High School To Have Hobby Exhibit

All high school student who wish to do so will have a chance to exhibit their hobbies at the April meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association. Whether your hobby is collecting stamps or drawing cartoons, the P. T. A. is anxious to see it. If the student body cooperates this can be made a very interesting exhibit to the other students as well as to the parents and teachers. Whatever your hobby is, start getting it in shape and exhibit it at this meeting, the first Thursday in April.

Say, who's "Putrid" in the freshman class. That name seems familiar somehow.

Track Practice Begins This Week

The Haskell High School track team went to work this week in preparation of again winning the Invitation Meet. The boys are working hard and Coach Mason expects to have them in good shape by March 12th. All boys wishing to come out for track see Coach Mason. Boys out for track this week are: Lloyd McMillin, Albert Barnett, Don Chitwood, Roy Wiseman, Joe Larned, and Lon McMillin. A number of others are expected to be out in a few days.

Buddy C.—My picture was in all the home town papers last week.
 Jack L.—How much reward are they offering?

An Explanation and Offer

"What is this so-called Future Home Makers of Texas anyway?" asks the public after they finish reading about some action of this organization. "What does it do? Of what good is it?"

Well, Mr. and Mrs. Public, we, the club of Haskell High School will enlighten you on the subject that you are still in the dark about.

The course, Home Economics, is taught in almost every high school in Texas and America. Quite a while ago when women stepped out into the business world, the people in general began to realize that no longer would the little girl whose mother worked in the business world would ever have a chance to learn at home the things most needed of women; housekeeping. So they began to teach it in the high schools.

In this course is included sewing, cooking, child training, and everything that comes in house keeping.

Out of this course, developed the club, "The Future Home Makers of America." The girls in this club must be taking Home Economics, or an Honor Member, may have already taken their course. The girls give banquets to the different clubs, and organizations of the school such as football boys, pep squad, the F. F. A., and such things. They give parties for themselves, teas, dinners, and luncheons. In all these social activities they prepare the food, decorate the rooms, make out the menus and place cards, prepare the entertainments, some act as hostesses, others serve, and through all this they are learning step by step the things that go to make a perfect American housewife.

Now since you have the nice explanation that you needed about this wonderful club, and you believe in the saying, "Seeing is believing," the girls of this club are holding a bake sale and are extending a special invitation to you to "Come and see and eat." Because eat is what you will do if you come and see.

They will serve fresh delicious cakes, pies, candy, waffles, cookies, baked chicken and ham with dressing, sandwiches, salads and hot or cold drinks.

Time: From 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.
 Place: Old Thiss Building.
 When: Saturday, February 27.

Junior Boys Win Consolation Trophy

The Junior Basketball team of Haskell High School won the Consolation Trophy at the Rule basketball meet held on February 20, 1937. This trophy is in the figure of a basketball player with the ball on the tip of his fingers over his head. It is mounted on a black metal base and stands about fifteen inches high.

Fortunately our other trophies were not lost in the fire and when the new building is finished they will be displayed in a prominent place. The new trophy will make an attractive addition.

These Junior boys did exceptionally fine work, winning all games except the first which was played with Hamlin, who won the meet. The following are the boys who won the trophy: Bill Wiseman, Wayne Laird, Jack Landess, Zeldon Thomson, Curtis Bland, Buster Gholson, Paul Kuenstler, and Labry Ballard.

H. H. S. Choral Club Presents Programs

The high school choral club gave its first assembly program of the year last Wednesday, February 17. The club sang three numbers—"Old Folks at Home," "Twilight" and "Bells of St. Mary's." Other numbers on the program were a solo, "Goodnight My Love" by Jean Conner and a whistling solo, "The One Rose," by Dorothy Dee Welsh. During the remaining part of the period the entire student body sang, led by the choral club director, Mrs. Bert Welsh.

The following day the same program, with the addition of the four numbers by the Rhythm Racketeers, was presented to the Stamford High School students. Practically every member of the club made this trip and it was reported to have been a great success.

Girls Have Basket Ball Slumber Party

A slumber party was given Friday night by Mrs. Wimbish in her home for the basket ball girls. The girls had hard luck this season with their games, but the party was just fine.

About six o'clock supper was served. The menu was various kinds of sandwiches, pickles, cookies, fruit, hot chocolate and marshmallows. After supper games were played on the lawn. Later the girls played the piano and sang. Oh! You should have heard the radio—it was turned on from six o'clock Friday evening until nine o'clock Saturday morning, just as loud as it could go.

These are some things we found out Friday night: Mrs. Wimbish seems to live on a popular street, from the cars that came by with kids yelling—what about that Model A? Robbie Jo and Thelma were very interested in the hall. Margaret seems to be a stout wrestler—how about that "Capitol" Phae went home with three pieces of candy in her purse. (It was all a surprise to her). Evora will tell you anything you want to know, when she is asleep. There were seven girls that stayed awake all night. Nannie and Earline seemed to be the leaders of the wide-awake bunch. Of course it wasn't long until Saturday night, so some girls had to get some shut-eye.

At midnight four platters of candy were made. Mrs. Wimbish seems to have made the best candy. Ruby found out that sour pickle juice and candy won't mix. Not all of the candy was eaten—wonder if it was because it turned to sugar. How about that, Cleo?

Breakfast was served at nine o'clock; the menu was toast, ham, eggs, strawberry preserves, coffee, hot chocolate and marshmallows. (We want to thank Mr. and Mrs. Landess for the ham.)

Everyone had a very enjoyable time. Those enjoying the night were Cleo Perdue, Irene Miller, Thelma Landess, Phae Riley, Robbie Jo Burson, Margaret McClintock, Ruby and Earline Stodghill, Nannie Patterson, Illa Faye Gregory, Frances Corruht, Evora Jenkins, Golda Woods, Velma Williams, Capitola Larned, and Coach, Mrs. Wimbish.

Here is Mr. Wimbish's definition of the party: "It didn't sound like a slumber party, but like a bunch of Indians on a war path."

Bill W.—Everything seems brighter after I have been out with you.
 Don P.—It should; you never so home until morning.

A Visit To The Spur Experiment Station

(By Doyle Hisey)

The F. F. A. members of Haskell made a visit to the Spur Experiment Station on February 12. We arrived at the place about nine o'clock and stopped at the office which was a small white building, facing the south. Here we met a man who was a specialist on livestock. He took charge of the party and took us to a pen where there were about twenty head of steers. These animals were feeding out on a certain ration to test cottonseed meal poison and those in another pen which contained about the same number were on a test of night blindness.

We then paid the hogs a visit. There were five brood sows which were fed on a sage. The purpose of this test was to see if the sows would bring pigs successfully without the aid of grain. At this time three of the sows had gained weight on this diet, and the other two obtained the same weight when placed on it. We then went to a strip of pasture land called the "stomp lot". Part of this land was listed on contour lines in 1932. It was very plain with the naked eye to see that the land that was listed produced three to five times as much food stuff as the unlisted. There was another block listed in 1934 same as the one in 1932, which showed a greater amount of grass than the unlisted. They had also diverted water from a ditch along the road side on this pasture where it would be used.

We then returned to the office where a short interesting lecture was given by Mr. Dickson on roots of different species. He explained the critical periods our crops go through and also showed and explained the instruments that they had to test the wind, and rain fall. Then we took a tour over the field. They had made levees about thirty inches high to hold the water, and had turned all the water from a 1200 acre watershed up above the station directly on the field. The report was that it had been only twice in seven years that any water whatever had run off. The water in order to run off had to travel six times further than before the levees were constructed.

Lillian Peek Club Meets Tuesday

The Lillian Peek Club met at its regular club meeting Tuesday February 16, in the Home Ec laboratory.

The house was called to order by the president, Gene Kendall. Because of the resignation of two officers, namely Frankie Dorris Bledsoe, reporter and Louise Pierson, band director, the following officers were elected, Madge Leon director of the Moly Mop and Her Crazy Kitchen Robinet Band, and Elsie Gholson, reporter of the club.

The following committee, Marjorie Ratliff, Eula Fae Glass, and Elsie Gholson was appointed to plan the program for the next meeting, at which Mrs. Sam Herrin will speak.

The club plans to have a "Bake and Candy Sale" on February 27, to help pay the expenses of their delegate to the Home Ec rally at Fort Worth. The following girls were appointed to arrange for the sale, namely, Eva Jo Ratliff, Mary Jo Free and Mary Beth Menefee.

The program was based on the life of George Washington.

Madge Leon sang "Carry On," Jenn Conner sang "America The Beautiful."

Wynona Post and Eva Jo Ratliff told the story of Washington's life.

After the program we adjourned.

SARAH ANN'S COOKING CLASS

The absence of formality makes the buffet luncheon highly pleasing to both guest and hostess. The hostess can enjoy her own party, free from worry as every thing has been prepared ahead of time. The buffet is set before the guests arrive and, as the hour approaches, the prepared food is put in its place. The guests are invited to share in the serving as well as the menu.

Strawberry and Grapefruit Cocktail

Use 3 small grapefruit to 2 cups strawberries. Cut the grapefruit in halves and remove pulp. Place skins in cold water to keep firm. Mix the grapefruit with the washed and hulled berries. Sprinkle with sugar. Chill. When ready to serve, wipe out grapefruit shells and line them with mint leaves. Fill with the mixture and garnish the top with a large strawberry.

Cheese Straws

Stuffed Eggs and Asparagus

12 cups medium sauce. 2 cups buttered crumbs. 1 dozen stalks, canned or fresh, of asparagus. 1/2 cup pepper. Alternate in an oiled baking dish layers of sliced hard boiled eggs and asparagus, which have been sprinkled lightly with salt and pepper and white sauce. Put buttered crumbs over the top and bake in an oven 400 degrees until the sauce bubbles.

Individual Chicken Rings

1 hen 4 or 5 pounds. 1 cup cooked rice. 2 cups fresh breadcrumbs. 1 can pimento. 1 pint chicken stock. 4 eggs. 1/4 cups butter. Boil hen until tender. Remove bones and cut meat in small pieces. Cook in oven about 350 degrees. Fill centers with mushroom sauce.

Let chill until beginning to set, whip with an egg beater until a thick broth, then fold in well-seasoned cream cheese. Pour into mold. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Unemployment Compensation In Texas

Editor's Note: Following are questions and answers prepared by R. B. Anderson, chairman-director of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, which is an interpretation in simplified terms of the various provisions of the recently-enacted Texas Unemployment Compensation Act.

Further questions and answers in this series will appear in this paper from time to time.

How Do I Apply For Benefits?

QUESTION 14: "Just how will I go about filing my application for benefits?" ANSWER: First your employer will post a notice of the Commission which will tell you how to file your application. When you have filed your application or claim according to these instructions, it will be referred to an agent of the Commission. He will examine your claim immediately and decide whether you are entitled to benefits. If he finds that you are entitled to benefits, then he will set the time for the benefits to begin and the amount you will receive.

If you are not satisfied with his decision—then you may appeal either to an "appeal tribunal" which will be set up in your territory or to the Commission. The appeal tribunals will be composed of three men—one a labor man, one representing the employer, and one an agent of the Commission. The decisions of this tribunal may be reviewed by the Commission, and the decision of the Commission may be appealed to the courts.

It is interesting to note that you may file your court appeal in the courts of your own county. Usually all suits against state agencies must be filed in Austin.

Thus, you see, a man is given every chance to get a square deal. The Commission agent who first examines and decides on your claim will be called a deputy. The agent who sits on the appeals tribunal will be called an examiner.

What is a Public Employment Agency?

QUESTION 15: "In a previous article you said that I must sign up for work at an employment agency. Will any agency do?" ANSWER: No. You must sign up at a public employment office named by the Unemployment Compensation Commission. Free employment offices and branches will be maintained for this purpose.

While there will be no need for these offices under the Act until we start paying benefits in 1938, the Texas State Employment Service, already established, will form the basis for the organization.

This service, which has been operating for many months in several Texas cities, will be expanded to the extent necessary. The Commission also has the power to cooperate with county and city officials in maintaining any agencies it may deem necessary.

In any event, an agency will be available for all workers, and as we have already said, your employer will post in a conspicuous place the regulations and the procedure you must follow to apply for benefits.

If you have any questions concerning the operation of this law as it affects employers or workers, you can have your questions answered by writing to R. B. Anderson, chairman, Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, Austin.

Mrs. Pearson Reviews "Gone With the Wind" at Magazine Club

She also described Atlanta and Tara, and the social customs of the period. She wove it all into a dramatic story of the strife, the turbulence, and the hardships of the Civil War and Reconstruction.

Mrs. Fields having charge of the program requested all to join in singing "Take Time To Be Holy". Mrs. Fields had chosen prayer as her subject. We were told that "Prayer is the avenue that leads to God". The Lord's prayer was read and analyzed by the leader. We learned that Christ first uttered this prayer when delivering the sermon on the Mount to a congregation of some 3,000 persons. The second time, it was prayed for the disciples only, and it was given them as the model prayer.

The Harmony Club

The Harmony Club met Wednesday afternoon February 24 in the club room. The directors chair was filled by Mrs. C. L. Lewis who presented Mrs. J. U. Fields the speaker for the afternoon.

Mrs. Fields topic was "Symphony of the Century" a history and discussion of the natural bridge of Virginia. The tract of land where this bridge is located was first surveyed by George Washington when he was only 16 years of age at which time he kept a reference rock under the bridge. This rock was found only after the turn of the twentieth century and can be seen there today.

A short time after the first survey Thomas Jefferson was granted this tract by the crown of England for only $3.00. The plot where the bridge is has been owned by only 14 different people since that time.

After the short history, Mrs. Fields told of her trip to the bridge after a quite tedious detour into the valley and little creek which the bridge spans. Just as the bridge comes into view "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" is heard. This was sung by Mrs. Bert Welch. From this point on the trip the story of the beginning of time is told by word and music made gloriously effective by flood lights thrown on the bridge. The songs, "Holy, Holy, Holy", "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" were sung directed by Mrs. Welch at intervals by the club and guests at the direction of the speaker.

The story of this bridge—its magnitude, dignity and wonder and the emotions and impressions of the one who saw it were so realistically portrayed that it made one feel he had seen it.

NATURE'S WARNINGS

It is not entirely by accident that the disastrous Ohio Valley floods should be followed so promptly by news of great dust storms in the southwestern country. Both of these things, floods and dust storms, are in a very great measure due to plain human shortsightedness. When we abuse our land, we lay ourselves open to nature's reprisals. We cannot control the rain that falls or the wind that blows, but we can do something to keep the rain and the wind from loosing catastrophes upon us. By using our soil properly and by spending wisely to conserve it, we can go a long way toward keeping the perennial floods from overwhelming us. In the same way, we can keep the winds from sweeping up loose topsoil into billowing dust storms. Flood and dust storms are tragic reminders that we are failing to take even the most elementary precautionary steps.

FARLEY ASKED FOR IT

Shortly after the November election, Democratic Committee Chairman James A. Farley made a speech inviting vigorous minority opposition as a means of keeping the overwhelming administration majority from stepping beyond the bounds. And he has apparently been taken at his word by Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. In protesting the plan for judicial reform, in demanding that the administration revise the reserve fund plan of financing the old-age annuity system, and in other energetic crusades, Senator Vandenberg is helping to provide the opposition Farley suggested. Part of the senator's aggressiveness may be due to his desire to see his name like Abou ben Adhem's, leading all the rest when 1940 rolls around. In any event, the administration knows now that it will not lack for virile opposition during the next four years.

"OUR PEACE-LOVING NEIGHBORS"

The Canadian Government, preparing to spend about $45,000,000 a year on military expenditures, recently revealed that it had no commitments and no misunderstandings with Great Britain or any other government.

Prime Minister McKenzie King, in his address called attention to heavy armaments of other countries and noted the "greatest naval manoeuvres" off Alaska last year by "our peace-loving neighbor" the United States. He then urged his country to put its house in order.

We are interested in the reason he gave. He did not want Canada to be "a burden on the friendly republic south of us or the great Empire, of which it is a part."

CURRENT COMMENT

URGES COTTON GROWERS PLANT LONG STAPLE

(Editorial from Dallas Morning News)

In the emergency program set up by the Federal Government to bring relief to the South's cotton growers, the principal objective was larger income. To that end actual cash payments were made to farmers who cooperated with government agencies. Under the Soil Conservation Program, which replaces the Agricultural Adjustment Program, again Federal cash payments for actual compliance with the regulations are depended upon to assure farmer cooperation. But in these two mighty efforts to place the income of farmers on a parity with industrial and other workers there evidently was no time or money left to correct perhaps the greatest evil of the South—the decline in the quality of the cotton which it produces.

Any farmer who stops long enough to think about his cotton problem will realize that the trouble after all is declining yield per acre, steady deterioration of staple length and spinning utility of the fibre, in comparison with competing cotton, and increased cost of production. Any successful farm economy must include high productivity of soil, high quality of products grown to meet industry's needs, and low cost of production. Without these three factors, it is impossible to compete successfully with foreign growers, who may boast virgin soils, or cheap fertilizers with which to enrich impoverished land. In no other country has soil fertility been allowed to wane so rapidly as in our own. A Texas cotton yield of around 145 pounds per acre compares badly with one of 285 for North Carolina, 250 for Russia, 400 for Egypt. Fifty years ago Texas black prairie soils easily produced a bale an acre along with sixty bushels of corn. In all these years yield has dropped alarmingly, and with it the quality of the fibre. Poor soils can only produce poor quality crops. Poor land steadily impoverishes its tillers. It is time that the thinking people of Texas, its bankers, land owners and farmers do something about improving cotton through community encouragement of adapted high quality varieties. In that way lost foreign markets might be recaptured.

"A CHANGED FRONT FOR TEXAS"

(Fort Worth Star Telegram)

It appears to be dawning slowly upon some legislators that a new front is necessary if this State hopes to come into its just deserts in the matter of a nationally distributed prosperity. Several recently have voiced the need of a legislative assistance in progressing from a strictly agricultural State to one with sufficient industries to convert its natural resources and raw materials into by-products and take them into the Nation's trade channels.

The first and foremost requirement from the lawmakers is a revision of the tax system and a modernized Constitution which will remove the handicaps imposed by a generation of Texans who were just emergent from the effects of "carpet-bag rule." The instinct of self-preservation played them false. They felt that Texas needed protection from invasion. They wrote a Constitution and went into the statute passing business of defending Texas from the dangerous effects of outside capital and emigrants from above the Mason and Dixon Line. They served both purposes admirably. Some of the handicaps have been overcome but many remain so this day. Capital following the spouting of oil wells refused to be daunted, but many other varieties have been wary of Texas investments.

Texas is coming into the power that can easily mill every elemental product of the State. There easily can be attraction here for another 5,000,000 citizens and all of the dollars that are seeking lucrative abiding places. The requirements of taxation should be simplified, the statutes on corporation operation liberalized and provision made for adjusting the intra-state trade relations with those of other States.

Texas should present an inviting front to the continent of men, money and commerce. Taking full advantage of its potentialities, the State can feed and clothe any 10 of the other 47 states strictly on a reciprocity basis. That it refuses longer to take up that easy potential will remain its most besetting sin of omission.

There was $900 insurance on the house and $100 on the contents.

At Seymour on Thursday afternoon of last week while Mrs. W. A. Bennett, Mrs. P. N. Taylor and Miss Fannie Guinn were out driving together in a buggy their horse became frightened and ran away.

In going down a hill toward Seymour creek Mrs. Taylor was thrown from the buggy and instantly killed, and a little further down a wheel struck a stump, overturning and wrecking the buggy and seriously bruising and hurting Miss Guinn, while Mrs. Bennett escaped with only slight bruises.

One day last week there were on the streets of Seymour 18 wagons from Haskell to haul flour for F. G. Alexander & Co. This shows how badly our town needs a mill, and the citizens should use every effort to secure one as soon as possible.

HENRY-LESSON RADCLIFFE

THE NEW COMMANDMENT

International Sunday School Lesson for February 28, 1937

Golden Text: "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another, even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."—John 13:34.

Lesson Text: John 12:13 to 13:38

After the incidents related in last week's lesson, Jesus left the vicinity of Jerusalem and went northward to the borderline between Judea and Samaria, and thence over the Jordan into Perea. There he stayed a short time. Intending to attend the Feast of the Passover in Jerusalem, he again crossed the Jordan and returned to Bethany, to the home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus, a few miles out of Jerusalem. It was during this visit that Mary anointed the feet of Jesus with the very costly ointment.

While many were wondering if Jesus would attend the Passover in Jerusalem, knowing the intense hatred of the Pharisees, Jesus rode into the city, riding a don key, receiving the tumultuous acclaim of the multitude. This was in fulfillment of prophecy and was the beginning of the end for Jesus. He was fully aware of this fact.

Among the multitude were certain Greeks who, not satisfied with their own religion, had accepted the Hebrew faith. Hearing of Jesus and his wonderful works, they wanted to see him for themselves. Whether they had the desired interview with him or not is not known but what Jesus says in John 12:23, seems a reply to them. Dr. Erdman interprets his words thus: "You would see me, then you have arrived at exactly the right time, for the hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified." Not glorified in the sense we usually think of—pomp, fame, splendor—but honored by God. It was not through the working of miracles, nor through his wonderful teaching, but through his death and resurrection that Jesus was revealed to the whole world and by the cross was the world drawn to him.

Jesus goes on, comparing himself to a grain of wheat which in order to prove of greatest blessing, must be planted, lose its corporate identity as a grain, in order to send forth new life and bear fruit. The self-sacrifice of the grain was to him a parable of his own death and resurrection. "And the self-same law of sacrifice which reigns on the throne of heaven governs the dustiest and darkest soul on earth. To be self-centered means, spiritually, to abide alone and therefore to perish."

Then Jesus uttered his great law of life through death: "He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world shall keep it unto life eternal." George Reith says, "Self-love leads to destruction and death." The present and temporal must be sacrificed for the future and eternal, a truth peculiarly in place for Greeks whose essential conception of life in its fullness, beauty, vigor was assertion of self."

He also reminds his hearers that he who would serve him, must be willing to follow him. Where?—anywhere, even to death. What is the reward offered for such service? Jesus says that he who thus serves him shall be "where I am and him will my Father honour." What more could we ask or desire?

Realizing the close approach of Gethsemane and Calvary, Jesus shows the human side of his nature when he cries, "Father, save me from this hour," but follows it with the declaration, "but for this cause came I unto this hour Father, glorify thy name." He willingly accepted the will of the Father, if, through his suffering, the Father might be glorified. A heavenly voice was heard, saying, "I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again."

Indicating the manner of his death, Jesus declares, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." The phrase, "if I be lifted up," probably has a double meaning, including both his death on a cross and also his ascension from the earth into heaven. "In the phrase, 'will draw all men unto me,' Christ clearly intimates that, although crucified, he was not to abide in death, but was soon to live and set up a kingdom, drawing subjects unto it."—George Smeaton. The death of Christ on the Cross is the "one great magnet, pulling with all the power that love can pull with, drawing broken, defeated, sin-bound, ruined men, to bestow upon them a new home, a liberty dreamed of a cleansing from every stain, a new life which Christ gives to all who believe in him. To miss the cross is to miss the Christ."

After this, in the Upper Room, Jesus gives his disciples a memorable example of humility and service when he takes a towel and washes their feet. After the observance of the Lord's Supper, the announcement of the identity of his betrayer and the dismissal of Judas from the group, Jesus gives his followers a new commandment. He says, "I command you 'that ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.'"

Surely today the greatest need of Christians is to obey this command of Jesus and to display to the world a type of love which was exemplified by the love of Christ for his disciples—unselfish and enduring, seeking expression in deeds rather than in words.

The real measure of our love for one another is the things it makes us do, the sacrifices it makes us accept willingly, and the services we render in Christ's name. Hugh Black fittingly expressed this when he said, "The glory of life is to love, not to be loved; to give, not to get; to serve, not to be served."

Enjoy Waterless Cookery With The Modern Electric Range

It reduces time of cooking . . . cost of operation . . . and more important, preserves the health-giving value of foods

Imagine cooking ten pounds of potatoes in only one cup of water. That is all it requires if you cook electrically. Fresh carrots, beans, peas and many other vegetables cooked on a modern electric range do not need to be drowned in a fathom of water to cook them tender—thoroughly.

Waterless cookery gives you nutritious, full-flavored food with all of its vitamins and mineral elements preserved—not poured down the kitchen sink due to cooking in an excess of water.

Enjoy waterless cookery in your own home on the most modern range in the history of civilization. Its amazing speed, cleanliness, safety and consistently better results have captured the imagination of West Texas women.

The cleanliness of the electric range has forever banished "hand-biding" for hundreds of West Texas women—one of the score of its modern features.

*"Hand-biding" is a result of scouring blackened pots and pans.

The continued planting of a poor quality of seed will eventually ruin the cotton market of this section.

HASKELL, TEXAS

Better Cotton

Must be grown in this area or we will be hard hit. If all the large buyers refuse to purchase low grade cotton what is to become of the grower who raises that variety? Play safe by planting good cotton seed.

A COUNTY-WIDE MOVEMENT TO IMPROVE THE COTTON IS A REAL NEED.

Per Bale on Cotton

Is Worth Saving

Plant better cotton and avoid being penalized $10 or more per bale which is certainly going to be exacted according to leading Cotton Factors. We must be guided by their orders and in the future will be compelled to purchase cotton strictly on grade and staple. If they refuse to buy the short staple—so must we.

Please heed the warning and help save our section from paying a heavy charge for raising inferior cotton.

DUNCAN GIN CO.

W. A. DUNCAN, Mgr.
Haskell, Texas

Don't Be Caught NAPPING

You wouldn't, knowingly, spend your time and money raising crops for which there is no demand. There is always a good market for spinnable cotton while there may be no market for inferior, short-staple cotton.

Many large cotton firms will not accept short staple cotton at any price, and the one or two firms which have been buying are on the verge of calling a halt. This means that growers and ginners may wind up next year with quite a bit of cotton on their hands, for which there is no market. Why not play safe by planting better cottonseed and avoid such a calamity. There is always a market for spinnable cotton but manufacturers are off the short staple variety—there is a vast surplus of this which no one seems to want.

Don't wind up the cotton season with a lot of cotton on your hands which you cannot sell. Aside from the high cost of good cottonseed it costs no more to plant, cultivate and harvest cotton having a seven-eighth or longer staple than to plant and harvest a type for which you eventually are penalized.

"This past year in particular there have been very serious complaints on the part of domestic mills and especially, foreigners about the poor quality of American cotton. Such complaints are not new. A few years ago a Texas bill of lading on a lot of cotton shipped to Europe increased its value as much as $3 per bale. Today cotton from some sections of Texas carries a discount. Some buyers refuse to buy cotton at certain points in Texas."

This drop in quality has contributed to the decline in the demand for American cotton, especially Texas cotton. This does not mean that all Texas cotton is bad, for Texas still produces a large part of the finest medium-staple cotton in the world. But there is altogether too much that is undesirable.

Haskell County cotton a few years ago brought a premium, but it is going to have a penalty charged against it unless we again produce a better type of cotton.

Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research states that the serious complaints about the quality of Texas cotton and this decline has contributed to the decline in the demand for American as well as Texas Cotton.

Haskell County can produce superior cotton whereas there are many sections in Texas as well as in other parts of the world where only short staple cotton can be produced.

Why then should we try to compete with the lowest type and cheap labor when we can produce the type of cotton that spinners are ever seeking.

PEDIGREED SEED

COTTON Growers

of Haskell County

Can save money by planting pedigreed cotton seed—and may be penalized $10 or more per bale for planting a short staple variety.

Large cotton buyers have issued warning that they may cease to purchase the short staple cotton produced in our county. In view of this, we will be forced to purchase strictly on grade during the coming cotton season.

We have been pointing out the danger of continuing to plant short staple cotton. We know it will be costly to our county unless better cotton is produced.

Realizing

The seriousness of the situation facing our county if cotton of shorter staple than 7-8 inches is penalized more than it is today, we heartily endorse the movement sponsored by the Haskell Free Press to plant a variety of cotton to improve the staple.

HASKELL NATIONAL BANK

"The old reliable since 1890"

THE LATEST REPORT SHOWS

Approximately 26 per cent Texas cotton untenderable; 21 per cent in staple and 5 per cent in grade, and in some sections of Texas 70 per cent of the production was untenderable on contract.

We believe the remedy for this deplorable situation is the planting of better seed. It will mean many dollars to the Haskell County farmers this fall when the 1937 crop is placed on the market.
