Section Is Included in Area Where Soil Conservation Is Applicable

A movement was launched this week by the Chamber of Commerce, businessmen and interested farmers, to secure a water facilities development project for this section under the recent program set up by the department of agriculture through the Soil Conservation Service, Farm Security Administration and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The water facilities program is restricted to the 17 western states including Texas, and is further restricted to the arid and semi-arid portions of these states. Haskell county lies within that portion of Texas to which the program is applicable.

A Selection of a watershed area in the south half of Haskell will be urged by the local group, as an area where really effective, economic work can be done. The section embraces headwater area of three small streams which flow through the county into the Clear Fork of the Brazos, and would benefit a number of small farms lying in the south part of the county.

Local sponsors of the project will confer with County Agent, Schumann and R. E. Skipworth, FSA rural supervisor, this week preparatory to making application with the Soil Conservation Service for the county project.

With a number of criminal cases set for trial during the third week of the current District Court term, a panel of thirty-six Petit Jurors has been called to report Monday Oct. 10 for jury service during the coming week.

The list includes: H. J. Thame, Haskell; Leroy Denton, Rule; J. D. Anderson, Haskell; Paul McDer, Rule; R. W. Bischoffhausen, Haskell; W. A. Montgomery, Haskell; J. W. Brock, Rochester; Ernest Curry, Haskell; Glenn Cobb, Leuders; Taylor Segg, Rochester; A. J. Logan, O'Brien; R. K. Denison, Rule; J. R. Codoy, Haskell; W. L. Richey, Haskell; C. S. Wheeler, Haskell; W. F. Turner, Haskell; T. C. Conner, Haskell; J. W. Hunt, Weinert; Robert Fitzgerald, Haskell; J. L. Toliver, Weinert; Floyd McGuire, Haskell; H. D. Bland, Haskell; Marvin Letz, Haskell; George Klose, Weinert; Jim Cross, Rule; J. M. Hicks, Rochester; Jesse Seets, Haskell; L. R. Weinke, Sagerton.

These jurors have been summoned to appear Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Interior of Berry's Pharmacy in the Tonkawa Hotel building presents an enhanced appearance, following the completion of a remodeling program. Additional store space has been provided through the removal of several smaller offices in the rear of the store, permitting the addition of new fixtures and displays.

The large stock of drugs, sundries and toilet articles carried in this popular establishment has been rearranged and more conveniently displayed. The store also maintains a modern fountain and lunch department, together with an automatic electric ice cream mixer and freezer.

Safety First Should Be Aim of Every Family

At this very moment with wailing siren and clanging bell, fire engines are approaching someone's residence.

In two minutes time, somewhere else in America, they again will wake the echoes as they respond to the alarm of fire in a home.

Fire at the same time is attacking the foundation of America's prosperity by destroying vast quantities of materials annually and depriving men of work and wages. It is the responsibility of every industry to stop this waste. In the light of national figures which show 43 per cent of the business concerns never reopen after suffering a fire.

Not too many people think of this possibility. All they see is the drama in the roaring flames and the spectacular run of fire apparatus to fight a fire in someone else's home, or someone else's place of business.

Drama Is Tragedy

There is drama to spare in many fires—drama that all too often proves to be tragedy in the destruction of lives and possessions. Just how serious this is can best be judged from the statement of a metropolitan fire chief that two thirds of the fire deaths occur in dwelling, with 30 per cent of the fatalities children under ten years of age.

With fire occurring every two minutes in dwellings and causing a horrible death average of one an hour. It is evident that dangerous fire hazards are present to some degree in every home. It is largely lack of information about common fire dangers and careless habits in handling certain hazards that has brought about this condition.

The "Safety First" aim of every family should be to study jointly all information enabling them to avoid such dangers.

As the study of fire prevention becomes more and more a personal problem, practical rules are worked out for the American public.

Heating systems require a thorough inspection annually. Replace rusted or broken parts and smokepipes, protect walks, floors and beams from hot parts, call in a heating expert if anything appears to be out of order.

In winter, never "force" the fire as this causes overheated stoves and furnaces.

Fire Is Sudden

Fire strikes with such appalling suddenness that people are apt to lose their heads and unnecessarily expose themselves and their families to danger. Much of this could be avoided if plans were made as just what every member of the group would do should fire be discovered, and how they would escape from the building.

Some fire hazards are especially dangerous and cause many fires. High on this list the mis-use of electricity. The rules: Never tamper with fuses or wiring. Always disconnect appliances when finished with them. Use only appliances and cords bearing safety approval labels. Employ a skilled electrician for all repairing and extension of wire. Be certain the work complies with the requirements of national and municipal electrical codes.

Cleaning Clothes

Remember never to permit anyone in the home to clean clothing with gasoline, benzine, or any inflammable liquid. This practice is especially dangerous because a tiny spark of static electricity developed by rubbing cloth together in the cleaning process is all that is required to ignite the vapor and cause an explosion. Many persons have been killed and injured in this way.

Still another hazard that causes numerous fires is paint or oil-stained rags left in closets, kitchens, cellars or attics. They heat from spontaneous ignition, finally burst into flames and set the house on fire. A tightly closed metal can is the safest place for them.

Guard against permitting rubbish and papers to accumulate in closets, attics and cellars, and never keep matches where children can reach them.

City officials and members of the Haskell fire department as well as hundreds of others, are urging carefulness of fire dangers. Particularly, with winter advancing the season when fire dangers increase.

October 4 to sing. He will represent Haskell as Tuesday is day at the Cotton Festival.

WHAT? WHY? WHO? WHEN? WHERE?

Was Gerry in town last afternoon? Who was she? Where was Ruth? (You explain that, Ruth)—What did that girl do? Why is that L. D. every body should know... When will all the seniors back to school? Why is it...? Why is it that Frieda worried here of late—could because she is afraid some-... move?

be taking a hearty interest in the association this year, and we feel that this spirit of cooperation will put over a successful school term.
A variety of interesting programs are being planned, so please don't miss one of them.
Be sure to attend the next meeting, get your year book, and find out your duties.
Let us all work together for the progress of our school and for the best interests of our children.

MUSTANGS BEAT PIRATES 13 TO 12

The Mustangs are happy over the fact that they won their first conference game, Friday Sept. 30. The Paint Creek Pirates came with the hope of beating the Mustangs by two touchdowns. Well—the game started about 2:30 p. m. with the Mustangs kicking off. Paint Creek made a touchdown in the first quarter but failed to kick the goal. Late in the second quarter, Edwards, our left end, caught a pass and made a touchdown. After the half the Mustangs started out like a locomotive. Chamberlain plunged across the line for a touchdown. Watson kicked the goal.

The Pirates followed with a touchdown but failed to kick the goal. The last quarter was scoreless, leaving the score 13-12 in the Mustang's favor.
We hope our patrons show as much interest in the rest of our games as they did in this one.
The pep squads did their best to encourage their teams.
We go to Rochester, Friday Oct. 7. Come on, boosters, and go with us!

OUR SENIORS

Jack Mapes is really quite a flirt though he's called by many an impudent squirt.
Elmer C. Watson's our captain; every girl loves him, but La Vera's the one who turtle-doves him.
Burl Darnell is a boy with loads of ambition, and he has good looks, too. Such luck! Tshi!Tsh!
Wald Blair is as well as they come. You can bet this senior will be no hum.
L. D. Holcombe is strong, blond, has good looks, grand in football but punk in books.
Jack Miles may not be as bold as thunder, but he's a friend from way back yonder.
As a football player, he's certainly no flop. And we know Kate thinks Ed Wilfong's the top.
A singer—oh, boy and how! Ruth

EX-SENIOR

Miss La Verne Guess daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Guess of this community has been elected to the Kitten Klub, pep squad organization of Abilene Christian College.
This is one of the most colorful groups on the campus. They made their first appearance September 1 when they played Sul Ross College. They will be present at all athletic and sports events.
Miss Guess was at home over the past week end.

JUNIOR CLASS ELECTS OFFICERS

The Junior class met and elected the following officers for this school term:
President—W. J. Adams.
Vice President—Horace Boring.
Secretary - Treasurer - Verna Mildred Mapes.
Reporter—James Robert Massie.
Those appointed on the social committee were: Doris Robertson, Aleita Bell Boring and Sarah Jewel Pittman.
Although our class is small, we believe in quality instead of quantity.

SENIORS PLACE ORDER FOR RINGS

The Senior class was called together last week to select the Senior class rings. The majority of the class voted on a plain gold ring that is very attractive. After each senior brought a dollar for the deposit, we are now looking forward to the day when we receive them.

NUTS TO CRACK

What has 18 legs and catches flies? A baseball team.
If a hen and a half, laid an egg and a half, in a day and a half, how long would it take a rooster to set on a setting of door knobs, and hatch a setting of chickens?—Give up?—So did the rooster.
If a woodpecker pecked enough wood in 3 1-2 hours to make a bundle of shingles that sold for 39 cents, how long would it take a blind man to pick all the feathers off a door knob? The same time that it would take a one legged grasshopper to pick all the seed out of a dill pickle.

JOKES

Mr. Watson—Thomas, where did you get that black eye?
Thomas—I was protecting a little boy.
Mr. W.—That's good, who was the boy?
Thomas—Me.
Collector—Hello there young man, is your father or mother home?
Max Miles—They are both out and said for you to call again Friday.
Collector—H'm! And why on Friday my boy?
Max Miles—That's what I don't know, sir. We're moving Friday.
Margaret O.—Would you love me just the same if my father had lost all his money?
Leon N.—He hasn't lost it, has he?
Margaret—No.
Leon N.—Of course I would you silly girl.

THE BEST SCHOOL OF ALL

There is, of course, but one best school, and that is the one to which we are students. Our own school, no matter what others think of it, is to us, the best school of all. It is the land of youth and dreams, before we flow into the stream of our possessions. It is there that we begin to look forward to our futures, and to think of what is in store for us.
School days brings us our daily foes and friends—our joys and sorrows—our knocks and bruises. yet we all love it. The joy of going
