FUNERAL SERVICE HELD FRIDAY FOR MRS. J. W. MASSIE

Death Occurred Thursday After Illness of Several Weeks

Mrs. J. W. Massie, 50, wife of a prominent Haskell county farmer, died at the family home in the Ballev community north of Haskell Thursday evening at 8:55 o'clock. Mrs. Massie had been in ill health for some time, and her condition had been critical for the past three weeks.

Funeral services were held from the First Methodist Church in this city Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment was in Willow Cemetery, with Holden's Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Martha Cordelia Elkins was born April 17, 1886 in the state of Arkansas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Elkins. The family came to this section in 1908, and on Dec. 17, 1930 she was married to J. W. Massie. They had made their home in Haskell county since that time. Deceased had been a member of the Methodist Church since girlhood.

Immediate survivors are the husband, J. W. Massie, a daughter, Mrs. H. H. Russell of Haskell; four sisters, Mrs. John Nollner of Duncan, Okla., Mrs. Will Williams, Mrs. Archie Baughman and Mrs. King Latham; two brothers, Edgar and Pink Elkins and a granddaughter, Lillie Ann Russell.

Floral offerings were handled by Mrs. Lynn Tolliver, Mrs. Henry Darden, Mrs. Charlie King, Mrs. Luther Tolliver, Mrs. Nannie Stanford, Mrs. Harve Fry, Miss Mae Cothron, Miss Claudie Mae Massie.

Proper Handling of Cotton To Be Urged Over State

More than 20 regional meetings have been held this season by ginners in the interest of more careful handling of cotton on the farm and at the gin, and 14 additional meetings are scheduled, according to F. E. Lichte, ginning specialist of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

"Texas has been making considerable headway in increased plantings of quality strains of cotton, but this is a slow process," Lichte said. "Quality cotton is on the way back, but in the meantime we can improve the quality of our cotton tremendously by proper handling."

"Picking the cotton clean and dry is the responsibility of the grower. Most ginners, by the use of improved equipment and cleaning machinery, are doing a great deal to main quality."

"Sometime it almost seems that each new advance in ginning equipment results in more careless handling of cotton on the farm."

Modern equipment will provide higher grade lint from damp or moderately trashy cotton, but no machinery has been developed that can dry wet cotton or glean roughly harvested cotton to give lint equal in quality to that ginned from dry, clean-picked cotton, Lichte warned.

Already 550 of the 12,700 gins in the Cotton Belt are using the driers developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Of these, 273 are in use in Texas' 3,564 gins.

REVISED PLANS WILL UTILIZE $35,000 PWA GRANT FOR PROJECT

Approximately $95,000 Will Be Available For Building And Equipment

Contractors bids for completing the Haskell county hospital building, on which construction work was started several months ago but halted to allow plans for an addition to the originally planned building when a PWA grant was allotted, will be received by County Judge Charlie Conner until August 16, at which time contract for completion of the building will be awarded.

Butler & Huserman Co., of Lubbock are architects for the building, and they advised Judge Conner Friday that plans and specifications for the enlarged building had been perfected.

Construction of the county institution was authorized in a county-wide bond issue of $60,000, voted last summer. Plans for the building contemplated a $50,000 building, and original contract was awarded to C. H. Mothes, Seymour contractor, who started work on the building early this spring.

Approval of an application filed several years ago for a $45,000 PWA grant on the proposed hospital was received only a few weeks ago and construction work was suspended until county officials and architects could determine in what amount Haskell county could qualify under the PWA grant.

Under revised plans, approximately $35,000 of PWA funds will be available, providing a total of $95,000 for construction and equipping the institution. New plans contemplate a 65 foot wing or addition on the southwest corner of the building, increasing capacity from a 20 to 30-bed hospital. Of the total amount available, approximately $25,000 will be used for equipment, revised plans indicate.

Singers of East Side Will Meet at Brushy Sunday

The regular monthly meeting of the East Side Singing Convention will be held at Brushy next Sunday, August 7th, beginning at 2:30 p. m. leaders of the organization announced Monday.

An excellent program for entertainment of the large attendance expected is being arranged, and several prominent singers from out of the county have been invited to take part on the program in addition to the large number of local singers who will appear on the afternoon's program.

Voters Approve $11,000 Bond Issue Rule School Dist.

Voters in the Rule Independent School District last week approved the issuance of $11,000 in bonds against the district which will be supplemented by a grant of $9,000 from the Public Works Administration, the total amount to be used in erecting a Home Economic building as an addition to the Rule school plant.

Only 128 votes were cast in the election, with 96 favoring the bond issue and 32 against. No increase in the tax rate of the district will be required, school officials said.

Haskell Cemetery Association Will Meet Wednesday

All members are being urged to attend an important meeting of the Haskell Cemetery Association, to be held Wednesday afternoon, August 3, in the Jones Cox & Co. funeral chapel. Time of the meeting has been set at 3 o'clock, and it is imperative that all members attend, officers of the association said Monday.

The Association has charge of administering the affairs of Willow Cemetery, and several important matters are to come before the meeting Wednesday for consideration, officers added.

A Little Totalitarian Tale of Efficiency

The big brag of the totalitarian state is that it is efficient. It may be a bit repressive and hard to live with, but it Gets Things Done.

Okay. Let's look at they say, at the record. Until recently the New York Times maintained its central European bureau in Vienna.

At this point German efficiency stepped in—with the result that it took two mortal months to get one volume of possessions moved from Vienna to Prague.

Inspectors of high and low degree came to call. Innumerable documents had to be filled out, books had to be examined, appeals taken, signatures of various functionaries obtained.

Then the efficient Teutons had to go over all of the things that were to be moved—and go over them as they did, with a super-efficient fine-tooth comb.

The inspectors had their most fun with 120 bound volumes of the Times. These had to get a close scrutiny, like everything else; and if you have ever seen a bound volume of a daily paper, you can imagine how long it took to go through those 120 volumes.

By the time all this was done, the tax permits previously obtained had expired. These had to be renewed, which meant more delay.

So, what with one thing and another, the Times people got moved—in two months.

It's less of a strain on the nerves to muddle through with slipshod old Miss Democracy—Don't you think?

Life Is Always Beginning

It used to be that when somebody came out with a prediction that the average man would live to greater and greater ages as time went on you'd hear the comment: "There wouldn't be anything to do!"

You don't hear that so much any more. This may be age of youth, but new vistas of enjoyment and achievement for the older man and woman have been coming in sight, and it looks as if they're going to keep right on multiplying.

Science, medicine, the material benefits of civilization have made the last decades of a man's life more attractive on the physical plane, but quite as important has been the discovery that no real basis actually exists for the elderly person's assumption that the adventures of the mind belong only to the young.

New evidence that gives the lie to such an assumption is disclosed in a nation-wide study of several thousand university extension students, young and old. The findings of the study make it plain that the average man's mental powers decline very little with age, that he often proves to be a more brilliant student than his younger classmate, and that the only obstacle to an old age filled with intellectual adventure may be ignorance of one's own capacities.

Today belongs to youth, but it belongs to age, too.

Adopted Brain-Children

Maybe an age without parallel in the history of art is approaching. The Composite Age. Certainly something novel is on the horizon if the union and non-union mural painters in New York don't get things straightened around.

If the unionization movement spreads like this into all forms of artistic creation—half-way, with a compromise—there are certainly extraordinary times ahead. Visions arise of paintings which are the product of a non-union idea-thinker, upper, a union color-mixer, a non-union brush dipper, and a union applicator-of-paint-to-canvas.

Lighting of Farmyard Is One Of Many Uses of Electricity

A few lights help make this farmyard safe and convenient at night.

Rural Electrification Bureau

By IRA MILLER

WITH the advent of the automobile and improved roads, thievery has become increasingly more common on the farms of this country.

A little light goes a long way on dark nights. For that reason, only three lighting units are required for the effective lighting of the average farmyard—one at the house, one at the barn and one at the garage.

Yard lights should be at least 15 feet above the ground and equipped with reflectors. The height is necessary to allow a wide spread of light as well as to enable a person to see beyond it.

Inside frosted bulbs of 100 or 150 watts should be used, and the holders should be of the weatherproof type.

Where there are truck gardens, orchards, vineyards, poultry houses, etc., it sometimes is desirable to install protective lights on the same circuit as the yard lights.

Traffic Deaths Fewer for 1933

The nation's motorists are beginning to step on the brakes in time to save lives. The National Safety Council reported last week that traffic fatalities for the first six months of 1933 were fewer by 22 per cent than during the same period last year.

By heading the plea to drive more carefully, American motorists saved 3,670 lives during the first half of 1933, the council said. The steady decline in fatalities was registered despite a two per cent increase in highway traffic during the first five months, the council said.

The decrease for the first six months by states: Pennsylvania 42 per cent, Delaware 40; Michigan 39; Massachusetts, Wisconsin and Maryland 35; New Hampshire and Vermont 32; Nebraska 30; Connecticut 29; Illinois 27; New Jersey and Indiana 25; Oklahoma and Wyoming 24; West Virginia and New Mexico 20; Tennessee and Arkansas 18; New York and North Carolina 17; Oregon and Texas and Nevada 14; California 13; Washington 12; South Carolina 11; Georgia 10 (five months); Kansas 10; South Dakota 9; Maine 8; Virginia and Colorado 7; Alabama 6, and Florida (five months) and Idaho 3.

Cities which achieved the best traffic records for the six-month period and their death rate per 100,000 population included: 250,000 to 500,000: Providence, R. I. 4.7; Louisville 8.2; Dallas 8.6.

Farm Population Increases 90,000

The Nation's farm population on Jan. 1 stood at 13,819,000, 90,000 more than the same date the year before, the Bureau of Agriculture Economics announced recently.

Approximately 1,160,000 persons moved from farms to villages, towns and cities last year, but this loss was more than offset by the 872,000 who left cities for the farm and the surplus of farm births over farm deaths, the bureau said.

Indications are that farm population will show another gain in 1933 as the back-to-the-farm movement has been unusually brisk the first quarter of this year. During 1932 farm population decreased by 80,000 persons, bureau figures show.

Mrs. Ollie Lees Honored On Birthday With Party

Mrs. Ollie Lees of the Midway community was honored on her sixty-first birthday by her daughter Miss Anna Mae Lees and Miss Ruby Stodghill.

The house was decorated with beautiful bouquets of assorted flowers. The evening was spent as an old-fashioned visit.

While her presents were being presented to her by her two small granddaughters, Peggy Joyce Gibson of Rule and Lois Helweg of the Gauntt community, Miss Anna Mae Lees and Ruby Stodghill accompanied by Mrs. John Gibson at the piano sang Mrs. Lees' favorite hymn, "Where We'll Never Grow Old."

Refreshments of punch and cake were served. Those bringing gifts were: Mesdames Tom Baker, John Gibson of Rule, Edd Stodghill, Verdine Oats, A. J. Segro, Hansford Harris, Doyle Norman, Bob Segro, T. P. Huff, Frank Norman, Calvin Brown, Angie Herren, Roy Norman, Oscar Helweg, Bill Lees, Misses Minnie Jo Norman, Peggy Joyce Gibson, Lois Helweg, Anna Mae Lees, Ruby Stodghill; Mr. Claudie Helweg, Nolan Lees, Henry Harris.

Those sending gifts were: Mrs. Carlos Conner, Nathan Foster, Howell Miller, Misses Adilene Conner and Willie Faye Foster.

WPA Has Spent $37 Per Capita During 3 Years

The politically-embattled Works Progress Administration has spent more than $37 for every man, woman and child in the country since the new deal launched its present relief-recovery program in 1935, an official treasury report revealed last week.

The report shows that since 1935 and up to and including the last fiscal year $8,656,321,646 was made available to fight the depression. Of the total the WPA spent $4,834,974,053 or 55.7 per cent, a per capita of more than $37 on the basis of a population of 130,000,000.

The $1,635,000,000 PWA outlay for the present fiscal year will bring the agency's spending to $6,469,974,053.

The report was completed while WPA and its administrator, Harry Hopkins, are under attack on the political front. Republican and anti-new dealers have waged a concerted assault against the agency charging it is a political slush-fund and demanding that administration of relief be returned to the states.

The report covers all forms of relief-recovery spending up to last June 30, end of the 1938 fiscal year. It shows that for 1935-36 congress made $4,679,474,143 available and that all of it was spent.

The sum of $2,247,538,001 was appropriated and spent in 1937 when business was improving. Only $1,760,810,502 was appropriated in 1938 and all except $31,500,000 was spent. A total of $2,149,350,000 was appropriated for the 1939 fiscal year and President Roosevelt in recent revised budget estimates said an addition $500,000,000 would be necessary.

Just before the WPA came into existence late in 1935 the federal emergency relief administration which preceded it, spent $934,592,359 or 10.8 per cent of the 1935 outlay.

Dream Leads Searchers To Body In River

Marathon, N. Y.—A man's dream authorities of this little village say, enabled them to locate the body of a woman who was drowned in the Tougoiniogra river. The woman perished when her automobile skidded off the road and plunged into the river. On the eighth day, William Knapp, a truck driver, reported that he had a dream that the body had been
