Bus tragedy stirs local memories of McCaulley wreck

BY DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

Last weekend's fiery bus crash and the death of 27 in Kentucky, being called one of the worst bus accidents in U.S. history, has stirred memories of this area's own tragic bus wreck, the incident involving McCaulley High School students almost 10 years ago.

That wreck eventually claimed the lives of five McCaulley teenagers and has left its permanent mark on the Fisher County settlement which surrounds the McCaulley School.

"We're small and close knit here. If you're not kin to everyone, you know everyone," said school secretary Tiny Pace.

She served as secretary to (then) school superintendent Ed Farmer on the day he, high school principal Doyle Bell and 23 students left for a Friday afternoon basketball game at Hermleigh. The day was Dec. 8, 1978. It was overcast and cold and, before it would end, a light snow would begin to fall.

The wreck occurred at 1:15 p.m. at the intersection of U.S. 180 and FM 611, some 22 miles east of Snyder in Fisher County.

The bus was headed west on U.S. 180 when an oil field service truck, approaching it from the intersecting FM 611, failed to stop and crashed headlong into the bus.

All individuals riding on the bus were injured with the exception of Farmer's 9-year-old daughter. Four of the students, two of these seniors, were killed outright. A fifth died several weeks later as a result of her injuries.

Runoff absentee near end

Tuesday will mark the end of absentee balloting for two runoff elections slated here next Saturday involving the city council and college board.

To be decided will be place 1 on the council, a single member district post, and place 5 on the Western Texas College board of trustees.

As of Friday, the college had counted 46 absentee votes. At the city, eight absentee ballots were noted. Only residents of single member district 1 may vote in the city race.

Clubs to sponsor prayer breakfast

A community prayer breakfast July 2—a Saturday—is being planned by members of Snyder civic clubs. Featured speaker at the event will be Grant Teaff, head coach at Baylor University and Snyder native.

The event is set for 7 a.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum. Planners note it will kickoff the July 4th weekend in Snyder.

At the breakfast, civic clubs will recognize outstanding lay and youth leadership from local churches. Certificates of appreciation will be awarded.

Tickets for the breakfast will be $5 each and are available through participating churches, at all Snyder banks, at various businesses and from civic club members.

Sponsors for the event will be the Lions, Kiwanis, Jaycees, Rotary, Kiwanis and the Golden K Kiwanis.

Teaff, considered to be one of the nation's top coaches, has been at Baylor 16 years and counts some 25 years as a head coach.

He is the nation's 10th ranked active coach for total career wins (138). He has been named Southwest Conference Coach of the Year six times and National Coach of the Year once.

He has led the Baylor Bears to two Southwest Conference championships. In 1979 through 1985, Baylor has played in four bowl games and has accumulated a record of 46-31-2.

Rape conviction upheld on appeal

The 1987 conviction by a 132nd District Court jury and 99-year sentence of a Snyder man for aggravated sexual assault has been upheld by the 11th Court of Appeals in Eastland.

Jaime Ortegon was convicted on May 20, 1987, in the Jan. 11, 1987, rape of a woman here. Testimony indicated the suspect had been drinking with the woman's husband at a separate location prior to the early-morning rape.

The husband testified that he came home and interrupted the attack, forcing the defendant to flee.

Defense attorney James Clark claimed that District Judge Gene Dulaney erred in allowing the husband's testimony to bolster his wife's testimony and in including information about "good time" provisions in state parole regulations in the jury instructions.

The appellate court ruled that the husband's testimony was allowable to counter a defense claim that the victim consented. See APPEAL, page 7A

Tubb now filming 'Lonesome Dove'

By BOB CAMPBELL
SDN Staff Writer

Actor and Snyder native Barry Tubb was in town recently during a change of locations in the filming of "Lonesome Dove," his 10th movie and one in which his background as a rodeo cowboy has proved an asset.

"It's coming in real handy right now, on those horses," he said.

The cast had finished the Del Rio segment of the shooting and was moving to Angel Fire, N.M., to complete the made-for-television film.

Tubb, 25, plays Jasper Fant, "a superstitious cowboy," in the trail drive story that is based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning Larry McMurtry novel.

Asked what the cast, which includes Robert Duval and Angelica Huston, is like to be part of, he said the members "have fun" with their work but are also serious about giving a good portrayal of a best-selling novel.

Tubb graduated from high school in 1981 and, with the guidance of drama teacher Jerry Worsham, enrolled for a 10-week concentrated acting course at the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco, where the students typically worked 12- and 14-hour days.

Then he went to Hollywood, worked as a carpenter and lifeguard, got an agent and started getting parts.

Besides "Mask" in 1984 and "Top Gun" the next year, he played for six months on Broadway in "Sweet Sue," was in a PBS American Playhouse production, "The Wide Net," and a mini-series, "The Billionaire Boys Club," last year and has a starring role in a movie he made in 1984 that will be released this year, "Valentino Returns."

He was in "Consenting Adult" and "The Legend of Bilbe Jean" in 1984.

Tubb has gotten a few parts without auditioning, but he likes to audition because then if he gets the part, he already has a good idea of how to play it.

An AJRA world champion bullrider and reserve champion all around cowboy in 1974, he says that bullriding is now probably "a thing of the past," but he retains his membership in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, having tied a calf in 15 seconds at a rodeo last month in Del Rio.

Tubb said his rodeo See TUBB, page 7A

TDC paving before court

Scurry County commissioners Monday will discuss options to pave the dirt road connecting U.S. 84 and U.S. 180 north and south beside the city landfill.

The commissioners have discussed asking the state to build a new farm-to-market road along this stretch and then north from 180 past the site of the Texas Department of Corrections prison being built five miles northeast of Snyder.

North from 180 is currently a paved county road. Changing it to a farm-to-market road would widen this paving.

Commissioner Ted Billingsley has indicated that he would oppose the condemnation of any land by the state, however, and that he might undertake the paving. See COURT, page 7A

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The fellow on Deep Creek says, "The best way to get along with a grouch is to take him for granted."

The government has taken on an ambitious program, and if they can solve this problem we'll cheerfully pay our taxes next year.

The Environmental Protection Agency is seeking input in an effort to write rules and regulations in an effort to control "fugitive dust."

Translated from bureaucratic language, fugitive dust is what native West Texans know as a sandstorm. Fugitive dust was the topic of a wind erosion conference held recently on the Texas Tech campus.

Said one EPA representative, "We currently are assessing the alternatives and existing policies."

That's good news. For years, West Texans have accepted sandstorms as a natural occurrence in the spring—a combination of cultivated fields and high winds.

The EPA fellow said his agency published a rural fugitive dust proposal in the Federal Register last summer, but that comments of that public notice must first be fully analyzed before final rules are announced.

It seems there may be hope. The federal government can simply publish in the federal register to outlaw all winds in West Texas. Shoot, they might as well go all the way and issue a directive for rains three times a week in March and April.

Such an edict would certainly stop the fugitive dust problem and make May cotton planting a snap.

We learned that fugitive dust standards date to 1977. At that time some guy in the EPA figured out that urban dust such as that caused from construction of industrial sites, caused a greater environmental impact than rural dust. The government, in its infinite wisdom, drew this conclusion because more people live in the urban areas.

And all this time you may have thought your tax dollars were spent frivolously in Washington

UIL students to be honored

A first-ever event to recognize Snyder High School students participating in UIL-related literary events this spring is planned Monday by the Council for Educational Excellence.

The recognition banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

Dalton Moseley, superintendent, will address the group in addition to SHS Principal Ray Courtney.

Special invited guests will be the 53 SHS students entering UIL district competition in late March. Also invited will be the student sponsors.

The Council for Educational Excellence was formed this school year as a booster group for academic studies in the Snyder public schools.

In Brief

Farabee out

AUSTIN — Former state Senator Ray Farabee said Friday he has withdrawn as a Democratic nominee for the 30th Senatorial District.

Farabee said he mailed his withdrawal notice earlier Friday to the Secretary of State's office.

Local

No jury call

A summons of prospective jurors to 132nd District Court Monday has been cancelled.

Rain totals

Snyder received another cloudburst and near one-half inch of rain Friday afternoon, while Hermleigh received 1 inch from the same storm.

The showers were isolated, however, and other portions of the county received less than a quarter of an inch. Other rain totals reported Saturday included 20 of an inch reported both at Lake Thomas and at Ira. Near Fluvanna, no rain was noted.

Set to meet

The Snyder school board has a budget workshop set for noon Monday, and the Western Texas College board will be in executive session Monday at 5:45 p.m. to discuss a personnel item.

On Tuesday, the Snyder city council has a work session called for 6:30 p.m. to discuss a new plumbing ordinance.

On Thursday, the Cogdell Memorial Hospital board will have its regular May meeting beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Friday, 78 degrees, low, 51 degrees, reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 52 degrees, 47 of an inch precipitation, total precipitation for 1988 to date, 5.23 inches.

Uvalde farmers reject San Antonio bid for more water

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — Area residents resoundingly rejected a proposal by San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros that would result in Uvalde County farmers sharing groundwater from Edwards Aquifer with the Alamo City.

The farmers said it would violate their property rights and wreck their livelihood.

"Well, as they say, back to the drawing board," said Robert Hasslocher, co-chairman of a San Antonio committee that sought to convince Uvalde area residents to share the waters in a regional plan.

Most of the 75 people in attendance at the Thursday meeting loudly applauded a rejection of the allocation plan.

"We are prepared to defeat water allocation for agriculture with all the political, legal and moral support we can muster," said Charles Griffin, Uvalde director of the Edwards Underground Water District, in an emotional address before the mostly pro-farmer gathering.

Summer school announced

During the summer months, many Snyder ISD students will be involved in summer school. Beginning June 6 through July 15 from 8:11-4:45 students in grades 5-8 will be involved in mathematics and language arts classes to continue working on essential elements and team objectives that have not been mastered.

These classes will be held at the junior high school and there is no tuition charge to parents for the classes. For those who received them, parents are urged to send their permission slips in to the building principals and to make the necessary arrangements for their child to attend every day of the six-week session.

Seventh through 12th grade students who have not mastered one or more areas of the Texas Educational Assessment of minimum skills test (TEAMS) will be offered the opportunity to work on the objectives not mastered. These classes will also be held at the junior high school during the June 6-July 15 session.

2 Snyderites graduate SPC

LEVELLAND—Two students from Snyder were among a record 659 persons who received degrees or certificates May 13 during South Plains College's 30th commencement exercises.

Snyder graduates are Michael Byrom, associate of applied science, automotive service technology; and Gabriel Becerra, certificate of proficiency, auto body repair.

Junior CLA English 1331 and senior CLA English 1441 will be offered for students who failed English on the junior or senior level only. Those attending for the entire six weeks period will receive one credit and those attending for three weeks will receive 1/2 credit.

Health 7182 will be offered for students in grades 8-12 for 1/2 unit of credit. This class will meet June 6-June 24.

The cost of the high school courses will be $100 per semester credit and $50 per 1/2 credit. Charges will be paid at the junior high on June 6, at the time of enrollment.

Students who attend cannot miss class or be tardy. This is a state requirement that you attend the required number of classes that each day equals one week of regular school.

Classes for identified pre-kindergarten and kindergarten students will be held at Central Elementary beginning June 27 and ending on August 19. Parents of students who have been identified to attend these classes have been notified and are encouraged to return their permission slips to the building principals. Parents of pre-kindergarten students who are limited English proficient or who need further language development and will be attending kindergarten in September but have not registered for the coming school year should contact the building principals.

L. D. Monroe, principal at Central, will be in charge of this summer school.

Bingo games draw crowd

DALLAS (AP) — Ever since a bingo game opened two weeks ago in downtown Dallas during the lunch hour, it has attracted a full house of almost 200 people a day.

Circus Bingo, with eight daily games between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. and prizes ranging from $25 to $500, caters to a downtown lunchtime crowd more willing to spend $5 trying their luck with bingo than grabbing a burger.

"People are looking for a different activity to do during their lunch break. A lot of people enjoy bingo because it gives them something fun to do and at the same time it can win them money," manager Kurt Prather told the Dallas Times Herald.

A second-floor room for non-smokers is scheduled to open up next week, he said.

Debra Bennett, a computer operator, said she would rather play bingo than pick up lunch at a fast-food restaurant or at the company cafeteria.

"This is OK. You could lose weight," said Ms. Bennett.

Christopher Exline sat hunched over the table, tie askew, suit jacket slung over the back of his chair, briefcase at his feet.

"When you're in commercial real estate in this market, any chance you have to make $500 is great," he said, adjusting his horn-rimmed glasses.

He was referring not to another hot real estate deal, but to his hopes of winning at bingo.

The room was filled Thursday, eyes glancing up in unison as three black electronic boards lit up the numbers shouted by the caller.

"I think this is one of the most enjoyable lunch hours I've ever spent. It's crazy and it's addictive and it's fun and it's exciting. I'll do this again and again," said

Exline.

Faye Brown, an avid bingo player, had a rhythm going — a drag on the cigarette in her left hand and then a mark on her cards with the purple dauber in her right hand.

"I've been playing since before it became legal," she said. "It relaxes your mind."

"G-46" announced the caller, and Ms. Brown's arm shot into the air.

"Bingo!" she shouted. Her jackpot was $50.

Bingo became legal in Texas in 1981 and is regulated by the state, said Tony Proffitt of the state Comptroller's Department. Organizations must be licensed and at least 35 percent of a game's adjusted gross income must go to charity. There are about 2,500 licensed games in the state, said Proffitt.

Hispanics upset over no-bill decision

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) — The president of the local chapter of the League of United Latin American Citizens expressed disappointment with a grand jury's decision against indicting a policeman in last year's shooting death of a Hispanic man.

Sammy Gomez, 27, was shot three times May 13 by Colorado City part-time patrol officer Billy Ray Williamson.

Police Chief Billy Sparks said Williamson shot Gomez after he pulled a knife on two of the four officers sent to arrest him at a house on West Front Street.

A Mitchell County grand jury deliberated for about eight hours on Friday before announcing it had no indictment.

Colorado City LULAC President Oscar Ortiz said Friday night that although he was disappointed with the grand jury's decision, he expected it.

"I think a further investigation is necessary," Ortiz said.

The Colorado City LULAC chapter said it has asked the U.S. attorney general's office in Washington to further investigate the shooting.

The group said Gomez's death was one of four incidents in six months involving civil rights complaints against the Colorado City Police Department.

Gomez was a suspect in the rape of a 19-year-old Colorado City woman, who said she was assaulted May 12 in a parked car.

Jessie Ortiz, the only civilian witness to the shooting, said Friday said she did not see her nephew, Sammy Gomez, pull a knife on the officers.

Woman shoots seven, terrorizes suburb

WINNETKA, Ill. (AP) — A woman about to lose her baby sitting job went on a shooting spree that left an 8-year-old dead and six others wounded, then killed herself after apologizing to her parents for the carnage, authorities said.

The nearly nine-hour rampage of Lori Wasserman Dann, 30, began at an elementary school in this wealthy Chicago suburb and ended late Friday, when a police SWAT team found her body in a house where she had confronted a family at gunpoint, officials said.

Ms. Dann, who had a history of bizarre behavior, shot herself in the head with a .32-caliber gun after telephoning her parents, Police Chief Herbert Timm said.

"I've done a bad thing. I'm sorry. Please help me," she told them, Timm said.

The FBI had been preparing to seek charges against Ms. Dann for making death threats against

Before the school shootings, Timm said, Ms. Dann went to the home of the couple who had told her she was losing her baby-sitting job because the family was moving. Ms. Dann was to have taken the two children of Pdraig and Marion Rushe on an outing.

"We have evidence that the milk in the Rushe home had been tampered with and containers of that milk had been taken with the two children," Timm said.

The children, ages 4 and 6, did not drink the milk, police said. The milk was being analyzed.

Police found books about poison in Ms. Dann's Madison apartment.

Ms. Dann took the children to Ravinia School in nearby Highland Park, where she set off a small container of flammable liquid, Timm said. Firefighters extinguished the burning device before it caused damage.

Ms. Dann next drove to a day-care center, where she went to the front door carrying a can of gasoline, Timm said.

"But she was met at the front door by a staff member who asked what she was doing — and she took off," he said.

Ms. Dann returned to the Rushe home, talked to the family in the basement, then went upstairs and set off another incendiary device, he said.

While the fire raged, Mrs. Rushe pushed her children through a basement window, then crawled out herself.

Ms. Dann then drove to the school and opened fire.

Eight-year-old Nicholas Corwin died of his wounds several hours after he was shot in his classroom.

The five other injured children remained in critical but stable condition early Saturday except for a girl who was in critical but unstable condition with a serious chest and abdominal wound.

After the school shooting, Ms. Dann crashed her car on a dead-end street, then ran through the woods to a home and confronted four members of a family and their maid.

Man is charged

CORSICANA, Texas (AP) — Police charged a man Friday with two counts of capital murder in connection with the deaths of two elderly brothers whose bodies were found in their homes.

Gary Sterling of Blooming Grove was held in Hill County Jail on $100,000 bond, said Bryan Dunagan, chief deputy of the Navarro County Sheriff's Department.

Sterling was captured in a friend's attic in Blooming Grove Friday morning, Dunagan said, after a police received a tip on his whereabouts.

Authorities charged Sterling with the deaths of William Porter, 72, and Leroy Porter, 71. The men were found Thursday in their ransacked homes, which are several hundred yards apart in the Navarro County community of Pelham. Family members reported they had been missing several days.

Police also were investigating the recent deaths or disappearance of three other elderly people in the area.

The body of John Wesley Carty, 80, of the Brushie Prairie community, who had been missing for several days, was found Friday in a cow pasture, Navarro County Sheriff's detective Bubba Jones said.

Financial Focus

You don't have to be a professional to invest professionally

With daily trading volume of the New York Stock Exchange reaching 100 million shares and more, many people are asking if the individual investor can still participate. The answer is "yes". As a matter of fact, the individual investor is still in the market and doing well.

A recent edition of Better Investing, a publication of the National Association of Investors Corporation (NAIC), spotlighted the 1987 All-Star Investment Clubs. According to the editor, Thomas E. O'Hara, "this is not an investment performance contest but rather an effort to recognize clubs that are doing a good job of helping their members learn and grow."

All-Star Investment Clubs have several things in common, one being the members are non-professional, individual investors. The clubs range from a new club with a three-stock portfolio to a 31-year-old club with a 20-stock portfolio. Only two clubs have portfolios valued over $100,000. The clubs are small with an average membership of 17 people. Not even the size of the community is important. One 15-member women's club hails from a town of 6,000. The most significant thing about all these clubs is their total commitment to education and research. Not one takes a hit-and-miss approach toward investing by hoping a good market and luck will carry them through.

Some of the ways these investment clubs approach research, both before and after their investments are made, are worth sharing. They illustrate how a well-defined and executed investment plan places the individual investor alongside the professional when it comes to results.

Most clubs regularly invite guest speakers from a list of brokers, lawyers, bankers and other financial advisors. In addition, they make visits to their broker's office to learn firsthand the mechanics of how the system works. One club computerizes both its bookkeeping and stock analysis. This allows for an annual report to members and provides vital tax information in an easily understood format.

Some clubs find great success and fun by participating in an annual "fantasy portfolio". At the beginning of the year each member is given an imaginary bonus of $25,000 to invest. The monthly progress is charted and at the end of the year the member with the biggest gain receives an award. The most recent results ranged from a small loss to a nearly 100 percent gain.

Every club dedicates a major portion of its meetings to research reports being considered for purchase as well as products currently in the portfolio. This is accomplished through one or more research committees. The information is gathered through a system recommended by the NAIC for use by member investment clubs. It contains vital corporate information, such as dividends, earnings per share, book value, capitalization, price-earnings ratio, payout ratio and much more.

To ensure club members enhance their overall knowledge of investments, some All-Star Investment Clubs ask members to give weekly reports on assigned topics taken from The Investor's Manual, a textbook furnished by NAIC to its members.

Of course, investing is not all work. The clubs generally sponsor an annual social for members, spouses and guests.

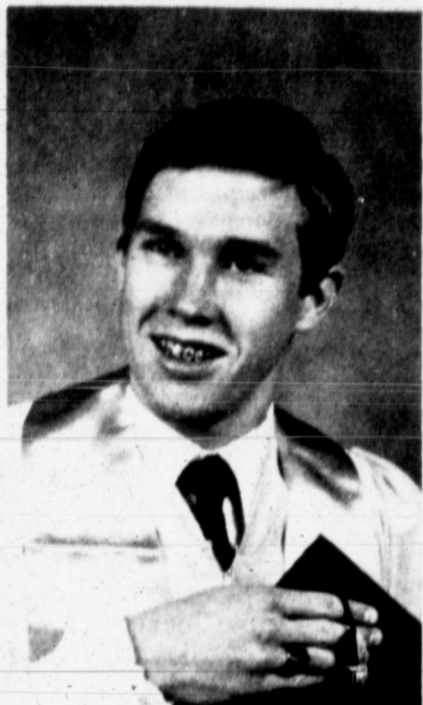

The methods these successful investment clubs use to accomplish their goals are all unique to their particular circumstances. They all act, however, in the best interest of and in conjunction with the wishes of the members. What matters is each has a clearly defined goal, a specific plan to reach that goal and a positive way to execute decisions. What they do is done as a group, but the same basic technique is used by professional investors. Institutions and individuals dedicated to making their money work for them. Investing is serious business, and All-Star Investment Clubs are clearly serious investors.

WINNETKA, Ill. (AP) — The parents of the 8-year-old boy who was fatally shot when a woman went on a shooting rampage Friday at the Hubbard Woods Elementary School, issued a brief, handwritten eulogy of their son Friday.

A neighbor, Dave Agnew, said the boy's father, Joel, is an attorney in downtown Chicago. Agnew said Corwin and his wife, Linda, have two other children, Michael, 11, and John, 6, who also attend Hubbard Woods.

Senators receive gifts, travel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Join the Senate and see the world. Tel Aviv, Amsterdam, Johannesburg, Las Vegas — name the place and it's likely some senator has found a reason to take an expenses-paid trip there.

Being in the 100-member Senate has other compensations, too, in the form of unusual gifts.

Here is a sampling of gifts picked up and senatorial trips for which someone else paid the way during the year 1987, according to the senators' annual financial disclosure forms released Friday:

Among the gifts: Thad Cochran, R-Miss., got a framed illustration of the Battle of Corinth; Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., a $180 case of scotch; Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., two clock radios and a Navajo rug; Phil Gramm, R-Texas, a $150 ring to commemorate Texas A&M's Cotton Bowl championship; Kent Conrad, D-N.D., World Series tickets valued at $320 from baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberröth; Jeff Bingaman, D-N.M., a $233 pair of Tony Lama boots; J. James Exon, D-Nebr., a fishing trip in Saskatchewan. For a speech in Hawaii, Exon reported, he was paid $1,000 plus $934 for "mounting of fish for Mrs. Exon."

Paul Simon, D-Ill., listed a painting from the Formosan Association for Public Affairs, a pewter box, porcelain vase, telephone and two tickets to a play.

William V. Roth, R-Del., and his wife, Jane, a federal judge, traveled to Amsterdam under the Atlantic Exchange program — he to study the legislative system, she to study the judicial system. They also went to Taiwan, and he took trips to Seoul and Tokyo.

Seoul was a popular place. In

Summer classes registration set at WTC

Western Texas College will hold registration for summer classes on Tuesday, May 31. Classes will begin June 1.

Registration is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6:30-8 p.m. in the administration building.

Day classes will meet for six weeks and will end on July 8. Evening classes will meet for nine weeks and end on July 29.

Students going to register are reminded that they will need to show a current Texas driver's license or voter registration card as proof that they are Texas residents. Tuition and fees can be paid with Visa or MasterCard.

addition to Roth, other senators who took expenses-paid trips there were Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa; Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C.; and Don Nickles, R-Okla.

Israel, too, was an attraction. Quentin N. Burdick, D-N.D., visited there. So did John B. Breaux, D-La., and Mitch McConnell Jr., R-Ky., (who also went to Turkey).

Jake Garn, R-Utah, and his wife went on an expenses-paid Grand Canyon-Colorado River trip, had complimentary lodging in Mazatlan, Mexico, and got free trips to Tokyo and Hong Kong.

Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., took a three-day trip to London and the Soviet Union, courtesy of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Harry Reid, D-Nev., and his wife went to San Juan, Puerto Rico. They also reported receiving a gift of free lodging at the Circus Circus Hotel in Las Vegas.

Jesse Helms, R-N.C., gave four speeches in South Africa, paid for by the South African Agriculture Union.

Sam Nunn, D-Ga., had two foreign trips among the 22 for which he received reimbursement. One was for a Soviet-U.S. relations seminar in Jamaica and the other for a seminar on Eastern Europe, held in Switzerland.

Thomas A. Daschle, D-S.D., accepted a trip to Curacao with his wife.

Treaty may not be ratified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders are expressing growing doubts the chamber will ratify the U.S.-Soviet nuclear weapons treaty before President Reagan meets Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev in Moscow eight days from now.

Unless the Senate speeds up its pace, "the chance of having that little package with the blue ribbon tied around it in the president's pocket by the time he goes to Moscow are going to diminish daily and hourly," Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said late Friday.

The problem is that conservative Republicans opposed to the Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces (INF) treaty have used Senate rules to delay action, according to Senate GOP leader Bob Dole of Kansas.

"Right now, it looks like Republicans may be dragging their feet," Dole said. "I'm optimistic, but less so than I was yesterday."

The Senate has to approve the treaty itself and then separately approve the resolution of ratification. It is now considering the treaty and opponents have blocked efforts to move on to the resolution.

"As I see the situation, if the Senate doesn't complete work on the treaty on Monday, it is going to be increasingly difficult to wrap up work on the resolution of ratification by next Saturday," Byrd said.

A frustrated Dole noted that opponents have refused even to say how many amendments they will offer.

"There shouldn't be any mystery, if you have five amendments or 10 or 50 or just three. ... My view is that as long as everybody is up front, we know where we are. That's all that I ask. ... When nobody will communicate, it's pretty hard to tell how many amendments there are."

The treaty, signed Dec. 8, provides for the elimination within three years of all atomic-tipped missiles with a range of 300 to 3,400 miles.

Henry VIII ascended to the throne of England in 1509 after the death of his father, Henry VII.

CRMWD agenda reported here

BIG SPRING—Contracts with San Angelo and Midland for water transmission facilities, and asking for bids for an intake substructure at Stacy reservoir, head a list of items for the next meeting of the directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. It is set for 10 a.m. May 25 at the district headquarters in Big Spring.

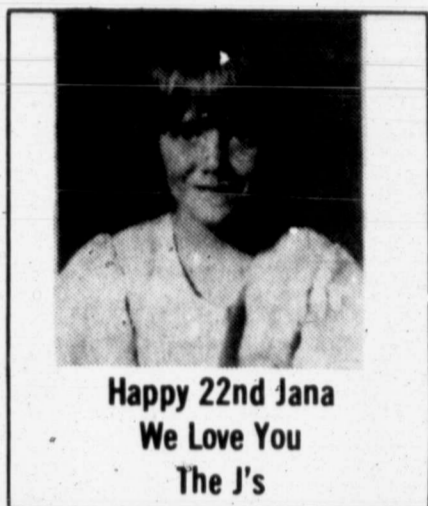

Pacts for apportioning construction costs, based on maximum dedicated quantities, plus conditions under which various sections of the pipeline would be built, will be up for adoption.

At the same time, the board is expected to fix a July opening date for bids to construct the San Angelo/Midland/District-Odessa intake substructure estimated to cost some $2,727,000. This must be in place before closure of the dam in late 1989 or early 1990.

Reports to the board will include those of John Currie, Big Spring, chairman of the Long Range Planning Committee, one from Assistant General Manager Rod Lewis on efforts toward water quality enhancement, and those by General Manager O. H. Ivie and legal counsel Robert H. Moore.

Other matters on the agenda will be considering an additional point of delivery to the City of Odessa to accommodate the Permian Research Center; seeking an amended point of diversion for the Stacy intake structure; granting of easement across District property in Coke county for a road; review of employee hospitalization insurance and carrier.

Panamanian deal weighed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. and Panamanian governments are weighing a proposed agreement that calls for the temporary departure of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega from Panama in August in return for the dismissal of drug smuggling indictments against him, an administration source says.

Michael G. Kozak, a State Department official who has spent much of the past several weeks in Panama, left for Washington on Friday to explain to his superiors the details of his negotiating effort with Panamanian authorities.

The draft agreement would allow Noriega to visit Panama for holidays and to return permanently following a nine-month stay outside Panama that ends after presidential elections are held in May 1989, said the official, who asked not to be identified.

The official expressed strong objections to the agreement partly because it would allow Noriega to play a role in the formation of a transition government that would assume power before his resignation in August as commander of Panama's Defense Forces.

The State Department confirmed Kozak's departure from Panama but declined further comment.

The administration source emphasized that no final agreement has been struck and this was confirmed by a White House spokesman and by an attorney for Noriega in Florida.

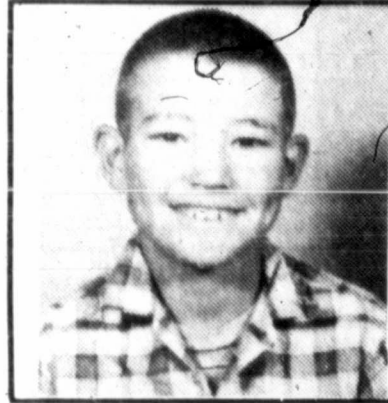

The proposed agreement is expected to touch off heated debate in the administration.

Spirit camp slated in Ira

The Ira cheerleaders will conduct a spirit camp on June 11 from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Anyone who will be in kindergarten through grade 5 for the 1988-89 school year is invited to attend.

Registration will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 9 a.m. Participants of the camp will perform at halftime of the Ira football game on Sept. 9. The cost of the camp is $5, payable upon registering.

A camp and T-shirt package is available until May 27 for $9. A form for this may be picked up at the Ira principal's office. T-shirts will not be available on the day of the camp.

Election-year budget woes possibly cannot be avoided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest government figures on federal spending and tax receipts indicate chances of avoiding election-year budget headaches are growing increasingly dim, private analysts say.

Sharply lower income tax receipts in April and continued increases in federal spending left the year-to-date budget deficit 24.6 percent higher than in the same month of 1987, the Treasury Department said Friday.

Private analysts said the April report indicates the government will have a tough time avoiding a large jump in the deficit, let alone achieving the reduction envisioned by the two-year budget deal sealed by lawmakers and the president in December.

The government collected $13.9

billion more than it spent in April, helping to hold the deficit for the first seven months of the 1988 fiscal year to $105 billion. But that was more than $20 billion higher than the $84.3 billion gap for the same period a year ago.

Nevertheless, the administration still is officially projecting that the tide of red ink will recede from $150.2 billion in 1987 to $146.7 billion when the budget year ends Sept. 30.

Now even the $157 billion forecast of the Congressional Budget Office appears unreachable, analysts said.

"I think they've got problems," said John R. Williams, an economist with the Bankers Trust Company in New York. He warned that rising interest rates would increase the cost of financing the $2.5 trillion national debt and predicted a deficit of $165 billion.

Budget Director James C. Miller III, looking ahead to the 1989 fiscal year, warned Tuesday that an across-the-board cut in federal programs this fall was "perilously close" under the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law if Congress continues to spend above the limits agreed to in last year's budget pact.

In April, government revenue totaled $109.3 billion, 11 percent lower than April 1987. Spending totaled $95.4 billion, 13.6 percent ahead of the same month a year earlier.

Son of slain crime watcher sues police

DALLAS (AP) — The son of a Crime Watch volunteer filed a $2 million suit against the city, former Dallas Police Chief Billy Prince and two officers, saying his father died when police used "excessive and deadly force."

The suit filed by John Horton of Los Angeles is the latest court challenge to the Dallas Police Department's deadly force policy. The department and city currently are involved in another civil suit filed by the family of another police officer who was shot and killed by Dallas police during a drug raid.

Horton alleges police used "excessive and deadly force ... consistent with an institutionalized practice of the city of Dallas Police Department."

David Horton was shot May 18, 1987 by officers John Nichols and Donald Moten, who were cleared of wrongdoing in a police internal investigation.

A Dallas County grand jury declined to indict the officers, and a Citizens Police Review Board hearing concurred with the police investigation findings.

Horton also says the city does not have a meaningful departmental system for dealing with complaints of police misconduct and failed to train and supervise the officers properly. He has requested a jury trial, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

According to the suit, David Horton was investigating suspicious activity in the parking lot of an apartment complex. He and two other residents, one an apartment maintenance employee, had detained a woman.

The suit states Nichols and Moten responded and ran toward Horton, 81, telling him to drop his weapon. The suit alleges the maintenance worker shouted "Don't Shoot!" several times, but they shot and killed Horton.

Lt. Doug Kowalski, who heads the police department's Internal Affairs Division, said an investigation showed Horton had fired twice at the officers after they told him to drop his rifle.

Bus crash stirs local memories

Civil lawsuits and criminal charges would follow the tragic accident. The 21-year-old truck driver would eventually be indicted and found guilty of involuntary manslaughter.

He was sentenced by a Colorado City jury—where the trial was moved on a change of venue—to six years in prison.

At McCaulley today, neither of the two administrators involved in the wreck are still with the system, both having taken job assignments with other districts.

Beginning this school year, McCaulley has also contracted with Roby ISD to accept its high school-aged youngsters, so there will be no 1988 graduation class.

A memorial remains, however, erected to the memory of those classmates involved in the 1978 bus crash.

The parallels of the McCaulley bus crash to the Kentucky accident—while involving less in number—are numerous.

That fatal collision, which occurred last Saturday, May 14, killed 27 people, 24 children and three adults.

The city of Radcliff is a Kentucky town of approximately 14,000 located near Fort Knox.

The bus was owned by the Radcliff First Assembly of God Church, out on a day's outing to an amusement park north of Cincinnati.

It collided head-on Saturday night with a pickup truck being driven north in the southbound lanes of Interstate 71 near Carrollton, Ky. The fuel tank on the bus ruptured and burst into flames.

Authorities said, a factor attributed to the high number of deaths since most of the passengers apparently died of smoke inhalation.

No fire was involved in the McCaulley bus wreck.

In Kentucky, 14 of the bus riders remained hospitalized at mid-week with burns, including eight in critical condition.

The pickup truck driver involved in the crash has been charged with 27 counts of murder. Tests showed his blood contained nearly 2½ times the amount of alcohol needed to be declared intoxicated, authorities said.

At mid-week, he was in fair condition at the prison unit of Humana Hospital-University of Louisville.

Funerals for 11 of the young people killed in the Radcliff bus crash were held Friday. It followed a memorial service for all 27 victims Thursday which was attended by an estimated 6,000 people.

Baylor head, fundamentalists at odds

DALLAS (AP) — Baylor University's president on Friday soft-pedaled earlier comments that he would join tenured faculty in a class-action suit if fundamentalists gained control of the Baptist-run school in Waco.

Herbert Reynolds said after a university trustees meeting in Dallas that a plan for faculty members to sue the school is just "hypothetical" and that he has not discussed it with attorneys or faculty as a whole.

Baptist conservatives were upset earlier this week when Reynolds said he would join 329 tenured faculty members "in a class-action suit based upon changed criteria and terms of employment" if fundamentalists were to take more control of the school.

The courts would likely rule in favor of the faculty, which would turn the institution back over to the grass-roots Texas Baptists who founded the school in 1845, he told the school's alumni magazine.

After a meeting of the trustees at the Baylor University Medical Center's Roberts Hospital Friday, Reynolds told reporters no lawsuit is pending.

"I have not sat down with the faculty about this," Reynolds said, adding he spoke of legal action to a reporter for the school's alumni magazine, the Baylor Line, only as a "hypothetical."

"I absolutely do not see Baylor falling into the hands of fundamentalists" soon, Reynolds said. "If I thought this was going to occur, my wife and I would not continue to make commitments into eight (endowment) funds at Baylor."

He said the control issue did not come up at Friday's board meeting, but added it might at the Southern Baptist Convention's national meeting in San Antonio next month.

"It was an extremely harmonious meeting," said board vice chairman Bob Kiesling of New Braunfels. "The Dallas meeting (in May) is usually devoted to the medical center. Nothing was brought up" about the controversy.

"The trustees support Dr. Reynolds," Kiesling said. "To this day, I have not seen any lack or declining of that support."

But a longtime Baylor trustee, the Rev. Jimmy Draper of the First Baptist Church of Euless, earlier called Reynolds' comments in the Baylor Line "presumptuous and arrogant."

Reynolds disputed that Friday, saying, "I can't think of anything more presumptuous and arrogant as a group of bishops who are trying to take over the Southern Baptist Convention."

"I do not believe this group of 30 to 40 individuals, led by a select half-dozen are representative of our people at the grass-roots level."

Reynolds said control of Baylor is a controversy that has existed for eight years and that he made statements in 1980 concerning the university's role as an autonomous institution.

"If a majority of the board were of a political and ideological mind and began to introduce policies that would take Baylor down a different path than those who teach here, if they began to go down that road, we would have to say that this is not the same governing board and that the terms and conditions of our employment have changed," he said.

Soft Water - Who needs it?

After considering the facts on hard and soft water I have come to some very disturbing conclusions.

First, soft water could save you 80% of the $40 to $60 a month that we spend at the supermarket on cleaning products, fabric softeners, hand lotion, hair conditioner and other products. This could be very hazardous to their profit line. Next is the plumbing industry; one-third fewer repair bills with soft water. Then department stores, with clothes, towels, sheets and pillowcases lasting 33% longer and looking brighter we won't be spending as

A decade-old struggle for control of the Southern Baptist Convention, the nation's largest Protestant denomination, has been waged by moderates and fundamentalists.

Fundamentalists, led by the Rev. Paige Patterson, president of Criswell College in Dallas, and Paul Frossier, a state appeals court judge in Houston, have elected the denomination's president for the past nine years.

Both Baylor and the Dallas-based Baylor University Medical Center are governed by trustees appointed by the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Embassy bombed

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Radical students on Friday scaled the walls of the U.S. Embassy, tossed homemade bombs at its buildings and shouted "Yankee go home!" in protests called to mark a bloody demonstration eight years ago.

Witnesses said two people were injured in the attack which broke out shortly before noon. Seven attackers were arrested.

U.S. Embassy officials said the bombs didn't damage the buildings and no Americans were hurt.

Probation is revoked

The five-year probated sentence of a San Angelo woman who was convicted in a forgery by passing case here in 1986 was revoked last week in 132nd District Court.

Paula Carpenter Owens, 38, was ordered to begin serving her sentence on the Feb. 17, 1986, forgery offense on the basis of a coincidentally dated Feb. 17 arrest for DWI in Tom Green County.

In other court action, Douglas Layne Arnold, 33, of Rt. 1, Box 133, pleaded guilty to a Feb. 17 felony DWI offense and was sentenced to 210 days in the county jail and fined $750.

One arrest noted

An 18-year-old man was arrested for public intoxication at 3:15 a.m. Saturday in the 1300 Block of 26th St.

Tubb filming McMurtry novel

background has been nothing but an asset for his acting career, building his confidence when he was a youngster and teaching him to learn how to compete.

"Rodeo events are so explosive, it would be impossible to hide your feelings after a great ride," he said.

Tubb's mother, Lynn York Tubb, died in 1980, and his father, Dubb, owns an oilfield rathole service company in San Angelo. His grandmother, Mrs. Joe York, still lives here.

His grandfather was an early-day Scurry County resident and was well-known as a cowboy, and Tubb is wearing his grandfather's spurs for the filming of "Lonesome Dove," Worsham said.

"He's an extremely creative person," the drama teacher said of his former student. "He never chooses the obvious. He always goes for something more than that."

Worsham said Tubb was unpredictable as a high school student but always gave a maximum effort to his work.

"I think, and a lot of other people think, that he will probably be a big-name star," Worsham said. "This is his 10th movie. He's been on Broadway with Lynn Redgrave. There is something about his talent and persona that gets him there." But while Tubb is "rough and ready, raw," Worsham said, he is considerate of people generally and is kind to his friends. "He shows great kindness to me," the teacher said.

Worsham has taken many of his students to visit the acting communities of New York City and Hollywood, and he noticed that the young Tubb was not intimidated by the stars and other prominent persons he met during a Hollywood trip that they made while Tubb was a high school student.

"He was never intimidated by anybody," Worsham said.

Tubb is currently with the third agent of his career, and he plans to take a long vacation this summer to recuperate from an almost unbroken chain of projects over the past number of years, with some of that time to be spent in Snyder.

The rest will be to re-charge his competitive fire and prepare him for the next stage of his career. "You have to compete for every job you get," he noted.

ACU leads way at NCAA II meet

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - Clifford Felkins of Abilene Christian, who earlier had won the hammer throw, added the discus gold medal Friday as the Wildcats took a big lead in the rain-delayed NCAA Division II track and field meet.

Friday's field events were delayed because of severe weather in the afternoon, and the men's long jump and women's high jump were reset for Saturday. At the height of an afternoon storm, the Angelo State stadium track was covered with marblesized hail.

With 10 of 21 events completed, Abilene Christian had 52 points to 34 points for host Angelo State and 26 for St. Augustine's of North Carolina.

The Abilene Christian women, who have won three national titles in a row, are tied with California Poly-San Luis Obispo for the lead in their division of the meet with 37 points. Of 19 events, 9 were complete.

The remaining events in both divisions were to be held Saturday, the field events beginning at 11 a.m. and the running events at 7 p.m.

Felkins captured the hammer throw title on Wednesday. He won the discus with a throw of 176 feet 3 inches. He was the defending champion in both events. He won the NCAA Division I discus in 1987.

Quinlan celebrates birthday, LPGA lead

MASON, Ohio (AP) - Sally Quinlan and Laura Hurlbut celebrated first, then got down to business.

After going out Friday night to mark Quinlan's 27th birthday, they were paired today in the final group off the tee in the third round of the LPGA Championship at the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center.

Quinlan shot a 4-under-par 68

ATLANTA (AP) - The Boston Celtics had too much pride to close up shop this early in the NBA playoffs.

"We needed this for the team's morale," Larry Bird said after the Celtics trimmed the Atlanta Hawks 102-100 Friday night, forcing Game 7 in their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series and avoiding their earliest elimination in the playoffs in five years.

"There is no question in my mind about the character of our team," Dennis Johnson said. "We're not planning on losing Sunday, simply because we worked so hard to get it back to Boston!"

The two teams will settle the issue at 1 p.m. EDT Sunday at the Boston Garden, on the parquet floor with 16 NBA championship banners fluttering overhead.

The winner will draw Detroit in the best-of-seven Eastern final next week, with the Pistons having completed a 4-1 victory over Chicago on Wednesday night. Saturday, the Utah Jazz were to visit the Los Angeles Lakers with the winner to meet Dallas next week for the Western Conference crown.

It took a struggle for the Celtics to square this series at 3-3.

After seemingly having taken control when Danny Ainge scored nine points in an 11-4 burst late in the third quarter, the Celtics had two turnovers in the final minute that gave Atlanta opportunities to win.

Ainge was called for traveling with 52 seconds to play, converted only one of two free throws with 33 seconds left and Bird allowed a 24-second shot clock violation with a cross-court pass with five seconds to play.

The Hawks could have forced overtime with a basket, but Cliff Levington's shot off a drive down the middle bounced outside, where Johnson claimed the rebound for Boston.

"With our backs against the wall, we came out fighting the way Atlanta had," Celtics coach K.C. Jones said.

Atlanta had posted three consecutive victories in the series after Boston had won the first two games. An Atlanta victory in the series would make the Celtics only the fifth team in NBA history to lose a best-of-seven set after starting with a 2-0 lead.

"Boston played great defense, had the right plays and shots at the right times," Atlanta Coach Mike Fratello said. "This was the poorest game overall in what we were attempting to accomplish.

With all the excitement, everyone tried to do his own thing."

Boston won this one with defense, holding Kevin Willis, a hero in earlier Atlanta victories, to only eight points. The Celtics also held Atlanta's bench, which had entered the game with a 169-47 edge over the Boston bench, to only a 21-12 advantage.

Kevin McHale led the Celtics with 26 points, despite sitting out six minutes of the second half in foul trouble. Bird added 23 points and Ainge scored 22.

Atlanta was a two-man show on this night that had a sellout crowd of 16,451 screaming for the Boston scalp throughout the game. Dominique Wilkins led the Hawks with 35 points and Glenn Rivers added 32.

Tourney slated

The annual two-man scramble, sponsored by Western Texas College, will be held June 4-5, according to WTC's Dave Foster.

Entry deadline is June 2. The fee is $100 per team. The field will be limited to 60 teams and will be pre-flighted into four flights.

All handicaps will be verified and flighting will be based on lower handicap of the two team members. All teams must complete an entry form.

Practice rounds will be held June 3. Shotgun starts will initiate tournament play at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

First place awards will be irons, second place will receive metal woods, third place will receive a golf bag, and golf balls will be awarded for fourth place.

Reservations may be made by calling the WTC pro shop at 573-9291.

Western Texas signs two top area golfers

Western Texas College coach Dave Foster has announced the signing of two more golfers

Chris Jefferson from Tascosa High School in Amarillo, and Jeff Baker from Borger, have signed with the Westerners.

Quinlan, who has one victory in five years on the tour, followed a first-round 69 with a 68.

There were 18 players under par, all within six shots of the lead.

Nina Foust was alone at 140, while Dot Germain, Sherrin Turner and Amy Benz at 141.

First-round leader Debbie Massey followed her 67 with a 75 for 142, where she was joined by Danielle Ammaccapane, Marci Bozarth, Ayako Okamoto, Miki Cheng, Muffin Spencer-Devlin and Colleen Walker.

Defending champion Jane Geddes was at 143.

Lanny Wadkins shares lead at weather-plagued Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Lanny Wadkins could hardly wait to read his newspaper to learn how much he enjoyed the second round of the $750,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

Well, Lanny, you had a ball.

The brash, blunt tour veteran stung the treacherous Colonial Country Club course with a 2-under-par 68, beat a thunderstorm to the clubhouse by minutes and took a share of the lead into Saturday's soggy, weather-plagued third round.

Wadkins, 38, one of the game's all-time leading money-winners, molded a 68, only his second sub-par round on the testy Colonial course in 11 appearances.

"I had a chance to put some really good numbers on the board and put some distance between myself and the field, but I didn't do it," he said of a round that included three birdies, three bogeys and an eagle.

He three-putted once from 15 feet, blew a 3-foot birdie putt and still was 7-under until he bogeyed two of the last four holes.

"I should have had a lower score, but a 68's not bad, considering my track record here," he laughed.

And of his position after 36 holes, he said: "I think it's great. I've never been 5-under-par here before, so I don't really know what it's like. I'll have to read the paper ... to find out how much I enjoyed it."

With a superb 5-under-par 65, which matched the lowest score of the tournament, Joey Sindelar knew at once how much he enjoyed Friday's round.

"I'm both pleased and surprised," he said after a bogey-free performance that left him a shot off the lead and tied with Ben Crenshaw and Steve Pate, both of whom shot 67 for 136.

Crenshaw, the 1977 Colonial NIT winner, seemed headed for a share of the lead until he pushed his tee shot badly on the 18th, took a penalty stroke drop and was lucky to escape with a bogey.

Wadkins' 67-68-135 matched the 36-hole total of Clarence Rose, last week's sudden-death loser at the Byron Nelson classic, and Scott Hoch, who birdied four of the last eight holes to card his 68.

The three front-runners started the second round in a five-way tie for first place, but Wadkins was the only one to avoid the rain delay.

Carter runs Friday's top time as Indy 500 enters final trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Pancho Carter, one of six second-generation drivers seeking to start the May 29 Indianapolis 500, found some speed as the final weekend of time trials arrived at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Carter, whose best finish at Indy was third in 1982, had his Buick V6-powered March up to 213.878 mph, the fastest lap recorded Friday on the final full day of practice for the 72nd Indy race.

"The car's back in balance the way we want. We're getting it where we want to be," he said.

There's no reason to go too fast this weekend. We just want to put in safely in the field and go racing."

The field of 33 cars for the $4-million race had 21 tentative members heading into Saturday's third qualifying session, with the final time trials scheduled Sunday.

Once the field is filled, the slowest cars can be bumped by any faster qualifying speed until time trials end at 6 p.m. EST on Sunday. Scott Atchison, the only rookie to complete a four-lap, 10-mile qualification run last weekend, was the slowest at 205.142.

Carter, who called off a qualification attempt last Saturday after two laps around about 207.8, said, "I don't feel any pressure. We just want to make the car comfortable to go out and put four solid laps in. "The car is getting a lot better. We've been working on it off and on today, sort of fine-tuning it. It's going to be a fine car when we go out."

Carter, whose father Duane drove at Indianapolis from 1948 through 1963, is seeking his 15th start on the 2½-mile oval.

Al Unser Jr. and Michael Andretti are two of the other second-generation drivers in the race. They will be competing with their fathers - Al Unser and Mario Andretti.

Tony Bettenhausen and Gary Bettenhausen, sons of Tony Bettenhausen - who ran at Indy 14 times and was killed while practicing for his 15th race - are other second-generation drivers hoping to qualify this weekend.

Johnny Parsons, the son of 1950 Indianapolis winner Johnnie Parsons and a half-brother of Carter - both have the same mother - is the other second-generation driver.

UT, Bears fight to challenge A&M in conference baseball tournament

The Snyder (Tex.) Daily News, Sun., May 22, 1988 9A

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Texas and Baylor face off once again in the Southwest Conference baseball tournament, with the winner staying alive for the championship battle against Texas A&M.

During the tournament's first round on Thursday, the Bears dumped the Longhorns 4-2 behind the pitching of Pat Combs.

Baylor needs to win the tournament to receive an NCAA playoff berth, while Texas likely will be the No. 1 seed at the Central Regional in Austin.

The Bears were to face the Longhorns in an elimination-round game at 1 p.m. Saturday.

On Friday, Texas eliminated Arkansas from the tournament with a 7-1 victory. Texas A&M defeated Baylor 6-1 in the night game.

Scott Livingstone belted his 13th homer of the year to help Texas A&M to a 6-1 victory over Baylor in the tournament at George Cole Field.

The win improves the Aggies to 50-11 and moves the team into the championship round. Baylor fell to 25-30.

Second baseman Terry Taylor blasted a two-run homer in the third and doubled later to lead the Aggies' attack.

Junior lefthander Fred Riscen, 3-0, picked up the pitching victory as he struck out six and walked two in six innings of work. Relief man Anthony DeLaCruz earned his third save of the year with three innings of shutout pitching.

Baylor starter Bruce Aguilar, now 7-3, was tagged with the loss.

Three Baylor players - Trent Weaver, Chad Patterson and Joe Guidry - each collected two hits while the lone Bears' run came in the first on a throwing error.

In the Texas-Arkansas matchup, freshman righthander Kirk Dressendorfer of Pearland, Texas, fired a four-hitter to advance to 14-2 for the Longhorns, now 52-9.

In the process, he tied school and conference records for pitching victories by a freshman, set by Texas' Greg Swindell in 1984. Dressendorfer struck out seven and walked one while allowing Arkansas only run in the sixth.

Razorback catcher Jimmy Kremers singled in Billy Dawson with that run as Arkansas dropped to 39-21. The Razorbacks retained hopes of getting an at-large NCAA Region berth.

A pair of run-producing doubles by catcher Brian Johnson helped the Longhorns to their win. Johnson batted in three runs with the doubles and also had a single.

Righthander Mike Oquist, 3-4, started for the Razorbacks and absorbed the loss. The Longhorns got seven hits off three Arkansas pitchers.

Hatcher keys Astros victory

by The Associated Press

In ice skating, six means perfection. In diving and gymnastics, it's a 10. In baseball, the number varies.

For Billy Hatcher, the number was five Friday night.

Hatcher went 5-for-5 against the St. Louis Cardinals, including a tie-breaking RBI single in the ninth inning that lifted the Houston Astros to a 5-3 victory.

The hit came off ace Cardinals reliever Todd Worrell.

"He got it in on me. I just got the bat on the ball and it fell in," said Hatcher, who had five singles, two RBI, scored one run and stole a base. "I played against Todd Worrell in Triple-A. You know you're going to see a 92-mph fastball. You just try to get ready."

Dunne, 2-2, allowed nine hits and three runs over 7 2-3 innings, struck out four and walked three.

Mets 5, Dodgers 2

Howard Johnson homered and Mookie Wilson singled in two runs as the Mets won their fifth straight game.

Sid Fernandez, 2-3, allowed six hits, struck out six and walked one over 6 1-3 innings before leaving with stiffness in his elbow.

Fernandez also had a single and double. Randy Myers pitched the final 1 2-3 innings to pick up his sixth save.

Loser Don Sutton, 3-3, lasted only 4 1-3 innings. He gave up four runs on eight hits and three walks.

Padres 4, Phillies 3

Roberto Alomar drove in the winning run with a two-out single in the bottom of the ninth inning as the Padres snapped a four-game losing streak.

Mike Schmidt hit his 535th career homer for the Phillies, moving him past Jimmie Foxx into eighth place on the all-time list.

Mark Davis, 2-3, picked up the victory with three scoreless innings of relief. He allowed one hit, struck out two and walked one.

Giants 11, Expos 2

Chris Speier's sixth-inning grand slam, one of four San Francisco home runs, sparked the Giants' win.

Candy Maldonado, Will Clark and Bob Melvin also homered for the Giants.

Mike LaCoss, 3-3, picked up the win. He went seven innings, allowing two runs on seven hits.

American League roundup...

A's are best among the best

Houston starter Bob Knepper won his sixth game without a defeat. He had a shutout until the eighth inning, when he gave up a two-run homer to Tony Pena.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Cincinnati 7, Chicago 2; Pittsburgh 10, Atlanta 3; New York 5, Los Angeles 2; San Diego 4, Philadelphia 3; and San Francisco 11, Montreal 2.

Worrell, making his league-leading 22nd appearance, came in with a man on second and one out in the ninth. Hatcher singled home a run on Worrell's first pitch to break a 2-2 tie.

The Cardinals scored a run with two outs in the ninth on Tom Brunansky's double. But with men on second and third, reliever Dave Smith got Bob Horner on a fly out to end the game.

Reds 7, Cubs 2

Paul O'Neill drove in three runs and Mario Soto won the 100th game of his career as the Reds beat the Cubs in Cincinnati.

Soto, 3-2, allowed five hits, three of them by first baseman Mark Grace. Soto struck out six and walked one in his third complete game of the season.

Reds rookie Jeff Treadway had three hits, extending his hitting streak to 13 games. O'Neill hit a homer and a double, while teammate Barry Larkin had four hits, drove in two runs and stole two bases.

Pirates 10, Braves 3

Mike Diaz drove in three runs with his first two hits of the season and Mike Dunne won his first game since opening day as Pittsburgh snapped a five-game losing streak.

Junior Ortiz also drove in three runs for the Pirates, who scored three runs each in the first, third and fourth innings off Braves starter Tom Glavine, 1-6.

The standings say they are the two best teams in the American League. Only the Oakland Athletics lived up to the part.

Carney Lansford, the leading hitter in the major leagues, had four hits and drove in three runs as the Athletics, with the best record in the majors, routed the AL East-leading New York Yankees 11-3 Friday night.

Ron Hassey also produced three runs and Dave Parker homered as Oakland won for the 14th time in the last 16 road games. Dave Henderson, with two doubles, and Glenn Hubbard contributed three hits apiece.

"We got key production down through the lineup," Oakland manager Tony LaRussa said. "We have guys up and down who can get the big hit."

And they've got pitchers who can get the big out. Bob Welch was the winner Friday, upping his record to 7-2 with his sixth straight win.

"I thought Welch had real good stuff," LaRussa said. "He had real good pop on his fastball."

The A's lead the AL West by eight games.

Elsewhere, Detroit moved within a game of first place in the East with a 14-6 romp past Chicago. Cleveland stayed a half-game behind New York by losing to Kansas City 4-3.

Also, it was California 4, Boston 2 in 10 innings; Toronto 3, Milwaukee 1; Seattle 3, Baltimore 2; and Minnesota at Texas was rained out.

Tigers 14, White Sox 6

Veterans Alan Trammell, Darrell Evans and Ray Knight paced a 20-hit attack for Detroit. Frank Tanana, 7-2, was the beneficiary of the onslaught at Chicago.

Trammell hit an upper-deck homer, a double and two singles. Knight had a double and a triple.

Royals 4, Indians 3

Bo Jackson had a big night at Kansas City with two RBI doubles. Frank White added a two-run homer for the Royals, while Cory Snyder had a two-run shot for Cleveland.

Jackson was mad at himself when he got his game-winning hit off John Farrell.

"That first pitch I swung at was high and I was angry with myself for swinging," Jackson said. "So I just backed off and started concentrating on taking a hack at anything close. He threw me a fastball in and I turned on it. Actually, I tried to kill it."

Angels 4, Red Sox 2

First the Angels snapped

Roger Clemens' scoreless string at 19 innings - Clemens had a pair of three-hitters last week. Then California beat Clemens as Butch Wynegar lined a tie-breaking double after failing to sacrifice in the 10th inning.

Chico Walker led off the 10th with a walk, the second issued by Clemens, 6-2. Wynegar fouled off a bunt attempt and then lined a double to right as Walker scored easily. Mark McLemore's run-scoring single made it 4-2.

Blue Jays 3, Brewers 1

At Milwaukee, Jim Clancy got his first victory in a month and Lloyd Moseby homered for Toronto. Clancy, 2-4 and winless in his five previous starts, struck out six and gave up seven hits. But he needed help from David Wells with one out in the seventh after a single by Jim Gantner and double by Paul Molitor.

Wells struck out B.J. Surhoff and, after a walk to Robin Yount, retired Greg Brock on a ground-out.

Mariners 3, Orioles 2

Ken Phelps' two-run homer, the 100th of his career, tied the game, then Seattle won it on Alvin Davis' eighth-inning RBI single after a key error by second baseman Bill Ripken.

Mark Langston and Mike Jackson combined to shut down Baltimore after the Orioles scored their runs early against Langston. Ken Gerhart hit a second-inning home run and back-to-back doubles by Ripken and Fred Lynn produced a run in the third.

Sports in summary

By The Associated Press

OLYMPICS

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - Opposition leader Kim Dae-jung proposed that South Korea and North Korea hold talks on being co-hosts for the Olympic Games opening in Seoul in September.

Kim, head of the largest opposition party for Peace and Democracy, made the proposal at a meeting of 71 party members who were recently elected to the National Assembly. He said he believes North Korea is less enthusiastic about taking part in the Olympics but South Korea should persuade them to attend.

TENNIS

PARIS (AP) - Defending champion Ivan Lendl was drawn for a fourth-round meeting with John McEnroe at the French Open, setting up a possible replay of one of the most memorable matches in tennis history.

Lendl, top-seeded in the men's field, and West Germany's Steffi Graf, the women's No. 1 seed, both drew French opponents for their first-round matches, which get under way Monday. McEnroe is seeded 16th in the men's field and begins play against Alexandr Volkov of the Soviet Union.

In 1984 in Paris, Lendl rallied from two sets down to beat McEnroe 3-6, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5, 7-5, for his first Grand Slam championship.

AUTO RACING

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) - Darrell Waltrip shattered the single-lap qualifying mark at the Charlotte Motor Speedway, grabbing the pole position for The Winston, NASCAR's winners-only event.

Waltrip, who won the first edition of The Winston in 1985, was clocked at 174.154 mph in his Chevrolet on an 85-degree day, breaking the track record of 171.860 set by Bobby Allison last October.

19 WTC students on President's List

Nineteen students who made no grade lower than A in the 1988 spring semester have been named to the Western Texas College's President's List.

The President's List students must be enrolled in at least 15 semester hours and must have no failing grades.

Included on the list were Rita Culwell of Anson; Don Denman of Baird; Tony Franco of Colorado City; Raymond Goswick of Ira; Shawn Goemmer of LaVeta, Colo.; Bryan Hulsey of Perryton; Jody Mauldin of Roby and Regina Kincaid of Roscoe.

Completing the list are Kevin Buck, Linda Burns, Juliet Kimmel, Joe Luera, Herman Don Murray, Derwin Price and William Sherrard, all of Snyder, and Daniel Aguilar, Tonia Robinson, Henry Salonus, Jr. and Kathy Witt of Sweetwater.

Officials applaud Lehder's conviction on drug charges

MIAMI (AP) — The cocaine-smuggling conviction of Carlos Lehder Rivas has heartened the front line in the drug war, but officials acknowledged Friday they are far from destroying the violent Medellin drug cartel.

In the past month alone, drug agents have seized 3.7 tons of cocaine in a single shipment of lumber, taken two tons from a speedboat making a run into the Keys, and confiscated two tons more hidden in food shipments.

That dwarfs the 3.3 tons Lehder was convicted of smuggling into the country from 1978 to 1980, though he is considered responsible for much more.

"You've got an awful lot of heads on the Hydra you have to cut off," Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr Jim Simpson said Friday, referring to the multiheaded creature of Greek mythology. "Lehder was one of them."

Cocaine shipments into the country actually increased in the year Lehder has been in U.S. custody, and the absence of a current U.S.-Colombia extradition treaty clouds future anti-drug efforts, said Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman Jack Hook.

"We'd all be pretty silly if we thought that the arrest and conviction of one man would stop drug trafficking," he said. "It's very positive news, but it's just one small battle."

Simpson and other South Florida officials emphasize their efforts to block drug imports are continuing.

The Customs Service's "Blue Lightning" speed boat task force released its 1987 statistics Friday, showing it helped arrest 255 people and intercepted almost seven tons of cocaine, along with more than 200 tons of marijuana.

The Colombia-based Medellin Cartel still ships up to 80 percent of the cocaine that makes its way into the United States. The DEA considered Lehder one of the four managers of the cartel until his arrest early last year. The others have evaded — and sometimes defied — Colombian and U.S. justice.

The reputed top leader, Jorge Luis Ochoa Vasquez, has twice been seized by Colombian authorities, and twice succeeded in slipping from their hands. Another of Lehder's reputed co-leaders, Pablo Emilio Escobar Gaviria, has been sighted frequently in Colombia but never caught.

The cartel has turned to violence to intimidate Colombian authorities into abandoning cooperation with U.S. anti-drug efforts, Hook said.

In 1984, Justice Minister Rodrigo Lara Bonilla was assassinated by traffickers, and in January, Colombia's crusading Attorney General Carlos Mauro Hoyos was gunned down. The successful anti-drug candidate for mayor of Bogota was briefly kidnapped during this year's campaign. And many believe the 1985 guerrilla attack that killed many Colombian supreme court justices was coordinated with the traffickers.

Letters to editor

To the editor,
The Scurry County Drug and Alcohol Council has tried to stress zero tolerance of chemical use amongst our adolescents.

It has come to our attention that there are many weekend beer bust and parties that involve chemical abuse. Also, it has come to our attention that traditionally a beer party is held after the Steak Supper that is given each year in honor of the Seniors.

The Council is calling for a Community Forum to discuss this problem. The Forum will be held on Tuesday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the Reddy Room at the Texas Electric building.

We are requesting representatives from parents and grandparents, the churches, students, law enforcement agencies, the business community, the medical profession, clubs and sororities, and all concerned citizens. The meeting will have an opening statement by the Drug and Alcohol Council then there will be an open microphone for short statements from anyone that wishes to speak. Following the comments, the Council and the community will form an action plan to curb the chemical abuse in our county.

There are many fine young people in our community that would appreciate a drug-free atmosphere. We appeal to our citizens to join together to make our country a safer place for all of us. Please plan on joining us Tuesday night.

Scurry County Drug and Alcohol Council
Cliff Smith, president

To the editor,
Thank you, Scurry County, for so generously supporting May Day 1988. Your caring and giving attitude allowed the Scurry County Senior Center to raise a gross amount of $22,050. The auction raised $15,767.50.

Without you, whether you were the donor, bidder or buyer, this would not have been possible.

The Center serves a special part of our society, those 60 years of age or more. Participation in the Center continues to rise. Center programs offer valuable support and companionship for those served. It is vital that we be able to continue these programs and once again, Scurry County folks, you have made it possible.

May we say "Thank You" again for your support of our annual fundraiser, May Day 1988. We look forward to seeing you on May 6, 1989 at May Day 1989. Scurry County Senior Center Advisory Council
Gay Hickman, chairman

Prices increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big increases in food, energy and clothing costs sent consumer prices up 0.4 percent in April, an annual rate of increase of 5.3 percent, as the country got its second monthly dose of higher inflation, the government reported Friday.

IN MEMORY OF

Our beloved son, Benjamin. To the host of friends, Deacon Frank Ortegon and his wife Beatrice, Father Ralph, Father Costigan & Sister Vinney who came to us with love and sympathy, also to Northeast Elementary faculty, the Jr. High School, who brought food and sent flowers; the High School Choir that sang at the service and to those who could not come but sent flowers and food we are indeed grateful. May God's blessings be upon you in our prayer.
The family of Benjamin Herrera

BENJAMIN HERRERA

We want to thank each one who remembered us in any way during the long illness and death of our Mother, Lilly Mattie Hairston. Thank you for the prayers, visits, kind words, food and flowers. Also a special thanks to the personnel at Kristi Lee Manor and Valley Fair Lodge and Dr. Joe Terry for their care and concern. It is our prayer that you will have such friends in your time of sorrow.

Vernice Laster
Bill & Elsie Hairston

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray, If so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say. Perhaps you were not there at all, Just thought of us that day. Whatever you did say to console our hearts, We Thank You so much whatever the part.

Cash for food 'last resort'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration's plan to give cash to the Contra rebels inside Nicaragua is "a last resort" aimed at feeding the starving remnants of the guerrilla force, the head of the U.S. foreign aid program said Friday. "There are people inside Nicaragua who are desperate... we've had reports of people eating tree roots," Alan Woods, administrator of the Agency for International Development, told a Senate subcommittee. Woods said AID plans to send cash at the rate of $1 per day per rebel, but is still working out the details. A March 23 agreement between the Contras and Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government permits humanitarian aid to be sent to the rebels while the two sides hold peace talks. But a dispute over how the aid should be delivered has meant no help has yet been sent, and the State Department came up with the cash plan as a substitute, Woods said. "We have taken this particular step as a last resort," he said, to keep the Contras inside Nicaragua while the peace talks are proceeding and thus keep the pressure on the Sandinistas. Up to 3,000 rebels have reportedly fled across the Nicaraguan border into Honduras to search for food in recent weeks. "We are seeing resistance fighters coming out of Nicaragua at a high rate," Woods said. Details of the cash plan are still being worked out, Woods said, but that at the rate of $1 per rebel per day for a 30-day period, the program will cost an estimated $450,000. The money, in the Nicaraguan currency of cordobas, will sent by courier, he said.

Platinum surges

by The Associated Press
Platinum futures prices jumped more than $11 a troy ounce Friday, leading other precious metals higher as key indicators reinforced ideas that inflation is worsening, analysts said. Platinum settled $11.10 to $11.90 higher on the New York Mercantile Exchange, with the contract for delivery in July at $568.60 a troy ounce. District judge attends legal meet

District Judge Gene L. Dulaney has returned from a judges' conference in Huntsville in which criminal confessions and other topics were discussed. The conference and seminar was at Sam Houston State University's Criminal Justice Center, and the judges heard lectures on recent United States Supreme Court and U.S. Seventh Court of Appeals decisions, possible new state legislation and rules of evidence, confessions and post-confession writs. They also toured the Texas Department of Corrections' Ellis Unit.

TEAMS tests dates given

Students who have met all graduation requirements except passing both sections of the Exit Level TEAMS test while enrolled in school will be given an opportunity to take the mathematics test on Wednesday, July 27, and the language arts test on Thursday, July 28, at the Region 14 Service Center in Abilene. Anyone who meets the criteria and would like to register to take the test, must contact Bobbie Box, Snyder ISD district testing coordinator, prior to June 17 at 573-9364 or pick up a registration packet at Humble-Smith School.

College planning conditioning class

Strength and tone conditioning (HPE 111) will be offered at Western Texas College in the summer classes starting June 1. Classes will be taught by Loraine Hall and will meet from 5:15-6:30 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays through July 29. Lab times will be arranged with the instructor. Mrs. Hall is a certified fitness specialist and a certified aerobics instructor. The class format will include warm up stretches for 10 minutes, low intensity aerobics for 20 to 40 minutes, floor exercises for 10-15 minutes, and cool-down stretches for 5-8 minutes. "Low intensity aerobics will allow the body to burn more fat than carbohydrates and put less stress on the knees, shins and ankles," Mrs. Hall said. "Eight ounce hand weights will be used to strengthen and tone the upper body and five-eighth inch Exercise bands will be used to tone and strengthen the lower body with resistance movements." Registration for summer classes will be held on May 31.

By Shirley A. Gorman

When Connie Haskins of Snyder wants something to do, he either quilts, cooks, cans, works in his garden or does woodworking.

At 84, he has been retired from Exxon for the past 22 years. He worked for the company for more than 40 years.

To keep himself busy, the octogenarian chooses one of his special interests. Sometimes, he even likes to go fishing, but he admits that at least for now he has gotten "out of the habit of it."

Haskins grew up in Coryell County, where he learned the art of quilting and cooking from his mother. As a boy he remembers making a quilt and sewing it on an old treadle sewing machine. As an adult, he said he "forgot" about these boyhood skills. However, last year he started quilting again and so far has made three.

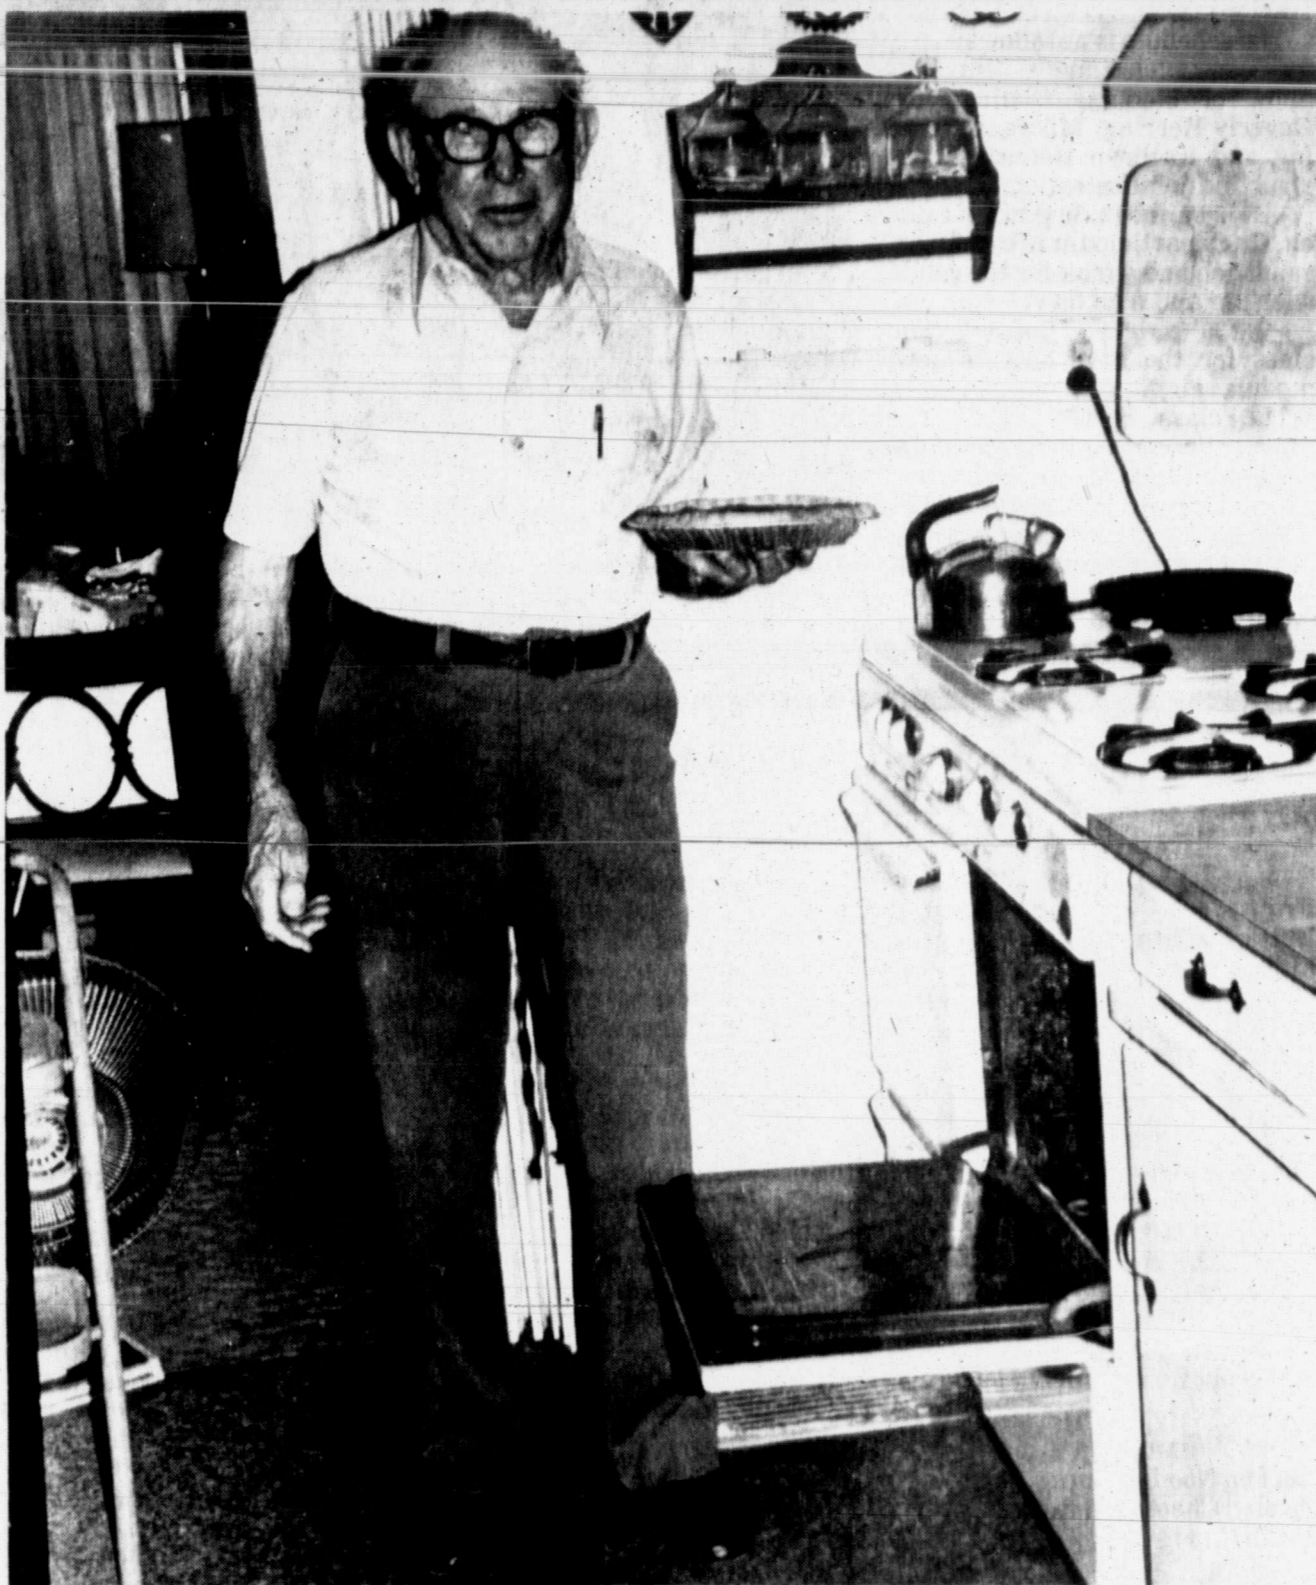

One quilt was made completely from scratch. He made all the blocks for the top himself and later sewed them together and added the lining. He said he likes to use sheets for the lining.

However, two of the quilts were made from tops made long years ago, one by his now deceased wife and the other by an aunt.

At 84, Haskins has no trouble threading the needle of a sewing machine. When asked how he learned the art of sewing, he replied, "It's no trouble to sew if you just get with it."

He said he once saw a woman who could make a quilt a day. It takes him "a week or so," making the top in about two days and taking another week to sew it up.

Haskins said he gets his quilting material from a

BUSY BAKER—Connie Haskins of Snyder loves to keep busy doing things such as baking pecan pies. Since he has a plentiful supply of pecans in his yard he is always making a pie to take to a friend or neighbor. Haskins, who is retired, also likes to do woodworking and he recently started quilting. (SDN Staff Photo) stockpile of material his wife had and from his daughter.

Haskins is a light eater himself but he likes to grow, can, cook and bake foods. He often gives away the products of his kitchen — sometimes to family members, church groups, neighbors or friends.

Haskins and his wife, Estelle, liked to can, especially after he retired from Exxon. However, since maintaining a garden is getting to be a handful he said he will not put in another garden this year.

Haskins maintains a woodwork shop, but he admits that these days he doesn't work at it too much. But when he does he likes to make foot jacks and round tables, just to name a few. He said he makes things to give away and not to sell.

As a boy, Haskins liked to make plain cakes, but nowadays he sometimes specializes in pecan pies because he has a plentiful supply of the nuts from the trees growing in his yard.

After his children were grown, Haskins said he started cooking in earnest again. Sometimes he follows a recipe and sometimes he just goes by instinct.

Down through the years he has picked up a few hints which make the baking task at hand go smoother. For instance, he has a special sheet which measures how far an 8-10 inch pie crust should be rolled out. He likes to roll a nine inch pie out to 10 inches and then crinkle the edges for an unusual effect.

To place the dough into the pan, he said he rolls it onto the rolling pin, then unrolls it into the pan.

When Haskins first went to work for Exxon the company was known as Humble Oil. In those years he was hired as a substitute, but it soon became his life's work.

Shortly after being hired full time he was transferred to Rising Star. That was in August and the following December he married Estelle, who passed away in 1984. They were married 57 years and raised three children. He also has four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He was a mechanical supervisor for Humble when he retired.

When asked why he likes to pursue his unusual hobbies, Haskins said it is because they help him to stay busy. The only thing he admits that he does not have any particular aptitude for is housekeeping. "My wife was a good housekeeper," he said, "but I'm not."

He came to Snyder in 1957 and has lived here for the past 31 years.

Shoes for walking

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some shoes are made for walking, according to a physiology researcher who has written several books on the subject.

Many people make the mistake of walking in shoes that are constructed for running, tennis or other activity, says Dr. Fred Stutman, a former researcher in exercise physiology at the U.S. Naval Air Development Center.

"A walking shoe should have a wide, flexible toe box and stronger heel support than an aerobic or running shoe," explains Stutman, the author of seven books on fitness walking who also has been a consultant for Hush Puppies.

"An ideal walking shoe should be curved on the bottom like the sole of your foot. This creates a comfort curve that is essential in maintaining a smooth rocking motion and stability in your walking gait."

Other features to look for in a good walking shoe, Stutman adds, are real leather uppers, the portion of the shoe above the sole. Synthetic materials should be avoided, he says, because they are not porous enough to breathe or flexible enough to bend with the foot.

MODULAR CLOTHING CLINIC — Beverly Herring (left), daughter Mikanna and County Extension Agent Kathryn Roberts met at Blanche's Bernina Sewing Center Thursday to prepare for the clothing clinic to be held Tuesday at the Fluvanna Community Center. All three are wearing modular styles and will be modeling at the clinic. Roberts and Debbie Pollard, Borden County agent, will conduct the day-long session. (SDN Staff Photo)

Modular clinic set

A modular clothing clinic is set for Tuesday at the Fluvanna Community Center. Kathryn Roberts and Debra Pollard, extension agents in home economics with Scurry and Borden Counties, will conduct the sessions.

The schedule is as follows:
 —9:30-11:30 a.m. — Fashion Show of Modular Clothing by Beverly Herring, Mikanna Herring and Kathryn Roberts; construction demonstration.
 —11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. — Lunch. Each participant is to bring a sandwich and a fruit for the sandwich bar and fruit bowl.
 —12:30 p.m. — Construction class for those wishing to sew modular clothing.

The class is free, but pre-registration is required for those wishing to stay for the afternoon construction session. The deadline for registration is Monday. To register and obtain a list of supplies needed, contact the County Extension Office at 2605 Ave. M or call 573-5423.

MANAGER'S CHOICE

80-plus players still active on tennis court

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Marion Brown, 82, says her tennis game has been off a bit since she developed arthritis a year ago, but she still plays almost every day.

"I tell people my hand is crooked up in a position that lets me get my tennis racket through the hole," she says with a laugh. "Playing actually helps me keep my arthritis in check. It has affected my game, of course — I have to be more careful about who's on the other side!"

Clyde Thomas, also 82, says he's just "getting by" with his game. He's modest about the fact that last year he won a gold medal for tennis in the 80-plus singles section of the National Senior Olympics held in St. Louis. He and his partner were also runners-up in the doubles section and received a silver medal.

Brown and Thomas are only two of a group of York octogenarians who continue to hit the tennis courts regularly. In good weather, they play at Farquhar Park, their gathering place for many years. During the winter months, they still play, dressed warmly in hoods and gloves. When inclement weather makes outdoor tennis impossible, they move to indoor tennis courts.

"We're real die-hards," says Brown. "I've been playing tennis since I was a teen-ager in Warren, Pa. I learned to play the wrong way, but when we came to York in 1936 I took lessons from John Cox, now owner of Hanover Tennis Club. He and I were partners, and years and years ago won the mixed doubles tournament here."

Tennis became an important part of Brown's day, she says, especially after her children were born.

"Every day, other women in the neighborhood and I after lunch would wheel our baby carriages up to Farquhar Park. There would be five of us — one of us would baby-sit while the others played doubles. "It all began in the park," Brown continues, referring to the long-term friendships that were forged on the tennis courts. "The group of us grew over the years as new people came. We always welcomed newcomers."

The Farquhar octogenarian players were honored recently at a party that included more than 60 people. Other honored guests were Hans Boetzelen, 82, who still plays tennis, and E.A. (Odie) Miller, 81, who quit playing a while ago when he entered the Orchard Residence retirement home. Miller, however, still comes to watch tennis games at the park when the weather is good.

"We're just tennis players who never quit," says Brown. "We just keep going. We're a geriatric group, but it keeps us young."

She and her companions say they enjoy the contacts they make with people of all ages at the park.

"There is a variety of age ranges there," says Brown. "Young people talk to us and ask us questions, and sometimes play with us. It's wonderful. Tennis helps bridge the generation gap. We understand them and they understand us. Young people are great."

Thomas, who has played tennis since the 1920s, says he believes that there's no reason to stop playing at a certain age. "Tennis helps keep me fit. I believe if I can do this, anybody can," he says. "I have five grandkids and I play with them quite a little bit."

There is also a large group of 70-year-olds who play tennis at the park, says Brown. "Those people are only 70, of course. They're just babies."

The first shot of the Spanish-American War rang out April 22, 1898, when the USS Nashville captured a Spanish merchant ship off Key West, Fla.

Bride-elect is honored

MEGARGEL — Veronica Kulhanek, bride-elect of Dr. Michael Wimmer, was honored with a bridal shower April 23 at the Megargel High School Home Economics Cottage.

Special guests included Rose Kulhanek, mother of the honoree; Lillie Miller, her grandmother; Pauline Wimmer of Snyder, mother of the prospective groom; and Lavana Azbill of Snyder, his grandmother.

Also in attendance were Rosalie Kulhanek of Olney and Teresa Ousley of Lake Worth, sisters of the bride-elect, and Lynn Youngblood of San Angelo, sister of the future groom.

Pictured from left are Dennis McHane, Charles Sweat, Jimmy Henry and Mande Henry, all Hermeigh club members. Mande was second high individual in class placings and second high in overall score. Objectives of the contest are to learn how to make choices, compare, evaluate alternatives, practice real life decisions and learn to express oneself. Adult leaders from Scurry County in attendance were Viola Stirl, Nell Henry and Kathryn Roberts, County Extension Agent. (Club Photo)

4-H youth to contest

Texas Tech University hosted the recent District II 4-H contest. Roundup is a contest designed to provide 4-H members with learning opportunities and educational experiences which support 4-H project work and provide an opportunity for youth to develop and practice citizenship and leadership skills in a different environment.

Method demonstrations and illustrated talks are planned presentations by one or more 4-H members that teach information related to a project or activity. It is a simple way of showing and telling others how to make or do something and sharing useful information. Those presenting demonstrations included Jimmy Henry and Charles Sweat, second place; Shawna Akins, first place; Dennis McHane, third place; Tim Burrow, Carol Laman, Cindi Burrow and John Busby, all third place winners.

Competing in the Share-the-Fun contest were Kelly Beck, Scott Sanders, Shelly York, Jason York, Shahala Marriele, Blanden Chisum, Maribeth Dillaha and John David Polk.

Participants were scored on introduction, subject matter, summary, presentation, originality and achievement of purpose.

CONSUMER CONCERN ABOUT FOOD ADDITIVES
With terms like "maltodextrin," "monocalcium phosphate" and "sodium bisulfite," food labels can read like a chemistry test.

Although consumers have cultivated a taste for all sorts of convenience foods that require additives, they also wonder about the long-term health effects of the chemicals listed on the labels.

Are shoppers' concerns well-founded? Food additives are hardly new. They've been with us for thousands of years, probably starting with the discovery that salted meat lasted longer.

The most commonly used additives are "natural" substances such as sugar, salt and corn syrup. Along with baking soda, pepper and a few others, these substances make up about 98% by weight of all additives used in the country.

The man-made chemicals added to foods are closely scrutinized and strictly regulated by the Food and Drug Administration. Their use is permitted in foods only at levels that ensure a large margin of safety between levels of human exposure and the highest level at which no harm of any sort is evident in test animals.

Additives maintain and improve food quality by preserving foods and adding nutrients. The flavor enhancers, flavorings, colors and sweeteners make food more appealing. Emulsifiers (mixers), stabilizers, thickeners, texturizers and acidity control agents act as processing aids in the manufacturing process.

Some chemical additives are still a source of consumer concern.

The most controversial additives are artificial dyes, such as Red No. 3 which is found in maraschino cherries, pistachio nuts, gelatin desserts and other foods.

Yellow No. 5 also causes allergic reactions in an extremely small segment of the population. It's the only dye that must be listed by name on food labels. Others can be listed as artificial coloring.

Many food manufacturers are aware of consumers' worries and have substituted natural dyes such as annatto, carotene, caramel or fruit juice.

People have been eating foods with natural and artificial additives for thousands of years. In terms of health, the composition of our diets is probably more significant than the substances added to foods.

A diet that's low in fat and contains adequate fiber, vitamins and minerals is the best. If you're still concerned about additives, eat a variety of foods to limit your exposure to any one additive, should it turn out to have long-term risk.

About 200 people died in a 1940 dance hall fire in Natchez, Miss.

In 1968, the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church merged in a ceremony in Dallas to form the United Methodist Church.

Invest in the bathroom

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A homeowner looking for a solid investment should take a look at the bathroom.

That's the advice from do-it-yourself experts at Payless Cashways, a building materials retailer. It says, "According to the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, updating a bathroom offers an average return on investment of 100 to 110 percent."

It says significant bathroom improvements can be accomplished for less than $600. A survey shows homebuyers most commonly scrutinize these bathroom features: tub and shower stall; lighting; storage space; countertops; faucet styles, and number and accessibility of electrical outlets.

SWINE SULFA TESTING IS MEETING FOCUS

New testing procedures for detecting sulfamethazine and other sulfa products in slaughter hogs will be discussed at a series of educational meetings in the coming weeks.

The meetings will be conducted by the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service to brief swine producers and veterinarians on a new sulfa screening program that uses the sulfa-on-site (SOS) test. The SOS test is a quick, in-plant urine screening test.

By May 28, federal meat inspectors in each major U.S. packing plant will use the SOS test to screen urine from up to six hogs per day. The new testing procedures will affect most Texas producers who sell market-weight hogs.

Sulfa residues can be a particular problem in slaughter-weight hogs fed on dirt or collected for sale at gathering points or auction sales on dirt because sulfa products stay in the environment for years.

In addition to the new SOS test, information will be presented on proper methods for using sulfa products and on procedures for dealing with positive SOS tests. Extension Service Veterinarian Dr. Bruce Lawhorn will be on hand to lead the discussion and to answer questions.

Dates and locations of the educational meetings on the SOS test for slaughter hogs are as follows (all meetings start at 7:30 p.m.):

—May 23, First National Bank, Giddings.

—May 24, First National Bank, Yorktown.

—May 25, Security State Bank, Pearsall.

—May 26, Texas A&M University Center, Stephenville.

—June 1, County Courthouse, Fredericksburg.

—June 2, Ollie Liner Center, Plainview.

Wedding bills big surprise

By CHANGING TIMES
The Kiplinger Magazine

The traditional wedding has made a big comeback, but traditional wedding prices haven't. If you're planning one, you may be in for a surprise.

$10,000 will buy a standard deal: a nice reception for 100 guests, with a sit-down supper, cake, champagne, a photographer and some live music. A first-class, once-in-a-lifetime blowout can cost $30,000 in many urban areas.

But shed no tears at what a wedding can cost. You can do it in style without breaking the bank.

One of the first things you should do is consider hiring a wedding consultant. They can charge as little as $50 for help on the big day to as much as 15 percent of the total budget for planning and supervising the whole affair. But this can be money well spent, according to Changing Times magazine.

Among the consultant's jobs is advising you which corners can be safely cut. The best consultants are also savvy negotiators who earn back in lower food and beverage prices much of what you pay them. And, if like many people you're too busy to plan and run a wedding, the consultant can do it for you.

Some consultants will orchestrate events on the wedding day itself. This is worth remembering if you're an intransigent do-it-yourselfer. Lots of folks plan like mad to have a nice wedding, but don't wholly enjoy the big day because they're too busy checking table settings and the supply of food and champagne. Also, consultants can often coax superior performances from florists, caterers, bakers and other wedding vendors.

You'll find professional consultants in the Yellow Pages under "Wedding Consultants" or "Bridal Consultants," but they can range from liquor distributors to limo services. Better yet, ask for recommendations from newly married friends. When you find a consultant, ask for and call at least three references. If all else fails, contact the Association of Bridal Consultants, 200 Chestnutland Rd., New Milford, CT 06776, (203) 355-0464.

Planning a wedding on your own works if you're detail oriented and have the moxie of an aluminum-siding salesperson. Hagglng is absolutely recommended. So is checking references for all services and products you buy. Make sure everything you agree on with each vendor is written down in either a contract or a letter signed by the vendor, because there will be no chance later to undo mistakes or clear up misunderstandings.

Payment schedules vary, but expect to make deposits on nearly everything costing more than $100, and be ready to pay the balance on the wedding day or even a few days beforehand. You'll probably forfeit deposits if your plans change within six weeks of the wedding day, but you can work out an agreement for this ahead of time.

Here are additional cost-saving ideas to consider:

—Food and liquor. In all but the most rural areas, a sit-down dinner served by a caterer or restaurant costs at least $10 per guest. At big-city clubs and restaurants, figure on five to 15 times that amount — $125 per person for a medium-to-fancy seated dinner at Boston's Ritz-Carlton, for instance.

Exotic and imported flowers will bust the modest wedding budget. Aside from the type you buy, the biggest factor in determining the floral bill is the number of attendants. The bride and bridesmaids carry bouquets; the groom and his groomsmen wear boutonnières. Parents on both sides receive flowers, too. There's an altarpiece for the ceremony and a centerpiece for the head table at the reception.

An unpretentious wedding party of eight plus four parents could require $400 for flowers — more than that in big cities. You may pay less in summertime, especially in such places as Michigan and California, where flowers are big business, says Changing Times magazine.

You could buy or even rent silk flowers to conserve money. Some wedding experts say silk flowers are pretty and make nice keepsakes, while others say fresh flowers are more appealing and perhaps even less expensive than the best silk ones.

Hiring a deejay or using tape-recorded music will save a bundle, but you'll lose a lot of pizzazz, too. A good wedding band, even if only a three-piece group, creates an exuberant mood that guests likely will recall long after they've forgotten the bride's dress.

Find a band with an extensive repertoire. "They've got to walk into a party with people from age 7 to 70, scope out the crowd and know what to do," says Chuck Share of Weddings Inc., a Chicago consultant. On the other hand, the bandleader should not be a chatterbox who takes over your reception.

As a rule of thumb, prices start at $1,000 (for a small combo just for the reception) and rise in accordance with locale, number and reputation of players, time of year and distance traveled. A typical engagement is four hours. By prearrangement, the leader will orchestrate the affair — announce the bride and groom's first dance, the cake cutting, the bouquet toss and so on.

You could spend $500 or more on a wedding dress, or you could make your own. A dress pattern costs as little as $10. "Most fabric stores nowadays stock all the materials you need — silk, taffeta, organza," says Paige Hurllock, a San Diego consultant. They also stock lace, beads and accessories for headpieces. In contrast, even a new headpiece typically costs $150.

Buying a dress shouldn't inflate the budget if you shop shrewdly. Many bridal boutiques sell dresses that have been used as samples at a discount of 50 percent or more. Check outlet stores, which sell flawed gowns that can be repaired easily. And some resale shops sell used wedding dresses on consignment.

Finally, consider wearing Mom's old dress. Sure, this season's hot color is pink, and Mom wore the classic white. But who's going to notice? Radiant is radiant, in any hue.

Both Bruce the Basher and Sam the Scientist held the North cards. See how differently their minds work. Bruce is a practical player, although impatient. When he has a notion of what the final contract should be, he bids it. He scorns delicate informatics auctions since they often help opponents defeat a contract. So, with no ado, Bruce simply bid six hearts.

Sam the Scientist is cut from a different bolt of cloth. He shudders at the thought of bidding a slam off the first two tricks. Equally distasteful to him would be playing six hearts when the grand slam was there. Fortunately Sam has some bidding gadgets to help him. He plays splinter bids — note his jump to three spades to show a strong heart raise with shortness in spades. With a minimum, South simply bid game. Scientist Sam's four no-trump bid was another gadget — key-card exclusion Blackwood. In this auction, because a spade void has been implied, South is expected to ignore the spade ace in his responses. Furthermore, since the trump suit is hearts, the king of hearts is construed as an ace. So South's response of five spades showed A-K of hearts and the diamond ace. Sam bid the grand slam.

Don't sneer at Bruce the Basher. He scores up a lot of unmakeable slams with his straightforward bidding, while Sam is in only five, just making.

THE ORAL REPORT. By Jerry F. Taintor.

From regular checkups to root canal therapy, Americans spend nearly $27 billion on dental care each year. Yet how good a consumer is the average dental patient?

Consumerism in dental health care means more than finding the best prices; it requires knowledge — knowledge of available services, appropriate procedures, the right questions to ask your dentist and the criteria for judging the quality of care provided.

Only with this knowledge can we, as good consumers, be truly prepared to play an active role in acquiring proper care. When it comes to something very impor-

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat-Magnet' Diet Pill Gives You Steady Fat Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" to help you steadily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods as long as you don't increase your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire.

It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patents pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles from food that you have just eaten. Then, the trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Pills Go To Work"

The fat-magnet pills alone, "automatically" help reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat, with no exercising. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals. However, you can lose weight "faster" if you choose to follow the fat-magnet diet plan along with the pills.

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with record sales and glowing reports of weight loss. It's a "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public

If you need to lose a large or small amount of weight, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills and diet plan (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. ## Official presents new idea

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Tarrant County commissioner says one way to get the 441 convicted felons that are awaiting transfer to the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville would be to march them there.

County Commissioner Bob Hampton and other county officials said Thursday they want to get the 441 prisoners on their way to the state prison to make room for more prisoners in the Tarrant County Jail.

TDC officials have had to curtail admission of new prisoners from time-to-time in order to comply with court orders concerning prison population. This has resulted in overcrowding at county jails across the state.

Hampton says marching the prisoners the approximately 180 miles to Huntsville would be one way to cut down on the jail population and give the prisoners some exercise at the same time.

"Since the sheriff only has one 48-passenger bus, I'm going to propose we march them down there," Hampton said. He said it's the state's responsibility to house convicted felons and he's tired of local taxpayers footing the bill to house them locally.

"I am deadly serious," Hampton said. "I'm not calling for the Bataan death march or anything like that, but these people are the responsibility of the state and we need to get that message across."

"We're not talking about running out of bed space (in the jail), we're talking about running out of floor space," Hampton added.

County Judge Roy English has not rejected the idea.

"We may be very close to having to close our jail," English said. He said continuing to house state prisoners could result in a 33-percent tax increase locally.

Other commissioners contacted by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram indicated they were not opposed to the idea of the march to Huntsville.

Kadar acknowledges economic woes

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Communist Party leader Janos Kadar Friday said the party was responsible for Hungary's economic crisis but criticized what he said were attempts to undermine the party's control of the country.

In a speech opening the first national party conference in 31 years, Kadar acknowledged Hungary's deep economic and social crisis and said party delegates should "renew and rejuvenate" the party leadership.

The conference delegates will consider changes in Hungary's leadership, including the possible replacement of Kadar.

Kadar, 75, made no direct reference to speculation he will relinquish the party leadership he has held since 1956. He mounted a strong attack on reformers who want to see sweeping political and economic change.

"The party condemns independent efforts, even by well-intentioned people, to weaken the party and youth movements," Kadar noted, alluding to the formation last week of communist Hungary's first independent trade union and recent efforts to set up an unofficial democratic youth group.

"The party will not give way to hostile actions challenging the social order," Kadar said in his address, which was carried by state-run media.

He said the party's task is to create socialism that involves more democracy, but rejected what he called "efforts to create a bourgeois democracy, or anarchy."

Some party members say political reforms Kadar has proposed, including provisions for secret ballots, limited terms of office for party officials and multi-candidate elections, do not go far enough.

A gross foreign debt of more than $17 billion and growing inflation led Hungary's leaders this year to impose Eastern Europe's first personal income and value added taxes.

Meanwhile, an opposition confederation called on the Communist Party to end its political monopoly, reinstitute parliamentary rule and freedom of the press and lift state controls on the economy.

The recently formed Network of Free Initiatives, which comprises environmental, political, youth and other independent groups, released its manifesto Thursday at a news conference.

Hospital board bans almost all abortions

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A county hospital board has voted to ban elective abortions at the county-owned hospital, which is suffering a nursing shortage that has prompted the diversion of some emergency patients to private hospitals.

The Tarrant County Hospital Board voted 5-4 Thursday to prohibit elective abortions at John Peter Smith Hospital. The institution will perform abortions only if a mother's life is endangered or her pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

The hospital policy earlier allowed purely elective abortions but stipulated no tax money could be used to pay for them.

Some JPS nurses in recent months refused to assist with abortions, forcing the hospital to perform fewer and refer some patients requesting abortions to clinics.

Nurses, doctors and support personnel have the right, through a 1977 state law, to refuse to perform abortions.

Officials of JPS will continue to contract the services of outpatient clinics if the nursing shortage prevents the hospital from performing abortions, as outlined in its new policy.

The hospital board also implemented a procedure to give private facilities more notice before JPS diverts critically ill patients to their emergency rooms.

An official of Tarrant County Rape Crisis, however, said paperwork required in the new policy will intimidate victims of rape or incest who want abortions.

"The medical community is overstepping its bounds," said Linda Braswell, agency executive director. "Having all of these other qualifications are barriers to a service."

A rape victim requesting an abortion must provide a written statement under oath giving the time, date and place of the rape and the name of the attacker, if known.

"Sometimes, it's dangerous for a woman to do that," she said.

Labor sometimes goes at a leisurely pace in a Chinese factory, since all workers receive the same basic wage and find that earning a bonus can bring envy and even wrath from co-workers.

The museum in Mao Zedong's birthplace in Shaoshan, China, omits any mention of the Cultural Revolution or the Red Guards, and a recent visitor was unable to buy a picture of the late dictator or any of his writings, says National Geographic.

6 charged with conspiring to steal from armored cars

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Six armored car guards and drivers have been charged with conspiring to steal money from cash shipments being sent to the Federal Reserve Bank branch, authorities said.

Although federal officials declined to say how much was believed to be stolen, they said the six were working for Brinks Inc. during the nine-month period that $25,000 was reported missing from the Federal Reserve branch downtown.

The six were named in a sealed indictment returned by a federal grand jury Wednesday.

Two of the six charged with conspiracy — Minerva Charles, 27, and Arnold Anthony Valdez, 31, were in federal custody late Thursday after appearing before U.S. Magistrate Robert O'Connor, who set bonds at $30,000 each.

The other four remained at large late Thursday, Steve Beauchamp, assistant special agent-in-charge of U.S. Secret Service, said arrests are expected within a few days.

Beauchamp said the indictment was the result of a six-month investigation into reports that about $25,000 was missing from the Federal Reserve Bank branch.

He said the conspiracy ran from April of last year until January of this year, and that the money believed stolen was being delivered from banks throughout San Antonio.

A Brinks spokesman also declined to say much about the case but confirmed that the six named in the indictment no longer work for the company.

Although officials believe the conspiracy may have resulted in the theft of thousands of dollars, the indictment, unsealed Thursday, refers to only one specific theft.

Hardesty blames his firing on politics

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) — Fired Southwest Texas State University President Robert L. Hardesty blamed "pure partisan politics" for his dismissal and said a board member appointed by Gov. Bill Clements was responsible.

The Texas State University System board voted 5-4 on Thursday to oust Hardesty after seven years as president of the San Marcos school, saying it took the action because of a philosophical difference on the administration of the school.

"I can only assume it was pure partisan politics, especially since the newest member of the board, Bill Worth of San Antonio, a Clements appointee, was sworn in" on Thursday, Hardesty said.

"He wasn't sworn in till (Thursday) afternoon. He'd never met me and never been on my campus, yet he voted without hesitation to fire me. I think that's a strange coincidence," Hardesty said.

Board chairman Ruben M. Escobedo of San Antonio said the dismissal was not based on allegations of impropriety, but on a philosophical difference on the administration of SWT.

James Huffines, the governor's appointments secretary, Friday denied that politics had anything to do with Hardesty's firing.

Clements has made three appointments to the nine-member board. "We only have a third of the appointees. That's an important fact to remember in these discussions," Huffines said.

Huffines said no pressure was placed on appointees, nor were they asked by Clements if they were willing to fire Hardesty. "We don't ask for those kinds of commitments (when making appointments). That would be inappropriate," he said.

The dismissal is effective June 30.

Regents appointed SWT Executive Vice President Michael Abbott, 43, as interim president. Abbott joined SWT about 12 years ago as director of planning and analysis.

Hardesty said he was fired because of his friendship with former Gov. Mark White. Hardesty said board members had "politicized our education system," and had previously accused him of writing speeches for White.

"They (board members) claim in previous conversations that I am too political. I have not in any way politicized this campus," said Hardesty.

"I've written messages to the Legislature and speeches on higher education (for White) but I have never written a campaign speech for him," said Hardesty, who once worked as a speechwriter for President Lyndon B. Johnson.

White also said that Hardesty has not written any speeches for him since he left office.

Escobedo and Regent Norman Elder of Del Rio, a Clements appointee, asked him to resign a half-hour before Thursday's vote, but Hardesty said he declined.

Hardesty was appointed SWT president in September 1981 at the age of 50 while working as vice chancellor at the University of Texas System.

The student body has grown from about 16,000 to more than 20,000 students during his tenure.

Student and faculty leaders said they were surprised by the firing.

Hardesty was a White House speech writer under Johnson and was later on the staff of former Gov. Dolph Briscoe. He supported White during his campaign against Clements and his wife served as White's press secretary when he was attorney general.

Citizens vote is planned on Alamodome referendum

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Voters will get to decide on the controversial Alamodome referendum, but city officials have yet to determine which of two funding options will be placed on the ballot in January.

City Council approved the referendum measure by a 7-3 vote, despite the insistence of Councilwoman Helen Dutmer that she wants the voters to say whether they want the dome at all.

The council told city staffers to begin planning for a binding referendum Jan. 21.

If a feasibility study shows public-private funding is not viable, the council could change course and put a previous proposal — a five-year, half-cent increase in the VIA Metropolitan Transit sales tax — up for a vote.

Mrs. Dutmer has vowed to press for a referendum on the issue of whether voters want the proposed $158 million, 65,000-seat stadium.

Some stadium opponents say the tax money should be used for basic services, while proponents say the facility would help attract more conventions and, possibly, a National Football League franchise to the city.

"One thing is clear. There will not be a stadium in San Antonio without an election," Mayor Henry Cisneros said.

He predicted a referendum on the public-private approach will pass and said he could not imagine voters rejecting a proposal for $120 million in outside capital being injected into the city's economy.

Tips are given for collecting

NEW YORK (AP) — "The U.S. Customs Service defines a genuine antique as any object that is at least 100 years old. But, to many, it also is any item that is the first of its kind," say collectible experts Ralph and Terry Kovel.

The Kovels, in Family Circle magazine, offer some tips for collectors.

—Buy because you like it, not because it is a "good investment."

—The best time to buy an antique is when you see it. You rarely get a second chance.

—The less you know about antiques, the more you must trust your dealer so don't be afraid to ask questions.

—Look carefully at anything that seems too great a bargain — it might be damaged or a reproduction.

—Collect, don't hoard. Be sure you have room for the objects you covet.

Louisiana entered the Union as the 18th state in 1812.

Use, Don't Lose, Your Head Whenever Lightning Strikes

DEAR ABBY: I'm 30 years old now, but when I was a teen-ager in Kansas, I read a column you wrote about what to do if you're ever caught in a storm with lightning striking all around you. If you can find it, please give it another run. It really helped me.

STILL LIVING IN KANSAS

DEAR STILL: It ran in May 1979, and it's still helpful!

DEAR READERS: No problems today. Instead, I am devoting my entire column to tips that could save your life.

Let's pretend you're a contestant on "Hollywood Squares," and you are asked the following question:

"More people are killed every year by (a) tornadoes, (b) cyclones, (c) lightning."

If you said "lightning," you would be right.

The National Weather Service says that most deaths caused by lightning could have been avoided if only common sense had been used. But common sense is not as common as most people think it is.

Lightning occurs during thunderstorms, so the logical time to start protecting yourself is when you see the storm clouds gathering.

As a general rule, avoid high places, metal and water!

If you are outdoors, seek shelter in a house or other large building. (Steer clear of sheds or small buildings in isolated areas.)

If you are on the golf course and can't reach a building, first drop your golf club, then head for your car — assuming the car is not a convertible, it will act as a "cage" to protect you. (The metal picks up the lightning, conducts it around you and into the ground.) Stay in the car. Keep windows and doors (and sun roof) shut.

Never stand under a tall tree. If lightning strikes the tree, electricity can run down the trunk, through the roots into the ground and into your body.

If you are riding a motorcycle, bicycle or tractor — get off. The rubber tires will NOT protect you.

If you are caught in a flat, open field, bend down and put your hands on your knees. Do not LIE down on the ground. Maintain MINIMUM contact with the ground.

If you are inside, close windows and doors. Lightning can strike through an open window.

Don't take a bath during a thunderstorm. If electricity strikes the plumbing system, it can be conducted into the tub.

Don't use the telephone unless it is absolutely necessary. Electricity can travel through the telephone wires.

If you are jogging, stop and get out of the wide-open spaces or you can run into trouble. You are far safer indoors as long as the doors and windows are closed. Most deaths and injuries from lightning occur outdoors; almost half of all people killed by lightning are engaged in outdoor recreation.

Don't rely on rubber-soled shoes to protect you. Lightning can carry a jolt of up to 100 million volts. Rubber soles are insignificant as an insulator.

It's also not true that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The conditions that attract the lightning bolt in the first place can attract it again.

Have a safe summer.

Love, ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have two questions I've always wanted to know the answers to, but nobody seems to know, so I'm asking you:

(1) What is the last name of Prince Charles and Princess Diana? (2) Will Princess Diana ever become queen of England?

I hope my letter makes your column, as I'm sure there are many others who are dying to know.

JUST ME IN ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.

DEAR JUST: Prince Charles

does not have a last name, but he is from "The House of Windsor." (No prince of royal blood who is in line for the throne has a last name. Charles signed his wedding registry as "Charles" — nothing more.)

If and when Charles becomes king, Princess Diana will be given the courtesy title of "queen consort." She will never be the "queen regnant" (the ruling queen) as is her mother-in-law, Elizabeth II, who became queen at the age of 25 on the death of her father, George VI, in 1952.

This may be more than you wanted to know, but at least your questions have been answered.

DEAR ABBY: I found a folded piece of paper in my husband's wallet. It had an address, phone number and name of a girl he works with.

When I asked him about it, he said he didn't remember writing it, and doesn't know how it got in his wallet.

What do you recommend, before I load my shotgun?

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Forget the shotgun and consider the evidence — circumstantial as it may be.

Now I'll tell you what NOT to do. Don't yell and scream and tear up the scenery. Wait for a quiet time when you can have a calm discussion. It may be nothing serious. If it were, he'd have her telephone number memorized. If you feel your marriage is seriously threatened, you should both see a counselor. If he won't go with you — go alone.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if second-hand tobacco smoke affects animals? If it's hazardous to the health of humans, it's probably bad for animals, too. I doubt if anything can be done about this legally — but morally, people should consider how secondhand smoke can affect the life span of their pets. I would be sad to learn that my smoking caused the early death of my dog, and I'm sure other people feel the same.

ROBERT J. DMUCHOWSKI, BETHPAGE, N.Y.

DEAR MR. DMUCHOWSKI: That secondhand smoke might harm a dog has never occurred to me. Of course it's cruel to subject an animal to that which might be hazardous to its health — but if smokers don't consider their spouses and children, they're not likely to be concerned about a pet.

***

DEAR ABBY: "Young Teacher" is concerned about paying future adults to get to school on time and have a good attendance record. It reminds me of that old question: "Do you reward your child for being good, or is he good for nothing?"

ALSO CONCERNED IN MARYLAND

***

CONFIDENTIAL TO KERRY D. IN GREAT FALLS, MONT. It was Lord Chesterfield who supposedly said regarding sex: "The price is preposterous, the pleasure is transitory and the position is ridiculous."

***

Above the Fold

By Donny Brown

Graduation ceremonies--invariably accompanied and simultaneously described by that dreadful title "Pomp and Circumstance"--should be rescheduled.

In fact, we'd suggest Labor Day weekend at the end of summer instead of Memorial Day at the beginning.

This does not mean we should have extra months of school. Instead, when the final grade is posted, graduating seniors should be allowed to get the heck out of Dodge.

And this freedom should be minus the solemnous robes, the funny flat hats and all that "Pomp and Circumstance."

The reason is this: Mature adults--typified this time of year by proud parents and relieved school administrators--expect seniors to take graduation seriously.

When, in fact, a "serious occasion" calling for long speeches and some form of social order is about as far away from a graduating senior's mind as is his Social Security check.

What do they want to do with their life? They want to ROCK!

SDN Opinion Page

Editorials-Columns-Cartoons-Kid Stuff-Look Back-Letters

Good grief, they've just finished 13 years (counting kindergarten) of formal education. They have been subjected to sitting on wooden seats--something most mature adults wouldn't attempt without a localized anesthetic--for up to six one-hour periods a day.

They have been told to keep their eyes forward and their mouths shut. And denied these simple pleasures of human contact, they have been told to hit the books with a force not unlike the Saragosa tornado.

And when it is all over, these longtime prisoners are marched once again into the stale air of a confined meeting room and are asked to sit and to listen. They are told how to live a life on the one night they feel, if left alone by bothersome mature adults, they could wrap it up complete in the next 24 hours.

We say postpone the pomp and circumstance and, instead, let loose all of that newfound freedom. Then, when the shiny has worn off, let's call our newest citizens of the world back together in September for their formal graduation rites.

Because, after three months of freedom, that youthful assurance that everything is going to be wonderful after high school has most likely peaked. At least subsided enough to let a few words sink in of some trite but true wisdom.

As the summer's sunshine gives way to fall's dying of the light, let's gather the Class of 1988 back to their campus at a time when next year's graduating class will be readying for their senior year.

The band will be outside for early marching drills and, at the practice field, coaches' whistles will signal a new football season.

In that melancholy early fall, let's tell the Class of 1988 this: "Folks, high school is over and you can never go back. What you do now and in the years ahead you will either benefit from or suffer because of for the rest of your life. If you're going to get a job, get a good one. If you're going to go to school, get with it and stay there."

Words similar to this may be spoken at graduation rites this coming week, and they won't be any more original three months from now than they are today.

But, the trick isn't in the advice. The trick is listening to it.

Country Life By Deanie Francis Mills

I got properly scolded by my husband the other day for not writing about more country themes in my "Country Life" column. "People like to reminisce about how it was when they lived in the country," he said, "or identify with it now. You've been writing about all kinds of stuff that doesn't have anything to do with that. Folks are going to stop reading your column altogether."

To which I replied, in a somewhat miffed tone, "Oh yeah? Well, what would YOU write about, then?"

And he said, in a typically Aggie way, "I dunno."

So I went out on a sulky-walk. I've been doing that since I was a kid and we lived in a suburban housing development on the outskirts of town, right on the edge of a cotton field. There was even a little thicket of woods nearby. As far as I was concerned, that was country living. My, I did some great sulking out there. Just ask my mother.

I tried to get some privacy out in the barn, sitting on a sawhorse, but have you ever tried to do that with 19 barn cats rubbing up against you? Every time we get a new litter, the kids make it their Life's Work to tame and gentle the kittens, and they all grow up to be Garfields.

We have three horses. Sox is the boss-horse to Buck and Gebo. Gebo is full of mischief all the time. I once saw him pick up a cat by the scruff of its neck and drop it straight into the water trough. Anyway, Sox picks on Buck and Gebo all the time. I wandered over to Sox's stall, and his feed trough was FULL of horse manure!! Now, who do you think did that? It sure wasn't Sox. TELL ME horses don't know what they're doing.

Anyway, I figured that was a good mess for my husband to clean up and continued on my sulky-walk across the pasture. Not many wildflowers this year. Last year the air was perfumed with them. I took a city friend horseback riding, knowing she'd been under a lot of stress from a recent divorce and longing for her to drink in the peace as we do. Straightaway she took off at a dead run, and by the time I caught up to her, she was smoking a cigarette, chewing gum, talking, and drinking a beer. Horseback. I made her get rid of the cigarette and the beer, but I don't think she ever did get the POINT.

It's happened before, with city visitors. I once took a friend from Natchez, Miss. riding across golden pastures in the sweet evening by-and-by. The woman opened her mouth in the barn and didn't shut it for two hours. All the time we climbed scenic canyons and descended into green valleys, she talked. I don't think she noticed anything. By the time we got back, I was raggedy, and she said, "It's so peaceful here."

There's an art to country living. You don't just pick up your town ways and plop them down out in a rural area. You slow down. You turn off the TV and the radio. You listen. You sniff. You watch. You feel for the rhythms of the earth. You take your horse at a walk or a slow, easy trot. You think. You dream. Even when you're working your butt off on some project, you never stop dreaming.

It gets into your blood. It makes you strong.

By the time I got back, the nighthawks were swoop-whooshing past the safety light, which had just clicked on in the dusk. The Bobwhites were settling down and the cats were beginning to prowl. Sox had been fed and didn't seem the worse for wear. He flicked his tail and dozed. There was absolute silence. Not a car, not a tractor. Only silence.

I stood for a long time, listening, and when I could no longer remember why I'd left in the first place, I went into the house.

SDN Week in Review

SUNDAY May 15

A change in what is considered a "full-time" employee at Cogdell Memorial Hospital has been approved and a solution to the facility's weekend physician staffing in the ER has been reached, it was reported Sunday.

Board members approved a change in how full-time employees are categorized, to include nurses whose 12-hour shift schedules were causing them to be excluded from full-time status.

Regarding the ER staffing, it was reported that a physicians' group, Emergicare of Abilene, has agreed in a verbal contract to staff the hospital's emergency room on weekends from June 1 through Aug. 31.

In what Snyder administrators believe is a local first, students here in grades 3, 5, 7 and 9 scored higher percentages on this year's TEAMS tests in each of three test areas and at every grade level, it was reported Sunday.

Results of the Texas Education Assessment of Minimum Skills were profiled. Students are tested in the areas of mathematics, reading and writing.

MONDAY May 16

The nomination of Steve Carriker (D-Roby) as the Democratic candidate for Ray Farabee's senate seat for the moment clears the Democratic side of the ballot in the 78th District representative race involving Republican candidate and ex-Snyder mayor Rod Waller, it was reported Monday.

Carriker indicated, however, that his party remains "strongly committed to offering the voters a choice" and that party leaders are now mapping out a legal strategy to determine how to place a second Democratic candidate on the November ballot to oppose Waller.

An expanded tax base is helping, but Snyder's 1 percent sales tax return also appears to be running ahead of last year at this time without the added taxable services, it was reported Monday.

The latest report, reflecting sales made in March, shows the local return at a plus 9.6 percent for the year-to-date and a plus 10.7 percent for the month.

In Snyder, the 1 percent sales tax generated $75,488. For the same monthly period last year, $67,374 was returned. The year-to-date figure now totals $316,571 as compared to $288,742 last year.

After two decades in the Texas Attorney General's office and five years of owning a sporting goods store in Austin, Snyder native Marvin Sentell has returned to his hometown to open a law practice.

Sentell, 56, graduated from Texas Tech University with a finance degree in 1952, earned his law degree at the University of Texas in 1955. Will Wilson was the first attorney general he worked for, beginning in 1959.

TUESDAY May 17

Reports indicate Steve Carriker (D-Roby) and Bobby Albert (R-Wichita Falls) will face their first test in August before a final showdown in November to determine who holds the 30th Senatorial District seat after Jan. 1, 1989, it was reported Tuesday.

Both candidates said they would begin campaigning immediately for the Aug. 13 special election to fill the remainder of Senator Ray Farabee's term.

The fifth graduating class for Century II: Leadership Scurry County received plaques and certificates Tuesday following the regular May meeting of Snyder Chamber of Commerce directors.

Those honored included Darryl Calley, Wesley Mark Estes, Will Evans, Jack Gorman Jr., Rick Hall, Tommy Bryan McKinley, Shawn Ragland, Randy Rinker, Linda Schwarz, Joan Tate, Annette Williams, Ted Winters and Nona Bunch.

WEDNESDAY May 18

The grand opening for the Snyder branch office of Olney Savings was held Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The new 5,000 sq. ft. structure, complete with two outside drive-in windows, was officially opened for business on April 11. Olney Savings acquired the S&L in May of 1986. Its offices were formerly located on the west side of the downtown square.

The price per barrel of oil estimate--a critical factor in the formula used to figure Scurry County's mineral values--will once again drop next tax year, but is expected to increase by a 5 percent margin over the next eight.

For next year, however, the price drop coupled with the expected and irreversible trend of declining production figures will mean most Snyder-based taxing entities can expect an erosion of the tax base from 13 to 16 percent.

These facts were reported Wednesday by the oil valuation firm contracted by the Scurry County Appraisal District.

FRIDAY May 20

A National Guard recruiter has been assigned to Snyder and Big Spring in an attempt to help double the size of both units, it was reported Friday.

Sgt. Harold Hancock, a former Marine who served two tours of duty in Vietnam, has been re-assigned here from Wichita Falls.

Scattered thunderstorms dropped varying amounts of rain in Scurry County Thursday night and the immediate forecast called for more rain with a 50 percent chance listed for the Snyder area Friday night.

The city of Snyder received an official total of 1.07 inches.

Friday marked the uniform delayed planting date for Scurry County cotton farmers.

SDN Letters to the Editor

To the editor,
I am writing concerning regulating smoking in Snyder. I do not believe the newspaper clearly defined what I presented to the city council.

I stated that concerned citizens of Snyder wanted designated places in public buildings for smokers so that non-smokers can be free from the hazardous effects of smoking.

The surgeon general came out with a report in 1986 that the health of the passive smoker is affected by the smoker in the vicinity and can cause lung cancer. The reason I gave to the council about smoking near grocery produce was the problem of sanitation.

Most of the northeastern states have not allowed smoking in grocery stores because of sanitation for a number of years. People who oppose this ordinance say we are taking away the smoker's rights. That is not true, but what about the non-smoker's rights?

When a smoker's action physically harms another person, whose rights have been violated?

It is time for the non-smokers to speak up. We have been standing by passively inhaling a poisonous alkaloid long enough. Non-smokers, join me at the city council meeting, June 6th at 6:30 p.m., and be recognized.

Remember how one woman went to the Supreme Court and took away our right of prayer in schools. We did not speak up and we are paying for it today.

Do you want Snyder to be a progressive city like Lubbock, Abilene, Dallas and other cities around Texas? They all have smoking ordinances. We cannot remain silent any longer. NOW is the time.

Armenians want public trials They Serve

MOSCOW (AP) — A group of Armenians demonstrated outside the Soviet Supreme Court Friday to demand that defendants charged in ethnic rioting that killed 32 people be judged in public trials shown on nationwide television.

Uniformed and plainclothes police lined the sidewalk in front of the six-story building in central Moscow, but did not interfere with about 30 demonstrators who held signs and stood on the other side of the street, which was closed to traffic because of repaving.

Armenian painter Koryun Nagapityan, 60, said the group assembled to protest official handling of judicial proceedings now taking place in the Azerbaijani city of Sumgait, where the rioting broke out Feb. 28.

Of the 32 people killed in the ethnic unrest, 26 were Armenians and six were Azeris, according to official Soviet media. Azeris are the dominant ethnic group in Azerbaijan.

Armenian activists have said bands of Azeris hunted down and killed Armenians in the industrial city on the Caspian Sea about 20 miles north of Baku. The disturbances were touched off by a bitter territorial dispute between Azerbaijan and the neighboring Soviet republic of Armenia. Armenians want a region of Azerbaijan with a large Armenian population to become part of Armenia.

Nagapityan said he would present a declaration to the Supreme Court from unions representing Armenian artists, writers and other creative workers that called for "full openness" in criminal proceedings brought against more than 80 people in the rioting.

On Monday, an Azerbaijani metalworker, Talekh Salekh Oglu Ismailov, was found guilty of premeditated murder in the rioting and given the maximum sentence of 15 years. Ismailov was the first person convicted for taking part in the unrest.

Seven of the demonstrators unrolled paper signs that protested the official handling of the trials. Some placards read: "Recognize the fact of Armenian genocide in Sumgait," "Strictly punish the organizers of the Sumgait slaughter," and "We know the names of 50 victims of the Sumgait slaughter."

Some Armenian activists say the death toll in Sumgait could be as high as 75.

The declaration from the Armenian unions, which Nagapityan read to reporters clustered around him on the sidewalk, demanded that two or three Armenians be allowed to attend the Sumgait trials as observers, that proceedings not be left in the hands of Azerbaijani authorities, that the names of the dead and missing in Sumgait be published, and that the trials be carried live on state-run television.

One middle-aged Russian woman who said she was married to an Azeri argued briefly with the demonstrators. She said she disagreed with their version of the events in Sumgait, but she soon left.

The Sumgait disorders were sparked by a massive campaign in Armenia for annexation of the Nagorno-Karabakh region of Azerbaijan. Most of the small, mountainous region's population is Armenian, and the annexation proponents contended their Christian nationality was repressed by the minority Azeris, most of whom are Moslem.

The Soviet government has rejected the demand.

Stubborn grass fire razes homes and chars grassland

PALO PINTO, Texas (AP) — A range fire fanned by gusty winds burned through more than 5,000 acres near Possum Kingdom Lake, destroying 13 cabins and three other dwellings before it was extinguished.

The blaze, which cut a mile-wide swath through rugged ranchland, was contained Thursday afternoon by firefighters from six communities.

"We really didn't know what we had lost because it was such a wall of fire," said Tom Ranst, chief of the Possum Kingdom Lake Volunteer Fire Department.

Flames began last weekend at Sportsman's World, a real estate development on the lake's southwest shores. The fire crossed a tree-studded section of the lake to the north shore and continued burning, said T.L. Slimp, Sportsman's World fire chief.

"Cedar trees, when they explode, are just like kerosene," Slimp said. "We saw flames 70 feet high, and a house, trailer and log home burned on our side of the lake."

Slimp said when the fire spread to the north shore, it burned 14 more dwellings.

Several firefighters were overcome by fumes and exhaustion, and some had to flee into the lake waters when flames approached, but no other injuries were reported, said Slimp.

The cause of the fire, which began at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, was still under investigation and damage estimates were not available, he said. The lake level has been low while crews made repairs to a dam on the Brazos

River. "The fire has been burning in all directions," said Slimp. "High winds have made it unreal this week."

The flames, moving northward, briefly threatened a condominium development near Bluff Creek Marina before crews constructed a firebreak. Slimp said firefighters had been hampered by power outages and loss of water pressure.

Firefighters with 12 trucks were dispatched from Palo Pinto, 20 miles to the southeast, and from the communities of Santo and Graford, Jack, Young, Palo Pinto and Parker counties and the Possum Kingdom department.

Palo Pinto is about 60 miles west of Fort Worth.

Authorities say mother killed two children

GAINESVILLE, Texas (AP) — A woman who pawned her diamond rings to buy a handgun fatally shot herself and her two children after mailing a letter to her parents that led police to the crime.

"It was kind of an apology — an after-the-fact letter," Justice of the Peace Bill Freeman said. Its contents were not immediately released, but Freeman said the letter gave no explanation for the killings.

The shootings occurred shortly after Sharon Wilson's estranged husband arrived to take his children to school, but was turned away by his daughter who said they were ill, police said.

Authorities on Thursday found the bodies of Mrs. Wilson, her son, Kevin Paul Wilson, 13, and daughter Jacqueline Rose Wilson, 8 all lying in beds in their Gainesville home. Each had apparently been shot once in the head, and the woman still clutched a pistol in her hand, authorities said.

Freeman tentatively ruled the deaths a double-homicide and suicide pending autopsy results.

Gainesville Police Lt. Richard Schlaudroff said the bodies of Mrs. Wilson and her daughter were both found in the woman's bed and the boy's body was found lying in another bed.

Have physician check vertebra

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is an unstable vertebra?

DEAR READER: An unstable vertebra is a doughnut-shaped bone in the back (or neck) that is not securely attached to the bones above and below it. Ordinarily, most vertebrae are firmly anchored to their neighbors. They become unstable as the result of a major accident or from the normal, progressive slippage that comes with age as our tissues and ligaments lose their elasticity. They also are caused by inherited weaknesses.

However, the usual term "unstable vertebra" refers to an uncommon post-traumatic condition that requires therapy or attention from a neurosurgeon. The normal crackles and pops made by our moving spinal columns do not indicate instability. Before you accept the diagnosis of "unstable vertebra," make sure that it is given by a qualified M.D., not by a non-medical practitioner.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I need to have a tooth pulled and will have gas to put me to sleep. What are my chances of dying?

DEAR READER: Several types of inhalational anesthesia can be used during tooth extraction; therefore, the word "gas" is a very general one. Your dentist may choose to give you nitrous oxide to dull the pain without putting you to sleep, or he may prefer a general anesthetic if the surgical procedure is difficult and particularly uncomfortable.

With appropriate backup systems, as are found in most hospitals, your chances of a serious anesthetic reaction are slim. However, the risks depend on the type of anesthetic used, the depth of anesthesia and the skill of the operator.

I suggest that you discuss your concerns with your dentist before undergoing surgery. This way, you can learn more about the procedure, its risks and complications; in other words, you need to give informed consent for tooth extraction, as well as for any surgical procedure. To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had acrylic nails put on. Then my girlfriend told me it wasn't healthy to keep the nail from breathing. What do you think?

DEAR READER: Nails do not need to "breathe" in the way that other body tissues, such as skin, do. I think that your new acrylic nails are safe.

Common sense and cholesterol

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

The 1980s have become the Cholesterol Decade. Studies concerning high blood cholesterol are poking up their heads like crocuses pushing through the snow of an early spring landscape. Everyone is talking, thinking — and worrying — about cholesterol.

Beef producers are publicly debating pork processors about which meat is lower in fat. The staple U.S. breakfast of eggs, bacon and buttered toast is being viewed as no better than gastronomic toxic waste. Cautious consumers are reading labels with a frantic urgency usually reserved for the operating instructions of a microwave oven.

At the epicenter of this dietary earthquake are The Experts. Usually, they are members of a Committee. This Committee is programmed to issue Guidelines. This translates into defining appropriate behavior for the millions of citizens who pay attention to this sort of thing. Judging from the rash of experts and the eruption of committees, we had better start paying attention.

For example, the National Cholesterol Education Program has been quite strident in its recommendations; it has urged diet therapy for half the U.S. population and drug treatment for about 35 percent. The no-holds-barred NCEP guidelines are: Adults with plasma cholesterol of less than 200 milligrams per deciliter need have blood-fat determinations only at five-year intervals; those with levels of 200 to 239 mg/dl should modify their diets and be checked annually; adults with levels exceeding 240 mg/dl should have yearly lipoprotein (LDL, the bad cholesterol) checked; those with LDL values above 190 mg/dl should get drug treatment. As a rule of thumb, young adults (in their 20s) should have cholesterol levels below 200; people in their 30s, below 220 and adults in their 40s, below 240.

Clearly, cholesterol-lowering efforts are beneficial to health. Studies have proved that each 1 percent fall in total blood cholesterol leads to a 2 percent reduction in risk of heart attack and, in some cases, the seriousness and frequency of repeated attacks. The question is: What's the most sensible way of approaching the problem: diet or drugs? How much of each?

Down the block, equally renowned experts are openly questioning whether the cholesterol brouhaha has gone too far. Dr. Scott Grundy of the University of Texas remarked that "the whole concept of using drugs for long-term primary prevention of coronary heart disease, when the risk ratio is increased only two or three times above baseline, is questionable." In fact, it requires a leap of faith. Do the risks of drugs justify their use in millions of patients?

Other doctors are concerned that sweeping dietary alterations may adversely affect patients' quality of life without achieving much real change. These physicians point to several factors that complicate the high-cholesterol/heart-disease ratio.

One: Scientists have not developed definite limits for normal cholesterol levels in people over 50. Researchers have thus far failed to discover cholesterol risk factors for older adults, despite the fact that heart disease is common in this age group. I have many healthy 60- and 70-year-old patients with "high" cholesterol; I advise them to lower their levels, but I base my advice more on common sense than on sound scientific data.

Two: All cholesterol-lowering drugs have side effects. These effects, including liver damage, are often serious. Because most of the drugs have not been in use for very many years, doctors are not absolutely certain of their long-term safety.

Three: There is little consistency in the way laboratories measure cholesterol. Different labs use different methods that are not always compatible with one another. In addition, laboratory error may contribute to unreliability. In 1985, the College of American Pathologists sent portions of a single blood sample (containing 263 mg/dl of cholesterol) to 5,000 laboratories. The results were shocking; values varied from 101 to 525 mg/dl. This five-fold error rate raises the issue of whether lab accuracy is too inconsistent to be of practical benefit. Can we trust the numbers?

At present, we must await further scientific documentation that aggressive management of high serum cholesterol pays dividends. Until that proof is forthcoming, we should behave sensibly by lowering dietary fat, exercising more, losing weight as needed, stopping smoking, following our doctor's advice — and wondering if cholesterol itself is the culprit at all, or whether it is simply a biochemical marker for a heart-disease gene that has yet to be discovered.

What is cholesterol and how can it be controlled? For more information, write for Dr. Gott's new Health Report, "Understanding Cholesterol." Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Enrollment in primary and secondary schools in all Latin American countries has increased dramatically since 1950, says the Inter-American Development Bank. Combined enrollment jumped 6.8 times between 1950 and 1985, from 13 million, to 89 million. This, while the population aged 6 to 18 increased from 46 to 117 million.

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Presidential candidate Carlos Salinas de Gortari proposes to open Mexico to foreign investment, loosen state restrictions on the nation's economy and guide Mexico into the battle for "the international markets."

Salinas de Gortari, nominee of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party and the man most likely to succeed President Miguel de la Madrid, chose this conservative city of industrialists, near the home of his family, to outline Thursday evening an economic policy for a new administration.

The candidate said Mexico "would grow again" and promised "permanent solutions" free of "irresponsible formulas of confrontation or passing effectiveness" in dealing with Mexico's foreign creditors.

Mexico's foreign debt stands at about $100 billion, the second highest in the developing world after Brazil.

The country has been meeting payments on its foreign loans, and it has built up a record amount of foreign reserves.

Mexico has negotiated with its creditors for easier terms on the debt and is currently seeking ways to ease the payment burden even more.

Salinas de Gortari warned that the nation's economic growth will have priority over payments. "If we fail to grow because of the burden of the debt, we will not pay," he said.

The candidate spoke before hundreds of Nuevo Leon state businessmen gathered for the occasion by the ruling party, known by its Spanish initials as the PRI.

He was cheered as he spoke of curtailing government controls, reducing budget deficits and letting private business invest in such areas as telecommunications, petrochemicals and other fields previously reserved to state investments only.

"We will consolidate the opening of our markets and we will promote foreign investment," he said.

"The opening of our economy to the foreign competition," he said, "is an irreversible fact ... foreign investments must play a more positive role contributing to the creation of jobs, to technological modernization and the opening of foreign markets."

"The government cannot spend more than it takes in," he said, stressing the need to eliminate subsidies and to exercise "financial discipline" to make economic growth possible again.

Salinas de Gortari said the time was past in Mexico when the state was "the only instrument for the solution of each and every problem of the economy and society."

He called on all sectors of society to "assume responsibility ... if we want an efficient economy and a democratically strong government."

The speech was well-received by the Monterrey business executives, traditionally opposed to the centralization of the economy and tight controls of previous PRI administrations.

The government this year has managed to reduce the inflation rate by persuading labor unions and private businesses to sign a "solidarity pact" that has put a lid on prices and wages in recent months.

Newspaper publishes accusatory list, photographs

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — A pro-government newspaper published photographs of U.S. Embassy employees and their families so that Panamanians will "know the Gringos who are starving us to death."

The supplement in the newspaper Critica, a propaganda organ of the government, said the Americans "think the walls of their embassy are impregnable."

U.S. Embassy spokesman said it was a significant escalation of what they called a harassment campaign by Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, who is chief of the 15,000-member Panamanian Defense Forces and controls the civilian government.

"We take this seriously," embassy spokesman Terence Kneebone said in a telephone interview Thursday.

Noriega has been indicted on drug-trafficking charges in the United States and the Reagan administration has imposed severe economic sanctions on Panama in an effort to make him resign.

Failed thrift's liquidator sues Houston S&L

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP)—The amount of money that can be recovered by depositors stranded by the closure of uninsured Rio Grande Savings and Loan Association hinges on a lawsuit and tentative buyout agreement by a San Antonio thrift.

But a leader of the more than 6,000 depositors who haven't seen their money for more than a year said he worries that depositors may not get all of their money back.

The state-appointed liquidator for the uninsured Rio Grande Savings and Loan Association of Harlingen filed an $18 million lawsuit Thursday against Houston-based Champion Savings Association, alleging that Champion "defrauded and looted Rio Grande of its valuable assets."

Jorge A. Gutierrez, who last month was named liquidating agent for Rio Grande, also announced Thursday that a purchase agreement had been reached between Rio Grande and CitiSavings and Loan Association of San Antonio.

Gutierrez said CitiSavings had agreed to a complicated $38 million transaction in which the San Antonio institution would buy Rio Grande's assets subject to tax and accounting opinions and regulatory approval.

The first phase of the deal would sell all of Rio Grande's assets, including property and loans, to CitiSavings for $20 million, with 80 percent paid in cash and 20 percent in preferred stock.

"If they're getting all that, they're getting too good of a bargain," said H.W. Bahman, leader of a depositors' group, who questioned whether Rio Grande should sell its income-producing loans at a discount.

Bahman said he and other depositor leaders planned a meeting with Gutierrez to see how the depositors would fare.

The liquidator's job is to make the most of the assets, sell them off and eventually distribute the funds to the depositors.

Rio Grande was closed by the Texas Savings and Loan Department on May 12, 1987, and all deposits were frozen. It was the only thrift in the state not insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. The thrift had about $75 million in deposits.

Part of the agreement with CitiSavings is contingent upon the lawsuit filed Thursday against Champion, in which Gutierrez is trying to recover an $18 million loan portfolio the suit accuses the Houston institution of fraudulently acquiring from Rio Grande.

The 37-page lawsuit, filed in state district court in Brownsville, names as defendants Champion Savings Association, Chairman Ronald A. Piperi and two subsidiary companies: Orange Service Corp. Inc. and Gulf Coast Investment Corp.

It alleges conspiracy to defraud, fraud, fraudulent transfer, interference with the management of Rio Grande and civil conspiracy to so interfere, and breach of contract.

Piperi and others named in the suit could not be reached for comment.

Champion formerly was named First Savings Association of Orange.

The suit alleges Piperi used Rio Grande to bolster control over Orange.

It accuses Piperi of promising in June 1986 that the struggling Rio Grande would be purchased for at least $5 million, a figure far in excess of the then-true value of the owners' interest in Rio Grande.

The suit contends that Piperi, in an effort to improve the appearance of his company's books by June 30, 1986, the end of his company's fiscal year, used Rio Grande as a means to refinance loans that nine businesses or individuals owed to Orange.
