PLANNING BOARD FOR HASKELL COUNTY SET UP AT MEETING HERE FRIDAY

WORK ON HIGHWAY 120 IMPROVEMENT PROJECT UNDERWAY THIS WEEK

Caliche Base and Asphalt Top Will Be Placed On 10-Mile Stretch

With a large crew of laborers and trucks employed, work was started this week in full swing to complete a ten-mile stretch of Highway 120 between Haskell and the Throckmorton county line. Estimated as a $41,000 project, the work consists of laying a caliche base and double asphalt topping for a distance of 10 miles starting five miles east of Haskell. Contract on the project was awarded to the Leal Construction Company of Fort Worth, who have established a local office in the Haskell National Bank building.

Contractors estimate that approximately two and one-half months will be required to complete the project, which will furnish employment to between seventy-five and one hundred laborers. Work has been slowed to some extent due to scarcity of local trucks for hauling caliche, contractors said Thursday. At least forty dump trucks are needed, they estimated, with only twenty-four available to date. Local labor and trucks will be used insofar as available, contractors said. Engineers of the Highway Department are supervising the project.

Recent Rainfall Proves Value of Terrace System

"I believe my terrace system conserved almost enough water on recent rains to pay for their construction", was the statement made by J. R. Adams, Cooperator with the Farm Security Administration and Soil Conservation Service in the California Creek Watershed Project.

Mr. Adams' farm is located midway between Stamford and Haskell on Highway 277. A penetration test showed that water had soaked to a depth of 46 inches over the area on which water was spread above the terraces, Adams said. On adjoining fields, the penetration varied from 12 to 18 inches on which no conservation measurers were in use. This system consists of 4.3 miles of level, partially-closed terraces, with a safety outlet permitting excess water to spill on to native pasture. The terraces will be protected with a strip of sorghum 36 feet wide, contour rows, and crop rotation.

"A stock tank with a storage capacity of three acre feet has been completed, which will furnish needed water for livestock and the irrigation of a small garden. Sufficient small grain and sudan will be planted to furnish temporary pasture for summer and winter grazing. Seventeen acres of the native pasture is to be contoured and furrowed and a controlled grazing system followed", Adams said.

Total payments for crop losses so far received by farmers of Haskell County from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, have been worth $5,465.96 according to a report by V. F. Bunkley chairman of the county agricultural conservation association.

Of the 178 farmers in the county whose 1939 crops were covered by federal wheat crop insurance policies, 176 have reported unavoidable damage on a total of 5,136.6 acres. The state crop insurance office at Amarillo has approved 81 statements in proof of loss calling for 15,623 bushels to be paid in indemnities, and 49 farmers in the county already have collected indemnities to 9,707 bushels.

Helen Bagby Circle Meets In Gilstrap Home

On Monday evening the Helen Bagby Circle of the First Baptist Church met in the hospital home of Mrs. James Gilstrap for a mission study. The meeting was opened by singing "Send The Light" with Mrs. Mildred Thomas at the piano and Mrs. Taylor gave the opening prayer and conducted a short business session in which we planned to have cottage prayer meetings each week through July and August before our revival meeting for the many unsaved people of our town and community. Mrs. Gilstrap gave a very beautiful devotional on supreme responsibility of parents and church from Genesis and Deut. Mrs. Merchant gave a lovely prayer for our young people and Mrs. Couch directed the royal service program.

Mrs. Reynolds gave the first part on youth and the great commission. There was much discussion on that subject about what our organizations done for the young people of our church and plans that bring success. Mrs. Paxton then gave a prayer for our young people. She also gave the second part on the program and discussed the Margaret Fund which makes it possible for missionaries children to have a college education. We then heard two voices, one of the missionary mother by Mrs. Taylor and the Margaret Fund student by Miss Ida Crawford. It is difficult to understand why parents are careless about sending their children to meetings which are planned for the pleasure and mental and spiritual development of the young people. They realize there is no time for the most important thing in the world—Christian training.

The Surbeams led the procession as they should for this was the first member of the W. M. U. to be organized. We have 109,656 children members of 6,871 Sunbeam bands. Who can measure the influence of this host of children as they march toward manhood and womanhood carrying the light that makes the world bright. Let's help and pray more for our young people in the future.

We were dismissed with prayer by Miss Ida Crawford. Ten members and one visitor being present. Our visitor was one of our former Haskell girls, Mrs. Mildred Thomas (nee Simmons).

CHURCH OF CHRIST

J. G. Malphurs, Minister

The church is "the pillar and ground of the truth." (1 Tim. 3:15). As an organization she is responsible for the gospel being preached, the feeding of the hungry, clothing of the naked, and administering to the sick. If she fails her Lord here, her claims are empty, her right to exist ceases, and her candlestick should be removed.

The individual members of a congregation "are the light of the world," and as such should be "seen as lights in the world." (Phil. 2:15). Their lives should be examples of faith in God to those without faith; of hope to those without hope; and of cheerfulness to the gloomy. The church is no more glorious or perfect than the lives of the individuals that make up its membership. Her possibilities are great according to the will of her Lord, but often her accomplishments are small and few, because of lives and inactivity of her members.

Preaching both morning and evening next Lord's day. You are urged to come and worship God with us, where the full gospel is taught and a good fellowship is extended to all classes.

EAST SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH

We are now worshipping in our new building. Last Sunday night, we ordained four men as deacons. Those ordained are: Floyd Rogers, Clarence Oldham, Doyle Andrews and Lynn Tolver. Preaching each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. The pastor will be in the pulpit both hours next Sunday. Sermon subjects: Morning, "Unity." Night "The Need of a Better Church."

Come and worship with us. The Church with a friendly welcome.

W. T. Priddy, Pastor

Preaching at Rose Baptist Church

Sunday Morning. Rev. W. D. Arnold will occupy the pulpit at the Rose Baptist Church east of Haskell on Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour. Rev. Arnold will bring an interesting and inspiring gospel message, and a cordial welcome awaits all who attend.

Over 400 Miles of New 'Shelterbelt' Planted This Year

Approximately 442 miles of new shelterbelt was planted this year in 25 West Texas Counties, said W. E. Webb, of Wichita Falls, State Director of the Prairie States Forestry Projects in Texas. This means that Texas now has about 1500 miles of shelterbelts which will furnish badly needed protection to approximately 150,000 acres of cropland.

The counties that received the 442 miles of new shelterbelts were: Wilbarger, 39; Hardeman, 17; Foard, 9; Childress, 8; King, 9; Donley, 80; Wheeler, 55; Gray, 28; Haskell, 23; Collinsworth, 19; and the balance in Wichita, Clay, Baylor, Floyd, Hale, Lubbock, Hockley, Terry, Lynn, Bailey, Lamb and Cochran Counties.

Approximately 4,100,000 trees were planted in the new belts. In addition to the planting of the new belts the losses were replaced in most of the previously planted belts. Approximately 2,250,000 trees were used for replacement planting.

The success of the shelterbelts, once they are planted, depends entirely on the farmer, said Mr. Webb. We try to furnish good acclimated stock and do a good job of planting but after this the farmer must take care of the belt by giving it good cultivation and protection from livestock and rodents. Unless this is done our time and money is wasted and the farmer loses the use of his land and gets nothing in return. It is essential that all shelterbelt owners see to it that a good job of cultivation is done in order that the owner may realize all of the benefits from the shelterbelt.

The shelterbelts are already very noticeably influencing the crops and land, said Mr. Webb. The trees in many of the early planted belts have reached a height of 20 or more feet and many farmers have reported reduced soil blowing and crop protection on the lee side.

Farmers last year reported very decided increased crop yields because of the influence of the shelterbelts and this year many have reported that no blowing occurred in the lee of belt and it was not necessary to reseed the crop one or more times.

Mrs. C. H. P. Pool and daughter left Sunday for Denton where Lucy will be in TSCW this summer. They will be at home at 1410 N. Elm St. in that city.

An Empire of Unbounding Wealth

Wherever told, the story of Marvellous Texas, heroic and sublime, challenges wonder and admiration. From 1540 when Coronado in search for the fabled cities of the southwest, unfurled the royal banner of Spain near what is now Ysleta, and these proclaimed the ownership for Spain; from 1683 when La Salle, probably the first European to set foot upon the soil of Texas, planted a colony of French

The souls of Texans rise to inspired heights when they remember that "Thermopylae had her messenger of defeat while the Alamo had none." Yet the grandeur and glory of Texas are not confined to wars' wild alarm under six flags, for there have been heroic and sublime days in time of peace. The patriotism, love for home and justice and freedom, gave Texans a vision and a fortitude out of which they redeemed their country from the despotism of "the Napoleon of the West" and then from the horrors of reconstruction and the tyranny of disfranchisement—more galling to the Anglo-American than an open contest with arms.

From 1825 to 1839, the people of Texas have been a busy people. From a wilderness they have produced taxable wealth and property estimated to have a value of twenty billion dollars.

Today the whirling wheels of commerce and the beating hammers of trade herald their labors in this empire of unbounding wealth, the native home of the earth's greatest commodities, whose resources are the marvel of the world.

Great is the stirring story of Texas, and marvelous as are the challenging resources bestowed by a generous hand of a beneficent Creator, the Star of Texas has not yet approached its noonday splendor.

Haskell County History

40 Years Ago—June 10, 1899 The Reynolds Land & Cattle Co. whose pastures are on the Canadian river, have recently purchased 100 head of Hereford bulls in England, selecting them from fifteen noted herds of that country. Seventy-five are in quarantine in New Jersey and will be brought on shortly.

We understand that Mr. Tucker Milam and Fred Sanders are putting in a cold drink stand and confectionery establishment at Albany which will be in charge of the latter.

Several parties went down on Paint Creek Tuesday to catch fish passing over the shoals places as the rise subsided. We understand they were quite successful.

Mr. Tucker Milam has leased the Shook pasture of about 5000 acres in the eastern part of the county, where he will pasture his sheep.

Parties from Kansas City who are interested in the copper developments just over the western line of this county in Stunewall county, passed through this place Monday en route to the mining district.

We are informed that a number of our sheep men closed a deal this week with buyers at Albany for their entire spring clip of wool, aggregating about 150,000 pounds at 13c per pound.

Walter Tandy returned Tuesday from his father's ranch near Woodward, I. T.

Marshall Peterson arrived yesterday from Waco, where he has been attending Baylor university.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hudson and children got home on Sunday evening from Mineo, I. T., where they have been spending a few weeks on his ranch.

The hardest rain that has fallen in Haskell county in many years came Sunday afternoon.

The Wichita Valley has made some changes in its passenger schedules. The morning north-bound is 45 minutes earlier, and the night train 35 minutes later. We don't know how this will affect connections at Stamford.

Earl and Miss Lela Odell have returned from Waco, where they have been attending college.

On last Monday night the whistle at F. T. Sanders gin announced the close of the ginning season at his plant. The local gins have ginned nearly six thousand bales of cotton during the season of 1908-09. There have been several local

"Seasonable" Accident Hazards

The National Safety Council observes that the accident rate keeps step with the thermometer. With the coming of summer, all types of accidents, ranging from life-destroying automobile collisions to cases of sunburn, tend to increase.

A little common sense will solve the problem these "seasonal hazards" present. When you go camping, regard axes, knives and other sharp implements with the respect they deserve—and in case you are cut or scratched attend to it at once. Many a person has died needlessly, from infections resulting from minor injuries. And remember that sunburn can also be a killer, and that over-exercise after a year spent in an office chair amounts to holding out an invitation to the doctor—and possibly the mortician. There are obvious precautions that must be taken when it comes to swimming and other summer diversions and sports.

The automobile, of course, remains the greatest hazard of all. In summer roads are dry, the weather fine and the speed demon is likely to take command. The potential danger involved in this cannot be overemphasized. Excessive speed—which can be simply defined as going faster than traffic and highway conditions of the moment justify—takes more lives and does more economic damage than any other driving error. Don't forget that the time saving a few minutes of excessive speed may effect, is not vital—and it may bring summer to an end for you and your family for all time.

Crime and Punishment

A thoughtful contribution to the controversy over capital punishment is furnished by Harry Elmer Barnes, sociology professor of South and Amherst colleges, who avers that the taking of human life as a punishment for crime is a relic of barbarism.

Tracing the origin of the death penalty, Prof. Barnes declares that it arose through an effort to placate the pagan gods. Later, death was inflicted through motives of revenge. More recently, capital punishment has been defended on the ground that it has a deterrent effect upon other potential murderers. All these theories are dismissed by Prof. Barnes as equally abhorrent. Taking what may be called the advanced view of the causes underlying human behavior, he says:

"The human animal has his conduct absolutely determined by the combined influences of heredity and social surroundings. There is not the slightest iota of choice allowed to any individual from birth to the grave. Conduct can be altered only by altering the organism or by the introduction of new or different social influences and forms of stimulation." He believes that the punishment for crime should be determined by permanent boards of experts who will take into consideration the combined influences of heredity and social surroundings.

Without specifically recommending a detailed plan for dealing with the problem, Prof. Barnes declares that if crime is to be eliminated there must be measures adopted to prevent the birth of defective persons so far as possible. When defectives are born in spite of restrictions imposed, an improvement of the social environment and social education are recommended. He apparently favors the painless extermination of hopeless types of humanity who menace their fellowmen.

Whatever we may think of Prof. Barnes' views as a whole, we must agree with one of his conclusions, which is that punishment for crime should be determined by permanent boards of experts rather than by the ordinary jury.

Responding to a knock at the door, William T. Doyle, 64, of Louisville, thought he saw a ghost when he admitted his brother, Robert Doyle, 61. The brothers had not met for 39 years.

showers this week, and we look for general rains before the weather clears up.

Gus Grussendorf says he has 150 acres of cotton up and 50 acres of feed. He said his cotton came up to a stand on June 29th last year.

Judge Higgins' court has been quite busy this week. Besides civil business disposed of this week several criminal cases were tried. Two negroes charged with robbery pleaded guilty and were given five year sentences. The case involving the jail lot controversy was adjourned until June 14th.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

By W. E. Marshall

One of the most important divisions of the State Department of Education is that of the Census Division. It is upon the final computations of this division that the per capita apportionment is paid, amounting for the year 1938-1939 $22.00 per child per year for 1,564,005 public school children. It is evident that the census rolls must be checked very carefully else many thousands of dollars might be paid by the State for those pupils who are ineligible for such payment.

Due to the importance of the Census Division to the schools of Texas and their finances, I intend to give in this issue a brief history of the Growth of the Scholastic Census of Texas and complete this particular topic next week with a treatment of the benefits of the Census Division of the State Department of Education to the schools and the people of Texas.

The State Constitution of 1845 provided for a system of "Free Public Schools," but no law was enacted until 1854. This same constitution required that one-tenth of the annual revenue from taxation be set aside as a "General School Fund."

The law of 1845 required that a list of all free white population between the ages of 6 and 16 years be made each year in every county, and a copy of this list be sent to the State Treasurer on or before the first of July each year. The list was to designate the number of such ages in each district in the county. The interest arising from the $2,000,000.00 Special School Fund was to be apportioned by the State Treasurer to the several counties according to the number of the population of scholastic age.

None of this money could be drawn by any school district until it had provided a good substantial school house with the necessary seats and other fixtures, and the money could only be used to pay teacher's salary and any remainder was to be divided equally among the patrons of the school according to the number of pupils and the time spent in school by each pupil. If the teacher's salary was more than the fund amounted to, each patron was to pay his share of the salary, and all those who could not pay their share were to make proper affidavit to the Chief Justice of the county, and the State Treasurer was to pay the amount.

The law of 1856 changed the age to 6 to 18 years. The fund was divided to the several counties according to the scholastic population. The fund in each county was divided to the children according to the time spent in school. After expenses of teaching were paid, the remainder was to be divided among

Said property being levied on as the property of said above named persons and will be sold to satisfy a judgment amounting to $15,029.21 against W. T. Newsom together with 8 percent interest thereon from April 7, 1939 in favor of THE DALLAS JOINT STOCK LAND BANK OF DALLAS, and costs of court and the further costs of executing this writ:

the white and colored children not be taught in the same school, and a provision was made that in case a district had less than 20 pupils of scholastic age, the county judge was to consolidate this group with others. This law provided that a scholastic census should be taken in 1898 and every year thereafter; that the county superintendent was to take a school census between the first day of May and the first day of June of all children over 8 and under 17 on the first day of the following September.

The law of 1908 provided for the creation of certain types of districts 16 square miles and provided the power to levy a local maintenance tax for the support of the local schools. The school census determined the type of district. The law of 1917 provided for rural state aid and limited the amount upon the scholastic population and also upon attendance.

In 1921 the law provided a requirement for receiving special state aid, which was that the district must have twenty times the number of scholars as teachers.

The law of 1925 changed the scholastic census age to 7 to 18. And in 1929 the law changed the age to 6 to 18 at which age the present census age stands.

It is evident, then, that the Census requirements for Texas have been altered often. There are many changes that should be made now that would assist the schools tremendously. In the next article light will be shown on the vast savings this Census Division of the State Department of Education have made for the State of Texas.

Highway Patrol Members Mostly College Trained

Next time you argue with a highway patrolman (and the practice is not recommended) don't try to fool him with big words. The chances are he's a college man himself. Nearly 60 per cent of the patrol members are college-trained and about a third of the 60 per cent are college graduates, a survey of the law enforcement body has shown.

Their higher education totals 358 years, 25 have academic degrees, three have law degrees, six hold bachelor of science degrees, two are graduates in business administration at the University of Texas and 14 have completed recognized commercial school courses.

The University of Texas, with 27 ex-students on the force, has the largest single representation but the various state teachers colleges have a combined total of 44 ex-students. Twenty-three of the men attended business schools, seven went to training schools such as the Navy Electrical School, Marine Corps Institute, Air Corps Tech School, Southern Airways School and U. S. Naval Flying School, six attended special law schools, 10 are former A. & M. Aggies, three each went to Schreiner, Abilene, Christian and McMurry, and five went to Baylor, another five to Texas Tech. The rest show widespread attendance at other Texas schools and few out of state institutions, including two who went to

Albany To Present Second Annual Fort Griffin Fandangle June 16

Fort Griffin Fandangle Portrays Pioneer and Recent History of Shackelford County

The Fort Griffin Fandangle, annual historical festival presented at Albany, Texas, each summer began when a senior class of the high school, anxious to finance a trip to the Carlsbad Caverns, decided to stage a show in the football stadium. The production they presented, built around the pioneer and recent day history of Shackelford County, immediately caught the imagination of the local citizenry. A public-spirited superintendent of schools, C. B. Downing, and an ever-alert manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Ollie E. Clarke, were quick to see that the same show, elaborated and sponsored as a county-wide project, would not only serve as an advertisement of the town but as a pleasant, healthy, educational, social activity for the people.

Robert Nail, native son experienced in Little Theatre direction, volunteered to manage the show and planned the general program that it should follow if continued from year to year. The idea is that one day in each summer is to be set aside for general merry-making by everybody in that county and surrounding territory. The main event of that day is to be a carefully prepared outdoor performance, commemorating dramatically the main events of local frontier history. In order to avoid the tedious and pretentiousness of the usual outdoor pageant, the production is designed to be a caricature, a gentle satire on the past. Old timers have stated that this treatment comes closer to re-creating the spirit of the early day life they knew, the humanness of the time, than a more sober handling might have done. It is only the story, however, that is told lightly; in all their respects the production is built with great seriousness. Every effort is made to have the performance historically accurate in event, costume and setting.

A special musical score, arranged from the traditional songs and ballads, is the backbone of the performance, and the story—explained by a narrator—is told in dancing, both mass and solo. These dances, like the music, are solidly based on the past. Even the modern rat routines which end the show are transformations of the familiar folk dances of the section—schottische, polka, new shoes, and the square of the last century.

The whole city takes interest and pride in the event, feeling it is something unique in group activity. The word, Fandangle, was carefully chosen in an attempt to name the uniqueness. To the people of Albany the Fandangle means a time of gaiety, of showing off, of dancing and singing—such a time as their forefathers knew when, after a boy and girl married, a whole day was spent in

A few of the reasons why the second annual presentation of the Fort Griffin Fandangle, a Cavalcade of West Texas, at Albany, Texas, on June 16, 1939, will draw crowds from all the neighboring towns and key cities. Left, a pair of belles in the hey-day of old Fort Griffin. Upper center, one of the straight-shooters. Lower center, the lady who sings of "The Wrong Man." Right a trio of cuties from the dancing chorus.

The show has been written and is directed by Robert Nail, eminent playwright, and depicts in song, story, and dances the rise of West Texas from the wild and woolly days of the famous old fort, to the modern industrial empire that is now West Texas.

A cast of 150 actors, singers, dancers, cowboys, cowgirls, Indians offer an unusual show in an unusual setting in the Albany High School Stadium at 8 p. m. June 16.

The audience will be entertained with an open-air dance in the arena, immediately following the show. One ticket admits to both show and dance.

general care-free celebration. For the day, local attics are opened and from them come the real costumes of past years, worn once each summer by the grandchildren of their first wearers. Out of ranch barns and old garages come creaking buggies and puffing cars of times long since gone. All this is a very enjoyable outlet for the urge to dress-up and play at make-believe—an urge that lasts long after years of childhood are over.

The second annual production of the Fandangle will be seen in Albany Friday evening, June 16.

Peccary, Native Wild Hog, Rated as 'Game' Animal

The Peccary, the only native North American wild hog, has finally attained the official status of a big game animal in Texas.

The ranks of the Collared and Gray Peccaries have been depleted through long years of being hunted for their hides and as food, but when Governor O'Daniel signed a bill introduced in the State legislature by Representative Fred Felty of San Antonio, they became legally protected and it is now lawful to take them only from Nov. 16 to Jan. 1. The bag limit is two per season.

Texas sportsmen, in general, are only now recognizing the Peccary as a game animal capable of producing considerable sport, but nimrods from other states are invading Southwest Texas in increasing numbers each year.

They find Peccaries are capable of doing considerable damage to the unwary hunter and his dogs. Peccaries reach a weight of fifty pounds and its meat is regarded as table fare, but in order to prevent the meat from becoming permeated with a strong taste, it is necessary to cut away a muskbag, found on the rump, immediately after the animal is killed. By doing this the sportsman not only finds he has a fine trophy to go alongside others in his den, but that he has supplies for the larder.

Wild hogs, now found in only twenty-two counties of Texas, formerly ranged over most of the state. Many references are found in the writings of early-day naturalists, hunters and explorers to the ferociousness of the Peccary when it is cornered. Many present-day hunters and other residents of Southwest Texas, who have been forced to hastily retreat to the refuge of a tree or rock pile, where they sat for hours watching the milling wild hogs gnashing their ugly tusks and hearing the herd utter its shrill war cry, can attest to the gameness of the animal when it is aroused.

Short-legged, but fleet, the Peccary boasts long tusks and its with these and its sharp hooks that it does considerable damage to its natural enemies.

H. P. Attwater, Texas naturalist for whom the Attwater prairie chicken is named, related in his writings in 1896 that "the Peccary was widely hunted for its hide and food, but that sportsmen also sought them". Too, he recorded the fact that the hides were used as currency in Zavalla County in 1886. Since that time the hides have been exported, mostly to France, where they were made into ladies' gloves. The bristles are converted into brushes.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt made a successful forage along the Frio River near Uvalde, Texas, in 1892 in search of sport with the Peccary. A Kentucky cavalryman reported the Peccary rushes his adversary with the ferociousness of a tiger.

Peccaries, unlike most hoofed animals, sleep in some sort of a den and take refuge, head out, in holes. The nests of the young, of which there are almost always two in every litter are found in hollow logs and holes. The animals' principal food during the winter consists of nuts of every description, but in the summer they feed upon fruits, seeds and roots.

The herd's biggest boss is boss of the tribe and it is he who stands guard at the opening of the herd's den while the others sleep. Many a hunter, seeing the big boar on guard, has shot him down. Immediately another member of the herd takes up the post and is shot down. In that way entire herds have been wiped out.

Peccaries now range over twenty-two Southwest Texas counties, Robert Maurmann, assistant game manager for the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, has found. Their range includes the following counties: Bandera, Edwards, Real, Uvalde, Dimmitt, Frio, Webb, LaSalle, Starr, Maverick, Medina, Live Oak, Jim Wells, Brooks, Kleberg, Kennedy, Willacy, Cameron Hidalgo, Zavalla, Zapata and Jim Hogg.

100 Hens Are of More Value Than 5 Bales of Cotton

Interesting figures recently released by Purina Mills, makers of checkerboard feeds, indicate that a flock of 100 hens is worth more to a farmer than five bales of cotton. Here is the way it is figured:

One bale of cotton, at 8 1-2c, is worth $42.50. Five bales are worth $212.50.

One hen, properly fed and managed, will lay 185 eggs a year. Figuring the eggs at 1 1-2c each—a very low average price for summer and winter—one hen will produce $2.77 1-2 worth of eggs. One hundred hens will produce $277.50 worth of eggs. This is $65 more than the five bales of cotton brought.

On top of that, when the cotton is sold, it is gone. After the hens have laid for a year, the farmer still has them.

FOR SERVICE—Blue Gray Peccary Stallion will make the season at my farm near Josslett Switch or will bring him to your place for $1.00 extra, season $5.00 or $10.00 to insure colt, $2.00 cash and $8.00 when colt drops. Notify by mail—C. A. Thomas, Weinert, Route 1.

Sketch of Rep. Courtney Hunt Included In New Edition of "State of Texas Book"

Courtney Hunt, Representative of the 113th Legislative District, is given prominent mention in the 1939 edition of the "State of Texas Book", a biography of leaders in Texas government and legislative affairs. The sketch of Mr. Hunt reads as follows:

"The biographer loves to write about such a citizen as Courtney Hunt. Of him no one can ever say that in a busy world he lived alone and had nothing to do with his fellow pilgrims. His very life is an epic of brotherhood and friendly relations. He represents the majesty and might of the west, a worthy example of a citizenship which has wrought well in a wonderful world. Mr. Hunt was born in Alvord, Wise County. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. James Tillman and Emily Jane Span Hunt. His present business address is Haskell, Haskell County Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have one daughter, Madalin Hunt, also of Haskell. His affiliations are with the Christian church, Elks lodge and Lions club. He has had the honor to have served as Mayor of Haskell for two terms and as director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for nine years. Those who know West Texas and who have marveled at its march onward and upward see through it all "the fine Italian hand" of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the other commercial organizations of the cities and counties of that vast empire. These unified bodies have done much that otherwise could never have been accomplished, and Representative Hunt has been sold always on these great forces for good and has spent money, time and energy to help bring them to their present high state of efficiency. He is known also throughout West Texas as one of the foremost of its business leaders. For a quarter of a century he operated from one store to three stores, making a success in these enterprises, his policy being to conduct systematic and clean business. The 113th district includes Haskell, Baylor and Throckmorton Counties being among the foremost counties in West Texas. He was extended a cordial welcome to the legislative halls of this state and early in the 46th he was assigned to the important committees of Bank and Banking, Claims and Accounts, Liquor Traffic and Penitentiaries."

IT'S HARD ON PULLETS, TOO!

St. Louis, Mo.—An amazing and deplorable lapse of judgment leading to costly consequence occurs every year among poultry raisers, according to J. H. McAdams, Purina Poultry Specialist.

"I refer," says McAdams, "to the unprofitable practice of letting young pullets eke out their own existence on range, after they've been carefully purchased as chicks and given a good start by proper feeding and handling. It's difficult to understand why a poultry raiser will observe so faithfully all the accepted rules of the chick raising game during the starting period, then do just the opposite during the growing period by turning his pullets out to shift for themselves until egg prices start going up in the fall, then put them on a good laying mash and suddenly expect eggs. But thousands do it every year, which is the fundamental cause of the high egg prices in October, November and December.

"This procedure of letting young pullets 'rustle' their own feed a bite at a time," McAdams says, "reminds me of the story of the Irishman who wanted to trim his dog's tail to terrier size. Instead of facing the size of his task and carrying through on the operation in a business-like manner, the Irishman cut off the tail a little piece at a time.

"Any way you look at it," says McAdams, "young pullets will not grow and develop quickly and thoroughly, inside and out, if allowed to rustle for themselves. This is the summer danger spot. What they need is a balanced growing mash that will build bodies and egg-making organs for profitable production in October, November and December—the months of high egg prices."

"I JUMPED AT THE DEAL

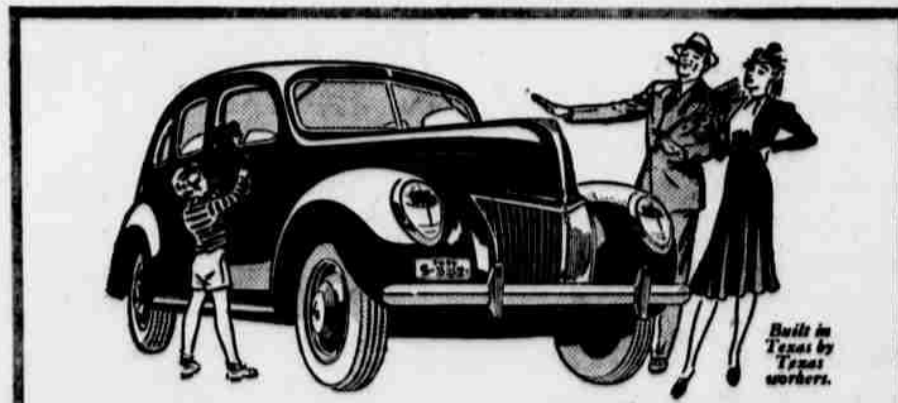

the Ford Dealer made on my old car!"

"How much?" says I to the Ford Dealer. My wife has been crazy for a Ford V-8. Figured I could swing it if I got a good trade on my old car. So I took the old fuss-maker around to the Ford Dealer.

"DID I GET A TRADE!" The figure I had in mind was good enough. Imagine my surprise when the Ford Dealer paid me even more for my old car. Said he needed some used cars right now. You bet I jumped at the deal.

"HAS IT GOT STYLE!" Drove home in a brand new Ford V-8. Man, that is the sweetest running car I ever handled. And is my wife proud? She says the Ford V-8 was designed for women—the last word in style and luxurious comfort. We are the envy of the neighborhood—but not for long, I expect. Tom, Jim, Dave, Henry and Bill have already talked to me and the Ford Dealer is going to have a busy day.
