Pentagon papers allegedly smuggled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Navy official whose phone was tapped in the massive Pentagon bribery probe has begun cooperating with prosecutors, and a published report today says his former boss allegedly had secret defense documents smuggled out of the Pentagon.

Deputy Assistant Navy Secretary James Gaines, whose office was searched last week, has begun telling prosecutors what he knows, sources familiar with the investigation said Wednesday evening.

The Los Angeles Times reported today that investigators believe Gaines was a principal supplier of Pentagon documents to defense consultant Melvyn H. Paisley, who was assistant secretary of the Navy and Gaines boss until April 1987.

The Times, quoting government sources, said Paisley allegedly arranged an elaborate scheme under which high level Pentagon officials smuggled classified documents out of the Pentagon and allowed him to copy them with the aid of his wife. The newspaper said Paisley allegedly passed the sensitive information to McDonnell Douglas Corp., which had retained him as a consultant shortly after he left his Pentagon post. One source told the Times that Paisley received "staggering fees" from the company.

The 2 year old investigation focuses on allegations that private consultants, many of them former Pentagon employees, paid bribes to obtain Defense Department secrets about upcoming contracts.

Gaines made an appointment to hire a Washington area defense lawyer, but then abruptly canceled the meeting after getting a call from a federal investigator who told him that "you have until 9 a.m. tomorrow to decide whose side you're on," according to one source. Gaines decided several days ago to cooperate, said the sources.

While Gaines is talking with prosecutors, another Pentagon official whose office was searched, Victor Cohen, is negotiating with the government on whether to do the same, said the sources, speaking on condition of anonymity.

After a meeting with the chief prosecutor in the probe, one of the Pentagon's strongest supporters in the Senate said "people will really be shocked" by the scale of wrongdoing involved.

"It appears they have very good evidence," Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said after being briefed by Henry Hudson, the U.S. attorney for eastern Virginia.

Q When is the American State Bank time and temperature clock going to be fixed?

A Bank officials say the company which installed the equipment is now out of business and three firms called in to date to fix the problem have been unable to remedy the problem. Another company is scheduled to look at it within the next few days, but the outlook at this point is not hopeful.

In Brief

GNP expands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy, fueled by an export-driven manufacturing boom, expanded at a robust 3.6 percent in the first three months of this year, slightly less than previously thought, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, grew to a seasonally adjusted annual level of $3.915 trillion in the January-March period, a $34.6 billion increase from three months earlier.

It was a modest downward revision of a previous estimate of GNP growth in the first quarter. A month ago, the government put GNP growth at 3.9 percent.

Angry Jews

ROME (AP) — Pope John Paul II left for Austria today for a visit that has angered some Jewish groups because of his scheduled meetings with President Kurt Waldheim.

John Paul, making his 30th foreign pilgrimage of his nearly 10 year papacy, also will meet with representatives of Austria's tiny Jewish community, visit the site of a Nazi concentration camp and address Roman Catholics in neighboring communist countries during the five day trip.

Waldheim has been shunned by most Western leaders because of allegations of complicity in Nazi war crimes during his service in the German army in World War II.

Israeli update

JERUSALEM (AP) — Fires that appeared set by Arab arsonists lit up the night in rural areas and a widespread power outage darkened Israeli cities and the occupied territories this morning, officials said.

The blackout left major Israeli cities and the occupied Gaza Strip and West Bank without power for three hours. Authorities were investigating the cause but had ruled out sabotage.

A jury call issued for 142nd District Court next Monday has been canceled, court officials report.

Prayer event tickets on sale into June 29

The deadline to purchase tickets for the community prayer breakfast, slated July 2 to begin a three-day Independence Day celebration here, has been extended until next Wednesday, June 29.

Featured speaker at the event will be Snyder native and head Baylor football coach Grant Teaff, who has doubly agreed to be grand marshal of the July 4th parade slated on Saturday, July 2, after the prayer breakfast.

The breakfast will also see lay leaders and youth leaders of some 24 Snyder churches honored. It will begin at 7 a.m. and will be followed at 10 a.m. by the Independence Day parade.

Tickets are priced at $5 and are available at local banks, various businesses and from civic club members, co-sponsors for the event.

Teaff has been at Baylor 16 years and has spent 23 years as a head coach. He is now considered among the top coaches in college football today.

Only three coaches Penn State's Joe Paterno, Georgia's Vince Dooley and Michigan's Bo Schembchler has served their respective schools longer than Teaff has Baylor.

He has the 11th most Southwest Conference wins in history (67) and the seventh most wins ever by a SWC coach (96). He is the nation's 10th ranked active coach for total career wins (138) ahead of such figures as

The teller on Deep Creek says, "Chewing the fat is what you do before wearing it."

A bill collector will tell you there are no new excuses, he's heard 'em all.

The successful collector is one who can think fast and who can be more innovative than John Q. Public.

A woman was recently observed having dinner in a posh restaurant. After asking for her check, the woman discovered that she had forgotten her wallet and credit cards. She didn't even have change to make a telephone call.

"We aren't really worried about the money," the manager said. "All we do is write your name on this chalkboard at the door, and then we erase it when you come back and pay your bill."

The woman protested that she couldn't do that. All her friends would think she was a deadbeat.

The manager assured the woman that her friends would never know. The woman still resisted, pointing at the chalkboard located right by the front entrance.

"Well, they won't be able to see it," the manager said, "because we'll hang your fur coat over it until you come back."

Now, that's quick thinking.

A Snyder couple recently was on a cruise ship and attended one of those formal dinners. They were seated next to a woman who was wearing the biggest diamond pendant they had ever seen.

The couple bragged on the beauty of the diamond.

The woman said it was the Klopman diamond. She further explained the Klopman diamond was much like the Hope diamond, except smaller. However, the cuts were identical and it was equal in quality. The Klopman even came with a curse, the same as the Hope diamond.

Intigued, the Snyder couple asked what kind of curse.

Mr. Klopman, she answered.

Sleep problems need diagnosis

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: After only two hours' sleep, I awake with a swollen mouth, tongue, lips and cheeks, clicking in my ears, a wicked headache, pain and double vision. My doctor doesn't believe me because he doesn't see it. He says he can't put me in the hospital just to watch me sleep. What do you think?

DEAR READER: I think that the doctor should put you in the hospital to observe your sleep pattern.

Your complaints are unusual and deserve confirmation. The doctor doesn't hospitalize you because he isn't interested in these complaints, it's easier to say he doesn't believe you. This beats taking you home to observe yourself or arranging for another health professional, such as a registered nurse, to monitor you in your own home.

Ask for a referral to another doctor for a second opinion that will, I hope, be more helpful than disbelief — or find another doctor on your own. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "Choosing a Physician." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to: P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had genital warts during pregnancy. My daughter contracted papillomas because of the warts. I really don't understand why the doctor didn't do a Caesarian, knowing the connection between the two diseases.

DEAR READER: I don't know why either, except that he may not have believed your daughter would develop a problem from your warts. In addition, Caesarian section carries some risk, so he was probably exercising caution. Why not ask your doctor directly?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been making my own saline solution for my contact lenses, using salt tablets and distilled water. My eye doctor says that's what caused my eye inflammation. I wish I'd known to use the commercially prepared saline solutions.

DEAR READER: I, too, wish you had. Perhaps your experiences will help other patients who compound their own lens-cleaning solutions. This practice can be very dangerous, because the sterility, strength and acidity of the solutions can vary; caustic compounds will cause eye inflammation. The American Academy of Ophthalmology has issued a statement condemning homemade lens-cleaning fluids. I advise readers to use only the commercially available brands.

Acne drug prevents some skin cancer

BOSTON (AP) — A study published today shows that the acne medicine Accutane is the first treatment known to prevent skin cancer in humans, but scientists caution the drug is too toxic for routine use.

Accutane, a vitamin A derivative that can cause birth defects in pregnant women, sharply reduced skin cancer in a small group of people who were at extremely high risk because of an inherited genetic disorder, the study shows.

While Accutane cannot be taken for long periods by most people, other synthetic forms of vitamin A may someday be routinely used to prevent skin cancer in people whose skin has been damaged by years of exposure to the sun, the researchers said.

In addition, vitamin A drugs may someday be used to treat other tumors of epithelial tissue, such as cancers of the lung, stomach, colon, bladder, cervix and breast, said Dr. Harley Haynes of Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

"The odds are that within the lifetime of many people, we may well be able to develop treatments that reduce the risk of cancer in high-risk people," he said.

Noted Irish singer, Dennis Day, dies after long illness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dennis Day, a golden-voiced Irish balladeer whose career as a foil for comedian Jack Benny spanned decades of radio, television and film, has died after a long battle with Lou Gehrig's disease. He was 71.

Day died at his Bel Air home late Wednesday, surrounded by his 10 children and 13 grandchildren, said his publicist, Kitty Davis.

"Everyone is taking it very hard," she said.

His wife, Peggy Margaret McNulty was admitted to St. John's Hospital and Health Center earlier in the day for cardiac tests and was in stable condition, said nursing supervisor Nancy Gauthier. Doctors have not confirmed whether she suffered a heart attack, Ms. Gauthier said.

The cause of death was not determined, but Day was diagnosed last year as suffering from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, a progressive muscular ailment that killed Lou Gehrig.

He had undergone brain surgery in March after suffering a fall, and was readmitted to St. John's on June 5. He was released from the hospital Monday.

"I'm very, very saddened by Dennis' death," said comedian Jerry Lewis, national chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy Association, which Day supported.

"Dennis Day was a brave, kind, talented man who showed his love by giving. All you had to do was ask."

Day's career spanned decades in radio, television and movies, and he was rated as one of the shrewdest talents in the business.

Born Eugene Denis McNulty to Irish parents in New York City on May 21, 1917, he was graduated from St. Patrick's Cathedral High School and attended Manhattan College with plans to enter Fordham's law school.

His plans changed when Jack Benny was hunting for a singer to replace Kenny Baker. A recording Day had made earned him an audition, and an off-the-cuff wisecrack helped land him the job, according to a studio biography.

With all the applicants gathered in an audition room, Benny called out, "Oh Dennis!" Young McNulty replied, "Yes, please."

"That's it!" Benny whooped. He assumed the name Dennis Day when he joined Benny's radio show as a singer in 1939, and quickly matured into a comic target for the host. One of Day's trademark lines was a sprightly, "Gee, Mr. Benny!"

With a nationwide audience on radio, Day gained popularity with his renditions of "Danny Boy," "Clancy Lowered the Boom," and other ballads. Another Day favorite, "Peg of my Heart" was a ballad he sang for his wife, said Ms. Davis.

In 1952, Day disclosed that Irish authorities had banned his RCA recording of "The St. Patrick's Day Parade."

"The Irish didn't object to the song or to my singing," Day said, but to shouted exclamations such as "How are ye, Paddy, my boy!" as if he were marching in a parade.

Sea still beckons fishermen

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — The song of the sea is still music to the ears of five fishermen now home to family and friends after 144 days adrift in the Pacific Ocean on a disabled boat.

"We're sea dogs. The sea calls to us," said one, 27-year-old Joel Omar Gonzalez. "The sea is the source of life for us and our families."

The five, headed by skipper Gerardo Obregon, 33, received a hero's welcome Wednesday from dozens of people including first lady Margarita de Arias when they flew in from Honolulu by way of Los Angeles.

Relatives, friends, neighbors and fellow "pescadores" flocked in from Puntarenas, their home port 95 miles away, to welcome them at San Jose's Santamaria Airport.

The engine of their 33-foot fishing vessel, the Cairo III, was knocked out beyond repair during a storm Jan. 24, five days after they sailed out of Puntarenas, leaving them adrift in the Pacific.

What was to have been an eight-day fishing trip turned into a nearly five-month quest for survival. Gonzalez, his eyes moist as he hugged his wife, Edith, told reporters ships passed them twice but did not see them.

A Japanese tuna boat finally ran into them about 700 miles southeast of Hawaii on June 15 and took them to Honolulu, where doctors found them all in good health.

All in all, it was a 3,600-mile journey.

The five said they survived by catching turtles and sharks, collecting rainwater and cooking them on wood fires they made by tearing pieces of wood from the boat.

Dear Abby

Ashes Turn to Dust Sooner Than Some Might Suppose

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1988 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column about the cremated remains showing up in a regular box reminded me of this story. Nobody (outside our family) will believe this, but it's true: Our father requested cremation, so we followed his wishes. The urn we ordered did not arrive in time for the funeral service, so we brought a lovely container from home. Actually, it was a Chinese rice bowl. (We had service for 12.) We had Father's remains placed in that bowl temporarily until the urn arrived.

After the service, we brought the bowl home and placed it in the cupboard. That very day, we had a new cleaning lady who spoke very little English.

You guessed it: When we went to get the bowl, she had already cleaned the kitchen and thrown the contents in the garbage can! My brother and I ran out to the alley behind our house, but it was too late. The garbage man had already collected our garbage, and hauled "Dad" away.

ASHES TO ASHES
IN ATLANTA

DEAR ABBY: I am writing after reading the letter in your column about the woman's aunt's remains arriving by regular mail. It wasn't funny at the time, but I had to chuckle when I recalled the memories of my father's cremation a few years ago.

After his death, my two sisters and I decided to have Dad cremated and bury his remains in the Veterans Cemetery. The funeral director asked if we would like to carry the cremains or have them transported (for an additional fee) to the cemetery. We immediately said, "Have them transported!"

We then proceeded to make arrangements for the time and date of the funeral service, which was to take place the following week.

Imagine our surprise when we arrived the day of the service only to discover that the mail was running late, and our "father" had not arrived in that day's mail — and would probably arrive on the following day. We had no choice but to proceed with the funeral service

Congressional committee said looking for hunger

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A congressional committee is due in West Virginia this week to investigate hunger in Appalachia, but a debate already has begun over whether there's an "underground" army of starving people in the state.

"We are looking for declining food security in Appalachia, where studies show the poor are getting poorer," said Timmie Jensen, a staff worker for the U.S. House Select Committee On Hunger.

West Virginia was selected because all 55 counties of the coal-mining state qualify as part of Appalachia, a committee spokesman said. No other state bears that distinction.

The committee plans hearings in Montgomery on Friday to listen to food bank workers, community advocates and state welfare officials talk about whether West Virginia's poor are being fed. A few congressmen, led by Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., also will visit the homes of three needy residents to hear their problems.

"There are 100,000 people in poverty in West Virginia who are getting no aid," Jensen said Wednesday. "It's ironic, considering the federal food stamp program started in West Virginia, and we're still not reaching all West Virginians."

Food stamps were introduced in West Virginia in 1961 under an executive order by President John F. Kennedy. The state, third in the nation in unemployment, "really illustrates the problems of the poor," Jensen said.

West Virginia's poverty rate is 22.3 percent, versus the national anyway — without the cremains. (Small detail.)

My sisters and I just looked at each other and cracked up when one said, "Isn't this just like Dad? He was always late for everything!"

THREE SISTERS
IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the cremated remains brought back a funny memory. I had only one sister, whom I loved very much. We shared a lot of laughs.

She was living in Ohio when she died. I was in Missouri. She was to be buried in the family plot in Arkansas after cremation.

The remains were sent to my house by mistake. I was canning tomatoes when the mailman arrived. My 5-year-old granddaughter ran out to the mailbox. She came in and said, "All there is is a box. Can I open it?"

She took it out on the back porch and in a minute she had it opened. She made a face and said, "Grandma, why would anybody send you a whole box of gray sand?"

I grabbed the box and said, "My God, that's Aunt Grace!" I dropped the box and most of the "sand" on the ground! We gathered up as much of the "ashes" as we could and put them in a more sturdy box and sent it to Arkansas. I am sure my sister would have had a good laugh had she witnessed that hilarious scene.

I went out and bought a rose bush and planted it on the spot where the ashes had spilled. It really grew, and to this day, it is known as the Aunt Grace rose. Why must most people take life so seriously?

I am 72 years old. Print this letter if you wish, but, please, omit my name.

average of 18.1 percent for rural areas, Staggers said. Joblessness has run as high as 44 percent in some southern coalfield counties during the past five years, and the state has led the nation in unemployment for much of the decade. Unemployment now is at 7.4 percent by state calculations and 9.7 percent by federal figures.

The committee wants to find out whether the rural poor can feed themselves using food stamps, or must rely on other sources for food, Jensen said.

"If they have to go to food pantries and kitchens, that is extraordinary means," she said.

Last month, the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, a Washington-based liberal watchdog group, reported that nearly a fourth of West Virginians live in poverty, and that fewer than a third of the state's jobless receive unemployment benefits.

"I have a hard time sustaining that," Gov. Arch Moore retorted shortly after the study was released. He said his Department of Human Services reports a reduction in the number of people receiving welfare benefits.

"How do these people live?" Moore asked. "There's some that talk about there being an underground around here some place. I'm hard-pressed to figure out where that data base is coming from."

Coloring book aimed at helping abused children

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — To sexually abused children, going through the criminal justice system can be as painful as the crimes that the system must punish.

But a new book, written by Carole DeLuca of the Pima County Victim-Witness program and Tucson police detective Karen Ives, may ease children's fear of telling the truth.

It's a coloring book, called "Traffic Wiggles," aimed at preschoolers to 13-year-olds. In it, an old traffic sign helps children distinguish between a "good" or "bad" touch and walks them through the court system.

"The emphasis of the book is that it's OK to talk and OK to tell," said Ms. Ives, who is a three-year veteran in the police division investigating sexual abuse of children.

"Traffic Wiggles" indicates caution, stop or go in various situations and shows the child what should be done next.

The book was illustrated by Kathleen Bright, a part-time composite artist for the Pima County Sheriff's Department. All the characters are bears and the dialogue rhymes.

"Kids love rhymes. They're easy to read and remember," said Ms. DeLuca, who with Ms. Ives tried out the book on her own children.

"Kids relate well to animals. You don't have to worry about race or sex. Bears are all pretty generic," Ms. Ives said.

The authors hope the book will be used both for prevention and for therapy of children who have been molested. "It's important that parents read this with their children," Ms. DeLuca said. "The guilt a child feels isn't fair. But if Mommy and Daddy say I'm OK, then I'm OK."

Ms. Ives said, "It also could be used with children not opening up right away (when first interviewed)."

The book also attempts to demystify the intimidating criminal justice system that children must face if their cases go to trial. It introduces children to a policeman, a doctor and a lawyer, and it emphasizes that these people all are children's friends. "Kids are victims all over again in the court system," said Ms. DeLuca, who as a child was sexually abused by her father.

As part of her job with Victim-Witness, she accompanies children to trials and tries to answer their questions. "Sometimes I take them into the courtroom three or four times (before trial) and they ask a lot of questions. Sometimes just touching things helps," she added.

Videotaping of victims' testimony still is considered a violation of defendants' rights in Arizona. And until such videotaping becomes legal, children will continue to meet their aggressors in court.

Since the beginning of 1988, more than 900 calls have been made to state Child Protective Services officials about physical abuse and molestations.

"It's a lot higher than last year," Ms. Ives said, "but it could be that with more information, children know to tell and talk."

Ms. DeLuca and Ms. Ives obtained funding for the book from the Santa Rita branch of the National Exchange Club, an organization dedicated to fighting child abuse.

Tucson police received the first 1,000 copies. Boys & Girls Clubs of Tucson Inc., the Pima County Sheriff's Department and the Phoenix Police Department have also asked for the book.

Ms. DeLuca and Ms. Ives plan to distribute the book in schools if the book is successful and if they can find a publisher.

The Maryland Toleration Act provided for freedom of worship for all Christians. It was passed by the Maryland Assembly in 1649.

Crank up the barbecue grill for marinated turkey steaks

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Food Editor

Turkey breast tenderloin steaks are cut from the prime tenderloin muscle on the breast. They generally weigh about 4 ounces each, just right for one serving. They're great for grilling, especially with this flavorful citrus marinade. Brushing the steaks with marinade during grilling helps keep them moist.

1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
Place the turkey steaks in a shallow dish. For the marinade, in a small bowl combine orange peel, orange juice, oil, Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard, lemon pepper and garlic powder. Pour over turkey steaks; turn the steaks to coat with marinade. Let the turkey steaks stand at room temperature for 30 minutes.

ORANGE-BARBECUED TURKEY

- 4 turkey breast tenderloin steaks, cut 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick (about 1 pound total)
- 1 teaspoon finely shredded orange peel
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon lemon pepper

Drain the turkey steaks well, reserving the marinade. Grill the turkey steaks over medium coals for 6 to 7 minutes on each side or until no pink remains. Brush frequently with marinade. Makes 4 servings.

Very small businesses — microenterprises in the so-called "informal sector" — have grown enormously in numbers and economic importance in Latin America since the onset of the debt crisis in 1982, according to the Inter-American Development Bank. It is estimated that 5 million jobs were created in the informal sector during 1980-85, representing 32 percent of the total urban employment in the last year. The so-called formal sector, in contrast, showed hardly any net creation of new jobs.

Save risky play as last resort

By James Jacoby

Just as a chocoholic can hardly be expected to refuse a candy bar, or a nicotine addict an after-dinner cigarette, so a bridge player in a no-trump contract cannot refrain from attacking his longest suit. It was not surprising that South, after playing low from dummy and winning the jack of hearts, led his nine of diamonds, attacking dummy's long suit. With luck, diamonds might split 2-2 with the ace on the side. When West played low, declarer took his best shot — he rose with the king. East won the ace and played back a heart. Now another diamond cleared the suit, but the defenders took three more heart tricks to beat the contract.

This is a deal in which declarer has an alternative before he commits himself to going after diamonds. To give himself an extra chance, he should win the first trick with dummy's heart ace and then should play A-K-Q of clubs. If that suit splits, declarer can play ace and a spade, giving up to the king, but assuring four clubs, three spades and the ace and king of hearts for nine tricks. If the clubs do not split, declarer should play a diamond to the king. The king of diamonds might even win the trick. If so, declarer can switch

Cash thwarts upset attempt

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Javier Frana struck a blow for the underdogs of men's tennis. Frana, a 21-year-old Argentine playing in his first Wimbledon, took defending champion Pat Cash to five sets Wednesday and nearly eliminated the head-banded Australian on the third day of the tournament.

Cash prevailed in the sun to win 6-2, 4-6, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 but it was Frana who received a standing ovation from the Court No. 1 crowd.

"In the end, he took advantage of my lack of experience," Frana said.

Two other underdogs briefly had the thrill of an upset in their grasp.

Australia's Darren Cahill won the first set from top-ranked Ivan Lendl but couldn't handle his opponent's power and went down 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

And Michael Chang, the youngest male player in 61 years to compete on the Centre Court, had his time, too.

The American, who turned 16 four months ago, gave seventh-seeded Henri Leconte of France a big fright for two sets before losing 2-6, 7-6, 6-2, 6-3. Chang missed four set points in the second set.

Cash, Lendl and Leconte all had today to draw a breath while other top contenders took over the spotlight on the show courts.

In second-round play on Centre Court was two-time titlist Jimmy Connors, up against Australia's Jay Stoltenberg. They were being followed by Gabriela Sabatini against Radka Zrubakova, with John McEnroe, safely over the first hurdle in his Wimbledon comeback, up next against Wally Masur.

On Court No. 1, Martina Navratilova continued her quest for a place in history against Japan's Ely Hakami. Navratilova, the defending women's champion, seeks a record ninth singles title at Wimbledon.

Mats Wilander, on the third leg of his bid for the Grand Slam, was due up next against Glenn Michibata of Canada.

Cash was pushed to the brink by Frana, ranked only sixth in his country and 80th in the world.

Only one seed fell on Wednesday, and he never completed his match.

Israel's Amos Mansdorf, the 15th men's seed, was forced to retire with an abdominal strain while trailing 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 against Diego Nargisco of Italy, a qualifier.

Becker had no problems in whipping Karel Novacek of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. The 20-year-old West German, the 1985 and 1987 champion, served 17 aces, taking his total to 37 in two matches.

On the adjacent court No. 3, Steffi Graf kept alive the possibility of West German championship double by swamping France's Karine Quentrec 6-2, 6-0.

SNYDER BRAVES DEFEATED 11-5

Robert Lee 11, Snyder Braves 5

BALLINGER - Snyder Braves were eliminated in area Little League tournament play here Wednesday by Robert Lee.

Robert Lee will play Hamlin today at 7:30 p.m. in the tournament championship game.

"We just hit the ball right at them. They had a real good defense and they were older boys, all 11-12 years old, not 9 or 10," Braves manager George Page said of Robert Lee. "They hit the ball well, too. I'd pick them to win that tournament."

Joe Blair was the winning pitcher. He gave up 10 hits on one error, struck out three and walked two.

Jason Pierce started for Snyder and gave up seven runs in just under three innings. Adrian Sneed replaced him. Together, they allowed nine hits, seven walks and had five strikeouts. They were backed by a trio of errors.

Chris Mitchell led Snyder with two doubles and a single. Sneed and Jimmy Henry both cracked a double and a single while Wayne Braziel also doubled. Pierce and Shae Sisson each looped a single.

"I think our guys put out a real good effort, but everything we hit was right to them. We had three outs on line drives," said Page. "We worked hard for it and played hard but we got beat by a real good team."

Page will be managing the Snyder Little League All-Star Team, which is to be announced Friday at Towle Park.

Astros ring 'Bell' to defeat rival Cincinnati Reds, 5-1

by The Associated Press

Houston's Buddy Bell still thinks fondly of his former Cincinnati teammates, off the field. On the field, he's been less than friendly.

Bell's two-run double keyed a four-run eighth inning Wednesday night as the Astros defeated the Reds 5-1. Bell's RBI double sparked a three-run rally the night before.

"It feels good to have them leave town. I really miss a lot of those guys," said Bell, who was traded to the Astros last weekend. "You spend a lot of time with them, but I'd be lying if I said it wasn't special to beat the Reds."

It's been a difficult season for Bell, 36, a five-time All-Star and six-time Gold Glove winner at third base. He entered Wednesday night's game batting only .185 with no home runs and four RBI.

"I've played 17 years and I don't feel I have anything to prove," Bell said. "It's just nice to be able to play. I've never played in a World Series, but at least I've been given the opportunity to play."

Elsewhere, it was Philadelphia 5, Chicago 3; New York 3, Pittsburgh 0; San Francisco 8, San Diego 7; Montreal 6, St. Louis 2, and Atlanta 4, Los Angeles 1.

Danny Jackson, 7-4, retired the first two batters in the eighth but Glenn Davis singled, Kevin Bass walked and Bell doubled home both runners.

Bob Knepper worked seven innings, allowing five hits, walking three and striking out four. Juan Agosto, 5-0, allowed one hit in two innings.

Mariners 3, Rangers 2

Mickey Brantley's 11th home run of the season leading off the 10th inning enabled Seattle to snap a nine-game losing streak during which the Mariners scored only 12 runs.

Brantley's homer off starter Jose Guzman also snapped the Mariners' club-record 14-game road losing streak.

Mike Schooler pitched three innings of scoreless three-hit relief.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was: Oakland 6, Milwaukee 2; Cleveland 3, Boston 1; Detroit 3, New York 2 in 10 innings; Minnesota 3, California 1; Chicago 5, Kansas City 4; and Toronto 4, Baltimore 2.

Pentagon...

Fraud may be scandal both parties can love

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the defense lawyers in the burgeoning Pentagon contract fraud investigation suggests, not entirely in jest, that this could become the most politically popular scandal in years.

This is the best thing that's happened to both the Republicans and Democrats in six months, because for the Republicans it gets everybody's mind off (Attorney General) Ed Meese and for the Democrats it gets everybody's mind off (House Speaker) Jim Wright," said this lawyer, who was not interested in having his or his client's name further publicized.

"So what you have is a natural tendency on the part of both parties to try to pump it up. You've got a Republican, (Iowa Sen. Charles) Grassley, who's pumping it up, and you've got the Democrats too," including Sens. David Pryor of Arkansas and Sam Nunn of Georgia, and Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, the lawyer added. All four have joined the public outcry over the affair.

"It's the one thing everybody can join in on because it gets reporters off their leadership," the lawyer said. "It's terrific, a perfect opportunity."

An analysis

This experienced attorney is among a dozen Washington lawyers already hired by contractors, consultants and Pentagon officials who are named in government search warrants or grand jury subpoenas.

He was giving his admittedly self-interested view of how government investigators had received such voluminous and favorable publicity for their side of the case through leaks, speeches and news conferences even before bringing any charges or making any arrests.

Meese, who 365 days out of most years solemnly refuses to discuss ongoing investigations in public, even held a news conference to outline the scope of the investigation and rebut Grassley's complaints that the Justice Department had moved too slowly.

Since the government's coordinated search on June 11, the Pentagon story has muscled two high-profile investigations off the nation's front pages: the special prosecutor's imminent report on whether Meese used his office to benefit himself and friends, and a House ethics investigation of Democratic Speaker Jim Wright's finances and official actions.

The well-known names — Meese and Wright — have been replaced by those of Pentagon bureaucrats, private consultants and contractors who are hardly household words — Berlin, Galvin, Gunn, Lackner, Paisley, Parkin and others.

Even the congressmen whose names have been pulled in by Justice Department or investigative leakers as potentially of interest to investigators are not the best known on Capitol Hill.

Democrats William Crappell Jr. of Florida; Roy Dyson of Maryland; Thomas J. Downey and Samuel S. Stratton, both of New York; and Republican Andy

Ireland of Florida. Aides to those five point out that even the leakers don't say they're under investigation at this time. Federal prosecutor Henry Hudson publicly says no one on the Hill is now a target.

Farm drought aid bill not ready yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional advocates of providing income guarantees for America's drought-plagued farmers concede that it will take weeks just to fashion a bill, let alone push it through Congress.

"This is an ongoing process; nothing is set in stone," House Agriculture Committee Chairman E. "Kika" de la Garza, D-Texas, said Wednesday after a congressional task force approved broad outlines of a drought-relief package.

The blueprint is short on specifics and bound to come in for changes in weeks ahead. In fact, one feature — to allow growing oats on idled acreage — was approved as part of the plan, then quietly scuttled within the hour to keep peace with a skeptical Agriculture Secretary Richard

E. Lyng.

The general proposal calls for guaranteeing farm incomes but leaves the contentious task of developing a formula for later.

Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt., had said earlier that task force members should sit down and stay in session until they worked out a blueprint for providing assistance.

He told the task force that at least some document was needed as a sign to farmers that Congress means business about providing help.

"What I saw in the Northern Plains I never would have believed," said Leahy, who headed a visit by six senators to Montana and the Dakotas over the weekend. He also noted that beef and pork prices are falling and he issued a sternly worded warning to food companies not to raise consumer prices.

Lyng told the task force that President Reagan did not mean to express opposition to drought assistance when he said at a Toronto news conference that there was little he could do about the situation.

Reagan merely "exhibited some of the frustration that some of the rest of us have that you can't do anything to make it rain," Lyng said. He said the president favors some form of assistance.

"I accept your explanation," de la Garza said.

The task force called for speeded-up action by the Agriculture Department to allow farmers in drought-stricken counties to obtain 92 percent of their normal "deficiency payments," even if they are prevented by drought from planting.

Such a measure would come under the department's "zero-92" program, which ordinarily permits farmers to plant none of their acreage and still receive 92 percent of the payments.

Deficiency payments are income supports representing the difference between market prices and target prices set by Congress and adjusted annually by the secretary of agriculture.

The group urged "maximum flexibility" in applying a rule that farmers must plant so-called cover crops, such as grasses, on lands idled for conservation purposes. Sizeable amounts of land are idled for such purposes under provisions of the 1985 farm law that sought not only to prevent erosion but to take land out of production to combat surpluses.

Other task force recommendations:

—A search for ways to make sure producers will have sufficient herds to resume livestock breeding when the drought is over. Breeders are selling off stock because of lack of feed.

—Development of ways to expand participation in the federal crop insurance program.

Houston police arrest escaper

HOUSTON (AP) — A man described as a helpful neighbor who kept to himself and tended the auto repair business he operated from a garage behind his home has been identified as a man who escaped from a Virginia prison almost 35 years ago.

Police said James Lewis Manuel, 56, known in Houston as Jimmie Lonnie Manuel, is free on $2,000 bond on a fugitive warrant from Virginia.

Virginia State Police officials say Manuel escaped for the second time from the Tazewell County Correctional Facility in November 1953 while serving a two-year prison sentence for breaking into a house. He first escaped in October 1953, but was captured the next day. The next month he escaped again, along with six others. The others were captured within 12 months.

Clements says Texas in top 3 for atom-smasher

DALLAS (AP) — State officials are hoping a prehistoric rock formation and present-day political clout will help win what has been described as a giant microscope that can peer into the beginning of time.

Before a local business organization, Ed Bingle, executive director of the Texas National Research Laboratory, said Texas' "super collider" site has the best geological formation of the seven proposed sites under consideration by the Department of Energy.

The Ellis County site, about 25 miles south of Dallas, is underlined by Austin Chalk, a rock deposited across North Texas when much of the state laid beneath water in the late Mesozoic Era, about 140 million years ago.

"The geology is perfect," Bingle said Wednesday during a panel discussion before the International Trade Association of the Dallas-Fort Worth Area.

Bingle said the Energy Department's most important criteria for selecting a site for the $4.4 billion super collider is geology. The department is looking for stable soils to plant the massive facility which will include a 53-mile long, 10-foot wide, concrete-lined circular tunnel.

Atoms will be shot through the tunnel at the speed of light enabling scientists to analyze the most minute particles of matter. The research is expected to yield information about the basic structure of the universe.

Gov. Bill Clements told reporters, before speaking to the business group, that because of the site's geological advantage and political clout of Texas' congressional delegation, he believed Texas is one of three finalists in the running for the project.

And the state's top Republican official also said that allegations of ethical misconduct against Democratic House Speaker Jim Wright will not impede the state's dash for the finish line for the super collider.

"He is a great, great ally in this battle," Clements said of Wright, D-Fort Worth. "I wouldn't say he was a great, great ally if I didn't think he was in a very powerful position and he could help us enormously."

Death row inmates afraid that executions will resume

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Disappointed death row inmates say executions could resume in Texas as early as next month now that the Supreme Court has upheld the state's death penalty law.

The high court, in a long-anticipated decision that was announced Wednesday, voted 6-3 to uphold the conviction and death sentence of Donald Gene Franklin of San Antonio.

Attorneys for Franklin contended jurors improperly were not allowed to consider any mitigating circumstances in sentencing Franklin for the 1975 abduction-slaying of nurse Peggy Moran.

Since the high court agreed to hear the case last year, only one inmate, Robert Streetman, was put to death. Dozens more, however, used the pending Franklin case to obtain stays of execution.

Convicted killer Fletcher Mann, who faced lethal injection early Saturday, won a 30-day stay Wednesday from a federal judge in Dallas while his new attorneys amended his appeal. Inmates feared he was a likely candidate for execution because his appeals are exhausted.

"If it's going to happen, it's going to happen," Mann, 27, said, of the possibility of his death.

Baylor coach to appear here

Johnny Majors, Lou Holtz and Earle Bruce.

Teaff has been named SWC Coach of the Year six times and National Coach of the Year once.

His first SWC coaching title came in 1972 after his first year at Baylor, when he successfully turned around what had been a consistently losing program.

Baylor teams had been 3-28 for the past three seasons, and Teaff took them to a first-year 5-6 season which had the Bears within 13 points of earning a bowl bid.

He was again named SWC Coach of the Year in 1974, when Baylor won its first SWC title in 50 years—the so-called "Miracle on the Brazos."

That season also produced his lone National Coach of the Year title.

In 1979, the Bears went 8-4 and defeated Clemson in the Peach Bowl. In 1980, their record went to 10-2, winning the SWC by a record three full games.

The Bears went to another bowl game in 1983, and in 1985 and '86, Baylor literally came within inches of SWC titles and Cotton Bowl berths. The records for both years were 9-3.

More bowl invitations followed in 1985 and '86 as Baylor defeated first LSU in the Liberty Bowl, then Colorado in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

For 1987, Baylor had its third straight winning season with a 6-5 win-loss total.

Teaff's record at Baylor is 96-81-5 and, as a head coach, 138-127-7. Since 1979, his SWC record is 63-36-2.

Young witness hailed for his brave actions

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A 12-year-old San Diego boy who became a key witness in a gang rape case may have been threatened, ridiculed and forced to move from his home town, but his actions have drawn praise from junior high school students in a Lower Rio Grande Valley town.

The boy, whose identity has not been revealed, received 84 letters Wednesday from seventh-grade students at a junior high school in Mission.

One of the letters was addressed, "Dear Witness"; another, "Dear Brave Boy." But most simply said, "Dear Friend."

The boy has been short of friends since he told authorities about the night of March 26.

The boy, described by prosecutors as a key witness in the reported gang rape March 26 of a San Diego woman, and his family have been staying in an undisclosed location outside of Duval County for their safety.

Since the San Diego boy became a key witness in the gang-rape case, he and his family have been threatened and ridiculed. The harassment, however, ended when he and his family went to stay at the undisclosed location a few weeks ago.

Accident damages leave trail

Police followed the tracks of a car that had damaged a wheel in hitting a mailbox and dumpster Wednesday afternoon from the 500 Block of 25th St. to a home in the 500 Block of 17th St. and arrested the driver for DWI.

A citizen reported at 7:08 p.m. that the car had hit the mailbox and dumpster and left the scene, and the 24-year-old driver was taken into custody at 7:29 p.m. for DWI and leaving the scene of an accident.

Officers said the wheel was badly damaged and left an easy trail to follow on the asphalt.

Damage to the dumpster was estimated at $75.

An 18-year-old male was arrested for DWI and being a minor in possession of alcohol and on a Department of Public Safety warrant for not wearing a seatbelt at 12:33 a.m. Thursday at a College Ave. convenience store.

A highway patrolman arrested three women, ages 21, 22 and 25, for possession of a controlled substance about 10:45 p.m. Wednesday on U.S. 84 west of Snyder.

AIDS confidentiality bill has cleared House committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Expanded AIDS testing, mandatory counseling and tough punishment for violations of patient confidentiality are prescribed in a bill that won House committee approval after a year of negotiation and compromise.

"We're going to move it as quickly as possible. The chances of it passing are very, very bright. I expect it to become law this year," Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., said Wednesday after the Energy and Commerce Committee sent the measure to the House floor by voice vote.

The bill authorizes $400 million to expand testing and counseling activities for each of the next three years. Half the money would go to states and the other half would go directly to clinics, health centers and hospitals.

Counseling would be required for anyone taking a test, whether the results were positive or negative. Anyone who intentionally or negligently breached the confidentiality of test results could be charged a fine of up to $10,000. An intentional violation could also bring up to a year in jail.

The bill bans use of federal funds for counseling "that promotes or encourages homosexual sexual activity or unsafe heterosexual sexual activity or intravenous drug abuse." But it also says counselors must provide the best information available on how to avoid getting or transmitting AIDS, "provided that any informational materials used are not obscene."

The major casualty of the many controversies stirred by the bill was a section banning private-sector discrimination against people with AIDS or the AIDS virus. The federal government already has a ban.

Waxman, chairman of the Energy and Commerce health subcommittee, called the omission unfortunate but said it would have been impossible to pass such a policy in the current political climate.

Getting rid of the discrimination provision also makes it much less likely the bill will be blocked in the Senate, Waxman said, because it "removes the biggest objection that some of the right-wingers have." The counseling and testing bill is pending in the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee.

Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., said he may attempt to restore the anti-discrimination provision on the House floor. He called its deletion "a terrible public health mistake" because the most likely AIDS victims, without protection against losing their jobs, insurance or housing, would not volunteer for tests.

Wyden said he would try to build bipartisan support for the discrimination ban on the grounds that the president's commission on AIDS recently recommended precisely such a federal policy.

But Waxman said the commission view is useless without President Reagan's backing. "Without it I can't see that members are going to be willing to vote for it, have the courage to vote for it, in an election year," he said. "If the president will stand behind his commission's recommendations, we will join him in sponsoring an amendment."

Jurors set life in prison as punishment for Callaway

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Jurors who selected life in prison as punishment for a Houston woman convicted of arranging the murder of her boss' wife because they didn't think she would commit any violent acts in the future, a juror says.

Jurors set the punishment Wednesday, a day after they convicted Jane Ada Callaway, 36, of capital murder in the contract killing of Judy Saragusa, 39, last September. She could have gotten death by injection.

Ms. Callaway must serve a minimum of 15 years in prison before becoming eligible for parole, State District Judge Michael McSpadden said.

The former Houston secretary was convicted of hiring Leon Hawkins Jr. to shoot Judy Saragusa, 39, on Sept. 2. Mrs. Saragusa was the wife of Michael Saragusa, Ms. Callaway's employer and former lover.

Juror Debra Farner said jurors had problems understanding what was meant by the phrase "continuing violent behavior." If they had decided Ms. Callaway was capable of continuing violent behavior, they could have sentenced her to death.

Farner said the many of the jurors felt that Callaway might manipulate someone into doing violent acts, but 10 of the 12 believed she wouldn't commit any herself, and that's why they had to say "no."

Ms. Callaway smiled and nodded to her parents when she heard the punishment verdict.

The judge then allowed her to see her family for about half an hour before she was taken to the Potter County Corrections Center where she'll stay until she's taken to the Texas Department of Corrections' prison in Gatesville.

Defense and prosecutors said they were pleased with the result.

Assistant Harris County District Attorney Chuck Rosenthal didn't ask the jurors for the death sentence in his arguments for punishment, and Dan Cogdell, Callaway's attorney, said that he'd consider a life sentence a win.

Because her $50,000 bond was revoked following Tuesday night's guilty verdict, Ms. Callaway spent Tuesday night in jail.

Prosecutor Rosenthal noted that defense lawyers had mentioned that their client had spent the night in jail, saying, "Jane Callaway woke up in jail this morning. Judy Saragusa will never wake up again."

From a back row, the husband of the victim and former boss and lover of Callaway, said softly, "That's right."

Saragusa later told the Houston Chronicle that the verdict was his vindication from innuendos and suspicions.

"It got to where in September, October and November I was afraid to go out," he said. "You hear whispers, and they hurt. There (were) less when the police and the district attorney said I wasn't involved, and the trial helped. This verdict is a vindication."

Cogdell in his closing argument urged jurors to give Ms.

Callaway a chance to change.

"Decide whether you have a preference for rehabilitation or retribution for Jane Ada Callaway," he said.

Defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes had returned to the scene of one his greatest legal triumphs when the Callaway case was moved from Houston to Amarillo, but he couldn't get another dramatic victory.

In 1977, Haynes won a stunning acquittal for former millionaire T. Cullen Davis, on trial for the murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

More than 1,000 people died in 1904 when a fire broke out aboard the steamboat "General Slocum" in New York's East River.
