Give Farm Agents A Rest

There's an old story about a dance hall out West which displayed the following sign: Don't Shoot the Fiddler, He's Doing the Best Can.

No doubt nearly every county agent in the South these last few weeks has felt like hanging up waited until almost planting time to pass it and then left a thousand and one kinks in it that only time and experience can straighten out. The county agent is doing the best he can in a bad situation and everybody should have patience with him. We are added quite ready to sympathze with a North Carosina agent one of whose farmers died in 1936 with nome dispute pending about a government crop payment. Although the county agent reported the death, the U. S. Treasury Department kept sending one letter after another until finally-just when the agent had been through a full month of night and day agony over 1938 crop allotments—he sent Wash-

Bon Voyage

A refreshing wind strayed into the news columns the other day and moved off laden with a briny smell of adventure.

A young skipper of a modest fishing vessel put out for New York harbor, bound northward for the Artic. He looked forward to going as far as the ice would permit, and he guessed he'd be back along about September.

His name was Capt. Bob Bartlett, and he figured he'd be spending his sixty-third birthday somewhere north of Greenland. It was all old stuff to Captain Bartlett, but none of the excitement had

He did his first exploratory sailing in 1897, with Peary. When he sailed from New York the other day it was his fifteenth polar voyage. "All I want", he remarked before he weighed

Lone Wolf Bad Man-A Minor Menace

What a shoddy desperado this Floyd Hamilton turned out to be!

Blazoned in the headlines as "Public Enemy Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice Number One." Hamilton looked much more like a et Haskell. Texas, under the act of March 3, 1870. discouraged chicken thief when he finally fell into the hands of the law. Instead of going down shooting, he surrendered very meekly when the coppers 75 caught up with him. You might note, too that at the $1.50 time of his arrest he was trying to bum his way out of town on a freight train and he had just $6 24 to his name.

Obviously, crime didn't pay for this chap. Unless he gets some satisfaction out of his brief procorrected upon being called to the attention of the minence, he must be reflecting sadly that he would be happier, better dressed, better fed and more respected if he had gone to work for WPA instead of trying to carve out a career as a bad man.

There would be little point, however, in going on to sermonize heavily on the wages of sin. For the bad man of the Hamilton type never was anything very special in the way of menace to our institutions. Even in the heyday of crime, the outlaw of that stripe had a short life and suffered an inglorious end. It was the city gangster who was the

And when we reach that point we begin to touch a sore spot-the extent to which the public itself is responsible for its real public enemies.

The big city gangsters-the Dutch Schultz, Al Capone type of fellows—had nothing whatever in common with bad men of the kind Floyd Hamilton similar sign. The county agent didn't write the tried to imitate, except for the fact that they were 1838 farm act and he is not to blame if Congress ready to resort to murder whenever necessary. They weren't lone wolfs-far from it. Instead of defying society, they sought out society's corrupt elements and formed an alliance

Because those alliances were possible, those men were genuine menaces; not so much for themselves as for the things they stood for.

They operated with the connivance of officials sworn to enforce the law. They supplied the public with divers commodities and services which the public had made illegal but nevertheless wanted. They were by-products of a very bad political system. Their mere existence indicated our whole scheme of big city society.

There was no dodging from pillar to post for em-no frantic efforts to leave town via blind baggage, no stumbling down alleys to elude the police, no forlorn reduction to a handful of small change. They numbered big-shot politicians among their friends, came and went openly, and never had o run away from anybody except business rivals.

We always have had our Floyd Hamilton, and we always will. They aren't important. The time o worry is when we start producing big city gangters instead of small time bad men.

Percy Johnson of Belfast, aged 20, applied for court writ to marry a one-armed girl, but was told would have to wait until he was 21.

James Wilder, a pauper of Glasgow, was senenced to a bread and water diet for a week for lyng about poorhouse officials.

When postman John Mauviot of Bristol, Eng. t tired and threw away a large bundle of letters, was sentenced to prison.

Miss Helen Tripler of Liverpool was awarded $5,000 damages because she was so badly hurt in an ecident that she can no I nger play golf.

Fall Clean-Up Is Aid In Boll Weevil Control

The boll weevil has done serious damage in many sections of the state during the current season, and cotton growers will benefit in 1939 by fall clean-up practices on a community and county - wide basis as a measure of control, R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, believes.

must be entirely killed by shallow Henry Fonda co-stars. plowing and turning out the stalks. Burning the stalks is discouraged. Texa farms need this material returned to the soil in the form of humus," he said. The weevil becomes inactive about the time for the first killing frost, the entomologist stated, and can live for several months without food while in this tate. If the growth of the cotton is entirely kiled as early as two weeks before frost, practically all weevils will starve before going into winter quarters, or will be so weak that they will have little chance of surviving the inactive period. This methods is effective because bool weevils reproduce only green squares and bolls and feed only on green cotton. Killing cotton growth early will not only starve out many weevils, but will stop the production of young weevils, so that only old ones will go into the inactive stage. 'Very few of the e will have the strength to live until spring." Reppert said.

"A general fall clean-up would cut down weevil damage next year until late in the season when most danger from this insect is past." he concluded.

Mmes. Hope Haynes and J. W. Gholson accompanied Miss Elsie Ghol on to Lubbock Sunday where she will be a student in Tech this term. Mmes. Haynes and Gholson will visit in that city a few days, before returning to Haskell.

Misses Ruby Sue Persons and Sue Couch left for Austin Thursday where they will be students in Texas University this fall. They were accompanied to Austin Matt Graham.

Misses Mary Lena Tubbs, Helen Mabel Baldwin, Olive Sloan and Catherine Wair left the first of the week for Denton to attend T. S. C. W.

"It's Folks Like You and I, Jimmy, Who Profit Most By the Haskell Free Press!"

"Some people have a lot of money, an awful big lot; they don't have to worry about the rent or how to get new clothes. But people like you and I do. Getting the things we need on a small income isn't as easy as just buying whatever and wherever you please. That's why we take the Free Press, we can find the best buys through the ads it carries and besides that, it carries all the news that anyone could want to read. So you see, it's folks like you and I. Jimmy, who profit most by the Free Press."
