

Wreck victim said very critical today

Two young Snyder men were injured, one critically, in a one-vehicle accident Wednesday afternoon on a dirt road just northeast of the city.

Christopher Boyd Kelly, 17, of Rt. 2 suffered severe internal injuries, reportedly a possibly ruptured liver, and was listed in "very critical" condition at midday Thursday at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital in Lubbock, where he was transferred by helicopter about two hours after being taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital here.

The driver of the 1964 Ford F-100 pickup truck, 18-year-old Nolan Lee Treadway II of an address on the Colorado City Hwy., had a gash on the side of his head and was listed in stable condition Thursday morning at the Snyder hospital.

A passer-by, Alvin D. Reeves, reported the accident at 1:34 p.m. The two youth were found about 30 feet from the pickup. A Department of Public Safety trooper said the vehicle was going west on the road, County Road 120, and had just come around a curve when it went out of control.

The pickup overturned, flattening the cab, and eventually came to rest right side up.

The trooper said the youth were apparently ejected from the vehicle as it was turning over. They were not wearing seatbelts, he said.

The trooper said it had not been determined how long the pair lay on the roadside before they were found.

He said the road surface is such that the pickup could have gone out of control without excessive speed.

Kelly was unconscious and did not regain consciousness on the way to the hospital.

In Brief

Two arrested

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Police today were still seeking the leader of a drug smuggling gang believed to have been involved in the slaying of a former Texas drug dealer after he escaped in a gun battle with federal police, officials said.

But police were holding two men wanted in the connection with the death of John Frank Garcia after the chase through a mental institution, officials said.

Deputy shot

FORT STOCKTON, Texas (AP) — Two Kansas prison escapees have been indicted on charges of capital murder in the slaying of a 60-year-old lawman, officials said.

A grand jury on Wednesday returned indictments against Charles Edward Smith, 22, of Deerfield, Kan., and his 31-year-old cousin, Carroll Bernard Smith of Houston, said a Pecos County district court clerk who did not want to give her name.

The Smiths, ordered held without bond, were charged in the slaying of Pecos County sheriff's deputy Tim Hudson, 60, of Fort Stockton.

Fort Stockton is a town of about 10,000 about 230 miles east of El Paso. Bakersfield is about 35 miles east of Fort Stockton.

Riot in park

NEW YORK (AP) — The police chief in charge of hundreds of officers at a demonstration that turned into a riot resigned as the police commissioner released a scathing report blaming the violence on poor supervision.

The report on Aug. 6's confrontation at Tompkins Square Park criticized Deputy Chief Thomas Darcy, 56, for a series of mistakes, beginning with his leaving the scene for about 90 minutes at a crucial time to use the bathroom.

Former soldier charged with espionage

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Authorities said today they have arrested a former U.S. soldier and charged him with espionage for leading an international spy ring that sold military secrets to the Soviet Union over the past 10 years.

Chief Federal Prosecutor Kurt Rebmann said the charges against former Army Sgt. Clyde Lee Conrad involved an "especially grave case" of supplying American and NATO defense secrets to the Soviets through the spy ring.

The most recent delivery took place last month in Vienna, Rebmann said.

The U.S. State Department said in a statement in Washington: "We understand that there has been an apprehension by West German authorities, but do not consider it appropriate to comment at this time."

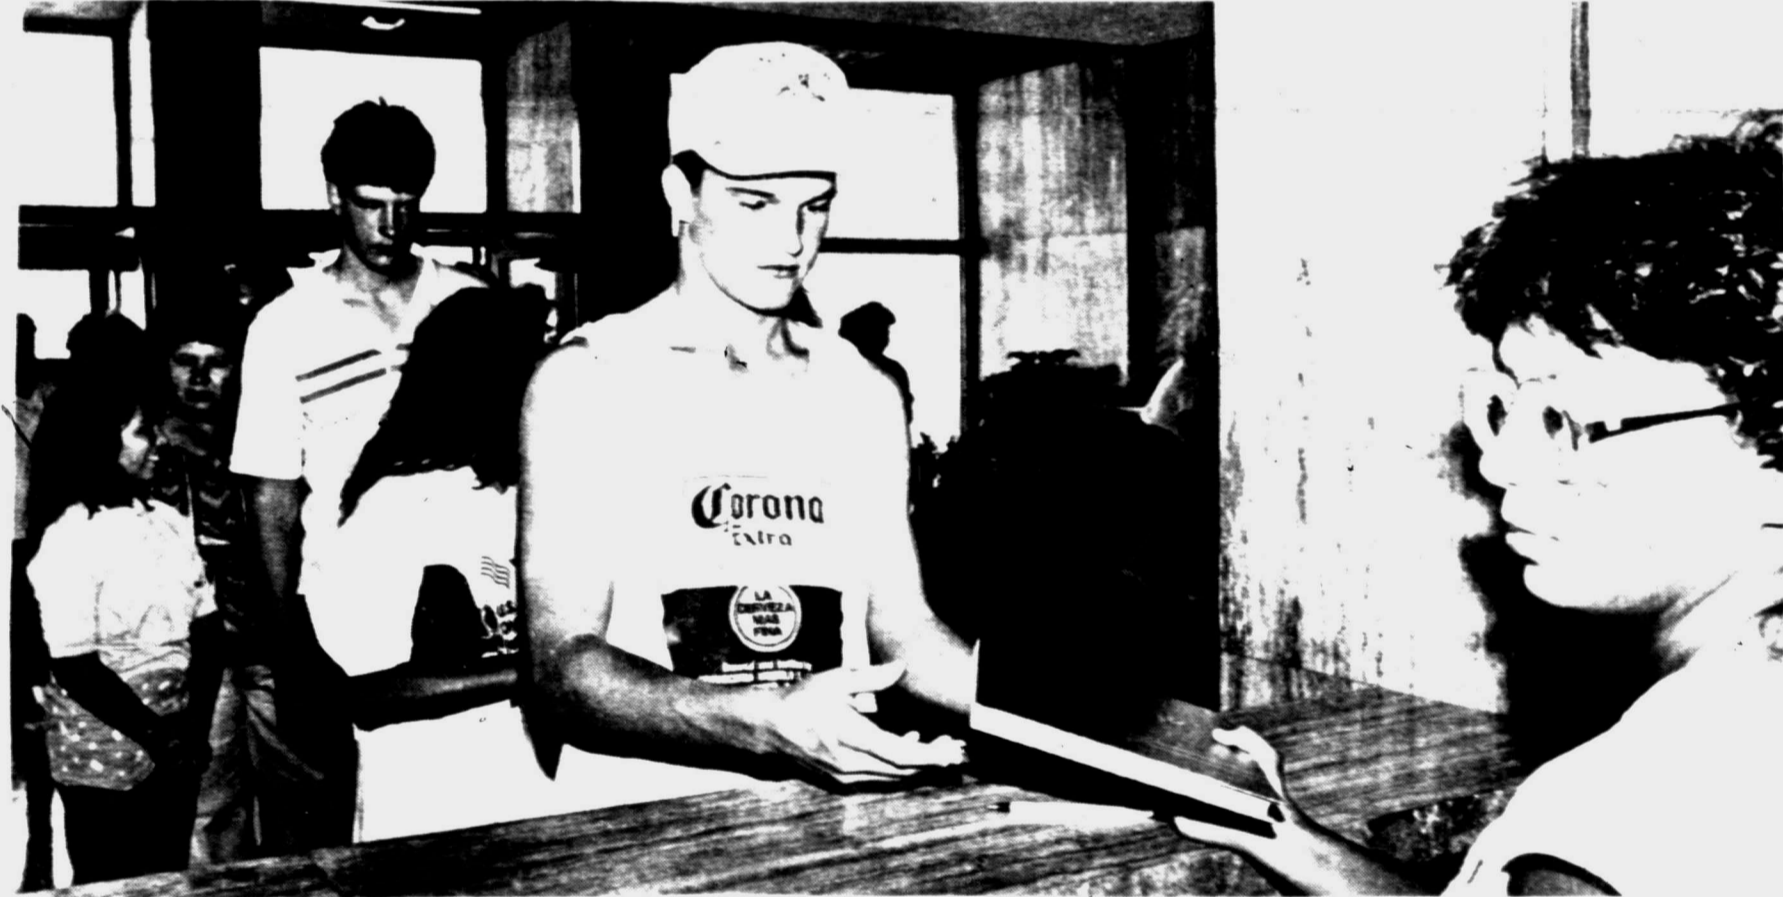

In Stockholm, Swedish authorities said three East Bloc immigrants were detained this week on suspicion of spying.

The suspects — a married couple and a man — faced arraignment today on charges of illegal intelligence activity, the Aftonbladet daily said. Swedish radio, however, said the woman was released after questioning.

Rebmann's spokesman said the spy ring was based in West Germany and used couriers from Sweden. He confirmed that the arrested Swedes were suspected of being part of the spy ring.

The spokesman, Alexander Prechtel, said in a telephone interview that he couldn't rule out the possibility the charge of espionage against Conrad might be raised to treason.

Computer system on Cogdell slate

A new computer system for Cogdell Memorial Hospital will be considered by board members Thursday at the regular August meeting.

The session will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The board of managers will be asked to approve a new IBM 36 system to replace the IBM 34 which now serves Cogdell. The estimated cost for an IBM 36 is $60,000.

Other agenda items will include approval of privileges for the group of emergency room physicians now staffing the Cogdell ER on weekends.

The action has already been approved by the hospital medical staff, noted Tom Hochwalt, Cogdell administrator.

The board will also consider changes in the medical staff bylaws related to courtesy staff privileges.

Approval of long term care policies is listed also, part of planning for an upcoming accreditation visit here Sept. 27 by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations.

The board will consider also a proposal for an audit of the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Foundation, the entity which administers endowments made to Cogdell.

Teacher agenda 'mixed'

Friday morning and the third day of teacher in-service will be a mixed bag for Snyder elementary teachers as they are divided into two sections by grade levels for two separate sessions.

For junior high and high school teachers, the day will be spent on individual campuses for departmental meetings and classroom preparation.

Elementary teachers will be divided into grades pre-kindergarten through third and grades 4-6. Morning meetings for both will be held at West Elementary.

From 8 until 9:45 a.m., pre-K, first, second and third grade teachers will meet in the West cafeteria for programs related to the district's gifted and talented program.

During this same time, teachers in grades 4-6 will meet at West for grade level meetings on curriculum improvement.

From 10 until 11:45 a.m., the pre-K through third grade teachers will discuss the curriculum topic while teachers in grades 4-6 will receive the gifted and talented presentation.

During the afternoon Friday, all teachers will be in their classrooms with the exception of pre-kindergarten and

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "There's little chance of our government being overthrown—there's just too much of it."

Just last month, the postal service co-sponsored a day-long seminar on a sticky problem.

Purpose of the conference was to discuss a solution to the problem of stickum on postage stamps. The postal service wanted to study alternative stamp adhesive that works well in both dry and humid climates.

Although it may seem minor in face of the grave issues facing this great nation, a spokesman for the postal service in Washington said stamps that fall off result in lost revenue for the agency as well as create a public relations problems with customers.

The conference was held in Columbus, Ohio at the Battelle Memorial Institute. It was attended by more than 100 companies interested in such sticky topics as "Adhesive Requirements and System Evaluation," "Postage Stamp Adhesive Development Program," "Philatelic and Other Customer Requirements and Quality Control."

Especially interested in improvements are stamp collectors who say current glue may eventually eat away at a valuable stamp. Others say glue isn't the problem—it's the lick. Some people fail to wet the stamp and others may lick only a part of it—resulting in a lost stamp and unprocessed or delayed mail.

One suggestion was a pressure-sensitive stamp that would not require licking. In addition to a no-taste glue, others have suggested cherry, vanilla and chocolate flavors.

That stamp on the envelope to the IRS is still gonna have a bitter taste.

column how the play of your queen on your partner's lead of the king from A-K is a command to underlead to your jack. But is that understanding reasonable when there does not seem to be any reason for the player dropping the queen to want the lead? East wasn't sure how to answer that question, but he wasn't taking any chances on his partner underleading the ace to air at the second trick — he simply played the five on the opening lead.

Of course West had nothing better to do than to try to cash the second club, and he was pleased that everyone followed. West could also count to 13, so he knew that both East and South were now out of clubs. It looked as though any small cards held by declarer in the majors would be well covered by the wealth of high cards in the North hand, so it became easy for West to continue with still another club. All he needed was the king, queen or jack of diamonds in the East hand, and he would promote his own diamond 10 to the setting trick. And that is just what happened.

No blame to North-South for bidding to a quite reasonable contract. But minor kudos to West for finding the correct defense, even though it looks obvious.

Smooth bidding and defending

After North had doubled three clubs as a takeout, South jumped to four diamonds as a strong invitation. North had plenty of cards to go on to game. The deal is interesting from the defensive point of view. We've seen in this

La Leche has conference

Judy Glyn Cave, local La Leche League leader, recently attended the area conference of the La Leche League of Texas held in San Antonio.

The conference offered Texas delegates 115 workshops on such subjects as parenting, childbirth, breastfeeding, and personal growth. Panels were led by La Leche League leaders, lactation consultants, and other health professionals.

Keynote speaker for the convention was Edwina Froehlich, a founder of La Leche League International. Special guest was Chele Marmet, a noted lactation consultant and author.

La Leche League International, a mother-to-mother educational service organization formed to give information and encouragement to those interested in breastfeeding, has been active for over 30 years. A network of league groups encircle the world with members in 44 countries.

Cave, a group leader for three years, spoke on the topics of practical first aid and basic information for home health care as well as guidelines for leaders helping mothers via telephone.

The Snyder La Leche League meets monthly to discuss the physical, psychological and practical aspects of breastfeeding.

No predictions this time for Thomas but expects 'great game' with Aggies EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Nebraska linebacker Broderick Thomas remembers the last time he "guaranteed" a victory for his team. It turned out to be a disappointing loss to Oklahoma.

He's keeping his mouth shut this time as the second-ranked Cornhuskers prepare for Saturday night's Kickoff Classic with Texas A&M that officially opens the 1988 college football season.

"I'm just taking it easy," said the Huskers' outside linebacker. "I'm just happy to be alive. I just want to play football."

Last year, Thomas was more outspoken. He proclaimed the 1987 Cornhuskers "the Hell Raisin' Tour," and made bold predictions. However, two of them didn't pan out — including a bitter 17-7 loss to Oklahoma during a 10-2 season.

Thomas has been so outspoken in the past that Coach Tom Osborne has had to defend him on several occasions.

"I don't think I've been around a player who loves football more or wants to win more than Broderick," Osborne said. "Basically, I think people think Broderick is a hothead, out to have fun."

Osborne says Thomas is not really the braggart he may seem to be in the news media.

"As far as being quieter or not, I don't know," Osborne said of Thomas this season. "Broderick is Broderick. I think maybe he will show a little different tact in how he handles questions."

He has so far, in answering questions about Saturday night's game at Giants Stadium. Asked to defend Nebraska's linebacking corps against claims that Texas A&M has the best linebackers in the country, Thomas said:

"You all just watch the game and watch it close. It's going to be a great game. A&M is going to be a great team. I basically don't have anything to say about the game. I'm ready to play."

As for his Nebraska team in general, Osborne isn't quite sure yet of its capabilities, despite its No. 2 ranking and favorite's role Saturday night. Texas A&M, coming off a similar 10-2 season, is ranked No. 10.

"I think number one at this time of year in the rankings doesn't mean much," Osborne said. "In college football, you're losing about half your people every year so I'm not even sure how good we are."

Three top Cornhuskers probably will miss the Classic while Texas A&M apparently is healthy.

Nebraska's junior center Jake Young suffered a knee strain at practice Tuesday and received treatment at the Nebraska training room Wednesday. Placekicker Chris Drennan, with a thigh pull, and middle guard Lawrence Pete, who returned to practice this week after being out with mononucleosis and strep throat, probably will miss the nationally televised game.

"They have seven starters back from a great defense," Osborne said of Texas A&M, which beat Notre Dame 35-10 in last season's Cotton Bowl. "It's going to be very hard to move the football on this team."

Texas A&M Coach Jackie Sherrill has chosen sophomore quarterback Bucky Richardson to start the game. But Sherrill said he wouldn't hesitate to revert to last season's triple quarterback system that led the Aggies to their third straight Southwest Conference title.

Richardson, the most valuable offensive player in the Cotton Bowl, was glad to hear the decision.

"I would hope if I go in and move the team and put points on the board, I'll stay in the game," Richardson said. "But that's a decision for Coach Sherrill to make."

Sherrill could go to Lance Pavloski or Mississippi transfer Chris Osgood if Richardson falters. Osgood has replaced the graduated Craig Stump in the quarterbacking derby.

Mayes, others end holdouts

by The Associated Press

The holdouts are over for Mark Bavaro and Rueben Mayes, while Tony Eason is hoping that the season isn't over for him.

Bavaro, the New York Giants' All-Pro tight end, ended his holdout by agreeing to a new contract and reporting to camp Wednesday. Mayes, an All-Pro tailback with the New Orleans Saints, also came back into the fold of his NFL team, if a bit grudgingly.

They were among a handful of players who came to terms as NFL teams prepared for the opening of the season Sept. 4. Among the others were linebacker Matt Millen of the Los Angeles Raiders and guard Tom Newberry of the Los Angeles Rams.

Eason, meanwhile, said he was not surprised to learn the New England Patriots intend to place him on the injured reserve list next week, when NFL rosters have to be reduced to the regular-season limit of 47 players.

"If you can't control the football, it's pretty tough to play in this league," said the quarterback who suffered nerve damage in his right arm because a splint he was wearing to hold a separated shoulder in place was tied too tightly. "It's pretty odd that the only non-functioning nerve in my entire body controls a specific part of my occupation."

Eason, the Patriots' top draft pick in 1983, has been unable to throw anything but lob passes since reporting to training camp in July.

Mayes, still bitterly convinced he is worth more money, said he will end a week-old walkout and return to the Saints because his only other option was retirement.

Rooney dies

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers founder Art Rooney Sr., died today, eight days after being hospitalized for a stroke, officials at Mercy Hospital said.

Rooney, 87, had been in a coma since Monday.

"At 7:45 a.m. this morning the Chief ... passed away in his sleep with his family at his bedside," said Dr. Theodore Gelet, Rooney's personal physician.

Rooney was admitted to the hospital Aug. 17 after becoming dizzy at the National Football League team's offices at Three Rivers Stadium.

Slumping Pirates lose again

by The Associated Press

Jim Leyland may be the manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, but he thinks he's watching Pittsburgh Pirates.

"When we play like we're playing, it's like watching paint dry," he said Wednesday night after the slumping Pirates lost to the Cincinnati Reds 6-2.

Pittsburgh has lost three of its last four games and 20 of its last 33. The Pirates are 11-14 in August and have scored only four runs in their last 37 innings.

"You can sum it up by saying the Cincinnati Reds played like a team playing to win a pennant, and we played like a team ready to go home," Leyland said. "It's a matter of maybe these players don't know what's at stake. But it will change (Friday) in Houston ... there will be some changes made."

"I can handle errors, I can handle slumps, I can handle hanging sliders. But I can't handle not being ready to play. They can fool a lot of people, but they can't fool me."

"I've managed a lot of players and I know when they want to play and when they don't. And with this team, with very few exceptions, it's 1-through-9 (in the batting order) right down the line."

"I just can't put up with lackadaisical play. I'm tired of excuses ... Some of these players are proceeding themselves for nothing but failure."

In other games, New York beat Los Angeles 2-1, Montreal beat San Francisco 7-5, Chicago beat Houston 3-2, San Diego beat Philadelphia 5-2 and St. Louis beat Atlanta 5-3.

Tom Browning threw a six-hitter for his fifth consecutive victory, his 11th in 12 starts, and Ron Oester was 4-for-4 with two doubles.

Browning, 13-4, struck out five and walked two in his third complete game. He has allowed three runs or less in 22 of his last 28 starts. Gary Redus hit a pinch-homer in the eighth inning and game winning streak stopped. Reliever Jeff Pico, 4-6, got the victory.

Greg Maddux took a four-hitter into the eighth with a 2-1 lead before Buddy Bell's game-tying single off Pico. Nolan Ryan struck out nine.

Mets 2, Dodgers 1

Keith Hernandez hit a run-scoring single and Kevin McReynolds a sacrifice fly as New York rallied in the eighth inning to sweep the season series in Dodger Stadium for the first time ever.

New York has won eight of nine games against the Dodgers this season, including all six in Los Angeles.

Terry Leach, 6-1, pitched one inning in relief of Bob Ojeda, who struck out eight and gave up three hits in six innings, including Mike Marshall's RBI double in the fourth.

Tom Prince a run-scoring double in the ninth.

Mike Dunne, 6-11, lost his fourth consecutive decision since July 9, giving up seven hits and four runs in 4-2-3 innings.

Cubs 3, Astros 2

Rafael Palmeiro led off the ninth inning with a double and scored on Vance Law's single.

Juan Agosoto, 10-1, relieved to start the ninth and had his 10-

American League roundup...

Twins have Detroit's number

by The Associated Press

Even though the Minnesota Twins have been a nightmare for Detroit this season, the Tigers don't plan on losing any sleep over it.

Dan Gladden and Kirby Puckett hit home runs to highlight a six-run second inning as Minnesota defeated Detroit 8-2 Wednesday night and finished the season series with 11 consecutive victories over the Tigers.

The Twins had five extra base hits in the second inning off Frank Tanana, 14-8. In winning 11 of 12 from Detroit, the Twins outscored the first-place Tigers 65-18 after dropping the first meeting this season 7-0.

"They're a good ball club, but so are we," Tanana said. "I'm not going to lose any sleep over it. You just tip your cap and say good riddance. You're glad the nightmare is over."

Puckett went 4-for-4, adding a double and two singles to his 19th home run. Minnesota added two runs in the fourth on a run-scoring single by Gladden, who scored on Puckett's double.

"They're not making errors," Puckett said. "They're just wondering 'what do we have to do to beat them?' We just seem to score runs and play well against them."

Detroit manager Sparky

Anderson is wondering what he must do to stop Puckett and Co.

"He's killed us all year long," Anderson said. "He must have 16 RBIs or so against us. Really ... Puckett, (Kent) Hrbek and even Gladden have killed us this year."

Elsewhere in the American League, it was California 4, Boston 3; New York 7, Oakland 6; Chicago 6, Toronto 4; Cleveland 7, Milwaukee 2; Texas 7, Kansas City 4 and Baltimore swept Seattle by identical 4-3 scores with the nightcap going 12 innings.

Twins starting Fred Toler, 5-3, pitched 7 2-3 innings and allowed seven hits. He lost his shutout when Matt Nokes hit his 14th homer with two outs in the sixth.

Rangers 7, Royals 4

Bobby Witt pitched a three-hitter for his ninth straight complete game and Mike Stanley's two-run double keyed a four-run rally in the eighth inning as Texas beat Kansas City at Arlington Stadium.

Witt struck out 11 as he continued the longest complete-game streak in the majors since 1985 when Bert Blyleven went the distance in 10 straight starts for Cleveland.

Angels 4, Red Sox 3

Roger Clemens lost his fourth consecutive decision for the first time in his career as California beat Boston at Fenway Park.

Mike Witt allowed six hits in eight-plus innings and Tony Armas hit a two-run homer for the Angels.

The Red Sox scored two runs in the ninth, but Bryan Harvey came on and got his 13th save.

A record winning streak of 47 games for Oklahoma in college football was ended in 1957, 7-0, by Notre Dame. Dick Lynch of the Irish scored the only touchdown of the game.

ISD board to view coverage proposals

Snyder ISD trustees will consider bids for school personnel health insurance plans Thursday during a called meeting of the board. It will begin at 7 p.m. at the school administration building. The board elected to seek new bids at its regular monthly meeting Aug. 11 after learning that premiums under the current plan might increase as much as 18 percent. At the time, trustees expressed interest also in a presentation pertaining to self-insurance for the district. Business Manager Lee McNair said Thursday morning that the bids to be presented to the board will include three plans for self-insurance. At the called meeting, trustees will also consider renewing its contract with Scurry County for the district's tax collections. A contract for occupational education instruction, specificaily welding and automotive classes, will be considered also. These classes are currently offered to Snyder High School students through the facilities and staffers at Western Texas College. Under personnel items, trustees will also consider the resignation of one staffer and the recommended employment of two others.

Former Texas Gov. Price Daniels dies

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — Former Texas Gov. Price Daniel, who once said he would rather hold that job than the presidency, died in this Southeast Texas town early today. George Christian, a former press secretary to Daniel, said the former governor and U.S. senator died about 1 a.m. Christian said Daniel suffered what he believes to be a massive stroke at his ranch and was taken to Yettie Kersting Hospital at Liberty. He was dead upon arrival, a spokeswoman said. Hospital spokeswoman Margie Hagan said Daniel was brought in at 1:10 a.m. and that he had no vital signs. Bill Wainscott, a paramedic who tried to help revive the former governor, said, "We went out there and we did all we could do and that was all there was to it. Unfortunately, we were unable to revive him. We tried."

Wainscott said paramedics were unable to determine the cause of death. "It could have been a stroke or a heart attack," Wainscott said. He said paramedics received the call at 12:37 a.m. and arrived at the ranch nine minutes later. Daniel, 77, served three two-year terms as governor from 1957-63 but lost an unprecedented bid for a fourth term in a Democratic primary race won by John Connally. "The death of Price Daniel is a loss to the people of America. He never, never overlooked the problems with which the people were concerned. We're going to miss people of his caliber," said former Gov. Preston Smith. "I've lost one of my best friends." It was Smith who appointed Daniel to the Texas Supreme Court in January 1971. Daniel retired from the court eight years later. Gov. Bill Clements requested that Texas flags be flown at half-staff in honor of Daniel, who Clements said "helped shape much of our history." "I am truly saddened," Clements said. Christian said Daniel's principal legacy will be the preserving of the oil-rich tidelands, or submerged offshore lands that have yielded so much revenue for Texas' public schools. "He was a hands-on governor whose administration touched a wide variety of issues, and he was devoutly religious — a fine gentleman," Christian said. Daniel started his public career as a member of the state House of Representatives in 1939. He became speaker in 1943, but later waived his legislative exemption and enlisted in the Army as a private. He left the service in 1946 with the rank of captain and made a successful race for state attorney general. He won two terms without opposition, beginning in 1947. He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1952.

Daniel resigned his U.S. Senate seat in 1956 after being nominated for governor. His early training was aimed at a career in journalism. For Results Use Snyder Daily News Classifieds Call 573-5486

Eyes of Texas media are on controversial former lobbyist

MESQUITE, Texas (AP) — Settled on a hill dubbed "Fort Mesquite," the press waits for Paula Parkinson, the former Washington lobbyist who has become a problem for Republican vice presidential candidate Dan Quayle, but a friend says the media siege won't work. "She is still here, but she doesn't want to talk to anybody," said a woman who identified herself only as Cori and as a niece of Ms. Parkinson's roommate, John Gideon, who was arrested Friday after a domestic disturbance. "She's not going to say anything for a long time," Cori said Wednesday. But Dallas-area reporters and photographers and network TV crews are keeping an unblinking eye on Ms. Parkinson's second-story apartment. Neighbors say the press began waiting outside the apartment late last week, even before the Los Angeles Daily News reported that two former attorneys for Ms. Parkinson say she told the FBI in 1981 that Quayle had propositioned her on a Florida golfing holiday. Playboy magazine announced that Tuesday an article in its November edition will include a statement about the incident from Ms. Parkinson, who says she rebuffed Quayle's advance because she was with another legislator. "We flirted a lot and danced extremely close and suggestively," Ms. Parkinson told a Playboy interviewer. "He said he wanted to make love."

Quayle, who has denied any relationship with Mrs. Parkinson, said Tuesday he is tired of questions about her. "This is getting a little bit outrageous and I'm getting a little bit indignant about just one bum rap after another," he said. Ms. Parkinson has refused to come to her apartment door. Although she accepted a list of prepared questions from one reporter, she sent it back outside without answering them. "The residents here feel like it's an invasion of their privacy, too," said an apartment manager, who refused to be identified. "They aren't real thrilled about having all these cameras around." Network television camera crews worked out an agreement with apartment officials allowing them to camp out on a 20-foot-high dirt hill underneath a pair of high-power lines. Arriving as early as 6 a.m. and leaving as late as 10 p.m., they stay on the hill, armed with Gatorade and umbrellas, hoping Ms. Parkinson will finally emerge and rescue them from the 100-plus-degree heat. Apartment resident Ruth Cook said she and several of her neighbors met Tuesday night to discuss the media invasion. Ms. Cook said some residents have complained to apartment officials and the police about parent reporters and photographers watching apartment windows through binoculars and long-distance camera lenses. Cori said she and Ms. Parkinson are aware of the press. "It's a very big nuisance," Cori said. "It seems like they've been out here two or three weeks already."

Thyroid levels and medication

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 49 and female. My T3 and T4 test was 20. The doctor immediately gave me a pill to destroy the thyroid. The T3/T4 went to 1, so now I have to take Synthroid. Both the T3 and T4 levels still are jumping around quite a bit. Is this normal?

DEAR READER: The T3 and T4 tests are measures of thyroid functions: if they are high, the gland is overproducing; if they are low, a thyroid deficiency is present.

The only non-surgical treatment that I know to "destroy the thyroid" is radioactive iodine. If you received this medicine, you may have become hypothyroid (thyroid deficient) and you will need to take replacement hormone, such as Synthroid, indefinitely.

Most anti-thyroid pills do not destroy the gland; rather, they reduce the formation of thyroid hormone. Hence, the dose of medicine can be adjusted to your needs. During the early phase of treatment, your blood tests of thyroid may fluctuate a bit; eventually you should stabilize on a maintenance dose. Continued "jumping around" is not normal. It means that your doctor has yet to find the proper dose of anti-thyroid medicine that suits you. If your physician is unable to help you achieve a satisfactory thyroid balance, I suggest that you request a referral to an endocrinologist, a thyroid specialist. Ordinarily, this problem is not difficult to control.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My father and I have had several skin cancers successfully removed. A conservative, reliable friend told me that his doctor told him that people who have skin cancers rarely have internal cancers. Is this true?

DEAR READER: I'm afraid that your reliable friend's information is not completely reliable. Skin cancer is a common health problem among older people, particularly in those people who have had chronic sun exposure. Some patients with skin cancer do not develop internal tumors; however, some do.

I am not aware of any across-the-board relation between the usual skin cancers and malignancies arising in other parts of the body. However, once a skin cancer has developed, a person is more likely to develop additional skin cancers. Patients with skin cancer should take special pains to avoid environmental factors, such as exposure to direct sunlight, that could predispose them to additional skin malignancies. Fortunately, most skin cancers are easy to diagnose and treat, because they are visible and accessible.

I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "What You Should Know About Skin Cancer." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Ex-principal denies women's allegations

DICKINSON, Texas (AP) — A former school principal who quit his post earlier this month amid a sexual harassment investigation says allegations brought against him were motivated by dissatisfaction with faculty evaluations.

Joe Herndon, former Dunbar Middle School principal, said there is absolutely no truth to the allegations that he harassed teachers. He said the teachers filed fictitious grievances because they were unhappy with evaluations he gave them. Formal grievances cannot be filed against an administrator over an evaluation, he said.

The grievances against Herndon were withdrawn when he resigned, said Susan Wilcox, president of the Dickinson Education Association, which represents teachers.

"We agreed to drop it if he resigned and he resigned," she said. "It's over as far as we are concerned." She added that the employees had no intention of pursuing the grievances or any other legal action.

Ms. Wilcox said Herndon's charge that the teachers fabricated their grievances in response to poor evaluations was a "lie." Herndon had given good if not excellent evaluations to all of the teachers who filed grievances, she said.

Herndon said the sexual harassment allegations were not a factor in his leaving Dickinson for a position as an intermediate school principal in the Bryan Independent School District.

He said he took the Bryan position because it was a better job, adding that he had been considering leaving the Dickinson district for "three or four years."

Of the six teachers and one secretary who filed a grievance with the Dickinson district, "three or four" alleged that he had sexually harassed them, Ms. Wilcox said.

The others said Herndon harassed them in a demeaning non-sexual manner, she said.

The employees presented a formal grievance June 6 to former Superintendent Jerome Bougeois, Ms. Wilcox said. When Bougeois left Dickinson for another job, the investigation was continued by Deputy Superintendent N.K. "Dutch" Ohlendorf.

Ohlendorf said he had finished gathering information on the case but had not made a recommendation to the board of trustees on what action to take when Herndon resigned Aug. 2.

Using the Texas Open Records Act, the Galveston Daily News and the Bryan-College Station Eagle requested Herndon's personnel file and all documents related to the investigation of the grievance.

Part of Herndon's personnel file was released last week but Dickinson school district officials have requested an attorney general's opinion on whether they must release the other documents.

Plants 'crying' for water

WASHINGTON (AP) — This summer's drought has caused plants literally to "cry" out for water as they wither, and scientists are trying to determine if their sounds — too highly pitched for the human ear — are attracting destructive insects.

Department researchers have been using electronic gadgets for more than four years to hear corn and other drought-stressed plants make noises as cell structures, or water tubes, break down from a lack of water traveling from roots to the leaves.

When there is adequate water in the soil, the water and nutrients flow upward in the tubes under tension. If the soil lacks enough water, the tubes become too great and the tubes fracture.

One potential benefit from this kind of research would be new ways of letting irrigation farmers know precisely when to water their fields. Also it could aid in developing new plant varieties, which would be better equipped to move water and nutrients from roots to leaves.

Robert Haack, an entomologist at the department's North Central Forest Experiment Station, East Lansing, Mich., and a colleague, Bill Mattson, think there might be a connection between the noises and flocking of some insects, such as bark beetles, to drought-damaged trees.

The noises are called ultrasonic acoustic emissions, and are in the 100-kilohertz range, while sound heard by humans is no more than about 20 kilohertz.

While the ultrasonic emissions have been documented, their role in attracting insects remains only an educated guess.

Haack, the research leader, said in a telephone interview Wednesday from his East Lansing office, that he thought it was "a neat idea" that the noises of stricken trees might attract insects.

"We're just starting up" on the tree-insect project, he said. "We don't have enough to make any speculation on what we might find."

Haack said insects have been known for a long time to be attracted by certain influences such as color and scent. But Haack said that to the best of his knowledge there has not been conclusive work linking the ultrasonic of trees to insect behavior.

The project only got under way three weeks ago, he said. A lot of time has been spent rounding up necessary equipment.

Gramm picks symbolic sites

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — U.S. Senator Phil Gramm used a bomber plane, two oil pump jacks and a corps of sheriff's deputies to illustrate differences between GOP presidential candidate George Bush and his Democratic rival.

Gramm, R-Texas, made campaign appearances in Abilene, Odessa and here to kick off Bush's West Texas campaign Wednesday.

Standing in front of a B-1 bomber at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, Gramm blasted Democratic candidate Michael Dukakis for being weak on defense, citing the Democrat's opposition to the B-1 and the MX and Midgetman missiles.

"I'm very proud of what we've done in the Reagan years in terms of national defense, and quite frankly I'm concerned about what could happen if Michael Dukakis is elected," he said.

In Odessa, speaking in front of two oil pump jacks at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Gramm stressed Bush's loyalty to the domestic energy industry.

"George Bush made his living in the oil business and knows more about the industry than anyone who has ever run for president," he said. "While during the year you might hear differently, the plain truth is that Michael Dukakis is a Massachusetts liberal who is and always has been an oil industry baiter."

He said Texans would see a national energy policy formulated if Bush were elected.

In Lubbock, Gramm chose the Lubbock County Courthouse as his stump, where he labeled Dukakis a believer in "crime and no punishment."

"I don't think there's ever been a greater difference between two candidates running for president of the United States when it comes to the issue of law and order and the protection of the right of victims," he said.

Flanked by sheriff's deputies, Gramm touted Bush's support of mandatory 10-year sentences for "thugs who sell drugs to our children" and the death penalty for criminals who kill law enforcement officers. Dukakis opposes both policies, Gramm charged.

"George Bush believes criminals ought to be in jail, not out walking the streets," he said. "The difference between his record on crime and punishment — or in the case of Michael Dukakis, crime and no punishment — could not be more stark."

Gramm also pointed to Massachusetts' controversial release of first-degree criminals on weekend furlough as evidence that the state's governor is soft on crime.

Gramm, who gave the nominating speech for Bush last week at the GOP convention in New Orleans, and Gov. Bill Clements are co-chairmen of Victory '88, the vice president's Texas campaign organization.

Gramm also had words of comfort for beleaguered Republican vice-presidential hopeful Sen. Dan Quayle of Indiana, telling reporters he told his Senate colleague Tuesday, "If you can keep your cool, this thing will blow over."

Ranger says child shot during fight

DALLAS (AP) — A 21-month-old boy was shot to death during a drug fight and not as the result of a random highway shooting as the child's mother claimed, a Texas Ranger says.

Texas Ranger George Turner of Cleburne said Wednesday that officials now believe the mother, Rochelle Lavon Redicks, 21, and David Lee Lowe, 34, were involved in a drug deal in a Dallas apartment complex at the time John Redicks was shot to death.

Turner said a drug dealer apparently opened fire on Ms. Redicks and Lowe and one of the bullets struck the child in the head.

Dallas Police Lt. Ron Waldrop declined Wednesday to discuss the investigation.

"We're not really at a point where we can talk about it," Waldrop said.

Ms. Redicks claimed Tuesday that the boy was shot as she and a man drove north of Interstate 35 between Waxahachie and Dallas early Tuesday morning.

Lowe, of Garland, had been arrested Tuesday night on charges of bad check issuance, a misdemeanor, and had been deemed a witness in the shooting.

Authorities arrested Lowe after he went to North Texas Medical Center Tuesday with head injuries sustained while working in McKinney as a sanitation worker for a private company.

Police began questioning the story given by Ms. Redicks after interviewing Lowe, officials said.

Tandy plans to leave South Korea

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Two violent clashes resulting from union-related fighting have caused Tandy Corp. to decide to move production of a variety of electronic products out of South Korea and back to the United States, company officials say.

The violent clashes, earlier this year, resulted in two female workers being injured and the firing of about 15 workers at a plant at Masan, a free trade zone near the port of Pusan. One clash was at the plant and the other was off the premises.

Tandy Chairman John V. Roach said Wednesday that the $3.8 billion Fort Worth-based consumer electronics giant has experienced "a lot of disruptions" during the past 18 months.

No Tandy managers were involved in the clashes, which a human rights organization in Washington attributed to "Korean-style vigilantes" called Kusadai.

Observers say the gangs such as Kusadai are dedicated to breaking up unions because they fear foreign companies will leave South Korea as more plants are unionized.

The actual move out of South Korea began last year when their company announced that it would bring production of its Color Computer back to the United States. Actual production of the Color Computer at the Fort Worth plant began early this year.

The company moved manufacturing of certain telephone products from Masan to a plant in Taiwan this summer and the company plans to relocate additional telephone-related products to Texas early next year.

The plant at Masan employed 2,000 South Koreans, Roach said. Company officials said Wednesday they have no estimates as to how many jobs were being transferred to Taiwan and the United States.

Roach said the violent clashes are only part of deteriorating distractions for American corporations operating in South Korea.

"The fights aren't really with the employers as they are between what I would guess we would call the rank-and-file," Roach told the Dallas Morning News in an interview from Anaheim, Calif., where he was attending an annual meeting of store managers.
