Anson Louise Atkeison, Munday; Aletha Liles, Weinert; Doris Robertson, Mattson, Martha Jean Robertson, Paint Creek; Jean Cooper, Rule; Yvonne Nichols, Olney; Genoma Williams, O'Brien; and Grace Sisbee, Benjamin.

In the high school band division Anson won first place, Knox City second and Hamlin third.

For the best decorated commercial float, the entry of Public Chevrolet Company won first award and the Farmers & Mer-North and South Ward PTA entry in the school float division won the first and only award offered in this section.

For the best decorated bicycle Nancy Burton won first place and Carolyn Koonce second.

Rule's high school pep squad won first award, Rochester school second, and Munday pep squad third place. Haskell Motor Company's entry of a covered wagon, horse-drawn buggies and old and new cars won first award, and Reeves-Burton Company second. First and second place awards for the best women riders went to Mrs. Billy Taylor of Anson and Miss Geraldine Wilfong of Has-kell. Winners in junior cowboys division were Doyle Newton and Curtis Matthews of Mattson.

Highlight of the night program Wednesday was the pageant and coronation ceremony for Miss Janie Lyle Martin as "Queen of the 1939 Fair" and Miss Beunis Fays Ratliff as "Junior Fair Queen." The event, held in the high school auditorium, was witnessed by a capacity crowd. Music was furnished by Jack Amlung and his Crazy Hotel orchestra, with Amlung acting as master of cere-monies during the coronation. At-tendants to the Queen were Mary Pearsey, Ruth Balke and Ruby Stodghill, and for the Junior Queen, Connie Morris, Marticia Bledsoe and Geraldine Akins.

Following the pageant the Mineral Wells orchestra played for a barn dance given in the Gay building in honor of the Queen and Junior Queen, Fair sponsors and

Chemistry at Work

You may never have studied chemistry, and if you did, you've probably forgotten the details. But you know what remarkable chemical changes take place when different substances are brought together under the combined effect of heat and pressure. . . . That's exactly what happens under the hood of your car. There, oxygen is brought into contact with the motor oil under heat and pressure. And unless you use an oil like Humble's Balanced 997 (and it's hard to duplicate), the result is motor oil oxidation, which results in motor deterioration, just as the oxidation of iron results in rust. . . . So the thing to do is use a motor oil so designed that it resists oxidation. . . . Here we are at your service. for we have such an oil in the definitely improved Balanced 997. This is truly a remarkable oil, for in addition to its distaste for combining with oxygen, it has all the other desirable qualities of a motor oil in perfect balance—so that it delivers perfect performance in your car. . . . See for yourself. Stop at the nearest Humble sign, drain and refill with Balanced

nemployment Can Be Solved. Experts Agree

"We are convinced that the unemployment proem can be solved by democratic means. We have ome away with a new hope and confidence

Those are hopeful words, beautiful words, words that sing like music. They are one of the conclusions leached by the fourth "Fortune Magazine" round table. These round table discussions have been interesting from the start, the procedure being to assemble a group of leaders (in this case 17 of them) in many fields discuss fully a problem, and then find the points on which substantially all are agreed. The presumption is that when you find points on which all men of a varying group agree, you've got something.

These men were as diversified as to include Clarence Francis, president of General Foods; Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney; Edward A O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation; Boris Shishkin, A. F. of L. economist; Nelson A. Rockefeller, and others equally assorted.

Yet they agreed on hope of a solution of great economic problem—unemployment a democratic regime and by democratic Further, they agreed that the social gains of the past few years must be kept. There was no talk of "back to 1929" among either business, labor, or farm leaders. "The area of agreement" among these leaders accepted what people generally have accepted—it is no longer possible to get "back to 1929" not desirable even if we could. We must do better than that.

The group agreed however, that neither social legislation nor government spending is the complete answer-that all economic groups and govern- equipment. nent itself must concentrate on encouraging proand private investment. In its issue of October 21, 1762, the Maryland Gazette published the news of the birth of a son to the British king and queen, which had occurred on August 12. The story bore the headlines: "Great Joy to the Nation! A Prince of Wales is Born. God Save the King." This was the dissolute and notorious character who afterward became Georve IV.

The Maryland Gazette was frequently suspended for varying periods, but is credited by the Librarian of Congress with being the dean of present day American newspapers."

New Rail Equipment

There will be no shortage of railroad facilities in the United States under any circumstances, according to J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, whose board of directors has declared that the roads can and will meet any anticipated demand for transportation.

It was stated that the railroads are at work now on necessary repairs to cars and locomotives and that as need develops for additional equipment it will be available.

A specific instance of action looking toward increased facilities for rail traffic is seen in the appropriation this month of $8,000,000 by the Illinois Central Railroad for the purchase of new

Purchases for this one road will include 1,500 coal cars, 1,000 box cars and 10 Diesel-electric switching and transfer locomotives, the locomotives to be used on the Chicago terminal, replacing stean

Orders will be placed as promptly as the necscents profits, should not raise prices, but concen- essary details can be arranged, and will call for in anticipation
