SKELL SCHOOL TERM OPENED ON MONDAY MORNING

Smallest Largest in History of School, With 100 Pupils Listed

The 1937-38 term of Haskell Public Schools opened Monday morning, September 6th, with the largest enrollment in the history of the system. More than one hundred and sixty pupils were registered in the high school and North Ward Monday and the enrollment is expected to pass the mark by the end of the week when registrations of new pupils are counted.

Principal C. B. Breedlove said that there were approximately two hundred and twenty students in the high school and one hundred and fifty in the North Ward. Within the week the school calendar for the year will be announced.

The arranging of new desks and equipment in the new high school has been completed and the use of the auditorium, now under construction, is expected to be completed by the early part of the year.

Discussion on appointing a city attorney to replace F. M. Robertson who recently moved was heard but definite appointment will be deferred until next meeting of the council Monday, Sept. 20.

The city council also authorized and warranted September bills and salaries.

After almost two months of freedom since he made a getaway from the county road gang on July 10 of this year, Lamont Smith was back in the county jail Sunday to serve the remainder of a 73-day jail sentence imposed for violation of the liquor laws.

Smith inadvertently walked into a drug store at Monahan's Saturday while Haskell County Sheriff Giles Kemp was in the rear of the store talking to an old acquaintance. The officer proffered Smith free transportation to Haskell which was readily accepted.

Dewey, the young racket-smashing special prosecutor who is running-mate as candidate for district attorney on the Republican ticket with the mayor. 2—Panoramic view of Shanghai's famous Bund which was rocked by explosions of bombs during the attack on the city by Japanese troops. 3—James Mattern (left), famed aviator who flew from California to Alaska to join in the search for lost Russian polar flyers, shown conferring with his navigator.

League Championship To Be Decided In Five-Game Series With Munday

In the final set of a three-game series the Haskell Braves defeated the Hamlin Oilers 4 to 0 Sunday afternoon and put themselves in the championship playoff with the Munday Moguls for championship in the Wichita Valley league.

In the elimination series Hamlin took the first game in a sweep of 5 to 0 from the bewildered Tribe but Haskell returned to win two straight, closing out the second game with a score of 2 to 0.

The Haskell Braves and Munday Moguls will start the five-game series Sunday, Sept. 12, for league championship. Place for the first game is undetermined but will probably be decided by toss of a coin and succeeding games will be played on the following Wednesday and Sundays until the series play off is completed.

Fines Assessed Against Two Men In Justice Court

An affray between two men which occurred at a rooming house here Sunday night, resulted in the two participants being confined in the county jail Monday night after they had been brought before Justice of the Peace Bruce Clift to hear complaints filed by members of the sheriff's department.

One of the combatants entered a plea of guilty and went to jail after he was unsuccessful in attempting to raise funds to pay the minimum fine of $1.00 and costs assessed by Justice Clift.

The other defendant, who refused to plead guilty, also went to jail in default of bail set at $150, which he was unable to perfect in the absence of an attorney.

Miss Marjorie Whiteker of Plainview spent the week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Whiteker.

RELIEF ROLLS IN COUNTY ARE CUT ONE-HALF

Seasonal Labor Demand Will Provide Employment For Large Number

With the opening of the Fall cotton season comes the announcement that general relief cases in Haskell County have been reduced approximately one-half. Instructions from the State Director of the Relief Commission directed that all families who could support themselves by seasonal labor be taken from relief rolls. Fifty-seven cases who were on general relief have been removed and under no consideration will they be placed back on the food commodity list, except in case of emergency. These cases, however, are still eligible for clothing but not for surplus food commodities.

These orders do not affect WPA workers who will still continue their work.

In the paper weight division David Campbell, weight 100, and Raymond Chitwood, 95, Haskell youth will battle. Lloyd McMillin in top condition will challenge someone in his weight class for a fight during the show. O. Windham.

The entire amateur boxing team of the Abilene Boxing Commission will be here for the tournament, sponsored by Eddie Brock and Mr. Crowell of Abilene.

Visiting Brother For First Time In Over Twenty Years

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wheeler and daughter of Fullerton, California, are here this week visiting his brother J. W. Wheeler, who lives southwest of Haskell nine miles.

This is the first time the two brothers have seen each other in twenty-eight years and they are having a joyous reunion this week. Mr. Wheeler, former East Texan, has been living in California for the past eleven years.

Defendant In Liquor Raid To Federal Court

Deputy United States Marshal Charles Brown of Abilene was here Monday to take into custody a Haskell woman, recently charged with violation of the state liquor laws, who was previously given an eighteen months probationary sentence in Federal Court at Abilene.

The most recent charge resulted from a raid by county officers, accompanied by State Inspector Allison of the liquor control board, when they seized a small quantity of liquor at the farm residence of the woman who resides north of Haskell. Formal complaint was filed in County Court, and the defendant was released under bond to await trial.

Local officers could not state Monday what disposition would be made regarding the probationary sentence fixed in Federal Court.

To Stamford Hospital

W. M. Cass, prominent Haskell farmer who has been confined to his bed from injuries sustained several months ago when he was struck by a tractor, was removed to the Stamford Sanitarium Monday in Holden's ambulance, where surgeons were to remove a cast from his left leg, fractured in the accident. Mr. Cass has practically recovered from his injuries, and will be returned home within a few days.

Jack and Bill Kimbrough are in College Station this week. Jack will enroll for the fall term as a Sophomore and Bill is attending the short course.

FARMERS POISONING TO HALT INFESTATION

Prompt Use Control Methods Is Expected to Prevent Extensive Harm

Increasing cotton leaf worm infestation in this section caused many Haskell County farmers to start spraying and dusting poison this week to rid the field of this dreaded scourge.

Reports to County Agent B. W. Chesser on the increasing number of cotton leaf worms have come from all parts of the county but no one has reported any extensive damage, due perhaps to the timely use of poison.

There have been a few reports of boll worms in some fields but not enough to warrant additional precaution in protecting cotton. Spraying and dusting with calcium arsenate is thoroughly effective in killing the leaf worm but has little effect on the boll worm except in a certain stage of growth.

Most farmers in poisoning use the popular method of fastening a 2x4 across a cultivator carriage, with bags attached and when jolted by blocks wired to the wheels the poison is shaken on the plants as the cultivator is drawn along the rows.

Faster and more modern is the airplane dusting method. The J. L. Schroeder Co. of Houston, specializing in cotton dusting, now has a plane in this area working. First poisoning by this method was done Monday morning on the farm of Bob Herren, located about five miles northwest of Haskell, and on the R. C. Lowe and James W. Kennedy farms.

Although more expensive than when done by hand this method is much faster and is said to be more effective. The plane, flying only six or eight feet above the ground covers a wide area with the poison, dusting about three acres per minute. Cost is estimated at forty to sixty cents per acre, as compared with eighteen to twenty cents per acre when dusted by hand.

REGIONAL MEET OF FARMERS IS SET NEXT MONTH

Gathering Originally Planned Sept. 3 Postponed Until October

The Regional mass meeting of farmers that was to have been held in Lubbock September 3 was postponed until some time in October, according to information received by Jesse L. Bell, president of the Haskell County Agriculture Association.

A large delegation of farmers and those interested in more farm income from Haskell county had planned to attend the gathering.

The meeting was postponed for several reasons, the principal of which was the Congress has adjourned and a cotton loan has been tentatively provided. H. G. Lucas, president of the Texas Agriculture Association, explained.

Another reason for calling off the meeting is that cotton picking has opened up several days earlier than contemplated, making it difficult for many farmers to get away to the meeting.

Officers Improve Batting Average Over Weekend

Doors of the county jail opened for eight offenders over the weekend, keeping both county and city officers busy for the brief spell. The "rush" was the heaviest since last Fall, according to the jail register.

Four of the offenders were charged with drunkenness, two negroes with affray, another faces a Grand Jury indictment for forgery returned over two years ago, and the eighth inmate was returned to Haskell to finish serving a jail sentence after his escape from the county road gang in July of this year.

Two Extension Courses Offered Local Teachers

Two extension courses in history and education will be started for Haskell County teachers and teachers in adjoining counties Monday Sept. 20, at the North Ward school building. Between fifty and sixty teachers are expected to enroll in the classes to be taught by Dr. R. N. Richardson who will teach history and Dr. R. A. Collins, who will teach education both of Hardin-Simmon University.

Dr. Collins met with Haskell teachers Saturday morning and it was decided that classes will be conducted from six until ten p. m.

Spilled Gasoline Causes Fire Alarm Monday Afternoon

The fire department was called Monday afternoon to extinguish a blazing pool of gasoline, spilled on the pavement by the delivery truck of the Grates Service Station, parked west of the Farmers & Merchants State Bank.

Johnny Robison, station manager and driver of the truck, stated that the fire was caused when sparks from the engine's ignition set fire to spilled gasoline.

No damage resulted to the truck, Robison reported.

Jack Mullins who has spent the past month here as a guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Collier, returned to his home at Wolfe City Monday.

NOTHING TO LOSE
The two reasons most prominently advanced for not invoking the U. S. Neutrality Act against China and Japan are that American trade interests would suffer heavily, and that it would work hardship on China, where the official sympathies presumably lie.

Those two excuses seem to have been already invalidated. Virtually all shipments to Shanghai have been halted or diverted and imports from China have been seriously curtailed, according to exporters, importers and bankers. With North China in its present condition of war, collections are hopeless and cargoes destined there have either been recalled or sent elsewhere. Many orders from the Far East have been canceled.

Even Japan, because of a lack of foreign balances, will soon be forced on a self-sufficiency basis, bankers said.

That being the case, shippers obviously cannot benefit by a foreign trade which has already been figuratively blocked. Neither can China be helped by supplies it doesn't get.

Invoking the Neutrality Act looks like a case of nothing to lose and everything to gain.

THE SPANISH-AMERICAN VETERANS

A reader suggests that we write something about the veterans of the Spanish-American war, who have been so often crowded out between the worship accorded the veterans of the sixties and the World War.

There is something to be said in behalf of these men. They volunteered to engage in a conflict which turned out not to be prolonged, but which seemed desperate enough as well as bullets and some of them died on alien soil in a fight for the freedom of an alien people. They served notice to the world that a new nation had arisen in the West, ready to take up another's burden.

Of course, today the people of this nation would hardly support a war for the freedom of Cuba or anybody else, but neither would they go into another European struggle if they could keep out of it. That has nothing to do with the debt that the Republic owes the men who fought the battle with Spain. They deserve well of their countrymen, in respect and esteem, and once in a while there are signs that they are being accorded the recognition that is their due.

Do You Remember
... these happenings of 10 and 15 years ago?
(Taken From the Files of the Haskell Free Press)

September 8, 1922
Work is going forward rapidly on the erection of a new school building at Jud, in the northwest part of the county. The building, of modern construction, will be completed within thirty days.

The Haskell schools opened the 1922 school term Monday morning with a heavy enrollment. A contest was held Tuesday of this week in the County Judges' race in the recent primary by Judge Jas. P. Kinnard, incumbent.

Kinnard is contesting the official count made by the county Democratic Executive Committee, which gave R. E. Lee a majority of 25 votes over Kinnard.

The home of R. E. DeBard in the southwest part of town was destroyed by fire of unknown origin early Sunday morning. The house and contents was a total loss, practically nothing being saved from the building.

Sheriff Al Cousins left Monday night for Abilene, where he will attend the annual convention of the Texas Sheriffs Association.

Messrs. J. J. Oates and Eugene Tomm have established an agency in this city for Dodge Automobiles and trucks. Headquarters will be in the Tonn Garage.

A wedding that came as a delightful surprise to their many friends was solemnized last Sunday morning when Miss Elsie Killingsworth became the bride of Mr. Grady G. Roberts. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's father, I. D. Killingsworth, by Rev. McHenry Seal, pastor of the Baptist Church.

Reynolds Wilson, John Pace, Jr., and Ernest Sanders motored to College Station last week where John will enter school. The other boys returned home Tuesday, September 8, 1927.

Haskell county schools will receive $76,605 from the state department of education for the 5,107 scholars registered in the county, according to Miss Minnie Ellis, county superintendent. The per capita apportionment this year is $15.00.

W. T. Britton, prominent Seymour banker, died instantly from the accidental discharge of a shotgun while he was hunting doves a few miles east of Seymour last Friday afternoon.

Cotton leaf worm millers have shown up in several cotton fields over the county since the recent rains and showers, according to County Agent Trice, who warns farmers to take immediate steps in poisoning the worms.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornell Sherrill left last week for Cornell University, N. Y., where Mr. Sherrill expects to complete his M. A. degree. He graduated last year from Washington and Lee university.

Mrs. A. B. Pumphrey left recently for New York City where she will join her husband, Dr. A. B. Pumphrey, who has accepted a position as an interne in the Polly Clinic Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Grissom and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hudson and son Jack have returned from a visit in Dallas, where they were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Fields.

Hon. Marvin Jones, congressman from this district, was a visitor in Haskell Saturday.

BREAKS GLASS, JAILED
New York—Bernard Keller, 35, informed police officers that he wanted to be locked up but was told he couldn't be arrested without a charge. In a few minutes, he was brought back to the station house by a detective who charged him with throwing a garbage can through a $200 plate glass window. He received a sentence of thirty days in the workhouse.

ATTENTION: AMERICAN WIVES

American wives, enjoying a freedom that sometimes amazes visitors from other sections of the globe, might be interested in the story of a young and beautiful woman recently found chained to the wall of a room in a farmhouse in Czechoslovakia.

Investigation by the police disclosed that fetters around both ankles were connected by a long chain to staples in the wall and that a fierce dog on the outside prevented strangers from entering. Also it was discovered that this was the method adopted by her jealous husband to keep her safe.

Now comes the point of the story for American wives. The young lady told the police that she did not object to the arrangement so long as it pleased her husband and that she was quite happy.

WORKING CO-EDS

More girls in the United States will work their way through college than ever before this year, if you can take figures compiled by the University of Iowa as typical of the rest of the country.

Those figures reveal further that the coed is more choosy about her work than the average male student. Boys applying are apt to take anything and be happy over it. They will even start to school on a shotgiring in the hope that they can pick up any odd job which will pay living expenses.

The girls, though, want assurance of a place before they enroll. More than that, they indicate the jobs they want and most of them lean toward typist and secretarial positions. College employment bureaus mourn that jobs of housemaids, for instance are going begging which there is an abundance of near young women waiting with pencils poised for business dictation.

SELF-MADE HIGHWAYS

It wouldn't happen in the United States because people here are too long accustomed to comparatively tender governmental care, but in British Columbia the residents of a section north of Prince George are building a 135-mile community highway.

Canadian newspapers are bowing their heads in shame that official lethargy should require individual road-building.

But from another point of view it's definitely admirable when a group of persons want a road badly and take the simple and direct method of building it themselves instead of spending the same energy grumbling when their autos get stuck.

WHO WAS BRYANT UNTIED?

Who recalls Bryant Untied?
A few short years ago his name was on the lips of the nation. As we recall it he was the hero of a bus tragedy which took the lives of a number of school children in a Colorado blizzard. He was received at the White House and heard the nation applaud his heroism.

What of him? Well, we see today by the newspapers that he is in Denver today, looking for a job!

Not long ago Mahatma Gandhi was a personage of considerable news importance. Have you any idea where he is today?

When people begin to praise you, to your face, it might be a good idea to begin an investigation of yourself.

When a girl marries she's never sure whether her friends are wondering "how she managed to get him" or "what she ever saw in him."

"The Rest of The Record"

BY JAS. V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

Quite a few of the newspapers have carried statements lately to the effect that we didn't need any new taxes. It's hard for me to understand this contention. When the Legislature met in regular session this year I told them that the general fund deficit would be approximately fifteen million dollars on August 31st. It has turned out to be just about that.

The trouble is, as I pointed out in my message to the regular session of the Legislature, that expenditures at that time (last January) exceeded income about two and a half million dollars per year. I specifically stated that I could not recommend increases in appropriations other than a little over a million dollars for the insane asylums and other eleemosynary institutions. In the face of these recommendations the Legislature increased appropriations approximately four million dollars per year and not a single penny of additional revenue was finally provided to take care of either the deficit or the increased appropriations.

In addition to the money necessary to wipe out the deficit and to take care of these increases in appropriations, I recommended that additional money be raised for old age assistance. This, too, was not done. I still think we need more money in the old age assistance fund to take care of many worthy cases. In my opinion, the trouble isn't so much with the law. We just need more money in the fund.

Besides we owe $1,627,000.00 on old age assistance warrants issued before the tax laws went into effect. Claude Teer, Chairman of the Commission, says we need more money for old age assistance. Unless new money is raised before the first of January, we are going to get into a tight and more people will have to be cut off.

Besides all this the people recently adopted several constitutional amendments. I am sorry they didn't adopt the amendment to authorize the Legislature to pay public officers out of fees or salaries. This would have saved at least half a million dollars a year, but the people have spoken and I'm always willing to abide by the will of the majority.

Two amendments adopted authorized the State to completely cooperate with the Federal Government in its Social Security program. One authorized aid to the needy blind, and the other to dependent, neglected children. As yet I have no exact figures on how much aid to needy blind will cost, but aid to needy children is limited to one and a half million dollars a year for the State's part. In addition to this the people adopted the teachers' retirement amendment last year, and this is estimated to cost over two million dollars a year for the State's part.

Now all this adds up into millions. I'm the last person in the world to want to tax somebody, but when the people speak I think it's the duty of the Legislature and the Governor to carry out their wishes. The only way to raise this money is by taxation. It is painful, but necessary.

The argument is being made that improving business conditions will eliminate the necessity for new taxes. I hope business will continue to improve. Of course, Roger Babson is predicting another depression, but, in any event, business will not improve to such an extent that present taxes will take care of an existing deficit of fifteen million dollars, increased appropriations of four or five million dollars per year, over one and a half million dollars which the old age assistance fund owes on outstanding warrants, at least two million dollars new money to go in the old age assistance fund, one and a half million dollars for aid to dependent children and several millions for aid to the blind and the teachers' retirement fund.

The Legislature meets on September 27th, at which time I will make my recommendations as to how this money should be raised, and it will be in their hands, I am going to work on this job as hard as I did for repeal of the race track law, and hope you will help me with your moral support.

In view of the fact that all the big interests have unquestionably unloosed most of the recent propaganda against new taxes, and are having messages to that effect sent to members of the Legislature I think the people had better get busy and let the senators and representatives know their views.

I don't want to call the Legislature in special session and accomplish nothing. I delayed the call until the people could vote on these amendments. Now it would be a great help to the cause of the people as a whole if you would see, or write, your representatives and senators and give them your views on the necessity of providing this revenue.

The money can be raised without substantial injury to anyone.

Texas is in a fortunate position as compared with most of the other states. Due to the wisdom of our forefathers in writing certain provisions of the Constitution, we have no great outstanding bonded indebtedness. We do not have an income tax. We do not have a sales tax, a transactions tax, or anything of the sort so common in every state around us. I hope we never have to have these burdensome, or nuisance taxes, but the fact remains that we owe it to ourselves to balance the budget, to adequately provide for old age assistance and to raise money for placing the other constitutional amendments into effect at an early date. Do you agree with me?

West Texas Utilities Co.,
Abilene, Texas.

Dear Sir:

The purpose of the contest that your Company arranged is one that should appeal to every American woman, for it is true that the facilities for the effective management of the home have, within the past few years, become so notable as to remove — let us hope, forever — much of the ceaseless drudgery formerly a concomitant of that necessary field. Science and invention, I am sure, will shortly find ways to eliminate the few remaining onerous duties. It is, therefore, indeed high time that the term formerly synonymous with household drudgery be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things.

Accordingly, I have examined with the greatest interest all the entries that you sent me by airmail. I can not be certain, naturally, that any of them would become the one term that will be received by American women as a permanent and acceptable substitute for the outmoded term "housewife." I think, therefore, that your plan to offer a selected list of prize-winning terms is the wise procedure, thereby suggesting possible lines which may lead to a term — perhaps altogether new — that may be generally accepted.

I regret that a great many of the entries seemed to me altogether too flamboyant and fanciful for even brief consideration. Others, tho the contestants may not have realized it, were terms already employed in our language with far different meanings. Others were altogether dependent upon the correct pronunciation for their significance.

My search for the winner of the contest led me to seek a term that was not only new in every respect, but that would be formed with due regard to etymology and with a recognition of the fact that the chief agency in the relief of household drudgery is electricity. This word I found in Neolectress, coined by Mrs. Ben D. Parker, of Abilene, Texas.

For second choice, I have selected the entry of Mrs. F. B. Probandt, of San Angelo, whose word is Domestician. My third choice is the entry of Mrs. W. B. Bourland, of Oklaunion, whose word is Homeologist. The remaining selections, in the order of my preferences, are attached hereto.

Very truly yours,
Charles Earle Funk
Charles Earle Funk

Do you like "Neolectress"? N-e-o means new. L-e-c-t-r-e-s-s has the feminine ending and suggests electricity. Taken together, the word suggests a modern home maker alert to this new electric age. Dr. Funk, in his letter, says "the chief agency in the relief of household drudgery is electricity." Thus, we define "neolectress" as meaning "a modern woman freed of kitchen drudgery by Electric Servants." The name is being copyrighted with that definition.

The contest was successful because it attracted attention to the improved status of West Texas women. A thousand words specifically said they dislike the name "housewife." However, it is more difficult than we at first thought to find a suitable substitute. But we like "Neolectress" better the more we think about it. We hope you will. To all entrants we express sincere gratitude for their help. We only wish there could have been prizes enough to go all the way round!

Happy but almost speechless was Mrs. Ben D. Parker, 229 Grape Street, Abilene, when shown the super-duty Frigidaire her entry in the "name-a-housewife" contest had won. "I can't say it, too," she told Harold D. Austin, who made the presentation. Thoughtful of Mr. Austin, who sells the refrigerator, she obligingly added: "Every woman needs a Frigidaire!"

Not a Housewife — A "Neoelectress"

And is her face happy! Mrs. Ben D. Parker of Abilene had "time on her hands" so she thought about the campaign to re-name the modern West Texas woman, sponsored by the West Texas Utilities Company. As a substitute name for "housewife" she coined the word "Neoelectress"—meaning "a modern home maker alert to this new electric age."

Miss Geneva Bloom and Wayne McNeil of Amarillo, spent the week end in the home of the former's aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Meacham.

"The Roaring Earth" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

TODAY'S adventure story, boys and girls, is from Lucile Anderson, whose address, at the moment, may or may not be Cristobal, Canal Zone. The truth of the matter is that Lucile hops around so fast that I don't know just where to find her. That's because Lucile's business is one that calls for a lot of traveling.

Lucile, believe it or not, is a lady trapper and fisherman. She traps birds and wild animals in the jungles and gathers tropical fish. And once a year she makes a trip to New York to sell her catch to zoos and bird stores and pet shops.

Several million people went through that adventure with Lucile. Not the bath, of course. That would be too many people for one tub. But millions did go through the same general ordeal, for it was one of the great disasters of modern times—one in which ninety-odd thousand people were killed, September 1, 1923, is a date that doesn't mean much to us here in the U. S. A. But when I tell you that this adventure happened in Japan—well—maybe that will furnish you with a clue.

That day came on a Saturday. The weather was hot and deadly still. Not a breath of air was stirring. It had been that way all morning in the area about Tokyo and Yokohama. In Yokohama Lucile felt the need of a cool bath and she filled the tub and climbed in. She was sitting in the water, getting some of the heat out of her system, when she heard the wind begin to blow outside.

That wind came with abrupt suddenness in the midst of the dead calm. At the same time it began to grow dark. A distant rumble came to her ears and the house began to shake! And Lucile paid no attention to it. This was Japan, where earthquakes—slight tremors—were as common as rain. She had been through a dozen of them before. The house would shake a bit and then the sky would clear and it would be all over.

But Lucile had guessed wrong. A few minutes later the second shock came, and this time it was all she could do to hold on to the tub. It rocked and swayed. Dust filled the room. Then, suddenly, plaster began falling from the ceiling. The air was filled with a haze of dust that made it almost impossible to see.

For a moment Lucile couldn't see anything. Then the dust settled a bit. She looked around apprehensively to see what damage the quake had done to the walls. BUT THERE WEREN'T ANY WALLS! She was sitting in a bathtub in midair in the midst of crumbling ruins. Below her only a part of the side of the house, strengthened by the pipes and plumbing fixtures that led to the bathroom, was holding her up in the air.

The houses all around her were all down and in ruins. Screaming, crying people were running in all directions. "I wanted to scream, too," says she, "but I was afraid to. I knew all too well what a precarious position I was in, and I was afraid to move or even to draw a deep breath for fear the tub would fall and send me crashing, naked, to the ground. So I just sat there, hoping that some friend would happen along and give me a helping hand. No friend came, but I didn't have long to wait."

It was only a few seconds until the third tremor came along. Another violent shake and Lucile felt herself falling—crashing—tumbling earthward. Pieces of plaster and debris were beating against her body. The wall—that small section that still remained—was falling on her!

22 States Enact Legislation For Control of Soil

Twenty-two States now have laws authorizing co-operative action by farmers to stop soil erosion. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace announced Wednesday at Washington.

Arkansas, Florida, Colorado, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Utah and Wisconsin have enacted legislation the last six months.

Laws, in general, set up a procedure for the creation of soil conservation districts with authority, as governmental units of the State to develop erosion control programs in cooperation with individual farmers and to enforce land-use regulations which have been approved in a referendum by a majority of the land occupiers in a district.

Such a setup was recommended last February to Governors by President Roosevelt. Wallace said no new work would be started in controlling the tragic erosion menace in any State which had no law to co-operate with the Department of Agriculture.

Neither the Federal Government, States or individual farmers can do this job alone," he added. "The power to make land-use regulations by a majority of farmers
