

Proposed ISD tax hike totals 6 cents

No pay raises slated, but 'bonus' concept pondered

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor
Snyder school board members essentially completed budget planning for next school year Wednesday in a session that saw the likelihood of a school staffer pay raise abandoned while some type of "bonus"—possibly at Christmas—was placed under consideration.

The bonus plan arose toward the end of the 3½-hour meeting and was viewed as a method of rewarding school personnel for "under spending" funds in the current school year. School officials estimate as much as $600,000 might be left unspent when the current budget year ends Sept. 30. If any bonus was ultimately approved—and trustees indicated this would depend on several still undetermined factors to include state funding for the school year—the indication was it would be a portion of the carried forward funds. The total budget amount now stands at just over $12 million, an approximate $300,000 reduction from last year. While operating expenses were cut, however a declining local tax base would still require an increased tax rate—although not as major a change as experienced since the dramatic downturn in the price of oil two years ago. The current operating estimate includes a proposed tax rate of 99 cents per $100 valuation. For property valued at $50,000, this would mean a school tax bill of $495, some $30 more than last year which included a rate of 93 cents. While approximately a 6.4 percent increase in taxes, the amount of tax dollars flowing into the district would actually decrease by approximately 1 percent. After experiencing a tax base decline of more than 10 percent, the district's proposed rate of 99 cents per $100 valuation would generate some $8.4 million in local ad valorem taxes. Last year's school budget had $8.5 million in revenue from local taxes. To generate that amount, See SCHOOL, page 9

Tornadoes hit Denver area

DENVER (AP) — Cleanup operations were under way today in the wake of six tornadoes that touched down Wednesday in the Denver area and one that touched down north of Fort Collins near the Anheuser-Busch brewery. In Denver, the tornadoes caused property damage and minor injuries, but failed to create the devastation of the 1981 tornado in

Thornton. The metro-area tornadoes touched down near Barr Lake, at Rocky Mountain Arsenal, at Broadway and Interstate 25, at 17th Avenue and Monaco Parkway, at Evans Avenue and Broadway, and between Evans Avenue and Dartmouth Street off Platte River Road, according to the National Weather Service. A couple of those tornadoes overtaken vehicles in busy traffic areas during rush hour. The Larimer County Sheriff's office said there were no reports of damage from the tornado near Fort Collins. On Wednesday, decades-old trees were uprooted, bringing down power lines and blocking traffic at East 17th Avenue and Monaco Parkway.

TICKET PUSH — Ticket sales are now being encouraged here for the July 2 community prayer breakfast which will feature an address by Baylor head coach Grant Teaff. Civic clubs are sponsoring the event with ticket sales set to end June 25. Representatives of the various clubs gathered Wednesday to promote the event. They include, from left, Danny Engle, Jaycees, Debra Cheyne, Kiwanianes, Ralph Williamson, Rotary, Mike Banta and Glen Butler, Kiwanis Club, David Kattes, Lions Club, J.B. Tate Sr., and John Covey, Golden K Kiwanis. (SDN Staff Photo)

Worker's injuries denied

Jury here says not work-related

A 132nd District Court jury deliberated three hours Wednesday morning and afternoon before determining that the arthritis-related injuries of a local man were not job-related and that he should not receive a settlement.

The trial was prompted by a workman's compensation claim made against an Austin-based insurance company. Juan S. Duran, 47, of Snyder had claimed that injuries to his knee, back, neck and shoulders were aggravated because of his employment at a former Snyder industrial cleaning business.

He said these physical problems culminated with a traumatic injury to his knee as he was pushing a cart on April 13, 1987.

Attorney Pete McKinney of Abilene, representing Liberty Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Austin, argued that Duran's arthritis was degenerative, rather than traumatic, and was not the responsibility of his former employer, Dickie's Work Clothes Rental.

The cleaning operations at Dickie's were closed here this past fall when they were moved to two other Dickie's owned plants in Abilene and Odessa.

The jury was out from 10:55 a.m. to 2:55 p.m., with an hour for lunch, after having been seated Monday.

It ruled that Duran, who was represented by attorney Aubrey L. Roberts of Sweetwater, should receive nothing from the insurance company.

The jury was seated in 132nd District Court Monday.

A. Yes. The group previously held its statewide rally here in 1978.

In Brief

Stop convoy

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Members of a convoy vowed to take their fight to Washington after federal officials at the border blocked their mission to bring humanitarian aid to Nicaragua.

The Veterans' Peace Convoy to Nicaragua changed course and headed north out of Laredo about 5 p.m. Wednesday, stopping overnight near a campsite west of Austin.

"We're pretty strong in our desire to take it to Washington," Hal Muskat, a convoy member from San Francisco, said this morning from the Alma de Mujer campground.

One charged

WINDCREST, Texas (AP) — An ousted chapter president of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers was charged in the shooting death of a 26-year-old advertising sales executive at the radio station where she worked.

Bill Mixon, 47, removed earlier this year as head of the local arm of the anti-drunk driving group, remained in Bexar County Jail late Wednesday on a murder charge and criminal mischief warrant in lieu of bonds totaling $100,000.

J. Anna Tebbis, who worked for KSMG-FM, was shot in her throat in a first-floor women's restroom of the building housing the radio station in Windcrest, a suburb adjacent to northeast San Antonio.

Bomb kills 6

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb planted in a British army van while six soldiers ran a half-marathon killed them and injured to civilians in the worst Irish Republican Army attack in Northern Ireland in seven months.

The bombing Wednesday night in Lisburn, seven miles southwest of Belfast, brought this year's death toll from sectarian violence to 38, eight this week alone.

Heat wave

by The Associated Press
A heat wave baking much of the Northeast and Midwest persisted into its fourth day today, aggravating a severe drought. Five tornadoes, meanwhile, spun through Colorado hurling vehicles through the air and injuring seven people.

Temperatures today were again expected to zoom into the 90s from southern New England across eastern Virginia as far south as the Gulf coast and as far west as Montana.

Weather

Snyder: Temperatures: High: Wednesday, 92 degrees; low: 62 degrees; rising at 7 a.m. Thursday, 64 degrees. 0.1 of an inch precipitation. Total precipitation for 1988 to date, 5.51 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight, isolated evening thundershowers with a low in mid 60s. Chance of rain less than 20 percent. South wind 5 to 10 mph. Friday, decreasing cloudiness and warmer with a high in lower 90s. Southeast wind 5 to 10 mph.

Prayer breakfast ticket cutoff announced

The cutoff for ticket sales for the July 2 community prayer breakfast, featuring an appearance by Snyder native and Baylor head football coach Grant Teaff, will be June 25.

Planners for the event announced the cutoff date Wednesday.

set for 7 a.m. July 2, a Saturday.

In addition to the address by Teaff, a well-known motivational speaker, Snyder churches will recognize lay leaders and youth leaders from the various congregations.

Local civic clubs are sponsoring the breakfast to include

Lions, Kiwanis, Jaycees, Rotary, Kiwanianes and the Golden K Kiwanis.

The tickets are priced at $5. They are being offered at Snyder financial institutions, at various businesses and from civic club members.

BCD updates involve TDC, AJRA planning

Updates on activity related to the Texas Department of Corrections prison unit and the upcoming AJRA National Finals Rodeo were offered to members of the Board of County Development Wednesday.

BCD members were told that a Chamber of Commerce employee hired in January will be primarily concerned with aiding the settling of construction workers, TDC employees and other persons who will be involved in the construction phase.

Chamber manager Bill Moss told BCD members that Sally Lake was hired chiefly to help with the TDC project and will be working this summer as the main part of the project begins and construction workers move in.

In relation to the AJRA, board members Jack Smartt, Max von Roeder and Eddie Johnson heard a report that the cost of the 60-second spot to be aired during the rodeo telecast here in August has been negotiated down by Moss.

He quoted the expense from a possible $2,500 to $1,500, with the cost to be shared by the BCD and the city, through its hotel-motel tax.

The board members also discussed the BCD's 1988-89 budget and whether or not an increase should be sought from the county commissioner's court because of the increased industrial activity associated with the TDC project.

Moss noted that the group's current budget is for $42,650, with $42,919 in projected revenues of a $269 surplus.

Board members Jack Denman and Bill Parker were absent.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Everyone wants to be noticed, but nobody wants to be watched."

From time to time there are interviews with folks who have lived long and sometimes eventful lives. What attributed to the long life is a standard question.

A recent TV interview of such a fellow reminded us of our first opportunity to interview someone who had reached 100 years old.

The old feller seemed perfectly contented with life. He was happy, carefree and unworried. He was asked about his formula for a happy life. "Yep," replied the centenarian, "Whenever I have to walk, I walk slow. Whenever I have to sit, I sit loose. And whenever I have to worry about something, I just goes to sleep."

A recent survey shows that Tuesday is the best day of the week to get any work done. Tuesday a survey of employers reveals, is the most productive day for employees.

The next best day is Wednesday. People who study such things say that Tuesday is a marginally better day than Wednesday because people are still enjoying the relaxing effects of the weekend.

Thursday and Monday are not up to par with Tuesday and Wednesday standards because folks start anticipating the weekend on Thursday. On Monday, they are not over the impact of the weekend.

But the same study shows that Friday is the worst day for productivity since small details are often overlooked on Friday with most minds on plans for Saturday and Sunday.

One might draw several conclusions from this, but only an employer would suggest that everybody work on Saturday to improve productivity on Friday.

A guy in the coffee shop commented on those cross-country vacations trapped inside a vehicle with his wife.

"Togetherness is like perfume. A certain amount can delight you, but you can enjoy too much of a good thing."

Baptists affirm 'literal hell'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — People lacking commitment to Jesus will be consigned to hell, Southern Baptists declared, while moderates marched to the Alamo and tore up a resolution they said meant a denominational dictatorship.

"Some believe that hell is not a reality, and its corollary, that all people will eventually be saved," said a resolution approved Wednesday by the nation's largest Protestant denomination at its annual convention.

"We affirm our belief in the biblical truth that those without a personal commitment to Jesus Christ will be consigned to a literal hell, the place of everlasting separation from God."

The resolution was one of several approved as the annual meeting of 32,600 "messengers," as the delegates are known, neared its close today.

With the fundamentalist wing predominating, the convention also limited the historic Protestant concept of the equality of lay and clergy.

That view, expressed in the phrase "priesthood of the believer," was a key concept of the 16th century Reformation, which rejected the clerical domination in the Roman Catholic Church.

The convention said the concept "in no way contradicts" the "authority of the pastor which is seen in the command to the local church in Hebrews 13:17, 'Obey your leaders, and submit to them.'"

After the resolution was approved by a two-thirds vote sharply divided between moderates and fundamentalists, about 200 moderates staged a protest march to the Alamo, the cradle of Texas liberty.

There they ripped up copies of the resolution and denounced it as heresy and a betrayal of Protestant heritage.

"This cuts at the soul of what Baptist congregations are all about," said the Rev. Basden Lolley, driven from the presidency of Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary by fundamentalist-imposed controls on choosing faculty.

The resolution states that "misunderstanding and abuse" of the egalitarian doctrine has led to a mistaken attitude that a "Christian may believe what he so chooses and still be considered a loyal Southern Baptist."

It also has been used in "undermining of pastoral authority," but does not contravene the "responsibility and authority of the pastor," the resolution said.

Moderates shouted from the floor during the tumultuous debate that the resolution was akin to a "papal system" of clerical control and violated Jesus' teaching that ministers were to be servants, not masters.

"What it's talking about is denominational dictatorship," said the Rev. Buckner Fanning of San Antonio. "It says the only way to lead is by blind obedience."

Being saved from it "comes only by repentance, regeneration through faith in Jesus Christ," the resolution said. "No one is saved apart from that transforming experience."

The resolution, approved overwhelmingly, represents no change in doctrine by the 14.7 million member denomination. But it was unusual since the subject of hell is rarely discussed in most mainstream pulpits or by church conventions because so little is concluded about it.

It also seemed to reflect the fundamentalist position that non-Christians must be brought to Christ or be condemned to hell, a thesis that has not been advanced by mainline churches in modern times.

A regional interfaith director for the Southern Baptist missions board in New Jersey was ousted earlier this year by fundamentalist pressure because he held that God's covenant with Jews remains permanent and valid.

Fundamentalists have held the presidency of the Southern Baptist Convention for nine years. They maintained their grip with the election Tuesday of another fundamentalist, the Rev. Jerry Vines of Jacksonville, Fla., who narrowly defeated the moderate candidate, the Rev. Richard Jackson of Phoenix, Ariz., for the one-year term.

Through presidential appointive powers, fundamentalists have brought the vast network of denominational operations under their control.

Texas Democrats rallying in support of House Speaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Democratic party leaders say House Speaker Jim Wright can count on them for wholehearted support when he speaks at their state convention in Houston.

The support comes despite a pending House ethics investigation and questions from at least some party supporters about whether Wright should keep his role as chairman of the party's national convention.

"We don't even acknowledge he has a problem," Texas Democratic chairman Bob Slagle said Wednesday. "To perceive there is something sleazy about Jim Wright is a crock. He's our fellow Texan and we're proud."

November, it will be a big part of the political dialogue.

But the activist added, "You won't see anybody running away from Jim Wright."

The Texas activist said he expects Wright's defenders to build their case around the fact that the allegations were made by the Republicans to counter the investigation of Attorney General Edwin Meese and embarrass the speaker in Atlanta.

"Will it cost you votes in the fall?" the activist asked. "Probably not. But it has taken a lot of the momentum out of the issue of improprieties in the Reagan administration."

Millie Bruner, a Democratic National Committee member from Dallas, said that if the House investigation drags on, it could put a cloud over the convention.

"But it's not hurting us in Texas and it sure ain't going to hurt him in his district," she said.

But Wright and others say they are not going to change plans for him to serve as chairman of the July 18-21 convention.

"No one has suggested that to me," Wright said when asked about stepping down as convention chairman. "Being chairman of that convention is not the most important job I have; my most important duty is as speaker of the House."

But some of his backers concede that the inquiry could be a problem for the party when Wright, of Fort Worth, presides over the Democratic National Convention next month in Atlanta.

President Reagan Wednesday called for a special prosecutor to handle the Wright case.

"It can't be helpful," said Rep. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, D-Texas, himself the subject of a 1983 ethics investigation. "Nothing like this can be helpful. It gives opponents something to talk about."

"I think it's a problem," a Texas Democratic activist who asked not to be named, said. "He's suddenly been lumped into the category with all this Reagan mischief. Between now and Let me add that the primary cause of emphysema and chronic obstructive pulmonary disease — cigarette smoking — is preventable. If fewer people smoked, the incidence of lung disorders would drastically fall. Although this fact may not help patients with severe emphysema, younger people should consider it.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Your column on strep throat might have added: Throw away your toothbrush after each illness. It can harbor germs.

DEAR READER: I never thought about that, but it makes sense. Thanks for your suggestion.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My understanding is that there is no known cause or cure for vitiligo. Is this correct? Mine has spread all over my body.

DEAR READER: Vitiligo consists of patchy loss of the skin's pigmentation. Although the cause in most cases is unknown, some forms of vitiligo are inherited. Because the skin disorder accompanies certain autoimmune diseases — such as Addison's disease and pernicious anemia — experts presume that it could be due to an immunological abnormality or self-allergy.

Treatment is directed primarily toward preventing cosmetic disfigurement. Cosmetic creams can be used to camouflage affected areas. Tanning lotions, such as Dr.-O.-Berm, which do not wipe off on clothing, are helpful. Recently, drugs called psoralens, when combined with ultraviolet light, have been shown to be effective in repigmenting vitiliginous skin, but results vary. Patients with vitiligo do not tan naturally, so they must be particularly careful of sunlight.

Lung transplants may have future

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have severe emphysema and read with interest about heart-lung transplants. If doctors can transplant heart and lung together, why can't they just do lungs?

DEAR READER: They probably could — and, someday, will. However, the technique is very difficult. I'm told that it's technically easier to transplant the heart and lungs on bloc, rather than the lungs separately. Nonetheless, at the rate transplant technology is progressing, I wouldn't be surprised to learn that lung trans-

Sex Is a 'River of Fire' Flowing Through History

By Abigail Van Buren
 © 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The phenomenal rise of sexually transmitted diseases over the last two decades, and the advent of AIDS, can largely be attributed to the decline of the family and the sexual liberation movement's abandonment of traditional values.

The observation of historians Will and Ariel Durant in their book "The Lessons of History" (1968) is prophetic:

"May I please have your number?" the caller says. "He has it." "Abby, nine times out of 10, my boss does not have it, and I end up having to look it up, which can be a hassle. It would be so much easier if the caller would just give me his (or her) number. Please print this. Maybe the guilty ones will be a little more considerate."

OLIVIA

"No one man, however brilliant or well-informed, can come in one lifetime to such fullness of understanding as to safely judge and dismiss customs or institutions of his society, for these are the wisdom of the generations after centuries of experiment in the laboratory of history. A youth boiling with hormones will wonder why he should not give full freedom to his sexual desires; and if he's unchecked by custom, morals or laws, he may ruin his life before he matures sufficiently to understand that sex is a river of fire that must be banked and cooled by a hundred restraints if it is not to consume in chaos both the individual and the group."

Please comment.
 CONTEMPORARY SCHOLAR

DEAR OLIVIA: As one of the "guilty ones," I thank you.

DEAR SCHOLAR: The above mentioned "youth," boiling with hormones, can be a male or female. And in the absence of restraints, let us pray that where self-control is lacking, there will be birth control.

I am reminded of the statement made by the late Lord Brain, the British obstetrician and gynecologist who headed the birth control movement in Great Britain: "When, wherever you live in the world, you can have children only when you wish, that will be a revolution with more far-reaching effects on the pattern of human culture than the discovery of atomic energy."

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor in our subdivision has been doing me the "favor" of retrieving my mail from my mailbox and bringing it to my door! I would accept it as a kindly gesture if it didn't always occur when there is an obvious change in our home routine — such as when we have company, or she is curious about our family activities. I understand she has done this to other neighbors, too.

There is nothing in my mail that would embarrass me, but I feel that my privacy is being invaded. This neighbor's children have also brought our mail to us on occasion, and I fear that an important letter or bill could be lost in the process.

I do not wish to confront this neighbor personally, as she has contact with many neighbors and I would hate to get on her blacklist.

Please comment on what she is doing. A mention in your column would be great.

LEAVE MY MAIL ALONE

DEAR LEAVE: It is a federal offense to remove mail from a mailbox other than your own. Leave a note to that effect in your mailbox where she will be sure to see it.

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, getting along with their peers, and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send your name and address, clearly print your check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Beating par by a mile

By James Jacoby

Houston expert Cindy Bernstein has many strengths as a bridge player. Not the least of these is the unwillingness to accept a sub-par result. Competing in the late stages of the Texas District Grand National Teams last April, Cindy would not accept what she thought would be a penalty of only 500 when her side could make a vulnerable game. So she bid a slam. Then her declarer play had to match her aggressive bid.

She played low on the opening lead and ruffed East's jack of spades. Next came a heart to dummy's king (guarding against all four hearts being in the East hand) and back to her ace and queen. She was not sure how to play the clubs, but that decision could wait. She played a diamond to dummy's 10 and East won the queen. East could not play a spade and did not feel like leading away from the club queen, so he played back a diamond. Cindy took two diamond tricks, noting that West had started with five diamonds. He had already shown three hearts and surely had at least four spades for his bids of four and five spades. She ruffed a spade and cashed her last trump. That brought East down to only four cards. He certainly had to hold the spade ace, since the king was still in dummy, so he had to release a club. Declarer now played to dummy's club ace and back with her 10. East could cover or not, but South would take the rest of the tricks with the K-J-4 of clubs.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Lots of shaving

BOSTON (AP) — More than 78 million men, or about 88 percent of all men in the United States, shave regularly, according to Gillette.

In comparison, more than 80 million women, or more than 86 percent of the female population, shave, says the razor maker, adding that about 91 percent of female shavers use a blade-razor product, compared with 74 percent of the male shaving population.

Palette Club sets rules for July 4th art exhibit

The Snyder Palette Club is again sponsoring a July 4th art show, its 10th event.

Works will be displayed at the Scurry County Barn in Towle Park in conjunction with the 26th annual July 4th celebration.

Art must be entered from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 1 and picked up by 7 p.m. July 4.

Photography and paintings will have separate divisions this year with best-in-show rosettes in each division. Ribbons for 1st, 2nd, 3rd and honorable mention will be awarded in qualifying categories.

Divisions will be professional — teachers, amateur and students through high school.

Categories will include landscape, still-life, portraits and contemporary. Five entries in each category will be accepted from individual artists. Original and copy-classroom work will be accepted and judged in respective categories.

Fees per entry will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for students. Artists may price their works for sale with 10% of the sale going to the Palette Club.

Care will be taken to safeguard each entry. However, the club will not be responsible for loss or damage. Any work submitted will signify an agreement on the part of the artist to the stated conditions.

All entries must be framed and wired for hanging. Sawtooth hooks are not acceptable. Entries should not be over two years old and should not have been previously shown in this show. Each entry must have a card attached to the back with the name of the artist, address, telephone number, division and price if for sale.

No photography entries smaller than 5-by-7-inches will be accepted.

The judge reserves the right to give additional category awards and/or not give awards should entries not meet standards of quality or entry rules.

The exhibit will be open to the public from 1-7 p.m. July 2; 1-5 p.m. July 3; and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 4.

For further information, contact Betty Youngkin at 573-0743 or Myrtle Joiner at 573-0066.

Hearing-impaired kids will have day camp experience

NEW YORK (AP) — Deaf and hearing children will share a day-camp experience this summer at 15 YM-YWHA and community centers, according to the UJA-Federation of New York. A grant from the federation will pay for deafness resource consultants at the campsites.

The program is good for both sets of campers, notes Lynn Weintraub, a Lexington School for the Deaf teacher who coordinates the sessions.

The children with good hearing learn the language of signs, and they find out first-hand that deaf people have the same abilities for learning, friendship and fun as they do, she points out. The hearing-impaired youngsters learn to work and play with children who do not share their impairment.

The children without hearing difficulties will learn through stories and books what it means to be deaf, what sounds deaf people may actually hear and why people may sound different when they speak.

Hardesty responds to firing as SWT president

AUSTIN (AP) — Robert Hardesty, twice fired as president of Southwest Texas State University, says he's concerned about the effect the controversy surrounding his dismissal will have on the university.

"It's not good for the university. I'm fearful of what it's going to do, not just to the university but to higher education in Texas," Hardesty told an informal news conference Wednesday.

"I don't know how easy it's going to be for them to find a qualified person to come in and be (SWT) president," he said.

Hardesty said he is weighing his concern about the university in deciding whether to take legal action over his termination on a 5-4 vote of the Texas State University System regents.

A SWT student group has filed criminal complaints with the Travis County district attorney alleging the regents intentionally violated the Open Meetings Act at a meeting May 19, when Hardesty first was fired.

The regents voted again Monday to fire Hardesty, after the first dismissal was voided by State District Judge Jon Wisser. The judge said regents violated the Open Meetings Act at the first meeting because several actions they took, including Hardesty's firing, were not properly posted on the agenda.

Hardesty, a former speechwriter for President Lyndon B. Johnson, said reasons given by regents for his firing were either untrue or not raised until after his termination. He also said he was not informed of most complaints before being fired.

The concerns included criticism of the time Hardesty spent off campus and expenditures, including travel and entertainment. Regents who voted against him said he had been warned months before to make changes.

Toronto summit is last one

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will be bidding farewell to summits next week in Toronto.

Eight years ago, Reagan went to his first economic summit in Montebello, Quebec, as an untried figure on the world scene, a former movie actor reading his remarks from cue cards, on the defensive about a huge budget deficit, and espousing economic beliefs that some of his colleagues found dubious if not ridiculous.

On Sunday, he leaves Washington for his last economic summit. Once again, it will be in Canada. Reagan will still be reading from cue cards. He still has the same conservative beliefs. The U.S. budget deficit has zoomed from $78.9 billion in 1981 to an estimated $146.7 billion.

But this time, it's different. For one thing, Reagan has been in office longer than any of the other summit leaders except his staunch ally from Britain, Margaret Thatcher. She and France's Francois Mitterrand will be the only leaders there who were on board in 1981.

For another, the president's aides are confident this time of the kind of reception Reagan will get from his colleagues as he makes what will almost surely be his final bow on the global stage.

"I think they have learned what the rest of the world learned, which was not to underestimate Ronald Reagan," the president's chief spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater, said.

"I'm told that at the first summit, he was regarded as a sort of quaint, amusing character from the past, when he talked about markets and private enterprise and entrepreneurship," said Undersecretary of State Allen Wallis. "Now, at the summits that's all they do — everybody talks in that framework."

"I hope and believe that there is going to be a recognition on the part of all of the countries there that reliance on free markets and reliance on open societies is the best way to foster economic growth and sound economic development," said Secretary of the Treasury James A. Baker III.

"This is the message, if I may say so, that President Reagan took to the first economic summit in 1981, a message at the time that was greeted with a certain skepticism and perhaps even some derision," Baker said. "And now, it is not so greeted, and everybody is pretty much in sync and on board with that concept and I think, hope and believe there will be a further endorsement of that at this summit."

An anonymous saying has it that "Good luck is a lazy man's estimate of a worker's success."

Among the complaints listed against Hardesty, 57, by regent Norman Elder of Del Rio on Monday were that he had arranged contracts without board approval and used donations to the university for such things as flying first-class, staying in expensive hotels and paying dues to private clubs.

Elder also said the majority disagreed with the amount of time Hardesty spent away from the university.

"It's obvious that all of this was an afterthought, following my firing on May 19, and following the call for my expense vouchers and my calendar on May 24, five days after my (initial) firing," Hardesty said.
