

Snyder native McNair...

Business manager named for district

Snyder High School grad and local CPA Lee McNair was named business manager for Snyder ISD Thursday.

He will replace Nick Williams, who will leave the district effective July 15 to accept the post-as chief appraiser for the Hockley County—Appraisal District. McNair will be working with Williams during the transition phase.

McNair, 35, was chosen from a field of 26 applicants.

As business manager, he will be in charge of all business accounts, will prepare the annual school budget and will serve as the chief purchasing officer for the district.

In addition, he will supervise the three major departments of maintenance, transportation and food services.

He is a 1970 graduate of Snyder High School and counts some five years work experience with two local CPA firms. He is currently associated with Vestal and Company, where he has been in charge of such duties as the annual outside audit for Scurry County.

He is a certified public accountant with two undergraduate degrees, a BBA in accounting earned from the University of Texas in Arlington in 1974 and a geophysics degree earned from Texas Tech University in December of 1982.

From 1975-81; he worked with Employers Insurance of Texas in Lubbock.

His salary with the district will be $49,000 annually with an in-district travel allowance of $125 monthly.

McNair is just completing a term as president of Snyder Rotary and locally serves as a director for United Way and is a graduate of the Scurry County leadership class.

He and his wife Debra, a pre-kindergarten teacher at North Elementary, have three children, Regina, 11, Lisa, 8, and Justin, 7.

Ask Us

Q — Because of the accidents which have occurred at FM 612 from Fluvanna where it deadends into Hwy. 84, could a runaway ramp be constructed to prevent future accidents?

A — Because of the straightness of the road and the relatively brief stretch involved, state highway officials said they doubt such a ramp would be beneficial. They speculated the best safety measure would be to cut through the dirt embankment at the end of the farm-to-market road. However, they noted no such plans have been proposed.

In Brief

Reject holiday

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The state Senate defeated a bill to create a holiday honoring slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., a proposal that touched off widespread criticism of former Gov. Evan Mecham when he opposed it. The King measure fell two votes short of the 16 needed by the 30-member Republican-controlled Senate.

Tips on safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — A firecracker fuse that has apparently burned out can be dangerous for up to a half hour after it appears to go out, a federal safety official said today. Consumer Products Safety Commissioner Ann Graham acknowledged that illegal fireworks are readily available across the country and pose the greatest danger to people celebrating the 4th of July.

Few arrests

DALLAS (AP) — Police expect to catch few motorists drinking behind the wheel this Fourth of July holiday weekend because they are having difficulty enforcing a 10-month-old law. The state's open-container law, which was adopted last September, empowers police officers and state troopers to ticket motorists they see drinking while driving.

Local

Boiler at North

The replacement of the boiler for North Elementary was bid to Bailey Boiler Works of Lubbock Thursday. The firm was the low bidder with an estimate of $18,975. Snyder school board members voted unanimously to accept the low bid during the called meeting.

Three day July 4th begins Saturday

The nation's Fourth of July will bring an array of colorful and patriotic events to Snyder, including what officials say will be the biggest fireworks display ever in Towle Park at dusk Monday.

This year, Independence Day activities will be spread over three days with most centering around Towle Park.

The official kickoff for the appearance by Baylor University head football coach and Snyder native Grant Teaff, who will speak at a 7 a.m. Saturday prayer breakfast in Scurry County Coliseum.

He will then serve as parade marshal in the 10 a.m. parade from Moffett Field through Towle Park to the National Guard Armory.

Youngsters with bicycles will report to Moffett Field at 9 a.m. to ride in the procession, and winners in each age group will be awarded a pair of Reebok tennis shoes.

All queen contestants for July 4th will be in Saturday's parade as well.

There will be a flag-raising at the armory at the conclusion of the parade.

A Lions Club-sponsored carwill continue each day in Towle Park throughout the celebration.

Food booths will open at 8 a.m. Saturday in the park, offering fajitas, hamburgers, snowcones, sausage on a stick, cotton candy, nachos, turkey drumsticks and other culinary treats.

Activity booths will also open at 8 a.m. Saturday, with a dunking booth, a Coke bottle ring toss, a softball throw with a radar gun

Arts and crafts booths will be open from 6 until 10 p.m. Saturday, 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday at the armory.

An art show sponsored by The Palette Club will be at Towle Park Barn from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday, with a "Fiesta Show" of miniature works and other less expensive

CELEBRATION — The 26th annual observance of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July celebration begins Saturday, and the sign which welcomes visitors to Towle Park was erected Friday morning. Shown are July 4th committee chairman Kent Horsley, left, and parade chairman Travis Bunch. Thousands of visitors are expected to be here for the three-day celebration this year. The park activities will begin Saturday with a 10 a.m. parade and will conclude at dusk Monday with the traditional fireworks display, expected to be the biggest ever this year. For a complete schedule of events, see page 13 of this issue. (SDN Staff Photo)

Queens due in parade

The July 4th parade set to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday in Towle Park will feature the six queen candidates for this year's celebration who have been competing for donations at a "penny a point" to raise funds for this year's annual fireworks display.

Beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday, a money board for candidate voting will be moved to the National Guard Armory in the park. The winner of the contest will be announced at 8 p.m. Monday at the park pond area prior to the fireworks display.

Donations will be accepted through 5 p.m. Monday.

Four youth, ranging in age from 7 to 17, are being sponsored as well as two adult candidates.

Those student-age include:

—Becky Bynum, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Bynum and representing the Scurry County Charter Chapter of the ABWA.

—Kacy Cole, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Cole and representing the West Texas Tae Kwon Do Parents Association.

—Sheila Garza, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Garza and representing the Vietnam Veterans Association.

—Susana Rodriguez, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Rodriguez and representing Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

The two adult candidates include Ann LaRoux, representing the Senior Citizens Center; and Jean McCormack, representing the American Legion Layne Kite Post 181.

Teaff to be keynote speaker at first-ever prayer breakfast

A featured address by Grant Teaff and the presentation of certificates of appreciation to 27 church leaders representing 15 Scurry County churches will mark the first-ever community prayer breakfast planned here Saturday morning.

It will begin at 7 a.m. in the coliseum with 400 expected to attend. The event will also mark the kickoff for a three-day July 4th celebration in Snyder.

At the breakfast, individuals who have contributed significantly to either the church's lay leadership or its youth programs will be recognized.

Teaff, the head Baylor football coach and a Snyder native, has also agreed to be grand marshal of the July 4th parade to begin at 10 a.m. Saturday.

He has spent 25 years as a head coach, the last 16 at Baylor.

He has the fifth-most Southwest Conference wins in history (63) and the seventh-most wins ever by a SWC coach (96). He is the nation's 10th-ranked active coach for total career wins (138) ahead of such figures as Johnny Majors, Lou Holtz and Earle Bruce.

Teaff has been named SWC Coach of the Year six times and National Coach of the Year once.

His first SWC coaching title came in 1972 after his first year at Baylor, when he successfully turned around what had been a consistently losing program.

Baylor teams had been 3-23 for the past three seasons, and Teaff took them to a first-year 5-6 season which had the Bears within 13 points of earning a bowl bid.

He was again named SWC Coach of the Year in 1974, when Baylor won its first SWC title in 50 years—the so-called "Miracle on the Brazos."

That season also produced his lone National Coach of the Year title.

In 1979, the Bears went 8-4 and defeated Clemson in the Peach Bowl. In 1980, their record went to 10-2, winning the SWC by a record three full games.

The Bears went to another bowl game in 1983, and in 1985 and '86, Baylor literally came within inches of SWC titles and Cotton Bowl berths. The records for both years were 9-3.

More bowl invitations followed in 1985 and '86 as Baylor defeated first LSU in the Liberty Bowl, then Colorado in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

GRANT TEAFF

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some politicians are versatile—they stand on their record while at the same time inserting a foot in their mouth."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors: On this Independence Day weekend, a few thoughts from former SDN editor Wacil McNair seems timely. McNair is a regular columnist for the Gilmer Mirror.

"It appears there is always room for something new in politics. Still, democracy is considered the best system going. At least most of us can think of lots of countries whose voters would like to have it as we do.

"For example, there is a story about election day in a small Russian village. All citizens were lined up in front of city hall and each was given a sealed envelope and told to drop it in the ballot box.

"One peasant took the envelope and ripped it open, peering inside. He was immediately surrounded by outraged officials. "Comrade! Comrade! What are you doing? Don't you realize this is a secret ballot?"

"At least in our country there usually are plenty of candidates. The problem is that so many of them seem to be afflicted with truth decay."

Some people learn to accept cultural changes, according to Larry Crabtree in the Vernon Daily Record.

He told of a new missionary who took up residence with a remote tribe. He found, to his dismay, that his predecessor had never baptized, confirmed nor married the men and women sharing the same hut.

After a lengthy service, the missionary asked the tribal chief which part of the service was enjoyed the most.

"Well, we all liked being baptized, but best of all we just loved being married," the chief said.

The missionary was surprised and inquired why they liked the marriage service the best.

"Because we all got new wives."

Pickup said stolen here

Police are investigating the theft of a 1988 Chevrolet pickup truck Thursday night from the parking lot of a College Ave. supermarket.

Sandi Pollard of Rt. 3, Snyder, told officers that she came out of the store at 7:54 p.m. and discovered the pickup missing.

The vehicle was described as light blue with a Texas license number of 2287-ML.

An officer said the keys had been left in the vehicle.

White House staff drug tests likely

Presidential employees to receive letter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential employees will get letters next week telling them they face random drug tests in about 60 days, a step announced as an embarrassed White House grappled with revelations of staff drug abuse.

Both President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, who has campaigned extensively against drug use, expressed dismay Thursday at the disclosure that two female National Security Council secretaries had resigned and three Secret Service officers were suspended during a drug probe.

"I think it's just evidence of what we've been saying. No one is exempt," Reagan said, adding, "This problem crosses all kinds of lines."

Mrs. Reagan, through her spokeswoman Elaine Crispin, voiced disappointment and said, "Drugs are everywhere — in the work place, movie industry, sports fields and college campuses. It's time everyone became involved and aware and intolerant of drug use."

Her husband, however, advocated treatment rather than intolerance for the White House employees implicated in the case.

Reagan said during brief comments to reporters that "if it's just a case of using" drugs rather than dealing, "I would like to see us do our best to get them into a drug treatment organization, and that they will agree to accept a cure."

Neither White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater nor Secret Service spokesman Bob Snow would identify the individuals involved or the illegal substances allegedly used. Published and broadcast reports have said the probe focused on cocaine and marijuana use.

Fitzwater said letters will be sent to the 1,600 presidential employees next week warning that a mandatory, random program of drug testing will commence 60 days hence.

Fitzwater said the tests will be conducted six times a year, with each round involving about 2 percent of the staff.

Included are employees of the Office of Management and Budget, the National Security Council and the offices of the vice president and the first lady.

Fitzwater said two female clerical employees "admitted drug use and were separated from the NSC" several months ago. The spokesman refused to say whether they had sensitive positions on the agency, the White House unit that advises the president on a wide gamut of foreign affairs and security issues.

Adding to the disconcerting news was the alleged involvement of uniformed members of the Secret Service — the men and women who guard the White House grounds, travel with the president to help provide security and protect other key Washington locations such as embassies and the vice president's home.

Fitzwater said none of the allegations involved the non-uniformed Secret Service agents who act as the president's bodyguards.

Snow declined to specify the sex of the uniformed officers involved. He said some 960 officers serve in the uniformed division.

Fitzwater said that on July 13, the Secret Service will begin its own program of pre-employment drug testing for job applicants.

The Washington Post, which first reported the drug investigation and suspensions, quoted an unidentified source as saying that at least one sale of cocaine allegedly occurred on White House property. Fitzwater said that "we have been advised that drugs were not used or sold on the White House premises." Snow would not comment on that, although he did say that no charges had yet been filed.

Snow said the three Secret Service officers — who have Civil Service protection — were placed on administrative leave with pay, and that their status will depend on whether charges are brought by the U.S. attorney's office in the District of Columbia. The officers were placed on leave during the past week, Snow said.

Civilian workers to remain on job

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Civilian employees at Kelly Air Force Base who faced possible furloughs and layoffs because of a fund shortfall in their payroll will remain on the job.

Gen. Alfred G. Hansen, Air Force Logistics Command commander, announced late Thursday that the Senate Appropriations committee approved a plan to avert the layoffs and furloughs at AFLC bases nationwide. Nearly 15,000 employees at Kelly would have been affected.

"The well-being of our people has been our major concern since the outset of our funding shortfall," Hansen told the San Antonio Express-News.

Drought benefits couple

STRASBURG, Colo. (AP) — Jack and Lorna Rhine, dryland farmers who depend solely on rainfall, feel almost guilty talking about their thriving wheat fields while farmers in the drought-stricken Midwest and South pray for rain.

"They lose and we gain — someone has to suffer to make anything now," Jack Rhine said.

Around them farms are dust-choked, but the Rhines have enjoyed more than double the usual rainfall for this time of year and are looking forward to one of their best winter wheat harvests ever. In addition, they stand to benefit from wheat prices driven up by crop damage elsewhere.

"We're just abundant, and you go 100 miles southeast of here and it's dry," said Rhine on Wednesday.

Abundance for the Rhines means 6 or 7 inches of rain in the last two months, compared to about 3 inches during those months most years and an average annual rainfall of about 14 inches.

So far this year they also have managed to escape the hailstorms that can wipe out a wheat field in an hour.

The Rhines' 3,000 acres lie about 40 miles east of Denver and the Rocky Mountains. A single dry creek runs across the property. The only water their wheat gets comes from rainfall, and the Rhines are more susceptible to moisture levels than farmers who irrigate.

Rhine, vice president of the Adams County Farm Bureau, said most farms along the Front Range are faring well this year. A string of 90-degree-plus days in the middle of June caused some heat stress, he said, but not as much as in areas farther east and south.

The Rhines plan to harvest their wheat in two to three weeks, a couple of weeks earlier than usual. They expect to get 35 bushels per acre, near the limit the thin soil can produce, Rhine said.

On Wednesday, the Rhines had to stop tilling a fallow field when the tractor wheels began kicking up clods of mud after a midday rain shower.

Who was to blame?

By James Jacoby

Here is an unfortunate deal in which the defenders started with the best line of attack but then had a serious breakdown. This created an unusually good result for North-South, who scored up a game only because of the defenders' largesse.

The response of three spades to two no-trump was forcing, giving South a choice of playing three no-trump or four spades. With only two cards in support of spades, South properly bid three no-trump. When West led the two of diamonds, East played the jack, wishing to maintain communications in the event that West had led from three cards to the 10. South won the diamond king and, with only seven tricks to take, even with the club suit splitting, immediately played the king of spades. West took the ace and played a second diamond. East won the queen and cashed the ace, but now when a fourth diamond was played, West had to win the 10 and had no way to get East in to take the setting trick with his last diamond.

What caused the foul-up? It must have been the order in which East took his later diamond tricks. When West played a second diamond, East should have won with the ace and then played the queen. Playing his winning diamonds in that order would have commanded West to unblock the 10 so that East could cash the nine and then the eight.

Kid's author wins animal rights law

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Thanks to Astrid's Law, dogs' tails in Sweden are safe from cosmetic trimming and barnyard animals are guaranteed a better life, at least until they get to the slaughterhouse.

The law, which took effect July 1, was the result of a campaign by children's author Astrid Lindgren, creator of Pippi Longstocking and a host of other characters who have enchanted children in dozens of countries.

It was a remarkable achievement, even for a woman who once helped bring down a government. It reflected the reverence with which Swedes regard a storyteller who has spellbound three generations.

The law was Mrs. Lindgren's birthday present from the government. When she turned 80 last November, Prime Minister Ingvar Carlsson visited her Stockholm apartment to tell her the Animal Protection Law was being drafted and would be informally but affectionately called "Lex Astrid."

"We are going to take more consideration of the animals' health and well being," he told her.

Mrs. Lindgren, a farmer's daughter, long had agitated against cruelty to animals, but the campaign gained momentum last year when she wrote in an open letter to Carlsson: "every pig is entitled to a happy pig life."

She complained that calves often were locked in barns and slaughtered "without ever seeing a summer pasture." She asked Carlsson "to make life a little bit easier for many unhappy animals in our country."

The wide-ranging law guarantees cattle the right to graze, and cows and pigs the right to stalls with straw and bedding. It says chickens should be freed from their coops within 10 years, and animals should be protected from undue suffering before slaughter.

It also outlaws the drugging of horses in racing and riding competitions and says animals may not be beaten repeatedly with a stick or whip beyond "a light strike." Riding schools and fur farms must be licensed.

It made Sweden the second country after Norway to ban the cropping of dogs' tails for cosmetic reasons.

It was not the first time Mrs. Lindgren ventured from her fantasy world to shake up the politicians.

In 1976 she wrote a satirical fairy tale widely publicized in the daily press dramatizing her complaint against the system of taxation that finances the generous social benefits of the Swedish welfare state.

Mrs. Lindgren calculated that she paid more than 100 percent in taxes on her income, because of a quirky combination of local tax, income tax and social tax for the self-employed.

Her indignation at having to pay to write profitable books contributed to a growing fatigue among the voters with the Social Democratic Party.

Right-wing opposition parties had decried the tax system as unfair for years, but Mrs. Lindgren's lament had a far wider impact in the 1976 election. The Social Democrats were ousted, returning to power in 1982.

Psychology experts legal testimony often wrong

WASHINGTON (AP) — Courts trying to determine if defendants will commit violent crimes in the future would do just as well to flip a coin as to listen to the "expert" testimony of psychiatrists and psychologists, a study published today indicates.

The inaccuracy of judgments by trained clinicians raises "substantial doubt that psychologists or psychiatrists meet legal standards for expertise," says the report published in the journal Science.

The study was conducted by David Faust, an associate professor of psychology at Brown University, and Jay Ziskin, a California lawyer and psychiatrist for opinions. But Faust, in a telephone interview Thursday, said the accuracy of these opinions is questionable.

"In many studies the error rate well exceeds the accuracy rate," Faust said. "There is virtually no evidence that experts are any better equipped to make those judgments than are lay individuals."

Young woman talks about alleged gang rape ordeal

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A 19-year-old woman who told authorities she was gang-raped March 26 said she screamed and fought off her attackers until she fainted, then woke up and started fighting again.

She suffered through the four-hour ordeal sometimes in the glare of a hand-held spotlight, with jeers and laughter from men and women ringing in her ears, she told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times in a copyright story published Thursday.

On April 21, a Duval County grand jury indicted 10 men in connection with the case. The first trial is scheduled for July 11.

Describing the incident publicly for the first time, the woman and her husband told the Caller-Times in a copyright story the resulting anguish has devastated them and their two small children and relatives.

The woman said the incident began about 11 p.m. as she was walking home from her husband's uncle's house in the same neighborhood.

"The street was dark, because they had turned off the street lights," she said, referring to the city of San Diego's move to turn off street lights as a money-saving measure.

When she turned into an alley leading to the entrance to her home, she said, four men in a car drove up behind her.

"They asked me if I wanted to go riding," she said. "I told them no. I kept walking. And the two (men) in the back seat got out and pulled me into the car."

He said some studies have shown that experts are accurate in their predictions less than half the time.

"If you flip a coin, you ought to be right 50 percent of the time," said Faust. "So there are studies showing accuracies of less than chance."

Education, he said, often has little to do with predicting violent behavior.

"One study using high school students showed that their accuracy was similar to that of experts in predicting violent behavior," Faust said.

In the Science article, Faust and Ziskin cited a series of studies that they said showed "clinicians are wrong at least twice as often as they are correct" in predicting violent behavior.

They said one study followed 967 patients who had been placed in maximum security hospitals on the basis of a psychiatric determination of dangerousness. They later were transferred to ordinary mental hospitals. After four years, only half of the group was still in the hospitals and only 26 patients who had been judged potentially violent had actually committed violent acts during that time.

NOTICE TO CITY OF SNYDER WATER CUSTOMERS

Dear Customer:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has adopted requirements that all public water systems notify their customers about lead exposure. This notification is intended to educate and inform consumers on this issue in light of the fact that your drinking water may be a potential source of lead exposure. This is being done even though your water system is not in violation of the current standard. There are also other potential sources of lead contamination in the environment.

The following specific language is required by EPA in this notice:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

1. if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
2. if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
 - if the home is less than five years old, or
 - if you have soft or acidic water, or
 - if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Ways to avoid potential lead exposure are to "flush" faucets before use and to use cold water for drinking and cooking. You may wish to have your home tap water tested for lead content by a competent Laboratory. You may also wish to check to see if lead pipes, solder, or flux were used in your home plumbing.

(a) Steps the City of Snyder is taking to mitigate lead content:

1. Ordinance meeting EPA requirements.
2. Replacing any existing mains that do not meet EPA standards.

Drought benefits couple

STRASBURG, Colo. (AP) — Jack and Lorna Rhine, dryland farmers who depend solely on rainfall, feel almost guilty talking about their thriving wheat fields while farmers in the drought-stricken Midwest and South pray for rain.

Abundance for the Rhines means 6 or 7 inches of rain in the last two months, compared to about 3 inches during those months most years and an average annual rainfall of about 14 inches.

Who was to blame?

By James Jacoby

Here is an unfortunate deal in which the defenders started with the best line of attack but then had a serious breakdown. This created an unusually good result for North-South, who scored up a game only because of the defenders' largesse.

The response of three spades to two no-trump was forcing, giving South a choice of playing three no-trump or four spades. With only two cards in support of spades, South properly bid three no-trump. When West led the two of diamonds, East played the jack, wishing to maintain communications in the event that West had led from three cards to the 10. South won the diamond king and, with only seven tricks to take, even with the club suit splitting, immediately played the king of spades. West took the ace and played a second diamond. East won the queen and cashed the ace, but now when a fourth diamond was played, West had to win the 10 and had no way to get East in to take the setting trick with his last diamond.

Psychology experts legal testimony often wrong

WASHINGTON (AP) — Courts trying to determine if defendants will commit violent crimes in the future would do just as well to flip a coin as to listen to the "expert" testimony of psychiatrists and psychologists, a study published today indicates.

The inaccuracy of judgments by trained clinicians raises "substantial doubt that psychologists or psychiatrists meet legal standards for expertise," says the report published in the journal Science.

The study was conducted by David Faust, an associate professor of psychology at Brown University, and Jay Ziskin, a California lawyer and psychologist.

They found that laymen without degrees or clinical experience often can make courtroom evaluations of violent defendants as accurately as psychologists and psychiatrists.

And making decisions by just the flip of a coin, Faust said, often is more accurate than the judgments of the experts.

Life or death decisions by juries may be influenced by psychological experts who are called to testify in criminal trials on the mental state of defendants, or their potential for violence.

In many states, the punishment phase of capital murder trials takes into consideration a prediction of the continued violent behavior of the defendant. Prosecutors and defense lawyers frequently call on psychologists or psychiatrists for opinions.

But Faust, in a telephone interview Thursday, said the accuracy of these opinions is questionable.

"In many studies the error rate well exceeds the accuracy rate," Faust said. "There is virtually no evidence that experts are any better equipped to make those judgments than are lay individuals."

Young woman talks about alleged gang rape ordeal

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A 19-year-old woman who told authorities she was gang-raped March 26 said she screamed and fought off her attackers until she fainted, then woke up and started fighting again.

She suffered through the four-hour ordeal sometimes in the glare of a hand-held spotlight, with jeers and laughter from men and women ringing in her ears, she told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times in a copyright story published Thursday.

On April 21, a Duval County grand jury indicted 10 men in connection with the case. The first trial is scheduled for July 11.

Describing the incident publicly for the first time, the woman and her husband told the Caller-Times in a copyright story the resulting anguish has devastated them and their two small children and relatives.

The woman said the incident began about 11 p.m. as she was walking home from her husband's uncle's house in the same neighborhood.

"The street was dark, because they had turned off the street lights," she said, referring to the city of San Diego's move to turn off street lights as a money-saving measure.

When she turned into an alley leading to the entrance to her home, she said, four men in a car drove up behind her.

"They asked me if I wanted to go riding," she said. "I told them no. I kept walking. And the two (men) in the back seat got out and pulled me into the car."

He said some studies have shown that experts are accurate in their predictions less than half the time.

"If you flip a coin, you ought to be right 50 percent of the time," said Faust. "So there are studies showing accuracies of less than chance."

Education, he said, often has little to do with predicting violent behavior.

"One study using high school students showed that their accuracy was similar to that of experts in predicting violent behavior," Faust said.

In the Science article, Faust and Ziskin cited a series of studies that they said showed "clinicians are wrong at least twice as often as they are correct" in predicting violent behavior.

They said one study followed 967 patients who had been placed in maximum security hospitals on the basis of a psychiatric determination of dangerousness. They later were transferred to ordinary mental hospitals. After four years, only half of the group was still in the hospitals and only 26 patients who had been judged potentially violent had actually committed violent acts during that time.

Robert Clive, the English general and statesman who founded the British empire in India, was born in 1725.

NOTICE TO CITY OF SNYDER WATER CUSTOMERS

Dear Customer:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has adopted requirements that all public water systems notify their customers about lead exposure. This notification is intended to educate and inform consumers on this issue in light of the fact that your drinking water may be a potential source of lead exposure. This is being done even though your water system is not in violation of the current standard. There are also other potential sources of lead contamination in the environment.

The following specific language is required by EPA in this notice:

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

1. if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
2. if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
 - if the home is less than five years old, or
 - if you have soft or acidic water, or
 - if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Ways to avoid potential lead exposure are to "flush" faucets before use and to use cold water for drinking and cooking. You may wish to have your home tap water tested for lead content by a competent Laboratory. You may also wish to check to see if lead pipes, solder, or flux were used in your home plumbing.

- (a) Steps the City of Snyder is taking to mitigate lead content:
 1. Ordinance meeting EPA requirements.
 2. Replacing any existing mains that do not meet EPA standards.
- (b) Contact the following for additional information:

Dukakis campaigns with the UAW

By The Associated Press
Republican George Bush and Democrat Michael Dukakis gave contrasting pictures of the economy as Republicans continued work on a party platform that they said would have more meat than the Democratic document.

The disagreements over how well off Americans really are occurred as Dukakis prepared to visit a United Auto Workers union hall in Dayton, Ohio, and Bush returned to his vacation home in Kennebunkport, Maine, for a celebration of his mother's 87th birthday today.

Dukakis was returning tonight to Boston, where he and his wife, Kitty, planned to celebrate the Fourth of July with Jesse Jackson and his wife, Jackie.

Jackson, who has pressed for an offer of the No. 2 position on the Democratic ticket, will meet Monday night with Dukakis, said Dayton Duncan, Dukakis' campaign press secretary. The aide gave no indication what the two might discuss.

The Massachusetts governor faced continued heat from opponents in the Statehouse who criticized him for campaigning while the state ended its fiscal year with a nearly $400 million deficit Thursday and without a budget for the next year. A series of tax bills and fee-raising measures to help the state pay for expanded spending in fiscal 1989 was nearing enactment.

Bush told a luncheon group in New York that paid $10,000 a couple to hear him speak that the country has been enjoying an economic recovery since late 1982, the longest peacetime expansion in history. He said that two years ago economists predicted a downturn that hasn't arrived.

"Wrong, wrong, wrong," Bush said. "No wonder it's called the 'dismal science.'" Bush said: "Liberals promise compassion but they deliver misery."

Dukakis told employees at a Reynolds Aluminum Co. plant outside Chicago that the average weekly wage for jobs lost between 1979 and 1985 was $440, while the average weekly pay for new jobs during that period was only $270.

"Too many of our families are struggling to hold on, challenged by change, anxious about their jobs, burdened by the rising costs of health care and housing and college tuition, troubled by the lack of quality affordable child care," Dukakis said.

Republicans meeting in Los Angeles to draft a party platform criticized the Democrats' platform document as lacking content and trying to conceal a tax and spend policy.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas said the Democrats kept their platform short because "they don't have much to talk about. ... I mean, who wants to talk about raising your taxes and more regulation and more spending?"

Dole, asked if he wanted the No. 2 job, said: "I don't think it's a question of wanting it. ... It's a question of winning the election, helping your party and trying to help your country. I'd want to be majority leader if I had my choice."

Rep. Jack Kemp of New York told reporters at the meeting he does not expect to be picked by Bush as a running mate, but said Dole might be.

"I'm not after it because I don't think it's going to be offered," said Kemp, adding that from "all of the signals, all of the press reports coming out of the Bush campaign, it sounds to me like they're leaning to Bob Dole."

Jackson refused to comment on whether he would use the Dukakis visit to disclose whether he wants to pursue the second spot on the ticket.

"At this point, I will simply pursue the process and convey my private conclusions to Gov. Dukakis" later, he said.

President Franklin Roosevelt signed into law the National Labor Relations Act in 1935.

Trial lawyers said to seek workers' comp legislation

AUSTIN (AP) — In response to rising workers' compensation premiums, the Texas Trial Lawyers Association will ask legislators to set up a system for quickly gathering data to make sure rates are not discriminatory, says the president of the association.

David Perry, of Corpus Christi, also said Thursday trial lawyers also would propose industrial safety legislation.

In the long run, he said, reducing the number of workers' deaths and injuries "is the best answer to reducing insurance premiums."

Perry briefed reporters on the association's position on workers' compensation prior to a committee hearing on the issue Friday.

He said according to numbers over the past 10 years, the "litigation system presents a picture of stability and constancy and predictability and, on a per capita basis, a decline."

"What we have is a problem not with the litigation system but with the ratemaking system," he said.

For example, placing a small employer in an assigned risk insurance pool because specific data is not available can result in a 30 percent surcharge on the employer, Perry said.

"A lot of what the Legislature needs to do is pass legislation that will require that the data be reported to state agencies so it can be used and analyzed on a publicly available basis," he said.

Dear Abby

Woman Wishes She Had More Than Memories of Boyfriend

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1968 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am 41, happily married and the mother of two teenagers. I have a sad story from my past that I want to share with your readers, especially couples who are living together and think it's the same as being married.

Back in the '60s when I was 22, I had been living with my boyfriend for two years. I wanted marriage, but "John" said we didn't need any "little piece of paper" to keep us together — we were as good as married.

Well, John was in a terrible auto accident. When I rushed to the hospital, they wouldn't let me see him because I wasn't his next of kin — I was not even a relative! I sat in the waiting area for 20 hours until his mother arrived from out of town and asked the doctors to let me see John. He died the next day without regaining consciousness. His mother, whom he had not seen for several years (they did not get along), made all the funeral arrangements without consulting me. She had his body cremated and sent to a distant state where she lived for burial. She took all his clothing, books and personal belongings from our apartment and left me nothing that belonged to John. She was also the sole beneficiary of his insurance, so I received nothing.

Suddenly that "little piece of paper" seemed mighty important. So, Abby, please tell your readers that living together means nothing in the eyes of the law.

OLDER AND WISER
IN MINNEAPOLIS

DEAR OLDER AND WISER: Your point is well-taken and well worth passing along, but in some states living together for a specified number of years constitutes common-law marriage that is recognized in those states as legal and binding. Unfortunately for you, Minnesota is not one of them.

So, dear readers, if you are living with someone and assume it's just as good as being married, you'd be wise to find out if your state recognizes common-law marriages. Most do not.

DEAR ABBY: I have been seeing a retired, 60-year-old married man for nearly two years. (He is separated from his wife.) He says he loves me and we have slept together, but when I bring up the subject of marriage, he says he is in no hurry to get a divorce.

We live in different towns, and I work, so I can spend only weekends with him, in the house he shared with his wife for more than 25 years. (They raised six children.)

While I am at his house, I do all the cooking, cleaning, laundry and ironing. I would like to make some plans for the future because I am only 36 years old and see no other man but him.

I really care for him and want to get married, but he seems happy with things the way they are. He never takes me anywhere. We just stay home and watch old movies.

How can I get him to make a commitment? Or do you think I'm wasting my time?

HOPING FOR MORE

DEAR HOPING: Until you can get a firm commitment out of this man, you are wasting your time. And if he isn't paying you for domestic services, he's getting a free cook, laundress and cleaning woman, plus a weekend lover. You can't force him to make a commitment, but you can give him a deadline, and I suggest you do.

Wedding bells? Wedding bills! Who pays for what and everything else you need to know if you're planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address, clearly printed, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054 (postage and handling included).

Prisoner shuffling to prevent escape has prompted riots

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Bexar County jail guards and prisoners threw punches, swung broken chairs and bit and scratched each other, but Sheriff Harlon Copeland says the fight was only a resistance.

The disturbance at the new Bexar County Adult Detention facility began about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday when three captured escapees were going to be placed in maximum security areas.

But 19 other inmates on the sixth floor, which houses a gang called the "Mexican Mafia," protested and the scuffle ensued.

In all, 10 guards and seven prisoners were taken to area hospitals for treatment and two other inmates were continuing to receive treatment Thursday, hospital officials said.

But Copeland has tried to downplay the uprising.

"It was not a riot. They just resisted a little," he said Thursday. "They wanted to fight. They were part of the Mexican Mafia. They didn't have anything to lose. They are part of an organization and they're pretty tough people."

Copeland declined to release the names of the injured guards and prisoners until charges were filed against the inmates later today.

The incident began late Wednesday after Henry Leal, 28, a prisoner who escaped from the jail in May was recaptured.

While Leal waited on the first floor of the jail, Copeland ordered that three other captured escapees, who had fled with Leal and later were recaptured, to be put in maximum security.

The three were in a large room on the sixth floor along with members of the "Mexican Mafia," Copeland said.

TU Electric releases message on security

TU Electric is reminding its customers this month to ask for identification when anyone claiming to be from the electric company approaches them at home. The company is including the security message in the mail with its July bills.

"We are trying to take every possible step to avoid criminal activity by any imposter claiming to be from the electric company," said George Hedrick, manager of public information. "If a TU Electric employee knocks on your door, there will be a legitimate reason and the employee will be happy to show you a photo identification card."

Some TU Electric employees such as meter readers wear uniforms, and some employees do not. The company says it is a good idea for customers to ask for identification from any such stranger who comes to their door, whether or not the person is in uniform. Customers who are still not sure of the identity after seeing an ID card should call their local TU Electric office for verification (573-5461).

If someone comes to your home and claims to be from TU Electric but refuses to show identification, the company urges you to not allow the person to enter your home. After the person leaves, you should inform the local TU Electric office or local law enforcement authorities immediately.

The message being sent to TU Electric this month is one of the company's periodic reminders regarding safety and security.

TU Electric serves more than two million customers in 361 cities across the northern third of Texas.

Dr. Gott

Trauma recurs at special times

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I developed schizophrenia in 1951. The two acute episodes occurred on anniversaries of particularly emotional events in my life. Could you please discuss the "anniversary reaction"?

DEAR READER: Anniversaries are an important part of our culture and are influential in our personal lives. Most of us accept anniversaries with varying degrees of deference and enthusiasm. We tend to be happy on certain anniversaries, such as Christmas and other birthdays, and sad at other memorable times, such as the anniversary of the death of a loved one or a public figure. Such anniversaries mean more — or less — to each of us, depending on the type of emotional investment we have in them.

Patients with emotional disorders sometimes are affected too greatly by anniversaries. A memorable event, far from becoming dim with time, may seem to take on a life of its own; it may become increasingly more important — even though it is merely a date on the calendar. To the extent that emotionally disturbed people focus on anniversaries to the detriment of their lives in general, treatment may be necessary. Obsessive behavior in any context is abnormal.

Anniversary reactions do occur. In my view, they must be treated as any other behavioral malfunction, depending on their seriousness. For example, I once knew a woman who became suicidal on the anniversary of her divorce, even though the event occurred several years previously. Every year, on a certain date, she became a threat to herself. With therapy and the judicious use of antidepressant drugs, she was finally able to overcome her intense feelings of rage, guilt and insecurity. She recovered once a balance had been achieved in her life and the bitter anniversary was put into a more healthy perspective.

To give you more general information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report, "Mental and Emotional Illness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: How do I go about getting a copy of my medical records? I don't feel that my doctor is telling me everything. I'm blind in one eye and have major vision problems in the other, yet he tells me I have 20/20 vision.

DEAR READER: First of all, find an ophthalmologist who is more sympathetic to your predicament. You can then request that the first doctor send your records to the second. I am sure that the new specialist would be willing to review the contents of your records with you. Although you could probably insist on obtaining the information yourself, I'm afraid that the doctor's technical notes wouldn't mean much to you unless they were translated by another physician. Get help from a second M.D.

37th Street...

Church of Christ is planning 35th anniversary event

Four former ministers and many former members are due to return this weekend for homecoming and the 35th anniversary observance of the 37th Street Church of Christ.

Three days of activities are scheduled starting at 7 p.m. Saturday when Warder K. Novak, the congregation's first minister, will speak. Also on the program is Bob Hare, missionary to Eastern Europe. This will be followed by a fellowship in the Family Center.

On Sunday, former minister Durward Boggs will speak at the 9:30 a.m. combined Bible class. Charlie T. Garner of Florida will speak at the 10:30 a.m. worship service and Randy Gray of California will speak at the 6 p.m. service.

On Sunday there will be a noon meal for members and those returning to the homecoming. On Monday, men are invited to participate in golf and women will have a 10 a.m. coffee in the Family Center.

The first service at 37th Street was held on July 5, 1953, and former members of the congregation have been invited to return for the homecoming observance.

The congregation was formed with the support of the long-established 25th Street Church of Christ, which is now the East Side Church of Christ.

The decision to build a new building on 37th Street was made after the discovery of the Kelly-Snyder oil field which resulted in a boom that overflowed the 25th Street facilities. The 37th Street location was chosen by a site selection committee composed of Claude McCormick, Gordon Smith and the late Earl McDow.

In its original form, the 37th Street building had an auditorium seating 600, nine classrooms, an office, a minister's study and restrooms, all built at a cost of about $130,000. The building has since been expanded, but it looks much the same as it did in 1953 except for minor remodeling. The auditorium was enlarged in 1969 and now seats 800.

As result of building projects over the years, there are now 18 classrooms, three offices and a conference room. A residence was constructed on the northeast corner of the property soon after the church was built. The Family Center on the northwest corner was completed in time to dedicate during the 30th anniversary celebration in 1983.

Novak was the first minister and he was followed by Dale Brooks, Durward Boggs, Maxie Boren, Pat Abbananto, Charlie Garner and Randy Gray.

Rick Cunningham has been minister of the church since December of 1986. Bill Looney, associate minister, joined the staff in 1981. Roy Rosson is campus minister and is in charge of the Christian Student Center at Western Texas College.

Serving as the congregation's first elders were Ennis Floyd, Alfred Leib, McDow, Jay Rogers, and Jude Hale.

Current membership is 400 with about 225 family units represented.

Currently serving as elders are Charles Anderson, Dan Cotton, Dan Dever, I.E. Martin, Willie Masters, Frank Pruitt and Bob Watlington.

Texas banks are target of scheme to eliminate debt

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Several banks appear to be targets of a scheme to enable borrowers to escape repayment of hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt, officials said.

The scheme, promoted by a right-wing organization that recruits customers through fundamentalist churches, is known as "debt elimination service."

The organization called "Justice for All" operates the program under the premise that the banks "enslave" people in a trap of debt and credit, the San Antonio Light reported Thursday. It has been operating in San Antonio since April through a company called the Topaz Connection and is run by Roberta "Bobbie" Dupre in a small, four-room suite in northwest San Antonio.

Karen Neely, general counsel of the Texas Bankers Association, said San Antonio is the first Texas city where the scheme has emerged.

New York and Boston were linked by telegraph wires in 1847.

Disputed call causes controversy but...

Navratilova, Graf reach Wimbledon finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - A small piece of tennis history is in the making at Wimbledon.

The question is: Which piece? Martina Navratilova and Steffi Graf, both aiming for landmarks in their respective careers, reached the final of the women's singles Thursday.

But one puff of chalk might have made all the difference.

The ending of Navratilova's 6-1, 4-6, 7-5 victory over long-time rival Chris Evert overshadowed for the moment the winner's bid to clinch a record ninth Wimbledon singles crown.

It also took the spotlight away from West Germany's Graf, whose 6-1, 6-2 trouncing of Pam Shriver kept her on course for the third leg of the Grand Slam.

Facing her fourth match point in a rain-interrupted semifinal that grew in excitement, Evert hit a cross-court forehand that clipped the net and whizzed past Navratilova.

Evert thought it was in, the crowd thought it was in,

52 tee off in Jr. Tour

Fifty-two young golfers tee off this morning in the West Texas Chapter PGA Junior Tour event, being held at Snyder Country Club.

The 18-hole event is one of a number of stops on the junior tour.

Golfers are competing in three age groups - 12 to 13, 14 to 15 and 16 to 18.

First and second place winners qualify for the Junior Tour Championship, to be held at Ranchland Hills in Midland on Aug. 9-10.

Navratilova wasn't sure. But line judge David Shepherd called it out, and umpire Richard Lumb upheld the call.

"I was just stunned," Evert said. "It was bad luck considering the match was so close."

While the controversy reverberated round the dignified corridors of the All England Club, Graf and Navratilova took today off to prepare for a repeat of last year's final, which the American won in straight sets.

Today was set aside for the men's semifinals on Centre Court, with one player going for his third title in four years, and the other three bidding for a first success in the world's oldest Grand Slam tournament.

First up was Stefan Edberg against Miloslav Mecir, neither of whom have reached the championship match at Wimbledon.

That was being followed by Ivan Lendl's clash with 1985 and 1986 titlist Boris Becker in a repeat of the final two years ago, when the West German won in straight sets. Lendl also came up short last year, losing the final to Australian Pat Cash.

Navratilova said that in all her previous 77 meetings with Evert, never had she known such a confusing, unsatisfactory ending, "especially here."

"It's a shame that it had to be so close for it to end that way," Navratilova said.

The match, interrupted for 70 minutes by rain in the middle of the second set, was nearing a tense climax when it burst into controversy.

Evert had already saved three match points and was certain she had staved off another, showing rare emotion on court as she pumped her fists in exultation.

But as she turned to serve again at what she assumed was deuce, she noticed Shepherd had stuck out his right arm to indicate the ball was wide.

She couldn't believe it, and stood her ground for several seconds as the crowd booed the decision.

When Evert questioned the call, umpire Richard Lumb refused to yield, announcing "the ball was called out."

The crowd booed again and a match that had begun poorly but gradually became a thriller ended in a way neither player wanted.

"It was a bad break for me," Evert, a three-time champion but a loser for the last six years, said.

READY FOR TOURNAMENT HERE - The annual Fourth of July Tennis Tournament begins here Saturday, headquartered at the junior high courts. Action starts at 9 a.m. The tournament will continue through Monday. Entries have been received from throughout the area. Perennial champion Larry Wiggins of San Antonio is among those entered. A number of Snyder players will be competing, including Kevin Winter and Brandon Martin, pictured right to left above. (SDN Staff Photo)

Trio surprised to lead Western Open

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) - Brian Mogg didn't expect to have a share of the first round lead in the $900,000 Western Open.

Mark Hayes was considerably less than certain he'd retain his high standing.

And Morris Hatalsky was absolutely sure he'd have to change things if he is to remain among the pace-setters.

Those three each had 6-under-par 66s on the Butler National Golf Club Thursday, and each was a little surprised.

"I had no idea this was going to happen. Maybe that's why it did," Mogg said after the best round of his brief career. The eight birdies he scored also represented a personal best, Mogg said.

"I'm not the kind of guy who makes a lot of birdies. But I like it. This is fun," said Mogg, who hasn't finished higher than 28th as a professional.

Mogg, who lost his playing rights after the 1986 season because of poor play, is making a second try at the PGA Tour this year.

The veteran Hayes, 38, whose last official victory came in 1977, is trying to regain the touch and control he had a decade ago.

"It's been a long haul. Sometimes I wonder if it's ever going to get there. Sometimes I think I'm seeing bits of improvement, and the next day it goes the other way," said Hayes, who played without a bogey on a warm, windy day.

Hatalsky also had a bogey-free round, but it was more of an adventure.

Hatalsky one-putted 12 times, seven times for scrambling pars. He missed the green on four of his last five holes and saved par on all of them.

"I'm going to have to hit the ball better, hit a lot more greens, if I'm going to have any chance to stay among the leaders," said Hatalsky, who won the Kemper Open three weeks ago.

A last-hole bogey cost Tom Sieckmann a share of the lead and left him alone at 67. South African Fulton Allem and Dan Forsman followed at 68.

The group at 69 included Bill Glasson, Rocco Mediate, Steve Pate, Bob Tway and Dave Rummels.

Defending champion D.A. Weibring had a 70. PGA titleholder Larry Nelson, the winner of last week's Atlanta Classic, shot 71. And Tom Watson, a three-time winner of this title, matched par 72.

WHITE SOX WIN AT TOURNAMENT

FL White Sox 11, Clyde Bombers 7

Theron Taylor struck out seven batters in three and a half innings and the Snyder Farm League White Sox defeated Clyde in area tournament action in Breckenridge on Thursday.

The White Sox are to play the Breckenridge Bobcats today at 8 p.m. as the tournament continues.

Taylor also got one of three hits for the Sox on Thursday. He bagged a single while Marcellino Aguirre punched a triple and Tommy Fisk rapped a double. Second baseman Kurtis McCathern was credited with three solid defensive plays to aid the cause.

McCathern also scored the tying run of the game while Chris Hernandez sacrificed to bring in two other runs.

JUNIOR TEENAGE LEAGUE

Bufs 9, Bullets 1

Winning pitcher John Conger slammed a double and a single to pace the Bufs to a victory over the Bullets on Thursday.

Gilbert Hernandez and Justin House both slapped two singles for the Bufs while Scott Aviles knocked a double and Les Rinehart and Raymond House added one single each.

Andy Garza got the Bullets' only hit, a single. Terry Leatherwood took the loss.

The Bufs are now 3-1 in the second round. The Bullets are 0-3-1.

Dodgers 14, Rebels 5

Daniel Espinosa powered a triple and two singles to help the Dodgers rip the Rebels this week.

Ronnie Pruitt walked home with winning pitcher honors. He also chipped in with a single, as did Wes Evans, Blair Williams and Grant Jordan.

Terry White punched a double and a single for the Rebels. Terry Stephens added one single. David Hinojos took the defeat.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

Snyder Police Assn. and Aux. Jammers 18, Noon Kiwanis Club Blue Babes 9

Tiffany Bly earned WP status for the squad. Lea Tarter scored four times.

Misty Watson led the Babes with a double. Lindsey Northcott, Yvette Ramos and Angee Crawford hit a single apiece.

Snyder National Bank Terminators 22, McDonald's Golden Girls 9

April Blair and Angela Good each cracked a double and a single to help the Terminators stop the Golden Girls.

The Golden Girls were led by Amy Ramirez's home run.

Also hitting for the Terminators were Misty Jenkins, Renee Matthews, Rosey Maldonado, Karri Blackledge and winning pitcher Sherry Fisk, one single apiece.

Others hitting for the Golden Girls were Lee Ann Owens, a triple and a single; Shauna Jenkins, two doubles; Rebecca Ramey, one double; and Carrie Keith, Michelle Blythe and Stephanie Molina, one single apiece.

Clyde 8, Craig Merritt Trucking, Div. IV 5

Five errors didn't help when Snyder's Division IV team went up against Clyde on Thursday.

Both teams managed three singles. Melissa Suggs was the winning pitcher. Tekka Dent relieved. Sandra Morin took the loss.

Hitting one single apiece for Snyder were Morin, Holly Fuller and Barbara Chapman.

Snyder Police Assn. and Aux. Jammers 8, McDonald's Golden Girls 4

Dessie Ware slammed a home run and earned winning pitcher honors in this game, played recently.

Lisa Rodriguez bounced a triple and Tiffany Bly added a single.

For the Golden Girls, Rebecca Ramey hit a triple; Shauna Jenkins and Angie Burselson popped two singles each; and Amy Ramirez, Sherri Russell and Stephanie Molina slapped a single apiece.

FIFA bans Mexican soccer team from World Cup, 1988 Olympics

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - Mexico, which hosted the 1986 World Cup, won't be playing in the 1990 soccer world championship.

The Mexicans were banned from the 1988 Olympics and qualifying for the 1990 World Cup by FIFA, soccer's governing body, which said on Thursday that Mexico used four overage players in qualifying for next year's world junior championship.

When FIFA imposed the two-year ban, it meant Mexico, which had qualified for the Olympic soccer tournament and had a bye in the first round of World Cup qualifying, would miss the next two biggest international soccer tournaments. Mexico was scheduled to play the winner of matches between Costa Rica and Panama later this summer in the second round.

The ban is retroactive to April 25, the end of the qualifying tournament for the junior world championship in Guatemala City. The Mexican under-20 squad also was thrown out of the 1989 junior tournament in Saudi Arabia. FIFA replaced Mexico with the United States, which lost to Mexico April 24 in the final qualifying game.

"With this judgment, FIFA has made good on its repeated threats of penalties for violations of age limits," the federation said in a statement.

FIFA said it would announce next week which country would replace Mexico in the Olympics. It also will announce what changes would be made to Mexico's World Cup qualifying group.

Shumate pledges he'll keep Mustang cage program clean

DALLAS (AP) - As long as he's in charge, John Shumate says, Southern Methodist's basketball program won't suffer the same troubles as the football program.

Shumate, a former Notre Dame All-American player and assistant coach, said that academic success would get as much attention as winning games.

SMU officials "believe in getting the job done the right way, because it can be done the right way," Shumate said. "It's tougher, it's more difficult, but that's what it's all about."

Shumate, 36, was named Thursday as coach of SMU, replacing Dave Bliss, who moved to the University of New Mexico after leading the Mustangs into the NCAA Tournament last season.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed, although The Dallas Morning News reported it was a five-year pact worth about $100,000.

Shumate said he plans an upbeat style of play, and described himself as a "hands-on" coach who sometimes gets on the court to show players how he wants things done.

He is also the school's first black head coach in any sport.

Shumate, who played for six teams during a seven-year NBA career, said he took the SMU job after talking with Athletic Director Doug Single, SMU President

A. Kenneth Pye and a committee of students, players and faculty members. Shumate said he was convinced after those meetings that SMU is committed to educating its athletes.

The school's football program was suspended for the 1987 season by the NCAA for repeated recruiting violations, making SMU the first school ever subjected to the "death penalty."

SMU gave up its 1988 season as well after the NCAA had limited the school to only seven games, all on the road. Football scholarships have been trimmed to 15 per year through 1990.

Single introduced Shumate as someone who "can be a tremendous role model."

"We've got a guy that I think can keep us on top of the Southwest Conference," Single said. "We want a national power."

Shumate joins a team on the upswing. Under Bliss, the Mustangs won their first regular-season conference title since 1967 while posting a school-record 28 victories.

Shumate moved into coaching in 1983 at Grand Canyon College of Phoenix, leading the Antelopes to a 58-33 record before returning to Notre Dame in 1986 as an assistant to his former coach, Digger Phelps.

Method for measuring fish changes

AUSTIN (AP) - The method used for measuring fish under state length limits will change Sept. 1, and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is telling fishermen to use the new technique on both fresh and saltwater fish.

The new rule says total length "is the straight line distance measured perpendicularly from the tip of the snout to the extreme tip of the tail that is squeezed together or rotated to produce the maximum overall length while the fish is lying on its side with the jaw closed."

The new regulation requires that the tail be squeezed together "to form a straight line with the fish's backbone."

Phil Durocher, inland fisheries management coordinator, said the new regulation was adopted to simplify and clarify the way fish are measured.

Yeltsin makes appeal

MOSCOW (AP) — Ousted Moscow Communist Party boss Boris N. Yeltsin, a former protégé of Mikhail S. Gorbachev, today appealed to the Communist Party conference for his political rehabilitation, Tass said.

Earlier today, the nation's top environmental official demanded punishment for planners responsible for pollution disasters and a reformist publisher defended the new openness of the press.

Publisher Grigory Baklanov also attacked the 1979 decision to send Soviet troops into Afghanistan and called for guarantees to ensure such a decision was never repeated.

It was not known exactly when the 5,000 delegates would wind up the conference Gorbachev called to assess his 3-year-old reform program and chart a course for the future.

Officials originally said the conference, the first in 47 years, would run from Tuesday through today. But only 53 of 274 scheduled speakers had taken the floor by midday, Moscow radio said.

Yeltsin was ousted last November as head of the Moscow Communist Party after he gave a speech to the Central Committee last October in which he attacked the slow pace of reform. The speech has not been published.

Yeltsin today "asked the delegates ... for his political rehabilitation," Tass said in a terse report. "He set forth his position on a number of aspects of perestroika." It gave no details.

Yeltsin lost his post after a meeting of the Moscow party organization attended by Gorbachev, who sharply criticized his former protégé for being overly ambitious.

Yeltsin was reassigned as first deputy of the state construction committee, a ministerial-level post.

During the May 29-June 2 superpower summit, Yeltsin gave two interviews to Western television companies in which he called for the resignation of Kremlin No. 2 official Yegor K. Ligachev. He said Ligachev was the party official most responsible for holding back Gorbachev's reforms.

Yeltsin was elected to the party conference as a delegate from Karelia, a far northern region on the border with Finland.

On Thursday, Gorbachev made an emotional appeal for his proposals to redistribute power, emphasizing that political change is essential if his reforms are to succeed where similar attempts failed.

He suggested in his second speech to the conference that socialism will perish if his proposals to restore more power to legislative councils are blocked.

Russian revolutionary Vladimir I. Lenin was born in 1870.

Catastrophic illness bill signed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today signed legislation increasing Medicare benefits and taxes to cover the costs of catastrophic illness, but warned that unless the cost of the program is kept under control it could "harm the very people we are trying to help."

"If administered with prudence, this program can provide countless Americans with peace of mind," the president said at a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden.

"I must add a word of caution," Reagan said. "Every administration since the Medicare program was passed has worried about the seemingly uncontrollable cost increases in our government health care programs."

Nations balking at closer contact

JERUSALEM (AP) — Several nations have shied away from closer diplomatic contacts with Israel because its image has been tarnished by the Palestinian uprising, a newspaper reported today.

Meanwhile, Israeli authorities closed another Arab school in east Jerusalem, Israel radio said. The closure raised to 55 the number of schools shut in the occupied territories and Arab east Jerusalem, according to the Palestinian-run Jerusalem Media and Communications Center.

In the occupied West Bank on Thursday, the death of a Palestinian street vendor touched off a violent protest at his funeral. An Arab was wounded in the clash.

Arab hospital officials said the vendor, 36-year-old Mohammed Shabello of Nablus, died minutes after inhaling tear gas hurled by troops Thursday to subdue stone-throwing demonstrators. The army disputed the account, saying the man died of a heart attack.

Parked car hit

A 1985 Chevrolet Blazer driven by Amy Marie Webster of 1111 24th St. hit a parked 1978 Ford four-door owned by Doris Oliver of 709 32nd St. at 5:09 p.m. Thursday in the parking lot of a College Ave. supermarket.

Drink-related arrests noted

Police arrested two men for DWI Thursday and early Friday, one of whom was released after passing an Intoxilizer breath alcohol content test.

A 24-year-old man was taken into custody for DWI and another 24-year-old man for public intoxication at 12:34 p.m. Thursday at South College Ave. and FM 2763.

The driver was given a breath test and released, an officer said.

A 27-year-old man was arrested for DWI at 1:40 a.m. Friday in the 1200 Block of 24th St.

Survey says tax system opinions are lukewarm

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans are lukewarm about the current tax system, but they want to maintain at least the present level of state services, according to a survey presented to the Select Committee on Tax Equity.

The survey by the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, answered by 620 people, asked for a seven-point range of responses from "least agreement" to "most agreement." It was presented Thursday to the committee, along with a survey of businesses that drew 151 respondents.

Nearly 75 percent of Texans in the survey agreed moderately or strongly that tax rates should be raised most for people with higher incomes, but 46 percent marked "least agreement" when asked whether a personal income tax is a fair way for the state to raise money.

"I think everyone on the committee acknowledges the reality that the people of Texas don't want an income tax," said Rep. Stan Schlueter, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, during an earlier break in the committee meeting.

"If and when the people of the state decide they want an income tax, then they'll get one, but obviously that's not going to be in the next session or the session after that," said Schlueter, D-Killeen.

Surveyed Texans also favored increasing business taxes, with 63 percent of respondents marking the upper half of the agreement scale. Institution of a state lottery drew strong support, with 53 percent marking "most agreement" and 20 percent "least agreement."

A total of 36 percent of the respondents marked "least agreement" when asked about the fairness of a sales tax increase, while only 11 percent marked "most agreement."

In the business survey, 60.6 percent of the respondents said businesses in Texas pay at least their fair share of total state taxes. In addition, 54 percent of the respondents marked the top two levels when asked if state taxes on business are too high.

The chief executive officers surveyed supported using net income as the base for taxing business in Texas, with about two-thirds of the respondents showing strong agreement with the proposal.

Nearly two-thirds also agreed strongly that the Texas unemployment compensation tax discourages additional business hiring.

The current sales tax on services is confusing to businesses, according to the survey. About 82 percent of the respondents agreed strongly that they are confused about what services are subject to the tax.

Rep. English questions FmHA actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Glenn English says a congressional report on the Farmers Home Administration raises serious questions about its management and ability to serve the nation's farmers.

A report from the House Government Operations Committee concludes management of the agency, the lender of last resort to farmers, is inadequate and unable to properly oversee the operations of 1,900 county offices.

English said the FmHA's "inability to supervise its own affairs has meant that farmers have not had access to valuable programs the law intended for them."

The Oklahoma Democrat said the inadequate management uncovered during a hearing last fall by his Government Information, Justice and Agriculture subcommittee may be a sign political appointees "don't like the program and they don't think the government should have this program."

"If you look at it in a sinister way, you could draw the conclusion that they're doing their best to make sure the program does not work — you could say they were sabotaging the program," said English. "That seems to be the road they seem to be going down."

FmHA Administrator Vance Clark, appointed by President Reagan in March 1986, said: "I frankly don't know what the congressman means."

"It's a nice rhetorical flourish which is consistent with the intemperate tone of the report as well as the season of the year," Clark said. "But this level of discourse lends little in the way of credit or credibility to the report or its chief author."

In summary, the report released last week found that "in many instances, the national office does not know what is going on in the county offices and does not have any way of finding out."

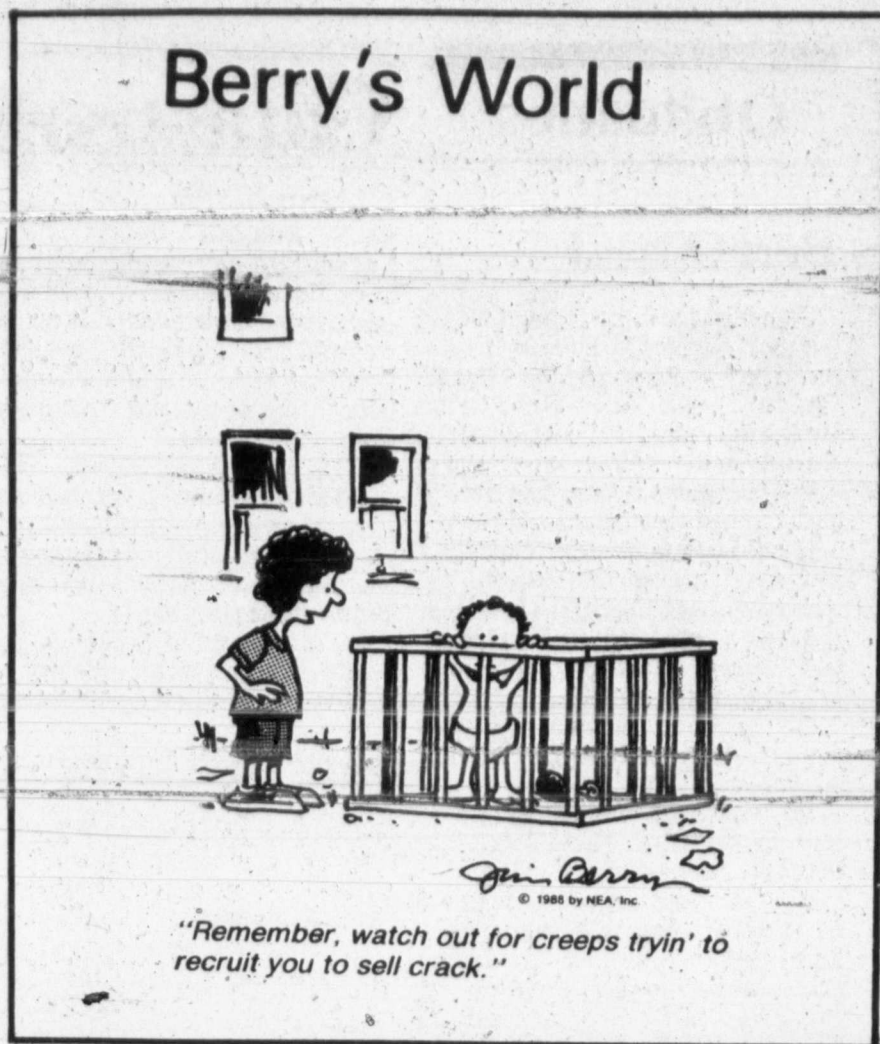

"All of the problems at FmHA identified by the committee could have been alleviated or avoided altogether by competent, professional, effective management," the report said.

The committee in its report recommended that the secretary of agriculture "require FmHA to institute effective management procedures so that the department, the Congress and the public may be assured that the agency is meeting its mission."

Although the FmHA administrator and the secretary of agriculture assured the committee that they were opposed to racial discrimination, the report said the administrator "has failed to install any management system to know if discrimination has been practiced. Instead, the administrator relies on complaints of the aggrieved."

Witnesses before English's committee had previously accused the agency of racial discrimination, the report said. Other earlier testimony indicated that farmers are sometimes frightened of FmHA county supervisors, that it sometimes takes outside pressure to make FmHA county employees follow

Bill by Gonzalez would help first time buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez is sponsoring legislation to establish a National Housing Trust that would make it easier for first-time home buyers to get into the market.

"We need to get interest rates down so people can once again have the hope of owning a home in America," said Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II, D-Mass., in support of Gonzalez' bill.

"We need someone like Chairman Gonzalez to lead us into the fray," Kennedy said.

The cost of the program over the first three years would be $6 billion and about 200,000 families would be served during that period, said Gonzalez, a San Antonio Democrat and chairman of the House subcommittee on housing and community development.

"This is the beginning of what we hope will be a bill of rights for American families wishing to become homeowners," Gonzalez told a Capitol Hill news conference Thursday.

Under the proposal, federal funds would be used to provide an interest rate on a 30-year fixed rate mortgage not to exceed .6 percent. To be eligible, a home buyer's income could not exceed 115 percent of the area median income, and the property would have to be a single-family home. Mortgages would not exceed $104,000 and the average mortgage would be about $80,000.

"There is no question anyone wanting to own a piece of the rock is in for a rough time," said Rep. James A. Traficant Jr., D-Ohio. "More likely, they have to rent a piece of the rock."

Gonzalez said the American dream of homeownership has disappeared this decade and the financial network — banks and savings and loans — that has traditionally provided home loans has collapsed.

"In Texas it is in total collapse to the point that even FSLIC (the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.) is bankrupt," Gonzalez said, adding that the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. is also "under shadow and peril."

He said his bill would bolster banks and thrifts and the agencies that ensure deposits.

His trust fund would be a part of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.
