More Entries Are Urged For Better Yard Competition

Considerable interest is being taken by residents and home owners in the Yard Beautification contest being sponsored by the Senior-Junior Magazine Club, and a number of entries have been received since the contest was announced last week.

However, sponsors are anxious to enlist active entrants in the program in every section of the city, in both home owners and resident tenant divisions. Cash awards of $75.00 will be paid to first and second place winners in the three divisions of the contest, and third place winners will be awarded shrubbery and other planting stock.

There is no charge for entering the contest, and no requirements for any certain class of yard improvement or beautification are made. Sole purpose of the contest is to stimulate individual effort in beautifying home surroundings throughout the city.

Mrs. Ferguson Will Not Enter Governor's Race

Mrs. Mirian A. Ferguson, former governor of Texas, was quoted in press dispatches this week from Austin to the effect that she would not be a candidate for Governor in the coming Democratic primary.

Mrs. Ferguson and her husband, Jas. E. Ferguson, were mentioned as possible candidates for the Governorship in settling the rumors this week. Mrs. Ferguson explained that financial considerations and the severe requirements of a statewide campaign were prime obstacles preventing entry into the political field this year.

Productive Enterprise Projects

Forty-six boys in the two classes of vocational agriculture in Haskell high school this year are carrying out an outstanding program under the instruction and supervision of D. A. Vannoy, agricultural teacher.

They are carrying one hundred fifty-seven productive enterprise projects and four hundred supervised practice jobs. These figures show that each boy is carrying at least three projects, while some have as high as five, all of which have been started and are well under way.

$18,265.91 CITY TAXES COLLECTED DURING PAST YEAR

Delinquent Payments Account for Substantial
Part of Total

City tax collections for the year ending March 31, 1938 brought a total of $18,265.91 into the city treasury, largest amount collected in a similar period in several years, according to records in the city tax collector's office.

Of the total amount collected $10,418.68 covered 1937 taxes, with delinquent tax payments amounting to $7,847.23 to account for the total sum.

Tax receipts were apportioned to the various city funds in the following amounts:
General fund, $3,155.11; Park fund, $1,775.06; Street fund, $3,714.00; Fire fund, $2,445.05; Library fund, $355.05; 1909 Waterworks interest and sinking fund, $387.94; 1909 I&S fund, $32.83; 1913 Waterworks I&S fund, $98.44; 1926 Funding warrants, $302.38; 1926 City Hall fund, $427.84; 1933 refunding warrants, $4,078.88; 1936 street equipment, $979.86. LOCAL BUYERS CITE HEAVY INCREASE IN RECEIPTS

Poultry and Dairy Products
Boost Weekly Farm
Income

Haskell within the past year has developed into one of the leading poultry and produce centers of West Texas, and daily shipments of poultry, eggs, milk and cream products have in recent months doubled the figures for previous years. Conservative estimates indicate that approximately $8,000 weekly is paid to milk and cream producers, and to farmers for poultry and eggs by produce houses and merchants of Haskell, and the recently completed cheese plant here.

A canvass of all produce houses Thursday morning revealed that farmers were paid approximately $3,200 on Wednesday of this week for milk, cream, and poultry products, not taking into account sales of livestock to local buyers. Neither does this figure include disbursements of the local cheese plant, which has paid out approximately $1,800 for milk and cream alone during the past week.

Wednesday's receipts for produce have reached about the same point as the usual Saturday receipts, local produce men estimate.

Increased interest in dairying possibilities on a small scale, and a widespread diversification program that is being gradually worked out by a majority of farmers in this immediate section is expected to result in the eventual development of a substantial year-round farm income from sales of milk and poultry products.

MERCURY SKIDS 62 DEGREES DURING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

LARGE VOTE IS REGISTERED FOR CITY ELECTION

Sebo Britton Re-Elected As City Marshal Over
Two Opponents

Haskell voters flocked to the polls in unexpected numbers Tuesday in the city election, in which only one office was contested—that for the post of City Marshal. A total of 706 ballots were cast, an unofficial tabulation revealed. This is believed to be a record number for an otherwise "off year" in city politics.

Sebo Britton was re-elected for a second term as city marshal, receiving 342 votes against 184 for H. K. Thompson and 180 for Al Cousins, other two candidates for the place.

Five other officials were re-elected without opposition, Mayor F. G. Alexander receiving 696 votes, secretary-treasurer Austin Coburn 695, with the following vote for Aldermen: John V. Davis 665, J. W. Gholson 658, and Ben Bagwell 657.

R. E. Sherrill was presiding judge for the election.

Regular Meet of City Dads Monday Night

With one exception, all members of the City Council were present for the regular twice-monthly session of the city's governing body Monday night at the City Hall.

Mayor F. G. Alexander presided for the brief meeting. Principal matters brought up for consideration included approval of plans for observance of Clean-Up Week, fixing date for hearing on the proposed budget for the ensuing fiscal year, and the approval for payment of bills against the city. A contract was approved with "Boss" McGregor for the hauling of all rubbish and trash from the city limits during Clean-Up Week.

Present for the meeting were: Mayor F. G. Alexander, City Secretary R. A. Coburn, and Aldermen J. W. Gholson, John V. Davis, J. D. Montgomery and John S. Rike.

Date for the annual Senior Class play, originally scheduled to be staged at the High School auditorium next Thursday night, has been changed to Friday night, April 15. Title of the play, "Don't Ever Grow Up" is indicative of the nature of the plot, described as a glowing comedy of youth in which is depicted an insight and understanding of modern young lives.

Members of the cast have been busy with rehearsals for several weeks, and are prepared to render a creditable and understanding performance.

Curtain rises on the first act promptly at 8:15 Friday evening, April 15th.

Fears Felt That Grain Crop May Suffer From Cold Snap

Haskell and practically all of West Texas and the Panhandle was in the grip of a belated cold spell Thursday that sent the mercury tumbling from a high of 89 degrees Wednesday to 27 degrees early Thursday morning and giving rise to fears that wheat and early row crops might suffer heavy damage.

Freezing temperatures came during Wednesday night on the heels of a sandstorm and norther, followed by driving snowfall that continued throughout the day. Most of the snow melted quickly, but enough remained to blanket the ground. Moisture resulting from the fall is estimated at one-half inch.

The spell is expected to doom a major part of the fruit yield from West Texas orchards, although moisture resulting from the snow is expected to prevent a total loss of the crop.

Garden stuff and young maize and other row crops will suffer most damage, some farmers expressing the belief that the wintry blast would necessitate complete replanting.

Grain will suffer some damage, due to the fact that the crop is further advanced than in many years. However, it is believed that moisture accompanying the low temperatures has given sufficient protection to prevent any great damage.

LIGHT WEEK FOR DISTRICT COURT THROCKMORTON

Youths Given Suspended
Sentences; Grand
Jury Adjourns

Second week of the current District Court term in Throckmorton has had a light session this week, marked by the adjournment for the term of Grand Jurors Tuesday evening, and the disposition of two criminal cases.

A panel of thirty-six Petit Jurors, summoned for jury service this week, was dismissed Monday when trial by jury was waived in two cases set for trial on that date. Two Throckmorton youths, defendants, charged by indictment with theft of chickens, entered pleas of guilty and each was given a 2-year suspended sentence.

The Grand Jury was in session Monday and Tuesday, and before adjourning, reported two felony indictments. A Young county resident was named as principal in one indictment charging burglary, and the second indictment was for operating an automobile while intoxicated, in which a Woodson man was named principal.

The non-jury civil docket will be taken up today and Saturday, with all remaining criminal cases on the calendar to be called for trial Monday, April 11th. Petit Jurors have been summoned for next week.

Cold Spell Puts Crimp In Clean- Up Week Campaign

Old Man Winter's return to this section Wednesday night put a halt to citywide Clean-Up Week observance, well under way during the first three days of the week.

With the return of fair weather all citizens and homemakers are urged to continue efforts to rid the city of unsightly weeds, trash and rubbish of all kinds.

This Tell-Tale Radio

We will all be living in the proverbial "glass house," if the scientists keep on discovering new means of checking us up. With dictographs and truth serums and a new device said to be capable of making moving pictures of what goes on in a room, without the knowledge of its occupants, they are getting things done pretty fine.

Besides these schemes for the invasion of privacy, of which evil-doers might be warned, Fred M. Taylor of Kansas City would probably caution them to keep off the air—for the radio proved to be his undoing.

Some months after deserting a wife in Illinois Fred married a young society woman in the Missouri city, the wedding being a swell affair, with the ceremony performed by a bishop. To make the occasion strictly up-to-date, the proceedings were broadcast over the church radio.

Wife No. 1 happened to be listening in at her Illinois home, and as Fred had neglected the minor detail of getting a divorce or changing his name, his duplicity was exposed. The deserted wife journeyed westward.

When the judge asked the two Mrs. Taylors to suggest a suitable punishment for their joint spouse, they agreed that five years would be about right, but his honor thought that two years in Jefferson City would satisfy the demands of the blind goddess, and so decreed.

There Fred will have ample opportunity to reflect on the wonders of science, particularly the radio.

Our 'Lawless Youth'

The charge by Dr. Jay B. Nash, New York university professor, that the United States has the most lawless group of young men and women to be found in any civilized land is a bit too much for a sensible person to swallow. Dr. Nash got excited the other day and warned that unless the present disregard for organized law is curbed, a situation is threatened where "a strong arm will take over the country and know what to do."

Going on to point out that American educators don't seem to comprehend what fine things children's camps are, Professor Nash called attention to the fact that the totalitarian states have long realized the importance of youth organizations and youth camps and he reminded one and all that one of Germany's first acts after abolishing Austria was to absorb the Boy Scouts into Hitler's youth movement.

Mindful that the old saw about the right to say it holds as true as ever, there remains a sinister ring to Professor Nash's remarks that will prove exceedingly distasteful to the average American ear.

And disregarding the indictment of America's "lawless" youth—which can't be proved—there are a lot of people who think lawlessness is at least no worse than war. And war is just exactly the art in which the youth of totalitarian states is trained from babyhood.

Just A Small Touch

Wall Street has screamed "Wolf" often and loudly in the last few years and, according to the men who work there, it has become a very impoverished Street indeed. And Washington hasn't helped with its regulations and hamstringing. In fact most of the financiers have been telling one and all that they have been having difficulties laying their hands on sufficient dollars to keep the home fires burning.

But the fact remains that Richard Whitney was able to borrow the not inconsiderable sum of $1,082,000 from his brother George last November just after the stock market had taken a dive. Other loans brought the total owed to his brother by Richard Whitney to nearly $3,000,000. And he had borrowed $950,000 from other sources.

Now most people have a hard time imagining such sums. And it is harder still to imagine going to a brother and getting a loan of a million dollars—even if the brother is a Morgan partner.

So times are not so tough all the way along the Street.

Anti-Nazi Nonsense

Childish and ill-considered were the complaints of anti-Nazis against the two swastikas which were built into the powerhouse smokestacks of New York hospital long before Adolph Hitler made the swastika Germany's national symbol.

As a result of the criticism the hospital will spend $1,000 to remove the swastikas, which are near the top of the 335-foot chimney and are rarely noticed by passersby. The symbols were built into the smokestack merely to relieve the monotony of the expanse of brick and with no thought of their representing any political belief or principle.

In a world where civil liberties are generally considered archaic remnants, America has scrupulously preserved the rights of the individual. Those rights can best be retained by sensible use on the part of all. This most recent anti-Nazi outcry in New York City was anything but sensible.

At the funeral of Admiral Gary Garyson, eight respected Negro servants of the distinguished Virginia family were given seats in the section reserved for relatives, and followed the family from the church ahead of President Roosevelt and other dignitaries.

To give the firemen something to do, Chief McCain of Brookhaven, Pa., set them to burning weeds on the station lot. When they went to lunge the firehouse caught fire and burned to the ground.

Since it couldn't do any harm, why not have a "Mind Your Own Business Week?"

The Ozark Trail Association was launched here last week which resulted in securing 51 members at this place.

Claude Norman of Camp Bowie visited relatives in the Pinkerton community Saturday and Sunday. The Haskell county poultry association is making plans for a good poultry show here Friday and Saturday April 12 and 13.

Girls Attend Stamford

Morning about 17 of the girls journeyed to Stamford with their class sponsor, and the town sponsor, Goble.

Dog House Gossip

What, W. T., do you have a new girl friend. Is it really M. C.?
 Oh, oh, Dorothy! I heard you had Herman J. as a visitor Friday night. Is it true?
 Margie, you and Huland are gettin' sorta that way, are you not?
 Whew, three and four times a week seems like it to me.
 I heard Joyce Clifton's boy friend from Wichita Falls came home over the week end. Bet you were glad, weren't you?
 Wonder why some of the Juniors are always absent for play practice?
 Delphia, what are you going to do about your sister playing opposite Lain in the play?
 What were you doing in Haskell Sunday night, Pauline?
 Elsie, what do you think about Herman nad Dorothy?
 What was Juanita Duff doing in W. T.'s car Sunday night?
 Wonder why Oleah was so interested in Jayce Clifton last week?
 Wonder who Billie Mitchell is interested in?
 Say Junior, you and Elsie had better watch out. That is supposed to be Lain's and Hazel's job.
 We wonder was it vanity that made J. B. buy so many pictures of himself.
 Ben is going to be put on the front corner seat if he doesn't stop making the girls giggle in English class.

Cairo Versus Carlsbad

Four carts pulled by white donkeys of boys and girls entered the ancient city of Cairo in Egypt one moonlit night at eight p. m. They were hot and tired but began to grow happier when the chaperon Miss Louise Wade, told them they would stop and eat some chestnuts and drink coffee if Oleah would stop throwing sand at the natives. So all clamored out to sit on the curbstone waiting for their refreshment while some women displayed their wares. But when Alton pinched a young maiden's arm he was slapped and bitten so bad that he had to be put in a cart. Then the boys and girls left for a hotel where snakes danced to the frightened delight of Marian who fell into the pool used to wash dishes. After the excitement was over and all in bed a small brown man entered the long sleeping room to steal a picture of Bulah Mae. The native gave it a swift kiss and tucked it into his robe to return it to his hut. Bulah thought a certain boy had gotten it so she was happy.

Daylight was announced by the cackling of hens in shops below the moaning of the rug weavers and the loud screams of prayer. All the Weinert tourists arose except Milam who had gotten up an hour before to gaze down into the crowded street at the women who were cooking coffee in the doorway. The young people ate a quick breakfast out on the sidewalk and started toward the Nile passing palm trees and pink buildings on the way. After taking most of the Nile's water in jars as sovereigns the poor astonished natives began to weep so hard that Margaret gave them a jar of her collection with a smile. Then on to the pyramids, sitting in the sand looking up at the huge tombs with the hope that it won't topple over. "But J. B. will keep it from falling," Helen says, "for he's strong." So all felt very safe.

Returning to Cairo the visitors went to a citadel to watch the setting sun throwing rays on the great desert and the buildings of the city. But Clara begins to cry for it makes her think of home. After cheering her up they go back into the street for a camel ride. After Winton is put on a camel's hump he starts off hoping to steal some nuts and fruit on the house tops but he comes back not finding any fun on a camel since they aren't near as high as he thought. Clara Sue and Mattie had a hump apiece on one camel but they had an argument on who would ride in front with a graceful air of the leading lady in "The Garden of Allah."

Two very unique gifts were found by Mildred and Anna Belle in a candy shop. One was a pyramid in gum drops and the other was a image of Robert Taylor in peppermint. Edward tried to buy them but the two girls devoured them in one swallow. So he was left cold and dry.

The next morning when getting on an electric street car to go to the train station, the boys had a hard time trying to make the conductor understand they wanted to sit with the girls. Eldon and Ben said they would fight the man in order to get to do this, but the native knocked them both flat and the two boys rode with the others in the men's compartment.

The journey to Cairo was at an end but would the seniors rather go through this ordeal in Cairo or go to Carlsbad in an easier fashion?

LETTERS

From Our Readers

Haskell, Texas, April 7, 1938. Answering the open letter in the Haskell Free Press on March 31st, written by my good friend Mr. M. H. Harris, and addressed to the two candidates for State Representative for 113th district I will state that I thoroughly agree with Mr. Harris in that the voters have a right to know, before election, where a candidate stands on important political issues and especially a candidate for State Representative.

In making my formal announcement I stated that I would substitute performance for promises; and that I was not making promises that I knew could not be fulfilled, or making gestures to different walks of life to lure their vote, but that I would give my views on any issue arising at any time.

I had naturally expected to make public my platform in due time, but since our primary is nearly four months away, or July 23rd, and other entrants are eligible to enter for any state office until June 18th and with each entrant, and especially for governor, there will in all probability be new issues brought out, I felt a platform earlier than the present would be premature.

Since my good friend has asked specifically our stand on Old Age Pension, and if for it, how we propose to raise the money, I will state for myself, that I voted for the amendment that made Old Age Pension possible. It is now a mandate of the people; I favor a paying where applicant is eligible and can qualify, the full amount intended in the amendment, to be matched by the federal government.

We have good authorities making constant study of state affairs, who point out without a question of a doubt, how savings can be made in state administration, and in disbursing Old Age Pension, an amount sufficient to pay old age pension in full, and not affect the efficiency of any department of our state administration. They beg that Representative to be elected with business ability and courage to bring about these much needed reforms. I favor meeting our obligation to the Old Age by eliminating the disgraceful expense in administration including Old Age Pension.

I expect to have my tentative platform in the hands of each voter on the most important issues that are likely to come before the next legislature. In the meantime I earnestly solicit your helpful suggestions, and constructive criticism. I am, Respectfully, Courtney Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Holt of Wheeler were with her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Ballard and sister Mrs. Hugh Huesbeck Saturday and Sunday.

Sudan Grass May Be Harvested Under New Soil Program

The following information was received by the county agent's office from G. M. Hogan, Head Field Assistant at College Station, Texas in regard to the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program.

1. Is it true that sudan grass and sweet sorghums may be grazed and/or harvested for hay on soil-conserving acres; if so may the hay from this retired acreage be marketed? Answer: According to the regulations, sweet sorghums harvested for hay are soil-depleting crops.

Sudan grass may be harvested for hay as long as the hay may be used for the crop being conserved. Answer: Interplanting of soil-depleting crops with legumes will be beneficially soil-depleting. Answer: Summer legumes planted in the fall on land or turned under in the spring, it is considered soil-conserving.

 "If cotton were selling at 16.2 cents a pound now, a bale of cotton would buy just about what it would have bought in 1909-1914," Slaughter said. "This is what is meant by a parity price. The spot price of cotton in February was around 8.1 cents a pound."
 Parity cotton payments, or cotton price adjustment payments of 3 cents a pound, which farmers who cooperate with the AAA program will receive on their 1937 crop, will narrow the spread between the price they actually sold their cotton for and the parity price of 16.2 cents.
 In February of 1937, the money for a bale of cotton bought three-fourths the amount of goods from a store that a like bale sold in 1909 to 1914 bought. The huge cotton crop of 1937 quickly reduced the things that a bale of cotton would buy at the present price level.
 The new farm act continues the provisions for parity payments to narrow the gap between what a farmer should be able to buy when he sells a bale of cotton and what he can buy, Slaughter said. That provision, however, depends upon the funds to be provided by Congress. Whether this money will be provided through processing taxes on manufactured cotton goods or otherwise is being discussed at present by congressional committees.

Vocational—
 two boys have butchered 39 head of livestock. Fourteen individuals have run terrace lines and constructed 5950 yards of terraces. Thirty-six boys have built 8400 yards of fences, while 9 boys have built 35 houses for hogs and chickens. Thirteen planted 263 trees for shade and fruit, and fourteen students landscaped their home grounds for spring planting of trees, shrubs and flowers. The remaining jobs selected by the boys are divided among renovating home orchards, improving home conveniences, building tanks, budding, canning, castrating, coponizing, dehorning, vaccinating, testing cows for butter-fat, preparing exhibits, testing seed for germination, and selecting planting seed.
 The boys and their instructor have been congratulated by the Area Supervisor and State Supervisor on the adopted program and feel proud of their efforts. Many of the practice jobs have been completed and the remaining ones will be finished by May 20. Quite a few of the projects have been completed, while others in the class of field crops will not be finished until next fall. Some boys have begun to plan for their program for next year and two have started a program which will extend over several years.

Historic Hoaxes
 By Elmo Scott Watson
California Earthquake
 WHEN an earthquake almost destroyed Long Beach, Calif., in 1933 several incidents of the "believe it or not" type were printed in newspapers all over the country as real occurrences. One of them was the story of the hen that she laid seven eggs in quick succession. Another was about the mouse that was disgorged alive by the snake that had swallowed it.
 But the prize story was that of the barber who stopped shaving a customer at the first shock of the quake, dashed to the railroad station and took the first train back to his home in Nashville, Tenn. He arrived there safely but had scarcely left the station when a tornado struck the Tennessee capital. Looking at the destruction about him, the barber immediately rushed to the telegraph office and wired to his old boss: "California's safer than this and I'll be back on the first train."
 Except for the fact that there wasn't any tornado in Nashville, the story was a good one, although some people suspected that it was the invention of a "native son" still boosting for California. It was the author of all these yarns was an imaginative reporter who thought it was up to him to throw a little humor into an otherwise desolate situation and therefore concocted all these yarns.

CHURCHES

Former Methodist Pastor To Preach Here Next Sunday

Next Sunday morning Rev. J. P. Patterson of McMurry College is to preach at the Methodist Church in Haskell. The Rev. Mr. Patterson is well and favorably known here, having once served as pastor.
 On Easter Sunday the dean of McMurry College, Mr. Bogar, is to speak. He is a very interesting speaker, being a forceful thinker and having a keen sense of humor.
 On the Sunday following Easter Sunday the pastor is to conduct a decision day service for those who desire to make a public profession of faith and those who desire to join the church. Children will also be christened.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
 W. Russell Coatney, Minister

Bible School—9:45 a. m.
 Morning Worship—11:00 a. m.
 Sermon: "The Last Events of The Passion Week."
 Evening Worship—7:30 p. m.
 Sermon: "What Christ Teaches About His Second Coming."
 The interest that is being shown in the Pre-Easter program is greatly appreciated by the minister. Some say that more people are attending preaching services than have attended for years. Last Lord's Day, more people were present at the morning preaching services than we have enrolled as members. This is very encouraging. We hope that everyone who is a member of the church will begin to attend the morning communion service, and thus help us continue this interest that is being shown. In spite of the unfavorable weather, twenty-four people were present at the mid-week bible study. This is only about one half of the usual number, but nevertheless, we had a very worthwhile meeting. Next week, we will begin the study of the gospel according to John. There will be special music next Sunday morning, Sunday evening we will have an old fashioned singing service. Come and sing your favorite hymn.

Mr. Breedlove To Participate On District Program

At the District meeting of the Parent Teachers Association to be held in Vernon on the 13th and 14th of April, Mr. Breedlove will give a brief talk in a panel discussion on education.

The chief topic is to be "Education Through Physical Education" and Mr. Breedlove is to discuss the danger of the recreational illiterate to society as compared with the danger of the academic illiterate to society.

Listen In On Play Rehearsal

Dud: Say, I bet it'll be a pretty keen party. We got a lot of things at my house I can sell. Like our baby carriage—Mom says we won't need that any more.

Elaine: And those legs! Shocking! It's high time she began wearing long skirts.

Mimi: What's the first thing you feel when you fall in love?

Molly: You're asking me to go a long way back, but the first thing I did, was to take a dose of castor oil and get as far away from him as possible.

Hal: I never made no speeches before, but I guess I can just tell them about some of the games I was hero of.

Glenn: You know, I rather like this being a tutor. After I finish with you brother, I am going to ask your father to let me try my hand on you. I'm sure he'll agree when I tell him how much you need it.

Cravath: Well, it is something that is awfully important to me and I wish you wouldn't answer, it till you gave the matter your careful consideration.

Mrs. Meadows: I don't believe in interfering with my children more than I can help, as I think you should know, working out one's own destiny is good for the character.

Mr. Meadows: Well, well—let me have a look at my big girl. My gosh, you make me feel like a grandfather.

Judy: Ohh! Cravath, can't you do something about it? These two priceless young idiots refuse to leave me alone.

Debbie: Maybe who's been murdered?

Jean: I told you it was gonna rain, didn't I?

Rae: We certainly are. It's the grandest orchestra, and the decorations are simply lovely.

Carrie: I'll get them all right. You just leave it to my brother Snoot.

Velma: And that dress she's wearing—did you notice? I wouldn't be caught dead in it.

H. S. Orchestra To Attend State Meet

The high school orchestra under the direction of Joe Meacham, plans to enter the State meet concerning music. This contest is to be held on the twenty-eighth and ninth of this month.

The group will leave about 4:00 o'clock in the morning of the twenty-eighth and intend to arrive in San Angelo by eight.

Two days will be spent by the orchestra as a whole, but the soloist will be at least three. They will compete with other soloists from all over the state—just as the orchestra will.

The orchestra will enter as "D class", being a first year organization this is as high in class as it can enter.

Mr. Meacham is very confident that his orchestra will win and he wants all the cooperation he can get to help put it over.

In Memory of Johnny

(By Sophomore Students)

Johnny Lane was a former Haskell High School student and was well liked by all that knew him. He had an admirable personality that won for him many friends. On his freckled face always beamed a smile. Although somewhat handicapped by size, he came out for nearly all sports, chiefly among them being baseball. (He was not the smartest boy in his class yet made good gradings). He possessed a quick-thinking mind that carried him through many difficulties. He was widely known because of his mischievous tricks, which were always in fun. No one that was a friend of his will ever forget him. The memory of Johnny Lane will live forever in every heart of a Haskell High School student.

"Johnny was one of the happiest boys I have ever known. He was always seen with a smile. While in Haskell he was one of the outstanding students and was liked by everyone in his class."

"Johnny was one of the friendliest boys in school and liked by everybody. He was a clean sport in everything he tried, and he tried to make the best of every thing. He was one of the best ball players in the seventh grade and was catcher on the North Ward champion ball team."

"He was always friendly and had a word of cheer for everyone. Not only did he have a word of cheer for everyone but he had a friendly smile also. We, the Sophomores, regret the passing of Johnny, who was one of our classmates before he moved away."

Johnny was well liked by everyone who knew him. He has

In The Principal's Office

A while in the principal's office will give a description of student life not to be found anywhere else in school.

Rather amusing remarks are often made, so let's listed to a few. Student—I'd like to check my absence.

Principal—What was the matter?

S.—Well, uh, mother was sick and I had to help her.

That is one of the most frequently used. (Even though the student might have been seen away from home—and school—during the day).

A few of the other well worked slogans are:

"The car got stuck."
 "That one is usually all right."
 "I had to help at home."
 "Sometimes all right, but it is suspicious. Now the next one—"

"Mother said I could stay out."
 (Nice mother).

The rare one is as follows: "I played hooky."

Apropos To Nothing

Hi Ho, Hi Ho

As back to work we go
 With a smile on our faces (ugh)
 We get in our places
 Or else we're put there!

Notes about nothing:
 Mrs. Wimbish has a new box to carry her papers in.
 Marion J. is tired of checking his absence. (Try coming to school and see if that won't help).

Roy Wiseman's heart is giving him trouble again. Go back to school Mary Lena.

Zug Phelps is as bashful as can be and he does hate vegetables. No "veges"—no muscles.

If the above sentences could sound more like first grade ones, they would shrivel with youth.

Genius stay away from my door! That might have been the thought of many (and no danger) as the various classes discussed it.

The general conclusion was that all "too smart guys" go to an institution for mentally unbalanced—and Bidge just knows that all these writers in English are "nuts".

It will be a helter-skelter, mad rush from now on. Study hard but don't try to be a genius.

Sophomore Gossip

These are all secrets and I wasn't supposed to breath a word about them, but I just must tell someone so I've chosen you. Keep these under your hat and remember—"Silence is golden."

Someone overheard Doris say she was going to look at Quinton during the style show so her smile would look natural.

So Jack, Gerry, Bernard and Wanda had a good time making candy at Dulaney's Saturday night. What about two other girls, Jack and Bernard? Could they have cared?

Just who could have called long distance from Weimert to Jean last week? Was it Foy by any chance?

You wonder who wrote this article don't you? Would it surprise you if you discovered it wasn't a sophomore at all?

We hear Anna Rose is going to have a party Saturday night—"If—"

There is quite a coincidence concerning the affair of Mary Lou and Marion. Both of their names are "Mary". Both initials are "M. J." and last, but not least, another girl whose first name begins with an "M" is trying to break them up.

Eulamae, why don't we hear any more about Paul Roberts? Isn't the old gray mare what she used to be?

Sh!—Mum's the word.

"Tis Said"

And how is every one by now after going to the creek, Austin, Fort Worth and where ever you may have gone during these much appreciated spring holidays?—Certainly looks good to see all of these exes around. Hoping we will have that shiny polished look after we go to college.—Bob said he didn't know there were so many good looking girls as he saw in Fort Worth. The girls here won't even get to first base now. Maybe

Germany Develops Foolproof Plane
Germany has produced a flying machine which has all the characteristics of a house fly.

It can go forward, backward, sidewise, up, down or just stand still in the air.

An amateur can operate it.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was impressed with the craft when he observed recent tests of it at Bremen.

In approaching the ideal of a "foolproof" flying machine, Prof. Heinrich Focke, the inventor, has demonstrated a way of solving the difficulty of landing, where most student flyers encounter trouble.

His mechanical house fly, on a man-size scale, is the most successful helicopter in the history of aeronautics, and on the knowledge learned from construction of an initial "model T" machine more refined ones are being built.

His helicopter eliminates a major stumbling block of the modern fixed wing type airplanes by divorcing itself from reliance on forward speed to keep from falling like a brick.

It takes the hazard of landing at high speed out of flying by making possible not only a vertical take-off but a vertical landing as well under carefully regulated movement.

It can come to a standstill in the air at six inches or six thousand feet elevation, can rise or settle to the ground as softly as a feather within a few square feet, and can move in any direction from a fixed point in the air. In fact, it can turn within its own radius like a merry-go-round.

It requires no maneuvering skill beyond the technical knowledge necessary to take advantage of its possibilities—a knowledge such as any person needs, for instance, when he drives an automobile.

At present the helicopter can not compete with conventional airplanes, it was said, because it can not carry a payload or meet the distance and speed achievements of modern aviation.

The helicopter differs in appearance from the ordinary airplane in that it has a skeleton look. Where the stationary wings ought to be, are rotating wings driven directly by an engine placed in the fuselage.

It has no propeller but uses a changing angle of incidence of the revolving wings for its forward, backward, and sideward motion.

Historic Hoaxes

By Elmo Scott Watson

The Nantucket Sea Serpent
JUST as regularly as the bathing season comes 'round each year, just as certainly will there appear newspaper reports that some bather has been startled by the sudden appearance of a "sea serpent," one of those fabulous monsters of the deep.

Back in 1931 such a monster was reported seen in Lake Erie and the "Sandusky Sea Serpent" was front-page news for several days. Then it was revealed that it existed only in the minds of two carnival men who wanted to attract crowds to a popular Ohio summer resort.

Last summer bathers in the Atlantic on the coast of Massachusetts really saw one and the "Nantucket Sea Serpent" became even more famous than its Ohio relative. For it was "genuine" to this extent: it was an inflated rubber monster, designed by a famous artist who is the creator of other such figures used by a New York department store in its annual Thanksgiving day parade in that city.

The appearance of the sea serpent was exposed as a publicity stunt by J. J. R. Indio, a reporter for the New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times, after which several of those who were "in on the stunt" wrote an open letter to the Nantucket Inquirer and Mirror telling how it was planned to publicize Nantucket island first and the department store incidentally. Nantucket was selected as the hoax spot because the artist has a summer home there and the founder of the store was born on the island in 1822.

Germany Develops Foolproof Plane

Germany has produced a flying machine which has all the characteristics of a house fly.

It can go forward, backward, sidewise, up, down or just stand still in the air.

An amateur can operate it.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was impressed with the craft when he observed recent tests of it at Bremen.

In approaching the ideal of a "foolproof" flying machine, Prof. Heinrich Focke, the inventor, has demonstrated a way of solving the difficulty of landing, where most student flyers encounter trouble.

His mechanical house fly, on a man-size scale, is the most successful helicopter in the history of aeronautics, and on the knowledge learned from construction of an initial "model T" machine more refined ones are being built.

His helicopter eliminates a major stumbling block of the modern fixed wing type airplanes by divorcing itself from reliance on forward speed to keep from falling like a brick.

It takes the hazard of landing at high speed out of flying by making possible not only a vertical take-off but a vertical landing as well under carefully regulated movement.

It can come to a standstill in the air at six inches or six thousand feet elevation, can rise or settle to the ground as softly as a feather within a few square feet, and can move in any direction from a fixed point in the air. In fact, it can turn within its own radius like a merry-go-round.

It requires no maneuvering skill beyond the technical knowledge necessary to take advantage of its possibilities—a knowledge such as any person needs, for instance, when he drives an automobile.

At present the helicopter can not compete with conventional airplanes, it was said, because it can not carry a payload or meet the distance and speed achievements of modern aviation.

The helicopter differs in appearance from the ordinary airplane in that it has a skeleton look. Where the stationary wings ought to be, are rotating wings driven directly by an engine placed in the fuselage.

It has no propeller but uses a changing angle of incidence of the revolving wings for its forward, backward, and sideward motion.

This 6-foot McCORMICK-DEERING Combine Saves Money and Grain at Harvest Time

The McCormick-Deering No. 60 looks like a harvester-thresher, and it lives up to every expectation when it goes into your fields of ripened grain. We are proud to offer it to our customers as the one best answer to the demand for a small combine that does a real job of threshing.

Study the brief facts given here, then ask us to show you the machine. You'll find everything you're looking for, at a price you can afford.

The McCormick-Deering 6-foot combine is an International Harvester Quality Product.

Priced low, for any farmer having several days of combine harvesting.

Design follows time-proved principles, for perfect performance in all crops. Grain travels straight back from the conveyor; there are no right-angle turns or dead spaces to cut down capacity.

Angle-steel main frame and body frame—combined with extensive use of electric welding—give you real harvester-thresher strength without needless weight.

High-grade ball and roller bearings reduce friction at 44 points.

Grain is fed in steady flow to a 28-inch cylinder carried on dustproof, oiltight, self-aligning ball bearings.

Combination concave and grate encircles more than a quarter of the circumference of the rub-bar cylinder, providing large capacity and unusual threshing efficiency.

Nearly 90% of the grain is threshed at the cylinder and never again mixed with the straw. This leaves the full capacity of the straw racks available to get all the grain out of the straw.

Rotary, non-choke, all-metal straw racks save more grain on hillsides up and down hill, and in heavy straw than is possible with any other type.

Heavy galvanized steel grain tank, located for gravity unloading. Not necessary to run engine and combine to empty tank.

Remember, the McCormick-Deering No. 60 Combine can be purchased on the convenient Income-Purchase Plan. Ask us for details.
