Don Pullig was present representing the Roby Volunteer Fire Department. He was on hand to request that the commissioners leave the old county fire fighting truck with Roby when the new truck arrives. vehicles. Commissioners, acting on a request by Austin McKinney, Fisher County ficer, voted to cover McKinney under the county group medical insurance plan.

Jerry Goad, representing Creative Programs, Inc., Abilene, Texas appeared before the court to explain a program designed to save both

State Capital Highlights

Amidst the Battle of the Network Governors and the alleged microbugging of the Clements' campaign, one of the most intriguing campaign twists went virtually unnoticed last week.

Former Gov. Bill Clements predicted that President Reagan will impose an oil import fee, something Reagan has steadfastly refused to do despite repeated adfrom monitions Clements' foe, Gov. Mark White. The fee is considered a device to return the Texas oil industry to economic prosperity.

The forecast was made by Clements at a Houston meeting of the American Petroleum Institute, and he certainly ought to know if anyone does. He has ties to the White House and ties to the oil patch.

"I've just got a feel for these things," he explained.

On one hand, the prediction implies that White was correct al along in calling for the oil import fee. But it underscores also Clements' claim that he. if governor, will have more influence with the White House than Mark White, a Reagan foe.

TELEVISION CAMPAIGN

Two weeks ago from Election Day, reports from across Texas indicate the final campaign days will be spent with less county level activity and more television advertising.

The emphasis is on winning the war in the metropolitan areas and media advisors claim TV is the best tool for that. Whether the voter turnout will respond to mainly TV will be interesting to watch.

Some predict that the lack of bustling rural campaign activity plus the possible urban voter turnoff from too many negative TV ads will produce a moderate voter turnout.

Certainly, the ballot is not packed from top to toe with active races, another factor.

CAMPAIGN BUGGING

Even while Clements and White were preparing to debate last week, the story broke that an electronic device was discovered in the office of Karl Rove, a top Clements' staffer.

While not directly accusing the White campaign, Rove said the political opposition were the only ones to gain, White's campaign immediately denied the act, and deplored attempts to link them.

In fact, rumors began to circulate that the Clements' staff had planted the bug themselves to build up sympathy and portray Mark White as the Richard Nixon of the Texas Democratic Par-

To squelch the buzz, top Clements staffers volunteerd to take a lie detector test and release the results.

AIDES QUESTIONED

Amazingly, Gov. White countered by volunteering himself and his top aides to face the lie detector, perhaps the first such instance in Texas history.

The FBI agents investigating the case declined to do the test themselves at this stage and advised both campaigns to hire a private firm to clear the political

County Agent Report

As we approached cotton harvest time, the question of saving seed for planting purposes is with us. Moisture, after boll maturity is the single most important factor affecting cotton seed quality. Ideal conditions for good seed quality following boll maturity, are dry conditions and relatively cool temperatures. As you are aware, this has not been the case. Since we have had a very wet fall, producers will need to have any seed that they plan to save tested for germination and free fatty acid content twice.

A harvest time check will give a preliminary indication of whether or not it is worth saving. If this is o.k., then it should be re-checked early next spring. It is not uncommon for the free fatty acid content and germination to change with overwinter storage.

Proper cotton harvesting practices can top off a good season by reducing bark in the crop--a problem that annually penalizes farmers. following harvesting practices are recommended to help reduce barky cotton and thus reap higher prices:

-- Don't harvest too early or too late in the day: moisture is the top enemy of cotton quality and trash is the main source of moisture in the harvested crop.

-- Check the moisture content of both seed and lint cotton before harvesting. The combined moisture content should be less than 12 percent, preferably under 10 percent, for safe storage in trailers or modules.

-- Adjust the stripper to the crop, especially when you move from one field to another, when changing varieties or when stalks are more deteriorated in some fields due to different age cotton.

-- Modify stripper paddles and brushes to reduce the amount of foreign material in seed

-Build modules on clean, high ground to reduce the risk of picking up grass, weed residue or old cotton stalks when the module is loaded.

The County Farm Tour had to be cancelled last Monday due to wet weather. The tour will probably not be rescheduled this year due to all the adversities the cotton has suffered. The varieties are marked on the Lance McWilliams and Gene Terry farms. If anyone wants to look at them. These are on the Parker and West places located just east of Roby on either side of Cottonwood Creek. Yields and classification data will be checked and published at a later date.

Tax Planning By James Rodgers CPA

TAX LAW COMPLICATES IRAs

Individual retirement accounts have become a very popular means of saving for retirement while cutting current income taxes. The 1986 Tax Reform Act makes some changes that may affect your use of an IRA.

Beginning in 1987, if you or your spouse has a pension plan at work, you can take the full IRA deduction only if your adjusted gross income doesn't exceed $40,000 ($25,000, if you're single.) Between $40,000 and $50,000 couples covered by company plans will see their IRA deduction phased-out (Between $25,000 and $35,000 for singles.) Since the new IRA provision does not go into effect until January 1, 1987, contributions for 1986 can still be made and deducted in full, up through April 15, 1987.

Earnings on both deductible and nondeductible IRAs will be tax-deferred until withdrawal. IRAs remain very attractive for those taxpayers still entitled to a deduction for contributions. For those not entitled to a deduction, the tax deferral on earnings inside the IRA may still make funding an IRA a good plan. However, other investment opportunities should be examined and your funds put where the biggest after-tax yield can be achieved.

Since the Tax Act also eliminates the preferred tax end zone for a safety. treatment for capital gains, IRA funds might be appropriately placed into capital asset investments such as growth stocks that could provide a higher return than CDs or money market accounts. There are, of course, other considerations. For example, while earnings remain tax-free in an IRA, any losses cannot be deducted. Another change in the new law will allow IRA funds to be invested in U.S. gold and silver coins, something not permitted under prior law. Also take into account that if you need to withdraw your money early, taking it from an IRA results in a 10 percent penalty in addition to the income tax that is due on the withdrawal. Pulling money out of non-IRA investments creates no such penalty.

Roby Lions Take Victory Over Roscoe Plowboys 6-0

The Roby Lions, continuing to play good de-fensive football, scratched out a 6-0 victory over the Roscoe Plowboys Friday night.

The game opened with the Lions receiving the kick off and the Lions old menace--"the penalty" showed up quickly for the Lions were called for an ineligible block at the 16 yard line on the return and were moved back to the eight yard line to start their first possession of the night. The Lions were unable to make a first and punted on fourth and nine. Roscoe began then on their 48 and were thrown for two quick losses before getting a thirteen yard gain, a penalty on the Lions added another five yard, but on the next four plays, the Plowboys had lost four yards and on fourth and thirteen from the Lions 41, the Plowboys went for the first but the pass was incomplete. Roby took over again and had gained five yards in two plays but another fifteen yard penalty moved the Lions back to the 28--two plays later faced with fourth and 22, the Lions punted, but the Plowboys were pentalized for roughing the kicker. This gave the Lions a first on their 41, the Lions then moved to the Plowboys 47 in 3 plays an apparent first down was killed. When the Lions were again pentalized fifteen yards, this moved them back to their 36. Roby punted again when faced with a fourth and seventeen. Roscoe took over then for their second possession, but on the second play fumbled the ball back to the Lions. Roby's Rodney Green came up with the loose ball. The Lions ran off five plays before the quarter ended.

Each team had three possessions in the second quarter. The Lions had three punts and the Plowboys two. Roscoe fumbled on their second possession and Roby's Greg Meek recovered the loose ball for the Lions. The Plowboys had also returned one of the Lions punts for an apparent touchdown but a clipping penalty against the Plowboys nullified it. The first down plays, but both times the Lions defense stopped them short. Roby on their second possession tried to kick a field goal, but the attempt fell short. It was in the Lions next possession that the Lions heads-up playing pro-duced the only score of the game. Roby was on their 36 faced with a se-cond and eight, Roby's Rodney Green had made a good run for about twelve yards, but on the tackle the ball shot up into the air. Roby's Greg Meek, caught the fumble in the air and out ran the Plowboys defense to the end zone. The PAT kick was blocked, with fifteen seconds left in the third quarter, Roby led 6 to 0.

In the final quarter, the Lions defense played a strong game to give the Lions the victory. The Lions had three possessions in the fourth quarter, but never made a first down and punted three times. The Plowboys had four possessions and punted only once. Roscoe's first possession ended on that punt.

Their second possession started at the Lions 39 and on fourth and five could only make one, their third possession started at the Lions 47, they had moved to the 39, but then on a fourth and thirteen play, Roby's Marlon Terry hit on the Plowboy's quarterback caused a fumble and team mate Jeff Branson recovered the ball for the Lions. Then on the Plowboys last possession the Lions defense really shined. With just over a minute to play and no

Rotan Yellowhammers Suffer Loss To Munday Moguls 40-13

Rotan suffered a loss in her opening district game against the Munday Moguls with a final score of 40 to 13. Even though the score indicates a run away for the Moguls, Rotan's Yellowhammers played a fairly good game. With a typically slow first quarter for the Yellowhammers, Munday took advantage of good field position and scored three unanswered touchdowns. Rotan's best offer was during
