LEGION POST AT RULE FUNERAL RITES FOR TO HOLD CELEBRATION H. D. BILLINGSLEY

C. Will Join In Promoting Event

At a recent meeting members of the Rule post of the American Legion drafted plans for their annual Armistice Day celebration, a feature event in West Texas on November 11th each year and which attracted a record attendance last year. Plans for the event this year contemplate staging the observance on a wider scale than has ever been attempted heretofore.

Various phases of the celebra-tion have been assigned to committees, and these groups have been joined by the Rule Chamber of Commerce in promoting the Armistice observance, with the civic organization joining wholeheartedly in support of the event. Attractive prizes will be offered for decorated floats and other entries in a spectacular parade planned on the morning of the lanned on the morning 11th, and other awards for feature events will likely be announced, sponsors of the celebration stated. Neighboring towns have been invited to take an active part in the annual celebration, and all War veterans of the county are expected to join in observance of the 21st anniversary of the ending of the World War, and special courtesies and honors will be accorded to all ex-service men on

Local Plants Report Total of 312 Bales Ginned To Date

Hot, dry weather prevailing during the past few weeks has caused rapid opening of cotton, with the result that local gins expect to be operating at full capa-city within the next week if prevailing weather continues. Three hundred and twelve bales of cotton from the 1939 crop had been ginned at the seven local plants, they reported Thursday at noon. An increasing amount of cotton is coming in daily, ginners stated, and total ginnings will likely crowd the 1,000 bale mark by the end of the week, it was estimated.

In some sections of the county cotton is opening rapidly that farmers are having difficulty in securing laborers to help gather the crop. Many unemployed lawork in the cotton harvest, several farmers have reported.

The move to secure the reduced Cooperative Market at Munday Reports Good Buying Demand

The first sales of cotton through the marketing office established at Munday by one-variety cotton communities of Haskell, Knox, ion was that the sale was highly successful. Although only 80 bales were offered for sale, representatives of nine large cotton firms were present in the market, the largest number of cotton buyers to be in Munday at the same time in many years. Firms represented at the sale were Gosho Cotton Co.. Growers Association, Abilene; H. Kempner, Galveston; Rogers & Co., Houston; McFadden Cotton Co., Houston; Well Bros., Dallas;

Simpson Lange Co., Dallas. In addition to the cotton sold for Munday and Rhineland farmers, some cotton was also sold for Seymour, Rule and Red Springs growers. Each bale was sold strictly on the basis of its merits. Instead of receiving an average hog-round price for their cotton as is generally the custom in this section, farmers received full premiums for grade and staple length. Strict middling 1-inch cotton brought 9.41 per pound, strict middling 31-32 inch 9.30 cents, and strict middling 15-16 inch 9.20 cents at the Friday sale. dling 1-inch cotton selling for 9.44 cents, and strict middling 31-32 inch 9.27 cents.

The importance of selling cotton on the basis of its quality is shown by the fact that prices at the first sale of the classified cotton marketing association ranged from a low of 8.20 cents per pound

Farm Shop Is Opened For Use of Chapter Members

The Vocational Agricultural department of Haskell High School this week announced an enrollment of 48 students in the three classes of the chapter for the 1939-40 school term.

Homer Neal, instructor, states that much interest in FFA work is being shown by chapter members. An intensive study of the Future Farmers of America organization was made last week to acquaint the students with the purposes of the organization, and Mr. Neal states that fifteen new students enrolled this year and are putting forth much effort to learn the creed, in order to be ready for the "green-hand" initiation which will be held at an early date. The agricultural department also announced this week the opening of a farm shop for students of vocational agriculture. Believing that farm shop work is a definite part of a course in vocational agriculture, efforts are being made to teach such jobs as simple wood construction, care and uses of tools, hardware identication, and simple concrete work. Much interest is being given this work by the students, Instructor Neal reports, especially those who like to do things with their hands.

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS!"

. . . Remember that? And the next line, "Dear old golden rule days?" . . Well, that's the line we want to talk about. . . . For at this time of year, with the youngsters on their way to and from school, the Golden Rule is a pretty good thing for motorists to keep in mind. . . . Whenever you see a group of boys and girls crossing the street ahead of you. whenever you see a school-crossing sign, whenever you see a school-bus slowing to a stop, remember that somewhere, some other motorist may be meeting your own children in like fashion: shift your foot from the accelerator to the brake -slow down-stop if a stop is indicated. . . . The safety of those children is actually in your hands: they are absorbed, they are careless from their concentration on the moment, no telling when one of them may dart right out into your path. You, the adult motorist, must think for them when they're thoughtless, must see for them when they're looking the other way, must make your own alert attention take the place of their young distraction. . . . Slow down for children-it will give you a whole lot of satisfaction every time you do.

Cotton Market—

a high of 9.41 per pound for strict middling 1-inch cotton. This amounts to a difference of over $6.00 per bale, if the cotton had been sold on a hog-round basis each bale would have brought the same average price. This would necessarily have resulted in the farmers having the short staple cotton receiving more than it was worth and the farmers who had the longer staple cotton receiving less than their cotton was worth. By selling cotton through market each farmer received the fair price for his cotton.

All firms who bought cotton at the first sale allowed 7 pounds extra weight for all bales wrapped in cotton bagging. In other words a bale wrapped in cotton bagging which sold for 9.30 cents per pound, the farmers received 65 cents per bale extra. Farmers who had their cotton wrapped in cotton bagging did not take any loss for doing so and at the same time use a product which was produced on the farm.

Despite the very unfavorable growing conditions most of the one variety cotton of the first picking was 31-32 inch staple. Some of the cotton was 1 inch and 15-16 inch staple. In all probability the one variety cotton harvested later in the season will be somewhat longer in staple. This will mean higher premiums for

In some few sections certain interests are sniping at the program. proponents of the one-variety market said, adding that, in such instances it is up to the farmers to stick together. The market their program supervised by farmers committee and managed by their own employee who is an experienced cotton man and U.

S. Government licensed classer. It is hard to understand why anyone should be against the marketing program and fight it. The sole purpose of the market established by the one-variety communities is to obtain for the farmer the highest possible price for his cotton based on the grade and staple length of each bale. This would mean that the farmers vould have more money to spend in their communities and therefore the marketing program should have the support and good will of all business men, bankers etc in each community. Farmers desiring to sell their cotton through the market should instruct their ginner to send samples of his cotton to Mr. Kelly, manager of the association at Munday, Texas.

Plan Expansion of FSCC School Lunch Program This Year of the school lunch program.

Expansion of the Federal Surolus Commodities Corporation's School Lunch program has been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Officials said they hoped the school lunch program would be serving 5,000,000 undernourished children by the end of the coming school They also pointed out that the school lunch program would provide additional outlets for agricultural surpluses. The school lunch program is carried out by the FSCC in cooperation with the Works Project Administration and local educational civic and welfare agencies. Surplus Agricultural commodities bought by the FSCC, are made available through State Welfare agencies to supply all or part of the food used in serving free hot lunches for school children.

Each month during the school year, 800,000 children more than 14.000 schools located in low income areas received lunches made possible in whole or in part by the donation of surplus agricultural commodities. Schools in every state in the Union. well as in Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands, participated in the free lunch program.

Fifty four different food commodities, totaling more than 30, 000,000 pounds, were distributed last year for use in these school lunches. Citrus fruits, dry skim are regarded as especially benefi- BOTH bowel cial for growing children, were included among the commodities distributed.

Under plans for expanding the program, officials of the FSCC are working toward cooperative agree. ments which would make the school lunches available for up to 5,000,000 children. Officials of the FSCC point out that this increased outlet for farm surpluses will be of direct benefit to agricultural producers. School and public health officials report that utilization of the surpluses in the school lunches results in better health with improved attendance and scholarship records, for the undernourished children who get the free lunches. Farm organizations, educationa groups, and child welfare health departments throughout the country are cooperating with the FSCC in the plans for expansion
