GATHERING OF 1937 COTTON CROP UNDERWAY OVER ENTIRE COUNTY

Three Days Auto Races Are Planned Here During 1937 Fair OVER TWO HUNDRED BALES GINNED HERE

WOMEN PURSES IS OFFERED TO RACE DRIVERS

Western Association To Honor All Events Here

A major attraction during the Central West Texas Fair month, plans have been made for a three days Auto-Racing Meet to be staged at the Haskell Fair grounds. The Southwest Automobile Racing Association, according to Gene Tonn and Sullivan, directors of the association, and Sullivan returned from Dallas, where they met with M. H. Carothers of the Western Association and for the three days meet approval of the contract was given by Mr. Carothers Wednesday at Belville, Kans., where he is supervising a race meet this year.

The three-days program as conducted during the fair call for the staged on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. Mr. Tonn has a total purse of $1,050 and is expected to attract more of the fastest drivers from the Southwest, and he has received inquiries from Grable of Houston, former champion; Oscar Cole of Dallas, and Buddy Rusch of Emporia, speed champions throughout the United States.

Local track, rated by drivers as the best dirt oval in the state, will be given a treatment of sodium chloride or oil to eliminate dust, fair officials announced, and this improvement together with the liberal offering is expected to attract a larger field of racers.

Minor repairs will be made to the grandstand and bleachers, and additional seating facilities also be added at the track, officials said.

DATE OF DONKEY BASEBALL GAME SET SEPT. 15TH

Haskell and Munday Lions To Mount Burros For Novel Contest Here

Arrangements have been completed for a "donkey baseball game" to be played between the local Lion's Club and the Munday Club here on Wednesday evening September 15th and the event promises to be one that will give the spectators plenty of laughs during the game. Each player will be furnished with a donkey to ride and he must do all base running and chasing the ball on the animal furnished him. A player will be permitted to dismount to pick up the ball, but he must not turn loose of the reins.

In a telephone conversation with a Munday Club member this morning a Free Press reporter, was informed that the game was already as good as "in the bag" for the Munday Club as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig or Foxx, in their best days looked like "rookies" compared with some of the talent that would represent the Munday Club in the game here. Munday has been informed that they have overlooked such talent as Lions P. H. Persons, J. C. Davis, F. L. Daugherty, John Willoughby, A. C. Pierson and others.

Proceeds of the game will be used to supplement the Lion's Charity fund.

OIL EXPLORATION SURVEY UNDERWAY IN THIS SECTION

ITIO Crew Locates Here This Week To Begin Operations

An oil exploration survey of this section, to assemble data concerning the subsurface strata underlying Haskell county, was started this week by the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company of Oklahoma.

Office quarters have been established here for the surveying crew, which consists of eleven men including engineers and office staff, under the supervision of R. B. Smith. The group came to Haskell Monday from Vernon, where they have been located for several months.

Extent of the territory to be embraced in the surveying work to be done from this location could not be definitely ascertained, but Mr. Smith indicated that the crew would likely maintain headquarters here for several months.

Methods of making the survey are of a highly technical nature, and include underground exploration by boring, and seismograph readings, as well as a topographical mapping. All mechanical equipment used in making the surveys is arranged in several specially built trucks.

Form Tentative Plans For Selling Cotton on Basis of Grade and Staple

More than 50 ginner and farmers met with the Haskell County Agricultural Association in Haskell last Saturday afternoon and formulated tentative plans whereby cotton can be sold on the grade and staple basis instead of "hog-round" method now used. This movement should go a long way to encourage the growing or better staple cotton in Haskell county.

This plan if operated successfully will allow premiums to producers that grow staple cotton, and will in turn prevent the ginner from having to pay above market price for short staple cotton.

The group decided to make a special effort to take advantage of the cotton classing act passed by Congress recently. Provisions are made under this act whereby a group of farmers can get their cotton classed at some central point, but no funds were provided for operation.

A committee made up of farmers and ginner will meet with County Agent B. W. Chesser Thursday afternoon to work out more of the details of the new plan. The following men compose the committee: J. M. Crawford and C. G. Burson of Haskell, B. E. Terry and M. E. Carothers of Rule, Ernest Griffith and W. S. Grimley of Weimer, S. N. Reed and Terry L. Roberson of Brian, Roy Weinke and W. J. Pilley of Sargent, Cye Tankersley and E. L. Florence of Jud, A. M. Reeves and J. A. Rose of Rochester and County Agent, B. W. Chesser.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of directors of the Central West Texas Fair Association will be held in the Chamber of Commerce office Friday night, Sept. 3, at 8 p. m.

W. H. Murchison, association president, urges all directors to attend this meeting, as several important matters concerning plans for the coming Fair are to be discussed, and reports from all outstanding committees will be heard.

On Thursday evening, Sept. 9th, the High School Parent-Teachers Association will hold their annual reception for members of the High School faculty, school trustees and their families, and all parents who have children in High School.

The reception will be given on the spacious High School lawn, beginning at 8:15 o'clock, and ample preparations will be made to comfortably accommodate a large crowd.

The PTA group is arranging the affair in order to present an opportunity for school officials and interested High School patrons to become better acquainted at the outset of a new school year.

The occasion Thursday will also afford patrons an opportunity to inspect the new High School building and equipment, and all patrons who have an interest in the High School are cordially invited.

Black to the Supreme court. 2—Following adjournment of congress, Representatives Maury Maverick (left) of Texas, Knute Hill of Washington and John M. Houston of Kansas buy their railroad tickets for home. 3—United States marines load their packed sea bags on a truck as they prepared to leave for duty in war-ridden China.

COTTON MARKETING PLANS DISCUSSED AT FARMERS MEET

Enrollment Expected To Exceed All Previous Terms

With an estimated enrollment of approximately 800 students, all plans have been completed for beginning of the 1937-38 term of Haskell Public Schools Monday morning, Sept. 6th.

Advance registration in Freshmen, Sophomore, and Junior classes of High School, scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, indicate the largest enrollment in the history of the system, school officials believe. Registration of students in the Senior class has been scheduled for Friday morning, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Workers have been busy this week installing and arranging furniture and equipment in the new High School building, completed recently and which will be in readiness for use with the beginning of the term.

Supt. C. B. Breedlove, veteran head of the Haskell school system, stated Thursday that all teaching assignments had been worked out for the current term.

In the opinion of trustees and school patrons, the Haskell school system has one of the strongest teaching faculties to be found in all West Texas, and are highly optimistic over the outlook for a singularly successful school year.

Examination In Life-Saving To Be Given Here

Instruction and examination in approved life-saving work will be given at Rice Springs Swimming Pool on Friday and Saturday afternoon of this week, conducted by Al (Dutch) Jordan, certified Red Cross life-saver and swimming instructor.

Mr. Jordan invites all persons interested, both men and women, to take part in the program, which is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. each day.

Light Docket of Civil Cases For Dist. Court Term

One of the lightest civil dockets in a number of years is in prospect for the September term of District Court, according to District Clerk Roy Ratliff.

Only eighteen civil cases have been filed since close of the April court term, he stated. Of this number, ten were divorce actions and the remainder were damage suits or actions to clear land titles.

FAVORABLE VOTE INDICATED FOR MERGER SCHOOLS

Unofficial Totals In Four Districts Give 2 to 1 Approval

Unofficial tabulation of votes cast in five common school districts Wednesday on a proposition of grouping the smaller schools into a consolidated Rural High School District, indicate that the proposition was accepted by a majority of 2 to 1.

Districts included in the proposed grouping are McConnell, Post, Howard, Weaver and Rose, embracing an area of approximately 128 square miles with a property valuation of $750,000. Total scholastic population is slightly under 300 children.

Vote tabulations from four of the school districts available Thursday morning indicated that a total of 67 votes favored the proposition, with 32 negative votes recorded. Returns from the Weaver district were not available at noon Thursday. Final canvass of the returns made by the County School Board before definite status of the proposed merger is established.

Regardless of the outcome of Wednesday's balloting, current school terms for 1937-38 will be conducted in the respective schools on the same schedule as in former years, officials indicated.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR OPENING OF HASKELL SCHOOLS

Postoffice and Banks to Close For Labor Day

Monday, Sept. 6th—Labor Day—will be observed as a legal holiday by both Haskell banks and the local postoffice, which will be closed for the entire day with the exception of one hour, from 8 to 9 o'clock Monday morning when the general delivery window in the office will be open.

Rural route carriers will also "take the day off", for one of the few holidays allowed them during the year under postal regulations. Bank and postoffice patrons should keep the holiday date in mind to avoid inconvenience in the transaction of business scheduled for Monday.

Season Football Tickets Will Go On Sale Friday

Sale of season tickets for the 1937 HHS football schedule of home games will start Friday, when a limited supply of books containing seven tickets will be placed on sale at Oates Drug Store. Price of the books has been set at $2.80, which affords a saving of 70c to the purchaser on the series of tickets.

Sale of the season ticket books will continue until Sept. 17th, date of the opening game, but no books will be sold after that date, officials of the Athletic Association announced.

Haskell Lions To Meet With Munday Group

On invitation of the newly organized Lion's Club at Munday the Haskell Lions will journey to Munday next Tuesday evening and meet with the Munday club. The invitation was accepted by the local club at their regular meeting at the Tonkawa Coffee Shop Tuesday at noon.

As a result the regular noon meeting will not be held here next week. An effort will be made to have every member present at the Munday meeting. The Haskell club will be expected to furnish the program and a committee has been appointed to arrange for the talent.

Mrs. Lee Glazener of Chillicothe and Mrs. Grady Roberts of Munday visited friends and relatives here Wednesday.

OWNERSHIP MAP FOR COUNTY IS BEING COMPILED

Leasing Activity Creates A Demand For Accurate Information

Recent oil tests and leasing activity throughout this section has created a demand for accurate information concerning landowners, leaseholders and owners of mineral rights, according to V. W. Meadors, local abstractor, who is receiving inquiries concerning these facts almost daily.

In order to determine this information in an accurate manner, Mr. Meadors is compiling a revised ownership map covering every tract of land in the county, showing individual fee owners and their address and principal mineral owners. All oil or mining leases, together with their expiration date will be given for each tract, and

MALADY FATAL TO 24

Toronto, Ont.—A strange malady has caused the death of twenty-four Toronto children. The disease, considered virtually incurable and known as "pseudo-hypertrophic muscular dystrophy," withers the victims' muscles until they disappear, converting them into hopeless cripples.

Regional director of the Resettlement Administration, told 325 Texas rural rehabilitation workers in their annual conference at College Station last week.

Dr. T. O. Walton, President of A. and M. College, had previously told the rehabilitation staff that low-income farmers of Texas whom they are serving have "in many instances been discriminated against economically and socially."

Several months ago, when the industrial North and East were paralyzed with sit-down strikes, I issued a statement that we were not going to have any confiscation of property in that fashion down here in Texas.

Recently returned from Denmark, Dr. Walton said that nation is great because thirty per cent of all its farm people have been trained in adult "folk schools".

Maris said that recent passage of the Bankhead-Jones Act, and last week's appropriation of funds to put it into effect, marks the third stage in rural rehabilitation's development.

"The Rest of The Record"

BY JAS. V. ALLRED Governor of Texas

Several months ago, when the industrial North and East were paralyzed with sit-down strikes, I issued a statement that we were not going to have any confiscation of property in that fashion down here in Texas.

The people of Texas approved of my statement because it represented the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of them.

Now another unfortunate situation has developed. Recently in Dallas a man who was trying to show a pro-labor picture in a public park was kidnapped and taken out into the country by a bunch of hoodlums who tarred and feathered him.

Everyone concedes that labor has a right to organize and to select organizers and leaders of their own choosing. The freedom of speech and the right to assemble peacefully are guaranteed by both State and Federal Constitutions.

In my opinion, it is just as important to protect people from outrages of this kind as to prevent the taking of property from the rightful owners by the sit-down strike or other unlawful method.

I was surprised to get a bunch of inspired telegrams apparently approving the treatment given these organizers because, the telegrams said, they were members of the CIO.

Since the State police went to Dallas these troubles have practically ceased. I am very hopeful that the situation will adjust itself without any further trouble.

I really wish the general public could know in detail the many fine things that have been accomplished by the Public Safety Department.

Just as illustrative of what has been done in the one field of ballistic work: As perhaps most of you know men from this department can take a bullet that has been fired and trace it to the gun that fired it by markings on the bullet. They have done this in many instances and solved cases that might otherwise have gone down as "perfect" crimes.

For instance, recently in one Texas town a man was murdered at night as he slept. He was not robbed, and officers were at a loss for a motive. They did, however, find shotgun shells of a certain type.

number on it was from the same gun as that which fired the shells found at the scene of the crime. It was no trouble to trace the ownership of this shotgun and its use to a negro in the community who promptly confessed the crime.

Some time ago I had occasion to use the handwriting experts. The State of Illinois had asked for extradition papers on a prominent citizen of this State on a charge of forgery alleged to have been committed in Illinois.

From time to time I shall try to tell you more of the work of this department and other departments of the State Government in which I think you may be interested.

Double Heart Rodeo Will Be 3-Day Affair

With the exception of a number of entries yet to come in the sponsors contest, everything is in readiness for the opening of the seventh annual Double Heart Cowboy and Cowgirl Roundup at Sweetwater Sept. 4, 5, and 6. Ollie Cox, manager, has announced.

Sponsors and towns already entered in the contest are: Miss Pansy Hudson, Aspermont; Miss Jane Young, Roscoe; Mrs. E. H. Cunningham, Lorraine; Miss Fau Buberger, Abilene; Miss Dorothy La Nell Young, Howley; Miss Frances Pittard, Anson; and Miss Evelyn Stribling, Sweetwater. A total of $1,442 in prizes is to be awarded contestants in the various events during the three-day show. Among the feature attractions arranged is a rope spinning and trick roping exhibition by Billy Lewis, Sweetwater youth who has toured the southwest in giving exhibitions, a calf roping exhibition by an armless cowboy, the old fiddlers contest, the ugliest man contest, airplane stunt flying and others.

Manager Cox has purchased most of his bucking horses from the Eldorado string—noted for ability to buck. His Brahma steers likewise have been selected on their reputations as tough customers.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Advertising's Value. VERNALIS, CALIF.—On the train a charming young woman said: "I always read the advertisements whether I want to buy anything or not. Do you think I'm crazy?"

I told her she was the smartest young woman I knew. If I were asked to describe the race in any bygone period since printer's ink came into common use, I'd turn to the advertising in the papers and periodicals of that particular age. For then I'd know what people wore and what they ate and what their sports were and their tastes and their habits; know what they did when they were healthy and what they took when they were sick and of what they died and how they were buried and where they expected to go after they left here—in short, I'd get a picture of humanity as it was and not as some prejudiced historian, writing then or later, would have me believe it conceivably might have been.

I'd rather be able to decipher the want ad on the back side of a Chaldean brick than the king's edict on the front—that is, if I craved to get an authentic glimpse at ancient Chaldaea.

Running a Hotel.

I'VE just been a guest at one of the best small-town hotels in America. I should know about good hotels because, in bygone days, I stopped at all the bad ones.

The worst was one back East—built over a jungle of side tracks. I wrote a piece about that hotel. It had hot and cold running cockroaches on every floor and all-night switch-engine service; the room towels only needed buttons on them to be peekaboo waists, but the roller towel in the public washroom had, through the years, so solidified that if the house burned down it surely would have been left standing. The cook labored under the delusion that a fly was something to cook with.

Everybody who'd ever registered there recognized the establishment. So the citizens raised funds and tore down their old hotel, thereby making homeless wanderers of half a million resident bedbugs; and they put up a fine new hotel which paid a profit, whereas the old one had been losing money ever since the fall of Richmond.

A good hotel is the best advertisement any town can have, but a bad one is just the same as an extra pesthouse where the patients have to pay.

Poor Lo's Knowledge. SOMETIMES I wonder whether I am, the perfected flower of civilization—and if you don't believe we are, just ask us—can really be as smart as we let on.

Lately, out on the high seas, I met an educated Hopi, who said to me:

"White people get wrong and stay wrong when right before their eyes is proof to show how wrong they are. For instance, take your delusion that there are only four direction points—an error which you've persisted in ever since you invented the compass, a thing our people never needed. Every Indian knows better than that."

"Well then," I said, "how many are there, since you know so much?"

"Seven," he said, "seven in all."

"Name 'em," I demanded.

"With pleasure," he said, "Here they are: north, east, south, west, up, down and here."

Of course, there's a catch in it somewhere, but, to date, I haven't figured it out.

The Russian Puzzle.

UNDER the present beneficent regime, no prominent figure in Russia's government, whether military or civil, is pestered by the cankering fear which besets an official in some less favored land, namely, that he'll wear out in harness and wither in obscurity.

All General So-and-Soski or Commissar Whatyoumaycallovitch has to do is let suspicion get about that he's not in entire accord with administration policies and promptly he commits suicide—by request; or is invited out to be shot at sunrise.

To be sure, the notion isn't new. The late Emperor Nero had numerous well-wishers, including family relatives, that he felt he could spare and he just up and spared them. And, in our own time, Al Capone built quite an organization for taking care of such associates as seemed lacking in the faith. 'Twas a great boon to the floral design business, too, while it lasted.

But in Russia where they really do things—there no job-holder need ever worry about old age. Brer Stalin's boys will attend to all necessary details, except the one, formerly so popular in Chicago, of sending flowers to the funeral.

Cigarette Tax Is Revenue Score for Old Age Assistance

When Mr. John Q. Citizen goes down to the courthouse to pay his ad valorem taxes once a year, he is not contributing to the support of the needy aged although he may think he is doing so.

Figures from the auditing division of the Old Age Assistant Commission this week showed that cigarettes are the largest state source of assistance revenue, with liquor wine and beer next.

Income from state sources for the period from Nov. 1, 1936, when the present law went into effect, through July 31, 1937, was the following: cigarette stamp tax and permit fees, $3,203,934.07; tax on vending machines, $301,494.31; liquor, wine and beer stamp tax, sales and permit fees, $3,200,469.95; amusement tax, $34,020.82; tax and license on parimutuel, $257,345.28.

George Lossing, 68-year-old farmer of Fort Rowan, Ontario advertised for a wife and received 100 replies. After making his choice, he sold the names of other desirable candidates to the highest bidders.

Humble Oil Co.
Will Broadcast
SW Grid Results

It was announced today that the Humble Oil & Refining Company, sponsors of broadcasts of Southwest Conference football for the past two years, will again sponsor these broadcasts during the 1937 season.

The broadcast will be over an extensive network of Texas stations, so that followers of Conference football in all parts of the State will be able to follow their gridiron favorites without difficulty.
Due to the 10-game schedule adopted by the Conference this season, broadcasts will be more condensed than heretofore. On most Saturday afternoons, the Humble Company will broadcast as many as three games, and on several Saturdays as many as four, according to tentative schedules now being worked out. This will give radio followers of football a comprehensive picture of the Conference season.

The announcing staff is already well known to football fans. It will include Kern Tips, Cy Leland, Hal Thompson, Gene Wyatt, Tom Jacobs, Bill Hightower and others.
Technical equipment, much of it bought new this year to take advantage of latest developments, will be unsurpassed.

"Neolctress" Is
Substitute Term
For "Housewife"

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 2—What is believed to be the first concerned effort in the nation to eliminate from popular usage a name the majority of women resent, "housewife," today had resulted in the substitute word "Neolctress."

It was defined as meaning "a modern home maker alert to this new electric age" and had the approval of Dr. Charles E. Funk, noted lexicographer of New York, who selected it from more than a thousand substitute names submitted in a campaign conducted by the West Texas Utilities Company over its 40,000 square-mile territory.

Mrs. Ben D. Parker, Abilene woman and a dog fancier, submitted the word, Ne-o-l, she pointed out, means "new." L-e-c-t-r-e-s-s, she said, suggests feminine usage of electricity.

The campaign was based on the theory that the word "housewife" has become obsolete due to the improved status of women.
"It is true," Dr. Funk said in announcing his selection of neo-lectress, "that the facilities for the effective management of the home have, within the past few years, become so notable as to remove let us hope, forever, much of the ceaseless drudgery formerly a concomitant of that necessary field.

"My search for the winning name (neolctress) led me to seek a term that was not only new in every respect, but that would be formed with due regard to etymology and with a recognition of the fact that the chief agency in the relief of household drudgery is electricity."

Winner of second prize in the contest was Mrs. F. B. Probandt, of San Angelo, who entered the word "domestician." Third place was awarded Mrs. W. B. Bourland of Oklahoma, with the entry
"homeologist." Decision of Dr.
Funk also was based on letters explaining usage of words.
Mrs. Parker's reward for her first place entry will be a super-duty Frigidaire; Mrs. Probandt receives her choice of a Hotpoint electric dishwasher or a Thor washing machine; and Mrs. Bourland will be presented with a Sunbeam Mixmaster.

Honorable mention and choice of smaller electric appliances will go to ten women: Mrs. Lee White, Dalhart; Mrs. O. R. Bodeen, Childress; Jane Yeager, Rochelle; Mrs.
R. C. Roberts, Vernon; Mrs. W. N.
Pipkin, Matador; Mrs. S. G. Jones,
Abilene; Mrs. J. Dexter Eoff, Ballinger; Anna Mick, Mason; Mrs. R.
H. Bounds, Stamford and Mrs. R.
R. Trimble, San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ellis of Pecos are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter Freddie Jean, born Friday August 27th. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Jno. Ellis of this city.

Miss Martha Head spent the week-end in Fort Worth where she visited Miss Hortense Walling. Miss Walling returned to Haskell for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walling.

ALLIES STILL BELITTLE OUR HELP IN WAR

It is just about 19 years since the World War ended but our late beloved allies have not yet given up the attempt to prove that we really weren't nearly as much help to them as we supposed at the time. David Lloyd George, who was prime minister of England when we went into the war, is still writing memoirs, and his most recent volume includes some sharp criticism of Gen. John J. Pershing. General Pershing has been criticized by allied statesmen before now. He wasn't quite the sort of thing they were looking for; he had a hard, square jaw, and a mouth that could look like a slit in a sheet of armor plate. When they all rallied round and began telling him how to run his part of the war, he had a remarkable facility for listening quietly and then saying "No" in a rock-ribbed, eternal sort of way.

Lloyd George's complaint is the same old one; that Pershing was as stubborn as a Missouri mule about the idea of keeping American troops under American command, and that, because of this fact it took the United States altogether too long to make its presence felt on the firing line. The Lloyd George idea had the beauty of simplicity. It was to feed American troops right into the British army, by companies and battalions. There would be no American army, as such; instead, there would be a vast number of separate units brigaded into the war-torn British divisions. As fast as our boys got to France, they could be put to work. The best mark on Pershing's record is the fact that he said "No" to this little scheme, and said it often. The British high command had spent two mortal years butting its head into a stone wall. At the very moment when it was asking Pershing to turn his American boys over to its tender mercies, it was wasting 400,000 lives in the mud-mired Passchendaele offensive—a strategic gem from which British historians are still criticizing the high command in the bitterest terms. Lloyd George himself did not quite trust the British high command. He held British troops in England in such numbers that Earl Haig's partisans blame him for the German breakthrough of March, 1918; held them there because he was sick of seeing the flower of the British army wasted in vain, uninspired attacks that were foredoomed to failure. And yet Lloyd George now can criticize Pershing for feeling precisely the same way!

We owe this lan-ern-jawed general of ours a great debt of gratitude. He stood like a rock against unbelievable pressure. He held out for the idea that if American boys had to fight on a foreign battlefield they would at least go in under American direction, fighting for American objectives. If he is to be criticized, it has got to be for some reason other than that.

THIS IS DIPLOMACY

For several centuries, and perhaps much longer, before the World War diplomats wrote and received their dispatches, thinking they were very secret, but in very many cases other countries had their paid spies within the inner circles of various powers so that they would be kept informed of international developments.

A case in point was the situation in the imperial Russian Embassy in London just before the World War. In May, 1914, England and Russia were preparing a naval agreement. A Berlin newspaper commented rather guardedly upon the "rumor" of such an agreement, which was a threat to German security in the Baltic and North Sea.

When this publication was called to the attention of the foreign ministers of Great Britain and Russia neither admitted it. Sir Edward Gray avoided a question in the House of Commons without answering. The Russian Foreign Minister, Sazonoff, became morally indignant and declared that the convention existed "only in the imagination" of the newspaper "and in the moon." So, did the statesmen seek to hide their plans.

The joke in the little episode lies in the fact that while all this was going on a secretary named Siebert in the Russian Embassy at London was copying all of the communications and sending them to the German Foreign Office in Berlin, which, by the way, had inspired the little piece in the Berlin newspaper. Therefore, despite denials and avoidance the German diplomats were fully informed secretly of the moves made by the Russian and British diplomats.

As the face of war and diplomacy come to the light, usually a generation after the events we are about convinced that he only people who are kept in ignorance are those most vitally affected by the maneuvers of the diplomats, namely, the men who will have to fight when their schemes go wrong and the many children who will have to suffer when their men go to war.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Human Bait"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO everybody: You know, boys and girls, fishing is a harmless sport, and perfectly safe just so long as you don't get things mixed up the way Tony Benciven did. In all the fishing I've ever seen done, the fisherman stays in the boat, and uses a worm, or another fish, or maybe just a hunk of salt pork, for bait.

But Tony didn't follow the usual procedure. For bait, he used himself. And you know, there are fish that don't hesitate to chew up even a man, if they see him trailing along at the end of a fishing line.

Tony lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. He likes Brooklyn because there you can get a swell swordfish steak in a restaurant, without having to go out and catch it yourself. Tony is plenty sick of sword-fishing. There are enough dictators around waving swords nowadays without having the fish do it, too. And like a dictator, a swordfish can drag you into trouble faster than almost anything else on earth or in the water. At least, that was Tony's experience.

Tony says he never did want to go on that swordfishing trip in the first place. He had just arrived in Avalon on Catalina island, off the coast of California, and he didn't know any more about deep-sea fishing than the mayor of Timbuctoo knows about the North Pole. But his friend, Tom Martin talked him into it, and on the morning of August 17, 1931, they set out in a power boat for San Clemente island, about thirty-five miles away.

Then Tony Got His First Strike.

When they reached the north side of San Clemente, Tom showed Tony how to bait his hook and how to handle his line. Then they began cruising and looking for swordfish. Tony says they cruised for two hours before they saw one, and it was a half hour after that before Tony got his first strike.

"That strike," says Tony, "almost yanked me clear out of the boat. There was a tremendous tug on the line, and I caught my balance just in time. Behind me I could hear Tom yelling instructions and I began reeling in my line. I reeled in until another violent jerk told me that the fish was diving for the bottom, and then, still following Tom's instructions, I let the line reel out again.

"By this time my hands were raw and blistered, and I was panting from the exertion. When the line was almost all out, Tom shouted to me to reel in again, and slowly, laboriously, I began hauling that swordfish back to the surface. I must have had him almost to the top when suddenly the line went slack again. A second later I heard a hellish roar and the water burst apart close to the boat. The swordfish shot out of the water like a bombshell and fell back again with a loud splash. Then it was off again, in a series of mad plunges, taking most of the line with it.

"Tom yelled: 'It's a beauty!' And it was. It was every bit of eleven feet long, and it must have weighed close to four hundred pounds. And just then, the fish turned suddenly in the water and charged straight for the boat!"

Tom yelled to Tony to haul in the line, and Tony forgot about the reel and began hauling it in hand-over-hand. In the excitement of the moment he didn't notice that the line had become tangled around his foot. That swordfish was taking all his attention. At the last moment it veered, missing the boat by a fraction of an inch, and then Tony felt a tug at his entangled foot. He was knocked clean off his pins, and before he realized what had happened he was in the water, choking and gasping for air, being dragged along at the end of the line.

Overboard Among the Sharks.

Says he: "In vain I tried to untangle the line around my foot—and in vain I tried to break the strong cord. Down—down I was dragged by that diving fish, and I thought my lungs would burst before it shot to the top again. And then, while I was still fighting for air, I became aware of an even deadlier menace. Sharks! A number of them, swimming nearby, dim, ghostly shapes in the water."

Suddenly, Tony realized that he was no longer being dragged. He looked toward the swordfish and saw the reason. He had come to the surface now, and there was the fish, less than two hundred feet away, charging straight at him. Tony drew in a deep breath. This looked like the end, and he was getting ready to meet it. But the swordfish never reached him. Halfway in its course it was met by two or three darting streaks of gray. THE SHARKS!

"What a battle that was," says Tony. "The fierce struggle threw up mountains of water. And then the line began to drag me into that mad maelstrom. I was getting closer and closer, when suddenly it snapped—probably slashed by shark teeth. Then, for the first time, I looked for the boat. It was coming toward me at a fast clip—but it was too late. For at the same time I noticed that two triangular fins were cutting the water around me in circles—circles that were getting smaller with every turn."

Bump on the Head—and Rescue.

Just the same, Tony began swimming toward the boat. The circling fins were now so close to him that he could see the bodies of the sharks. Suddenly, one of them darted madly. He felt its body touch his foot as it swam beneath him—and he shivered. Wasn't that boat ever going to reach him?

"The other shark would charge at any moment," he says. "It had turned on its side, jaws gaping. I tried to steel my nerves for the inevitable finish. Churning the water wasn't going to keep this one off. He was ready for the kill. I heard a roar and a rush of water behind me and remembered the other shark. Before I could turn, something struck my head, and that is the last I remember."

But when Tony opened his eyes again, he was in the boat, and Tom was pouring whisky down his throat. It was the boat that had given him that bump on the head—and it hadn't arrived any too soon. For Tom had had to fight the shark off with a gaff hook while he dragged Tony's unconscious body out of the water.

Tony says he looked over the side and saw nothing but a couple of fins circling the water where the swordfish had been a few moments before. And that's when he resolved that thereafter he'd get his swordfish in a restaurant, served up on a plate with a piece of lemon and a little parsley. This business of being shark bait was no fun at all.

No adventure is any fun—until after it is all over.

M. H. Lackey of Haskell, together with several other gentlemen, were in Merkel Saturday after noon when Harris & Shell, and some gin machinery which he purchased from Harris & Shell, and out of which he will build a gin on his farm. Until this year one good ginning outfit has been able to handle our cotton crop, but things are moving up a notch.

Mr. H. S. Post has accepted a position with F. G. Alexander & Co.

Mr. J. F. Jones is making every effort to get his gin started next week.

Capt. Dodson received notice Wednesday of his appointment as postmaster at this place. It will probably be a month before his bond is approved and he takes charge of the office.

Mr. G. R. Couch's little girl, about three years old, met with a serious accident Monday. She climbed upon a high shelf from which she fell, shattering the bones of her left elbow badly.

There was a large prairie fire in the northern part of the county Tuesday which extended into Knox county. Several square miles of good grass was destroyed. A little work by all parties interested in the range by plowing and burning out fire guards would check the country up so that an accidental fire would do comparatively little damage.

Miss Lena Wilson arrived Wednesday and is welcomed by a host of friends.

An anxious crowd has been eagerly watching the arrival of the mails from day to day for the past two weeks expecting the arrival from Austin of the list of forfeited school lands. It is thought that the list will embrace about 50 sections and each man has his choice set on one or more sections, which he intends to be first in filing an application for.

Benjamin, the county seat of Knox county, will celebrate the coming of the Orient Railroad to that place with a grand carnival and free barbecue, Sept. 6th and 7th.

Mr. W. T. McDaniel says he is expecting a bale of cotton to come to his gin any day now, and that he has everything ready for it.

Mr. Dave Parnell fell from a house on which he was working Monday and fractured his left leg.

Messrs. R. D. Means, P. Y. Ingram, Henry King and several other Throckmorton county people were here this week buying supplies and a bill of lumber to build a school house.

Mr. Burwell Cox arrived home last Saturday from a visit to Arkansas, where he was detained for several weeks by the sickness of himself and mother.

Miss Dannie Phillips, who has been for some time an operator in the local telephone exchange, left Tuesday for Seymour, where she will be one of the operators in the phone system recently purchased by the Haskell Telephone Co.

Western Farm Sinks 200 Feet Into the Earth

H. A. Robertson is shown viewing the destruction wrought on the land he is farming near Buhl, Idaho, by the sinking of thousands of square feet of rich soil into the bowels of the earth. More than five acres has already sunk 125 to 200 feet below its normal level, forming a canyon. This phenomenon of nature, experts say, is due to a great fissure beneath much of southern Idaho and may doom a considerable area.

Repairs to Farm Buildings Should Be Made Properly

Encouraging reports on this fall's bright crop situation, by editors of rural newspapers, indicate that American farmers will have more money to spend than during the past several years. Some of this money will undoubtedly be spent for new building or for repainting, roofing, or making general repairs to existing buildings that have been neglected during the lean years. Many of the general repairs to be made to wood buildings have been caused by decay as a result of family design in former construction.

The simplest method of preventing wood from decaying is to keep it dry. Keeping wood dry means protecting it from the well known decay hazards created by the contact of wood with the ground, by leaks, and by actual contact of wood and water, say engineers at the Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis., a unit of the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. It also means protecting wood from such generally unrecognized decay hazards as are caused by relatively small amounts of water that get into the wood and cannot get out. Water is usually held in the wood by some type of covering or by lack of ventilation or drainage. Many of the unrecognized decay hazards are at joints that are exposed to the weather and at surfaces where wood is in contact with other materials. Very often it is cheaper and easier to change the construction details as to keep the moisture out than to constantly make repairs at these points. Some of the main principles of design to be observed in the use of wood for repairs are provisions for free drainage, ventilation, condensation, and protective coatings. Drainage is especially important to prevent water collecting at the foot of posts, columns, behind cross rains and battens, and at the bottoms of exterior doors. The use of good ventilation to eliminate the accumulation of damp air under porches and steps and around the roofing and rafters of barns will also prevent decay. Proper design should provide for protection to wood from condensation, such as occurs on cold-water pipes and on window glass, especially in dairy barns, bathrooms, and kitchens. The use of protective coatings, such as roofing felt, tarred and mopped down, will decrease the absorption from damp concrete, masonry, or earth and thus lessen the repair bill.

decay hazards in such cases lies in treating the wood with preservatives so that the decay organisms cannot attack it or in using naturally decay-resistant wood.

WAY BACK WHEN

FORMER MAYOR WAS A SONG WRITER

THERE were twelve children in our family and it was necessary to have a pretty strict rule about being reasonably quiet in the house and at the dinner table. My father repeated so often, "Children are to be seen and not heard" or "Silence is golden" that just to think of those old adages brings back the echo of his voice. I can't agree with the principle of those sayings. Children who are encouraged to join in the conversation are likely to have more self-confidence and to be more social minded. In some cases, their very talkativeness may be golden. Take Jimmy Walker for instance; James John Walker, who later became mayor of New York City and was one of the most popular men ever to hold that office, was born in New York's Greenwich Village in 1881. When still a very small boy, he was nicknamed "Jimmy Talker" because he could not be kept quiet. His father was running for alderman at one time, and Jimmy was sent to explain that he could not be present at a political rally because of illness. The crowd called for a speech from the young boy, and he did so well that his father was elected.

Jimmy Walker went to school in New York City, and studied law; but for a while it looked as though he might be a professional song writer instead of a lawyer or a politician. He wrote several songs which were published and made a national hit by composing "Will You Love Me in December As You Did in May?" None of his other songs enjoyed the popularity of this one, however, and Jimmy decided upon a more conventional career. He went to work as a clerk for the Union Surety Guarantee company and with his earnings returned to law school. He established a fine law practice, and became more and more prominent in politics. In 1925, he was elected mayor of New York City and enjoyed more mass popularity than any mayor of recent times has known there.

An Army sergeant instructing recruits at target practice during the recent training camp period gave them this pertinent word of caution: "These bullets will penetrate two inches of wood; so keep your heads down."

Severely criticized by a coroner's jury of Bedford, Eng., because he had failed to save his wife from drowning in two feet of water, Richard Wisler explained that his doctor had forbidden him to bathe because of his catarrh.

In New York City it is against the law to open or close an umbrella in the presence of a horse.

Relishes and Pickles Easy to Put Up; Fine With Meats; Preparation Directions

In planning reserves and treats to put up, the housewife should not overlook the possibilities of relishes and pickles since they are so delicious with meat. There are a number of uncooked relishes that are easy to prepare.

Uncooked Tomato Catsup
One-half to three-fourths peck ripe tomatoes, two red peppers, finely chopped; two green peppers finely chopped; one pint vinegar one cup sugar, one-half cup salt, one cup nasturtium seeds (small, green); three ounces grated horseradish, one third cup black mustard seed, one-third cup white mustard seed, two teaspoons cinnamon, one teaspoon ground mace.

Cut tomatoes in large pieces. Combine with other vegetables. Mix the vinegar with sugar, salt and other seasonings in a stone crock and stir in prepared vegetables. Cover and let stand for at least three weeks.

Piccalilli
Two quarts green tomatoes, two quarts cabbage or celery, one quart onions, two green peppers, three red sweet peppers, one cup salt, two quarts vinegar, two pounds brown sugar, one teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons mustard seeds, two tablespoons mustard, one and one-half teaspoons paprika.

Chop the vegetables. Sprinkle them with salt and let stand overnight. Drain and press out as much liquid as possible. Pour on the vinegar, add the sugar and spices. Cook one hour and pack into hot jars.

Pickled Red Cabbage
Four quarts thinly sliced cabbage, four tablespoons salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, one-fourth cup mustard seed, one cup sugar, one-fourth cup mixed pickle spices, two quarts vinegar.

Sprinkle the salt over cabbage and let stand overnight. Drain slightly, add the pepper and the mustard seeds and mix and place in a crock or glass jars. Add sugar and pickle spices (tied in a bag) to the vinegar. Bring to the boiling point and then pour boiling hot vinegar over the cabbage to cover. If after cooling the vinegar does not cover the cabbage, add more boiling vinegar. Cover crock or jars. May be used cold as a relish or reheated and served in place of sauerkraut.

Bread and Butter Pickles
Five medium cucumbers, three onions, one-fourth cup salt, one cup vinegar, one cup water, one-half teaspoon celery seed, one-half teaspoon mustard seed, three-fourths cup sugar, one-half teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon turmeric.

Wash and slice thin cucumbers. Peel and slice onions. Combine onions, cucumbers and salt and let stand two hours. Heat vinegar with seasonings, sugar and spices to the boiling point. Add the cucumbers and onions and cook slowly until tender. Pack while hot in hot, clean jars.

Mixed Pickles
One quart small onions, one quart small green tomatoes, one head cauliflower, one quart cucumbers, five red peppers, one quart stringbeans, two quarts white vinegar, one and one-half cups brown sugar, two tablespoons whole mixed spices, one cup salt.

Cut all the vegetables except the beans into good-sized pieces. Sprinkle with the salt and allow to stand overnight in water. Drain, cook in the beans in water with a little salt until tender. Drain. Mix the vinegar, sugar and spices together and bring to the boiling point. Add the vegetables and let cook ten minutes. Pack in jars, fill to overflowing with the hot vinegar syrup and seal.

In addition, the location and depth of all tests ever made in the county will be detailed on the map, he announced. He expects the map to be ready for distribution about Sept. 15th.

From information already compiled by Mr. Meadors, it is revealed that out of approximately 35 oil tests drilled in the county in the past 26 years, only six are producers. Located in the southeast corner of the county, the small pool was developed at 1730 feet by the Superior Oil Company. First attempt to develop oil in Haskell county was made in 1911, when the "Bunkley Well" on the Wm. Dennis survey 18 miles southeast of Haskell was abandoned as a dry hole at a depth of 1800 feet.

Advertising Manager West Texas Utilities Co., Abilene, Texas.

Dear Sir: The purpose of the contest that your Company arranged is one that should appeal to every American woman, for it is true that the facilities for the effective management of the home have, within the past few years, become so notable as to remove -- let us hope, forever -- much of the ceaseless drudgery formerly a concomitant of that necessary field. Science and invention, I am sure, will shortly find ways to eliminate the few remaining onerous duties. It is, therefore, indeed high time that the term formerly synonymous with household drudgery be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things. Accordingly, I have examined with the greatest interest all the entries that you sent me by airmail. I can not be certain, naturally, that any of them would become the one term that will be received by American women as a permanent and acceptable substitute for the outmoded term housewife. I think, therefore, that your plan to offer a selected list of prize-winning terms is the wise procedure, thereby suggesting possible lines which may lead to a term -- perhaps altogether new -- that may be generally accepted. I regret that a great many of the entries seemed to me altogether too flamboyant and fanciful for even brief consideration. Others, tho the contestants may not have realized it, were terms already employed in our language with far different meanings. Others were altogether dependent upon the correct pronunciation for their significance. My search for the winner of the contest led me to seek a term that was not only new in every respect, but that would be formed with due regard to etymology and with a recognition of the fact that the chief agency in the relief of household drudgery is electricity. This word I found in Neolectress, coined by Mrs. Ben D. Parker, of Abilene, Texas. For second choice, I have selected the entry of Mrs. F. B. Probandt, of San Angelo, whose word is Domestician. My third choice is the entry of Mrs. W. B. Bourland, of Oklaunion, whose word is Homologist. The remaining selections, in the order of my preferences, are attached hereto. Very truly yours, Charles Earle Funk Charles Earle Funk
