FINAL APPROVAL AS $7,000 WPA PROJECT GRANTED THIS WEEK

Will Furnish Employment To Number of Laborers For Two Months

Work will be started Thursday morning on a $7,000 WPA project for beautification of city school grounds and the construction of a football stadium and lighted field following approvals of the project application by the Washington WPA office last week.

Supt. C. B. Breedlove was notified Monday that the project had been approved, and that work would be started Thursday May 27th. Between 35 and 40 laborers will be employed on the project, which is to be completed by July 1st.

The beautification project will consist of leveling, terracing and sodding of grounds around the High School, North and South Ward buildings, and other needed improvements.

Football Stadium The football stadium will be erected on the field just north of the athletic clubhouse, across the street east from the North Ward building.

The entire playing field will be leveled and contoured into a turfcut sodded field, planted in Bermuda. Provision for fencing the field is also included in the program.

The stadium will extend about both sides of the playing field for a distance of 120 feet, with six tiers of seats on each side providing comfortable seating arrangement for 1,000 persons.

Lighting equipment purchased by the athletic association several years ago and in place at Fair Park, will be removed to the new field, and ordered to school officials.

Of the total cost of the improvements, Works Progress Administration will pay approximately $4,000, the school advancing the remaining $3,000, in which is included the value of grounds, lighting equipment, etc.

MATTSON SCHOOL BUILDING CONTRACT AWARDED

W. R. Truss of Abilene Is Successful Bidder; To Start Work Soon

Contract for erection of a modern brick school building and gymnasium at Mattson, was awarded Monday to W. R. Truss, Abilene contractor, on a bid of $23,600, lowest submitted to the Board of Trustees.

Bids were received and opened Saturday, but definite awarding of the contract was deferred until Monday in order that all bids could be properly tabulated and classified. A number of contractors from Abilene, Lubbock and Wichita Falls submitted bids on the structure.

Mr. Truss, well-known building contractor who has erected a number of school buildings throughout West Texas, recently completed the High School building here. He stated that material and equipment would be placed on the site of the Mattson building immediately, and that excavation for the basement-gymnasium would be started within a few days.

Contract stipulates that the building shall be finished in 100 working days—ample time for use during the 1937-38 school term.

New Drivers' Law Is Signed By Gov. Allred

A remodeled driver's license law, signed by Governor Allred Thursday put in the hands of the public safety department a new weapon for its war against street and highway traffic accidents.

The bill, authorizing suspension or revocation of licenses after a hearing before a court of competent jurisdiction and requiring examination after a 90-day period of all new applicants for licenses, became effective when the Governor affixed his signature.

Persons applying for the first time for licenses within the 90-day period can qualify by giving evidence of satisfactory operation of an automobile for at least a year. It was said unofficially that an affidavit to this effect would be sufficient but final determination of policy remained with the Public Safety Commission.

The department must institute suspension or revocation proceedings within 20 days after an offense.

Offenses subject to such action were convictions of negligent homicide, driving while intoxicated, failure to render aid and offenses, previously excluded, as follows: responsibility for any accident resulting in death, personal injury to another or serious property damage; habitual recklessness or negligence; habitual violation of traffic laws; incompetency in driving; unlawful or fraudulent use of licenses, and commission of offenses in another State which if committed in Texas would be grounds for suspension or revocation.

A license may not be suspended for more than a year and drivers have the right to appeal within 30 days except where suspension is mandatory.

The law provides that tax assessors and collectors issue renewal licenses under supervision of the department.

New applicants must submit without cost to an examination including test of eyesight and knowledge of traffic rules and show reasonable ability to operate a car.

Renewals may be secured without examination and additional cost.

The law more clearly defines a chauffeur and requires such operators must display a badge plainly upon cap or lapel.

COURT ORDER IS GRANTED AGAINST B-W DANCE HALL

County Attorney Alleges "Common Nuisance" In Petition for Injunction

A temporary restraining order was granted Friday by District Judge Dennis P. Rattliff upon the application of County Attorney Walter Murchison, forbidding further operation of the Black & White Dance Hall by Jesse Theodore Herring.

The dance hall is located about one-half mile north of Stamford, on Highway 30, just inside the Haskell county line, and in seeking the restraining order the County Attorney alleged in a petition to the Court that the dance hall was a common nuisance, where persons who attended the dances frequently engaged in promiscuous drinking of intoxicating liquors, that affairs were frequent. Included in the petition was a record of twenty-three convictions in Justice Court since the first of this year for offenses of drunkenness, affray, etc., allegedly occurring at the dance hall.

No law violations were charged against the proprietor, however.

Dances Twice-Weekly Officers state that during the past few months dances have been given at the hall on Wednesday and Saturday nights of each week. Following issuance of the restraining order Friday, no dances have been held.

Final hearing on the application to make the restraining order permanent will be held Saturday morning May 29 at 10 o'clock before Judge Rattliff, at which time Mr. Herring and his attorneys will seek to have the order set aside, it was learned.

EXECUTION DATE SET FOR JULY 2 FOR C. MATURA

Must Pay With Life For Slaying of Aged Spinster Last Year

Date for execution for C. Matura, convicted murderer, was set for Friday July 2 in the electric chair at Huntsville penitentiary, by District Judge Dennis P. Rattliff Monday at Aspermant, opening the regular term of District Court for Stonevall county.

Matura was given the death sentence when he was tried at Aspermant in June, 1936 for the murder of Miss Rebecca Coursey, aged 66, resident of O'Brien. The sentence was affirmed by the Court of Criminal Appeals in February of this year.

The 66-year-old Bohemian, who confessed to the brutal beating of Miss Coursey several days after the attack, when arraigned Monday and questioned as to whether he had anything to say before date for his execution was fixed, sobbed almost unintelligibly that he "had told the truth". Although he appeared somewhat bewildered, seemingly fully realizing for the first time the meaning of the sentence pronounced against him, Matura displayed no resentment toward officers or court officials.

Sentence Pronouncement of the execution date, first ever assessed in Stonevall county, attracted a throng of spectators who filled the small courtroom and listened tensely while Judge Rattliff read the order sentencing Matura to die.

"It is the order of the Court that the defendant, C. Matura, who has been adjudged to be guilty of murder and whose punishment has been assessed by the verdict of the jury at death in the electric chair, shall, before the hour of sunrise on Friday the 2nd day of July, A. D. 1937, at the State Penitentiary in Huntsville, Texas, be caused to die by the passage through his body of a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause his death and by the application and continuance of such current through the body of said (Continued on Page Eight)

Commercial Feeds, Properly Mixed, Provide The Right Food Proportions

There is no question about the many advantages to be had from feeding scientifically balanced rations to the various farm animals, especially the young creatures which are just getting started, according to Henry Field, in the Semi-Weekly Farm News.

The well established manufacturers of these feeds have been conducting experiment for years to find just what the best feeds are and how to mix them to give the best results to animals of various ages and conditions of growth.

In addition to experiments in feeding by the commercial companies the various agricultural colleges have been doing a like work. They were not interested in selling feed, but they were interested in finding out the effects of certain feeds and were trying to determine just what constituted the best rations to produce the desired effect. The information they have gathered is available to the manufacturers of the commercial feeds.

Quite a number of formulas have been worked out by the colleges which they recommend for certain purposes. For instance, they have found that hens require a certain proportion of the several food elements to keep their bodies in good condition and have additional requirements for egg-making material. Any hen with the least bit of vitality will lay in the spring of the year because that is nature's time for her to nest. She will lay at least a few eggs at the expense of her body, but she will not keep it up long.

Now it has been learned just what elements are needed for producing eggs and in what proportion these should be fed. When these are compounded together and prepared as a feed for hens it is called a laying mash simply because it is a properly balanced feed to furnish materials for making eggs. If fed to hens in poor condition the first thing that happens will be for them to put on flesh and build up their own bodies. They will use some of it for keeping warm if the weather is cold and they are not properly housed. Or, if the weather is hot and they are already fat and lazy they will not eat very much and not take enough exercise to keep in good condition. In such instances there is nothing wrong with the feed, even when you do not get the desired results right away.

Mixing Feeds
Some want to know why farmers should not buy all the ingredients and mix up their own feeds. There is nothing against this procedure, but it has not been found practical by those who have tried it. That is, if all the materials must be bought and weighed out correctly and the mixing done thoroughly so that the feed will be the same all through much effort is required and, unless you buy in large quantities the home-mixed feed will actually cost more than a similar feed mixed by a commercial manufacturer.

The big companies buy their supplies by the carload and know how to take every advantage of the market. They select their materials to get only known quality, whereas the average farmer knows very little about such things as bone meal, dried buttermilk and such. Any farmer can see weevils and tell when crushed grain is musty but he cannot tell much about its feeding value and he may not even know whether he is getting exactly what he calls for. When he has his feed mixed according to any given formula he will be sure to find he has a quantity of some of the ingredients left over which may get stale before time to mix another batch or which will be wasted if he decides he does not want to bother with mixing feed at home. If this time is good for anything else it is a waste to use up so much doing work that can be done better and more cheaply by manufacturers.

Another advantage about the special commercial feeds is the fact that you can buy in comparatively small quantities to a much better advantage than you can the right ingredients to make the same amount. A hundred-pound bag of the complete feed usually comes as cheaply as you get it in greater quantity, but if you are mixing several grains you would have to buy a hundred pounds of each to get a like price.

Abroad at Home

Above is an artist's conception of the Latin American Village, now under construction for the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition, opening in Dallas June 12, which will permit visitors to "go abroad at home." By night they may witness the fiestas to be held in the bull ring where celebrated artists from Latin American capitals will be featured.

Raising Dairy Calves
Suppose you only have the three heifer calves to raise and want to get them off to a good start without letting them have whole milk, which is about the most expensive thing you can give them. You will not need a barn full of calf ration. Buy a hundred pound bag and add it gradually to their milk. Ease off on the whole milk and skim milk. Use just a few spoonfuls of the supplement feed the first day and increase the amount every day. It won't take long before the calves will be taking nothing but skim milk and commercial feed. After a calf gets a good start and learns to eat grass any good food intended to produce growth will be all right to keep it doing well.

Sometimes there is a variety of home-grown feed in the barn and certainly it ought to be used. Farmers ought to grow all of their own feed they well can. This should include plenty of roughage of one kind or another and some grain. If it is a good year for feed the work animals may be provided entirely with home-grown feeds. If a mule gets plenty of corn and as much as he can eat of almost any good hay he will get along all right if you just let him in a good pasture at night and keep him watered. If the pasture is really good he can get along without the hay.

Milk cows usually need their home-grown feeds supplemented with a balanced milk-making ration. Any cow will give milk enough to raise her calf up until it can get along on grass, but to be profitable to her owner she must give more than that and keep up her milk flow at least ten months. The right feed will enable her to produce milk up to her capacity. If it does not cause her to give enough to make her profitable she either does not have the inherent ability to produce or her vitality is low because of some disease as tuberculosis. Get rid of such a cow. She may be a menace to the remainder of the herd.

Special Feeds
The commercial feed manufacturers put up special feeds for every different purpose one can think of, and as a rule, each is of special value for use as intended. The general farmers who keep only a few cows or has only a small flock of chickens can get a proportionate amount of benefit from using these feeds.

Hens will eat cow feed all right and thrive on it, but they may lay very few eggs and likewise a cow can get fat on chicken feed, but it may not stimulate milk production. Feed that will start baby chicks off fine and keep them growing until they can go into the yard with the flock will be very good for baby calves just learning to eat, but the chances are much in favor of the specially prepared calf feed being the best thing for the young calves.

Let the manufacturer worry with the various formulas for mixing feeds. It is their business and they have a vast amount of machinery for the job. In fact they do a much more thorough job of mixing than you can in a fraction

Gov. Allred Calls Special Session of Legislature to Begin Thursday

Governor James V. Allred announced Friday a special session of the legislature would be convened next Thursday, May 27, to consider repeal of the law legalizing wagering on horse racing.

The governor said many members had told him they were worn out from the grind of the long general session and had asked him to defer the special meeting a few days.

"Since they will be entitled to mileage, anyway, I feel it is a reasonable request," he said. "The time is definitely fixed, the proclamation is being prepared and will be filed with the secretary of state Saturday morning."

The governor previously had said many times there would be an extraordinary session to consider only the subject of repealing the race betting statute enacted four years ago until that was disposed of unless the senate voted on a repeal bill before it many weeks.

To Bring Up Taxes
After the bill passed the house by an overwhelming majority and received a favorable report by a senate committee it lay far down on the senate calendar and generally was regarded as dead.

There is a strong belief that if the senate acts on the matter of betting repeal the governor then will submit the subject of taxation in line with his oft stated opinion that the state's financial condition necessitates millions of additional revenue. Although at the start of the session he urged $15,000,000 new revenue the legislature has not provided a dime. Lumbering toward termination of the session which began Jan. 12, with every indication the actual end might be sometime Sunday instead of noon Saturday, the legislature rescued from the graveyard of dead and dying legislation a few bills of major importance.

OK Judiciary Bill
The senate tracked action of the house in approving a conference report on a bill appropriating $4,951,930 for the support of the judiciary for the next biennium, which compared with $4,456,021 provided for the current two years after a rider limiting salaries of Dallas county district judges had been removed.

The eleemosynary appropriation bill had been dispatched to the governor's office and conference committees were grinding away on the other major money measures, those appropriating for the educational system, state departments and rural schools.

One of the chief difficulties in the way of adjournment was the mechanical problem of enrolling the bulky appropriation bills, which must be letter perfect without so much as a comma out of place. Clerical staffs were augmented for the work.

The senate also adopted the conference report on the bill providing a system of retiring public school teachers, the house having approved it previously. Cost to the state annually has been estimated at approximately $1,500,000. The plan will begin operation in September.

Soil Aid Plan
A conference report on a bill providing for a statewide soil conservation system was adopted by the house, 79 to 41, less than the two-thirds majority necessary to put it into effect immediately should it also be approved by the senate. Sponsors said, however, this mattered little because no state money would be available until the next tax collecting period from October to February 1.

House concurrence in senate amendments action on bills appropriating $25,000 to create a public welfare department in the board of control and providing for clearing San Antonio slums.

Liquor Law
The controversial bill to tighten enforcement of the liquor law and including a provision authorizing out of state brewers to maintain bottling plants in Texas moved a step nearer the end of its legislative gauntlet when the senate adopted a conference report.

Most of the action occurred at the afternoon session Friday, both houses having met jointly in the morning to hear an address by Ambassador Josephus Daniels, on leave from his post at Mexico City. Daniels said the policies of President Roosevelt must be pushed to successful conclusion.

At an executive session, the senate confirmed a long list of appointments by the governor, including that of former senator Tom Deberry of Bogata to be a member of the board of control, effective next January.

There was a flurry in the senate when an effort was made, and quickly dropped, to bring up the controversial race betting repeal bill already passed by the house. A motion to take up the measure was thrown out on a point of order.

As he had said he would do Governor Allred vetoed an appropriation of $817,000 for a new hospital in East Texas for the insane, but approved one of the same amount and for the same purpose to be located in West Texas.

Farmer Pioneers Field of Irrigation By Digging Shallow Well

(Mary Holt in The Abilene Reporter-News)

In the field of irrigation, the pioneer is D. R. Brown, who has foreseen a possible agriculture program for a large acreage to irrigate the Texas centers, and in the rural population, is experiencing the modern era of gasoline powered machinery. Through the use of machinery one man is able to do a much larger amount of work in the days of single-planting.

Increase Yield

Would an irrigation program be successful, further employment for farm labor, and an increase in the yield of crops? Realization of these things was last summer when the city of Abilene, Tex., was irrigated on a cotton patch by A. Shaver, local gin operator, who resulted in a tripled yield.

Found in abundance of 30 to 40 feet, analysis showed it for irrigation purposes. It contains a small percentage of soda, magnesia and iron. The soil is a red-brown which is about four feet deep and has a sub-soil of being dug on the surface 10 to 12 feet in diameter was struck at the bottom. The hole will be drilled in the water sand, and it will produce per minute which is

A CITIZEN'S CREED

Hubert Harrison, Manager of East Texas Chamber of Commerce offers "A Citizen's Creed" which if lived up to would make better citizens, a better town, state and nation. He says:

"I believe in my COMMUNITY my STATE and my COUNTRY."

"I THANK GOD I am an American and a TEXAN."

"I believe that MEN play a big part in town-building than natural resources, and that cities are what men make them."

"I am willing to give my TIME, THOUGHT, ENERGY and MONEY to help advance the welfare of my community, in return for the great blessings, I enjoy."

"I am not AFRAID that my competitor will make more money than I will as the town grows."

"I will not be a SPONGE, taking all I can get and giving as little as possible."

"I want to LIVE in my town so that I can leave as a heritage the memory of some SERVICE for the benefit of the community."

"I believe that MY RECORD on earth will be largely my record as a citizen of THIS TOWN."

"I believe in the SUCCESS of my community and want to have it said of me that I PLAYED WELL MY PART."

"I believe in the SINCERITY of other citizens, and will not indulge in backbiting, SLANDER or KNOCKING against my town or neighbors."

"I am PROUD of MY TOWN and want to live so that the town may be PROUD of ME."

"I will advance the FAME of my town by doing MY JOB the best I can—and perhaps a little better than it is being done ANYWHERE ELSE."

"I will INVEST my LIFE where I make my LIVING."

Texas Tech Will Offer Course In Traffic Safety

Texas Technological college this summer will offer its first course in traffic safety and proper control of an automobile.

The course, with two hour's college credit, is designed primarily for the training of teachers who plan to teach similar courses, said Dr. Bradford Knapp, Texas Tech president and chairman of the sub-committee on education of Governor Allred's Traffic Safety committee.

Associate professor R. L. McRee of the Texas Tech civil engineering department will have charge of the six-weeks course. He will be assisted by representatives of the Texas State Highway patrol and of the American Automobile association. The department now offers a course in highway safety to regular engineering students.

Enrollees in the special course will pay regular summer school fees. Officials said they expect students to be experienced drivers and holders of state driver's license.

Subjects to be treated are: Analysis of accidents and their causes, study of methods of accident prevention, study of "rules of the road", including statutory laws and regulations and courtesies of the road given and expected by experienced drivers.

Laboratory periods will be devoted to the driving mechanism of cars, inspection of cars for safety and correct driving demonstrations. The course is a part of President Knapp's effort to start the process of traffic education in Texas institutions. Texas A. & M. will offer a similar course at the same time. The Texas Tech term opens June 7, closes July 16.

The following beautiful ceremony reconsecrating wedding vows of the couple, were read by a son-in-law, Capt. Morris U. Lively, Chaplain, U. S. Army, Fort Worth District CCC.

"Dear Beloved: We are gathered together in the presence of Almighty God and these assembled witnesses to reconsecrate the love and devotion of John Thomas Therwanger and Annie Robbins one to the other after fifty years.

"Know ye all, that marriage is a holy and sacred institution. It is one of the most sacred of God's ordinances. It is an institution which is not to be entered into lightly, unadvisedly, nor any spirit of levity; but, it is an institution that is to be entered into reverently, discretely, prayerfully and in the fear of God. Remembering always that those marriages which are according to God's plan and blessed by Him; and those which are contrary to his plans are condemned by Him.

"Let those who are younger take heed and be inspired by the beautiful example of these two lives. Those whom we delight to honor have walked together fifty years according to His law. For fifty years God has reigned in this home. He has ever provided shelter and raiment. He has spared both in health and He hath given ever been full.

"This union has been blessed by children who are an honor to this home and the grandchildren, who have a great spiritual heritage in these two children of God, Newton, Mary, Eileen, Elsie, Thelma, Newton, Jr., Dorothy Mae, Jack Morris, Ruby Joyce, Clara Anne, look with pride to those who gave you life; to those who have suffered in order that life in all its fullness and joys might be yours on this day.

"Now that ye would reconsecrate your lives and re-affirm your wedding vows; now that ye would reassume that obligation which ye took voluntarily fifty years ago, and which you have kept faithfully during all those years, Ye will reaffirm as follows:

"I take thee to be my lawful wedded (wife-husband) for richer, for poorer, for better, for worse, to live together in sickness and health, to cling to one another, forsaking all others until death.

To Keep Young Learn To Take Time

Here is a beautiful prescription which does not cost a cent.

It is a favorite of the most beautiful women on the continent and the most famous actresses in the world. Unless it is included in the regime, beauty cannot be retained. Yet many American women ignore it so completely that they defeat the very ends which they spend hundreds of dollars trying to attain.

It is simply—relax and rest.

During the years I spent in Europe as feature editor of The Associated Press Paris Bureau I learned the beauty secrets of some of the loveliest women on the continent. Virtually all of them know the value of repose. Eight hours' sleep every night and a half hour's daily rest either after luncheon or before dinner is as much a part of their beauty regimes as cold cream.

American women have a tendency to rush about much more than continental women, whether their days revolve about a household, a social program or a career. The majority of them plan twice as many things as they can do—they try to wedge in a little shopping or "beauty" message for good measure. The result is a weary face, frazzled nerves and a lack of praise—none of which make for beauty.

Try budgeting your day for a while—scheduling just what you know you can accomplish, without racing to keep pace with appointments. Three or four times a day, relax completely in your chair for a few minutes, close your eyes and think "black." It will do much to banish fatigue from mind and body and keep both feeling fresh.

When you go to bed, shut off your thoughts, as you turn out the light. (The day is ended and tomorrow will be another one). Open your window from the top, so that drafts will not strike you, make sure the sheets are smooth and the bedding light and warm. Relax and go to sleep—Adelaide Kerr.

Fair Dramatizes Freeing of Americas

Liberation of the Americas is the theme of this spectacle, told in Patrick Henry's stirring "Liberty or Death" speech.

Leadership of his country's cause rested on George Washington, shown in this Cavalcade scene with Marika Washington.

Down to date with the good neighbor policy, Cavalcade is climaxed with the Buenos Aires peace address of President Roosevelt.

Marching across the pages of history in drama are liberators of South America—San Martin and Bolivar.

U. S. Treasury Once Robbed of Fourteen Billion

How William C. Ralston gained admittance to the U. S. sub-treasury in San Francisco and actually carted off $14,000,000 in coin without a hand being lifted to stop him remains a mystery. If he had confederates working in the treasury building their part in the amazing exploit never came to light.

President and owner of the controlling interest in San Francisco's Bank of California, Ralston was faced with a threatened run on the institution as a result of U. S. legislation which forbade the exchange of gold for coin in 1869.

His depositors, panicky over the fact that the bank didn't have enough cash to pay them off, planned to withdraw all they could get. Such a move would ruin the bank.

The whole proposition looked ridiculous to Ralston. In the vaults of his bank lay millions of dollars worth of gold bullion. Yet ruin stared him in the face simply because he couldn't convert the gold into cash. He resolved on a bold move. Telling four of his employees to meet him outside the U. S. Treasury building at 1 o'clock in the morning, he laid his plans. The four men met at the appointed place and hour.

Ralston took leave of them and gained entrance to the building in a manner never explained. A few minutes later he appeared on the street weighted down with bags of U. S. coins. A conversation followed. The three employes disappeared into the building. Dragging out more bags to the street where Ralston stood guard. They re-entered the treasury to bring out others. A few hours of this and five tons of coins were piled in the street, then carried to the Bank of California. Later $14,000,000 worth of gold was carried over to the Treasury from the bank and left inside the building.

When the bank opened its doors the next morning, thousands of anxious depositors fought their way to the teller's windows. Amazed to find that hard cash was paid out to them in answer to their demands, they sheepishly redeposited it. The run was averted. The bank was saved. Ralston never even received a reprimand from the authorities for his startling raid on the treasury.

WPA, OR THE FARM?

Among the many other projects the Federal Government has endorsed to help take care of people, who were out of work and could not make a living, is the re-habilitation, or re-settlement, plan. In this county many farms have been rented by the government and people placed on them. The idea is for them to make their own way and save the government from a continuous expense.

During the past few years it would have been impossible for everyone to make a living or to have even had anything to eat, had it not been for FWA, WPA, and the many other alphabetical forms we have had to deal with. But after all is said, are we in any better condition than we were at the beginning? Decidedly not. In fact we are not in as good a shape so far as making people independent is concerned.

A good example of this would be the many projects that have been carried through in this county through WPA. They have furnished a living (very meager at that) to the people who worked on them during the time they were under construction. Even at that, the jobs did not pay anything like enough for a man to support himself and family while the work was going on. When the jobs were completed the laborers were right back where they started—no work and no prospects. The government's money had been spent, the men ate for a few days, but at the end there was no way for the government to be reimbursed and the laborer was in no better condition than before it all happened, other than having a little bread and a few red beans while such projects were under construction.

Trend of the times show no improvement so far as it would be possible for everyone to have paying employment and be self supporting. Common sense would say that only one thing can be permanent—put these people on farms where they can make their own living and let them again be self supporting.

The expenditure to the government would be a greater amount to begin with than furnishing "jobs" to those who can not get employment. But what of the final out come? The expense to the government would be over when a family was placed on a nice little farm where they could make their own way. With WPA or any of the other combination of alphabetical letters, the money is spent, temporary relief is had, but when the money and the work is gone the man is in reality in worse condition than he was the beginning.

If the government is to continue to take care of unemployment (and we see no other way out of it) the sensible thing to do would be to place the man on a small farm, give him some mules and a cow, and let him make his own living. He would become a better citizen, with more self respect and the government might eventually get the investment back.

It would be very appropriate to dub Edward of England as the world's best lover. When a man gives up his throne, his friends, and practically the admiration of the entire world for the love of one woman, he certainly earned the title of the world's best lover.

It's said that the good die young. But apparently a lot of people outgrow it.

A health expert says "an easy job is fatal" in which case a lot of people seem willing to flirt with death.

ORGANIZING THE FARMERS

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace recently urged the farmers of the nation to unite for political action, if they want to get their share of the national income. "I'm convinced," said Mr. Wallace, "that the method of settling problems in this country is going to be more and more on a functional basis — labor problems through labor unions and farm problems through farm organizations. This means that they are going to take some Federal power. That's all right because the corporations have had it for a long time".

Almost at the same time, Prof. Tugwell former Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, was urging the formation of a strong political alliance between organized Agriculture and organized Labor.

There is nothing new in either of these proposals. In the depths of the depression which followed the war between the states, seventy years or so ago, the National Grange was organized for the purpose of giving the united farmers greater political power. Ever since then the "farm bloc" has been increasing in political power in Congress. Indeed, one does not have to have such a very long political memory to recall the new political party which grew out of the Farmers' Alliance. The old People's Party and the twenty-two electoral votes which it won in 1892 has had a profound effect upon American politics for forty-five years. Most of the progressive economic reforms since sponsored by one or another of the two old parties were first advocated in that Populist platform of 1892.

One difficulty of getting all farmers to unite on any political program is that there are so many different kinds of farmers. The problems of eastern farmers differ from those of the West, and the southern farmer has troubles all his own. There are good farmers and poor farmers, contented farmers and dissatisfied farmers. The dissatisfied farmers are usually able to get a hearing for their grievances, but it does not follow that they represent the majority of farmers at any one time.

As to the union of farmers and industrial workers, that has been tried, too, politically. The Farmer-Labor Party today controls more than one state and has several Senators and Representatives in Congress. But the wage workers of the big industrial centers fail little in common with the farmer, who is essentially a capitalist and an employer of labor. Most substantial farm owners would look with suspicion upon all alliance which would bring farm workers into affiliation with Labor as at present organized.

H. J. R. No. 23 HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION

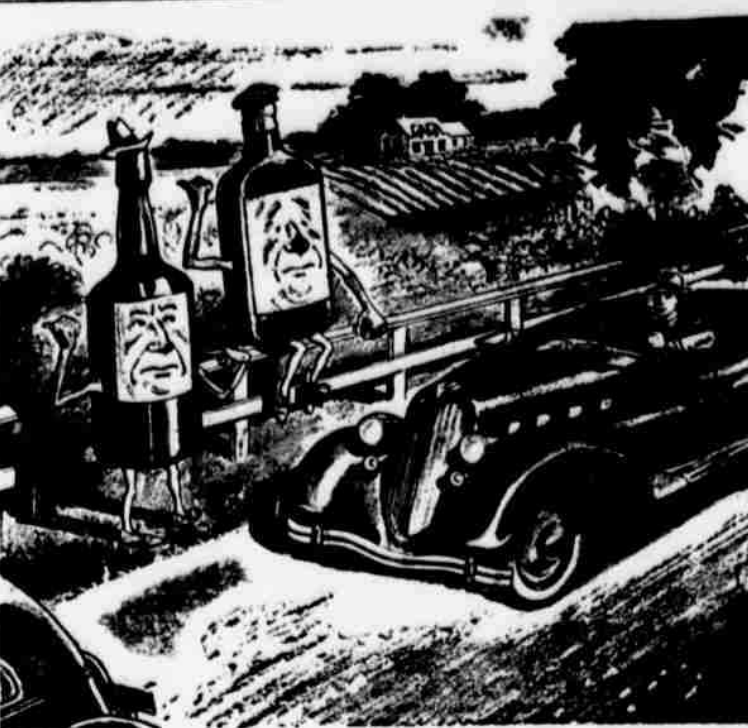

proposing an Amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas to be known as Section 20 of Article VIII, providing that no property of any kind shall be assessed for ad valorem taxes at a greater value than its fair cash market value; and giving the Legislature power to provide that the State and all governmental or political subdivisions or taxing districts may allow a discount for payment of ad valorem taxes before the date when they would otherwise become delinquent; and providing that this Amendment shall become effective January 1, 1939; providing for an election on the question of adoption or rejection of this Amendment; providing for the proclamation and publication thereof; and making an appropriation therefor; and prescribing the form of ballot.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding a new Section to Article VIII to be known as Section 20 and to read as follows:

"Section 20. No property of any kind in this State shall ever be assessed for ad valorem taxes at a greater value than its fair cash market value nor shall any Board of Equalization of any governmental or political subdivision or taxing district within this State fix the value of any property for tax purposes at more than its fair cash market value; provided that in order to encourage the prompt payment of taxes, the Legislature shall have the power to provide that the taxpayer shall be allowed by the State and all governmental and political subdivisions and taxing districts of the State a three per cent (3%) discount on ad valorem taxes due the State or due any governmental or political subdivision or taxing district of the State if such taxes are paid ninety (90) days before the date when they would otherwise become delinquent; and the taxpayer shall be allowed a two per cent (2%) discount on said taxes if paid sixty (60) days before said taxes would become delinquent; and the taxpayer shall be allowed a one per cent (1%) discount if said taxes are paid thirty (30) days before they would otherwise become delinquent. This amendment shall be effective January 1, 1939. The Legislature shall pass

Don't Pick 'em Up!

The thinking driver does not drink. He needs no evidence other than his own conscience to tell him that driving when his reactions are numbed by alcohol is a cardinal traffic sin. The drinking driver does not think. For his benefit the following statistics are offered. They are taken from 1936 accident reports analyzed by The Travelers Insurance Company. Of all drivers in fatal accidents, 7.3 per cent had been drinking. This is an increase of eight per cent over 1935. Of all drivers in non-fatal accidents, 4.3 per cent had been drinking. While these figures are based on a broad spread of official state reports, the accuracy of the picture they present will be questioned because of differences of opinion as to what constitutes drunken driving. Even worse is the record of pedestrians. One out of nine pedestrians killed in 1936 was under the influence of liquor. And 5.3 per cent of all pedestrians injured had been drinking.

necessary laws for the proper administration of this Section." Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at a special election to be held throughout the State of Texas on the 23rd day of August, 1937, at which election all voters favoring the proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the following words: "FOR the Amendment to the State Constitution providing that property shall never be assessed for taxes at more than its fair cash market value, and providing that in order to encourage the prompt payment of ad valorem taxes, the Legislature shall have the power to permit a discount for the payment of same before they become delinquent." Those voters opposing said proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words: "AGAINST the Amendment to the State Constitution providing that property shall never be assessed for taxes at more than its fair cash market value, and providing that in order to encourage the prompt payment of ad valorem taxes, the Legislature shall have the power to permit a discount for the payment of same before they become delinquent." If it appears from the returns of said election that a majority of the votes cast are in favor of said Amendment, the same shall become a part of the State Constitution.

Who Pays the Cost of Advertising?

To the critic who advances the argument that the cost of advertising places a needless burden on the consumer, we explain briefly the fallacy of this line of reasoning.

Advertising increases sales and creates new markets. Large scale production reduces overhead and costs per unit, and the advertiser can sell at a lower price.

It is possible to buy a far better auto today at half the price we paid twenty years ago. Yet it is a fact that all leading manufacturers of the "horseless carriage" have employed advertising extensively.

Some may say the component parts of an advertised product can be bought for less if purchased separately. Possibly so. But remember the chemist estimates the intrinsic value of the human body at about $1.15 if its ingredients are analyzed and secured bit by bit in a drug store. If such is the case it would appear all life insurance companies a gigantic error in estimating the value of millions of policy holders.

Rolled oats in sanitary, convenient packages cost no more than oatmeal from the barrel that harbored an occasional nest for mice. Fresh roasted coffee is available today in any grocery store and the domestic standard, advertised brands of coffee has shown a marked decrease in recent years.

The expense, or overhead, of the average retailer would be increased only a small margin of his volume of business was doubled. The judicious use of advertising speeds his turnover and enables him to pass along to his customers a part of the savings he has effected in the cost of doing business.

Yes, in the last analysis, the consumer pays the cost of advertising; but he pays it with just a small portion of what advertising has saved him.

Buchanan Dam, Longest of Its Type In World, Will Be Finished In Two Weeks

W. T. C. C. Head Is For Fiesta

In the next two weeks the longest dam in the world will be finished. It will be a two-ton bucket of concrete, finished a dam high and 100 feet more in length.

The normal flow of the river will be uninterrupted. It has been running through temporary port-holes at the bottom of Buchanan Dam. Now, two 60-inch gate valves have been installed, which together are capable of discharging up to 3,500 or 4,000 cubic feet of water per second. The ports will be closed and the stream flow governed by the gate valves.

To run off the flood waters, in excess of storage, there are being installed now on Buchanan Dam 33 big electrically operated steel Taintor gates ranging from 15 to 25 feet in depth, and up to 33 feet in length.

The last bucket of concrete in the main structure will not mean that work is finished at Buchanan Dam.

Power Machinery on Way

Installation of the gates and much equipment and operating machinery will take quite a time. Workmen are pouring the concrete for a power house equivalent to a good-sized four story building. Part of the equipment and machinery for two 11,000 horsepower turbines, and two 12,500 kva generators will reach the dam soon, and installation will start.

Then the workmen will have the problem of handling two pieces of machinery, each weighing 62 tons, when the generators are moved in. These must be lowered about 200 feet from the railroad. No trucks in the Central Texas are heavy enough to handle them, and operators of heavy moving equipment, possibly in Houston, possibly outside the State, will be enlisted to deliver this $500,000 worth of machinery safely in place.

A similar turbine and generator unit have been ordered for the Inks Dam.

Transformer and switchboard equipment will be installed in the course of several months, as it arrives.

Supt. B. Williams, in charge of the Roy Inks Dam for Morrison-Knudsen Company, contractors, was assistant superintendent on the huge Boulder Dam, finished two years ahead of schedule. His record of completing the Inks Dam since the flood last fall is cited as comparable with Aloop's record of finishing the Buchanan Dam far ahead of schedule.

Billy Rose Turns Down Venus de Milo

"Sorry, sister," Billy Rose, world's foremost showman, who is director-general of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, is saying to the Venus de Milo, "but your type of beauty is passe, declassé, definitely out in short, you're too fat, and should go on a diet. Now, this little lady on my left represents the modern, stream-lined type of loveliness that will be seen in the Casa Manana Revue at the Frontier Fiesta this summer when 200 girls will appear on the world's biggest revolving stage." The heavy line of the famous Greek statue which typified the ancient conception of beauty contrast with the smiling, almost boyishly-slender Miss Bebe French of Fort Worth.

For the year 1936 Texas led the entire United States in increased purchasing power, registering a 20 per cent rise in spendable income as against a national average gain of only 6 per cent, according to a report of the All-South Development Council made public this week.

The Council estimates from a study authoritative business surveys that the buying power of the Lone Star state last year was $2,886,638,000, up $464,509 over the 1935 figures of $2,422,129,000. It describes the gain as "powerful ammunition" supporting the arguments of public-spirited Texans who are urging national industrial leaders to locate new plants and factories in the Lone Star state thereby yielding benefits of increased employment and larger payrolls.

The one factor hindering more rapid settlement of new industry in Texas, in the opinion of the Council, is the competition of other states with more equitable tax policies. Continued agitation of higher taxes on natural resource industries, coupled with the lack of a well-defined long-range policy of legislation toward industry are causing business men contemplating the establishment of Texas plants to study the situation carefully, and are consequently acting as deterrents to a major influx of new capital into

Legislative Ideas Quite Imaginative

All the freak ideas do not originate in the Texas Legislature. A survey reveals some vivid imaginations on the part of legislators, ranging from a bill to make installation of ashtrays compulsory on all automobiles to one requiring that all school buses be painted red, white and blue.

Among the bills introduced in the Massachusetts Legislature was one that would make the governor "King of the Commonwealth." Another, intended to dispel any illusions about the incomes of hat check and cigarette girls, provided that all such employees working on straight salary must wear signs visible at 10 feet, warning that all tips go to the "house".

Georgia legislators contributed a bill that would abolish the time-hallowed institution of "horse-trading." Misrepresentation of a horse's age or teeth would be a criminal offense.

Bullfrogs were classed as game fish in a bill passed by the Oregon Senate.

Legislators of Pennsylvania introduced a bill that would compel city firemen to take motion pictures of two-and-three-alarm fires to be used later in the instructing of recruit firemen.

Sen. J. Miller Bonner of Alabama, who has served in the State Senate longer than any other man, proposed a bill making it a felony for a political candidate to violate a written campaign pledge after taking office. Such a violation would be punished with a sentence of one to 10 years in prison.

A measure requiring all lobbyists to file monthly financial statements specifying the employer, the amount of salary and expenses and where the money was spent, also is on the Alabama legislative calendar.

The proposed legislative investigation into the administration of former Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia drew the proposal of a three-cent stamp to finance the inquiry from Rep. William Barrett of Augusta, Ga. The bill was referred to the committee on state insane asylums.

A unique proposal said to be forthcoming in the Illinois Legislature is one providing pensions for fathers.

According to its author, Rep. Edward G. Haynes of Ottawa, Ill. it would be along the same lines as an existing mothers' pension law.

"Often times the mother is the breadwinner in the family," said Haynes, "because the father is incapacitated. In such a case when the mother dies the dependents are destitute. If the father had a pension the problem would be solved."

the state the Council reports.

Compared to the 20 per cent gain in Texas purchasing power, other sections of the county were credited with only slight increase, the Council found. The 1936 figures for the New England states were up 9 per cent over 1935, the Mountain and Pacific states advanced 3 per cent, while the Middle Atlantic region showed virtually no change. Gains of 8 per cent and 12 per cent respectively were reported for the North Central and the South Central groups with the South Atlantic states advancing 13 per cent.

The Council's study rates the 1936 purchasing power of the United States at 67 billion dollars as against 63 billion for 1935.

The rise in Texas retail sale which in 1936 was reported as 18 per cent was cited by the Council "as one of the strong reasons for few industries settling in Texas once the state satisfies business men that they will not be subjected to unreasonable or economically unsound taxes." Retail sales in Texas for 1936 were estimated at $1,525,050,000, compared to $1,289,264,000 for the previous year. The national figures were reported at $37,413,020,000 for 1936 and $33,161,276,000 for 1935, or a gain of 10 per cent.

Governor to Veto Unneeded Items Money Measures

Vetoes for individual items in the general appropriation bill, which are not essential to ordinary functions of the government were promised last week by Gov. James V. Allred.

He does not plan to veto the whole bills, explaining he did not believe legislators would do a better job at called sessions than at the regular meeting.

"I will cut out every appropriation I can where it is not essential to ordinary functions of the government, because the Legislature has raised no revenue," Allred said. "I will not veto the whole ed away from the principle that "this is a government of laws than of men," the speaker said, adding that the entire function of government was to make laws by one branch of the judiciary and their execution by another.

Grissom Is Speaker

Hon. Clyde Grissom, native of Haskell and former District Judge of the 39th district, was the principal speaker of the evening. He prefaced his address on "Ancient Laws" with a brief expression of his pleasure in being an honorary member of the Haskell County Bar Association, and his appreciation for the favors and kindness extended to him by fellow-members. He discussed old laws of a century ago, comparing them with statutes of the present day, pointing out that in early days law-offenders were punished at the discretion of the judges of county courts, or imprisoned as the court might see fit. Quoting Statutes of 1836, Judge Grissom stated that punishment for theft or property valued at more than $20 was punishable by "39 lashes on the bare back of the offender; who was also branded with the letter 'T', and a penitentiary sentence of three years could also be imposed. He gave several comparisons to illustrate the complete change in criminal laws of the nation during the past century. He closed his address by remarking humorously that lawyers had an inalienable right to "cuss" the courts but they should not allow anyone else to do so.

Rev. H. R. Whatley, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was called upon and made a brief talk on "Education", and also expressed his pleasure in attending the meeting.

Night Telegraph Rates to be Reduced

Drastic reductions in rates for overnight telegraph service which will become effective June 1 will provide substantial savings to residents of Haskell, it was disclosed this week by J. P. Payne, local manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company. A tariff filed Saturday with the Federal Communications Commission at Washington, D. C. will reduce the cost of both short and long messages and cut the telegraph bill of the nation by approximately $3,000,000.

"The effect of these reductions," Mr. Payne said, "is that the charge for 25 words will be the same as, and in some cases lower than, the present charge for a 10-word Night Message and that long messages can be sent at relatively even lower rates.

"The 10-word Night Message will be discontinued and the initial charge for Night Letters will be for 25 words instead of for 50 as at present. The maximum charge for a 25-word Night Letter will be fifty cents, even for the greatest distances in the United States.

"Words in excess of twenty-five will be charged for in groups of five instead of ten, as at present. The rates start at an unprecedentedly low level and decrease progressively as the length of the message increases, resulting in added-word rates as low as one cent for five words for messages sent a short distance and, for Night Letters sent over the greatest distances from Haskell, nine cents for five words in shorter messages and three and one-half cents for each five words sent in excess of 200. This is a new principle in rate-making and is designed to facilitate the use of the telegraph for all manner of business and social communications, no matter what length.

"Typical reductions in the rates for Night Letters from Haskell are: to Wichita Falls for 25 words old rate 30c, new rate 24c; to Houston, Texas, old rate 60c, new rate 42c; St. Louis, Mo. for 25 words, old rate 72c, new rate 48c; to New York, for 25 words old rate 90c, new rate 50c.

"These new overnight rates will enable the public to lay down communications everywhere at opening of business the following morning, with absolute certainty and at extremely low cost, whether the messages be short or long. They should result in a great saving of the public from that there is occasion for the number of words communications. In fact, they are designed to afford opportunity for the transmission of messages at a little cost in business and social correspondence.
