Herren is calling a meeting Wednesday morning of all women and all who will give a day of their time to the Red Cross. The meeting will be held in the Red Cross room at Application rejected was that of Thos. B. Roberson, candidate for County Superintendent, who filed his application Monday morning. Action of the County Committee in refusing to certify Mr. Roberson's name on the primary ballot was taken after the committee had been advised in a long-distance phone call to the Attorney General's department in Austin that such action on the part of the County Committee was mandatory and that no other course could be taken.

Mr. Roberson, teacher in Haskell county schools for a number of years, had announced his candidacy for County Superintendent early this year through the newspapers of the county. Failure to file for a place on the ballot was explained as an oversight on his part, he said Monday. Death of an immediate relative and illness of another member of his family has occurred during the past two weeks had kept him from devoting any time or thought to his campaign for office, Mr. Roberson explained.

Other candidates for the office, County Supt. Matt Graham and Mrs. Iva Palmer, teacher in the Weintert schools, advised the county committee in voluntary statements of their willingness for Mr. Roberson's application to be accepted. Opinion of the Attorney General's department, however, prevented this action on the part of the County Committee, and only names of candidates whose applications were received on or before midnight June 13 will appear on the first primary ballot.

Opportunity Always Passes the Unprepared

They're Gaining--You're Losing

Our school is well filled with young men and young women who are making rapid strides towards economic independence.

They are getting ready to make a living.

They are preparing to fill places of responsibility in business—to earn advancement and to build for the years of responsibility that they are facing.

In other words, they are moving forward while you—if you are not in school—are standing still, if there is any such thing as standing still.

They're gaining—you're undoubtedly losing.

You are now in a race and you are constantly falling behind.

You are competing with other young people of your age and station in life and you are being bested because you are not taking full advantage of all your opportunities, as the others are.

How long do you intend to trail the procession?

How long are you going to be willing to overlook your opportunities—to permit the person just ahead of you to take the place of profit and responsibility that you might qualify for.

This is plain language and is not intended to be offensive; but we most sincerely hope that from the reading of these lines, you may get inspiration to step out into the race and take the place that actually belongs to you.

Think it over, young friend.

Try to visualize yourself twenty years hence if you pursue your present policy.

Try to appreciate how far behind you will be in twenty years if your companions push onward and upward while placidly let events take their course.

VICTORY...

Of course we'll win the war—but nobody knows when. The harder, the more effectively, we fight and work, the sooner the white flag of the oppressors will go up.

Let's buy defense stamps and bonds and give our own service the very highest possible value. There's plenty of untrained help—it's the people who are educated for action who will contribute most to the winning of the war.

Your rubber scrap will bounce a Jap. ### On The Home Front . . . . .

Civilians in the Southwest can be forgiven for their pride in what is being done all around them to help win the war as they see signs that the new war plants are humming. Surely they can glory in the fact that in the Southwest there were big oil equipment factories that could be converted to making machines of destruction. And, they can be cheered by the munitions output from sectional industries that formerly made cotton gin machinery and other farm and industrial equipment.

But, instead of being tempted to relax they must get into still a more vigorous stride toward victory. They must realize that the pull will be long and hard, and that we are just getting started.

The sacrifices which the Home Front will be called upon to make, and the jobs that will have to be done in each state and community in the months to come are many—just extensions of what already has been experienced—and will require greater energy and determination.

Where we have had little for civilian use, we will have still less.

After a little more than six months of war, we are turning out ships and weapons at a rate that must give Hitler and Hirohito nightmares. But we can't afford to let down—we must turn out ships and weapons even more rapidly, and as materials get scarcer, the folks on the Home Front will cheerfully do without, or give up what they have, so that the boys who are doing the fighting will have more.

Right now, in all parts of the Southwest, the home folks are searching their homes, and cellars, and garages, and barns, and smokehouses for the presently most needed material—RUBBER. Everyone knows the situation. The Japs cut off our supplies of crude rubber. In addition to making the crude rubber stockpile last, we've got to find every piece of rubber that all of us can spare so it can be reclaimed and used for war production.

The scrap rubber campaign is the biggest thing of the moment. The President has outlined the details and turned the job over to the state and local salvage committees. Governors and mayors, civic and professional leaders, and volunteer groups of all kinds already have pledged their fullest help.

It's a job for everyone to GET IN THE SCRAP, so the President and the War Production Board can find out how much rubber we actually have. Important decisions hinge on the results in Haskell, Texas; Wewoka, Okla.; DeRidder, La., and every other city and community in the Southwest and the nation.

The rubber campaign is simple. All that everyone has to do is find all the rubber he can and turn it over to the volunteer collectors, committees, civic and charitable groups or patriotic and service organizations. Or, if he wishes, take it to any filling station—designated by the President as the official depositories for the drive.

Working with their oil companies, the filling stations are paying a cent a pound for all kinds of rubber scrap. The oil companies will see that the scrap goes to the proper reclaiming plant, and if there is any profit from their sale as directed by the government the profit will be turned over to some worthy war cause.

without everything but the barest essentials. Fish will be harder to get. It's pretty obvious that the war has interfered with off-coast fishing, and besides the Army and Navy and Lend-Lease need fish as food for our soldiers and sailors and for our allies.

Pork may grow harder to get because we're sending lots of pork abroad in the same way. Because we're trying to save all possible tin for war we must learn to depend on fresh fruits and and vegetables rather than on food from cans.

These things we must not do: We must not hoard food. We must not buy too much food at one time. We must not waste food. Not only must we eat fresh fruits and vegetables to save tin (there is enough tin in a single tin can to provide the indispensable tin required for two Army compasses) but we must try to find locally grown vegetables and fruits in order to cut the load on our railroads and on our trucking system. And we must find substitutes for fish and pork. There are plenty to be had.

We won't have to ration clothing this year—and least it doesn't look that way now. But look for further changes in style along the lines of those we have had already in a further effort to save cloth for the Army and Navy. The wool problem grows more serious in the face of military need for wool.

and it is probable that we'll all wear a great deal more cotton than we did in time of peace.

Leather is a problem, too, although civilian shoe stocks are still adequate.

Because our railways are bearing an increasing burden, there will be fewer passenger trains and slower passenger trains and passenger trains crowded to the point of discomfort. That goes for buses, too.

And, as for the automobile anyone who grinds rubber from his tires in unnecessary driving these days is willfully aiding our enemies.

It is rumored that cheerfulness is largely a matter of one's income being above one's outgo. No mother-in-law thinks that the mother-in-law jokes are aimed at her kind of mothers-in-law.

It is as hard for a rich man to enter heaven as it is for a poor man to live on earth.

Raul English Candidate For County Clerk

With this issue of The Free Press we are authorized to announce the candidacy of Raul English, well-known resident of this city and member of an early-day family in this section, as a candidate for the office of County Clerk of Haskell county, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

Mr. English was born and reared in Haskell and secured his education in the Haskell schools. For a number of years he has been employed in a responsible capacity in a grocery store in this city, and has a background of business experience which qualifies him to discharge the duties of County Clerk, if elected, in an efficient and business-like manner.

Mr. English states that he will make an effort to see as many voters as possible before the primary is held to discuss his candidacy with them personally, and in the meantime he will gratefully appreciate any consideration given his candidacy.

In making his announcement for County Clerk, Mr. English issued the following statement: "To the People of Haskell County: My family has been in Haskell County since 1889. I am 31 years old, and have lived in Haskell all of my life. I am married and have a family. The untimely death of my father in 1925 left my mother in a difficult financial position, but with her aid I was able to continue my education until 1929 when I graduated from Haskell high school. I then felt it my duty to abandon any attempt at furthering my education in order to help educate a younger brother, who is now serving with the armed forces of the United States together with many other young men of Haskell County who are doing so much for their country."

"I have never before sought public office, but it has always been my ambition to serve the people of Haskell county. I am asking you to make me your County Clerk, and if elected, I pledge you an honest, efficient and courteous administration. Sincerely yours, RAUL ENGLISH"

Farmers Can 'Pool' Travel Facilities To Save Tire Wear

Asking your neighbors if they need anything in town or want to ride in with you is more than just neighborliness—it's good sense and a good way to save wear and tear on tires. That's why the Haskell County USDA War Board is urging farmers in the county to work out neighborhood plans for making the best possible use of transportation facilities. As John W. Brock, board chairman points out, agricultural products must get to market, if they're going to be sold and if the American people are going to eat, and tires are going to be mighty hard—maybe impossible—to get when the ones now on hand are gone.

"Arrange with one or more neighbors to exchange trips," the board advises farmers. "Do all your regular hauling, so far as possible on that basis. Form a little group on your road to do this in a systematic way. Pool your loads." As a further tire-saving step, the USDA War Board advises against going into town "empty." "If you have an errand in town call up your neighbors and take everybody on the road who needs to go that day—then let them do the same by you." Mr. Brock continued. "Make similar arrangements for small partloads of produce. Don't make a trip alone with just a bushel of potatoes or a sack of grain, nor to get one or two small items of supplies. Double up. Cooperate with your neighbors."

Farm hauling is not subject to restriction under the office of Defense Transportation order, Mr. Brock pointed out, but farmers are expected to comply with the spirit of the order by making as few trips as possible.

FLUORSPAR Used in War and As Jewels

By COL. FAIN WHITE KING, Research Director Archaeology of Kentucky

War is on in the entire world. Possible success on the side producing the greatest amount of steel and aluminum, certain defeat without it. The mineral fluor spar is necessary in manufacturing both. Marion, Kentucky and Rosiclaire, Illinois, districts produce ninety-one percent in the United States of this essential ore.

Fluorspar was the Mound Builder's most valuable jewel long before Columbus came to America. He adored its varied colors of purple, red and pinks and worked it into shapes of animals, birds, and human effigy. He had no "sparklers" as he did not know the principle of facets to reflect the light. The after glow colors of the sunset were seen by the Mound Builders in their fluor spar jewels and no doubt satisfied their love of beauty. Since 1880 we have mined over four million tons of fluor spar to coat bath tubs, use in paints and for hydrofluoric acid, etc. In contrast the Mound Builder as a miner of this material was a "flop", during the hundreds of years he lived in the Mississippi Valley, he never mined as much as twenty-five pounds. There are not more than a total of three hundred pieces known of fluor spar jewels of the aboriginal peoples of the Mississippi Valley in the various collections of this country. One each in the Heye Foundation, Museum of the American Indian and the University of Kentucky, a few of these rare artifacts elsewhere. The King Collection at Wickliffe, Kentucky, an ancient buried city has over two hundred of these, many from the mounds which have proven to be in the last ten years of excavation a treasure house of prehistoric wealth.

Most of our diamonds were polished at Amsterdam prior to our present war, so too, was Wickliffe the center of the fluor spar polishing industry, the raw mineral was transported via water from the mines and brought to that important busy prehistoric metropolis at the meeting points of the great Mississippi and Ohio rivers. Here at this point, about forty mounds were built on a high natural fortification, temple buildings, home sites, court house and the burials of the people themselves, left in mute testimony of a important industrial and religious city.

In the last ten years with the help of my wife, Mrs. Blanche Busey King, an ethnologist and writer and a trained staff of experts, we have taken from this thousand-year old city almost two hundred thousand objects that were worn and used in the daily lives of the first peoples that lived in our country. With camel hair brushes and orange wood sticks as the principal tools records that were unwritten are being revealed of the dim and almost forgotten past. Come and see our work.

Troy G. Turpen Enters Assessor-Collector's Race

The Free Press is authorized this week to announce the candidacy of Troy G. Turpen of this city as a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor-Collector of Haskell county, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary, and his name will be found in the proper place in our announcement column. Mr. Turpen will probably have a formal statement to the voters in an early issue of The Free Press.

In announcing his candidacy for the office of Assessor-Collector Mr. Turpen stated that he was doing so after careful consideration and with the belief that he was qualified to discharge the duties of the office in an efficient manner if elected.

Mr. Turpen, age 30, is married and has two children. He has been a resident of Haskell county for about 20 years, and received his education in Haskell county schools. He has an ample background of business experience in responsible positions, and for the past seven years has been employed in Hassen Bros. Store in this city. He has never asked for public office before.

Mr. Turpen plans to make as intensive a campaign as possible in the interest of his candidacy, and will endeavor to see a majority of the voters of Haskell county in person to discuss his candidacy with them, and to solicit their vote and influence. He solicits and will appreciate the careful consideration of the voters in selecting their Tax Assessor-Collector in the coming primary, with the promise that if elected to devote his entire time and utmost ability to discharging the duties of the responsible office in an efficient and dependable manner.

Mrs. Edith English, Mrs. Crockett English and Barry Williams went to Mineral Wells Tuesday where they will visit Lt. and Mrs. Lanham Williams and Crockett English.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Aside from the sixty-mile an hour Mosquito Torpedo Boats, the Sub Chasers are the speedsters of our Navy. Light and fast, they are the eyes of the Fleet on the water. They displace approximately 1,500 tons and cost about $2,400,000 each.

We need many of these powerful, fast little boats to cope with the treacherous submarine type of naval warfare fostered by our enemies. Everybody can help pay for more Sub Chasers by putting at least ten percent of his income into War Bonds. Buy Bonds or Stamps every pay day. Buy them from your bank, your post office, or from your office or factory through the Payroll Savings Plan.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

I am not bound to win, but I am bound to be true. I am not bound to succeed, but I am bound to live up to the light I have. —Lincoln

Hitler and Hirohito Fear American Inventive Genius

Declaring that both Hitler and Hirohito fear American inventive genius, A. I. Elder, a member of the War Production Board, in an address before the American Chemical Society at its meeting in Memphis, Tenn., explained that on the basis of what we have achieved, our enemies know they must expect some secret and effective weapons to be used by us.

To America goes the credit of having invented and developed the submarine, tank and airplane, as well as a host of other important devices. Ideas, plans, suggestions, almost by the barrelful come in each day to two groups in Washington, D. C. One of these is the National Inventor's Council and the other the Office of Scientific Research and Development. Although the bulk of the ideas submitted are turned down for one reason or another, every so often one is presented that has the nucleus of an idea which may turn out to be exceedingly useful.

In discussion during the convention, it was pointed out that nylon has proved a satisfactory substitute for silk in the manufacture of parachutes, opening as quickly and developing greater strength.

It was also brought out that the compound, levulinic acid known for more than seventy years, has been found the medium of increasing several important crops as much as a hundredfold, as well as for a variety of uses in industry.

United States Solving Submarine Menace

At no time in our history have we been more dependent than we are now upon the productivity of our shipyards and the efficient operation of our cargo vessels. We are engaged in what is largely a war of ocean transportation. We must carry to the corners of the earth the men and materials for war; for our armed forces and for those of our allies.

A little more than a year ago we embarked upon the greatest ship building program in history. No other nation ever had attempted so vast a maritime enterprise. There were those who doubted our ability to succeed. Today I can assure you that we will perform this near-miracle of ship production. The nation's ship-building capacity has been increased more than 500 per cent. That of itself is an outstanding achievement.

We have been, we still are, confronted with a serious shortage of ships to carry the essentials of war. Submarines and the Axis aggressors have taken a heavy toll, but that problem, like the others confronting us is being solved. Our ships are going through, and we will continue to go through in growing numbers.

The American people have reason to be proud of the heroism and patriotism of the officers and seamen of their Victory fleet. During these dangerous days and nights on the sea lanes of the world, with danger lurking above, below and on the surface, they do not falter in the performance of their duty. Hundreds of them render service far beyond the call of duty. It is gratifying that the Congress has recognized such heroism and authorized the bestowal of proper awards to these men of the sea, who are just as vital to our ultimate victory as the men in the armed forces.

The nation's maritime industry is writing a wartime preface to the most glorious chapter in our history. It is making a vital contribution to the immediate war effort and clearing the way for America's full restoration to the position in world trade befitting so great a nation.—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Trains Can't Dodge Automobiles

Accidents at highway-railroad grade crossings are unnecessarily delaying the movement of war and other materials, as well as troops and passengers, at a time when the railroads are straining to expedite traffic. This is shown by a study just completed by the Safety Section of the Association of American Railroads.

An average of 38 trains a day, or 1,137 trains a month, the study discloses are delayed a total of 22 hours a day or 660 hours a month, by crossing accidents. Eighty-two per cent of all the accidents take place at crossings which have special protection equipment, such as flashing lights, gates or watchmen, in addition to the standard warning sign. One-third of the accidents result from motorists driving into the side of trains—and motor vehicles frequently derail trains. Last year, 1,931 persons were killed in crossing accidents, the largest number since 1930 and 4,885 were injured.

During the seven-year period, 1934-40, the railroads eliminated more than 13,000 grade crossings. Some of the states have also been active in this matter. But, due to the rapid growth of cities and towns, new crossings are constantly being added. The elimination of all grade crossings would be an impossibility. The cost would run well into the billions, and the necessary materials and labor are not available.

The grade crossing problem is up to the motoring public. The train can't leave its track. It can't stop in a few feet as can a properly-driven car. The death and traffic waste that grade-crossing accidents cause is the direct consequence of inexcusable carelessness on the part of some drivers. And the delay such accidents cause in train operation damages the entire nation.

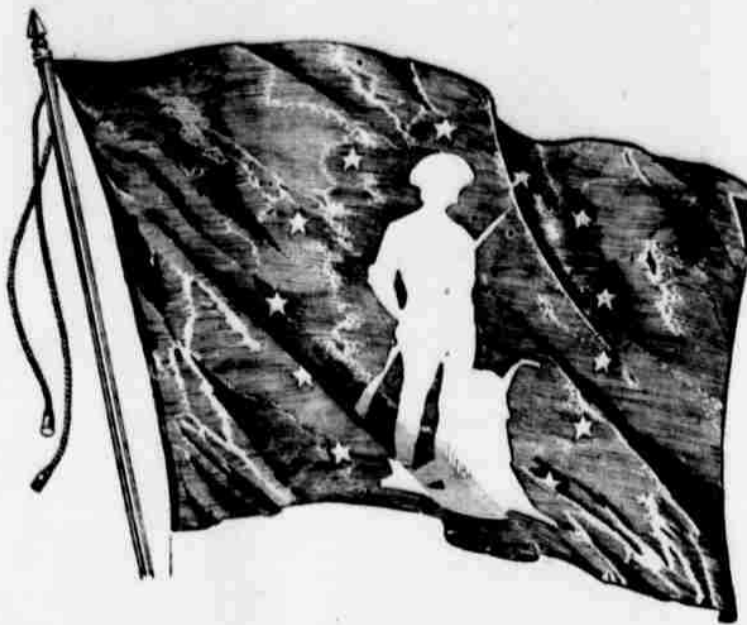

Threats seldom accomplish amiable settlements, but they sometimes help.

SYMBOL OF PATRIOTISM

MINUTE MAN FLIES HIGH.—This is the new Minute Man War Bond Flag, designed by the Treasury Department for firms and organizations which attain more than 90 per cent participation in War Savings Bonds purchases by their employees or members through a systematic purchase plan. The Minute Man is emblazoned in white on a blue background, surrounded by thirteen stars, representing the Nation's thirteen founding States. When companies, labor unions, and other organizations top the 90-per cent figure, they will receive a special Minute Man Certificate of Award signed by Secretary Morgenthau, the State Administrator, and the State Chairman of the War Savings Staff, the Treasury Department announced. This certificate entitles the recipient to fly the flag, which is being manufactured in various sizes and is sold by licensed suppliers at a nominal price.

Side Glances at Texas History

By Lorena Drummond The University of Texas

First Texas Settlers Were Cattlemen

The cattle industry in Texas evidently got an early start, since a traveler of the 1870's describes the Spanish colony of San Antonio—the first group of actual settlers—to be made up of cattlemen.

Monsieur De Pages, French scholar and seaman, describes a lengthy trip across Texas in his two-volume "Travels Around the World," a copy of which is contained in the University of Texas Library's collection of Texana. The tour was made in 1767-1771.

In San Antonio, De Pages wrote he found that the principal employment of the settlers was the raising of horses, mules, cows and sheep. The cattle were allowed to run wild, being herded together once every few months, and kept in a corral in an effort to tame them. This discipline, the Frenchman commented, was seldom very effective.

The fore-runner of the famous Texas cowboy was described by De Pages, too, who said that the San Antonians were excellent horsemen and particularly fond of hunting or chasing their animals.

"Having entered the field and start an animal they mean to take alive, they give him chase at full speed till his fatigue enables them to come within a short distance of him. Here the hunter, holding the running noose of a thong coiled around his arm, throws it with such dexterity that he seldom fails to catch him around the neck or horns.

De Pages reveals that another writer had previously described a similar process, and declared it to be peculiar to the people of Patagonia.

A Frenchman's First Sight of Texas Longhorns

As his party traveled into central Texas and out of the forests onto the plains, De Pages got his first view of the famous Texas longhorn. The cattle, he related, were originally tame, but had long since become wild and roamed in large herds over the plains.

The hunting of these cattle, De Pages wrote, began with festivity and ended with a celebration.

"As soon as a herd of cattle was seen on the plains, the most fleet and active of our cavalry prepared to attack them, and descending in the form of a crescent, hunted them in all directions the traveler explained.

The cattle were stampeded and kept running until exhausted, whereupon as many as the hunters could reach were slaughtered. What the pursuers needed for food they took and abandoned the rest to the wolves.

Hostile Indians Prove Able Opponents

De Pages found upon arrival at San Antonio, that the Indians of West and South Texas were more savage than the ones he had met before. The main cause of their hostility he ascribed to a Spanish regulation forbidding them to trade with the French.

In two forays against Fort San Antonio, the Indians were completely successful, first capturing some 400 horses and other booty by an attack against the fort itself, and later more horses in an ambush of an avenging Spanish expedition.

As an experienced fighter himself, De Pages found much to praise in the Indian method of surprise attack and their use of cavalry to cover the onslaught of their infantry. He concluded, however, that "all other raw militia, the vivacity of their first attack soon evaporates, and they must in general give way to the more obstinate and persevering bravery of European regulars."

Texas Rivers Big Obstacle To Travelers

Though the French tourist found much to admire in Texas scenes, he constantly complained of the frequent rivers with their treacherous beds and currents.

De Pages declared it to be difficult to imagine the fatigues and hardships experienced in passing across the rivers of Texas. In order to approach them, the travelers were in constantly difficult, as the deep channel usually lay between borders of swamp and morass.

The method used to get across was to build a path across the swamp with earth and faggots, then ford the river or build a raft to float across. The operation was so lengthy that De Pages wrote in disgust "that I have seen us spend several days in extricating ourselves from the embarrassment of one miserable little brook."

A nice thing about a one-way street is that you can only be bumped from the rear.

Dr. Geo. W. C. Health Officer, this week emphasizes the importance of your birth certificate in the simple procedure of this vital record.

"Requests for certificates should be made direct to the Health Department, Vital Statistics," Dr. Health says. "There is no charge for making a search of and a photostatic copy of an old record."

Birth certificates are important in the national service as proof of which is necessary for our armed forces or for any national industry. A record of useful in establishing place of birth as well as age and can be of great value in the settlement of other legal matters.

"American people should realize the importance of their records since our war effort," Dr. Health declares. "Requests for copies of records, and in April and August requests have continued steadily."

A general rain over all of Haskell county Monday night revived hopes of farmers that bumper crops of feed and cotton could still be harvested in Haskell county this year, and brightened prospects for ranchmen as well in bringing to an end the drought of several months in this section. In the opinion of most farmers, the rain Monday assures us a crop of maize and kafir corn, and practically assures a cotton crop.

Humble Stations Join In Campaign for Scrap Rubber

Houston, Texas — More than 1,000 Humble service stations and dealer outlets in Texas opened their doors Monday morning to receive scrap rubber in cooperation with the nation-wide rubber salvage campaign announced by President Roosevelt on Friday, June 12, and undertaken by the nation's petroleum industry.

One cent a pound is being paid for any and all scrap rubber brought to the stations. Reclaimable rubber which is acceptable includes all kinds of rubber except battery boxes and parts thereof, and tire beads. All metal, wood and leather should be removed from such articles as leather shoes and baby buggy tires.

The scrap rubber will be sold to the government for $25 a ton and the profit of $5 a ton, as well as the entire proceeds from scrap rubber donated will be divided equally between USO, Red Cross, and Army and Navy Relief Funds.

Humble last Friday organized its entire field forces into a coordinated scrap rubber gathering force. Each of its five sales districts in Texas has been divided, with the district manager handling half and his assistant handling the other half. All bulk agents are supplying trucks to haul the scrap rubber from the service stations to central dumps.

The Company will hang a huge banner at each of its outlets to remind passersby that the station is a receiving center and to urge that scrap rubber be brought in for sale. A special portion of the Company's regular advertising in daily and weekly newspapers will also carry the message under the heading: "Your Rubber Scrap will Bounce a Jap."

Cooperation with civic clubs and other organizations in every community is being sought during the two-week drive to gather every available pound of rubber in an effort to "recover the miles in scrap rubber piles."

Ready To Go

The folks up in Palo Pinto, Young and Stephens Counties find it pretty hard to settle down these days.

For the fishin' season on mammoth Possum Kingdom Lake opened June 1st, and the lake is reputed by competent biologists to be one of the best bass fishing "puddles" in the entire Nation.

They say this because of the structure of the lake and because from the beginning it has been carefully managed and stocked under the supervision of the Chief Aquatic Biologist of the Game Department and his staff. Proper stocking of a body of water is vital. Some lakes are woefully overstocked; others do not get enough fish. The Department's biologists studied the water carefully and attempted a scientific job of stocking at Possum Kingdom. The nature of the lake is equally important. It is a winding lake with a long shore line abundant with aquatic vegetation that provides adequate food. The winding shore line also provides more than adequate spawning grounds.

A special license costing $1.10 is required of all persons over 17 who fish in Possum Kingdom Lake. In addition, all persons, regardless of how old they are, who use artificial lures must purchase a $1.10 artificial lure license.

Special regulations govern fishing in this lake. They are prominently posted around the lake, or may be obtained from Game Wardens or sporting goods stores. A further precaution: No fishing will be permitted within one-fourth mile of the dam in the lake proper.

What is bad about inflation?
Inflation slows down our war effort and doubles its cost. The enemy would rejoice to know that the U. S. has gone on a wild inflationary drunk.
One of the worst things about inflation is the let down following it. Most farmers remember after the last war trying to pay for high priced land, machinery and supplies with low priced cotton, wheat and beef.
Inflation raises taxes which are slow to shrink during the depression.
All groups do not share equally in increased incomes but all must pay the inflated prices if they buy. Some can't buy much.

What is the government doing to fight inflation?
Congress and the President have taken action to prevent a further rise in the cost of living by placing ceiling prices—now in effect—on almost everything we buy. For most items this ceiling price can be no higher than the highest price charged for such items in each store during March of 1942. Prices may be lower and will still vary from store to store.
Other steps being taken are increased taxes on individual and corporation incomes and the stabilization of industrial wages and the prices of farm products. Other points in the government's fight against inflation are given in the summary above. Remember, every individual has a part in this war. Do your part to win. Fight inflation.

If you would like to study inflation more thoroughly, ask your county Agricultural Agent or Home Demonstration Agent for "Inflation Comes Back to the Farm."

TEXAS FUR-BEARERS

Austin — Without furbearing animals operation of the Nation's heavy bombers at extremely high altitudes would be difficult if not impossible the Executive Secretary of the Game Department said today in commenting on the vital part wildlife, as well as every other natural resource, is and must continue to play in the war for freedom.

The Army and Navy air units use the pelts of bur-bearers in the manufacture of heavy flying suits which aviators wear on bombing expedition that range up to approximately 18,000 or 20,000 feet, it was pointed out. The fur-lined suits literally make these high-altitude flights possible in the frigid sky zone. Texans were given an opportunity to inspect the suits recently when two were included in the National Defense Exhibit at Houston in which the Army, Navy and all defense agencies presented the public evidences of their part in war work.

The Executive Secretary urged all Texans on whose lands wildlife, and especially bur-bearers, occur to redouble their protection of the animals in view of their importance to aviation. Under general law in Texas, the pelts of fur-bearers may be taken only during the months of December and January, but there are many special county laws on the subject which trappers should consult and these may be obtained free of charge upon request to the Game Department, Austin.

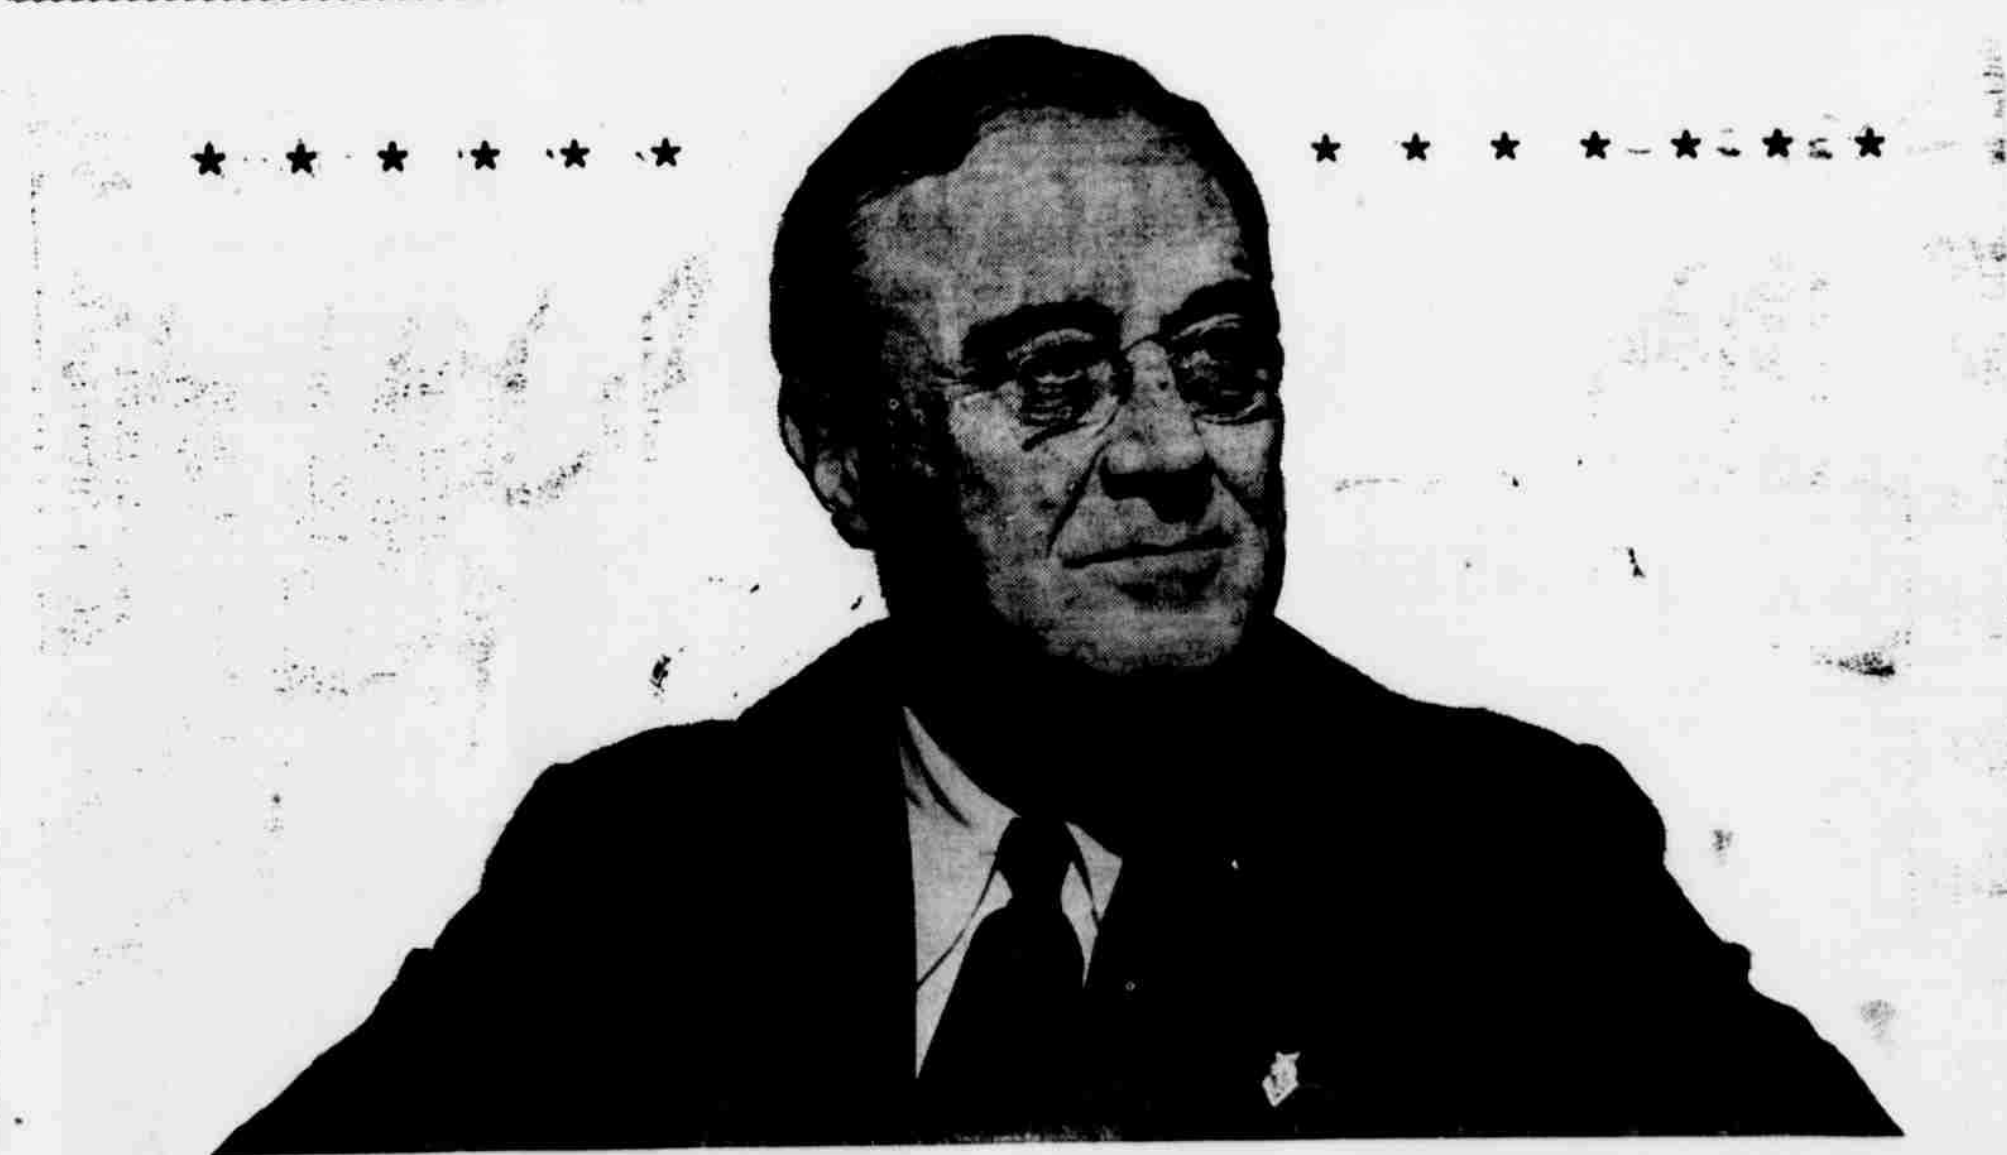

Also trappers must have licenses. A resident trapper's license costs $1. A non-resident trapper's license costs $200.00. These may be obtained from any Game Warden, County Clerk, most sporting goods stores, or direct from the Austin office of the Game Department.

A War Message on WAR BONDS from the President of the United States

"... The American people know that if we would raise the billions which we now need to pay for the war and at the same time prevent a disastrous rise in the cost of living, we shall have to double and more than double the scale of our savings.
Every dime and dollar not vitally needed for absolute necessities should go into WAR BONDS and STAMPS to add to the striking power of our armed forces.
If these purchases are to have a material effect in restraining price increases they must be made out of current income.
In almost every individual case they should be big enough to mean rigid self-denial, a substantial reduction for most of us in the scale of expenditure that is comfortable and easy for us.
We cannot fight this war, we cannot exert our maximum effort, on a spend-as-usual basis.
We cannot have all we want if our soldiers and sailors are to have all they need."

—Franklin D. Roosevelt.
