C OF C DIRECTORS HEAR REPORTS ON PROGRESS AT MEET

Goals Outlined in Program For Year Discussed By Directors

Regular monthly meeting of directors of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday evening with the following directors present: Dr. T. W. Williams, president; D. H. Persons, H. C. King, Guy Collins, T. C. Cahill, Chasley Phelps, O. E. Patterson, Sam A. Roberts, A. M. Turner, John A. Couch and Courtney Hunt. County Agent B. W. Chesser and H. T. Sullivan, Vocational Agriculture teacher in Haskell High School and secretary of the Fair Association, were also in attendance.

Courtney Hunt, Haskell's director in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, gave a full report of activities of the Brownwood convention of the regional organization.

Sam A. Roberts, chairman of the Trade Extension committee, told directors of the hearty approval voiced by participating merchants in the Weekly Trades Days being held in Haskell. The weekly events will be continued, he said, following action taken at a called meeting of merchants held earlier in the day.

County Agent Chesser and Mr. Phelps in brief talks discussed the possibilities for establishing a meat curing plant in Haskell, to be used by farmers and others in utilizing home-grown meats. This project was included in the 1937 program of attainments outlined by the Chamber of Commerce, and has the endorsement of the organization.

Mr. Sullivan and Dr. Williams gave a brief outline of progress being made in encouraging the development of dairying in the Haskell trade territory.

Progress on Highway 120—another objective of the 1937 C. O. C. program—was discussed by O. E. Patterson and T. C. Cahill. Assurance that the highway would be completed through cooperation with State Highway officials and government agencies was voiced by the committeemen.

Secretary Duncan reported a healthy growth in membership of the local organization, stating that fifteen new members had been added during the months of April and May.

Gravely Ill, Is Removed to Home of Parents

Mrs. Glenn Merchant, who has been gravely ill for the past week was removed from her home three miles east of Haskell to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Boggs in this city Thursday morning in a Holden ambulance.

FAKE ADVERTISING SCHEMES WILL BE OUTLAWED BY C. C.

Directors Vote to Refer "Fly-By-Night" Solicitors To Committee

In the future, solicitors for advertising schemes or persons seeking contributions from business firms of Haskell on similar propositions, especially strangers should have the approval of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce if they expect to receive support of members of the organization.

The decision was made at a meeting of directors of the organization in their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon, after it had been pointed out that in the past, business establishments have been frequently solicited for advertising on billboards, out-of-town advertising leaflets of varied nature, and for donations to causes entirely foreign to local business interests. These "fly-by-night" solicitors cost Haskell merchants several hundred dollars annually, it was estimated.

Object of the local C. O. C. is to discourage all undesirable solicitors, it was explained. Full cooperation will be given all legitimate advertising propositions or contributions to any worthy cause in the interest of Haskell and this section.

Three members of the Chamber of Commerce have been designated as a committee to investigate and pass on all propositions of this nature. Any business firm approached for a donation or contribution to some cause by a stranger can readily ascertain from the C. O. C. whether or not the movement has the approval of the organization.

Additional H. D. Clubs Organized In County Monday

Two additional Home Demonstration Clubs were organized in Haskell county this week, according to Miss Mildred Vaughan, county home demonstration agent.

Miss Vaughan met with a group of interested farm women in the Lone Star community Monday afternoon, where the Lone Star Home Demonstration Club was organized.

On Tuesday afternoon women of the Four Corners community voted to form a Home Demonstration Club after Miss Vaughan had explained the purposes and work being carried on in the county.

First regular meeting of the Lone Star Club will be held in the home of Mrs. H. C. Cantrell on Monday afternoon May 31 at 2:30 o'clock.

'Bargain' Price Offered Haskell Fiesta Patrons

Through special arrangement with the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, a limited number of admission tickets to Fiesta attractions will be available in this city at a discount of approximately 50 per cent.

W. H. Fox, field representative for the Fiesta, was in Haskell Monday and explained that the regular $5.50 books of admission tickets could be sold here through the Chamber of Commerce for $3.00 each. The offer will expire June 25th.

Mr. Fox explained that the special offer was made in order that persons contemplating attending the Fiesta on Haskell Day, July 16th, could considerable reduction in advance at the regular price.

A canvass of the business district will be made within the next week or ten days to acquaint all prospective Fiesta visitors with the special offer.

FAIR DIRECTORS MAP PRELIMINARY PLANS FOR 1937 EXPOSITION

Dates May Be Changed In Order To Secure Major Attractions

Laying the groundwork for an early start on plans for a successful Central West Texas Fair this fall, directors of the fair association met Wednesday morning in the Chamber of Commerce office. Progress being made toward staging of automobile races here July 3 and 4th was also discussed during the meeting, and Gene Tonn outlined publicity plans contemplated in advertising the race meet.

May Change Fair Dates

Dates for the 1937 Fair have been tentatively set for the week of October 13-16 inclusive, directors were told, but a change in dates appears likely in order to secure a desirable carnival and amusement attraction contract. The Central West Texas Fair Association through affiliation with the Texas Association of Fairs, will be in position to secure one of several of the largest carnival companies touring the South, it was pointed out during the meeting if suitable dates can be arranged. Negotiations with a desirable company will be directed by a committee composed of Dr. T. W. Williams, D. H. Persons and R. C. Lowe.

Sale of concessions and the types to be allowed on the midway will be in charge of a committee composed of T. C. Cahill, Ralph Duncan, and B. C. Chapman.

Work of compiling the 1937 catalogue and premium list will be started at an early date. Members of a committee to direct sale of catalogue advertising are Ralph Duncan, Theron Cahill and Sam A. Roberts.

Department superintendents for the various divisions will be named soon by County Agent B. W. Chesser, Miss Mildred Vaughan, Home Demonstration agent, and H. T. Sullivan, Fair Secretary. This committee will also revise and compile the premium list for (Continued on Page Eight)

OUTLINE COUNTY WELFARE PROGRAM AT MEETING HERE

Relief Situation Is Now In Hands of Citizenship and Civic Organizations

Representatives from practically every town in the county were present at a meeting in the District Courtroom Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock when plans and needs of a County Welfare Board was explained by several speakers.

Rev. David L. Stitt acted as chairman in the absence of Judge L. D. Ratliff and outlined the history of the Relief program in Haskell County.

Rev. Roy Shahan of Rule was introduced and he explained the three-fold purpose of the work to be done in the county, as outlined by the Board.

County Attorney Walter Murchison explained a plan that has been suggested to carry out the proposed program.

County Judge Charlie Conner made an appeal to the citizenship to support the work of the Board in every way possible.

The County Welfare Board is composed of Judge L. D. Ratliff, Dr. James F. Cadenhead, Weinert, Bob Speck, Rochester; Mr. D. P. Fuller, Rule; Mrs. Sam P. Herren, Haskell; Mrs. R. N. Huckabee, Haskell; and Rev. David L. Stitt, Haskell.

The relief situation is now entirely in the hands of the citizenship of the county and it is up to the people and the different clubs, churches, and other organizations to handle the program.

The Board requests that before anyone is given assistance that the care be referred to Mrs. Kate Perdue at the relief office in Haskell. This request is made in order to keep some people from receiving help from several organizations, while others badly in need of assistance were going without help.

Showers Tuesday Accompanied By A Flurry of Hail

Hard showers that fell early Tuesday morning and again shortly before midnight brought precipitation of slightly over one-half inch to this immediate vicinity. Total precipitation during the 24 hour period was gauged at .55 of an inch, and boosted the total for the year to 4.66 inches—several inches under the ten-year average.

Rain Tuesday night was accompanied by a flurry of hail, but very little damage was reported in the area. Heaviest hail was centered within the city limits.

C. C. Secretary To Attend State Manager's School

Banks to Observe Legal Holiday On Monday May 31st

Monday May 31st will be observed as a legal holiday by both Haskell banks in observance of Decoration Day, which falls on Sunday May 30th this year.

Both institutions ask that their patrons, especially the business firms, keep the holiday date in mind to avoid any inconvenience in business transactions because of the two days the banks will be closed—Sunday and Monday.

Miss Mary Ben Chapman left Wednesday for Weatherford for a few days visit with relatives.

Grain Men Predict Average Yield of 12 Bushels For County's Wheat Crop

First load of grain from the estimated yield of 200,000 bushels of wheat in Haskell's immediate trade territory was received in this city late Thursday afternoon when Seets Cox, farmer residing southeast of Haskell brought in a load of 5,222 pounds of wheat. It was the first cutting from a portion of a 42-acre field of wheat which is ripening rapidly, Mr. Cox stated.

The wheat sold to the Haskell Mill & Elevator Company for $1.02 per bushel on a test of 56. This was a premium of two cents above the quoted market price for the day, the buyers stated, Mr.

First Oats of Season Average 42 Bu. To Acre

Yield of 42 bushels per acre was reported for the first oats harvested in this section from the 1937 crop Monday by J. L. Tubbs, manager of the Haskell Laundry.

Combined from a fifteen acre field on the Tubbs farm west of Haskell, the oats tested 31 pounds per bushel, and were sold to a Haskell buyer.

Cox stated that the wheat was averaging 12 bushels to the acre, and he expects to continue combining until his crop of 80 acres in wheat is harvested.

Harvesting of volunteer oats, and in some cases early Fall oats has been under way since the first of the week, but majority of wheatfields in the county will not be ripened sufficiently for combines to enter before Monday, local grain buyers believe. Grain harvesting should be in full swing by the middle of the coming week, it was predicted.

Average yield per acre of wheat for the entire county, based on an estimated yield from 40,000 acres, (Continued on Page Eight)

DISTRICT COURT TERM UNDER WAY AT ASPERMONT

Felony Indictments Voted By Grand Jury Only Criminal Cases On Docket

Regular May term of District Court for Stonewall county was convened Monday morning by District Judge Ratliff, who with District Attorney Ben Charlie Chapman and John Willoughby, court reporter, spent the first two days of the week in Aspermont. Grand Jury impaneled for the term recessed Tuesday afternoon, reporting ten felony indictments—five each against two defendants—only criminal cases on the docket for the term, according to court records.

Four Divorces Granted

Four divorce cases were disposed of during Monday's court session at Aspermont and hearing of several civil actions was set for next week. Docket for the term is unusually light and will be practically cleared during the current three-weeks session, court officials anticipated.

Cotton Theft Charged

In the indictments voted by the Stonewall county Grand Jury Tuesday, C. T. Stinson of Hillsboro and V. L. Harrington of Chillicothe were charged with theft of ten bales of cotton from the Aspermont cotton yard last fall. Each of the principals was named in five indictments.

According to Sheriff Brooks Elision the stolen cotton was located in Houston, and both Stinson and Harrington gave statements to officers admitting their connection with the theft. Likewise, both of the defendants are already under penitentiary sentences for similar thefts in other West Texas towns, according to District Attorney Chapman. Stinson is confined in the Hillsboro, Texas, jail and a bench warrant for his removal to Aspermont for trial was issued by District Judge Ratliff Tuesday. Harrington is in the Aspermont jail. Trial of their cases has been set for Monday, May 31.

Hear Abston Motion

Judge Ratliff and district attorney Chapman were in Clairmont Thursday for a hearing on motion for new trial filed by Clarence (Puny) Abston, recently given a fifty-year sentence on conviction for murder. Abston has been held in the Roby jail since his last trial.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Duncan accompanied Mrs. Leo Duncan and children to their home in Sherman Wednesday after several days visit here.

Appreciation and Apology

Last year at the close of school a representative of the school published an expression of appreciation to the people of the churches for the use of their buildings. We could not foresee, at that time, that our use of these buildings would be prolonged throughout this year. Now at the close of this year again we say "thank you." There is something else we need to say, too, for we are leaving our marks—ink on the floor, scratches on seats, broken-down chairs and pews, marks where oiled heads of leaved against the walls, pencil marks where they don't belong, and patins on the lawn.

Some of these marks are the natural consequences of daily constant use by three hundred students—and for them we are sorry. Others—shame to say it—have been the results of thoughtlessness and carelessness. Some marks, we think, represent some students' efforts to offset their discomfort produced by insufficient ventilation, dim light and folding chairs. Whatever the cause there are some marks we can't remove—some damage we can't repair. Now we can only say "We are sorry."

In the future when you still see the traces of our occupancy, please remember that we were benefited very greatly in the use of these buildings, and enjoyed there together many pleasant occasions. It has not been an unpleasant year and we will take with us many pleasant memories of our school in the churches.

Seniors' Tribute To Their Sponsors

The senior class wish to express its appreciation to their sponsor, Miss Davis, for the interest she has shown in us at all times, for her willingness to cooperate with us in everything we have proposed to do, for her ready wit and good sportsmanship at all of our entertainments, and for the effort she has put out to make our senior year a success.

To Mr. Wimbish we also wish to express our thanks for all he has done to help keep things running smoothly in spite of the handicaps we have been under. "An orchid to you"—Miss Davis and Mr. Wimbish and the best of luck always.

The Last of The 1937 Freshmen

This is, as you know, the last article to be printed by this year's freshmen. I'm sure you all appreciate that fact—Say, Ruthie Mae, since when did you start stepping out with Earl Smallwood?—Doris Parks must intend to be an old maid. She's starting out early with her knitting—Sam, just who is that pretty blond you've taken away from Winston? She's a peach alright—It is getting to be a habit for freshmen boys to go with juniors. There's Floyd and Marjorie, Sam and Anita Jo and Eulis and Francis. It looks as if the girls are robbing the cradles alright—Flossie, which of the Henshaw boys do you prefer? You have some choice. I must say—Mrs. Wimbish and Mr. Mason will be a great loss as sponsors. We hope to have them again next year.—Some ex-senior is robbing the Chatman cradle again. Don't blush, Anna Rose, we know who he is—Orville Cox and Edna Wilson still have up a case.—Louise Hill really likes to drive the new ambulance. If I were in her place I wouldn't ride in one of those until I had to. Well, so long until next year's Warwhoop.

Gypsy Ramblers Have Last Social

Tuesday, May 18 the Gypsy Rambler Club had their last social for this year. The social was a swimming party at the park, and they spread their lunch afterwards at the amphitheatre. This was enjoyed immensely by every Rambler, and especially their sponsors who were present. Mrs. G. V. Wimbish and Miss Jessie Vick. About forty-five Ramblers attended. Although this was the last social of the year, the senior members will meet again on Thursday to elect officers for next year.

Speech Department Closes Year's Work With Two Plays

At the beginning of this year's work in the speech department of Haskell High School, Mrs. Kaigler added a course in conduct which include etiquette in the home and all public places by Emily Post. All chapel programs for the first six months were based on text book material and on what "Emily Post Says". For the benefit of any who may be interested this department had a letter from Emily Post a few weeks ago stating that her latest books with several material changes, will be off the press the first day of June.

The class next entered almost entirely into the declamation contest.

Then in compliance with a promise made then, they selected two comedies, a farce and a burlesque and cast the plays themselves. These two plays were given last Friday, May 21 in the closing assembly program.

The Rhythmic Ramblers played four numbers. Mary Eleanor Diggs, Dorothy Mae Carr and Madge Leon gave readings.

Those having parts in the first play, "The Whole Truth" were: Mayre Lena Tubbs, Madge Leon, Bonnie Dell Hisey, Annie May Lees, Labry Ballard, John Thomas Crandall, Joe Maples, Paul Roberts, John Guest.

Members of the cast, "The Villain Still Pursued Her": Eva Jo Ratliff, Dorothy Mae Carr, Annie May Lees, Mary Eleanor Diggs, John Guest, Doyle Hisey, Archie Lee Jones, and John Thomas Crandall.

Each of the students in the above department will receive a 1-2 credit for their year's work.

Students Do Many Things Despite All Handicaps

In spite of the many difficulties that the student and teachers have been under this year, great achievements have been made. In listing these, among the first to be named are those of the senior class. This is the first year that any class has presented two chapel programs and this group of students also made the first contribution to the new library—88 volumes. Then, too, they can compare on having the fewest in detention among any class this year or nay of the ex-senior classes.

There are several active clubs which have made remarkable progress this year. The choral club presented more programs than ever before, while the Gypsy Ramblers made more money than in any preceding year. The F. F. A. and Spanish club progressed even further than in the past. Never before had a representative of the Home Economics club placed second in a State Meet.

Long will we remember our accomplishments in the field of sports. In football the Haskell Indians made a commendable record; and the boys' and girls' basketball teams aroused more interest than ever before. Our track team again won the Invitation Meet and again were eligible for representation in the bi-district meet.

In literary work our students won more and higher places than in past years.

We are glad of the fact that we have had more and better chapel programs than ever before. Many of them were musical and were presented by people who have great musical ability.

Due partially to the fact that we had two buses this year instead of one, we had the largest student body the school has record of. We are proud of the fact that we missed only one day due to the cold weather and difficult heating problems.

The "Warwhoop" staff has truly been interested in its work and has tried to publish papers of interest to those who read it.

Newsless News

J. J. (after everyone had denied knowing who threw a lemon in English IV) was heard to say, "Miss Davis, I cannot tell a lie, Thomas Lee threw the lemon"—Bidgie, what were you doing in the senior section Thursday.—Phae said to vote for her and Frank to have a senior party. (She didn't ask Frank. Must be nice to have him that-a-way!) The Gypsy Ramblers surely had a keen time on the swim party. We think the boys did, too.—Boys, Nellie "Ain't Got Nobody!"

We know one thing that the student body will miss next year, namely the fun and foolmaking of the seniors.—We wonder why Albert was more interested in the junior party Friday night than the senior party. Couldn't have been Miss Tucker could it?—Muri L. seems to kinda like a red-headed boy or red-wheels. Which one, Muri?—Wonder if Mayre Lena's and Eva Jo's boy friends didn't get just a wee bit jealous during chapel program.—We overheard that Corene L. goes steady with Fat H.—What could take up the two hours for Buster G. and Paul K. between band practice and home?—Mrs. Wimbish plans to be an author, in fact, the title of her book "Why Teacher's Go Crazy" has already been announced.—Mickie's "lonesome" home? Why doesn't Duberry come home?—Melba, what about that gent from Weinert last week?

Gypsy Ramblers Plan A Trip To Carlsbad Cavern

The Gypsy Ramblers are planning a three-day trip to Carlsbad starting Tuesday morning at 4:00 a. m. They will take their lunch for that day and will probably arrive at Black River Village at 4:30 or 5:00 that afternoon. They will spend two nights at the Black River Village, which is 15 miles from the Cavern. The girls will eat dinner that evening at the village. Free swimming and various other entertainment will be given them.

The tour through the Cavern will begin about 10:30 mountain time, Wednesday morning. Pupils will get into the Cavern free because they are bonafide public school students and will be accompanied by their sponsor Mrs. George V. Wimbish and their co-sponsor Miss Vick. Members of the club will probably walk about six miles and will eat lunch in the Cavern.

The girls will go in couples and will pack their clothes together. Approximately 70 girls have signed to go. The members and their sponsors will leave Thursday morning for home.

Students Read Recent Literature

Literature isn't all in books, according to the last "book reports" of the juniors. Reporting on outside reading, they have formerly reported mainly books of fiction which they obtain from the library—but recently they have reported partly from magazines and recent publications, selecting whatever articles or stories they have found by familiar authors.

By no means is it all fiction, nor is it all prose. Two types are prevalent, however: The popular short story and the "article" or information essay. In the former class, students have read fiction from Stephen Vincent Benet, Booth Tarkington, Elsie Singmaster, Faith Baldwin, O. Henry (recently discovered story) and others. Articles of a non-fiction type have included the names of Konrod Bercovici, Winston Churchill, Dorothy Canfield Fisher and Ida M. Tarbell.

In selecting reports from current publications, student have read from Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, Harper's Magazine, The Red Book, Cosmopolitan, Collier's, The Christian Herald, and Scribner's.

Unknown Facts About The Seniors

In the senior class of 1937 there are four girls who possess Mae as their middle name. They are Dorothy Mae Carr Anita Mae Brooks, Lottie Mae Thompson, and Winnie Darnell. In the Lee division the girls are ahead of the boys. We have Audra Lee Quinn, Addie Lee Hayes, Maggie Lee Filand for the girls and Thomas Lee Donohoo for the boys. In many graduating classes you might think that there would be more than two Marys but that's all and they are not spelled alike—Mary Eleanor Diggs and Mayre Lena Tubbs. While talking about Mayre Lena we might as well add a little more. She has never missed a day of school on account of illness since the third grade.

We can't afford to slight the boys so I will tell you about their names. There are three with Thomas for their first name. Thomas Augustus Kaigler, Thomas Lee Donohoo, Jr., and you didn't know it, but it's Thomas Joseph Watson instead of T. J. Now you would never guess how many of the boys have initial names. There is A. D. Frierson, commonly known as Mont. R. V. Earis, Jr., C. T. Fields, W. B. Harrison, J. J. Williamson, and T. J. Watson.

The seniors have five, counting their sponsor Miss Davis, who are left-handed. They are T. J. Watson, Helen Mable Baldwin, Billy Vogelmann and Phae Riley.

We wish all the seniors of 1937 good luck, better than they have had in all their eleven years in school.

Seniors Have Swim Party Friday Night

Last Friday night the seniors and Miss Davis braved the threatening clouds and met at the new swimming pool for a swim. Afterwards they took their supper to the amphitheatre where they had a big feast. This was the last outing of the year and was enjoyed very much by all who attended. The boys supplied soda pop, and girls brought sandwiches, fruit and cookies.

Mayre L. Tubbs To Receive 2 Diplomas

Mayre Lena Tubbs a senior of the Haskell High School class of 1936-37 will be given a diploma from the Speech Department, taught by Mrs. C. M. Kaigler. In the last chapel program, Friday May 21, Mayre Lena was the heroine in the comedy, "The Whole Truth". Of the many plays that Mayre Lena has had a prominent part in, perhaps the character part she did as Lennie in the mountain feud play "On Vengeance Height" was her best work. She impersonated the little barefoot mountain girl in this splendid contest play to perfection.

Why Teachers Go Crazy

(Apologies to Mrs. Wimbish)

The first little thing that begins the lines across the foreheads of our dear teachers is the loving and well behaved study hall. The students are forever having to see Mrs. Kaigler, Mr. Meacham or Mr. Wimbish to find out where a lesson is, or to have a meeting for some party or other activity. Then too, there is the constant buzz of whispering, paper wads, or hums.

Otherwise, it might be the Warwhoop work or just a nice quiet forty-five minutes of sleep, only interrupted by the continuous grind of the pencil sharpener.

In the class room the hair begins to gray and finally to sit up as the lessons remain unlearned failures appear, and no attention is paid to the mental, physical and temperamental efforts of the teachers.

Counting these things just given we find the teacher may be wrinkled or gray, but from here the body and mind can no longer be controlled. The strain has been too much; at least she may be locked in a padded cell and the key thrown away when the questions for finals:

"When do we have our final?"

"What are the most important questions for us to learn?"

"Do we have to know all those points?"

"Do we have to take it in ink?"

"What do you want us to bring to class?"

"When do you want us to turn in our books?"

"Will it be hard?"

"Will we have an option?"

"How many questions will we have?"

"How would you explain this?"

"Will you explain that again?"

"Go on and on. Who could blame a teacher for desiring the padded "heaven of rest" hot fine work of shooting tions.

(Editor's Note: Apologies given to Mrs. Wimbish in because her life's ambition she "retires to her padded (quoted) will be to write "Why Teachers Go Crazy

Student Becomes Member of P.-T. A. Program Committee
 At the request of the High School Parent-Teacher Association a student member for the program committee of that organization was elected by the entire student body last week. Marvina Post received the largest number of votes so she will fill the position for next year. She will serve with the regular committee to help outline the year's program for the P.-T. A. and to plan the yearbook.

Staff Members Say Goodby
 Another nine months have rolled by and the "Warhoop" is now three years old. We, the "Warhoop" staff of 1937, have done our best to make this year's paper as interesting and newsy as we could in spite of the handicaps we have been under. We appreciate the cooperation of the different class and club reporters and the students who have contributed articles to the paper at different times. As we end our reign as the "Warhoop" staff we wish to the group of students who will have charge of the paper next year the best of luck and the hope that our school paper will grow bigger and better each year.

THE HOME DECORATOR
 New Horizons

growing paint . . . the furniture, and most furniture is wood these days since the passing of the old brass bed, means just a new coat of enamel. The draperies can be changed for as little as twenty-five cents the yard. She can do the furniture herself, and perhaps by taking over some of his more bothersome chores for a week, she can get her big brother to do the walls.

And when changing color schemes entails so little expense, why not let your horizons change when the whim strikes you. And it's fun to watch a room change and grow into something quite different right under your own eyes and hands.

Just suppose you already have a clean, cream-colored set of bedroom furniture. Leave it its original color, and get to work on walls and draperies. Picture the cream furniture, a buff colored rug, deep rose walls, cream woodwork, and a cheerful chintz at the windows. Then, again, there's deep blue for the furniture, buff rug once again, with ivory walls and deep yellow and white checked cotton for bedspread and drapes. Or visualize this room "tailor-made", as it were. Furniture a dull brown enamel; yellow for the walls; a bedspread of light tan and brown striped material, a loose heavy weave; and floor length deep yellow unbleached cotton draperies. We'll assume you have ivory venetian blinds, just to give it the finishing touch.

Man, woman or child . . . everyone of them will find a change of room decoration a decided tonic. Painting is fun, it's easy . . . and it's inexpensive . . . and for the comfort, charm and beauty it will lend your home, it is worth its weight in gold.

We are looking forward to another talk from her in the future.

The Foster Home Demonstration Club

Each member of the Foster H. D. Club answered roll call with "Yeast breads my family enjoyed" when we met with Mrs. A. H. Allen May 13.

Demonstration on "Baking Yeast Breads" was given by Mrs. Jno. Hamilton. The following recipes were given:
For Basic Sweet Breads:
2 cakes Magic yeast soaked in 1-2 cup lukewarm water, 1 pint sealed milk, cooled, 1-2 to 1 cup butter, 2 level teaspoons of salt, 1-2 cups of chopped nuts, raisins, citrons or candied orange peel if desired, 1-4 to 1 cup sugar, 2 to 4 eggs, rine and juice of 1 lemon, 1-2 level teaspoon ground nutmeg or mace, 8 or more cups flour. Soak cakes, scalded milk and cool, cream together butter, salt and sugar, add beaten egg-lemons, spices and soaked cakes. Work in enough flour to make a soft dough, beat until smooth, let rise until next morning. Knead down, let rise and knead again and put in pans to bake.
Pecans or Butterscotch Rolls:
Use the above recipe for dough and roll out for cinnamon rolls. Brush with butter and sprinkle with brown sugar. Add a dash of cinnamon and chopped nuts if desired, roll up and cut into 1 inch slices, prepare baking tins, put muffin pans by buttering bottom and sides thickly and covering liberally with brown sugar.
For pecan rolls drop halves of nuts in bottom of pans, place rolls, put side down, in prepared pans and cover. Let rise until more than double in size and bake about 25 minutes.

The cinnamon rolls which Mrs. Hamilton gave the club were real good.
Mrs. Jno. Hamilton gave a very interesting council report.
Mesdames J. O. Yarbrough, Taylor Sego, Jno. Hamilton were appointed to arrange for the supper for the club women and their families Saturday night May 15 at the Rice Springs Park in Haskell.

Mesdames J. O. Yarbrough, Taylor Sego, Jno. Hamilton were appointed to get soda pop and candy to sell the last day of school at Foster.

Blue Bonnet Home Demonstration Club

Flour should be sifted carefully for five reasons in making yeast bread Miss Vaughan told members of the Blue Bonnet Home Demonstration Club at a meeting Thursday May 20, in the home of Mrs. M. E. Carothers.

The first reason is to remove all foreign material.
2. Sifting ages flour.
3. Easier to measure after sifting.
4. Brings flour to room temperature.
5. Flour is lighter and has more air.

Members answered roll call with "A piece of equipment that I shall need for making yeast bread."
Miss Vaughan gave an interesting demonstration on making bread with dry and compressed yeast.
Mrs. D. C. Rogers and Mrs. E. F. Richards were appointed to help Mrs. Rufus Warren on the Expansion Committee. Our next meeting will be July 3rd in the home of Mrs. Less Lewis. Visitors welcome.

Those attending the meeting were: Mesdames B. Seltz, Will Hines, J. M. Mancill, Ed Conner, Rufus Warren, L. F. Clark, A. C. Denson, Floyd King, E. F. Richards, D. Hale, D. C. Rogers, McDougle, Less Lewis, M. E. Carothers, Misses Nora Walters and Mildred Vaughan. Reporter

The Rose Home Demonstration Club

Our club met Tuesday, May 18, 1937 at 2:30 o'clock at the church house. Four members were present. Mrs. Harry Barber gave a demonstration on yeast doughnuts. She says she used, 1 yeast cake, 2 cups luke warm water, 4 scant cups flour for sponge, 1-2 cups shortening, 3-8 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 2 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon ground nutmeg, about 5 cups of flour or more. Fry in deep fat.

Our next meeting will be at the church house. Each member is to bring a loaf of bread.
Mrs. Robert McDowell, Miss Ruby Sheets, Miss Frances Larned and Miss Billie Treadwell attended the annual meeting at Denton, May 21. Reporter

The Methodist Missionary Society

The women of the W. M. S. met in the auditorium of the church for the last lesson of the Mission Study with Mrs. Matt Graham as teacher.

We were told that "As Africa has no land interest in Africa, she can help the Missionary movement by studying, giving and praying." Those assisting in the devotional were Mesdames Persons, Darnell, Pitman and Cox. Mrs. Cox concluded the devotional with a prayer.
Africa is a land of some 148 million people and his 800 spoken languages but only two or three written ones. There are 300 denominations of religion in Africa. We who listened to this book as taught by various members are united in calling it "The most interesting book that has been studied in our society."
We meet on next Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. at the parsonage with Mrs. Huckabee as hostess in an "International Peace Party". This party is going to be good and you can't afford to miss it.

On last Thursday the following ladies motored to Rule, the occasion being that of the District Conference of the W. M. S.: Mesdames, Huckabee, Graham, Thornton, B. Cox, Cahill and Darnell. The guest speaker was Mrs. Vera Smith Lowry of San Paulo, Brazil. Mrs. Lowry, who most of you know is a most interesting and forceful speaker. We were told by this woman who has lived and taught in India, China, Japan and Brazil that the world is starving for friendship and that missionaries must go to learn as well as teach.

Firestone TIRES

GIVE YOU GREATER PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING AND BLOWOUTS

YOU will know the minute you see this tire why car owners everywhere call it the greatest tire ever made to sell at these low prices. The deeper, wider, flatter non-skid tread made of tough, long wearing rubber will give you protection against dangerous skidding.

But tires cannot be judged on tread alone. Under the tread of Firestone Standard Tires are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. This Firestone patented construction feature binds the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit. Every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure liquid rubber which counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life. This Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping gives greater protection against blowouts and is used only in Firestone Tires.

Come in, join the Firestone Save A Life Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

DO YOU KNOW
That last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?
That a million more were injured?
That more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires?

Bootlegger's Efforts To Hide Illicit Wares Officers Are Usually Able To Locate Contraband

"I have been asked by hundreds of people how we find all this liquor and beer and wine that is in the hands of what is commonly known as the 'bootleggers'. When the officers of the various counties and the inspectors of the Texas liquor control board go out to seize these illicit liquors, we find that our hardest job is to locate the stuff after we have gained entrance to these residences and places of business. After about one and a half years of experience in looking for these traps, etc., we find that the bootleggers are getting to be more cunning each day. I will enumerate some of the tricks that they have in hiding this liquor.

"The first thing that we do is look for those places that are out in the open. We have found several bootleggers in the territory who care very little about hiding their liquor; and they just have it right out in plain sight in cabinets especially built for this purpose. If we do not find any in these places, we begin the hide and seek hunt. If we do not find the liquor in the clothes closets, in blind traps built for that purpose or behind the base boards, or in hollow table legs. On several occasions we have found liquor in a trap built under the dining room table, which usually has a nice table cloth, with flowers on it. We have found as much as a case and such a trap. We always take out the flu several, where we have found several pints of whiskey. We look in the oat meal boxes, and lard cans, which nice white lard on the top. If you will remove that, you will sometimes find as much as a dozen bottles of liquor.

"If we ask these people about the liquor, they just never know how it got there. We have also found liquor in the bottom of the cook stove. If we find one of these places where they are selling beer and we search and can't find any beer, we look around the outside of the house. At one place we found an old cook stove door underneath the hydrant in the back yard. We removed this door and found a number of gallons of beer tucked down. If this place is raided too often, they find a vacant lot, take some tubs and get out under the shade of a mesquite bush and park the tub of beer there. When the customer comes in, they have someone to run to the mesquite bush and bring in some cold beer and serve it to him.

Motor Bars
"We have found a number of liquor caches built in automobiles. They have an ice pick with a hook on it. You reach back and pull a trigger, which lets you into a liquor trap built in the automobile. They also carry a few pints under the hood of the engine. When searching a place, if there are some old casings hanging around, it is always well to look inside them, as there may be some bottles hidden there. In the little garden spot which they have taken the trouble to dig up, we have found whiskey or beer buried.

"Our hardest work is locating stills. The most of them are in the hilly country where there is water supply. You will find that they have the fermenters setting out in the open, where flies, bugs and everything that you might think of can get in the mash. Of course, this is all strained out, and they advertise it is a good clean product. They take this liquor and put it in fruit jars, five gallon kegs, and bury it out in the sand dunes and crevices in the hills. Sometimes we find these stills located in houses, and we have to take out the side of the house to remove the paraphernalia.

"We were looking for a still near Abilene a few weeks ago; and we drove up to place and asked if they had any corn liquor on their premises. One of the officers noticed a dugout that led down under the house. There was a lock on it. A small boy about five years of age told us that they had hooted down there. We began to question the boy, and he said: "You go with me and I'll show you where we have some hooted hid". He carried us out in the woods, and we looked under brush etc. He told us to be sure and put this brush back like we found it, as his daddy would get mad. Of course, the heads of the family said they had no liquor; but the little boy, who did not know what it was all about, was trying to show us where it was.

"The most unreasonable place in which we have found beer hidden was in the top of a China tree in the eastern part of the district. They had a little house built up in this tree and a little platform with block and tackle to carry the beer up and down out of the tree. Sometimes, when we are out on these liquor hunts, if we see a bunch of chickens scratching under the bushes, we begin looking, because probably they have scattered a little grain to cover up a liquor cache. We never overlook the cow pen, either, as the cows and calves are often walking over some good three-day old corn liquor.

Bedded Down Liquor
"Frequently when we search a place, someone in the house falls on the bed as though he were ill. It is always a good bet to ask them to move so the bed can be searched, as we usually find liquor or beer between the bed mattresses.

"We have one certain town in this district where the bootleggers hide their liquor in the bath rooms. These bath room doors are floored and cross-floored. When we go into the house, they barricade themselves in a bath room and securely lock themselves in.

By the time we beat those doors down, they have broken most of the liquor bottles or poured the liquor out. It is not an unusual thing for officers to drive up to a place and hear bottles cracking.

"If we go into a nice looking house and find a little hole in the wall, about the size of the end of an ice pick, we look at this very closely as it may be a liquor cache. If it is, the ice pick fits in the hole, pulls a trigger, opening up a nice trap. A trap of this kind frequently holds a number of bottles of whiskey or beer.

"Just recently we had several reports of a man selling liquor who had a beer permit. This beer tavern is on the side of the road, and quite a few hills and rocks are just back of his place. Upon examination of this beer place and surroundings, we found about fifteen liquor caches. Some of these were built in sand rock with a hole in the top of the rock about six inches in diameter; these were chiseled oval-shaped to hold three to five gallons of liquor.

"If we are searching a place and find they have chickens and they have a hen setting on the nest in a small coop, we always remove this coop; for it is probable that we find a five or ten gallon can underneath this coop and this can makes a very good liquor cache.

"You can readily see from this that the bootlegger spends quite a bit of time and money in trying to hide this liquor from the officers of the law. We spend just as much time trying to locate it."

A NEW WAY TO CIVIC GROWTH

The cities and towns, endlessly watching the population figures of other cities and towns, and seriously affected by the vice of size-worship, are probably interested in plans to attract new residents.

The phobia that causes civic organization to measure all progress in a municipality by the decennial counting of noses is an American phenomenon indicating something of a failure to understand and appreciate the real virtues that should make the city life enjoyable.

We have long been familiar with the yearning aspiration of towns and cities to become industrial centers and, more than once, have been sillyly amused at the frantic efforts of home town boosters to indulge in shadow boxing with figures in an effort to prove to a dubious inquirer that the home town village offers advantages not to be approached by such wayside stations as New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco and a score of other ambitious little communities.

Once in a while the lightning unexpectedly strikes and a small community is overwhelmed by the social problems that accompany an industrial plant that swallows the municipality. The boosters are tickled to death because, for the most part, they do not realize that in time many of the virtues of their home town will be strangled in the struggle with economic factors.

There is, of course, a desired balance between industry and other factors that make up a well-rounded city. However, the activity of civic organization and home town boosters are too often directed entirely toward industrial growth, while other valuable assets of community life are forgotten.

We can easily imagine that reads of this article, if they have followed us so far, may be wondering what other avenues of growth exist for the average municipality. The point of the reader is well made and the interrogation should be answered.

To illustrate what we have in mind, let us record what we hear a man say the other day.
After an absence of more than ten years during which he had lived in a number of cities, the speaker declared that, if he ever became able to select the place of his residence, he would certainly come back to Haskell.

While living here, he had not been impressed by industrial possibilities. He had, however, found life pleasant and enjoyable. He liked what he called our philosophy of living, which he described as a balanced existence, with the proper division of emphasis upon business and living. In some places, he said, one found too much emphasis on the side lines of life, and in others, too much emphasis on business activity. Here, however, he was impressed with the possibilities afforded for a complete and well rounded life.

Now, in our opinion, it is time for some progressive town or city to make its prime function the development of the cultural activities which attract intelligent individuals and afford the greatest opportunity for the development of children into civilized men and women. To do this, it will be necessary to spend money, sometimes to provide non-profitable returns, so far as money is concerned, and to promote the development of many so-called civic luxuries, like parks, playgrounds, libraries, recreational centers, schools, churches, and other organizations and institutions, designed primarily to serve human beings without having to "make money."

If this is attempted on a broad scale, in a way to attract intelligent people, there will be a gradual acquisition of attractive personalities. In time the word will spread abroad that we have an asset not to be duplicated in hundreds of other places and people will fight to live in our midst.

FOOLISH ANTI-WAR ACTIVITY

Time and again we have called attention to the foolish anti-war resolutions passed by various organizations, generally pledging not to participate in "any war". We do not doubt the sincerity of those who support such declarations. Undoubtedly they are moved by noble sentiment, but, in our opinion, they have become lost in the worship of a beautiful dream and walk among practical issues with their heads in the clouds of fancy where the mists obscure their vision.

One reason for our cynical observance and lack of respect for such pious resolutions is the memory of which goes back to the days of the World War. In that tragic period, men and women everywhere fell over themselves to support their governments, regardless of their past record as pacifists, and determined enemies of war. The same phenomenon will be apparent when the bugles sound the alarms for the next military holocaust.

In our opinion, the ardent pacifists of today will then conclude that they face new circumstances, and choosing between submission to revolting conditions or warfare, they will do as men and women have heretofore done—join in the support of the country in which they have been reared. In such an emergency, it is just as well for the individual to have freedom of action and not to be embarrassed by foolish pledges from the distant past.

MARTYR TO "SUCCESS"

The Senate committee's investigation of the financial deals of the late Van Sweringen brothers contains few more painful episodes than the one relating to the Kentucky scrubwoman who, having saved $2,000 by laying aside one or two dollars a week, invested the lot in "gold-edged" bonds issued by a Van Sweringen corporation and promptly saw half her investment wiped out. The woman wrote the brothers a letter pleading that they buy back her securities "at the best price you can give me," as she had five dependants to care for and times were getting hard. She got a polite note from a secretary saying that the brothers "were unable to be helpful." The tale of the rise and fall of these "financial titans" is usually told in cold figures. This little incident is a useful reminder that there were poignant human values involved in the story, too.

Judge F. M. Henry and W. H. Tilson prominent lawyers of Texarkana, were engaged in a land suit in our district court this week.

Mr. W. H. Lee of Stonewall county passed through this place Tuesday with about 15,000 pounds of wool, being a little over one-third of his clip this year.

Miss Mary and Mr. Walter Tandy arrived home Saturday from Waco, where they have been attending Baylor University.

There were two or three incidents in the district court this week worth making mention of, but space fails us. We may touch them up a little next week.

About 19,000 pounds of Mr. Carl Ferguson's wool clip of 40,000 pounds passed through town Wednesday en route to Seymour for shipment.

An Open Letter to a Hit-And-Run Driver

WELL, you got away with it. So far, anyway, you're still a bit nervous. You are startled by your palm sweats when you pick up the morning your mouth gets dry when a stranger seems to stare at you. For there is just a possibility that some chance saw you. But your pulse is beginning to beat. Each passing day brings added safety.

If it will make you feel any better, you may caught. But, my craven fellow, you'll never escape. You'll never escape the shame of having killed a run away. You'll never escape the aching, burning that, faced with the test, you preferred cowardice to.

You will live the rest of your days bluffing your believing that you didn't have time to think (although crises are not scheduled for men's convenience); body else would have done the same thing (although don't dare tell anybody else); and that it wasn't just an accident (as though people hid themselves and dents). The days will be trying, but not so bad with the nights, when you lie awake with your eyes and when, having fallen asleep at last, dreams steal tired brain to reenact that scene of secret shame, nights will be hard.

A thousand times you will wish to release the shame, to scream: "I killed a child and ran away!" make you feel better, but you won't do it.

Listen: You didn't get away with a thing! know it!

Who Pays the Cost of Advertising?

To the critic who advances the argument that the cost of advertising places a needless burden on the consumer, we explain briefly the fallacy of this line of reasoning.

Advertising increases sales and creates new markets. Large scale production reduces overhead and costs per unit, and the advertiser can sell at a lower price.

It is possible to buy a far better auto today at half the price we paid twenty years ago. Yet it is a fact that all leading manufacturers of the "horseless carriage" have employed advertising extensively.

Some may say the component parts of an advertised product can be bought for less if purchased separately. Possibly so. But remember the chemist estimates the intrinsic value of the human body at about $1.15 if its ingredients are analyzed and secured bit by bit in a drug store. If such is the case it would appear all life insurance companies a gigantic error in estimating the value of millions of policy holders.

Rolled oats in sanitary, convenient packages cost no more than oatmeal from the barrel that harbored an occasional nest for mice. Fresh roasted coffee is available today in any grocery store and the domestic standard, advertised brands of coffee has shown a marked decrease in recent years.

The expense, or overhead, of the average retailer would be increased only a small margin of his volume of business was doubled. The judicious use of advertising speeds his turnover and enables him to pass along to his customers a part of the savings he has effected in the cost of doing business.

Yes, in the last analysis, the consumer pays the cost of advertising; but he pays it with just a small portion of what advertising has saved him.

Uncle Sam Looks to Texas in Battle To Rewin Markets Lost to Foreigners

With more than 50 per cent of America's sulphur export market lost to foreigners in last six years, Uncle Sam is counting on sons of the Lone Star state to shoulder responsibility not only of recapturing our lost markets, but of preserving the domestic industry thus assuring U. S. farms and factories an adequate supply of sulphur at low cost in time of either peace or war. So declares Porter A. Whaley, inset, upper left, general manager of Texas State Manufacturers' Association. Texans are already in forefront of this battle to regain lost markets and among leaders is J. T. Claiborne, Jr., inset, upper right, native of Tarrant County, and vice-president of a leading sulphur company. Center, big plant erected in 1931 by large Italian sulphur company in Sardinia, Italy. (Ewing Galloway Photo.) Lower right, loading sulphur in Brazoria County, Texas.

SAN ANTONIO—America is counting on the sons of the men who defended the Alamo and fought with Sam Houston to regain the sulphur markets it lost nearly six years ago to foreign nations.

So declares Porter A. Whaley, vice-president and general manager of the Texas State Manufacturers' Association, who cites figures showing that Texas, which produced about 40 per cent of the total world's supply of sulphur in 1931, today produces only about 30 per cent.

"According to United States Bureau of Mine statistics," Mr. Whaley said, "America's exports of sulphur have declined from 855,183 tons in 1929 to 462,383 in 1935, a loss of more than 50 per cent of our foreign markets. The reason for this is not hard to discover. The war lords of Europe have stimulated production in their own countries with huge subsidies to producers and high tariff barriers. These government premiums on sulphur sometimes run as high as $7.00 per ton. Italy last year handing 30,000,000 lire over to her sulphur producers to be used in expanding export sales.

"Uncle Sam must rely on Texas as America's largest producer to shoulder the responsibility of winning back our sulphur markets," Mr. Whaley declared. "And, since the sons of the Lone Star state have never taken defeat lying down, I am sure that Texas can be counted on to do her part. We must realize sulphur's importance, not only on our farms and in industry, but in the defense of our liberty in event of conflict.

"With many a foreign nation rattling sabers and re-stocking arsenals in preparation for the next war, anything can happen, and while I don't want to be an alarmist, I think we must consider the importance of the preservation of the American sulphur industry from every aspect. Because we are America's chief source of supply, it's virtually a case of Texas against the rest of the world in the battle for markets and the struggle to hold down the cost of sulphur to our own consumers.

"Texas 'boys who have made good' are in the forefront of this battle. To a large extent Texans are guiding the destinies of America's sulphur industry today, not only here in Texas in the effort to produce sulphur as cheaply as possible, but also in New York where, as officials of the U. S. companies, they direct the fight to regain the lost markets. Among them is J. T. Claiborne, Jr., Tarrant County native, who is now vice-president of the Freeport Sulphur Company; R. K. Shirley of Van Zandt County; Roy E. Johns of Johnson County; T. J. Knapp of Galveston County and others well known to many Texans."

Near Century-Old Veteran of Indian Raids Is Visitor With Son In Haskell

Passing years have dimmed the eyes of F. M. Turpin, 93-year-old resident of Fort Worth, but time in taking its toll of physical vitality has only served to sharpen the memory of the aged man, who today recalls events that transpired years ago when West Texas was a wilderness and the undisturbed range of buffaloes and marauding Indians.

Mr. Turpin, who came to Haskell last week for a visit with his son, R. D. Turpin, recalls vividly an engagement with Comanche Indians during the Civil War period—either in 1853 or 1864—after the renegade savages had killed a farmer in Erath county, stolen a herd of forty horses and headed for West Texas, unsettled in those days, and a frequent rendezvous for the warlike Comanches who left their reservations in Northwest Texas and Oklahoma to conduct periodic raids on the sparsely settled mid-central section of West Texas roughly embracing Brown, Erath, Comanche and Hood counties, a "buffer strip" where only a few pioneer families made their homes.

Early settlers recalled a wary watch. Mr. Turpin recalled, especially during the moonlight nights each month, and penned their livestock in every instance possible to keep the animals safe from marauding bands of Indians.

An Indian Raid

In the spring of 1863, a band of Indians (Comanches) probably twelve in number, raided a small community west of Stephenville in Erath county. A farmer by the name of Holt who had gone late in the evening to pen his cattle was killed by the Indians. When the farmer failed to return home his wife and small child, fearful of what had happened, walked several miles to the home of a neighbor. A searching party was organized and the mutilated body of the farmer was found where he had been killed and scalped by the Indians. The savages had also driven away with Holt's small herd of cattle.

A posse was quickly organized and easily picked up the trail. Mr. Turpin relates. Twelve men were in the party, he recalled, and after the group had followed the Indians for perhaps thirty miles, he and two other members separated from the main body in an attempt to intercept the raiders.

Following the plain trail left by the Indians, Mr. Turpin told that his companion, who was riding ahead, stooped to avoid an overhanging limb. At that instant an arrow struck the limb, giving away the presence of the savages. In the ensuing fight two Indians were killed, and one member of the pursuing party died from loss of blood after he had been struck by an arrow. Mr. Turpin told of scalping the two Indians that were killed, and he and his companions kept the "locks" as trophies for several years.

Their brief engagement attracted the attention of other members of the posse who came to the aid of the smaller party and continued following the main body of raiding Indians. Overtaking the renegades, two more Indians were killed in the ensuing fight and several wounded. Mr. Turpin related. The wounded savages were picked up by comrades and carried from the battlefield, he said. Members of the settler's expedition were armed with shotguns and Sharp's Rifles.

The defeated Indians stampeded their herd of stolen cattle and horses, and the pursuing party of settlers recovered most of the animals and eventually returned them to their owners in the "settlements."

The aged pioneer told that raids by the Indians gradually lessened, and within a few years the settlers in "West Texas" slowly pushed further westward to settle the plains country.

Although this was his first trip to this particular section of Texas, Mr. Turpin maintains that he frequently visited "West Texas" when its borders were considerably further east—but still marked the boundary line of what he considered "The West."

new location will be double that of the present store building, affording a better display of a much larger stock.

"We believe that our many customers will be agreeably surprised with the new store," Mr. Riley said, "both with the arrangement of new fixtures as well as the larger showing in every department of the store. New lighting fixtures, and the installation of several large whirlwind fans will add to the convenience and comfort of shopping," he continued.

Moving of their large stock, and a part of the fixtures from the old location will likely occupy several days time, but Mr. Riley stated that the complete change would be accomplished before the end of next week.

Harvesting—

will be in the neighborhood of 12 bushels, grain buyers predicted.
The Haskell Mill & Elevator Company, principal buyers in this city, figure that at least 130 carloads of wheat will be shipped from Haskell, or a total of 200,000 bushels.

Grade of wheat will be somewhat above the average this year, discounting the heavier infestation of smut over previous years. Condition of the crop is best in the northeast section of the county, it is reported.

Per acre yield of oats is estimated at 22 bushels, but early combining has resulted in a lighter grade on the local market, with a consequent "docking" by buyers. Some matured oats have sold for as much as 40c locally, however.

Storeroom Being Added to Piggly-Wiggly Building

Work was started Thursday morning excavating for a foundation for an addition on the Reynolds building on the north side of the square, occupied by the Piggly-Wiggly Store.

The extension will be 14x18 feet, one story in height, and will be of brick, to conform with the present building.

The addition will be used as a storeroom.

THE DOUGHBOYS SAIL FOR FRANCE

Twenty years ago—May 28, 1917, the first United States Troop sailed for France, Uncle Sam's grim and determined ambassadors in the "war to end wars". Millions were to follow the first contingent and turn the tide for the Allies.

The war was won, but whether it foretold the "end of all wars" remains to be seen. World events of today indicate that the war spirit still dominates many European nations.

Texas Ranks Fifth In PWA State Grants

The Public Works Administration, on the even of its fourth anniversary, in a summary of all its activities over the four-year period, reveals that Texas ranked fifth among all the States in the country in the amount of money received for construction of non-federal projects.

In the Lone Star State, allocations totaling $35,219,138 have been made during this time. These funds were matched with $73,758,070 supplied by individuals in the State to make a grand total of $106,977,208 expended since 1933 in construction work.

PWA explained that allocations were made, for the greater part, according to the population classification of the respective States. First in the country was New York, then Illinois, California and Pennsylvania. Notwithstanding this seemingly necessary qualification, Texas was ranked above Ohio, in which the population is large.

The allocation of funds to Texas was greater than to any other five States in the Southwest section of the country, the PWA disclosed.

829,193 Draw Pay From Government Statistics Reveal

Uncle Sam's official family is larger than at any time since the World War.

Civil Service Commission statistics showed a total of 829,193 persons on Federal pay rolls April 1, in addition to the legislative, judicial and military branches of government, which remains relatively constant. The figure includes both civil service and non-civil service officials and workers.

This classification stood at 917,760 on Nov. 11, 1918, dropped to 515,772 on June 30, 1923, then began a ten-year gradual climb to 572,091 on June 30, 1933. It stood at 824,259 eleven months ago.

Taxpayers Increase
The commission tabulations disclosed that on April 1, employees of regular Government departments totaled 649,877; new agencies, 52,407, emergency agencies 126,909. Last June 30, this total was 144,095.

Dependability

It Is An Actual Fact That Dodge Put The Word Dependability In The Dictionary

In 1914, when the first Dodge came into being, there was not a word that could adequately describe its inherent goodness and reliable performance. Someone used the word "dependability" fitted Dodge so well that it caught on like wildfire. It was used frequently to describe Dodge that it finally became an accepted word in the English language, and today is found in most standard dictionaries. Dependability means Dodge—and just as surely as that is true, also true that dependability means your local Dodge Dealer. You buy a Used Car, the one thing you demand is Dependability.

THE DOUGHBOYS SAIL FOR FRANCE

Twenty years ago—May 28, 1917, the first United States Troop sailed for France, Uncle Sam's grim and determined ambassadors in the "war to end wars". Millions were to follow the first contingent and turn the tide for the Allies.

The war was won, but whether it foretold the "end of all wars" remains to be seen. World events of today indicate that the war spirit still dominates many European nations.
