the anguish of being buried... impeded me to yell very loud, and the rescue squads dug me out."

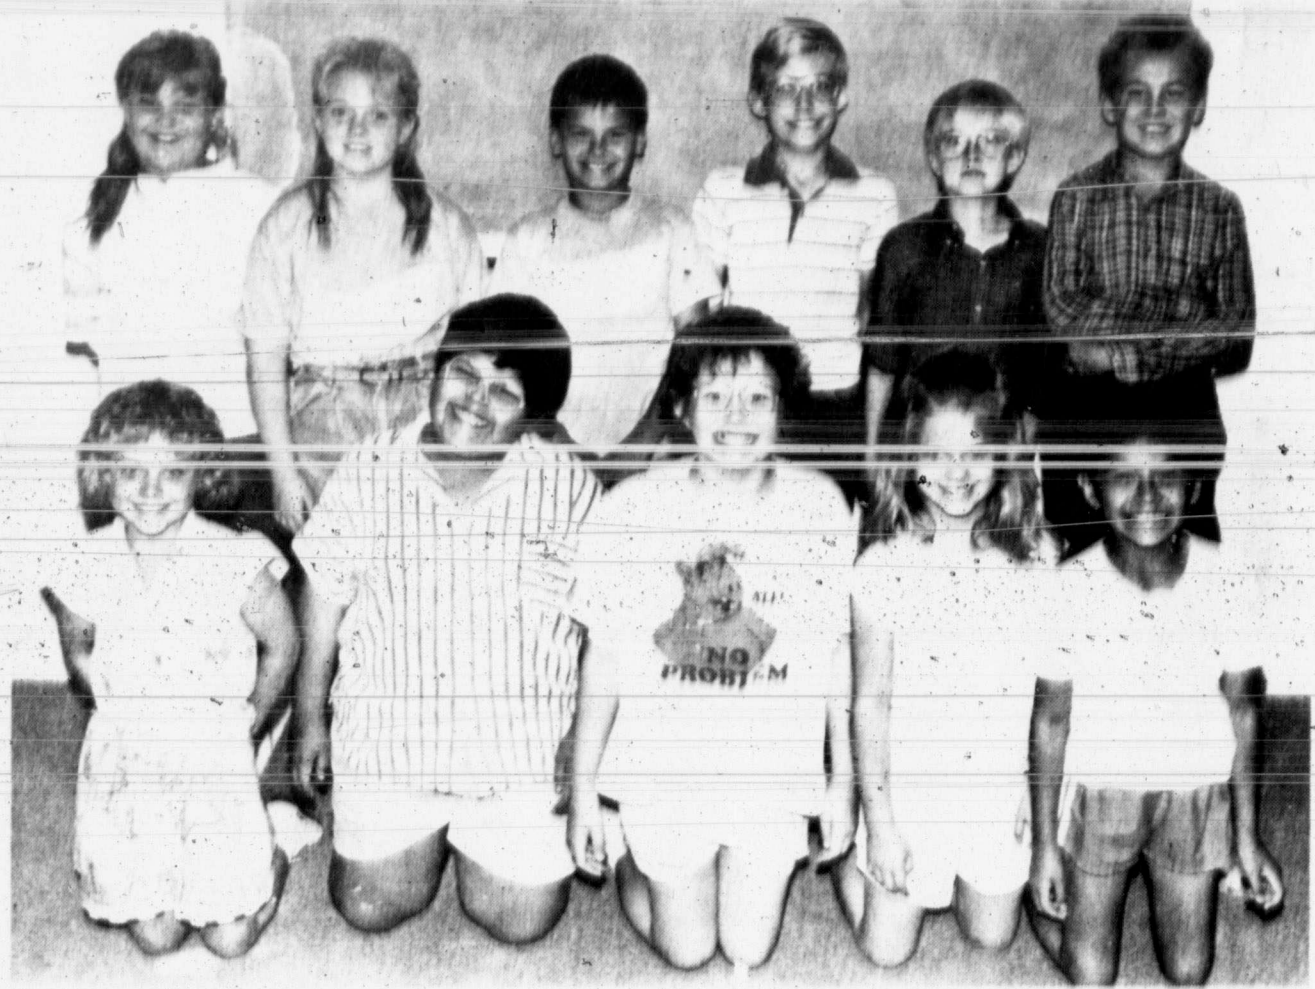

The Aguascalientes state government said 13 people died, including a 16-year-old boy riding past the building on a bicycle when it collapsed Thursday. But a Red Cross official said at least 14 people were known dead.

All day Friday, officials gave conflicting estimates of the number of people believed trapped under the rubble.

Eduardo Zapata, chief Red Cross attendant on duty late Friday in this city 320 miles northwest of the capital, said crews were painstakingly working their way down through the massive rubble.

Rescuers swung sledgehammers at chunks of rubble and passed concrete blocks down a line as they cleared the debris piece by piece.

"Below, we think there is no longer anyone alive because there wouldn't be enough air," Zapata said.

Preservationists vow to keep vigil at site of historic hotel

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The battle to keep a landmark art deco hotel from being turned into a parking lot heated up as preservationists and the city struggled to save it and the owner began pulling plumbing from the building.

"Miami was distressed and distraught that we would be losing a building," Nancy Liebman, legislative liaison for the Miami Design Preservation League, said Friday as a work crew carted plumbing and scrap metal from the beachfront Senator Hotel.

"While it's still here, it's worth a continuous battle," she said.

The three-story, green-and-white hotel was built in 1939, and is on the National Register of Historic Places, Ms. Liebman said. It is one of 800 art deco buildings in the mile-square area that comprises the only official art deco district in the world, she said.

The closed hotel's owner, the Royale Group, must raze the Senator in order to obtain a condition for obtaining bank loans to renovate other art deco buildings it owns, Royale attorney Harold Rosen said.

"It's not that we're anti-preservation, but we have to be practical, too," Rosen said. A date for demolishing the building has not been set.

Mayor Alex Daoud said he hopes last-ditch negotiations scheduled next week with the Royale Group's owners will keep the wrecking ball away.

"We're doing everything within our power to preserve it," said Daoud, whose staff is checking legal avenues, possible land swaps and the feasibility of buying the hotel.

Preservationists will keep an eye on the demolition, she said.

"It's hard to see where this urgent crush for parking is," she said. "The Senator has every single deco feature. It's a perfect example, an important masterpiece."

The art deco district's buildings are painted pastel colors and sport geometric designs, its sidewalks are painted pink and it's often featured on NBC's "Miami Vice" television show.

The city is pushing for the renovation of the district's buildings in its effort to bring back the glory days of tourism. The 70-room Senator is a crucial part of the district, said Barbara Capitman, president of the Art Deco Society of Miami Beach and the National Art Deco Societies of America.

"The Senator ... has probably the most famous etched glass in the district," Mrs. Capitman said. "It is a particularly seductive building."

Ms. Liebman and Mrs. Capitman accuse the Royale Group of ignoring pleas from them and city officials to save the hotel.

HIGHEST PERCENTAGE OF ATTENDANCE—Mrs. Barbra Jones' third grade class at Northeast had the highest percentage of attendance for the school year and was treated to a hamburger lunch at the Boys Club on Thursday. Students in the class are Troy Bolts, Jerry Burton, Ramsey

Financial Focus

Financial Planners - Good or Bad?

In recent years, with prosperity growing, a new profession has emerged, the financial planner. Originally, the term was considered somewhat of a self-designated specialty among such groups as brokers, accountants, lawyers and insurance agents. The problem was the planner generally directed the customer's plan toward his or her own specialty. The result was often less than a complete and unbiased plan.

Under the Federal Investment Advisor Act, the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) requires registration of any "investment advisor." According to statistics furnished by the Better Business Bureau, 39 states also currently have laws regarding investment advisors. Yet, in the mid-1980's there were only about 10,000 advisors registered with the SEC, whereas there were an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 such people offering financial planning services. Unlike many other professions, financial planners have no uniform list of prerequisites, educational standards, examinations or experience. The bottom line is you, the consumer, must be particularly careful and alert when selecting financial guidance.

The necessity of a workable financial plan is as essential for an individual as it is for a major corporation. A financial plan offers a guide as to where income is allocated - what goes to financial obligations and what remains for investing in the future for education, retirement, etc. Important, too, is how those funds will be invested. It's estimated that more than 10 million Americans are in need of financial planning services, so it's no wonder the number of financial planners are growing nationwide.

Financial planners fall within one of three categories: 1) those paid by a fee only; 2) those paid by commission only; and 3) those paid by a fee-commission combination. Although fees shouldn't be the sole basis of your selection, they are important, so consider some of the advantages and disadvantages before you make your choice.

The fee-only planner generally deals with high-income clients. A planner who's professionally competent can charge $200 an hour or more. If you make no investments, you still owe the planner his or her fee, and if you do invest, there are still the broker's fees to be paid. If your plan is kept current and periodically revised, these fees are paid again each time. For the small investor, these fees could cancel possible investment gains. On the positive side of fee-only consulting, there is security in the belief that your planner has no conflict of interest in the investments he recommends.

The commissioned planner, on the other hand, is paid by fees charged on the investment products you buy. A possible problem is a planner with limited, high-commission investments could recommend these in lieu of more suitable low-cost investments. To eliminate this problem, select a planner offering a wide range of investments for varied investment objectives. Since the planner is also the broker, future service of your account should be assured by the planner or his firm. No contract is needed because you pay as you go. If you do nothing, you pay nothing.

Finally, the fee charged by a fee-commission planner is a combination. Unless the planner is a highly regarded professional, the extra cost should be a serious consideration. The advantage claimed is advisory fees are generally lower than those charged by fee-only planners. Should you consider a fee-commission planner, it's advisable to completely understand his fee structure and have it clearly defined in a written contract. In addition, fees on each investment should be completely and fully understood prior to investing.

Fees and commissions are a part of doing business. With most reputable planners these fees reflect the professional service rendered. Unfortunately, there are no hard and fast rules to define what's "reasonable." Investing demands research, and the first place to start is by researching your financial planner.

Commodities to be distributed

Commodities of cheese, butter, milk and flour will be distributed to senior citizens and handicapped persons on Tuesday from 9-11:30 a.m. and to other eligible residents of Scurry County on Wednesday from 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Items will be distributed at the Senior Center, 2603 Ave. M.

Eligibility guidelines for citizens of Scurry County are posted at the Senior Center. There will be no make-up day and all individuals are asked to enter through the north door of the building and to bring paper sacks or boxes to transport commodities.

Suggestions from students welcomed, according to IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service is promising that next year's tax returns will be a little easier to understand, thanks in part to a handful of college students.

The students, working through the University of Akron's Center for Taxation Studies, told a Senate subcommittee earlier this year that tax forms and the instructions for filling them out can be made simpler. They took their recommendations to the IRS Friday and the IRS was impressed.

"We intend to look at the result of their wrestling with the instructions, of our wrestling, and then use the best of both," said Arthur Altman, chairman of the agency's forms committee.

"It's a friendly effort," he added. "There's going to be good come out of it."

Nicholas Creme, director of the taxation center in northeast Ohio, agreed. "The 1040EZ and the 1040A should be a lot easier and understandable come next January," he said.

Students at the center, who help low-income taxpayers facing IRS penalties, were spurred on by a study showing that more than half of Americans cannot understand the instructions for the simplest tax form, the 1040EZ.

They tackled first the instructions for the 1040EZ and the 1040A, and presented these recommendations Friday. By July 1 they hope to complete their proposed revisions of those two tax forms.

U.S. Senate votes to use the military against drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has joined the House in ordering the Pentagon to jump into the war on drugs even though lawmakers say the plan won't solve America's illicit drug problems.

"I think we all know the drug epidemic in this country is far past the stage where interdiction can stop it," said Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., agreed, noting that ordering the military to help shows that we're serious about drugs. "But, I don't think anybody's certain how much impact this will have."

Dole and Nunn were among the supporters Friday night as the Senate voted 83-6 to order the military to join the anti-drug war, including having navy officers arrest suspected drug traffickers who are stopped by U.S. warships in international waters. The plan was tacked on as an amendment to a Pentagon budget bill, which the Senate is likely to approve early next week.

Senate passage will send the measure to a House Senate conference committee to be reconciled with the different Pentagon budget bill passed Wednesday by the House.

That measure includes an even stronger anti-drug package, ordering President Reagan to have the military seal U.S. borders against drug traffickers.

Senators trying to fashion an anti-drug plan for the military had spent three days working out the details, with the arrest provisions being the chief stumbling block.

The military is prohibited from enforcing civilian laws by tradition and by the 1878 Posse Comatus Act, but that law is in force only within the United States and its territorial waters and the Navy arrest powers would be outside that jurisdiction.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, voted against the plan and criticized his colleagues for voting "in a great hysteria."

"We're posturing on this," Glenn said. "We all get up, posture, make our little statements and it isn't going to make any difference. This is not the mission for the military."

Military officials have generally opposed the plan, arguing that military personnel are trained differently than civilian law enforcement officials, and noting that traditionally there has been a firm line drawn between civilian and military law enforcement.

But Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci worked on the plan with the senators, and Reagan approved it before the Senate voted. Dole and other senators

Church of God slates revival

The Church of God, 21st and Avenue O, will have a revival beginning Monday and continuing through Saturday.

Services will begin nightly at 7 p.m. and Larry Barrett will be the evangelist. Special singing will be provided each night. Bobby Hash is the pastor.

Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., said he had originally opposed using the military to fight drugs, but changed his mind because "the drug flow has reached flood tide we cannot ignore."

Too much excellence coming in from abroad

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The United States faces a growing crisis because excellence in research and engineering is increasingly coming from abroad, U.S. Air Force Secretary Edward

C. "Pete" Aldridge Jr. told Texas A&M graduates Friday during one of three weekend commencement in which 3,103 degrees were conferred.

"There exists a growing crisis facing the United States. Many experts today point to an across-the-board decline in our recent technological advances," Aldridge said. The Air Force secretary cited 1987 figures that stated that more than 40 percent of the new patents granted by the United States government went to foreign businesses or individuals. "America has been watching its leadership dwindle — whether in microchips, manufacturing technology or motorcycles," he said.

In 1861, Maryland's House of Delegates voted against seceding from the Union.

Assistant U.S. attorney: Army hindered Bell probe

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A published report says the Army severely hampered a four-year federal probe of accounting irregularities at Bell Helicopter by allowing documents to be shredded and condoning questionable billing practices.

Army officials assigned to Bell's Fort Worth and Amarillo helicopter plants allowed the company to shred documents critical to the investigation in violation of government regulations, Assistant U.S. Attorney Ronald Eddins of Fort Worth, who supervised the investigation, charged in a March 31 letter.

The letter, obtained by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, also charged that Army field representatives at Bell condoned questionable company billing practices on helicopter and spare parts contracts even after government audits revealed that Bell was reaping windfall profits as a result.

The company had not received a copy of the letter and would have no immediate comment, said Bell spokesman Bob Taylor.

ment and neglect was a compelling factor in the Justice Department's recent decision to drop its criminal and civil investigations.

Bell Helicopter Textron paid the Army $68 million in cash and $18.5 million in other concessions last month to settle overcharges on contracts between 1982 and 1985. Bell has long acknowledged that overcharges occurred but has denied that they were intentional.

Officials said blame for the contract problems has centered on a computerized accounting and inventory system that Bell began using in 1982 but abandoned at Army insistence in 1985.

But the Army must share the blame, said Eddins, who supervised a four-year Justice Department effort to look for evidence of criminal fraud.

Lavender sets vault record

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Wichita Falls' Jayson Lavender set a state pole vault record but he wanted more.

obsessed," Lavender said Friday night after he vaulted 16-9 1-2, highlighting the University Interscholastic League's state track and field meet.

"I wanted to go 17 feet real bad," Lavender said. "I had a good run and tailwind behind me. I was really concentrating on the plant."

Lavender made a 16-0 vault and then went set the bar at 16-9 1-2, making the jump on his first attempt but missed three times at 17-1.

Lavender broke the state record of 16-9 set last year by Kyle Henderson of Karnes City.

He also broke the Class 5A record of 16-8 set in 1977 by Randy Hall of Port Lavaca Calhoun.

Brenham's Starlie Graves

scored 33 points, but the Cub s failed to repeat as the 4A girls' state champ.

Graves won the triple jump and long jump, finished second in the 200 meters and anchored the winning 1600-meter relay, leading Brenham to second place.

Pampa won the girl's 4A title by a 68-60 margin over Brenham and Yoakum took the 3A title.

Cuero won the Class 3A boy's title and Silsbee was the Class 4A boy's champion.

Graves set a Class 4A long jump record of 20-3 1-4, and won the 4A triple jump in 40-6. Pampa's Tanya Lidy finished second to Graves in both events.

There were six double winners and four class records established in the first day of the 2-day meet.

Champions in Classes 5A, 2A and A were to be determined Saturday.

Silsbee's Chris Barnes repeated as the Class 4A 200 meter champion in a 20.7 time and also won the 100 meters in 10.2 for a double victory.

Crosby's Charles Wilson won a gruelling double, tying the Class 4A 800 meters record and coming from last place in the final 100 yards to win the 400 meters.

Wilson trailed Arthur Kinney of Lubbock Estacado until the final straight-away and then kicked to a Class 4A record-tying victory with a 1:51.0 in the 800 meters.

Wilson was third in the event last year and Kinney finished second. Wilson shares the record first set by Tommy Roberts of Hallsville in 1983.

Wilson used his kick again in the 400 meters, going from last place to a 47.9 victory in the 400 meters.

Amy Goodwin of Bellville, who set the state record of 2:11.6 in the Class 3A 800 meters last year, defended her title for the fourth straight year but failed to break her own record. She won the event in 2:13.0.

Goodwin still got into the record book, however, with a Class 3A record 5:00.0 in the 1600 meters, beating last year's winner, Tara Irlbeck of Tulia.

Crenshaw tames Nelson Classic; Arnold Palmer has to withdraw

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Ben Crenshaw's magic putter tamed the slick, hard greens at the Byron Nelson Golf Classic but the talk of the gallery was Arnold Palmer's rib injury.

Crenshaw shot a 5-under-par 65 on Friday to earn a two-shot lead after 36-holes of the $750,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic over Mark Wiebe and Jeff Sluman.

Crenshaw, the 1983 Nelson champion and winner of the Doral Open this year, had nine one-putt greens to post a 9-under 131.

"I had the caution flag out because the greens were so firm and fast," Crenshaw said. "You could let some strokes slip away out there today. I was proud of the way I played. I just didn't waste any shots."

Crenshaw's only bogey came when he hit a 6-iron into the bunker on the 217-yard Par 3 No. 17. He took two out of the bunker but made a short putt for bogey.

"I hit the wrong club," Crenshaw said. "I didn't listen to my caddie."

He added "I was very, very happy with the bogey there."

Palmer, 58, was downcast. It was the first time he had to leave a course while he was playing since the 1969 PGA in Dayton, Ohio.

"It's only the third time in 33 years I've left a golf course," Palmer said. "I had a back injury at New Orleans in 1966 and again at the 1969 PGA in Dayton, Ohio."

Palmer, who shot 70 in the opening round, said "I had a catch in my ribcage when the day began. I just kept nagging me and got worse."

Not even medication could help.

Palmer couldn't swing properly and double-bogeyed the 10th hole after shooting the front nine in 1-over 36. "It hit me on my swing on number 11," said Palmer, who knocked his tee shot in the water. "It was a shame I had to leave. I was crushing the ball. But my ribs were killing me. The commissioner (Deane Beman) can call me if he wants to."

Sluman shot a 3-under 67 and Wiebe, who was runner-up to Andy Bean at the 1986 Nelson, had a 69. Wiebe was the first-round leader with a 64.

John Cook had the day's low round of 64 and was tied at 6-under par 134 with Craig Stadler, the 1984 Nelson champ, who shot 66.

Masters champion Sandy Lyle made the cut with a 71 that put him at 1-under par 139. Three-times Nelson champion Tom Watson also made the cut at 140 despite a 73.

Defending champion Fred Couples shot a 71 and made the cut at 141.

The cut was 3-over-par 143, tying the high on the PGA Tour this year.

Rangers 2, Royals 1

Rookie Ray Hayward allowed six hits in 7 1-3 innings and Oddibe McDowell keyed a two-run second inning with an RBI triple as Texas stretched its winning streak to seven games with a 2-1 win over Kansas City Friday.

Hayward retired 15 straight batters from the first through the sixth inning in his third start since coming up from the minors.

Curt Rinehart allowed only two hits as the White Sox pounded the Yankees 19-0 in Friday Little League action. Ben McLeod suffered the mound loss for the Yankees.

Marlowe Riggins and Rinehart both homered for the White Sox. In addition, Rinehart had a triple, double and single while Riggins picked up a double. Wayland Presley had two doubles while Michael Hess, Arron Watson and Nathan Aalman had one double each. Bubba Hilderbrand and Matt Parker had two singles each.

Jared Graves and Colt Carthel collected base hits for the Yankees.

Athletics 14, Cardinals 7

The Athletics scored eight runs in the sixth inning for a 14-7 victory over the Cardinals Friday night. Tyson Cromeens gained the mound victory and Marc Sparlin suffered the loss.

Lionel Aviles led the A's hitting with a triple, double and single. Lonzo Deere had a triple and single while Tyson Cromeens had a double and single. Reagen Key added two singles while Orlando Martinez, Jason Jack and Lee Idom connected for a double each.

Sparling led the Cards with a triple while Craig Lang and Randal Thomas each had two doubles and a single.

FARM LEAGUE

Athletics 15, Cardinals 9

The Athletics rolled to a 15-9 triumph over the Cards Friday night in Farm League play. Russel Schlegel led the A's attack with two triples and a single while Josh Rambo had two doubles. Frankie Siller also pounded a double while Calyn Coffee and Chris Rameriz each contributed a single.

For the Cardinals, Daniel Holley had a triple and double and James Matthews had a triple, double and single. Josh Holder and Bradon Rollins blasted two singles each and Chris Goebel added a single.

Yankees 18, White Sox 17

Marcelino Aguirre's grand slam homer in the third inning was not enough as the Yankees edged the White Sox 18-17 Friday night in Farm League play.

David Krenak led the Yankees' bats with a homer in the bottom of the third. Krenak also had a single. Jason Stearmer had a triple and single while Ramsey Castillo and Shannon McNeil each had a double and single. Kevin Lacik had two singles and Teddy Murray had two doubles.

In addition to Aguirre's homer, Jeremia Johnson hit a double and Kurtis McCathern a single. Ramsey Castillo was the winning pitcher and Theron Taylor suffered the mound loss. Both teams have identical 4-1 records.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

Bluebonnets 8, Fire Birds 6

Michelle Roemisch socked a double and Shanna Fisk, Joanie Wenken and pitcher Erin Maytubby added a single each as the Division I Bluebonnets clipped the Fire Birds.

Michelle Silva rapped two singles for the 'Birds. Halea Huestis and Samantha Trevino slapped one apiece.

Jets 28, Cruisers 17

The Jets got a home run and a single from winning pitcher Mandy Baker and two doubles and a single from Kasi Campbell to defeat the Cruisers in this game.

Also getting hits for the Jets were Laurie Allen, three singles; Meagan Mena, a double; Jami Brown, two singles; and Emily Mauldin and Christina Pippin, one single each. Mena scored four times for the Jets, now 1-0.

For the Cruisers, Valerie Winkles pounded a home run and a double and Leigh Ann Kenney also clubbed a homer. Others hitting hits for the 0-1 squad were Brooke Lowrance, a double and a single; Shawndalyn Calaway and Jami Franks, two singles each; and Lindsay Daniell, one single.

Dynamites 21, Bluejays 4

Monica Garcia blasted a home run, a double and a single - and took WP honors - to help the Dynamites to victory over the Bluejays.

Garcia got lots of help. Others hitting were Jacuin Morris, a double and two singles; Eva Hernandez, a double and a single; and Stephanie Buchanan, Misty Molina, Alicia Souder and Miranda Wilson, one single apiece.

Sonia Ramos plugged a double and a single. Michelle Martin knocked a double and Amanda Davis, Michelle Spencer and Adrienne Bailey clipped a single each.

Dirty Dozen 24, Whatchamacallits 22

Winning hurler Billie Jones rapped a home run, a triple and a double to spark the Dozen past the Whatchamacallits on Friday.

Lockie Applin and Melissa Garvin contributed a double and two singles each while Tanya Gasaway and Jenny Valdez clubbed two singles each and Jennifer Northcott and Mendy Winter added one single apiece.

For the Whatchamacallits, Annie Ragland powered a homer and two singles; Hayley Patterson hit a triple and three singles; Fara Severs knocked a triple and two singles; Tammy Logston punched three singles; Krissie Guynes popped two singles; and Becky Wenken, Amy McDaniel, Holly Sanders and Brandy Fisk added one single apiece.

SMU's Bliss waiting in wings...

Knight ponders UNM post

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Bob Knight began his weekend holding most of the state of Indiana and much of the basketball world in suspense, wondering whether the Indiana University coach was leaving for University of New Mexico.

The Albuquerque Tribune quoted an unidentified New Mexico source as saying the school has given Knight until Tuesday to accept its offer. It also reported Dave Bliss of Southern Methodist University said he believed Knight would accept the New Mexico job.

"From what I've been told, he's going to take the job," said

Bliss, who spent six seasons as Knight's assistant at Army and Indiana.

Bliss, who remains a close friend of Knight, said they talked Thursday morning but not about the job. The unidentified source quoted by the newspaper said Bliss already has agreed to accept the Lobo job if Knight turns it down.

Knight, in New Orleans on Friday to conduct a coaching clinic, would not comment on the situation.

"By this time next week, whatever I'm going to do will be decided," he said.

In a newspaper interview published Friday, Knight denied he would leave Indiana because of a widely reported rift that developed between him and first-year IU President Thomas Ehrlich.

Knight has said one reason he was considering the New Mexico job was because of changes at IU, but he has not specifically mentioned Ehrlich.

"Any decision that I would make to leave Indiana or to get out of coaching would not be made because of people now at Indiana," Knight told the Bloomington Herald-Telephone. "It would be because I feel that's just the best thing for me to do."

Dribblers hold finals

The Spurs nipped the Junior Dusters and the Blue Bombers edged the Golden Girls in a pair of one-point games at the Girl's Little Dribbler tournament finals here this week.

The Spurs got 16 points from Jodi White and 14 from Jami Brown to clip the Junior Dusters 34-33 in Junior League play. Haley Brown and Holli Burns added two points each.

For the Dusters, Mandy Baker bagged 21 points, Tami Tucker 6 and April Mena 4.

the Blue Bombers clip the Golden Girls 30-29 as Brigitte Braziel scored 10 points. Jessica Eicke and Jaime Beck hooped 8 points each and Melissa Garvin and Becky McCravey popped two apiece.

The Golden Girls were led by Hayley Patterson and Annie Ragland, who put in a dozen points each. Dawn Myers notched 3 points and Paige Gayle added 2.

Below are final league standings for the divisions

Juniors: 1. Spurs, 8-1; 2. Jr. Dusters, 8-1; 3. Orange Crush, 6-3; 4. Dynamites, 5-4; 5. Red Hots, 5-4; 6. Sharp Shooters, 5-4; 7. Super Sonics, 3-6; 8. Hoosiers, 3-6; 9. Hot Shots, 2-7; 10. Tiny Tigers, 0-9.

Majors: 1. Blue Bombers, 6-0; 2. Golden Girls, 5-1; 3. Sure Shots, 4-2; 4. Double Trouble, 2-4; 5. Jammers, 2-4; 6. Basket Builders, 2-4; 7. Shootin' Stars, 0-6.

Seniors: 1. Beastie Chicks, 4-0; 2. Snyder Spiders, 0-4.

All-Stars selected

All-Stars in three divisions were named during closing ceremonies of the local Girl's Little Dribblers program here this week.

The all-stars will play Brownfield's top teams later this month.

Junior All-Stars are Monica Harbin, Mandy Baker, Samantha Graves, Jodi White, Jami Brown, Brooke Gladson, Jessica Rocha, Krissie Guynes, Mendy Winter, Devon Reed, Holli Burns and April Mena. Coaches are Larry White and Rhonda Ward.

Major All-Stars are Emily Mauldin, Kayla Walker, Kristen Kallemeyn, Brigitte Braziel, Annie Ragland, Brooke Lowrance, Hayley Patterson, Alison Hester, Jessica Eicke, Jaime Beck, Becky McCravey, Dawn Myers and Karla Walker. Theresa and Shawn Ragland will be the coaches.

The Senior All-Stars include Amy Anderson, Deana Ball, Michele Callahan, Melanie Duncan, Stephanie Fambro, Todya Lelek, Jana Lane, Taffy Greenwood, Trina Thompson, Molly Mauldin, Sara Wyatt and Amy Steakley. Larry Braziel is the coach.

Bulls win on road; Mavs, Denver clash

by The Associated Press
Now that they finally have won on the road, the Chicago Bulls return home, where they have been perfect during the NBA playoffs.

The Bulls were to play host to the Detroit Pistons in Game 3 of their second-round series Saturday afternoon. Chicago, which edged Cleveland 3-2 in the first round by winning all three games at home, defeated the Pistons at the Pontiac Silverdome 105-95 Thursday night to knot the best-of-seven series 1-1.

"We've got our work cut out for us," Detroit's Isiah Thomas acknowledged.

In the only other game scheduled Saturday, Denver was at Dallas.

On Sunday, those four teams play again, joined by Boston at Atlanta and the Los Angeles Lakers at Utah.

Friday night saw Atlanta at Boston and the Lakers at Utah.

Dallas also won the road Thursday night, defeating Denver 112-108 to tie that series at 1-1.

Pistons-Bulls

Michael Jordan, the league's leading scorer who was named the NBA Defensive Player of the Year on Friday, had 36 points and a big hand in 31 more in the Bulls' victory. Prior to the game, Jordan told teammate Sam Vincent: "Hey, we need you to come out and play relaxed. Don't let any pressure get to you. You're a good player. We have confidence in you."

Vincent scored a career-high 31 points, all but two in the first half.

He was playing before several of his family and friends from his native Lansing, Mich., an hour from the Silverdome.

"I was determined to be aggressive," Vincent said. "They were trying to make sure that Michael Jordan doesn't beat them. They want to take the ball out of Michael's hands and make the rest of the team beat them."

When Vincent cooled off, Jordan went to work, scoring 24 of his points in the second half.

Nuggets-Mavericks

While Chicago has won all of its home games, Dallas has found more success on the road, where the Mavericks have won three of four contests. They are 1-1 at home.

The Nuggets need desperately to win at least one game at Reunion Arena, however, to regain their home-floor advantage. And to do that, the Nuggets will have to do a better job of putting the ball in the basket.

In Thursday's loss, the Nuggets hit only 41 percent, scoring just 12 second-half goals despite taking 27 more shots than the Mavericks.

Snyder's Garza signs pact to play for Western Texas

Terry Garza, standout for Snyder High School's regional semifinal basketball team last season, has signed with Western Texas College.

Garza helped Snyder to a 24-9 record and a trip to the regional semis with eventual state tournament finalist Wichita Falls Hirschi before being sidelined with an ankle injury. A two-time all-district player, the 6-4 athlete averaged 18 points and 6 rebounds as a junior and 21 points and 6.5 rebounds as a senior.

The Tiger team co-captain finished out his career at SHS by being named all-South Plains, all-area and TABC second-team all-region. He was also chosen Most Valuable Player of the 1987-88 basketball team during the recent SHS Booster Club All-Sports Banquet.

"Not only did we rely on Terry as our leading scorer and a good rebounder, but we frequently put him up against our opponents top player," said Larry Scott, Garza's high school coach. "I think he's still improving. He's got a lot of potential."

Don Clay, who helped recruit Garza for Coach Tony Mauldin's WTC Westerners team, indicated the local athlete would probably be used as wing or shooting guard. Garza, who could be slowed somewhat until he improves his ballhandling skills, has good shooting range, from the 3-point line in. He bagged two 3-pointers against Hirschi before going down with a turned ankle in the regional semifinal game.

In the first college basketball game between teams of five players, Yale defeated Penn, 32-10, in 1897.

Kentucky soph joins pro basketball draft

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Can Kentucky's Rex Chapman succeed in the National Basketball Association?

Chapman decided to give it a shot Friday, announcing that he was passing up his final two years of collegiate eligibility to make himself available for the NBA.

"I had mixed emotions," Chapman said. "This was much harder than picking a college. It's kind of a gut feeling that this is the best time for me."

"I think it will be a tough adjustment," Kentucky coach Eddie Sutton said at a news conference. "I hope he's drafted by a team that's well established like the Lakers or Celtics so that he won't be rushed" in his development.

"I think they should stay in school," Mary Blake, NBA director of scouting, said of players leaving school for the pros. "Physically and emotionally, they are not ready. I don't think people realize how good the NBA is."

The NBA's deadline for underclassmen declaring for the June 28 draft is midnight tonight.

Chapman mailed a letter to league commissioner David Stern on Friday, meaning there is no chance he can change his mind, NBA officials said.

Chapman, 20, refused to speculate on where he might be taken in the draft.

Only last month Chapman, a 6-foot-4, 185-pound guard, indicated that he would remain at Kentucky.

"It's strictly a business decision," Chapman said from his Owensboro home Friday. "There is only one reason to enter the NBA draft early... because I feel I have the talent and the ability to utilize that talent, and the maturity that is needed."

Chapman led UK in scoring as a freshman and sophomore, averaging 16 and 19 points a game. He was an All-Southeastern Conference selection each season and a member of the U.S. team that won the silver medal in the 1987 Pan American Games.

He became only the third player in UK history to pass the 1,000-point mark during the second year of a career.

Attorney said seeking bond for suspect

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A 74-year-old tax protester accused of wanting to have Mayor Henry Cisneros killed was ordered held on $150,000 bond.

Parker E. Abell of Natalia was transferred to Bexar County Jail on Friday following the bond hearing before District Court Judge David A. Berchermann Jr. Steven Hilbig, Abell's court-appointed attorney, said he doubted his client could make bail.

Hilbig said he would try to get his client's bond lowered in an appeal to the 4th Court of Appeals in San Antonio.

Authorities charged Abell with solicitation to commit capital murder. He was arrested Tuesday after allegedly agreeing to pay an undercover officer $5,000 to kill Cisneros, authorities said.

Prosecutors requested that bond be set at $305,000, while Hilbig asked for a $50,000 bond, saying Abell was elderly and had no previous criminal record.

The mayor has joked about the alleged assassination plot, saying it would not interfere with his city business.

Abell, a former Libertarian congressional candidate, said he was the head of a group called the American Patriots. He opposes paying taxes and already owes more than $5,000 in taxes and penalties for three pieces of property in Natalia, officials said.

Rainbow family to comply with order; fight continues

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — A back-to-nature group's "tribal council" in the East Texas piney woods this weekend does not violate a federal judge's order, leaders of the organization say.

The Rainbow Family's meeting will be on private land or at a federal camping ground that does not require a special-use permit, family spokesman Stephen Principle said Friday.

He said family members will comply with an order prohibiting it from meeting this weekend in an East Texas forest, but will fight a proposed ban from holding a larger July gathering.

A U.S. magistrate postponed until next week a decision on whether to prohibit the back-to-nature group from holding its annual July 4th weekend gathering. About 20,000 people are expected to converge on national forest lands in East Texas in July, officials said.

This weekend's council should draw about 500 people. At the council, members will make plans for the larger July meeting.

On Friday, a preliminary hearing ended without action in Lufkin on a U.S. Forest Service request for a permanent injunction against the group's July gathering.

"They have requested that the Constitution be suspended in Texas," said Principle concerning the permanent injunction.

The injunction would prevent any gathering of 25 or more Rainbow Family members, he said.

If the permanent injunction is ordered, he said, "Then we will gather en masse on the Texas border and call our people out of Babylon."

Federal Judge William Wayne Justice issued a temporary restraining order Thursday, prohibiting the weekend meeting on Forest Service land without a special use permit, for which the family has refused to apply.

Magistrate J. Michael Bradford's recommendation "sufficiently documents the likelihood of irreparable harm if the spring council meeting is held on Forest Service land, on the date specified," said Justice.

His order is in effect for 10 days. Bradford, in his recommendation to Justice, said the council meeting could violate "laws relating to drugs and nudity, in such substantial numbers that law enforcement would be rendered effectively unmanageable."

"The evidence is clear that any gathering by the Rainbow Family in mass numbers on national forest system property without a specific use permit would violate federal law," Bradford wrote.

Principal has questioned the strength of any government action designed to block the gathering. He said no state has ever stopped the July 4 weekend meeting, called the Rainbow Gathering of the Tribes.

The Forest Service requested the action because the Rainbow Family has not filed applications for special-use permits.

Lufkin is about 120 miles northeast of Houston.

North Texas State changes its name

DENTON, Texas (AP) — For 26 years, North Texas State University has wanted to be called something else.

On Sunday, the school will get its wish when it becomes the University of North Texas.

But school officials say please don't call it by its initials, UNT.

North Texas chancellor Alfred E. Hurley said the new name more accurately represents the achievements of the 23,000-enrollment school in this Dallas suburb.

"Our research work has increased. We have doubled the amount of research funds from $5 million to $10 million in the last two years," he said.

State Rep. Jim Horn, R-Denton, who sponsored legislation last year to change the school's name said, "University of North Texas sounds more prestigious, more high caliber. This just isn't the neighborhood school anymore."

Still there are those that long for the days when the school was known mostly for its music and education programs.

Alumni from as far away as Virginia have written Voertman's, a supply store across the street from the campus, wanting to buy any NTSU memorabilia. Allyne Cook, an employee at Voertman's said everything from T-shirts to coffee mugs with NTSU has been bought up.

Carolyn Barnes, the school's public information officer, said this year's graduates have the option of having North Texas State University or University of North Texas put on their diploma. "It's running about 50-50," she said.

The 98-year-old school has had a history of name changes. First named Texas Normal College and Teachers Training Institute in 1890, the school became North Texas Normal College in 1893, North Texas State Normal College in 1923 and North Texas State Teachers College in 1923 and North Texas State College in 1949.

In 1961, school officials lobbied the Legislature for a change to University of North Texas.

But some lawmakers resented the proposed rise in status. The name North Texas State University was borne out of a compromise.

Ironically, politics almost killed last year's attempt.

State Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, and state Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, who sponsored the name-change bill in the Senate, were arguing over an unrelated bill and Rudd essentially sent the North Texas bill into legislative oblivion in the closing days of the session.

Eventually the two lawmakers settled their differences enough to allow the bill to escape death.

It was passed on May 29 and Gov. Bill Clements signed the bill into law in June.

Senior Center activities told

Senior citizens who are residents of the Fluvanna community are invited to be special guests in the Senior Center on Monday, Fluvanna Day. They will be introduced before the noon meal is served.

Representatives from Social Security will be in the Senior Center building Tuesday to help local residents with questions concerning Social Security. Hoss Clayton and his band will present a musical program in the center's dining room starting at 11 a.m.

Surplus commodities will be distributed to senior citizens in the center Tuesday from 9-11:30 a.m. Commodities will be distributed to other eligible county residents in the center Wednesday morning and afternoon.

Senior citizens in Texas will be electing representatives to the Silver Haired Legislature on May 24. Delbert Downing of Snyder is unopposed in his bid for reelection in District 3. Local senior citizens will be electing an at-large representative, choosing between Jerome Ray of Comanche and Gordon Wood of Brownwood.

Absentee voting for the SHL is now underway in the Senior Center and will continue through May 20. Hours for absentee voting are 10 a.m. to noon. All senior citizens who are registered voters are eligible to vote in this election and are urged to vote to show their support for Downing. He has been selected to attend a nationwide conference of SHL representatives to be held in St. Louis in June.

Scurry County Folks...

By Shirley A. Gorman

Three Scurry County teachers have recently received honors. Betty Burrow, fifth grade teacher at Ira, has been named Outstanding Educator of the Year by District 18 PTA. The award was presented to Mrs. Burrow at the Life Membership Banquet held April 12 in Abilene.

Last month, two county teachers were recognized by the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District as conservation teachers of the year. They were Caddye Claborn, who teaches sixth grade at Central Elementary, and Carrie Richardson, who teaches home economics at Hermleigh.

Mrs. Burrow began teaching at Ira for the 1954-55 school year and has taught a total of 19 years there. She took time off from her teaching duties to raise two daughters, Janna Burrow, who is a senior this year, and Marla Rigsby, who teaches math at Ira. She has taught the fifth grade for the past 12 years.

She began her teaching career in Ira in the fall of 1954 through 1958 as a business education teacher. She then taught the fourth grade in 1958-59. She later taught the third grade from 1966-1969.

From 1969 to 1976 she was secretary at the school for a short period and was a substitute teacher. She taught the first grade for half a year in 1976-77 and the other half of the year she taught the fifth grade.

Mrs. Burrow, who found out about the honor a week before the banquet, said "I was shocked. I didn't even know I was being considered."

The Ira teacher was nominated for the award by Susie White, current president of the Ira PTA. "Mrs. Burrow is a wonderful teacher. She is the best I have ever seen. She is very patient and gets her point across to the students very well," Mrs. White said.

Mrs. Burrow was chosen from a field of 15 applicants. Mrs. White said that every year the Ira PTA applies for several awards which are bestowed by the District 18 PTA and this year they included Mrs. Burrow for the Educator of the Year Award.

In 1982, Mrs. Burrow received the Life Membership Award which is presented each year by the Ira PTA.

A pot luck supper was planned for Mrs. Burrow last month but it had to be postponed due to illness in the community. Mrs. White said. It was rescheduled for May 9.

Mrs. Burrow obtained her bachelor's degree from Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. She also graduated from Victoria Junior College.

"I have always wanted to work with children," she said. "I can't imagine doing anything else. When I see a big smile or know they understand a new concept I know it is all worth it. I can usually tell from their eyes if they have mastered something or not."

Mrs. Burrow also said, "Ira School has been good to me and it has been a pleasure to work in the system."

She has seen many changes take place in education throughout her 19 years of teaching. "House Bill 72 changed things drastically. We'll have to wait and see if it works out for the best."

She said teachers have more materials to work with today which is "fantastic." But she said there are now more restrictions on what you can teach since all the essential elements have to be covered.

Mrs. Burrow has also seen changes in the Ira School system. When she started in 1954 the shop made the typing tables they used and there were no electric typewriters.

"Now," she said, "We have computers which we pull right into our rooms."

Ira has also grown from a small school to its biggest enrollment this school year. The school has also been remodeled, refurbished and expanded over the years.

Mrs. Burrow said she likes teaching in a small school "because of the individual attention you can give the students."

In past years she has taught larger classes, but this year she only has 17 fifth graders in her room.

Mrs. Burrow grew up in South Texas near Victoria. She originally moved to Snyder in 1954 with her family when her father was transferred here by Monsanto.

She married Manley Burrow on Nov. 23, 1955. He is a farmer and they live eight miles northwest of Ira.

Mrs. Claborn has taught sixth grade at Central for the past four years. Prior to that she taught fifth grade at Eastland for two years.

She obtained her degree from Tarleton State University and has been teaching a total of six years.

She is from Cisco originally and first learned about conservation as a child growing up. See TEACHERS, Page 4B

Mrs. Virgil Mott's students were presented in recital May 1 in the First Baptist Church Chapel. Following the recital, certificates and pins were awarded to students participating in the auditions sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

Special awards went to Christy Garner, first place; Jimmy Hall, second place and Vicki Green, third place in recognition of their grades in the auditions. Placing first in the beginner's group was Kelley Garner. The elementary school student placing first was Lee Idom. Each of these students received a cash award.

Earning practice awards during the year were April Baker, Mark Bullard, Kim Burton, Cerise Covey, Jimmy Hall, Lee Idom, Patrick Jordan, Suzanne Kimmel, Sarah Lilly, Leslie Monroe, Jannica Northerns, Lacey Parker, Stacey Parker and Jennifer Riojas.

Special guests on the program were Andrea Garner and Triesta Lilly who played a flute duet, "Sonatina, Op. 6, No. 5" by Kohler. Mrs. Garner and Mrs. Lilly are students of Brent Hardegree with Western Texas College.

FARMERS OF '70s TO GET MONEY BACK
Forget there and now, this is a matter of here and then. If you were a farmer in the 1970s, you're entitled to a refund for some of your fuel expenses. But you have to act before June 30.

The refund is a result of a settlement reached by the Dept. of Energy with oil companies that allegedly overcharged for crude oil during a period regulated by price ceilings.

Consequently, farmers can get back about $80 or more for every 100,000 gallons of fuel used between Aug. 19, 1973 and Jan. 27, 1981. That equates to a little over $14 for every 100 acres of cropland in production during the seven and one-half year period, according to economists with the Extension Service.

This refund should not be confused with the income tax credit for federal excise taxes on fuel. The Dept. of Energy will base refunds on actual gallons purchased, estimated gallons used or a USDA estimate of 23.8 gallons per acre of cropland per year. An explanation of filing procedures for the refund and a simple two-page filing form can be obtained from the County Extension Office.

SPRAYING PECAN TREES

We are still too early to spray for the Pecan Nut Casebearer. The spray date is estimated to be around May 27th. Pecan tree owners should be spraying with zinc and can also mix zinc with the insecticide when treating for the casebearer.

The County Extension Office will notify the public through the mass media of the exact spray schedule as soon as it is confirmed.

Hermleigh classes meet after 41 years

The Hermleigh High School classes of 1945 through 1949 met April 23 for the first time in 41 years. Held in Abilene at the Kiva Inn, the meeting was judged a success with 90 in attendance.

Old-time Hermleigh pictures borrowed from Doyle Wemken were a popular attraction. Don Hale served as master-of-ceremonies and Bill Bayless offered the invocation at the banquet.

Another reunion is planned for April of 1990.

Those in attendance from the class of '45 were Bayless, Jesse Henley, J.P. Hale Jr., Marie (Lewis) Sager, Jackie (Chorn) Sealy and Ruby Nell (McKnight) Moran.

From the class of '46 were Grady Gafford, Dillard Herrley, Kenneth Dacus, Mary Lou (Cotton) Bayless, Lillian (Wimmer) Heinrich and Nita Sue (Roundtree) Tuller.

Classmates of '47 in attendance were Lowell Wade, O.D. Dial, Charles Henderson, Donald Mason, Gilbert Wolf, H.B. Lewis, Roscoe Haynes, Cecil Evans, Don R. Hale, Harvey Lee Smith, Gene Richards, Seman Hudnall, Claudia Cizek, Mary Ellen (Hickman) Kiger, Opha Lou (Mason) Voss, Thelma Ruth (Hickman) Kmiec, Frances (Carey) Bryant and Virgie (Henley) Chambers.

The class of '48 included Bunny (Roundtree) South, Velma (Light) Tolbert, Marshall Pylant, Nellie Fay (Glass) Wright, Rosemary (Hoepfl) Goebel, Morris (Ham) Lewis, Joy (Glass) Wright, Bobby Joe Nachlinger and Lonnie Stephens.

Those from '49 attending were Bill Glass, Decler Wright, Curtis Talley, Charles Lauw, Travis Pieper, Homer Rubin Gannaway, Lavon (Henley) Brooks and Pat (Watson) Watts.

Classmates from '50 were Charlene (Mason) Dacus, Margaret (Zinke) Adams and Harrell Dean Henderson.

Remember that South has just ruffed the fourth spade, and now West must discard. If he underruffs, dummy is good. If he throws his diamond jack, declarer will play the diamond 10 at him. If he throws the club jack, declarer's five is promoted and will be led. Obviously if either of South's cards becomes a winner, West must ruff it when it is led, or declarer will simply discard dummy's spade and take the last trick with the heart ace.
 Not just your ordinary run-of-the-mill deal, is it?

Best defense not good enough

By James Jacoby

My thanks go to Swedish expert-analyst Jan Wohlin for this interesting deal, where the best defense is a trump lead with a trump continuation after West wins the diamond ace. However, it's all to no avail, as an unusual three-suit squeeze develops against West.

After the trump lead, declarer cashed the spade ace and played a diamond. West won and played another trump to dummy's nine. Declarer ruffed a spade, played a diamond to dummy and ruffed another spade. Next came the club A-K and a club ruff, followed by the ruff of a fourth round of spades. That placed West in

FEATURED THIS WEEK
THE BLIZZARD OF '88. By Mary Cable.

On the occasion of its 100th anniversary, Mary Cable presents a vivid chronicle of the blizzard of '88 which caused havoc up and down the eastern seaboard of the United States to a degree that has never been equaled.

As a great natural disaster, the blizzard retains, to this day, a romantic and historic significance even in the minds of people much too young to have lived through it.

"The Blizzard of '88" is moving and dramatic social history in the tradition of McCullough's classic, "The Johnstown Flood."

Teachers are honored

Each year, Mrs. Claborn teaches a unit on conservation to her sixth graders, emphasizing identifying natural resources and discovering ways to conserve them. They study crop rotation and different methods of preserving the soil.

Mrs. Claborn was nominated for the conservation teacher of the year award by the directors of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District.

She said she found out that she had won the award a few days before the banquet which was held at the Willow Park Inn.

She said she always wanted to be a teacher while she was growing up, adding "I must have had good examples to follow."

"I love working with students. Every day is a different challenge. It is not ever the same."

She is married to Frank Claborn who works for Oil

Dynamics. They have two daughters, Kerstin, 11, and Niki, 9. She said they both try to teach their daughters about conservation as well.

Mrs. Richardson has been teaching home economics at Hermligh for the past three years. She also teaches a sixth grade fine arts class and this year that class studied about conservation and entered the conservation poster contest.

The Snyder native obtained her teaching degree from Texas Tech.

"I became interested in teaching through some friends who were teachers," Mrs. Richardson said. "I like working with the students and I enjoy teaching at a small school because I can get to know the students better."

She is married to Jim Richardson who is an electronics technician for Mobil. She is the daughter of Lawton and Patsy Taylor of Snyder.

STRAWBERRY BROWNIES — Brownies made from a package mix with extra homemade when you add strawberries and a banana. (AP Photo)

Strawberries add new taste to old-fashioned brownies

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

Dress up a packaged brownie mix with strawberries and a banana and you'll have a super spring dessert. Because of the cream cheese frosting the brownies must be stored in the refrigerator.

STRAWBERRY BROWNIES

- 12 medium strawberries
 - 1 ripe medium banana
 - 2 beaten eggs
 - One 20 1/2-ounce package walnut brownie mix
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1/4 cup cooking oil
 - One 8-ounce container soft-style cream cheese with strawberry
 - 1 1/2 cups sifted powdered sugar
- Remove stems and hulls from strawberries. Mash together strawberries and banana; set aside. In a large mixing bowl stir together eggs, brownie mix, water and oil just until moistened. Stir in strawberry mixture. Pour into a lightly greased 13- by 9- by 2-inch pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until brownie springs back when lightly touched. Cool.

For frosting, in a small mixer bowl beat cream cheese and powdered sugar until smooth (frosting will be soft). Spread over brownies. To serve, cut into bars. Store, covered, in the refrigerator. Makes 40 bars.

REMOVING ODOR FROM A REFRIGERATOR

There may be nothing more unappetizing than opening the refrigerator and being greeted by the odor of spoiled food, long after the food has been removed.

This kind of odor problem can occur if you're away and the refrigerator goes off for several days. Even an empty refrigerator in a rental home, camper or cabin that wasn't thoroughly cleaned before being closed for several weeks may also have a strong odor.

Removing the odor may not be easy.

Most people know to put an open box or dish of baking soda in the refrigerator to absorb odor, but that will not be sufficient in all cases.

When the odor remains, crush several charcoal briquettes in a dish and leave in the refrigerator for several weeks. If you can still smell the spoiled odor, replace the briquettes with an open dish of vanilla extract.

If nothing helps, the insulation inside the wall may have absorbed the odor and it will be impossible to remove.

A more common problem occurs when someone leaves the refrigerator door open overnight. When this happens, odors can be more easily removed with baking soda, but the safety of your food may be in question.

Foods such as uncracked eggs, fruit juices, fresh vegetables, butter, margarine and hard cheese will be fine. Jams, jellies, salad dressing, pickles and olives will also be safe.

Other foods may be questionable.

If your refrigerator is set at 40 degrees or lower, it's running properly and the food still feels cold, most likely it will be safe to eat.

This should be true of foods that were in the back of the refrigerator. But raw or cooked meats and casseroles, especially those sitting near the door, may have warmed to the point where bacteria can easily multiply.

Throw out any food you have doubts about to avoid the possibility of foodborne illness and its uncomfortable flu-like symptoms.

Auto-swing boon to parents

ELVERSON, Pa. (AP) — Thirty years ago, David Saint — sculptor, ex-rocket designer, ex-toaster maker — came up with the product for which mothers will remember him most: an automatic baby swing.

Saint, 71, a designer in the research and development department of Graco Metal Products, invented the Swyngomatic, a free-standing baby swing that now sells a half-million copies a year in six styles.

Saint's voice is low, his manner unassuming. His eyes twinkle above a long, thin beard that ranges from reddish-brown to white.

He demonstrated one of the original Swyngomatics, proud that it still works. Decals show an old-fashioned little girl swinging on an outdoor swing next to her dog.

The new logo is a tree swing that holds a brown teddy bear in bright red pants.

Both of his grandfathers were inventors, and Saint picked up the family tradition early. He designed a sailboat as a child and took alarm clocks and other toys apart to see what made them work.

When Saint mentioned to Bob Cone — a friend and the founder of Graco — that he stayed up almost all night wrestling with ideas, he was hired to make a new product.

"It was Rex (Thomas) who one day told me how he had watched his wife sitting outside for hours reading while she pushed the children on a swing," Saint said.

"Rex thought someone should invent an automatic baby swing, and we set to work on the design. In about a year, it was on the market."

SCS Notes

PSA, also known as the Food Security Act, pertains to soils that are termed as highly erodible. By now many of the producers in Scurry Co. have received, in the mail, a packet describing whether or not they have highly erodible soils on their cropland.

If highly erodible soils exist, then a conservation plan is needed in order to continue receiving benefits from ASCS programs. If you have received a packet explaining this to you, please call the office at 573-5222 at your earliest convenience to arrange for an appointment to develop a conservation compliance plan.

If you have not received a packet at this time, you may call the office and arrange for a determination to be made on your cropland.

Strawberry yogurt is first choice in flavors

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans spent an estimated $1.1 billion on yogurt in 1987, say food marketing experts.

This compares to $530 million in 1981 and reflects, according to Dannon Yogurt, a consistent yearly increase in yogurt consumption. It says the favorite yogurt flavors, in order of preference, were strawberry, plain, strawberry-banana, raspberry and vanilla.

Complaints heard against Apple Dodge

AUSTIN (AP) — A state agency says consumer complaints brought its attention to an Austin car dealer that has been formally accused of overcharging automobile and truck buyers for title and registration fees.

The Texas Motor Vehicle Commission has filed a formal complaint accusing Apple Dodge on South Interstate 35 with falsifying retail sales contracts to show higher fee amounts than are payable to the state, said Russell Harding, commission executive director.

The alleged falsification allows the dealer to collect and keep the overcharge as profit, Harding said Thursday in a statement.

"When the large volume of sales made by the dealership is considered, the overcharges paid by Austin-area customers will amount to many thousands of dollars," he said.

An Apple employee who asked that his name not be used said representatives of the dealership were in a meeting and unavailable for comment. Officials of the dealership did not return phone calls from The Associated Press.

According to Harding, overcharges have occurred on all sales, but they were particularly excessive on used car sales. For example, he said, typical fees payable on the sale of a used car are $10 for title application and $2.50 to transfer the registration to the new owner.

However, Apple Dodge charges its used car buyers $75 for official fees, keeping the additional $62.50 as profit for the dealership, Harding said.

Harding said the commission has subpoenaed the records of Apple Dodge, and a hearing on the complaint has been scheduled for June 14.

Penalties for violating the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission Code include revocation or suspension of the dealer's license, or the assessment of civil penalties of $50 to $2,000 for each violation, Harding said.

He said the complaint was the result of a joint effort by the commission staff, Travis County tax assessor-collector, state comptroller's office and State Department of Highways and Transportation.

Your Birthday

May 15, 1988

Life may take you in an entirely new direction in the year ahead. You're going to be more restless and adventurous, and these inclinations will be attributes that will enhance your possibilities for success.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An enterprise you have in mind has good chances for success, provided your procedures are properly timed. It could misfire if you push ahead prematurely. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today, don't be too hasty about acting on flashes of inspiration. Sleep on your bright ideas, because they might turn out to be burned out bulbs.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A relationship you cherish could be jeopardized today if you let something of a material nature become an issue. Money has its value, but friends are priceless.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You can move ahead more swiftly at this time if you are unencumbered by unproductive partners. Be extremely selective regarding your alliances.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today, you may have to deal with someone whose politics or philosophy clashes with yours. This could be a volatile situation if it's not handled properly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A joint venture in which you're interested is not likely to work out if the arrangement isn't equitable. Each party must be able to make an equivalent contribution.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An unresolved disagreement between you and your mate should not be aired in front of others today. If your spouse does bring it up, subdue inclinations to respond.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be cognizant of proper safety procedures today when working with tools. Also keep a close eye on co-workers to be sure they don't get careless.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your self-discipline might not be all that it should be today, and some form of overindulgence is probable. Put sensible limits on that which you eat or imbibe.

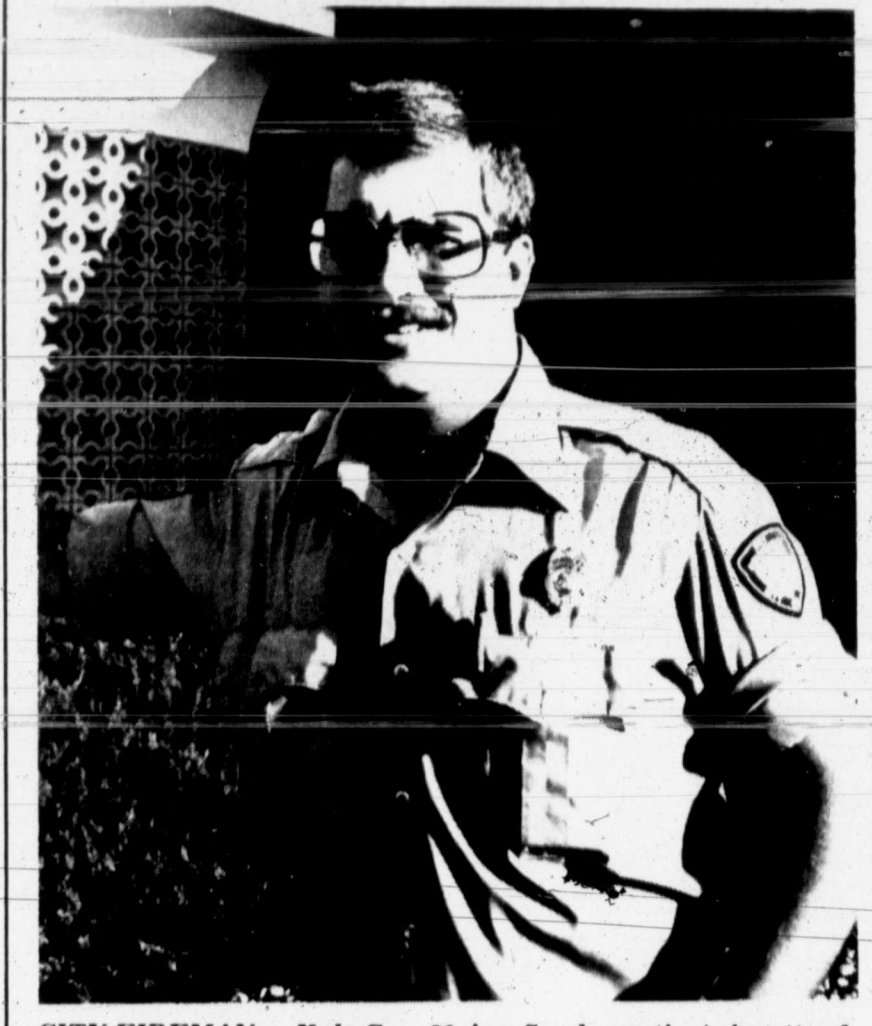

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to keep your temper under control if you have to contend with domestic frustrations today. Heated words from you could have the household boiling over.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't believe everything you hear today. A person who likes to stir things up might distort some comments another recently made about you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be a bit more protective than usual of your possessions today, especially if you're in locations with which you're unfamiliar. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

SAC division to move from Abilene site

Chain decided that the air divisions could operate more efficiently if the commanders were located at "dual wing bases," Lt. Taliaferro said.

Ellsworth is SAC's largest operational base, with the 28th Bomb Wing and the 44th Strategic Missile Wing. The bomb wing has 35 B-1B bombers, compared to Dyess' 28, while the missile wing commands 150 Minuteman II missiles.

Although Dyess has a second wing, the 463rd Tactical Airlift Wing, the 463rd is a Military Airlift Command (MAC) asset, not SAC, and therefore not under control of the 12th Air Division, the spokeswoman said.

In addition to picking up supervision of the 28th Bomb Wing and 44th Strategic Missile Wing, the 12th Air Division commander will retain supervision of the 96th Bomb Wing at Dyess, 93rd Bomb Wing at Castle and 320th Bomb Wing at Mather Air Force Base, Calif., at least under the current alignment. Both the 93rd and 320th still fly the B-52 bomber.

Marquette will become what amounts to base commander at Ellsworth, which was not the situation at Dyess. At Dyess, the 96th Bomb Wing and 96th Combat Support Group commanders, both colonels, share administrative responsibilities and no one actually has the title of base commander.

Although the changes are not related to budget cuts, they will result in a reduction of 50 active duty personnel and the savings of an estimated $1.5 to $2 million per year, she said.

In one of the most incredible coincidences of American history, the second and third presidents of the United States — John Adams and Thomas Jefferson — both died on July 4, 1826, 50 years to the day after the Declaration of Independence was adopted.

Spy satellite will be coming down

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials said Friday they are monitoring a nuclear-powered Soviet satellite that the Tass news agency says will fall to Earth this August or September. Maj. Alex- Mondragon, a spokesman for the U.S. Space Command, in Colorado Springs, Colo., said that the satellite, Kosmos 1900, "has been in a steadily decaying orbit for the last month. If nothing is done to correct its orbit, it will decay, and reenter Earth atmosphere."

The official Soviet Tass news agency reported this morning that Kosmos 1900 has a nuclear power plant aboard, and would fall to Earth in August or September, but that the radioactive material aboard would not present a danger.

Neither Tass nor the U.S. spokesman described the mission of Kosmos 1900, but it is believed to be one of two RORSAT satellites the Soviets have in orbit to monitor the movement of American warships. RORSAT is an American designation which stands for Radar Ocean Reconnaissance Satellite.

The Tass announcement, made available by the agency's office in Washington, said that "the artificial earth satellite Kosmos 1900, with a nuclear power plant aboard, was launched Dec. 12, 1987."

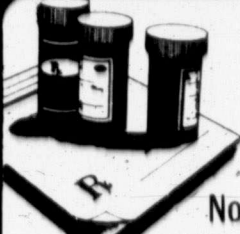

The Tass announcement came as a top Soviet space official, Roald Sagdeyev, and private American scientists urged a ban on nuclear reactors in earth orbit, a measure designed to block the Reagan administration's Star Wars program. Such a ban also would end RORSAT.

Sagdeyev, director of the Soviet Space Research Institute, told a news conference that he had been in the United States for several weeks and had no fresh information on Kosmos 1900.

The main target of the proposed ban on orbiting reactors, Sagdeyev and the Americans said, is the U.S. SP-100 program, a pilot for the orbiting nuclear reactors that many scientists believe would be needed to power the exotic weapons envisioned in President Reagan's plans for a space-based missile defense.

Sagdeyev, an adviser to Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev, has been at the forefront of Soviet efforts to block the Strategic Defense Initiative, as Star Wars is formally known.

Some administration officials also have credited Sagdeyev and Yevgeny Velikhov, vice president of the Soviet Academy of Scientists, with bringing to Gorbachev's attention many U.S. scientific papers arguing that Star Wars may be an impossible dream.

HEARTBURN
If heartburn keeps you awake at night, do not take a sleeping pill. While asleep, the acid regurgitated into the esophagus (the food passageway from throat to stomach) can cause serious inflammation problems. Rather, neutralize the stomach acid with antacid to get back to sleep.

Heroine's Good Deed Still Sparkles After 35 Years

DEAR ABBY: In November 1952, I was walking down a road just outside of Glendale, Ariz., with my brother, an uncle and my mother, who was carrying my 4-month-old baby sister. I was 4 years old at the time, but I remember this as though it were yesterday.

A truck hit us. My mother was knocked unconscious and my baby sister was sent hurtling through the air. My brother, uncle and I were lucky to escape with only minor injuries.

Many people stopped to help us, and I had a hard time convincing them that I was looking for my baby sister — and not a doll! A truck driver went to get some water out of a ditch to aid my mother and uncle and he saw my baby sister floating in the cold water.

The person I want to find is the pretty lady who stopped to help us. She had long blond hair. Abby, this angel took off her skirt in front of everybody and wrapped it around my half-frozen baby sister! We were all taken to the hospital where my sister remained for a long time, being fed through the veins in her legs. Thanks to this blond lady, my sister survived.

Abby, if that lady is still living, I'd love to hear from her. (She looked to be 23 or 24 at the time.) There are so few real heroes in this world, I would like to find this woman. She was a true heroine.

EVA PIERCE,
HEALDTON, OKLA.

DEAR EVA: Perhaps you will. Stranger things have happened.

DEAR READERS: Did you know that more accidents occur in the home than on highways? The U.S. Public Health Service estimates that 40 percent to 50 percent of all falls at home can be prevented with some practical changes in the home. Consider:

ALL ROOMS: In doorways, raised thresholds should be removed or covered with carpet. Keep electrical cords out of the way. Get rid of frayed rugs and avoid throw rugs. Fasten area carpets to the floor with tape or tacks. Repair any furniture that is unsteady.

STAIRWAYS: They are common locations for falls. Be sure stairways are well-lighted. Install secure handrails. If you have a vision problem, bright tape applied to the first and last steps can help.

BEDROOMS: Put a light switch at the door so no one has to cross a dark room to turn on a light. Avoid placement of furniture that will make it hazardous. Beds and chairs need to be of proper height; When the occupant is sitting, feet should touch the floor, with knees comfortably bent.

BATHROOMS: Install safety rails at the tub and grab-handles by the toilet. (Never use towel bars as grab-handles.) Put a non-skid mat near both places. Shower chairs and bath benches minimize risks of falling. Remember: A mishap in the shower can lead to a burn injury if the water mixer level is accidentally turned in an effort to prevent the fall.

KITCHEN: Are your cabinets hard to reach? Use extension tongs or, if necessary, a small stepladder. Never stand on a chair to reach a shelf. (Better yet, "retire" that top shelf.) Wipe up spills immediately. Use non-skid floor wax. Stove controls (especially for gas ranges) should be clearly visible and in good working order.

The above information is from the Mayo Clinic Health Letter. I have found a wealth of practical information in this monthly newsletter. If you can afford the $24 a year, write to Editor Scott D. Olson, Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. 55905, and tell him Dear Abby sent you. It will be money well spent.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle an argument between my husband and me? Recently my mother's brother died. He and my mother had a falling out seven years ago, and they had not spoken to each other since.

My mother chose not to go to her brother's funeral. My husband said she should have gone and paid her last respects. My mother said, "I'm no hypocrite. We didn't respect each other while he was living; why should I pay my respects when he's dead?"

My husband thinks my mother was wrong. I think she was right. What do you think?

DYING TO KNOW

DEAR DYING: Funerals are for the living. The deceased will not know who was there and who wasn't — but the grieving family members will. I think your mother's presence at her brother's funeral would have comforted the family — after all, they were brother and sister. Had she attended his funeral and buried her grievances, it might have made her feel better.

DEAR ABBY: Please help us thank all the wonderful people who were kind enough to send letters, Valentines and Easter greetings to us aboard the USS Tower. More than 30,000 Dear Abby readers flooded our ship with messages of love and gratitude — some sent candy and cookies. Our lone postal clerk went bananas!

Morale is certainly high out here; many crew members are corresponding with those who wrote. However, some letters were separated from their envelopes, and others had no return addresses. Even if they were intact, there is no way a crew of this size could answer each writer individually. But we want to thank everyone who wrote.

Each one of us is proud to be an American, proud to serve in the military, and proud to know that we are defending so many caring and loving people.

MIKE CERVI
FOR THE CREW OF THE USS TOWER

DEAR MIKE: I appreciate the explanation. Some disappointed readers wrote to say that they had written per my suggestion, but received no feedback. I was assured by the military that if one ship had more mail than it could handle, the overflow would be transferred to another ship. Dear Abby readers don't care where their letters land — as long as they're read.

DEAR ABBY: I was very much impressed with your efforts to cheer up American troops who are far from home in the service of their country. And judging from the letters you received from grateful servicemen, it was a great morale booster. However, being a serviceman myself (Army), I was disappointed to see the U.S. Navy get all the attention. I am stationed in Korea in the DMZ (Demilitarized Zone), and there are Air Force and Marine troops over here, too, you know.

We are stranded up here for a year at a time guarding against North Korean troops trying to infiltrate. So, please, Abby, give us a break and direct a little mail our way.

J. YARGO (DMZ, KOREA)

DEAR J. YARGO: Here's your letter, and don't say I didn't warn you. Just wait until this hits print.

Readers, how about cheering up our men and women in the Army, Air Force and Marines? Write to: Operation Dear Abby-DMZ, c/o Commanding Officer, CO C 122 Signal BN, Camp Casey, Korea 96224-0346.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALL PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES: "He who slings mud, generally loses ground." (Adlai Stevenson)

By Donny Brown

If we could draw, which we can't, we'd craft up the following cartoon to illustrate how we feel about turning 40.

Two huge wrestlers would be grappling in the middle of a ring, one with the other's neck clasped tightly in an arm lock.

This grip would be so intense, the opponent's eyes would be bulging like a stepped on toad frog and the guy with the arm lock would have an expression on his ugly mug of malicious intent.

And he would be saying to the fellow with the bug-eyes, "Acquiesce! Acquiesce!"

We note this because the age of 40 is the first time most folks would seriously consider such a thing. To acquiesce, that is.

In fact, it seems best selling soothsayers are making a living by telling self-absorbed types about to run head-on into middle age that it is indeed time to consider coming to a dead stop, this in order to smell the sweetness of the rose ever so much the better.

Failure to do this, we are told, creates stress—a double dollop for those classified as type A personalities. That is, the proverbial go-getter who works hard, plays hard and dies of a heart attack 'ere he achieves the down side of 50.

SDN Opinion Page

Stress, they tell us, is our enemy.

So, in retaliation and in the pursuit of good health, we're supposed to cool down. To raise our oars and let the smooth flowing breeze carry us along as we dribble our toes in the cool bath of the peaceful river.

But we're beginning to wonder if stress isn't becoming one of those buzz words that we pass around without knowing what in the heck we're taking about.

A general malady to blame when all of our pistons aren't hitting in sync.

Jumping cats, how does anything get done without a little stress to get it rolling?

In answer to this question, consider that stress is also our friend.

Most of us only do things when we're prodded. For some, admittedly, it takes almost a gunpoint threat to tip them out of orbit, but stress is still the world's great motivator.

And there's another thing. Those who advise the garden path too soon have temporarily forgotten the fun of chasing around after some big old impossible something.

To acquiesce is fine, but it has to be a serving of dry toast to an appetite grown accustomed to rich foods.

It isn't stress that kills, it's boredom. In fact, we think the two are getting more and more confused.

If you want to experience stress, practice an occupation that you don't like—even at half-speed. This will kill you a lot faster than working your buns off doing something you do enjoy.

Like a whole bunch of life, it's not so much your acts as it is your attitude.

To complete our cartoon of the wrestlers, perhaps we should change the caption. Instead of demanding his pinned and suffering opponent should "Acquiesce!" he should be asking a more pertinent question, "Are you having fun yet?"

If the answer is no, it may be time to consider giving in. But, if the answer is yes, folks, it's time to keep on wrass'lin'.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

They say confession is good for the soul. In that case, I have a confession to make: I've been sleeping with people other than my husband.

It's true. Even worse: he knows about it.

It's not that he doesn't mind, it's just that he knows there's not much he can do about it. Lord knows I've tried to stop, and I haven't had any luck.

He could probably live with it if all I did was sleep with them; but no, I have to argue with them too. Day and night. They clamor to make their views known and I have no choice but to give them consideration.

It's the least I can do for fictional characters.

(You didn't think I was talking about anybody REAL, did you? What a dirty mind you have.)

As I write this, I am working on the final chapters of my novel of suspense, "Pitfall." And I am an absolute blithering idiot.

As anyone who loves to read novels knows, and certainly any novelist, the last chapters are crucial. All those little clues you so carefully placed have to come to fruition. The protagonist has to have her say and the antagonist must be explained. All the supporting characters clamor for recognition as well—they resent being stuck in for atmosphere. The climax has to be nerve-wrenching and the theme spelled out and somebody, somewhere, has to learn from the experience, as we all must do in real life.

And if you, as the writer, truly expect the reader to surrender his or her will to your little make-believe world, then you have to make absolutely certain that what you say is believable, that your detail is accurate, that your story might...just might...really happen.

At least, that's how I see it.

Times like this, I think of all the famous authors I've read about who are alcoholic or dope addicts or suicides. I identify with them all.

I wish...just once...I wish I could write without fear.

What are you afraid of, you ask. You sit in front of a typewriter or computer all day, big deal.

What every writer is afraid of, be he a newspaper reporter or a columnist or magazine article writer or novelist...every single writer in the world fears that his words will not be read.

If what he reads is not read, then his reason for living is effectively erased. Even a part of himself basically ceases to exist.

For those of us struggling to break in, to find a foothold, to gain recognition in our chosen field, who strive and strive year after year and battle haughty editors and insensitive agents and the unmitigating frustration of coming up with ideas that show up a week later on the movie-of-the-week...it's a kind of bald terror that lays bare our bones and exposes our soul to scrutiny.

Natalie Goldberg, in her excellent book, "Writing Down the Bones," writes of imagining her life at death's door, spread-eagled, she says, in a gutter, fist up, clenching that last little batch of poems and begging passers-by to read them. Even funnier is her fantasy of hijacking an airplane and saying, gun in hand, "Now, my only request...is that you people sit still and listen to these few little stories..."

Maybe I'd better stay off planes for awhile.

SUNDAY

May 8
Snyder High School was officially announced Friday in Austin as the "winning school" in the history of state UIL one-act play competition as the local drama department marked its 11th first place win and its 20th state appearance with its entry, "The Corn is Green."

Lead actress Kirsten Miller, in the role of Miss Moffat, was chosen for the Class AAAA Samuel P. French award; Brandon Neeley was chosen for the all-star cast; and Ashley Miller receiving an honorable mention for all-star cast.

Individuals bringing five lawsuits challenging incentive offers made by the city, county and industrial foundation to secure a Texas Department of Corrections prison in Scurry County have officially protested the amount of "court costs" said owed by them as part of their motion for "non-suit" to end the TDC litigation, it was reported Sunday.

MONDAY

Because of a one vote difference, city officials were attempting to determine Monday morning if a runoff election will be required for the council's single member district 1 seat.

In balloting Saturday, 92 votes were cast in the race between Walter Cox, who polled 46 votes, and Vernest Tippens, who polled 45. The one vote difference was a non-existent "joke" candidate cast as an absentee ballot.

In the only other contested race, Joe Coronado defeated Evelyn Malone 104-71. Winning uncontested races were Ralph Williamson and Jack Greene Jr.

An overwhelming 90 percent of city voters Saturday approved the issuance of two $1.3 million revenue bonds to finance utility lines for the Texas Department of Corrections prison unit, it was reported Monday.

Proposition 1 passed 923 to 104, and Proposition 2 passed 914 to 99.

The first runoff election in the history of Western Texas College is expected to be officially called Monday to fill place 5, the seat vacated by Edwin Parks.

Involved in the ballot will be Bob O'Day, polling 388 votes or some 41 percent, and John Fagin, who received 288 or some 30 percent. In voting Saturday, R.C. Patton defeated challenger Bill Houston 568-345 and John Gayle was re-elected unopposed.

Two new trustees will be added to the Snyder ISD school board following Saturday's election, it was reported Monday—Terry Martin and Ann Walton.

Citing his experience in business and credentials as a conservative, Republican Robert "Bobby" Albert III of Wichita Falls Monday declared his candidacy here for the Texas Senate seat vacated by Ray Farabee (D-Wichita Falls).

Following a cross-country telephone call and another lengthy session of negotiations, the Snyder City Council Monday night approved a franchise to effect the sale of SCAT TV Cable to Snyder Cablevision Associates.

The faculty at Western Texas College, now at its lowest number for anytime during the 1980s, is expected to add four additional fulltime staffers for next school year.

College President Dr. Harry Krenek previewed these plans for the college board Monday during its regular May meeting. In addition, he noted plans to add an additional administrative-level staffer next year.

TUESDAY

May 10
Snyder High School placed fifth among all Class AAAA schools in Texas in UIL industrial arts competition in Waco last weekend, with 21 woodworking students placing either first, second or third, it was reported Tuesday.

Teacher Jerry Brem said it was the first trophy to be won by the industrial arts department here since the 1970s, the school having finished 49th last year.

After a consultation with the Texas Secretary of State's office Tuesday, Snyder city councilmen set May 28 for a runoff election between single member district 1 candidates Walter Cox and Vernest Tippens.

Portions of Scurry County to the west and north received in excess of 1 inch of rainfall Tuesday night with a slow rain still being noted for most of the county Wednesday morning.

Snyder's official total as of noon was approximately 1 inch, up from the year's total here to 3.7 inches.

WEDNESDAY

May 11
A 20-year-old Snyder man drowned at Lake Colorado City Wednesday afternoon after apparently slipping from a concrete wall along the lake's edge.

THURSDAY

May 12
Bill Hartsfield, who counts 33 years with Snyder public schools, the last 10 as assistant principal at Snyder Junior High, has announced he will be retiring at the end of this school year, it was reported Thursday.

Snyder school board members, in a split 6-1 vote, Thursday approved an administrative recommendation to cut the district's kindergarten program next school year from full to half a day.

The plan's passage, projected to save the district some $147,750 annually, was preceded by another bleak prediction for the district's tax base next year and an outcry from a group of some 15 classroom instructors who questioned district instruction programs "getting the axe."

FRIDAY

May 13
Western Texas College presented degrees and certificates to 113 graduates in commencement exercises at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the campus central courtyard.

Four honor graduates were featured speakers.

Wife tells of recovery of husband

DALLAS (AP) — Sarah Brady said she learned the invaluable role loved ones play in the care and curing of the critically ill in the wake of her husband's head injuries during an assassination attempt on President Reagan.

"It really can be a wonderful experience," she said Thursday at a gathering of the American Association of Critical Care Nurses.

Bailout may be history's biggest DALLAS (AP) — Sunbelt Savings Association of Texas apparently posted a $1.2 billion net loss last quarter, leaving regulators to face what could be the costliest bailout in savings and loan history, the Wall Street Journal reported today.

The loss, for the fiscal fourth quarter ended March 31, would be among the largest ever for a savings and loan in a quarter and leaves Sunbelt with negative regulatory capital, a lenient measure of net worth, of almost $1.7 billion, the paper reported.

Cost of closing Sunbelt could rival last November's record $1.3 billion bailout for Vernon Savings & Loan Association, another Texas thrift. Regulators have speculated that Sunbelt, however, could be merged with other troubled Texas thrifts and recapitalized with a combination of private capital and federal assistance.

our children from such acts. How? By the power of positive thinking. What is positive thinking?

God still directs his world and still metes out His punishment on his people. He let the children of Israel completely destroy nations stronger and larger than they. These nations were destroyed because they were evil. God let his people go into captivity because they partook of the sins of these people. If we become evil this will happen to us, U.S.A.

The power of positive thinking is this: obey God and keep his commandments. The beginning of wisdom is to fear God. Why would I start teaching Bible in a letter to the editor to correct moral matters in school and our society since many do not believe the Bible?

Contrary to most opinions, our nation is a Christian nation and our laws and Constitution are based on Christian religion. It was never intended that we were free from religion as some have ruled, but we were guaranteed to continue as a Christian nation with Christian actions such as prayer and the right to teach that there is a God.

There was never an opening in our Constitution upholding evolution. Every act which corrupted man is condemned in the Bible. Even people who do not believe in the Bible or God adhere to many of these things. They don't want their money stolen, they don't want their daughter raped. They don't want their children to suffer, because this is taking away their rights.

Now the power of positive thinking toward your children is to be kind, gentle and loving. Love your child so strong that you will protect him or herself from themselves. Love so strong that you will protect other people from your child so they will not destroy your child. Love so strong that when you permit them to go to public school you will see that they obey the rules of that school and that they do not violate the rights of others who are Christian or otherwise who are attending school.

Love so strong for your child that when he is corrected by any means necessary to control him you will not take the part of the child who needs training. He or she is not capable of training others or he or she would not be in school.

One more thought. Ninety percent of education is the child being ready to learn. He will not learn if he thinks you do not love him enough to correct him and have power to control him.

What do you want for your community and your children? May God bless each of us and our community.

Allergy can cause chronic cough

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

HEAR DR. GOTT: I have had a bad cough since I was 9. I'm 29 now and it has gotten worse. Sometimes the mucus is bloody and sometimes it is thick. What can I do about this ongoing problem?

DR. GOTT: Chronic cough deserves attention. Pulmonary diseases such as bronchitis and asthma, are common causes of cough, can be cyclic and may follow a pattern from childhood into maturity. On the other hand, ailments arising in tissue outside the lungs can also produce chronic cough.

In my practice, the most prevalent non-pulmonary disorder causing cough is postnasal drip. This is a common condition in allergic patients and is seen as a thin, watery mucus discharge that intermittently drains down the back of the throat, resulting in frequent coughing, sometimes violent attacks of coughing.

In my opinion, you need a thorough medical examination and special tests. Such tests would include a chest x-ray, a blood count and pulmonary function studies (methods by which the efficiency of breathing can be measured). You may also need allergy testing and a provocative test for asthma, in which one of a number of substances is presented to you in inhaled form and any airway obstruction is measured.

Almost all the causes of chronic cough in otherwise healthy young people are treatable and treatable, you do not have to put up with this affliction; your doctor can help you.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "LIVING WITH CHRONIC COUGH DISEASE." (That readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91889, Cleveland, OH 44101-3389. Be sure to mention the title.)

HEAR DR. GOTT: Your answers about toxoplasmosis are informative, but don't go far enough. A major source of infection is raw meat. Please remind your pregnant readers to eat only well-cooked meat, and to wash their hands, preparation utensils and counter tops thoroughly after handling raw meat.

HEAR READER: You are right — in a point, Toxoplasma gondii, the tiny parasite that invades cells and causes toxoplasmosis, can infect any warm-blooded animal.

In theory, a human could contract toxoplasmosis by eating uncooked meat containing the cysts of the parasite. In practice, such an event is exceedingly uncommon. Multituberculation of T. gondii appears to occur only in the intestinal cells of cats; therefore, the most important source of infection in the United States is exposure to cysts in soil contaminated by cat feces. Pregnant women are at greatest risk of this infection because the parasite crosses the placental barrier and can infect an unborn baby. Although your advisory to pregnant women makes good sense, the chances of a woman becoming infected by contact with commercially distributed meat are very slim.

Do-it-yourself motherhood

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

I've always believed that one of the blessings of marriage is the rearing of children; you can't have one without the other, to paraphrase the words of a song. Such a traditional relationship has its problems, of course. Marriage itself is fraught with frustrations and conflict; children can be difficult — or as one humorist wryly observed, insanity is hereditary. Parents get it from their children.

Nevertheless, the family unit of mama, papa and the kids has survived the millennia. For the most part, it works.

The literature that I've read seems to show that youngsters deprived of a mother or a father don't fare as well as those from "intact" families. Put another way, young people with a set of parents tend to be better-adjusted than children with one parent. Professionals are concerned about the 50 percent divorce rate in this country because, for one thing, it means fragmentation (at least temporarily) of the dual-parent family.

In another form of family fragmentation, single parents are achieving a measure of social acceptance. Females become pregnant out of wedlock and choose to keep their babies, rather than opting for abortion or adoption. Many of these single mothers are young, became involved in a committed relationship, got caught and resolved to raise their children with the help of grandparents, friends or the state. When viewed realistically, this choice requires superhuman effort; as every experienced parent knows, childrearing is not easy, even with two adults.

Now the single-parent anomaly has been moved one step closer to the fringe by unmarried careerwomen who inseminate themselves with the help of casual acquaintances. Daniel Wikler, Ph.D., and Norma Wikler, Ph.D., brother-and-sister professors at the University of Wisconsin, have completed a seven-year study of this phenomenon, which raises bold legal and ethical questions.

The typical self-inseminator is middle-aged, working, unmarried and can hear the "ticking clock" of fertility. She wants a child while she is young enough to conceive, but she is not involved in a "serious relationship" and does not "feel comfortable about going to a doctor."

According to the Wiklers, women's groups in London and San Francisco during the 1970s began promoting self-insemination as a way of starting a family without benefit of a male partner, marriage or medical help. Lesbians sometimes attempt self-insemination. In an interview, Dan Wikler said: "Conceivably, it's easier to find the sperm of a suitable man than finding a long-term relationship."

I can think of few situations in which the welfare and well-being of a child are more brutally subordinated to the will of an adult than in self-insemination.

To begin with, casual sperm donors are not screened, as they would be in a sperm bank. Therefore, the risk of sexually transmitted diseases — including AIDS — is high. In addition, because genetic diseases are not screened, the child inherits a whole genetic code that is unknown.

Second, in some states, artificial insemination performed without medical supervision is a criminal offense. There are other legal problems. In a recent California case that is said to have broad national ramifications, a woman "applied for welfare for herself and her child, who had been born following donation of sperm from an acquaintance." After learning of the action, the donor sought to have himself declared the father of the child, a position that would have been legally impossible if the sperm had come from a sperm bank. He won.

Third, with all the attention being paid to women who connive to have a deposit in place of a partner, little has been said about the products of conception, little boys and girls. Moral issues aside, is it in the child's best interest to be brought, fatherless, into the world for the purpose of adult ego gratification? If a woman is too involved in her work or with her own needs to have time for a heterosexual commitment — much less a husband and family — what kind of mother will she make? Guess where Mommy will be when that all-important sales meeting falls on the opening day of school or when her child is ill?

Although I appreciate the strength of the maternal instinct and the wish many women have to bear progeny, I hope that the court comes down hard on self-insemination — for the child's sake. To me, the procedure seems to be unnecessarily selfish, sexist and dangerous. Perhaps these women need to examine their priorities and decide whether, truly, in their drive to be successful and independent, they are missing something important along the way — and whether their children are missing it, too.

NRC cites false test report on pipes for nuclear plants

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Citing possible safety problems, federal regulators have ordered 38 nuclear power plants — including the South Texas Project — to inspect and, if necessary, replace piping materials on which the supplier allegedly falsified test reports.

Some of the suspect flanges and fittings are used in safety-related systems, whose failure could thwart the shutdown of a reactor in an emergency, said Edward Baker, a section chief in the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's Office of Reactor Regulation.

"The fact that (the plants) are listed doesn't necessarily mean that the materials are not good. What it means is because of facts we have found, the materials are suspect," Baker said by telephone Thursday from Bethesda, Md.

The South Texas Project was among the plants cited as receiving suspect carbon-steel pipings. Also on the list were two plants in which Texas utility companies have an interest — Palo Verde in Arizona and River Bend in Louisiana.

Baker said inspecting and replacing the suspect materials could pose some difficulty for operating plants, where the materials could be in high-radiation areas. Plants generally must complete the inspections and make replacements during their next refueling outages.

In a bulletin sent to the plants this week, the NRC said the suspect piping came from Piping Supplies Inc. of Folsom, N.J., and West Jersey Manufacturing Co. of Williamstown, N.J. Piping supplied since 1976 is covered by the bulletin.

West Jersey and Piping Supplies claimed in test reports that the piping met standards set by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, but in many cases could not provide supporting documentation, Baker said. Some piping material was traced to a foreign company, which required additional tests that were not done, he said.

A man with ties to both companies, Joseph Walker Sr., Friday denied that Piping Supplies falsified any information, but acknowledged that West Jersey's reports were falsified. He said he brought that information to the NRC's attention.

"At no time did Piping Supplies knowingly use false information about materials supplied to the nuclear industry," the company said this week in a letter to NRC officials and nuclear plant quality assurance managers.

"The documents that the bulletin is referring to were obtained from West Jersey Manufacturing as a result of (voluntary disclosure). None of this material was purchased by Piping Supplies."

Walker, who was West Jersey's president, said that company closed in December 1986 after he and other top officials were indicted on mail fraud and tax fraud charges. Walker said his son, Joseph Walker Jr., helped open Piping Supplies the next month. "I don't work here, I help my son," the elder Walker said by telephone from Piping Supplies' offices this morning.

Walker Sr. said he pleaded guilty to the charges, paid more than $400,000 in fines and served probation. He said the indictments were among at least 200 handed down nationwide in investigations of widespread commercial kickbacks in the power piping industry.

The NRC listed 37 projects it said received carbon steel piping from the New Jersey companies that did not meet code, and three that received non-conforming stainless steel piping. In most cases involving projects with more than one reactor, the bulletin did not specify which reactor.
