CONGRESS HALTED ON PROVISIONS OF FARM PROGRAM

Economic Interests Deadlock Pending Crop Control Measure

Signs of a break in the House deadlock and a partial clearing of the confusion of the special session appeared for the first time Wednesday.

The ever-conflicting economic interests of the industrial North and the agricultural South became involved in the controversy to an extent that at one time seemed to endanger both the wage-hour bill and the pending crop control measure.

Increasingly irritated at the Southern opposition, which with some assistance from other sections, has thus far successfully bottled the wage-hour bill in the Rules Committee, the Northerners threatened to sabotage the cotton provisions of the farm measure.

Belligerently opposed to the wage-hour measure on the ground it would remove existing North-South wage differentials to competitive disadvantage of the South, the Southern members were still forlornly hopeful a sufficient number of signatures could be obtained.

Meanwhile, the American Federation of Labor, which is opposed to many features of the wage-hour bill, announced a meeting of its executive council for Friday to draft proposed amendments.

While the off-the-floor conflict engrossed members of House and Senate alike both, chambers resounded to debate on the farm bill, the House concluding a general discussion of the measure, and the Senate hearing Oklahoma's version of what should be done for the farmer.

There, Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma occupied half the day with an exposition of the theory that if the buying power of money were shifted in accordance with the ups and downs of crop prices, the farmer's worries would disappear.

His colleague, Senator Josh Lee, took up the other half of the session with an argument for the domestic allotment plan, under which the farmer would receive such a cash subsidy on his crops as would cover the difference between their price on the market and predetermined level.

When the talk turns to weather years hence youngsters of today can remember the month of November, 1937 in Haskell as the "frosty month".

There were more days of frost during the month than in any November recorded by local weather bureau statisticians. Frost visited here seven times.

Also the month had a trace of snow which fell and quickly melted. This was outstanding for Haskell since snow in November is a rarity.

The lowest temperature recorded was 19 degrees. The maximum temperature was 85 degrees.

Partly cloudy weather hung over the city for 13 days during the month also unusual for November. The month was similar to last November and outside of the frost, snow and short cold spell really gave citizens nothing to kick about. Far different from most sections of the country November in Haskell usually is a pleasant month with real blizzards holding off until later state old-timers.

ATTRACTIONS FOR DECEMBER 22, 23, 24

Plan Christmas Celebration For Colored Children

Negro children who have been neglected during Christmas and many who have never known a Santa Claus will have the childish delight and joy of a real Christmas this year if the plans of two Haskell women are carried out.

A Christmas tree with a real jolly St. Nicholas for the colored children of Haskell Christmas eve night is planned by Mrs. Sam Herren assisted by Mrs. Kate Perdue and Mrs. Samuel Herren Jr. Each child will receive a five cent toy, and a gift sock of fruit, candy and nuts.

Contributions are asked for this cause that will make possible a happy Christmas that would otherwise be cheerless for many little darkies.

Each year charitable organizations see that all other needy families receive a Christmas cheer basket or other appropriate gifts. A small sum from a few Haskell citizens would make possible this celebration.

Donations may be left at the relief office or with Mrs. Herren.

Accident Fatal To Laddie Roberts On Hunting Trip

Funeral services were held from the Goree Methodist church Monday afternoon for Laddie Roberts, 31, of Goree who was killed Sunday while on a wolf hunt in the Swenson ranch.

Mr. Roberts was riding in the back of a pickup truck when the driver, Roy Mayo of Goree, swerved the vehicle to avoid a tree limb. Roberts fell out of the truck. A physician called from Goree pronounced him dead. His neck was broken at the base of the skull.

In the hunting party were Mayo, Jack Mayes, and Shelton Jones, all of Munday.

He is survived by his widow, three small children, his father and a sister, Cora Roberts of Olney and two brothers, Jack of Goree and Berd of Fort Sumner, N. M., and an uncle, Jeff Roberts of Goree.

31 Prisoners Are Held In County Jail This Month

During the month of November, unusually quiet for the sheriff's department at this time of the year, thirty-one prisoners were lodged in the county jail.

Several others who were arrested paid fines or made bond and were not placed in jail.

Most numerous charge was drunkenness, which included thirteen of the arrests, and others of vagrancy, simple assault, one murder charge and others.

Of this number seven were only held overnight for safekeeping for the State transport truck driven by Bud Russell who was transporting prisoners to the Huntsville penitentiary.

BROTHER OF HASKELL MEN INJURED AT CHICO

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Merchant of Weinert and Arthur Merchant of this city were called to the bedside of their brother, J. C. Merchant, in Chico the first of the week, who was critically injured when his team ran away and he was thrown from a wagon. The accident occurred Monday afternoon and the victim, who is 60 years of age, sustained a serious double fracture of the left hip. He will be remembered here by old-timers, having once resided in this section, moving to Chico in 1909.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Merchant returned home Thursday, but Arthur will remain with his brother for several days.

Survey Shows Prices Are Lower Here In Many Instances

Special events are planned for the holiday trade season before Christmas Day in Haskell. Additional street lights are to be purchased and added to those already on hand, which will be strung across the streets within a few days.

In an effort to make Haskell the most attractive festive city during the holiday period in West Texas merchants will decorate their store fronts with cedar and fir trees lighted in Christmas tree fashion.

Every home owner is urged to decorate shrubbery in his yard with colored lights, hand lighted wreaths in the windows and doors.

A survey of Haskell and surrounding towns and cities show that prevailing prices are as low locally and in many instances even lower. Christmas merchandise is also more complete in Haskell than in many other nearby places and business men are attempting to make this season's holiday gift stock the largest and with more variety than in many years.

SCHOLASTICS SHOW DECREASE OF 286 FOR 1937

New Families In County Will Almost Make Up Reduction

The net approved scholastics for Haskell county for the 1937-38 term is 4,582 pupils, 286 less than the scholastic enrollment in 1936, according to figures just released in the Public School Directory issued by the State Department of Education.

However this reduction of almost three hundred is made up partly by the number of new families that have moved into the county and actual enrollment will differ from last year's enrollment by only a few numbers.

Of this scholastic enrollment 285 are added transfers and 339 deducted transfers.

Valuation for 1937 is $100,804 at $22 per capita, an increase of $3 over last year which brings $7,312 more to the county.

In 1936 the scholastics were 4,868 with 331 transfers added and 390 deducted.

Funeral Services For R. Massie, Former Resident

Funeral services for Robert Massie, 76, former resident of Haskell, who died Saturday following a ten days critical illness, were conducted Sunday afternoon at the graveside in the Ioni cemetery in Palo Pinto county. Dr. Garrison, pastor of the First Christian church in Mineral Wells, in which Mr. Massie had been a leader and deacon during his nearly 20 years of residence there, held the service. Burial was made in the Ioni cemetery beside the grave of Mrs. Massie who died ten months ago.

Mr. Massie had been a resident of Haskell county for eleven years moving here in 1907 and living here until 1918 when he moved to Mineral Wells.

He is survived by five daughters and five sons: Mrs. Grace Littlepage, of Haskell; Mrs. W. F. Nollner, Abilene; Mrs. F. H. Lancaster, Royce City; Mrs. C. W. Presley, Conroe; Mrs. L. D. Throckmorton, Winter Haven, Cal.; J. W. and C. A. Massie, Haskell; L. Z. Massie, Duncan, Okla.; C. H. Massie, Abilene; Tom Massie, El Centro, Calif.

Two brothers S. J. and Dick Massie of McKinney, and two sisters, Mrs. M. S. Shook of Haskell, and Mrs. Jim Stith of McKinney, also survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Herren, Jr., and daughters and Mrs. Jesse L. Collier visited friends and relatives in Wichita Falls Sunday.

POSTMASTER URGES EARLY MAILING OF CHRISTMAS GIFTS

"Shop Early and Mail Early" Insure Prompt Delivery

Increase of approximately 200 per cent in volume of mail handled by the local post office during this season makes it imperative that Haskell citizens shop and mail Christmas presents, cards and letters early, postmaster J. M. Diggs said today.

Articles should be mailed at least a week or ten days before Christmas according to the distance. This policy will not only assure the gifts, letters and card of reaching their destination, but will help postal employees to spend the Christmas holidays with their families, Diggs declared.

In order to assure safe delivery and to speed up service the following suggestions have been offered by the post office department: Pack and wrap all packages securely. Use strong paper and heavy twine.

Address plainly and fully, preferably with typewriter or ink. Place return address in upper, left hand corner. If a tag is used, address should also be played on wrapper in event the former is lost.

No package may be more than 100 inches in length and girth combined nor exceed 70 pounds in weight.

Fragile articles must be securely packed and crated or boxed. All articles easily broken must be marked "Fragile".

Perishable articles should be so designated and must be wrapped accordingly. Anything likely to spoil during time of transit will not be accepted.

Diggs also said that all valuable mail should be registered or insured.

Drawings, paintings, unmounted maps, etc., should be packed or wrapped in strong material to avoid damage. When not flat, roll around a wooden core and then wrap and tie carefully or place in strong pasteboard tube.

Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks in handling or damage to other mail.

By shopping and mailing early gifts, greetings and letters to relatives, friends and loved ones may be sure of getting to them by Christmas.

Red Cross Roll Call Drive Only Half Completed

A check with chairmen of the annual Red Cross drive in Haskell county showed that the goal of a membership of one thousand has only been half reached and the drive will continue for a few more days until every person has been contacted, announced J. C. Davis, Red Cross Roll Call chairman.

In proportion to goal Weinert is ahead with $65 in memberships. Haskell solicitors report $135.00, O'Brien $40.00, and from the Sons of Herman benefit dance last week a total of $26.30 was given.

Money secured through the roll call will be expended for worthy causes as in the past. The local Red Cross Chapter in the past year aided many needy families, giving medical aid, transient aid, and groceries and clothing.

Agriculture Meet Is Scheduled For Saturday, Dec. 4

The Haskell County Agriculture association will have a called meeting in the court house at Haskell Saturday, December 4.

Selecting a delegate to attend the State meeting in Ft. Worth in the near future, will be the chief order of business.

Other routine matters will be taken up in the special meeting.

Located On Alexander Home Place West of Town

The Haskell County Commissioners' Court rescinded action taken November 8 to locate the County hospital on the east side of the city and moved the site to the west side on the Rule highway.

In the call meeting Thursday afternoon the Court moved the location by a vote of three to two. Those favoring the new site were R. H. Rife, O. H. Hutchens, and County Judge Chas. M. Conner. Negative votes were cast by P. G. Kendrick and Tom Mapes.

Because of an additional expenditure in the sum of approximately $3,600 for water, gas and sewer connections to the proposed site on the east side of the city Commissioners rescinded the order passed by them November 8. City officials explained that the necessary amount for utility connections was not available out of city funds.

At the new site all necessary connections are on the south side of the location, it is explained.

The hospital will be located on the former Alexander home place on the Rule highway, five blocks west of the square on a three and a half acre tract. The property was purchased for $750 and includes a house valued at $150 which will be razed and sold.

Construction of the $60,000 county hospital building will be started within the near future after contract has been let.

Issuance of $60,000 bonds was authorized by Haskell county voters in a county-wide election last July and bonds were sold at par and four and one-fourth per cent

CHRISTMAS TURKEY MARKET OPENS AT FOURTEEN CENTS

Comparatively Few Birds Left In County After Thanksgiving

Christmas turkey market opened for Haskell produce buyers Thursday with price for No. 1's at fourteen cents, same opening price as the Thanksgiving market.

Only twenty-five to thirty per cent as many turkeys will be placed on the Christmas market because the majority of birds were sold previously and a portion of local flocks are culls of lightweights and crooked breasts, report buyers.

During the Thanksgiving market more than 60,000 pounds were sold by farmers in this vicinity, bringing a cash income of more than $8,000 to owners. Other nearby market increased this amount several hundred dollars.

Price for No. 2 birds will be about half the market price for No. 1 tons and hens, state produce men.

Have We Learned Anything Since Year of 1917

Twenty years ago the United States was pulled into a world war which cost us sixty billion dollars, killed and injured thousands of our people, damaged our foreign trade, made a few war-time millionaires, and impoverished everybody else.

Today, two wars are going on in Europe and one in Asia. Either may involve the United States unless we Americans show more sense than we did twenty years ago.

In spite of fact that no great power probably wants a world war, they may stumble into one. A submarine incident in the Mediterranean, another careless bomb dropped in China, may bring on the conflict.

Can United States stay out? Everybody says "yes". But some say "yes—but".

Among the enemies of neutrality are some people who want to make the world safe for democracy again; some who have invested their money abroad instead of at home, and want the army and navy to protect their profits; some who are devotees of "national honor"; and some want to make profits out of the war trade.

Can the United States stay neutral, in spite of these influences?

The business and trade of many people are injured by a policy of neutrality, but let's be willing to pay the costs of neutrality. They are heavy, but nothing to the costs of war.

This year is the 20th anniversary of the entrance of United States into one world war. Let us not permit it to mark our entrances into another. We, the students of high school, can help prevent our entrance into another war by talking and thinking peace.

We Lost—Yet Won

Last Thanksgiving Day our Haskell football team lost to the Stamford Bulldogs with a score of 27-0. That was tough luck and we wish it hadn't happened but since it did we believe we have shown a better spirit than has ever been seen in this district. Our Pep Squad showed their spirit by the way they marched after the game. As far as we know there have been no hard feelings on our part as to the score of the game. Since we lost to Stamford we wish them luck when they play Burk. So here's to a score like they piled up on us.

Pep Squad Gives Star Performances

The pep squad with their sponsor has probably been the busiest and most enthusiastic group in high school for the past three months. Not for one minute did they forget that they were the "power behind the team." Hard work was their motto and they certainly lived up to it. As a result of this work, a beautiful and impressive field stunt was given between halves of the Stamford-Haskell football game on Thanksgiving. Haskell high school was proud to say that they were her very own. Tired as they were they kept up the spirit and marched around the Stamford square after the game. The squad's feathers were torn away and their war-paint was smudged, but nevertheless the spirit was still there and we're already thinking of "Bulldog Meat" for the next football season.

Ray for our Pep Squad!

Indians Again Lose To Stamford

Repeating their performance of 1936, and with an increased score, the Stamford Bulldogs chewed the Haskell warriors to a 27-0 victory Thursday evening. The battle took place before a full grandstand of about 3,000 spectators. By winning the game Stamford retained her crown as champion of District 9-B.

We are not making any excuses for our boys at all. They fought a fair fight and lost. We are still backing them to the very last; and as we are losing only four of our lettermen, maybe it will be the Indians instead of the Bulldogs who play Burkburnett for the championship of the bi-district.

But as we have lost we shall take it like true sportsmen. Friday evening of this week when Stamford plays at Burkburnett we will be rooting for them to win. So here's luck and may the best team be the victor.

Random Remarks

It does seem such a shame to come back to school after so much excitement. But it won't be very long before the Christmas holidays turn up and after that school will be half over for the year.

Jerry C. don't you know better than to get caught reading a funny paper in Mr. Wimbish's study?

Haskell boys who think they have been putting something over on Haskell girls by going with Stamford girls had better look around and see how many Haskell girls have been stepping out with these Stamford gents. Just who started all this any how? A little bird told us it was the Stamford boys who made the first journey over here to see our Haskell girls.

With all of the ex-students home for the holidays Haskell seemed a different place and those seniors who had been feeling on the top of the world found out they still have something to look forward to.

Freshmen Facts

Only fifteen out of the seventy-five freshmen have had dates. Some higher high school students are looking at Bob C. kinda well you know these days.

Buna Faye R. has a permanent. A certain sophomore girl thinks Roy P. is about the "cutest thing out."

Some of the freshmen girls are in style but don't realize it. Point—They wear their dresses above their knees.

Ella Mae B. wishes a certain junior boy would ask her for a date. Somebody said it was Garland W.

Some old high school students have found out that Billy K. is still as mean as in their young days.

Mildred M. has a boy friend but he doesn't know it. (Could it be Marion J.?)

Fayette K. and Mildred K. must be getting popular with these Stamford boys. (How about it?)

We see that Mary Retta F. is wearing a boy's ring. (Whose is it Mary Retta?)

Apropos To Nothing

Formerly when students were absent the Monday following Thanksgiving the old line was—"Too much turkey." Now without a doubt it's "Too much Bulldog!"

"For want of a nail the battle was lost." Modern version: Because of a cow the car was lost. (As one of the teachers will verify).

Now that Thanksgiving is over let's "Get ready for Christmas" supplemented one bright student.

(The casual observer): "There certainly are a large number of mice in this modern school." If, however he had looked closer, he would have found someone breaking in a new pair of shoes.

Sweet Defeat

Fame, fortune—and victory are very elusive things. When we almost have them in our hands they, like quicksilver or a gelatine dessert, slip blithely away and flaunt in our very faces as we futilely grasp for them. Such is life.

Yet there are other things besides victory, yes many. The following poem will give a glimpse of what is meant:

When the one Great Scorer goes To write against your name, He writes not if you won or lost, But how you played the game.

Think on these lines and gain the deep significance of them. The bitter word "defeat" need not be so if the game has been played fairly and squarely. Instead one can give a sigh of satisfaction and face the world saying "I did my best."

My Ideal Girl

Have you an ideal? I have one. So that you may see her and try to benefit from her, I present her to you—My Ideal!

One first notices her cheery smile. It fills us with sunshine and helps us forget our worldly worries. Then we notice that she is neither a fragile, timid soul or a rough tomboy.

She is truly graceful. Her poise lends charm. She has no striking beauty but this she has: a clear skin with just a touch of make-up; well groomed hair; white, even teeth and sparkling eyes. Her hands are soft and smooth, with carefully manicured fingernails.

What sensible clothes she has on her trim figure! Though they are smart, they are not designed to attract attention, but to fit her and her personality too.

We can tell from her appearance that she has perfect health and enjoys exercise.

You are not expected to be able to read all her character by looking at her, so I shall tell you most of her qualities.

She is the kind of girl who follows upward paths, seeking light all the way.

This ideal girl is thoughtful of other people. Forgetting her selfish desires, she turns to helping others. All know she can be depended upon to do as she says.

She finds it interesting to get acquainted with people, and easily gains the confidence of new friends retaining steadfast old ones.

My ideal strives to gain knowledge. Even a little days lifts her up a little higher and pushes the horizons farther away.

She has a sense of humor of the right kind, and finds a humorous glint in many a dull topic or piece of work.

Gossip passes by, and she pays no attention to it.

She is a creature full of life. One feels invigorated through association with her, though she seems to be making no effort to appear full of pep.

She has a love for beauty of all kinds.

Lastly, this lovely ideal has a definite purpose in life. She will work on and on until she reaches her goal, for she knows that she was created by God, and she wants to make Him pleased with her.

This is my ideal. Do you know her?

Campus Spotlight

It's been so long since this Column was printed. That by this time the children have repented, So we'll write this column, not For the news, But to make you watch your P's and Q's.

It seems to make the girls here a little hot when the boys keep going to Stamford. We wonder why?—I'll tell ya—it's because its Foy McKinnon, Eugene Rogers, Marion Jossett and oh! a number of others.

What's the matter with Bidge Meadors that he walks around with his hands in his pockets mumbling about Fort Worth.—I'll give you two guesses.

I wish to correct a statement that was made after our bonfire was burned. A certain party called it a case of "Sampson and Delilah" but I assure you it was nothing on that order—it was a plain case of "You come go—there's plenty left."

There is a certain girl in this town that certainly is pushin' the "Old Boy Around". See if you can guess—I'll bet you a certain long black car could do it—if it could talk.

Since when does Ruby Sue Persons drive other boy's cars around.—Especially when the boy and another girl are in the back seat.

Bonnie Dell Hisey says she gets mad at her trombone (a horn) because it punches out her lips.—What more could a boy want.

Talkin' about Stamford: Foy and Eugene seem to be in doubts as to which one will get the girl—they both have the same one.

Bigger and Better Bonfire Is Built

Our bonfire was burned Tuesday night. Wednesday morning when we came to school there was such a hub-bub of voices coming from the study hall that you could tell at once that everyone knew what had happened and were eager to do something about it.

They did do something about it. Mr. Breedlove took charge and we held an assembly that wasn't a pep rally but it was as good as one. The students agreed to rebuild the bonfire and go ahead with the original plan of burn it at the pep rally. Also the students agreed to stand by our football boys whether they won or lost and pledged themselves not to go to Stamford and take vengeance before the game.

The boys were divided into groups and went out in trucks, cars and cars with trailers to bring back material for the fire. In less than thirty minutes one truck was already back, ready to unload.

The material was piled on the ground and later in the day every high school student was allowed to do his part in rebuilding the bonfire.

The spirit with which the students went to work was especially noticeable. They were for Haskell and for its football players in every way. Although Stamford was able to burn the first bonfire and to later defeat us on the football field they did not win a victory over the school spirit of Haskell High School.

Over The Te

Sleepy voice over the last Wednesday morning (Jo's) "Louise did you know Louise is gone?"

Louise: (Excited) "Where?"

Eager voice over the phone. (Some man's) "Wimbish I have a truck use, and I'll drive it for you."

Interested voice over telephone (voice of man): "I've a big pile be glad for them to office telephone (And voice): "I have a truck you use."

And so on through More phone calls, more trucks, more trucks and brush.

FORD offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance—but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence—on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line. The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments all around.

De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors—with a choice of engine sizes—85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost. With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford car to fit your needs exactly.

PRICES FOR CARS DELIVERED DETROIT—TAXES EX.

Health-Wrecking Functional PAINS
Severe functional pains of menstruation, cramping spells and jagged nerves soon rob a woman of her natural, youthful freshness. PAIN lines in a woman's face too often grow into AGE lines!
Thousands of women have found it helpful to take Cardul. They say it seemed to ease their pains, and they noticed an increase in their appetites and finally a strengthened resistance to the discomfort of monthly periods.
Try Cardul. Of course if it doesn't help you, see your doctor.

For a child is an inventor. The child needs toys to promote success in routine activities such as small table, chairs and books. Every child should have a part in the home.

Hutto H. D. Club News

Never read to your child but with him and always discuss the story afterwards as this will help to develop his interest in better literature by wanting to read what mother or dad likes. In continuing the program Mrs. Cummings read. Don't select all of their reading material but try to interest them in the best. Never point out a moral to the child as his naturally has the obits effect. Many other do's and don'ts were read after which the subject was brought to a round table discussion. Mrs. Bill White stated: "To always read and let your child read something that is under your knowledge, something that is easy to read where you can fully understand. Then as you grow your knowledge grows and so does your reading."

The O'Brien Home Demonstration Club

Children are such omnivorous readers that teachers and parents are constantly at their wit's end in naming enough books to supply their demands, stated Mrs. Dickson to O'Brien club members at the club house Nov. 24.

In continuing program Mrs. Dickson said "The one literature that supremely adopted to its purpose is the collection of rhymes associate with Mother Goose. To every child it comes with irresistible appeal.

It has a power so natural and fundamental that it defies explanation. The child takes it for granted just as he does his parents. While much of it is known to children long before they enter school these jingles like all folk literature never lose their charm through repetition.

If we have no love for poetry today it may not possibly be due to the fact that we have ceased to prize the old, old tales which have been the delight of the child and childman since the foundation of the world. All the evidence shows that Mother Goose as the name of the familiar old lady of the nursery came to us from France.

Those attending were Mesdames R. T. Carney, E. C. Westerman, C. M. Walsworth, Tom Link and Birdie Dickson.

Should Not Be Heated In Winter Months

The weather on its way to time to think about winter during the winter months," states Dr. Geo. Health Officer.

There is evidence that thousands of people are constantly being chilled during the winter. In fact, many tolerate an indoor temperature during the cold weather which they would not tolerate in the summer. Persons are not only chilled with their feet, but are endangering their health," Dr. Cox continues.

Modern Mine May Tap Gold of Inca Kings

LA PAZ, Bolivia.—A rich gold mine in the jungle-covered valley of the little Tipuani river, unworked for about 200 years, will be revived soon under a scheme calling for the transportation of 1,000,000 pounds of mining equipment by air over the four-mile-high Bolivian Andes.

Owners of the mining property, the Campania Aramayo de Mines en Bolive, have signed one of the biggest air-freight contracts in the history of aviation, hoping thereby to release a rich flood of precious yellow metal which untold centuries ago poured from the depths of the "jungle valley" to the throne of the mighty Inca kings and in the 16th century was diverted by the Spanish Conquistadores to the court of Seville.

Pan-American Grace Airways, an American concern, began transportation of the machinery at the rate of 10,000 pounds a day on Nov. 2, 1937, utilizing a tri-motored transport plane especially reconstructed to handle the heavy machinery. This plane completes the trip to the Tipuani valley within twenty-eight minutes, compared to 10 days on the mountain trails.

Worked Once By Slaves With the end of slavery in Bolivia came the end of mining along the "golden river." Through the past 200 years the trail over the Andean barrier used by the Incas and the Conquistadores has been lost. So inaccessible is the site, so treacherous the only path through the Andean peaks that only slave labor could make the project go.

Conditions are so difficult that free men would neither work the mines nor submit to the tortures of transporting the ore across the mountains.

It is believed that aviation will solve the problem. Plans of the controlling interests are to transport trained mining personnel as well as equipment to the valley with actual mining operations to be started within a week of the time that the last of the machinery reaches its destination.

Burros and Llamas Tried Some progress was made in the opening of the Andean mines by developing the technique of burro transportation, and also by using llamas. A breed of "supercharged" burros was brought into being. The burros were provided with extra set of holes being opened in the nasal cavity when they were young.

But a burro, carrying a maximum of 60 pounds on its back, could not make the trip in less than 20 days, and some of the individual pieces required for compressors and other machinery weigh up to 1,800 pounds. Thus aviation was given the job. The freight plane must fly 18,000 feet above sea level over the Cordillera. At the end of the trip there is a narrow valley choked with heavy jungles.

One hundred flying days, it was said, will be necessary to complete transportation of the equipment.

Life Hazards At Grade Crossings To Be Eliminated

The old adage that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure is being applied by the Texas Highway Department and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads to make highways safer for the traveling public according to an article, "Toward Greater Safety", contributed by Charles E. Simons to the November issue of Texas Parade.

"The best method yet devised to prevent collisions between a motor vehicle and a locomotive at a railroad grade crossing is forsooth, to eliminate the grade crossing," says Mr. Simons. "And that briefly is what these two units of government are doing in so far as funds are available.

"Figures compiled by a national safety organization disclose that approximately 2,000 or 2,500 persons lost their lives in collisions at railroad grade crossings last year. A like or perhaps larger number will lose their lives under similar circumstances in 1937, due to increased motor travel and faster train schedules. This does not take into consideration the thousands that were permanently crippled or injured and the additional thousands that suffered only temporary hurts. The property damage, both real and human caused in these scores of needless "accidents" will off-set many times the cost of providing grade separations at the most dangerous crossings.

"During each of the next two years the federal government has made an extra allocation of $2,724,825 to Texas to finance railroad grade separations and install warnings and other preventive devices at railroad grade crossings having a bad accident record. The Texas Highway Department will furnish the plans, specifications, award the contracts and supervise their construction and installation.

The ordinary practice followed in eliminating grade separations is to construct either an overpass or an underpass. In the main, this procedure will be followed in Texas, although there will be an important variation in that, for the first time in the history of the relationship between the two departments, Texas has been granted permission in a few instances to relocate railroads to eliminate the necessity for a crossing at grade.

BIGGEST COTTON CROP

(Semi-Weekly Farm News)

With the biggest cotton crop in American history—now officially estimated at 18,243,000 bales—on its way to market, the need for a sound permanent policy is seen more clearly than ever. Relaxation of crop reduction measures used earlier in the Roosevelt administration is one of the several factors that has brought the present bumper crop with its consequent sharp drop in price. If it were not for the bolstering effect of the Federal loan, the price of cotton would drop to a still lower level, approaching that of the worst depression years.

Formulation of a cotton control plan to meet the present situation is one of the most baffling farm problems now confronting Congress. A satisfactory plan, as Henry A. Wallace readily admits, must take cognizance of the need to preserve American cotton markets. Yet it must insure against the recurrence of disastrously low depression prices that spell ruin for thousands of Southern farmers.

Many Southern farm leaders have become reconciled to a partial loss of foreign markets as inevitable and probably permanent. The Nation can not safely accept complete loss which adherence to mere acreage reduction would practically assure. There are, entirely aside from American cotton policies, economic and political factors that have been driving certain other countries to increased cotton output. This increase, in some instances, began long before the AAA was born. Russia, seeking self sufficiency and having little money for imports, began to expand her cotton production in 1921; and China followed in 1926. Brazil's cotton acreage fluctuates largely with the price of coffee. Use of American cotton has been declining in Great Britain since 1924, in Germany since 1927, in India since 1926 and in China since 1931. Still world production figures and our export totals show that most of our declining markets are coincident with AAA.

When the matter of American cotton acreage is decided upon, there still will be the problem of using the remaining acreage. Care must be taken to avoid a policy that might bring overproduction in some other major farm product. Some degree of diversification is essential, however, if the average cotton farmer is to receive a price above his cost of production.

A group of young women in Oklahoma City have organized the S. F. P. O. M. M. P. A. B., which being interpreted means the Society for the Prevention of Married Men Posing as Bachelors, and its object is to compel all married men to wear wedding rings. The girls say they have no time to waste on bachelors.

DRIVER UNDER CONTROL

(Fort Worth Star-Telegram)

Accompanying the Fall report of the State Department of Public Safety showing 1,241 traffic deaths and 9,784 injured since January 1, Col. H. H. Carmichael, department director, declared that four-fifths of the crashes were caused by excessive speed on the highway.

Glass-smooth pavements, the ability of the modern automobile to run as easily at 60 miles per hour as the old one did at 30, and the human propensity for excitement and thrills to the point of recklessness have all figured as factors in the traffic toll. Good brakes, easy steering and other mechanical improvements on the automobile have been both an element for safety and a temptation for reckless driving.

Where the danger comes in at excessive speeds is when the driver must be the controlling factor for safety. When he sees an object in the road, a curve or other traffic hazard, the driver then must act. This has been described as driver reaction, which at high speed must be practically instantaneous reflex movements almost before the mind takes in the situation fully.

Therefore, the motorist for his own life primarily must never let himself get into a spot on the highways where he is not sure that he can extricate himself. In other words, the safety problem is primarily keeping the driver more than the car under control. Colonel Carmichael's findings on the danger of speed are supported by statements in safety campaigns currently conducted by many national magazines.

PAY FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

A movement is now on foot among certain New Dealers according to reports from Washington, to start a general revision upward in the salaries of top government employees. It is argued that a great many high officials recently have been lured out of government service by offers of more money in private industry; to be served well, it is urged, Uncle Sam must pay salaries commensurate with those obtainable outside.

In some ways that is quite logical. Let it be doubtful if government ever can compete for the services of gifted men on a purely financial basis; it is even doubtful if it should provided that it could.

Suppose for instance that salaries of congressmen and senators were boosted—as has been suggested—from $10,000 to $25,000 a year. Would we be any more likely to get unselfish statesmen who served the nation rather than special interests? It seems obvious that we would not. For a man who is willing to devote his career to public service, in the larger sense, it is not activated by a desire for wealth.

TOOTHACHE HITS CHIEFS

Toothache is no respecter of persons, and a few days ago President Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner were both suffering from this distressing ailment at the same time, the former losing one tooth and the latter two.

A recent bulletin of the Dental Institute of America warns against neglecting a toothache, which is nature's signal that even more serious trouble may lie ahead. The bulletin points out that a sound tooth seldom causes pain, but when a sharp disturbance occurs it means the exposure of a nerve, usually due to decay. It adds:

"The live, soft tissue of a tooth is known as pulp. It consists of the nerve and blood vessels as well as the soft tissues lining the insire of the tooth. When there is exposure or decay, the pulp becomes infected and the process of decomposition sets in rapidly."

If neglected, the decay continues into the nerve which dies from infection and the germs reach the nerve canal which goes all the way to the end of the root, causing more pain and inflammation. Dead teeth usually become discolored and there is danger of abscess formation at the root.

Proper cleaning at least twice a day and regular dental supervision alone can solve the problem of tooth decay. The filling of cavities before the nerve is affected will keep the teeth alive and healthy.

Scarlet Fever Cases Increase During Winter

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, has just issued a warning in regard to scarlet fever, as the number of cases reported in Texas are increasing rapidly. Last year nearly three thousand cases were reported—the majority occurring from November through February.

Scarlet fever is a very contagious and serious disease. Grown people may catch scarlet fever, but children under 15 years are mostly likely to have it, if exposed. It is especially dangerous for children under five years, and for babies. Do not let your children take any chances with scarlet fever. Call the doctor as soon as the symptoms appear.

If your child is going to have scarlet fever the first signs you may notice are that he seems tired, restless and out of sorts. Usually, there is a sore throat, chill, vomiting or convulsion. The child has fever. His skin is dry and hot. His tongue is furred and red. His white covering, it is red and swollen. In ordinary cases, these early signs are followed in a day or two by a rash. Little flat red points, close together, appear first on the neck and chest. Soon the rash is over most of the body and brilliant in color. The doctor is required by law to report the case to the local health officer. Do your part by following carefully the quarantine instructions which the health officer will give you. Children who have had scarlet fever, or who have been exposed, must not return to school until permission is given by the health officer and physician. A severe or fatal case of scarlet fever may develop from contact with some one who has only a light attack.

Sermon: "Will The Church Fail?"
Evening Worship—7:15 p. m.

The morning sermon is a timely subject for this hour. Many destructive and evil forces are threatening the church of today. Will the church be able to continue to meet the testings it must face or will it fail?

The ladies missionary society will be in charge of the evening services. A short talk will be made by the minister.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services and to meet the new minister.

Rip (In the insane asylum) sat fishing over a flower bed. A visitor, wishing to be friendly walked up and said:
"How many have you caught today?"
"You're the ninth," replied Rip.

interest to the highest bidder almost two months ago.

Preliminary selection for the site was first made by Commissioners' Court in a meeting November 8, but after city officials estimated that it would cost $3,600 for connections to the old east ward school building and citizens had protested the location further action was not taken on the proposed site until Thursday.

Hunters Reminded Of Closed Quail Season In County

The six weeks season on quail begins Friday for hunters in surrounding counties but to local hunters there will be no hunting for the elusive birds in Haskell county because of a closed season.

Several hunters here with their bird dogs are hunting in nearby counties and report quails plentiful.

Game wardens warn hunters of the new law permitting use of guns holding no more than three shells for, they say, "Unquestionably, the man who shoots more than three times will wound some birds that he never will recover, and many of the better shots use a double barreled gun, holding only two shells."

The season in nearby counties closes after January 16.

Seats For New H. S. Auditorium Are Ordered

Interior finishing work on the high school auditorium was almost complete this week and seats for the building have already been ordered.

The seats which will be installed as soon as they arrive are expected to be here by January 1, and by that time all finishing work will be complete.

The auditorium will have a larger seating capacity than the auditorium in the old school building. Three hundred and fifty seats have been ordered. Total attendance in high school is not quite three hundred so the capacity of the building will be more than large enough for the present needs of the school.

CHURCH OF CHRIST TO FEED FIFTEEN FAMILIES

The Church of Christ is making arrangements to give food, comfort and cheer to fifteen families for Christmas. Not all these families are connected with this church. They believe in caring first for their own members, but they also believe in caring for others as far as possible. A few more families can be cared for by this congregation. Application should be made to Mr. Horace O'Neal.

This church believes in strict adherence to Paul's injunction to the church of the Colossians; "And whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." (Col. 3: 17). They have no societies in the church, for they believe the church itself is a charity organization, and also a missionary society. However, the committee acting for the church have checked with committees of other organization to avoid duplications and to see that no one is slighted. They will check again, if necessary, when other applications for help are received.

All regular services next Lord's day at usual hours, with preaching at eleven and seven-thirty. They will appreciate your visiting their services. J. G. Malphurs.

Haskell Band Plays For Stamford At Rally Thursday

The true sportsmanship of the Haskell high school was shown Thursday night when the school band played for the Stamford pep rally preceding the Bulldog-Burkburnett bi-district football game Friday.

The Stamford school and band invited the group to play with their band at the pep rally and bonfire held at the Stamford high school Thursday night and Joe Meacham, director, accepted the invitation.

The Haskell band played at the bi-district championship game last season for Stamford when they were defeated by Burkburnett. Stamford was without a band until one was recently organized this school term.
