destructive work by eating the growing crops, according to re-

 - White arsenic (or Paris Green)
— 1 pound.
 - Amyl acetate — 1 ounce.
 - Sorghum molasses — 2 quarts.
- Thoroughly mix the poison and bran dry. Dilute the molasses and amyl acetate with about two gallons of water and thoroughly mix with the bran-arsenic mixture.
Add more water and mix until a thoroughly wet mash has been obtained, yet not sloppy. Sow in

Recipes Used In Free Press Cooking School

Following the request of numerous women who attended the Free Press cooking school last week, we are printing a series of recipes used by Miss Hogue in her three day's demonstration.

Roast Chicken

Dress, clean, stuff and truss a chicken. Place on its back on rack in dripping pan. Rub entire surface with salt and spread breast and legs with 3 tbsps butter rubbed until creamy and mixed with 2 tbsps Best Biscuit flour. Dredge bottom of pan with flour. Place in hot oven 450 degrees and when flour is well browned, reduce heat to 250 degrees then baste. Continue basting every 10 minutes until chicken is cooked. When heat is reduced, turn fowl breast-side down to cook. Baste with 1/4 cup butter melted in 2 1/2 cup boiling water and after this is gone, use fat in pan. During cooking, turn chicken frequently so that it may be brown evenly. If a thick crust is desired, dredge bird with flour 2 or 3 times during cooking.

Place on greased cooking sheet and bake 20 minutes at 350 degrees. Poach egg and place in nest. Season with salt and paprika and garnish with parsley.

An Open Letter to A Boor on Wheels

SOME day, my ill-mannered friend, you are going to go too far. Some day, when you sverve around a street corner, you are going to clip the buttons off the wrong pedestrian's vest, and he is going to catch up with you, haul you off your comfy upholstery and deal you the smacking-down you deserve. You're a veritable titan of self-assurance, aren't you, when you're behind an eight-cylinder engine? But how do you look on your feet? Are you the same dash-ing, imposing, self-assertive personage for whom the rest of the world must make room? Would you dare shove another pedestrian aside; would you jostle a six-footer? You would not, for you're just a grubby little inferiority complex who's been sublimated by a shot of gasoline.

And what's the reason for this breakneck rush of yours, anyway? You're in an automobile. You'll arrive at your destination, 10, 15 or 20 times quicker than the pedestrian you're crowding back onto the curb. The best he can do is five or six miles an hour. You are going 25 or 30, perhaps 40 miles an hour. Is your business ten times more urgent than his? My, my, what an important fellow you are! What vast designs, what momentous projects must occupy your waking hours to justify such impatience.

The automobile, it seems, is the devil's gift to the Little Man. Put him in control of a motor car and he's cock o' the crosswalks. But if you suddenly yanked that ton or two of iron and steel out from under him, you'd find him just a measly nonentity with the mental setup of a grammar school bully.

Every Veteran of A Foreign War Is Eligible for Medal

Every soldier who has worn an American uniform on active duty in any war since the Civil War is entitled to a medal yet far less than two million have been issued since George Washington created the purple heart award in 1782. Altogether the total of medals outstanding on the War Department books is listed at 1,543,721. The victory medal issued after the World War was the most widely distributed. There have been 1,303,234 of those issued. Every soldier with honorable service on active duty between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, or with the American Expeditionary Force in Siberia or European Russia could get it for the asking.

The next largest issue has been the purple heart but is only in recent years that it has been bestowed in large number. There have been 60,568 issued. Descendants have been more interested in the medal than were Washington's ragged patriots. The purple heart rewards any "single meritorious act of extraordinary fidelity or essential service." A battle wound has been construed as resulting from such an act and most purple hearts were won by stopping a bullet.

The United States' highest award is the congressional medal of honor but its most exclusive is the distinguished flying cross. There have been 1,825 medals of honor—laurel wreath, star and head of liberty—struck off, but only 76 of the second propellers of the flying cross.

The medal of honor is awarded... The prompt payment of ad valorem taxes, the Legislature shall have the power to permit a discount for the payment of same before they become delinquent. If it appears from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast are in favor of said Amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution. Sec. 3 The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and shall have the same published as required by the Constitution for Amendments thereto. Sec. 4 The sum of Eight Thousand Dollars ($8,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expenses of such publication and election. The above is a true and correct copy. Edward Clark, Secretary of State.

for gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty in actual conflict with the enemy. Heroism of extraordinary achievement while participating in an aerial flight wins the flying cross. Other decorations and the number issued are:

The distinguished service cross, 6,465—for extraordinary heroism in military operations against an armed enemy. The distinguished service medal, 2,133—for exceptionally meritorious service to the Government in a duty of great responsibility. The silver star, 10,546—for gallantry in action, yet an act not warranting the medal of honor or the distinguished service cross. The soldier's medal, 162—for heroism not involving actual conflict with the enemy. The silver star, purple heart and soldier's medal may not be awarded posthumously, but the others may.

CHARLIE CONNER,
County Judge, Haskell County, Texas.

Perhaps the most important was the homestead law, the first statute of its kind ever enacted in the world.

Took Real Men

Certainly the slightest intelligent reflection will prove that it would have been impossible for the work wrought in Texas between 1825 and 1845, to have been accomplished by any but men of intelligence, who understood the fundamental principles of right and justice, and had the courage to carry them out.

Some of the greatest statesmen Texas has ever known lived in rude log homes with wives who would have graced the courts of kings. In rude court houses built of logs, or before juries who sat on the ground in the shade of some tree, these pioneer Texas lawyers delivered speeches as great in all the elements of oratory as any specimens found in rare volumes of oratory in bygone days.

It is to these men, like Judge Williamson, that the present generation owes a debt of gratitude for laying the foundation on which the great State of Texas has been built.

Thirty-Six Texas Rangers 'Score' On 381 Assignments In Last Three Months, Public Safety Heads Says

Romance of the Texas rangers, steeped in century-old tradition, still exists, possibly on a greater scale judging from recent activities according to an Associated Press dispatch from Austin.

The 36 men comprising the force "scored" 381 times in the last three months throughout the state's vast confines.

Col. H. H. Carmichael, public safety department director, says versatility necessarily was the keynote of this activity because geographically conditions were so varied that enforcement methods adaptable to one section proved unsuccessful in another 600 miles away.

The character of law violations and violators varies to the same degree. One day a ranger might use a fleet motor car and the next his old reliable bronc.

The radio, teletype or telephone might be his ally in closing on a band of fugitives but on another occasion the old Indian system of signal fires would be the only means of communication.

A typical daily report sheet for one week was given by two rangers as follows: "Monday, checking stolen mohair; Tuesday, raided gambling house; Wednesday, assisted federal narcotic agents; Thursday, probed alleged suicide suspect held; Friday, seized bunch of stolen cattle; Saturday, caught hit and run death car driver."

Sheep, Goat Thefts

More and more incidents of sheep, goat, and mohair thefts are creeping into ranger activities, Col. Carmichael says.

The reason lies in increased prices and the ease with which some rustlers cut off goat from a flock and dispose of them many miles away by use of trucks. Vast ranges on the border area defy full protection.

"Lawlessness in Texas has decreased measurably because of better crime fighting facilities of city and county officers who cooperate fully with the modernized rangers," Col. Carmichael says.

Each ranger's activities are varied as reflected by their terse official reports.

Students Planning to Work Should Get Security Numbers

High school students who plan to enter industrial and commercial employment for the first time this summer should apply now for social security account cards, E. L. Tutt, of Dallas, field representative of the Social Security Board, said today.

"Many boys and girls will be finishing school within the next week or two, and will take regular employment. Some not graduating this year will work during the vacation period and others will be employed part time. As monthly retirement benefits, payable at age 65, are determined solely on the basis of wages received in included employment it is important that these young men and women apply now for account numbers, so that wage records may be set up for them," Tutt explained.

Letters and explanatory literature will soon be sent to superintendents of schools throughout the Dallas district, requesting their cooperation in acquainting advanced students with the benefits and requirements of the law, Tutt said.

Employers are required to make complete reports to the Bureau of Internal Revenue showing the name and account number of each worker they employ, and the wages in each case. For this reason, Tutt declared, many employers are refusing to give jobs to those who do not have account numbers.

Applications for account numbers may be obtained from any postmaster prior to June 30. After that date, they must be obtained from the nearest field office of the Social Security Board.

Fire Losses In Texas Decrease In Past 2 Years

Texas' total fire loss has decreased over 50 per cent during the last two years, Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commissioner, announced.

"Figures compiled from the reports of over 500 Texas fire marshals show that the high fire loss trend of 1931 and 1932 has taken a steep swing downward in recent years," Hall said. "The total loss for those two depression years was $32,638,537. The total loss for the years 1935 and 1936 was $13,732,587—still too high in amount but encouraging nevertheless."

According to the fire marshal's reports to the Texas Fire Insurance Department, 79 per cent of the 6,514 fires in 1932 occurred in dwellings, with a loss ratio of 55 per cent. In 1935, 66 per cent of the fires occurred in dwellings and in 1936 the number decreased to 2,897, or 62.12 per cent of the total number of fires. The loss ratio has decreased 20 per cent in five years.

"While it is true that the total premiums on dwellings for the years 1932, 1935 and 1936 were approximately 47 per cent of the total State premiums yet the number of dwelling fires and the amount of dwelling losses each of those years is indicative of the fact that too many fires have been and are occurring in the home. The amount of losses on dwelling house fires for the year on which we have the latest figure, 1936, was $1,627,479," Hall said. "Our reports prove conclusive."

Hall explained "that the large number of dwelling fires occurring each year are a direct result of the economic conditions of the time. Too many fires are started in lean years as 'profit' fires, and the number of fires of unknown, suspicious and incendiary origin seem always to decrease when times get better."

Hall stated that only through investigation by the proper authorities and by active fire prevention measures to eliminate careless fires could losses in dwelling houses be further reduced. "The Fire Insurance Department is proud of the splendid work Texas' fire marshals, fire chiefs, and cooperating citizens have done in cutting the number of incendiary fires in fourth, the number of vacant house fires in sixth, and the total number of yearly fires almost in half," Hall said.

Sharing Urged of A. A. A. And By Tenant, Owner

A two-fold attack on the problem of farm tenancy in the South is recommended by Dr. J. T. Sanders, assistant director of the Resettlement Administration in Texas and Oklahoma.

To swing the trend from tenancy toward farm ownership, he urged improvements in the type of tenancy while making purchase of farms easier.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration should guarantee tenants an equitable share in all government payments, Dr. Sanders said, and should demand fair treatment of tenants by landlords before permitting rented farms to participate in AAA programs.

"The deplorable defective, short-time credit system of the South must be replaced by a system that furnishes credit at a reasonable interest rate," he said. "Such credit should be safeguarded by a more balanced type of farm organization in which cash crops are replaced by stable livestock enterprises."

farm tenancy in the South. In that period, he said, the price of farm land rose from $9.84 to $30.10 an acre, an increase of 300 per cent. The increase in rentals on cotton farms was 50 per cent less rapid in the period 1900-1920. During the succeeding 15 years, Dr. Sanders said, the balance was upset even more because rentals declined more rapidly than land prices.

Dr. Sanders recommended several other measures to increase the number of farm owners:

Gradual filtration of individual farm owners rather than putting new owners together in a common settlement.

Exemption of farm homesteads from ad valorem taxes.

Legislation to permit tenants to keep improvements made on the farms they operate, when such improvements are made with consent of the landlord.

A tax on farms re-sold soon after a previous sale—to curb speculation in farms.

U. S. Destroys Wild Animals

Approximately 13,500 wolves, coyotes, and bobcats are destroyed in Texas annually by state and federal agencies engaged in the control of predatory animals.

This was brought out during debate in the senate at Austin recently, over financing the work for the next biennium. Senators from districts which are worst infested said such animals, while under control in some sections, are far from having been eradicated.

Losses to sheep and goat raisers as well as turkey and other poultry owners, were said to run into many thousands of dollars yearly.

C. R. Landon in charge of eradication work, says approximately 140 of Texas' 254 counties are still infested and the situation is being taken care of "in a fairly adequate manner" in 60.

"The remaining 80 counties furnish a constant source of reinfestation to the counties where this work is being carried on," says Landon. "No work of permanent value can be expected until some attempt is made to extend this work into counties which are not able at present to reach it."

State and federal trappers employed total about 100.

In 1933, Landon says, one sheep raiser reported a single coyote killed at least 228 lambs. When this animal was destroyed, the losses of lambs ceased.

Another ranchman made a sworn statement that in the past 10 years he had lost more than five per cent of his sheep although it was doubtful if there were ever more than six or seven wolves in the area (Edwards county) at any one time and usually there were not more than one or two.

Thirteen farmers were reported to have lost 295 turkeys valued at $1.75 each last spring. The farmers lived in an area of approximately 15 square miles.

Advocates of larger appropriations to further the eradication said that in counties where the animals had been stamped out or reduced until they no longer were a problem the values of land had risen sharply. Senator Jim Neal of Miranda City, a ranch owner, said land that formerly sold for 10 cents an acre now was selling for 75 cents "because the wolves and lions have been killed out."

Costs of eradication varied, it was said, from $1 a head in new country in South Texas, where the predatory animals are very plentiful, to as much as $100 or more in Edwards and Mason where hunters had only a few wolves to seek and were further handicapped by having a trap among numerous sheep and goats.

LISTEN, LOOK—AND STOP

A newspaper reporter interested in getting an engineer's eye view of grade crossing accidents recently took a ride in the cab of a fast streamlined train—and came back with an excellent tip for all motorists. A train's speed, he reports, is extremely deceptive. A fast passenger train may travel a thousand feet in a litter better than eight seconds. The train may seem to be a safe distance away, as you approach the crossing, when, as a matter of fact, it is perilously close. So the reporter boiled his new knowledge down to one extremely sensible bit of advice. If, when you approach a grade crossing, you can see a train approaching, you simply haven't time to cross safely ahead of it. If you can see the train, wait for it. Never forget that that train can cover a thousand feet in about the time it takes you to shift gears and get your car rolling.

THE "BIGGEST" STATE

The curious notion that there is something evil about the money that a man makes through the conversion of a "natural resource" from its native state into marketable goods and the marketing thereof has long played havoc with the thinking processes of those whose duty it is to determine taxation policies.

This is true of other states than Texas, of course, but because Texas has depended upon natural resources not only for its general wealth but also its revenues, to a far greater extent than any other state a sane analysis of this notion seems much in order.

To the popular mind the phrase "natural resources" means valuable minerals—like oil, natural gas, sulphur, marble and potash; that the Creator put in the ground. Because He put them there, to interpret one favorite argument, nobody has a right to make real money out of recovering these things, refining them, polishing them, advertising them, shipping them, and selling them. This in spite of the fact that somebody has to do all of these things—things that take capital, enterprise, skill, vision and courage, as our complex economic system is today constituted—before the things He put in the ground are of any economic value whatever.

Of course, the profits, in many cases, are impressive. But they are, on the average, in proportion to the input of enterprise, capital, energy, exploration and risk-taking. There can be discovered many enterprises—those that we don't hear so much about—where losses have been large, too.

likewise in proportion to the expenditure of energy, the capital risk and personal risk.

But the main point is that if nobody had drilled for oil and gas and sulphur; if nobody had risked his money buying royalties, investing in equipment, promoting railroads and pipelines to move the goods, paying salaries, and spending more money to set up advertising, merchandising and the whole complex apparatus for dealing in that natural resource, the resources would still be in the ground—and Texas' aspirations to be something other than merely the biggest state in the Union would be buried there, too!

In spite of this truism, which too few of us think all the way through, the traditional tendency of Texas lawmakers has been to "sock" the natural resource industries whenever new emergencies in state fiscal affairs loom—and often, just out of habit, even when no emergencies loom!

Fortunately, for Texas' growth and progress, these industries with some exceptions, have been able until recently to absorb these socks and shocks to their pocketbooks and to their willingness to continue exploration and risk.

Unfortunately, important industries in other parts of the country which are thinking about decentralization and making plans, are inclined to weigh against Texas' unquestioned natural advantages, the very potential liability of punitive taxation. So, while the state's effort to tell American industry "what we have here," is laudable, it will fail to win converts unless there is a speedy clarification of Texas' taxation "future" which should embody definite low, permanent limits to the state's share of the profits of natural resource development.

FOR DEFENSE, $3 PER CAPITA

There currently is some howling over the cost of maintaining our army and navy. This year's budgets were the greatest on record in peace time, and congress has been criticized for overliberality.

However, an Associated Press study shows that American get off very easy in military costs. The per capita in this country is only $3, or 3.2 percent of the entire national budget. The Russian per capita is $23.34, or 23 percent of the total budget. In Great Britain the per capita cost of maintaining national defense is $19.30 or 18.8 percent of the budget. France gets off with $17.40, Italy's is $9.30 and Japan's $4.80. Cheap regimented labor in the latter two countries probably explains the lower costs.

No figures are available for Germany, but Hitler's country is believed to be spending about the same capita as France.

The American taxpayer has no occasion for alarm as long as national defense is costing only $3 for every man, woman and child in the country or 3.2 percent of the budget. Indeed, a great many people will wonder if in view of world conditions we are spending enough money to insure adequate national defense.

A man who married a woman he save from drowning complains that he hasn't been able to save a thing since.

The fellow who knows it all is always willing to share his knowledge with others.

The pessimist is so determined to see the gloomy side of things that he worries lest something happens to make him happy.

There's always two sides to a question, unless it's one of those eternal triangles, in which case there are three.

NEW USES FOR BY-PRODUCTS OF MILK

It certainly would astonish little Miss Muffet if she knew how many uses science has discovered for milk since the days of curds and whey.

Suppose, for example, that Miss Muffet's modern granddaughter is invited out to a bridge luncheon. Her ivory-like vanity case, cigarette holder, lipstick container and her pocket comb are made from milk by-products.

The belt buckle and clip on the young lady's dress, the vanity case, hat ornament, manicure stick and other articles are made from casein by-products from milk.

She shuffles cards that owe their gloss to milk, keeps score with a pen, whose barrel is derived from milk, on a pad of glazed paper whose glare is a by-product of the same universal fluid.

The little ornament that adds gaiety to a chic sport hat may be manufactured from a dairy by-product. So are the buttons on a new blouse or father's spring suit, or mother's shining belt buckle. For there are innumerable articles in daily use that derive from the original atelier of Madame Moo.

Milk by-products enter into the process of making such dissimilar articles as dominoes, book bindings, buttons, wallpaper and knitting needles.

To find wider uses for the so-called "surplus" milk and thereby further aid the dairy farmers income is a widening activity.

Butter-making extracts from milk the fat and a small proportion of the soluble constituents. The remaining milk solids are left in the skim, buttermilk and whey. In producing the butter for the 1,650,000,000 pounds of creamery butter which this country found use for in a recent year, there were some 3,000,000 pounds of milk solids left over. In addition to that, the cheese-makers had 300,000,000 pounds of milk solids not included in the cheese.

The important by-products of milk are casein, which comes from skim milk, and the various chemicals contributed by the whey, such as lactic acid, sodium lactate and calcium lactate.

Lactic acid may play a part in making the appetizer at dinner and the pastry at the end. It is used in leather goods and in paints and may also have helped make the soft drink at your soda fountain.

The vigorous youth of the milk by-products industry is strikingly shown by government figures. As recently as 1920, this country produced only a third of the casein it needed. By 1924 imports were a mere four per cent. American milk companies furnished the rest, with Wisconsin and California sharing honors as the largest producers.

Used in plywood for airplanes, casein helps man to fly, in chemical sprays, it helps insects lose interest in flying. Experiments have even been made with it as a synthetic fabric resembling wool, an undertaking that must make the cow feel rather sheepish.

Casein products are of two sorts—the plastics and the glue family. Beads and buckles, pocket combs and poker chips belong to the former group. Casein glue figures in paper and paint, linoleum and leather, upholstery and book binding—to mention just a few.

Magazine paper acquires its glossy finish by being dusted with fine china clay after being surfaced with casein glue.

Sally! who reads the ads anyway?

There they are, next to the play-by-play dope on the ball game, cutting off the news of So-and-So's engagement party so you have to jump clear to the middle of the next column to finish it. Those ads! You know who runs them, their signatures are on 'em—who who reads 'em anyway? The printer? That's right—but shucks, he's paid to! And the advertiser—sure, he reads them to see if the paper got the prices right. Who else? What's the great American adreader look like? Who reads the ads? Let's solve th mystery.. and see!

This fellow's income is 'way above average; there are not many like him, we'll admit. Retired from real estate last year; survived the depression nicely, thank you, and will be back from Bar Harbor in September. Gets a kick out of picking up $7 shirts for $3.79 by waiting for the sales. Reads the ads—not every week—but wouldn't think of buying without checking the price and quality against every value in the paper.

Remember her debut party? She'll be back in college in the fall; right now she's pretty busy, what with the little car a Free Press ad helped sell her dad, the places all the crowd goes to, and the show her club gives every summer. To date she's tracked down material for costumes, arranged for tickets, and has practically closed a deal with the florist... all through the Free Press.

She likes to say that the children are grown up and out of the way now... but just watch her smile when she sees an ad for print wash frocks... size 2 to 6! Keeps a gift list that touches almost every day of the calendar and half the dates are for children! Entertains a lot, too, and manages to belong to quite a few of the clubs. Proud of her home, and not a bit unwilling to take advantage of a bargain for it when the Free Press backs it up!

Hers is a pretty complete little world, of course. Two children, a busy young husband, a new house... a little dominion that's pretty hard to crash. But she's made the Free Press a welcome intruder. Where else, she asks, would she find the same help in keep a not too big budget straight... how else could she keep the house looking so newly furnished on so little... what other source would be so obliging about tipping her off on dozens of sales every year.

Still prefers the comics, but graduated into the ad reading class last year, when he decided he wanted a prep suit like the one his buddy Charlie got. Has since found quite a few things he's going to own some day. Sold on one make of bicycle right now, and a certain page of the Free Press has a way of popping up in a prominent place about the time Dad's due home.

Belongs to a number of the city's service clubs, has kept a good business going for a number of years, and has a son who's going into the business some day soon. Makes a hobby of a place up at the lake, and won't let a gun or tackle ad out of his sight till he's read it all the way through. Finds the Free Press ads a good indication of business conditions in the city... as well as an effective medium for his own business.

Still in school, but looking forward to the day when he can buy his first car. Just as present quite satisfied with the buys he finds in the Free Press. Interested in what the well dressed young man should wear, and willing to do a little research in the subject. (It's whispered that she lives just a block or two away). Working the family pretty hard for the trip west that he is planning this summer.

Had a tough time a couple of years ago. But he found a job through the classifieds, and he and the wife have been reading the ads for one reason or another ever since. First it was the new furniture they needed when they stopped "doubling up" with her folks, then they needed a used car, and right now, since things look better at the plant and there's another nest egg laid away, they're looking for another house.

Pretty shrewd, this youngster! Kind of hated to leave the city and go back to the farm, but he's managed to combine the advantages of both places in just a few short years. First saw the radio he now owns in a Free Press ad. Installed a bathroom after a Free Press ad told him how inexpensive the fixtures would be. Found that he'd save time by trading in the old truck on a light pickup that a Haskell dealer advertised. And he saved money on the repair that he picked out of the want-ads!

Not too many free hours in her life! But the Free Press makes every one of them do double duty, when she starts off on a shopping tour. Clothes have to be smarter to make up for hours spent in a uniform; cosmetics have to be better, to pass her rigid inspection; everything she buys must get by a sentry-like insistence on perfection. She learned back in her student days that she could rely on Free Press ads, and she's learned since that she can depend on them to save her off-duty time.

It's a date! And that, as any bright young member of Haskell High will tell you, means a trip through the Free Press ads. It may be for some new hose... for a place to have the white coat cleaned... for something really different to wear if it's a dance. But whatever the occasion, it's reason enough for a trip through the ad pages, especially when it's almost as much fun as a shopping expedition, and saves the strain on next week's allowance.

"You wouldn't catch me reading the ads... just a waste of my valuable time." Oh oh! Puts us in a bad spot. Your photo must have gotten in here by mistake. Sorry... hey, wait a minute!... that tie you've got on... didn't we see that pattern advertised about a week ago? Uh-huh... well, we thought so!

answer, of course, can be brief-old; everybody reads the ads in

Six-Weeks McMurry College Summer School to be Held in New Mexico

Education plus vacation in the heart of the Sacramento Mountains of New Mexico is the aim of the new McMurry College summer school, opening its first six-week session on June 21.

McMurry in the Sacramento will offer a full curriculum of academic and fine arts courses under the direction of a strong, well-rounded faculty. The school, first out of state campus established by a Texas college, is making educational history. Even before the opening, its work has received the unqualified approval of the Texas Association of Colleges and the New Mexico board of education. All courses will be accredited as resident work in McMurry College.

An outstanding academic program will be combined with a definite and complete program of recreation. The play plan includes athletics, horseback riding, summer parties and excursions to scenic and historic sites of the state of New Mexico.

On the 240-acre campus, with its elevation of 7,450 feet, stand eight large college buildings in addition to fourteen cottages of three to five rooms each. These buildings are all that could be desired for a summer outing—constructed of mountain pine, thoroughly rustic, yet with running water, hot and cold, electric lights and modern sewerage.

The assembly hall seats 300 persons and has six large classrooms. Each of the women's dormitories house 100 students. A dining hall and kitchen offer facilities for 300 boarding students.

For the inaugural session, however, the student enrollment will be limited to 300. Dr. Thomas W.

College has announced. All registrations are to be in the hands of the McMurry registrar at Abilene by June 1, he has announced.

Dr. Brabham will divide his time between the Abilene and the New Mexico campuses; but Dean R. G. Boger will be at Sacramento throughout the session. Outstanding visiting lecturers and instructors have augmented a list of regular McMurry professors and administrators to be at Sacramento. Among the guest professors will be Dr. C. W. Hall, director of the Wesley Bible Chair at the University of Texas. He will have charge of the department of Religion and will teach his famous course on "Marriage and Home-making."

The twelve weeks summer session of McMurry College on the Abilene campus will begin June 7.

President Invites Boy Scouts to the National Jamboree

President Roosevelt, for many years active in the Boy Scout Movement, extended the following invitation, by radio on Feb. 8, to the Boy Scouts of America to hold their first National Jamboree in Washington, D. C. this summer.

"Fellow Scouts: Today we are celebrating our twenty-seventh anniversary. From one end of the country to the other we are taking stock of what has been accomplished during all these years and paying a deeply felt and well deserved tribute to the ideas of

President Dons Pan American Garb

Delighted with his gifts, President Roosevelt, author of the "good neighbor" theme of the Pan American Exposition in Dallas, is pictured as he calls his aides to view the hand-woven serape in the design of the official flag of the Exposition, and the sombrero presented to him by Governor James V. Allred (rear) at Texas A. & M. College. The Governor is honorary director general of the fair, which opens June 12.

Prompt Action Is Necessary For Snake Bite

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, urges every one to be careful when in the country to prevent snake bite. In Texas the chief offender is the rattlesnake, and, contrary to common belief, it does not always rattle before it strikes.

About seventy-five per cent of all bites occur on the lower extremities and could be prevented, to a large extent, by wearing high top boots and leggings. About 20 per cent occur on the hands and arms. Care should be exercised in not putting the hands in invisible places when climbing rocks and to look before picking up anything that may be obscured by vegetation, brush or rocks.

If one is bitten, prompt action is necessary and a physician should be obtained as soon as possible. No time should be lost in removing the poison by suction; this can be done by mouth or by a suction cup. First a tourniquet should be applied above the wound, so as to increase congestion and assist in washing out the poison. A cross cut incision with a sharp, clean knife or razor blade should be made over each fang mark, or preferably to connect the two fang punctures. These cuts should be at least a quarter of an inch deep and at least that long. Suction should be applied for at least half a hour. The tourniquet should be released every ten or fifteen minutes for a minute at a time.

If bitten by a snake—do not run or get overheated; do not take alcoholic stimulants; do not use potassium permanganate (which is now known to be of no value as an antidote) to cauterize the wound; and do not depend on home remedies.
