Court comments to auditor change

District Judge Gene Dulaney appeared before commissioners Monday morning to hear their concerns about possible changes of personnel in the county auditor's office and to explain his position on the possible changes.

Each one of the four commissioners and County Judge Bobby Goodwin told Dulaney that it would be a mistake to change all three people in the office, especially in early 1989 since it is perhaps the most demanding time of the year for that office.

Dulaney replied that he had wanted to change only one person in the office, because that person has acted "against the policies of the courthouse and caused disruptions," and that Auditor Bernhard Bartels indicated he would resign rather than make that Dulaney said Bartels has been "an excellent county auditor" and that he did not want Bartels to leave. The judge said he still hopes that one of the three office employees will stay, facilitating the apparently probable transition.

had explained at the outset of the 10 a.m. public hearing that the Scurry County commissioners county's personnel policy committee had recommended a longevity pay increase from $3 to a possible longevity pay increase $5 per month for each year that for county employees and then an employee has been on the county payroll and that the commissioners decided to seek an increase to $10.

Commissioner Tommy Pate said during the discussion that he could support an increase to $5 make a raise as impractical for but not to $10. Pate's proposal would have had a cap of an extra $1,000 per year.

After discussion, commisgovernment to get in the same sioner Duaine Davis moved to enact the $10 increase, a motion seconded by commissioner Ted

Pate and commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. voting "no."

Goodwin told Davis that unless he would revise his motion to enact only a $5 increase, he would have to vote "no" and kill the $10per-month proposal. Davis revised the motion, which then passed unanimously.

County Auditor Bernhard Bartels had said during the discussion that longevity pay currently costs the county $28,000 annually. The switch from $3 to $5 will increase this to $45,000 annually. The payroll aspect of the county budget totals some $2 million.

Other business included an ap-

The resulting vote was 2-2 with pearance by Cogdell Memorial Hospital administrator Thomas Hochwalt, who said the countyowned hospital's discount for county employees in the 10 months through Oct. 31 amounted to 52 percent of the total $54,600 in

Hochwalt proposed a 29percent discount, starting in January, and asked the court to pay $17,513 more of the billings to county employees for fiscal 1987-88, writing off excessive discounts for November and

The court approved the change in discount rates and approved the extra payment, to be processed through the county health insurance fund.

up the George Bush administration — the task of some 300 people who toil in offices above a drugstore — is being underwritten by the taxpayers to the tune of about $3.5 million.

Bush's paid transition staff has grown to 149 at last count, with about the same number of volunteers, officials say.

The highest paid are top advisers James Baker III and Fred Zeder, both of whom are being paid at an annual rate of $71.377. After the transition, Baker will become secretary of state.

To meet the payroll as well as pay for copying, research, telephones, rent, supplies and the like, Bush receives a total of $3.5 million in public money.

The money is allocated under the Presidential Transition Act of 1964. The amount was increased this year from the $2 million that was allowed when President Reagan took office eight years

The Bush operation, housed in three floors of an office building across the street from the hotel where Reagan was shot and wounded in 1981, is far more spare than the mini-bureaucracy of more than 1,000 people who worked for Reagan's transition

Singer's memorial to move to Los Angeles

GALLATIN, Tenn. (AP) -Memorial services for rock 'n' roll pioneer Roy Orbison move now to Los Angeles where mourners will celebrate his life rather than his death.

The first such service was Sunday, when 75 of his friends and music industry associates attended a 30-minute memorial where he was eulogized as a legendary performer with a world-wide following.

The second memorial, called by his family a "celebration of life," is scheduled for Tuesday night at a nightclub in Los Angeles near where Orbison lived for the past four years, Orbison made his last trip back to the area last year for an oil aid concert to benefit the economically stricken oil field workers he grew up with.

Sunday's memorial was at the College Heights Baptist Church, about 30 miles northeast of Nashville, where Orbison worshiped when in Tennessee.

'He became a legend in his own time," the Rev. Larry Gilmore said in his eulogy. "He touched the lives of millions throughout the world.

"His ability in music is unquestioned. A world has benefited from what he shared in the music industry.'

"I am very diappointed the Austin police cannot reasonably allow a photojournalist to pursue his assignment," John Lumpkin, AP's bureau chief for Texas, said from Dallas.

This is the second experience the AP has had with overzealous police officers in Austin. If our own research continues to confirm what our stringer has told us, we will protest this action vigorously.

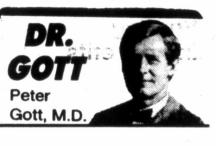

'Several years ago, Austin policemen not wearing their ID's smashed the face of AP reporter Ken Herman at a demonstration. We cooperated with the city by waiting while it promised an investigation. Regrettably, the incident was buried.

"I don't think we can be as patient this time. It's very suspicious that officers could not work something like this at the scene but preferred instead to jail someone photographing their activities."

Austin Police Department officials were unavailable for comment Sunday.

DEAR DR. GOTT: We are an old couple, 89 and 90. For some time now we both seem to have problems with water constantly dripping from our noses and an abundance of saliva. Is this yet another consequence of old

DEAR READER: Watery nasal discharge is usually a sign of nose and sinus irritation. When air, containing particles of smoke or dust or pollen, is drawn into the nose, the irritating substances cause the nasal membranes to react. The most common reaction, as we've all experienced, is a flood of watery mucus. I suppose this is nature's way of trying to wash away the offending pollutant.

Therefore, copious nasal discharge is often a consequence of inhalational allergies, such as hay fever, or exposure to environmental pollution, such as smoke and smog. An allergist could help you identify the cause of your nasal problem.

Excessive saliva, on the other hand, frequently results from foreign material in the mouth. The most common source of this material is dentures and bridgework that stimulate the salivary glands to over-produce. If you have dentures ask your dentist about this.

Sharing the benefits

Avid tournament players are quick to try out new ideas in bidding, but what about social and rubber bridge players? One reader writes that in his game, any suggestions for new uses for bids are branded as "highfaluting nonsense suitable only for duplicate nuts." Of course bridge is a fascinating game even at the basic level. But suppose I can show the players in your regular game a useful bid they can understand and remember? Cut this article out and show it to your friends.

The recommendation is called a splinter bid, and here's how it works. After you have opened the bidding and your partner has responded, a double jump in a new suit by you (the opener) shows a singleton or a void in that suit. It also shows four-card support for responder's suit and a hand strong enough to insist upon playing game. Obviously responder must bid at least game in the agreed suit. In today's deal the jump to four clubs was a splinter bid. Although responder's hand was not powerful, he knew that opener's hand was very strong, so along the way to four spades it cost him nothing to show that he had a useful card in the opener's diamond suit. That was all that was needed for North to ask for aces and bid the cold small slam.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

Cowboys snap losing string

WASHINGTON (AP) - After berth enduring 10 weeks of frustration, the Dallas Cowboys didn't treat their victory over the defending world champion Washington Redskins as just another win.

"Our guys were so excited you would think we won the Super Bowl," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Sunday after the Cowboys' 24-17 victory over the Redskins. "Everyone was looking for champagne."

Steve Pelluer threw three touchdown passes to rookie Michael Irvin, the last one with 4:50 left, to enable the Cowboys to end a 10-game losing streak and eliminate Washington from playoff contention.

"It's a great win for us, but to do it in RFK Stadium against the Redskins makes it all the sweeter," said Dallas defensive end Randy White, a 14-year veteran who remembers the days when the Cowboy-Redskin rivalry usually decided a playoff

Appleton captures all-around

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dave Appleton was a standout rodeo performer at Western Texas College under Coach Bob Doty when he came to the United States from Australia in 1980. LAS VEGAS (AP) - America's top cowboy is an Australian.

Dave Appleton, a small-town Australian who came to the United States eight years ago with a dream of making it big in rodeo, did just that Sunday when he captured the bareback riding final to edge three-time defending champion Lewis Feilds and win the coveted all-round cowboy award.

"I'm living proof that dreams come true," Appleton said. "I'm an Australian until the day I die, but you'll never find me badmouth this country. It's answered every dream I've ever

Appleton, 28, who now lives at Arlington, Texas, came from behind on the final day of the world's richest rodeo to capture the bareback riding event and take the all-around title that Feild has owned the last three

"I did it the Australian way," Appleton said. "I didn't bang down the door, I snuck through the peephole."

Feild, of Elk Ridge, Utah, failed to place in the bareback final and finished in a tie for third in the saddle bronc riding. He won $12,081 on the day to finish second in the year-ending overall money race for cowboys who compete in at least two rodeo events.

Appleton ended the season with $121,546 in winnings, with $44,064 of that coming in the nine-day National Finals Rodeo at the Thomas and Mack Center on the University of Nevada-Las Vegas campus. Feild finished just cluding $47,508 in NFR earnings.

Washington, 7-8, committed five turnovers and gained only 24 yards on the ground in losing for the fourth time in five games.

Injuries have played a big part in the Redskins' slide, and Sunday's game was no exception. After three-time Pro Bowl cornerback Darrell Green broke his left hand in the second quarter, Irvin feasted on his replacement, Dennis Woodberry

WTC men scare No. 1 Odessa

Coach Tony Mauldin's nation's No. 1 ranked team here pushed to the wall. Saturday, but fell in a thriller at Scurry County Coliseum, 84-81.

Odessa came into the game with a 13-0 record, the top ranking in the NJCAA, and the leading scorer in the country in Larry Johnson.

Westerners threw a scare into the mark, but knew they had been 'The guys fought hard," said a disappointed Coach Mauldin. "We made a few mistakes there at the end. A couple of throwaways that gave them layups. When it got to crunch time they had some players come through for them.

With 4:50 to play, point-guard Keith Hawkins scored a layup off a steal to give Western a 73-72 lead. Johnson, an All-American and last season's juco player of the year, put the Wranglers back on top monents later, then added another goal for insurance. Odessa's lead grew to 78-73 before Vladimir McCrary hit a 3pointer for the hosts.

Trailing just 78-76, Western had a chance to pull closer but Hawkins missed a shot and Ricky O'Neal countered for the Wranglers. Moments later, Johnson blocked a McCrary field goal attempt, kept control of the ball, and flung it downcourt to a racing Lynn Collins for two more points and an 82-76 lead with 1:40

McCrary, a 6-7 standout from San Antonio, kept Western close in the final minutes by hitting four 3-point baskets. His final effort came inside 30 seconds and put Western within three points, 84-81. O'Neal had a chance to sew up the game for Odessa, but he missed the front end of a bonus free throw situation with 17 seconds left. Western's Bernard Williams got off a shot but missed. The rebound was knocked out of bounds by Odessa with two seconds left. A last-second shot attempt by Tony Joyce was blocked.

Western was led by McCrary's

The Wranglers left with a 14-0 26 points. Bobby Spear had 23, including 19 in the first half, but was in constant foul trouble. The 6-5 sophomore sat out about eight minutes of the second half and fouled out with 52 seconds to play.

> Tony Joyce and Ken Critton scored eight points each for Western. Jerry Joyce and Bernard Williams added seven each.

> Odessa was led by Johnson, the 6-6 league MVP from Dallas, who scored 30. O'Neal scored 13 and Sammie Freeman added 12. Now 9-6 overall and 0-3 in conference play, Western will take a near month-long holiday break before resuming action Jan. 5 in the Trinity Valley Tournament in Athens.

Dusters whip Odessa, 69-51

Western Texas College's Lady Dusters put on a second-half surge to run past rival Odessa in conference basketball action here Saturday afternoon, 69-51.

The game was the Lady Dusters' final of the first semester and gives Coach Kelly Chadwick's bunch a 13-4 record as they depart for a holiday break.

"I thought the kids played great defense and did the things we needed to do to win," said Coach Chadwick, whose Dusters broke open a five-point ballgame by outscoring the Lady Wranglers 16-3 in a six-minute span of the second half.

Western led just 36-33 before Nickey Allen nailed back-to-back baskets to ignite the Dusters. Lawanda Bonner answered with two points for Odessa, but Tami

Suspect in double-slaying described as man who loved his only daughter

GARLAND, Texas (AP) -Friends portrayed a man arrested in connection with the slayings of his ex-wife and a Dallas County sheriff's deputy as a congenial man who loved his 21month-old daughter.

Billy Ross Sims, 38, was arrested Sunday without incident about 1 a.m. in a Garland apartment complex parking lot on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

"He wasn't a violent person," said apartment resident Kathey Walker, 35, who had known Sims about nine months. "And he wasn't the masked murderer and time bomb waiting to explode like some said. He was just a nice Johnson, city secretary.

Second tragedy strikes

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - For the second time in four years, tragedy has ripped apart the holiday season for James Beeson Jr. and his family.

In 1984, Beeson's 20-year-old brother fell to his death from a building window on Christmas

This season, Beeson is working at a San Antonio Christmas tree lot, selling evergreens to those celebrating the world's most famous birth while he tries to raise money to bury his own infant son.

"If I can earn more money, we are hoping to make it (the funeral) better," Beeson, 19, told The San Antonio Light.

Kenneth Edward Daniel Beeson, almost fourth months old, was found dead Saturday morning at an aunt's house where he spent the night. Autopsy results were scheduled to be released today by the Bexar County medical examiner's of-

Beeson said his infant son had been taking medication for a minor cold.

"We were staying in this little trailer here selling the trees,' Beeson said. "It was cold and wet so we decided to leave him with his aunt and my cousins."

Beeson, 19, and his 20-year-old wife, Rosalie, returned to the lot Sunday where they make $1.50

Tony Castillo, owner of the Castillo Mission Funeral Home, said others have donated about $300 of the $500 it will cost for a simple burial.

Proposed state regulations could end uranimum mining

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) -Mining officials say that high- ing ponds in South Texas include cost environmental safeguards the Chevron Panna Maria pond, being proposed could end the Conoco Conquista pond near uranium mining and milling in tions) would put everybody out of business," Frank Baltich, mill superintendent for the Chevron Panna Maria uranium mill in Karnes County, told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

The state Bureau of Radiation Control made the proposals in an effort to meet new federal stan-

Most of the proposed regulations would establish stricter controls on low-level radioactive waste ponds, which are used to dispose of tailings — materials left behind in the milling of uranium.

Under the proposed regulations, tailings-pond designs would aim to be impermeable for 1,000 years and in any case at least 200 years.

The ponds also would be limited to 40 acres and would need two synthetic liners, unless an alternative system could be proved to be as effective.

Between the two liners would be a monitor pump for alerting officials to any wastes that penetrated the first liner.

Currently there is no limit on the size of the tailings ponds one South Texas pond is 150 acres and the four ponds in South Texas depend on linings of natural clay.

The Chevron site is the only active uranium mill-tailings pond in Texas. Chevron's operations produce daily about 3,000 pounds of yellowcake, uranium in its milled state, with a value of about $36,000

The proposed rules must clear two sets of public hearings before they could go into effect, one by the bureau's advisory board and the other by the state Board of Health, said Hal Nelson, general counsel for the Texas Department of Health.

The regulations also would have to be posted in the Texas Registry by the TDH before they could become binding, he said.

The entire approval process could take a year, said Ruth McBurney, acting director for the bureau's licensing, registration and standards division.

However, little in the regulations can be changed if the state plans to continue regulating the use of radioactive materials in Texas in place of the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission, McBurney said.

Even if Texas lost its radiationregulating powers, industries would still have to face similar new rules, but they would be imposed and enforced by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, she said.

The proposed new rules would cost Chevron millions of dollars by requiring it to remove or decontaminate its 150-acre uranium mill tailings pond, Baltich said.

Chevron's tailings pond, which is about half full, contains 5.5 million tons of low-level radioactive wastes, said Kevin Raabe, environmental safety coordinator for Chevron.

A radioactive waste removal project, similar in size to the one Chevron could face, is expected to cost the U.S. Department of Energy $21 million, said Tracy Loughead, spokeswoman for the

The DOE project is in the design phase for removing or stabilizing 5.5 million tons of radioactive waste from a tailings pond at the former Susquehanna Western uranium mine and mill, eight miles southwest of Falls City, Loughead said.

The pond did not have a liner, and radioactive wastes have been leaking into underground aguifers since the mine was opened in 1961, according to Thomas Cardwell, an inspector for the state radiation bureau.
