Ruling to cut

jail time

Local man's writ upheld

A decision by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday in Austin will apparently cut short the prison sentence of a Scurry County man whose probation was revoked in January of 1987 in connection with a shooting death here in 1980.

The court upheld a legal contention filed by Donnie Durst, who was originally given a 10year probated sentence by a 132nd District Court jury in September of 1981.

Durst was tried in connection with the shotgun shooting death of Billy Norris Cobb, which occurred at a cafe in the area known as the flats on Nov. 28,

He was indicted for murder on Dec. 1, 1980, and brought to trail here on Sept. 21, 1981.

After several days of testimony, the jury found Durst guilty of the lesser charge of voluntary manslaughter.

Testimony indicated Durst's brother had been wounded by Cobb several months earlier in a separate incident.

Durst's 10-year probation was revoked in January of 1987 due to alleged violations of possession and discharging a firearm. This revocation was appealed and he began actually serving time with the Texas Department of Corrections in late November of 1987.

He subsequently filed a writ of habeas corpus relating to his 1981 sentence, citing changes in the law in connection with his original sentence.

Since his 1981 trial, the Texas court of appeals has changed the law when lesser offenses of voluntary manslaughter are the

If this is the jury's finding, their verdict must specify a deadly weapon was used if the defendant is to be required to serve "straight time" or at least onethird of his original sentence.

If the verdict does not include the deadly weapon stipulation, the defendant can have "good time" served in the penitentiary credited against his sentence. This can reduce the time spent in prison to as little as one-tenth of the original sentence.

The appeals court, in its recent decision, found that Durst's jury did not specify the deadly weapon provision.

Not too far away, in El Paso, a woman opened a business called Foot Rub Inn. It was her intent, she claims, to massage tired feet of anybody who wanted their feet rubbed.

The El Paso city council frowned on the new business venture, passing an ordinance that prohibited persons from massaging the feet of the opposite sex.

The ordinance was really on the books to regulate activities in generic massage parlors and Turkish baths. The city council had reason to believe that a massage by someone of the opposite sex might result in some immoral hanky

The border city council listened to all the agruments and amended the massage ordinance to accomodate Foot Rub Inn.

Now it's legal for someone of the opposite sex to give a massage-but only if it's from the ankles

Skipper may lose his boat

HOMER, Alaska (AP) - Instead of mending nets and readying his boat for the salmon season, fisherman Kevin Hogan spends these days gathering petitions, worrying and pondering bankruptcy.

Hogan, 36, got a costly, firsthand look at the federal government's "zero tolerance" antidrug program on May 11, when Customs Service agents seized his new $140,000 fishing boat after allegedly finding 17 grams of marijuana in a crewman's jacket.

Today, the lanky, bespectacled boat owner is caught in a standoff with Customs officials, one he says could cost him everything he's worked for in the past 15 years and is particularly annoying because of his reputation as an opponent of drugs and alcohol in the fishing industry.

I stand to lose it all in this his tin-sided home on a hillside above Homer "Everything, all $400,000 of my net worth.

Under the Reagan administration's "zero tolerance" policy, Customs and Coast Guard of ficers have seized boats and ar rested people for even tiny amounts of illegal drugs found during searches

The policy initially was applied in international waters, but after an uproar over the seizure of the $2.5 million yacht Ark Royal, on which less than a teaspoon of marijuana was found in international waters, the administration decided to apply the policy outside the 12 mile territorrial limit only to suspected drug smugglers.

Customs officials acknowledge that Hogan knew nothing of the marijuana aboard his vessel, the Hold Tight, but refuse to relinquish it until Hogan pays a $10,000 fine and fires the crewman, who is also his nephew Minh Van Le.

Camp Springs homecoming set

The Camp Springs homecoming is set for Sunday at the Northeast Community Center. A covered dish dinner is planned with paper products and ice to be furnished

All interested people are cordially invited to attend the festivities from about 9 a.m. to 4 managing the intermediate cards in your hand and in dummy, is often the key to success in the play. Note declarer's approach in today's aggressive four-heart contract.

After originally making a one-heart overcall, South doubled three clubs to suggest competing in spades rather than letting the opponents freely play three clubs. (If North were to bid three diamonds, South would bid three hearts.) North-South eventually reached four hearts. North had the right fillers, but declarer had to play carefully and catch a bit of luck. Declarer ruffed the second round of clubs low and led the heart 10 from his hand. When West showed out, the queen was played from dummy. East won and played another club. Declarer ruffed with the nine and got to dummy with the diamond king to play the seven of hearts. Whether or not East covered the seven with the jack, declarer would pick up the trump suit and play A-Q of spades. East would win the king and (here's where luck comes in) have to play back either a spade or a diamond. Either way declarer would take the rest to make four hearts. None of this could have happened if declarer had played his other low heart to dummy at the third trick. He also had to ruff the third club with either the eight or the nine to preserve later communications for picking up East's heart jack.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) -Negotiations between Dallas The event was originally slated Cowboys majority owner H.R. Bum" Bright and billionaire Marvin Davis have stopped and the sale of the NFL team to the. Los Angeles oilman now appears in doubt, the Fort Worth Star-

The newspaper quoted a source with knowledge of the negotiations as saying that Davis had not contacted Bright or anyone else with the National Football League club in nearly a month.

That has led Bright to believe that Davis no longer is interested in purchasing the Cowboys and Texas Stadium Corp., the source

"When you've gone this long without hearing from someone, typically that means the deal is dead and you don't worry about it any more," the source said. "I think that is Bum's stance now."

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said he would never use the word "dead" to describe any negotiations. But Schramm did say that to his knowledge the discussions between Bright and Davis have stopped.

"They certainly aren't crashing ahead," Schramm said. "I think the lines of communication are still open, but nobody is calling.

Pistons nip Boston in overtime, 101-96

BOSTON (AP) - The cold-shooting Boston Celtics are struggling to find the basket. Isiah Thomas and Adrian Dantley can show them where it is.

The Detroit duo's marksmanship and Boston's off-target tosses have put the Pistons a victory away from the NBA championship.

Boston, which has reached the final in each of the last four seasons, won't get there this season unless it wins on the road Friday night and at home Sunday when a seventh game will be played, if necessary. With Thomas scoring 35 points and Dantley adding 18. Detroit overcame a 16-point deficit and beat Boston 102-96 in overtime Wednesday night to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final.

"It could have been our biggest win, but we have a lot of hard work ahead of us" Pistons' center Bill Laimbeer said.

With Boston leading 70-61. Detroit scored the next 14 points to go ahead 75-70 with 9:25 left in the fourth quarter. Thomas took four shots in that stretch and made them all. 'I said, 'if we're going to lose, I'm going to go down shooting, said Thomas, who had 29 points after halftime.

With Boston leading 94-92 on Dennis Johnson's layup with 3:52 left in overtime. Dantley made a free throw with 3:37 to go and a three-point play that gave the Pistons the lead for good. 96-94. with 2:52 remaining. On both plays he was guarded by Fred Roberts. who took over when Kevin McHale fouled out with 1:59 left in the fourth quarter.

'We wanted the ball in his (Dantley's) hands down the stretch because he had Roberts on him and we knew he could get to the basket." Detroit Coach Chuck Daly said.

Thomas hit two free throws and a layup, making the score 100-94 with 1:17 to go. Boston came no closer than four points thereafter.

The Pistons, who broke a 21-game losing streak in Boston in the series opener, have won two of three games there in the series The Celtics lost nine straight at the Pontiac Silverdome before winning Game 4 Monday. The home team won all seven games in last year's conference final between the same teams

"No matter where we play, we have to play better than we've been playing." Boston guard Jim Paxson said.
The Celtics led the NBA with a 52.1 field goal percentage during.

the regular season but suddenly can't shoot straight They have made 41.8 percent of their shots in the Detroit series and sank 37.5 percent Wednesday night. In the third and fourth quarters and overtime. Boston hit 12 field goals in 48 attempts. In that same span. Thomas hit 11 of 20 shots by himself. Boston was ahead 68-56 when it went cold

After Larry Bird made a layup with $54 left in the third quarter, the Celtics missed their next 12 shots and went 8:49 between field goals while Detroit was building a 77-73 lead 'It's getting to the point right now where we're wondering what the hell's wrong with the offense." said McHale, who scored 26 points for Boston.

'Everybody is missing at the same time." said Bird, who led Boston with 27 points but hit only 9 of his 25 shots Until Roberts' field goal with 1:10 left in the fourth quarter sent the game into overtime tied 92-92, only four Celtics had scored Starting guard Danny Ainge played 47 minutes but missed all six of his shots and was held scoreless

Soviet nudged into talking of past taboos by reporters

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev, prodded by Soviet journalists at his first Moscow news conference, touched on subjects once taboo — past Kremlin intransigence at arms control talks and the pain endured by mothers of Soviet boys missing in action from the Afghanistan war.

Gorbachev's meeting with the local press on Wednesday was an illustration of the effects of "glasnost," or openment, on the state-run media, which have traditionally served to embrace official policy and spread it to the masses.

Soviet newspapers and the journalists who work for them are far from challengers or adversaries of the Kremlin leadership. But Gorbachev's encouragement of the Soviet press to take a closer look at the nation's problems, in hopes of speeding their resolution, has taken hold and changed the relationship between the press and the leadership it serves

Gorbachev misunderstood a question by USA magazine's Valentin Berezhkov, a former diplomat and U.S. affairs expert whose experience dates back to the leadership of dictator Josef V. Stalin. Berezhkov served as a translator at the 1945 Yalta con-

"I tried during my latest meeting with media represen-tatives to talk about the power of conservatives," Gorbachev began, but was interrupted with a whisper from Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

"You mean you're talking not about our conservatives, but THEIR conservatives?" Gorbachev asked Berezhkov, prompting laughter throughout the auditorium.

Melor Sturua, an Izvestia correspondent who reported from Washington until he was expelled in 1983 in a tit-for-tat exchange, acknowledged in his question that the verification issues being considered by the Geneva arms negotiators were initially hampered by the Soviet side.

Gorbachev agreed with his assessment, and went on to criticize the current problems as a result of American stubbornness, but qualified his remarks by warning listeners not to "spoil your impressions" of the summit's overall success.

The Soviet leader declared the press session — the first such meeting here approximating a White House press conference a useful event, hinting that other exchanges could be offered in the future.

Kennedy family disturbed but resigned to plan

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says his family is disturbed by the decision to establish a museum in the Dallas building from which Lee Harvey Oswald is believed to have shot President John F. Ken-

However, Kennedy, D-Mass., said family members will not try to block the opening of the $3.5 million exhibit on his brother's 1963 assassination.

"The family has taken the position that the only memorial should be the Kennedy Library (in Boston), with its outreach capabilities in terms of inspiring people to service," Kennedy said Wednesday. The Dallas museum is expected to open by Nov. 22, the 25th anniversary of the assassination.

Organizers say the museum will allow the thousands of tourists who visit the site to have access to the former Texas School Book Depository building.

Organizer Conover Hunt described the exhibit as "lowkey" and said it will not contain 'violent or gruesome artifacts.

The sixth-floor corner window from which Oswald was believed to have fired the shots will be inaccessable, but visitors will be able to see it through a glass partition, Hunt said.

Without as much as a flicker of discomfort, Gorbachev responded with the sincerity of a concerned father that "we will do everything so that our people

Family and friends kept allnight vigils as they waited for the latest word on Wednesday's disaster, which officials at-tributed to a methane gas buildup.

Mayor Bernd Hessler said he did not believe survivors would be found because oxygen had probably run out for the miners the blast caught 330 feet below ground.

Erwin Braun, head of the Hesse state mining board, told reporters today that the explosion was caused by a methane gas buildup and said he feared none of the 57 miners who were underground during the blast had survived.

"Rescue work is being hindered by heavy damage, and rescue teams can proceed only with oxygen masks," he said, explaining that there was still the

in the mine.

Braun said carbon monoxide levels inside the mine had receded, but were still severe.

Some of the dead were found with their miners' breathing masks on, he said, which means they survived the blast and ap-parently ran out of air. The breathing devices provide about three hours' of oxygen.

Other miners were killed by the explosion itself and will be hard to identify because of the extent of their injuries, Braun said. The blast blew the roofs off at least three work buildings at the mine, knocked down sheds and shattered windows Eight miners on the surface were critically injured by flying debris.

'My son Dieter is down there. He's been a miner for 20 years,' said Werner Henke, an elderly man who was waiting overnight at his son's house.

In a building not far from the mine shaft, wives and other relatives of the missing workers were consoling each other, but

Two men, 20 and 29, were taker into custody for public intoxication at 12:19 p.m. Wednesday in the 1100 Block of 31st St., and a 22-year-old man was arrested on the same charge at 12:51 a.m. Thursday at a U.S. 84 truckstop.

Two fire calls answered here

Firemen answered two fire calls Wednesday, one to a grass fire 10 miles southwest of Snyder and the second to an electric transformer at 30th St. and Ave.

The 5:37 p.m. call to an oil lease on property owned by Neil Rinehart kept firemen busy for 11/2 hours, during which time about two acres were charred. The cause was not known.

An 8:42 p.m. report of "fire coming out of the transformer and down the line" occupied firemen for 40 minutes as they notified TU Electric and stood by while the problem, reportedly a short, was dealt with.

About 30 rescuers worked inside the mine through the night. lundreds of others worked under floodlights above ground, pump-ing fresh air into the shaft and acting as support for the rescue

Mest of the miners in the shaft at the time of the blast were in their 30s and 40s and some of them were Turks, officials said.

Satterwhite was convicted and sentenced to die for the March 12, 1979, slaying of Mary Frances Davis, a San Antonio convenience store clerk But his death sentence was overturned by the Supreme Court on Tuesday because he was not allowed to visit with a lawyer before taking a psychiatric test.

William Harris, the Bexar County assistant district at torney who handled Satter: white's case, said Wednesday he was disappointed in the high court ruling but defended the procedures used in the investigation.

MOSCOW (AP) Reagan has "learned to roll with the punches" when dealing with the uncertainties of meeting Raisa Gorbachev and has achieved more balance in their relationship, the first lady's spokeswoman says.

The clear impression left after the two strong willed women squared off in a Soviet art gallery Wednesday was that Mrs. Reagan has become far more assertive in dealing with the outspoken Soviet first lady

For the first time, Mrs. Reagan acknowledged during a tour of the Tretyakov Gallery's icons that the frosty relationship, the focus of months of intense media serutiny, is real.

"A Mexican standoff," the first lady said with a shrug, when asked how the relationship stood.

Elaine Crispen, the first lady's press secretary, later observed, They are from two totally different worlds.

Under a veneer of politeness, the two first ladies engaged in an intense competition for the spettight.

'I want to say something. I want to say something now, OK?" Mrs. Reagan insisted sharply one point as Mrs. Gorbachev attempted to stop reporters from questioning the American first lady.

Mrs. Gorbachev backed away, but pointedly looked at her watch as the first lady chatted with members of the White House press corps.
When Mrs. Gorbachev tried to break in again and start the gallery tour. Mrs. Reagan rebuff-ed her and returned to her conversation with reporters.

On the surface, things were pleasant enough, but the delicate-by arched eyebrows and strained smiles told a far different story.

Instead of strolling hand-in-hand as they had at events earlier this week, the two women apparently had decided to show more of their true feelings.

Analysis: Gorbachev heard what he wanted to hear

MOSCOW (AP) - Perhaps the most important thing Ronald Reagan gave Mikhail Gorbachev this summit was the statement that he no longer thinks the Soviet Union is "an évil empire."

As a bonus, to Gorbachev's delight, the renunciation came "within the walls of the Kremlin, next to the czar's gun.

Reagan's characterization of this vast communist nation in a March 1983 speech unleashed a torrent of comment in the Soviet media at the time, the start of a deep freeze in superpower relations symbolized by the break off of Geneva arms talks in Novemberthal year.

In a nation that craves international respect, Reagan's criticism was taken as an intensely personal slight.

His retraction of the comment in remarks Tuesday to reporters at the Kremlin was duly remark: ed upon by Gorbachev at an unprecedented Moscow news conference on Wednesday == a session televised across the Soviet Union, with excerpts repeated on the evening news.

"Within the walls of the Kremlin, next to the ezar's gun, right in the heart of the evil empire," Gorbachev beamed, Reagan had responded "No" when asked if the Soviet Union still deserved the appellation.

"We take note of this," added Gorbachev, speaking not just for himself, but for the communist leadership of a nation of 280 million people

It was just weeks after Reagan branded the Soviet Union an "evil empire" that the Soviets aunched one of their most ambitious efforts to counteract what they see as malicious American propaganda about a nation of which they are raised to feel supremely proud.

On April 25, 1983, then Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov invited Maine schoolgirl Samantha Smith to visit his country and see for herself that his people do not want war.

In July, Samantha, then 11, came to Moscow and was given a topflight tour of the Soviet Union.

Loaded down with 17 suitcases of presents from Soviets who warmed to her bright smile, Samantha left Moscow and delivered the judgment Moscow wanted to hear - that the Soviets ''are almost just like Americans.

Similar, but less lavish, efforts are expended when American peace groups visit the Soviet Union.

In January 1985, arms control talks resumed again. In March 1985, Gorbachev came to power, promoting "new thinking" in foreign policy and doing a rapid image makeover on Kremlin politicians.

For example, decreased mental acuity can result from vitamin deficiency, underactive thyroid states and certain commonly used drugs such as anti-hypertensive medicine and sedatives. technical standpoint, a hypass graft could theoretically pull loise. I have never heard of this complication since the graft carries a major new shood supply to a damaged organ, a graft blowout would be incompatible with life, the ensuing internal hemor-rhage would be fatal.

The most common problem with grafts is reocclusion. That is, the aging process continues and unless the patient afters his lifestyle to minimise arteriosclerotic buildup, the grafts will become plugged

I cannot say whether or not you needed the original graft. This is a decision best made by the doctors caring for you. However, I believe that graft failure does not reffect on the necessity of the graft Some patients who needed grafts experience graft failure, other patients, who drift's need them, do not Therefore, without further information, I would have to content in the patients. clude that your present attuation — which is really quite unclear — does not prove that you could have avoided

I might add one point. The fact that your graft malfunctioned and you are still alive raises the possibility that your condition could be controlled with medicine. Therefore, before consenting to fur ther surgery, ask your dector about drug therapy or one of the less rasky procedures to open chagged arteries, such as battoon an graphanty or laser treatment.
