

Algerian riot toll increases

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — President Chadli Bendjedid promised Algeria that reforms will be made hours after troops fired machine guns into a crowd of more than 10,000 in the capital. Witnesses said 25 to 30 people were shot to death.

Making his first public appearance since violence erupted a week ago, the president said Monday night he was "bitterly sorry for the material and human losses" in the street violence.

"My duty as the person with supreme responsibility for this country was to make the decisions necessary to protect the nation, whatever the circumstances, and whatever the difficulties," the president said in a national radio and television speech.

"We have the courage to recognize our mistakes and to restore the situation. I would like you to help me."

Hours before Bendjedid's speech was broadcast, troops machine-gunned a crowd of more than 10,000 in the Algiers district of Bab-el-Oued.

Witnesses estimated that 25 to 30 people were killed. Dozens of others were wounded, some very seriously. One witness said there were bodies lying around everywhere.

"The soldiers were piling them into trucks, one body on top of another," he said.

The government has provided no casualty figures, but reliable reports from police, hospitals and other sources indicate that as many as 300 have died in the week of unrest.

Monday's demonstration was to be a "peaceful protest march" organized by the Islamic fundamentalist Movement for Algerian Renewal. The organization has demanded that the government resign. It was not immediately clear how the violence began.

Previously assigned to a Nacogdoches unit, Bell will be working to double the strength of the Snyder and Sweetwater detachments, which are both currently about half-strength with 30 men each. Bentsen debate 'bogus'

DALLAS (AP) — A group calling itself the "United Women of Texas" announced plans for a debate tonight between Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Rep. Beau Boulter — a Republican congressman seeking Bentsen's Senate seat — but Bentsen's staff said their boss won't be there.

In a press release transmitted from Boulter's headquarters by telephone facsimile, the women's organization announced Monday afternoon that the debate would begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Harvey Hotel in Dallas.

Jack Devore, Bentsen's press secretary, called the event a publicity stunt for Boulter and said he doubted that Bentsen was aware of either the organization or the engagement.

If Bentsen was even invited, Devore said, "I'm not aware of it."

Ask Us

Q — How did our congressman stand on the "Brady Amendment?"

A — The so-called Brady Amendment would have implemented a seven-day waiting period before an individual could purchase a hand gun. It was replaced in legislation passed by the U.S. House of Representatives by the McCollum Amendment, which calls for a study of the cost and implementation of an "immediate check" system by gun dealers before a sale. U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm supported the Brady Amendment, noting he supports the citizen's right to own a hand gun but commented, "If my waiting (seven days) meant saving one life a year, it would be worth it."

CD testing

A test of Civil Defense mechanisms has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, when the city's 10 sirens will be sounded and an audio test will be conducted on cable television channels.

Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said the sirens will be blown for about two minutes and television programs will be interrupted for 30 seconds.

McDowell said the tests are a periodic requirement of the Civil Defense system and that they will not be conducted in the event of bad weather.

Grid guessers

Last week's SDN Football Contest saw the Hermleigh-Trent game thrown out when Hermleigh announced before the contest deadline that they could not play. This game was not counted for or against any entrant.

Four entrants managed only one miss each, therefore the money winners were decided by the tie-breaker procedure.

Tony Hayley of Box 516 won $12.50 with a guess of 40 points on the Snyder-Andrews game, and Richard Ransom of 1912 30th won the $5 with a guess of 35 points. Honorable mention goes to Mary Sorrells who guessed 34 points and Russell Schlegel who guessed 32 points.

Another contest appears in this issue.

Library asks youth to name mural book

The Scurry County Library invites all elementary-aged youngsters to participate in its "name the book in the mural" contest now underway.

The book is included in a mural recently painted in the library's children section. As an incentive for the contest, the Lions Club has donated a radio-cassette recorder as a first prize.

Children should look at the mural and make up a name that encompasses the various aspects of children's books. The deadline to submit a name is Oct. 19.

Ezell-Key chosen for chamber event

The Ezell-Key Grain Company, located on the Sweetwater Hwy., will be honored with a reception Thursday sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

The event, scheduled from 3:30 until 4:30 p.m. at the company offices, is part of the chamber's quarterly coffees designed to recognize local industry.

The company opened here in 1955 under the partnership of John Commodore (Com) and Dorothy Ezell and Marvin Key.

Its operation currently includes a feed mill and storage facilities for grain. The mill's storage capacity is some 427,000 bushels.

Its feed sales operation includes five trucks which serve customers in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

In addition, Ezell-Key has two feed store operations it is affiliated with with locations in Snyder and Big Spring.

John Jarrell serves as president and general manager of the operations, which includes a staff of 31.

Jarrell's affiliation with the chamber includes past service as both a director and chamber president.

'Fulltime' student numbers holding at college campus

The so-called "19 to 21" group at Western Texas College is holding at one of the best levels ever as the institution moves into its 18th fall semester, trustees were told Monday.

These are the fulltime students — freshmen and sophomores who are working toward an associate degree and who are on campus "in-class" from 12 to 15 hours a week.

The measurement used to profile them is the college's "contact hours," and this figure was quoted Monday at 255,472, the highest figure at WTC the past four years.

This is welcome news for college officials since contact hours are the major element of the funding formula for state-supported colleges. The 1988-89 school year is a "funding year," calculated in conjunction with the biennial session of the state legislature.

The most recent total compares to the number of contact hours reported here in the fall of 1984—the same school year the college's student count set records for both the fall and spring terms.

In the fall of '84, a total of 1,319 students were enrolled at the college. The following spring, the all-time enrollment record, 1,414, was set.

For the current semester, the student count is almost 300 fewer students than the fall record set in '84. The "contact hour" total, however, is within 1.5 percentage points.

The difference, as explained Monday by Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services, is "our three-hour adult population." He was referring to part-time students already out of school who enroll for only one three-hour course during the semester.

This fall, these cutbacks came as a result of several factors, a major one being the redirection of many part-time art and P.E. classes from "college credit" classification to "continuing education."

This was done when the student did not require the hours to fulfill basic requirements for graduation.

Another factor which has seen the number of part-time students decline has been the implementation of House Bill 72 mandates in the public schools. Because of time constraints placed on high school students, the number of high school junior and seniors taking college-level work has declined, Hood said.

In addition, he pointed to an "economic factor" with fewer part-time students linked to downturns in the local economy.

Hood's report on fall enrollment was an information item for the regular October session of WTC trustees.

Bid items comprised the majority of board time Monday. The only action item not related to the purchase of equipment or supplies was the approval of the fall semester's small class report. Classes with fewer than 10 students must be approved by the board.

Trustees attending Monday included Bob Hargrove, who presided in the absence of Bill Wilson, John Gayle, R.C. Patton, John Fagin and Howard Sterling. Roy Baze was absent also.

In other college-related action, the board:

—Ratified the purchase of a 12-passenger window van for the Senior Citizens Center. A low bid of $17,500 from Wilson Motors was accepted. It was noted this will be paid in part by a $10,000 grant through the West Central Texas Council of Governments and, if approved, through a re-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A weekend outing starts with an argument over how to load the car."

Experts tell us how long a person lives will depend greatly on the occupation chosen.

Mickey Mouse is now 60 years old, and the reason he lasted so long is that he picked show business instead of laboratory work.

Now schools are trying to remove stress at the junior high level. At a school near Dallas, every 8th grade girl who wants to be a cheerleader just signs up. There are no tryouts, no politics and no broken hearts.

The school has more than 150 cheerleaders who participate both as yell leaders and as the pep squad at all junior high games.

A student at Michigan State University was depressed at not being picked for one of the university's fraternities.

So the student and one of his buddies turned rejection into a profitable business venture by creating a fraternity that anybody can join—even women—and everybody is president.

Said one of the co-founders of Sigma Phi Nothing, "Fraternities are elitist organizations. We feel everyone should be special."

The two invented their own organization, created a logo and held a "Don't Rush, Relax" party. Their initial 48 Sigma Phi Nothing T-shirts were quickly sold and they sold 300 more in just a few weeks.

Now a marketing company has expressed interest in selling the non frat idea nationwide.

We're proof that stress can take its toll—we never did get to play quarterback.

Likely MCorp investor listed

DALLAS (AP) — Wealthy Cincinnati investor Carl Lindner is one of the possible investors being counted on to save MCorp, a struggling Dallas-based bank holding company, a spokeswoman for Lindner says.

"We would have an interest in a potential investment in MCorp," said spokeswoman Sandy Heimann.

Lindner has a background in banking and insurance and has amassed a fortune of more than $950 million, according to Forbes Magazine.

The Dallas-based bank holding company said last week it is seeking federal assistance for a recapitalization. The company expects to lose $525 million in the three months ended Sept. 30. The plan, which could cost $1 billion to $2 billion, will involve private investors.

MCorp Chairman Gene Bishop said Friday that MCorp has obtained "firmly circled" commitments from a number of investors who would be willing to invest in management's plan.

One is Lindner, chairman of American Financial Corp., although MCorp officials would not identify any of the possible investors.

Lindner already has other, indirect interests in Dallas and in Texas. Through Penn Central Corp., American Financial owns Marathon Manufacturing Co., a maker of off-road and oilfield machinery, and Lindner is a large investor in American General Corp., a Houston-based insurance concern.

Lindner, 69, formed American Financial in 1959 as a parent company for three small savings and loans, and expanded it to the $8.1 billion company it is now.

Lindner controls and is chairman of a number of other companies, including Penn Central Corp., Great American Communications Co. (formerly Taft Broadcasting) and United Brands. His family controls Provident Bank.

Analysts say the bidding for MCorp will be intense because the company represents the last opportunity for a major out-of-state bank to acquire a major Texas franchise.

"The out-of-state bidders have to look at this as the last chance to get into Texas on the government," Dallas bank consultant Wallace "Gene" Hinyard told the Dallas Times Herald Monday.

William Seidman, the chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., said Sunday that the agency has already been contacted by several major institutions interested in acquiring MCorp. He also would not identify the suitors.

MCorp is the last of the big Texas bank holding companies to ask for a federal bailout. MCorp, the state's second-largest bank holding company with $20.1 billion in assets, and the 35th largest in the U.S., proposed a public-private bailout that would involve $400 million raised from investors and stockholders, $300 million to $400 million supplied by the holding company itself, and an undisclosed amount of money from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

British party opens its convention today

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher traded defiant words with the IRA as her Conservative Party gathered to open its convention today in the same hotel where the IRA tried to blow her up four years ago.

The convention opened this morning amid tight security. Overflights by civil air traffic were banned, a Royal Navy destroyer patrolled off shore and delegates were forced to line up early outside the conference hall and endure rigorous security checks.

Without prior announcement and ringed by security men, Mrs. Thatcher arrived late Monday with her husband Denis at Brighton's seafront Grand Hotel. It was badly damaged in the Oct. 12, 1984, bomb blast that killed five people. Mrs. Thatcher narrowly escaped injury.

The four-day convention was the Tories' first there since the bombing.

Mrs. Thatcher said upon arrival that her strongest memory was that the day after the bombing, the convention started on time and "people flooded in."

The Irish Republican Army, in a statement circulated to Irish news media Monday, said it "takes great delight from the hysteria and the expense surrounding the security of Mrs. Thatcher and the Tories at their Brighton conference."

The predominantly Catholic IRA is fighting to end British rule in Northern Ireland and unite the 60 percent Protestant province with the 95 percent Catholic Irish Republic.

Waste products can be a problem

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a C6 quadriplegic with an ileal conduit loop and a colostomy. My waste products are collected in bag. I'm tired of urine all over myself and my clothes. Nothing I've tried prevents leaks. Is there some kind of surgery with a tube connection to avoid bags?

DEAR READER: You raise an extremely technical question.

Control over the elimination of waste products depends on complex nerve pathways that activate and coordinate urinary and bowel sphincters.

Sphincters are rings of muscle at the bladder opening and the anus.

Injury to the spinal cord at C6, the level of the sixth cervical vertebra in the neck, often causes paralysis of the muscles of the lower body. Therefore, such injury can result in urinary and fecal incontinence.

Because this is such an unpleasant consequence, quadruplegics may need surgery to allow waste material to be caught and stored in plastic bags designed for this purpose. Evidently, you have had this surgery and it has not been a total success.

You have three options: Find a urologist who is knowledgeable about reconstructive urinary surgery, ask for a referral to a medical center that specializes in helping quadruplegics with similar problems, or seek advice from a stoma specialist — a professional who is specially trained in working with ileal conduits and colostomies.

You may find that the United Ostomy Association (2001 W. Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90057) will be able to answer many of your questions.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My eyes are red and irritated all the time. I'm a college student, and I've noticed that when I'm in class with fluorescent lights, my eyes start to burn. Could it be the lights, or could I be allergic to something which builds up to critical levels in the enclosed room?

DEAR READER: Either explanation is possible. Fluorescent lights can be irritating to people with sensitive eyes; the reasons for this are not known. Also, patients can be allergic to substances in their surroundings; burning and inflamed eyes can result.

I suggest that you check with an ophthalmologist to determine the cause of your eye irritation.

I've been especially interested in reports seeming to show that fluorescent lighting may make learning disabilities more severe. Apparently, we still have much to learn about the side effects of fluorescent lights.

Mom Upset by Part-Time Role With Kids in School Full Time

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: During the past 10 years, I have raised four children. The last two are twins. As the school year begins, I see my babies going off to school full time. What happens now?

We can't wait until our children say their first words, take their first steps, are finally out of diapers, and then — boom, they are off to kindergarten!

I actually looked forward to their being in school all day, but now that it has happened, I am lost. I don't know what to do with myself. I ask myself if I should take up a hobby or get a job. Or perhaps have another baby?

Am I crazy for feeling this way? Are there others out there who have felt this way?

and demeaning. In a doctor's office, I was waiting for my appointment with a man also about 60. The receptionist said to him, "You may go in now, Mr. Smith," but when my turn came, she said, "The doctor will see you now, Marilyn."

I always correct these people gently but firmly. Often they are surprised because they had not even realized that this is a subtle kind of put-down. Actually, I would like to see all forms of address more formal when people are acquainted only in a business or service situation. First names and pet names are fine for friends and family because they denote an intimacy. However, I resent it from strangers.

LYN VENABLE,
WALNUT CREEK, CALIF.

DEAR MS. VENABLE: I plead "guilty." I have called someone I did not know well "Honey." But regardless of how that person perceives my motives, I assure you it is not intended as a "subtle put-down." Perhaps it is too friendly, in poor taste or presumptuous — but never any kind of a put-down or intention to demean.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: In the last presidential election, of the 116 million people who were registered to vote, 102 million people actually voted.

If you are not registered, please register. If you are registered, exercise your right to vote.

B&PW opens club year

Frances Brown, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, welcomed members to the opening dinner of the club year.

Eula Williams, program coordinator, offered the invocation and Lee Weaver distributed year books. Polly Phillips and Mary Starnes were received as new members to the club and Lynda Cook was a guest.

In keeping with the year's theme, "Serving Others," Sharon Applin presented the feature program on her work with jail and prison inmates through Gentle Dove Ministries. She and her husband, Marvin, work together with the goal of helping individuals lead a better quality of life through cleanliness of body, motivation to work, ability to create beauty in one's environment, proper nutrition, and enjoyment of good reading.

Applin expressed gratitude for donations from many sources and commented that shoes and inspirational reading materials are now in short supply for the ministry.

She noted that the state provides essentials for personal hygiene and clean clothing, but most counties do not provide soap and clean underwear in their budgets. The ministry team does not give second-hand lingerie, but provides new clothing in order to build self-esteem and good grooming.

Persons wishing to contribute devotional, self-help books, Bibles, and other good reading materials may take them to the business office near Green Hill Baptist Church.

Brown served as hostess and centered the tables with yellow marigolds embellished with ivy in gold and copper containers.

CINNAMON-APPLE
POPCORN BALLS

10 cups popped popcorn (about 1/2 cup unpopped)
1 1/2 cups granola
1 cup sugar
2/3 cup water
1/2 cup red cinnamon candies
1 tablespoon vinegar
1/4 teaspoon salt
One 6-ounce package dried apples, finely chopped
10 to 12 wooden sticks
Remove and discard any unpopped kernels. Place popcorn in greased 17- by 12- by 2-inch baking pan or shallow roasting pan; stir in granola. Place in 300-degree F oven to keep warm.
For syrup, butter sides of heavy 1 1/2-quart saucepan. In saucepan combine sugar, water, cinnamon candies, vinegar and salt. Cook over medium-high heat to boiling, stirring constantly to dissolve sugar and candies (should take about 6 minutes). Avoid splashing syrup on sides of pan.

Carefully clip candy thermometer to side of pan. Cook over medium heat until thermometer registers 270 degrees F, soft-crack stage; stir occasionally. Syrup should boil at moderate, steady rate over entire surface (should take 20 to 25 minutes). Remove from heat; remove thermometer.

Remove popcorn from oven. Stir apples into popcorn mixture; pour syrup over mixture. Stir gently to coat popcorn. Working quickly, with buttered hands, shape mixture into 3-inch balls, placing wooden stick in center of each. Wrap balls in clear plastic wrap. Makes 10 to 12.

fair. Wouldn't you lead a club on this bidding, just as West did?

South won the queen of clubs and quickly cashed the ace, discarding dummy's singleton heart. Without any further ado, South led a spade from his hand. He did not mind losing two spade tricks if he could draw trumps ending in dummy and then run the remaining spade tricks. West played low and East won the 10. East now played a heart. Declarer ruffed in dummy and led another spade. West won the ace and continued with the heart ace. Declarer ruffed and then played two rounds of diamonds. When the diamonds split, declarer took the rest of dummy's spades to make his contract.

West might have defeated the contract if he had false-carded on the first diamond with his 10. Declarer might well have decided that West had started with the singleton 10 of diamonds. In that event, declarer must play spades from dummy after taking only one high diamond, intending to over-ruff when East ruffs and then go to dummy, drawing trump. Of course South would be unpleasantly surprised when West ruffed in with the five of diamonds as the setting trick.

A chance for deception

By James Jacoby

East's jump raise to four clubs was meant as an obstructive bid, taking away much of the opponents' bidding room. West still liked his hand, so he bid five clubs. The spotlight was now on North. He had already bid two spades but so far had not supported his partner's opening one-diamond bid. Taking his life in his hands, he bid five diamonds. All passed. Now let's be

Local homemakers attend state meet

"Your Place in the Sun" was the theme of the extension homemakers state convention held in Abilene in September.

Jill Starr, Taylor County Gold Star recipient for 1988, gave a talk entitled, "Let's Bring Back Farming and Raise a Crop of Hard Working Boys." Starr said Snyder was an ideal place for raising a family. She also commented that Snyder residents were fortunate to have Jerry Worsham working with our young people.

Keynote speaker, Dr. Azalia Francis, professor, consultant and lecturer of Lester, Ala., spoke on the theme. Dr. Willard Tate of Abilene Christian University, spoke on "Learning to Love."

Six workshops covered natural resources, health and safety, citizenship and legislation, family life, membership and leadership, and cultural arts and international understanding.

There were 553 delegates, 26 board members, 20 agents and 265 visitors present. Local delegates attending were Jimmie Cummings, Virginia Humphrey, and Joyce McCoy. Scurry County residents visiting the meeting were Veleri Dunn, Debbie Halfman, and Pearle Waller.

The Texas Extension Homemakers Association serves as a cooperative and coordinating organization for the statewide activities of extension homemakers clubs, working with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University. Membership is open to all homemakers without regard for race, color, sex, or national origin. If interested in becoming a member of TEHA, contact Kathryn Roberts, extension agent, at 573-5423.

Stargazers plan projects

Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club met Sept. 26 in the home of Mildred Rogers with Daisy Lewis, president, presiding.

For roll call, members named a plant beginning with one of their own initials. The thought for the day was, we may live without friends; we may live without books; but civilized man cannot live without cooks.

Members voted to buy one of the six 4-H signs which will be placed on the highways into Snyder letting visitors know that local residents are active in the organization.

Members contributed ideas for projects and programs for the coming year.

Lewis served as hostess with Rogers receiving the hostess gift.

The next club meeting is set for Oct. 17 at 7 p.m. at 3717 Ave. T. Quilting will be featured by Joy Early and visitors are welcome to attend the session.

Gibson keys Dodger victory

NEW YORK (AP) - In the end, the reason is Kirk Gibson. Without his bat, Los Angeles wouldn't have had the offense. Without his fire, the Dodgers wouldn't have had the will. From the time he stormed out of Holman Stadium before the season's first exhibition game, through his steal of second base in the ninth inning Monday afternoon, Gibson has been the fire that lit up Los Angeles. And thanks to his passion, the Dodgers are within one game of the National League pennant. His 12th-inning home run early Monday morning gave the Dodgers a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets, tying the National League playoffs at two games apiece. His three-run homer in the fifth inning exactly 13 hours later powered the Dodgers past the Mets 7-4 and into a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Cunningham-led Eagles fly past New York Giants, 24-13

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Randall Cunningham was a smash as a TV pitch man. The Philadelphia Eagles quarterback sold himself and his team to the nation's pro football fans Monday night, throwing for 369 yards and three touchdowns in leading the Eagles to a 24-13 victory over the New York Giants. "I just try to go in and play the best I can," Cunningham said. "If I go into a game thinking I'm one of the best, that just puts a lot of pressure on you. "I guess it was seen on TV what I could do." What the fourth-year pro did in the Eagles' first Monday night appearance since 1981 was complete 31 of 41 passes against one of the NFL's toughest defenses. And he led the Eagles, 3-3, into the thick of the NFC East race. The Eagles are tied with the Giants and Washington Redskins, one game behind the Phoenix Cardinals.

"I think it's the best I've ever played," Cunningham said. "I don't remember when I've thrown so much in a game." The key to snapping a six-game losing streak against the Giants was to attack the defense with short passes. "The Giants always run a two-deep coverage, and people try to beat them deep," Cunningham said. "You have to get them underneath because you won't get enough time. So we spread the ball around to everyone." Cunningham threw to six different receivers, with tight end Keith Jackson and running back Keith Byars catching nine each. Wide receiver Cris Carter caught five. Cunningham set the tone of the hours to the minute after his game-winner. Len Dkystra hit a three-run homer off Tim Belcher in the bottom of the inning but the score remained 6-3 until the eighth when Dykstra doubled leading off. Gregg Jefferies followed with an RBI single to chase Belcher. Left-hander Ricky Horton came out of the bullpen to strike out Keith Hernandez, but gave up a single to Strawberry and left in favor of right-hander Brian Holton. Kevin McReynolds, the first batter to face the Dodgers reliever, tapped a slow roller to short that the speedy Mets outfielder appeared likely to beat out for a hit. But instead of having the bases loaded with one out, the Mets suffered a second out when rookie Gregg Jefferies, running to third base, was hit by the bouncing ball. The inning, and the Mets' last chance at victory, ended when Gary Carter flew to left. Holton held the Mets the rest of the way, giving the Dodgers' bullpen nine scoreless innings since the suspension of relief ace Jay Howell. Belcher gained his second victory over New York in five days, making him the first rookie to win two games in a single playoff series. The Dodgers added an insurance run in the ninth, although it may ultimately prove to be costly. Gibson singled and stole second, popping his hamstring. Pinch-runner Jose Gonzalez scored on Mike Marshall's triple to right.

Cade wins his parole

MADISON, Wis. (AP) - Former University of Texas player Mossy Cade, paroled after serving 15 months in prison on sexual assault charges, could be ready to play professional football again in a few weeks, his lawyer says. The State Parole Board on Monday vote 4-2 in favor of parole and Cade will be released Oct. 21, Board Chairman Charles Kuehn said. "We're elated," said Tom Breen, a Chicago lawyer who represents Cade, who was playing for the Green Bay Packers at the time he was convicted. Breen said Cade, 26, plans to return to professional football if a team will take him. Cade has been working out in prison and will be physically ready to play football in a few weeks, Breen added.

But Packers President Robert Parins said Cade's status with the team would be considered after National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle decided on what, if any, disciplinary action the league would impose on Cade. "We can't make any decision on that until after we see what the commissioner does with his status," Parins said. Cade has been serving a two-year sentence at the Fox Lake Correctional Institution since July 28, 1987. He was convicted in May 1987 on two counts of sexual assault involving a Houston woman at his De Pere home in 1985.

Don't count Cowboys out yet

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys haven't been in the NFL playoffs for two years, and the 1988 season is beginning to slip away from coach Tom Landry's team. The Washington Redskins downed Dallas 35-17 on Sunday to plop the Cowboys in the NFC East cellar with a 2-4 record. Dallas hasn't had four losses after six games since the 1974 season, when the Cowboys won the first game of the year but lost the next four. The Cowboys finished 8-6 that year and missed the playoffs.

Dallas running back Herschel Walker says don't count the Cowboys out yet. "It's an unusual season in that every game seems to be a tossup," Walker said. "Right now the race is still open. We can get back in it if we can just develop some kind of consistency." He said the loss to Washington "may be our waking-up game."

Texan begins tenure on rural health task force

Administrator for the past 29 years of the Hi-Plains Hospital in Hale Center, 35 miles north of Lubbock, Russell is described as a hands-on manager and respected voice for a critically ill rural health care system.

The only Texan appointed to the new Department of Health and Human Services' National Advisory Committee on Rural Health, Russell has a chance to help shape national policy and craft legislation that can pull rural hospitals back from the brink of failure.

"What recommendations they (committee members) will be able to develop will be given the most serious, serious consideration (by Congress), especially by members of the Senate Finance Committee," said a staff member of the committee, which has jurisdiction over most public health legislation.

Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, a Texas Democrat, said it is important to have a Texas voice on the 18-member panel, which conducted its first meeting last month.

For the past two years, Texas had led the nation in hospital failures, according to the Texas Hospital Association. Eighteen went under in 1986 and 17 more failed in 1987. So far this year, 16 more have collapsed.

"In Gordon Russell, Texas gives the nation the voice of a hands-on administrator who deals every day with the problems on small hospitals," Bentsen said. "He has a proven record of effectiveness on behalf of small hospitals."

Adds Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas: "Gordon Russell is extremely well qualified for this important post. He will bring a wealth of expertise and a unique Texas view to the policy-making apparatus at the department."

Russell said rural hospitals in Texas have been financially crippled or killed by unsurmountable losses caused in part by changes in government reimbursement policies for Medicare patients; plagued by shortages of professional staff; and unable to gain access to needed capital.

"As a whole, yes, we're in critical condition," said Russell, a former board chairman of the Texas Hospital Association and an organizer of the council governing small and rural hospitals under the American Hospital Association.

Russell said Texas has about one-tenth of the nation's total hospitals, as well as about one-tenth of the nation's rural hospitals.

Forty-two of those rural hospitals "are on the ropes right now in Texas ... in pretty severe financial condition," he said Monday.

Frequently, those hospitals are among their community's biggest employers, and their failure leaves patients 30 or 40 miles from the nearest health care center.

"That's a long distance if you're 80 or you're pregnant," he said.

Russell said the overriding problem facing rural hospitals is that the federal government reimburses them less than urban hospitals for the same diagnosis-related group, or DRG, among Medicare patients.

While rural hospitals are more dependent for survival upon Medicare patients than some urban hospitals, they receive 36 percent to 40 percent less for each patient, Russell said.

Some officials argue the differential is closer to 16 percent, Russell said, but "that's the base rate and it turns out to be in the upper 30 percentile."

Because so many of these hospitals are in the red, they can't borrow capital needed for overdue renovations, he said.

Also troubling is that because the hospitals are in isolated communities, it is hard for them to compete with metropolitan hospitals for qualified staff. Making it even more difficult is that even the big hospitals face nursing shortages.

"It's really tough to move a young lady to Van Horn, Texas," he said. "It's tough to get the young graduates to the rural areas."

Doctors who treat Medicare patients in an urban area also are reimbursed more than their rural counterparts for the same DRG, making recruiting physicians also a challenge, he said.

"We can tell them 'Come to the rural areas and enjoy the clean area and get paid less.' You have to be a real salesman to get that done."

Drought cost could rise lawyer says

DALLAS (AP) — The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee says the 1988 drought relief package voted by Congress to help farmers and ranchers could exceed earlier cost estimates of $3.9 billion.

"It's possible," said U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, committee chairman and a leading designer of the relief package. "We don't know."

De la Garza was at the the State Fair of Texas Monday to speak to the annual joint meeting of the Dallas Agricultural Club and the Fort Worth Farm & Ranch Club.

Congress made allowances for drought relief costs running as high as $6 billion, said de la Garza.

"Hopefully, it won't go beyond that," he said. "Right now, I don't see it" rising much above the $3.9 billion or $4 billion level.
