Death Occurred Wednesday Night at Family Home

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Dinsmore had continued her residence in the family home in the Paint Creek community. She had been a member of the Methodist Church since the age of 14.

Immediate survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Hoyt Perry, Mrs. D. R. Livengood and Mrs. Marvin Wheatley, all of Haskell, and Mrs. Chester Elmore of Earth, Texas. Nine grandchildren also survive.

45 REGISTRANTS LEAVE FOR ARMY SERVICE MONDAY

Majority of Men Accepted Return for 14-Day Leave Period

A group of forty-five Haskell county registrants left this city Monday afternoon for the Army induction center at Camp Barkeley, Abilene, where they received their final examination prior to induction into the Army.

Out of this group, it was reported that seven men failed to pass the examination and were rejected. However, an official list of the men accepted or rejected had not been received by the Local Board up to Thursday morning, and for that reason names of the registrants inducted or turned down was not available for publication. This is in conformity with revised regulations of the Selective Service Board.

All of the registrants who were accepted were given the privilege of returning to their homes on 14-days leave as enlisted reservists, and a majority of the group leaving Monday have taken advantage of this extension before beginning active training in the Army.

Lindell Anderson Named In List of 'Missing in Action'

In a letter from the War Department this week, Date Anderson of this city was advised that his son, Alton Lindell Anderson, member of a maintenance corps of the U. S. Army Air Force stationed in the Philippine Islands before the outbreak of war last December, was temporarily listed as "missing in action" since the department had no record concerning his fate following the fall of Bataan and surrender of the Philippines to overwhelming Japanese forces.

Young Anderson, graduate of Haskell High School and member of the Army forces making a heroic stand against the Japs in the Philippines, last wrote his father on February 2, and the letter was received by Mr. Anderson in April. In the communication from the War Department, Mr. Anderson was advised that the department had received no report of casualties in the final days before the fall of Bataan, nor a report of prisoners taken by the Japs in the surrender of Corregidor. However, the Government expects a complete list of prisoners taken by the enemy to be furnished through the Red Cross, and advised Mr. Anderson that any news concerning the welfare of his son would be forwarded him immediately after being received.

Mrs. Herman Henry and children left Monday for Denton where they will visit with relatives.

After serving the local church as student-pastor for six months, while completing his studies at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Rev. Williams was ordained on May 7, 1939, and since that time has served the church as full-time minister.

During his ministry here, Rev. Williams has been instrumental in greatly strengthening the church, and during this time the beautiful new building of the church has been completed. Many Records Turned In During Drive By Legion

Former Governor Dan Moody Addresses Attentive Crowd of Voters Here Friday

Dan Moody campaigned for the United States Senate Friday in the heart of the rich farming country of mid-west Texas, presenting his message to good crowds at Anson, Stamford, Haskell and Albany during the day.

Speaking from the north steps of the courthouse here, where he was introduced by County Judge J. C. Davis, Jr., Moody detailed to an attentive crowd his conception of what should constitute winning the peace after war, and securing a lasting peace. He urged support for the reciprocal trade treaties advocated by Secretary of State Cordell Hull stressing free flow of world trade as necessary to a lasting peace.

"I don't know what you think about it, but I think that Woodrow Wilson's league of nations was the greatest ideal for peace ever advocated. I believe that there must be an association of self-respecting, peace-loving nations, led by the United States and pledged to the preservation of peace and order, and backing that pledge with the promise to use force when necessary to preserve peace."

"I have no quarrel with anyone who has voted for Senator O'Daniel," Moody said. "You were disappointed in the preceding governor's administration and you were tired of what you had had and dissatisfied with the handling of the pensions, which the people have voted by constitutional amendment. You were tired of pensions being used as a stepping stone of little men to high office."

Senator O'Daniel has voted in the senate against the best interests of America. The people of Texas do not know about his background and they cannot be expected in the light of his record, to have confidence in his judgment, Moody said.

O'Daniel's stressing of labor racketeers as a menace to America is only an attempt to draw attention away from his "pitiful" record, Moody asserted. "If labor racketeers were a real peril O'Daniel couldn't do anything about it. He is without leadership or influence in the senate. He's never been able to muster more than four votes for any measure he has introduced. He is as lost in the senate as I would be on a circus trapeze."

"Texans are in no mood for the foolish complacency being advocated at this time by Senator O'Daniel, who says that this war is not an issue in the senatorial campaign," Moody said.

"And O'Daniel's own words—words which follow the Nazi propaganda pattern, since they seek to array class against class, create disunity at a time national unity is most needed and stir up resentment against Washington—the seat of our government—are going to bring about his defeat," Moody charged. "O'Daniel is playing his last tune in Texas politics. He is on his way out."

Then Moody explained his formula for sending Senator O'Daniel to "the limbo of lost and forgotten politicians."

"All that is necessary to do this," Moody said, "is for everyone who feels and is saying that I am the best qualified and prepared man in the race to represent Texas in the United States Senate to vote for men and encourage their friends to vote for me."

Moody again centered his attacks on O'Daniel's record in the Senate and the statements made by O'Daniel that he was not worrying about the war; that that was President Roosevelt's job.

"If the United States Senate was made up of 96 men of O'Daniel's viewpoint, what would be the situation of this country today?" Moody asked, then continued:

"Our enemies work night and day for our destruction; we cannot defeat them on a part-time basis; we, too, must work full time. Production of machines, implements and materials of war must be stepped up to the maximum. Every resource of material, manpower and wealth of this nation that is needed must be brought into the fight to win the war. Texas, which is doing so much on farflung battle fronts in this war for freedom, must not lose it through complacency on the home front. And our war effort cannot be made 100 per cent effective with an obstructionist representing us in the Senate."

"The part which the United States shall have in moving this war along to victory and in bringing peace to our country and the world cannot be overstated. I pledge you that if I am elected to the Senate, I will do all in my power to support every measure which will contribute to our winning the war; and that I will oppose any influence which will imperil our chances of winning the war or delay victory."

Describing himself as "an ex-farmer boy who has picked more cotton than any politician in Kansas," Moody discussed agricultural problems at length. He said that he favored legislation that would assure farmers a greater share of the national income; and added: "The welfare of this nation as a whole depends upon the welfare of the farmers. No nation can continue to prosper, if the farmers do not prosper."

Moody spoke out strongly against strikes in defense industries.

"Strikes must not be tolerated in our war industries at this time. We are fighting to survive. We cannot afford to make the mistakes that caused the fall of France."

Accusing his opponent, James V. Allred, of engaging in "small talk and idle chatter" in seeking to debate with Senator O'Daniel which of the two is the better friend of pensions, Moody said that both are trying to win votes with "gimmie politics" a type of politics which went out of style in December 7, 1941, when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor.

Weekly Health Letter

By Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer

WEEKLY—14

Austin, Texas—With the announcement of two deaths in Brazoria County, Rocky Mountain spotted fever has made its first appearance in this state. Four cases have been reported to the State Health Department in July and Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, today cautioned the public to beware of ticks, since Rocky Mountain spotted fever is transmitted by tick bite. While originally found only in the Rocky Mountains, this disease is now reported from a large number of states outside of that area, including some as far east as the Atlantic Coast.

Dr. Cox stated that the people whose occupations expose them constantly to tick infestation may partially protect themselves by being inoculated with a vaccine which is prepared from infected ticks.

"An individual can avoid this disease by avoiding the bite of ticks," Dr. Cox said, "and the best way to do that, if living in an area where this disease has been noted, is to make a systematic search for ticks on the body, especially in the summer season."

The tick which is apparently the sole agent by which this disease is transmitted, usually makes its appearance with the onset of warm weather and should be considered as a health hazard until after the middle of the summer. Dr. Cox advised that ticks should be removed without touching them with the fingers since infections have been acquired in this way by removing the insect from dogs or other animals.

CCC Announces Extension of Cotton Loans

COLLEGE STATION—All 1941 cotton loans have been extended for an indefinite period. Maturity date previously was July 31, 1942.

The new plan, under which Commodity Credit Corporation will continue to carry the loans, permits producers to repay their loans and obtain possession of the pledged cotton or sell their equity after July 31, 1942, in the same manner as prior to the maturity date of the notes.

Lending agencies holding Certificates of Interest in 1941 cotton producers' loans will be permitted to carry certificates after July 31, 1942, under terms of agreement with CCC. The certificates will bear interest at 1 percent per annum.

Cooperative marketing associations also will be permitted to continue loans held for their members under July 31, and the rate of interest to the associations on advances made to members will be the same as for lending agencies, according to P. C. Colgin, state AAA commodity loan specialist.

The new agreement for lending agencies and amended cotton Form G will be forwarded to lending agencies and cooperative marketing associations by Commodity Credit Corporation, Colgin said.

Stonewall County Draft Board Resigns In Body; Defers Induction of Selectees

Stonewall county draft board resigned in a body last night and 36 selectees ticketed for induction were deferred. The news of the week's neighboring county, which for its rough-and-ready whether they be in the employ of the farm for some cow outfit, during the action of the county board, the following article by Harry Holt appears in the Abilene Reporter-

The board resigned in a body when a deferment on grounds of agricultural employment was granted a county registrant by state headquarters of the selective service.

With the resignation of the board composed of C. E. Brannen, chairman, Em Wright and Sid Dubose went this neatly typed note:

"It is with regrets that we tender our resignation. It appears that the state director seemed to respect more the opinion of non-residents as to who was eligible for induction under the selective service act than the opinion of the local board. We felt as though our services were no longer needed."

"Too Hasty"

Brig Gen J Watt Page, state director, has not yet accepted the resignation and said in Austin that he thought the Stonewall county board acted perhaps too "hastily."

"The state director may be right in saying that we acted too hastily," Brannen, chairman, said, "but I feel sure that it came as a surprise due to the fact that sufficient warning had already been given."

The case that brought about the resignation as outlined briefly by the board follows.

"On May 29 the registrant in question was ordered to report for induction on June 8. At his request through a friendly representative, the board granted a deferment on that call, or until the next call which was on June 29. The registrant expressed his willingness to be ready to go at that call and that he did not wish to appeal the case in the regular channel.

Outside Affidavits
"On June 22, the father of the registrant made a special trip to state headquarters in Austin and carried several affidavits, most of which were made by people living outside Stonewall county. All of which was used to establish the

T. R. Odell Makes Statement To The Voters of County

To The Voters of the 39th Judicial District of Texas and to the Voters of Haskell County Particularly:

Emergency conditions have prevented me from seeing every one personally in my campaign for the office of District Attorney of the 39th Judicial District, and, if I have not been able to see you, I would like for you to take this announcement as my personal solicitation of your vote.

If elected to this office, it will be my purpose and constant effort to fairly and impartially enforce the laws alike to every one. In dealing with the youth of the District who may come before the courts, it will be my policy to temper justice with mercy, believing that in many cases a boy who has a previous clear record can be reclaimed to society if given an opportunity.

I am not inclined to say too much about myself, but with your indulgence, I will say that I was admitted to the bar in June 1919, and began the active practice of law after being granted the Bachelor of Law degree from the University of Texas in June 1920. As to my success as an attorney, I refer you to the many citizens and officials who have had opportunity to observe my work in the courts.

The Haskell people have done much for me. I came here in the midst of the depression when all of us were having a struggle with the very serious conditions. The public has given me good patronage and enabled me to take my place in your community for all of which I am very grateful. I stand ready to serve Haskell and the citizens of Haskell County in any way I can. Nothing could give me more real joy than a good voice in my home county.

If elected your District Attorney, I shall avoid useless litigation but will uphold and enforce the law to the best of my ability.

registrator's claim for deferment for occupational reasons, and attempted to establish claim that the Stonewall county board had refused him the right to appeal.

"On June 27 the board received a wire from the state selective service director instructing it to suspend the induction until further advised and pending further investigation.

"Since the board had thoroughly gone into this matter, it felt it had not been given the proper consideration and was justified in resigning.

The registrant in questions, 28 years old and single, made no claim for dependency. He merely asked for deferment for occupational reasons, saying he operated a 650-acre farm and had 100 head of cattle.

Regarding the deferment of other registrants, the board issued this statement:

"Other registrants who had been selected for induction were granted deferments, pending investigation of their occupational status as the board is unable to determine extent of occupational deferments."

The board pointed out that 95 to 98 percent of the boys being inducted into the armed forces of the nation from Stonewall county are coming from the farms and ranches.

County Judge Roy Anderson said it would be difficult, if not impossible, to replace the board, and that he had not taken any action. Draft boards are appointed on recommendation of the county judge.

Side Glances at Texas History

By Lorena Drummond
The University of Texas

Necessity—Parent Pioneer Invention

It wasn't priorities but necessity that made Texans 60 to 70 years ago hoard soap, candles, matches, lead, dye, flour, salt—in fact, almost anything except rawhide and fresh meat.

"Erzatz" was a word unknown in those days but the pioneer Texan and his lady did a pretty good job devising their own substitutes for practically every commodity and convenience considered essential in more "civilized" sections of the country.

Several accounts of these home made essentials are given in "Pioneer Days in the Southwest from 1850 to 1879," compiled by John A. Hart and Emanuel Dubbs, a copy of which is found in the University of Texas Library's voluminous Texas Collection.

Beds-In-A-Wall

Houses were of logs. Furniture was "built-in," but not in the fashion of today's modern cabinet work. Sometimes a one-legged bedstead was constructed, using the log wall of the house for the head and one side. Again a four-legged frame would be built with green rawhide stretched across it.

"The dining table was built on the same fashion as the four-legged bedstead," Hart wrote, in his recollections of the early days of Weatherford, Parker County. "Boards were shaved out with a drawing knife for the top and when visitors came, a tablecloth was used, made of domestic, woven by the housekeeper herself.

"Some were lucky enough to get hold of a few chairs and had stools enough to make out the set; some had all stools or benches. A tree was cut and split open and faced with a broad axe, four holes were bored and legs put in and the stool or bench was completed."

Hand-Made Light

Candles were all made by hand, sometimes several hundred at a time. "There were two ways to make them, one was to get as many sticks as was needed and tie strings to them, usually about half dozen to the sock for wicks and dip them in a pot of warm tallow, life them and dip them in a pot or bucket of cold water and back into the tallow. Some had molds, drop the wicks in the molds and pour the tallow in the molds."

"I remember when matches sold for ten cents a box which contained twenty-five matches," Hart went on. "Only travelers or freighters could afford to use them. Matches were not used only in extreme cases. Many times I have walked a mile to borrow fire. Everybody kept a piece of punk and a flint rock to strike fire, and by placing the flint on the punk and striking it, with a pocket knife would produce fire. Some times we would take raw cotton, place it on a skillet lid and sprinkle powder over the cotton, take a case knife and strike the lid, knock fire out of the lid and catch the powder, and we had a fire."

Mrs. Tilatha Wilson English of Gainesville, writing her reminiscences in the same volume, had another method of striking fire. "I have spun fire many a time, and I will tell you how I did it. I took deep copper thread and doubled it several times, and twisted it a little and then held it in the whirl if the wheel and turned the wheel right fast, and it would mighty quick set it on fire. I would have some cotton ready and stick it in. I would soon have plenty of fire."

Rawhide and Gourds—Indoors and Out

Raw hide—an abundant natural resource—was truly a frontier substitute for any cord or rope, for shoes or even for clothing. "Rope hobbles, bridle reins, clothes lines, bed cords were nearly all made out of raw hide," according to Hart's account. "Some hair rope was made out of hair by cutting the bush of cattle's tails off and twist the strands into a rope. People were considered quality when they could have a pair of hair bridle reins.

Like raw hide, gourds also filled many uses. "Lots of them would hold half a bushel," Mrs. English explained. "We put lard in them or anything we wished. Spanish gourds were large at both ends and small in the middle. We would saw off both ends about half way, clean them out good, tie a cloth over one end, and it made a good strainer. We had gourds to milk in, drink water out of, and other things too numerous to mention."

A Vote for COURTNEY HUNT

For County Judge is a vote for Economy, Efficiency and System in County Government.

If I have failed to contact you in person, PLEASE accept this as my personal solicitation for your vote and support. I have not attempted to make a house to house canvas because I don't believe you expected it. I didn't feel it consistent since our National and State Rationing Directors have requested that we dispense with all political rallies in order to conserve rubber. I naturally wanted to cooperate in this patriotic request. Then too, I feel the sovereign voters are thoroughly capable of selecting their County officials without undue pressure.

And with our Nation facing the gravest struggle in its history I feel that the voters will choose the candidate they believe best qualified for the office of County Judge during the present national emergency.

W. N. Bill Corry

CORRY

"The Man to Vote For"

Texas needs a good Commissioner of Agriculture to serve during the present crisis and the years ahead. Bill Corry is the kind of man you want to vote for—a man of experience and action, capable and loyal—a good man for the job. Corry, native Texan, 41, during an industrious life has had 25 years of practical farming experience, served with Federal Farm Board's Cotton Division and as a Legislator. When the present Commissioner, who now seeks a seventh term, deserted the party in 1940, Corry was called on by Texas Democrats to run in a 10-day write-in campaign and received 453,573 votes for this office even though his name was not printed on the ballot. Corry, as Commissioner, will provide the leadership and aid agriculture in all-out production, in solving many basic farm problems, and in the expansion of our agricultural industries.

On Monday evening, July 20th the central circle met with Mrs. Yantis for a Bible study with fourteen ladies present. Meeting opened by singing Sweet Hour of Prayer and Mother Bailey gave the opening prayer. Mrs. Reynolds taught a very interesting lesson beginning with the 58th Psalm on through the 96th. The 91st chapter gives much faith in God and encouragement to our soldiers boys. It says, "A thousand shall fall at thy side and ten thousand at thy right hand but it shall not call upon me I will answer him and be with him in trouble and deliver him and honor him." This is the happy estate of the godly.

Mmes. Paxton, Ellis, Couch, Bailey, Taylor and Miss Crawford gave parts on the lesson and all joined in discussion which proved very interesting and we hope all members will be present for our next lesson as this will finish the book of Psalms.

Mother Crawford gave the opening prayer and the following ladies were present: Meses Reynolds, Ellis, Paxton, DeBard, Simmons, Teffeller, Couch, Mother Bailey and James Bailey, Crawford, Yantis, Martin, Taylor and Miss Crawford. We were happy to have Mrs. Teffeller with us.

GEMS OF THOUGHT
Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage. —Galatians 5:1

Why Force Needless Restrictions?

It has been proposed that retail stores be forced to drastically curtail their stocks. The order would include commodities which are abundant, no less than those which are scarce.

If, in time, war necessity dictates so stringent an order, it will have to be accepted. But there seems to be no reason why it should be put into effect now.

There are a multitude of reasons why inventory control should not be imposed. It would force thousands of stores to cancel orders they have placed, thus creating a panic in the commodity market.

By and large, American retailers have been outstanding in cooperating with the government. That applies to great chain system and independent stores with equal force.

Manufacturers, retailers and consumers will make any necessary sacrifices without grumbling.

Manufacturers, retailers and consumers will make any necessary sacrifices without grumbling. But they should not be forced to accept destructive restrictions for which there is no current justification.

The Price Situation

The Office of Price Administration recently allowed an increase in the retail ceiling price at which certain fruits and vegetables can be sold.

price order had been allowed to stand untouched thousands of retail stores in all lines would have been forced out of business—simply because they were legally bound to sell some goods at no profit whatsoever, and a few items at an actual loss.

There is much to be said for the subsidy suggestion. It would be temporary, and would automatically be dropped as soon as stringent price supply-and-demand basis. It would stabilize prices control is relaxed and goods are again sold on a and so check inflation. It may, in time, prove to be the only way to protect the consuming public.

Rubber and the Oil Industry

Some extremely false ideas concerning the oil industry and the artificial rubber program seem to be making the rounds. These ideas were forcibly answered in a recent statement by J. A. Brown, president of the Socony-Vacuum Company.

First, the charge that the oil industry has "blocked" the production of butadiene (a basic ingredient in rubber manufacture) from alcohol made from agricultural products, is unfounded. To quote Mr. Brown: "The paramount interest in the oil industry is to have as much rubber as possible available to the public. Most of its profits, and in many instances its very existence, are dependent on a large consumption of gasoline, which, in turn, is commercial interest generally to the oil industry. A most striking confirmation of this is their great effort, at their own expense and without profit, to gather scrap."

Still another misconception lies in the belief that the government is giving the oil companies tremendous sums of money to build rubber plants for their own profit. To quote Mr. Brown again: "The general policy is for the government to build and own plants and for oil companies to operate them without profit."

In short, the oil industry wants to see rubber produced in the swiftest, most practical way. And the government is trying to decide which way is best.

Errors of Leadership

Some United Nations disasters can be laid straight at the door of the high commands. Too many of the Generals seem to think in terms of "classic warfare." That was a relatively leisurely kind of warfare, and it was developed and perfected in the days when tanks and planes and similar machines were minor weapons.

The Germans and Japs think in terms of dynamic warfare. They are daring. They take long chances. They use the weapon of surprise to the limit.

Libya provides a tragic example of that. As Newsweek says, "British generals figured it would take Rommel a week to ten days to thrust past the Egyptian frontier after the British withdrawal. It took him a matter of hours."

Germany has been superior in the science of logistics—which simply means the handling of supplies. They have moved more equipment, and moved it faster by far, than have the defenders. In short, the United Nations still have a lot of red tape to cut—and they have a lot to learn.

On The Home Front

During the last week, civilians on the Home Front got the answer to one of their worries six months ago: Whether our great civilian industries could be converted to war production in time.

The answer came from Chairman Donald Nelson of the War Production Board, who said that our factories will turn out a total of about 45 billion dollars worth of weapons and military supplies and equipment this year. And, he expects the figure to rise to 70 or 75 billion in 1943.

This statement means more than comfort to the Home Front. It also means that we now are shooting the works for war, and as a result civilians are going to have to do without all the products that formerly came out of those factories that have been converted. But, doing without is a civilian duty during wartime. We must do without many things now so that we may have many more things in addition to peace, after the war is won.

With war production figures reaching colossal proportions—a scale never before attained—it means that almost nothing in the way of durable goods, such as autos, appliances and gadgets for civilian use will be made for the duration. It also means that to feed the furnaces for war production, raw materials in unprecedented proportions are going to be necessary and salvaged materials, highly vital among the materials, are going to have to be supplied in greater quantities. With a better job of salvage than we have been doing demanded, the WPB is pressing its new and continuing national salvage campaign. We've got to stay on the salvage job until the war is won.

With discontinued manufacture Mr. and Mrs. Duke Travis and children R. B. and Betty of Post, Texas came this week to visit their daughter and sister, Mrs. Lee Smith and Mr. Smith. Mrs. Joyce Cooper returned to her home in Tyler after an extended visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cooper. Mrs. Dan Dunn left Thursday afternoon for Belton, Texas to visit her daughter. Geanne White, Elva Jo Hudson and Dorthlyn Herron were shopping in Haskell Thursday afternoon.

Rev. N. S. Daniels left Saturday for Muleshoe where he will conduct a two weeks revival. Sonny White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus White underwent an operation for appendicitis Saturday morning in the Haskell hospital. At last report he was doing nicely. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Grinstead transacted business in Haskell on Friday.

Miss Reba Poff of Lubbock spent the week end in Rochester with her sister, Mrs. Malone Steel and family. Miss Mona Lee Cluck of Cisco spent the week end in Rochester with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Mullino. G. Hicks who spent several days in the hospital with an infected hand was able to come home Tuesday. Mrs. R. W. Stanfield and daughter Peg of Amherst, Mrs. Roy Campbell of Littlefield and Mrs. Paul Barrett of El Paso were visiting friends in Rochester this week. G. A. Gaunt and sons Troy and Jack spent the week end in Galveston with two other sons, Clarence and Pete.

of thousands of civilian items already effected — bathtubs, golf clubs, musical instruments, toys, vending machines, fishing tackle, etc.—the WPB added another long list of items in a new "stop" order during the week.

The new list for which iron and steel cannot be used after a specified deadline includes such things as garden tools, hospital equipment, merry-go-rounds, magic lanterns, umbrella shafts, and vanity cases. The metals thus saved soon will be in the hands of our soldiers who can reap a far better harvest with a Garand rifle than with a hoe, or get into the thick of things better with a tank than a merry-go-round.

Ration Books May Be Replaced
Procedure for prompt replacement of lost, stolen or destroyed war ration books has been announced by OPA. Under amendment 5 to the sugar rationing order, local War Price and Ration boards now may issue new books without requiring the two-months waiting period formerly in effect. Boards must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that war ration books were lost, destroyed or stolen before issuing replacements.

War shipments from 432 automotive plants, representing 72 percent of the industry amounted to $420,000,000 in April, or 46 percent above that in February.

YOUR COUNTY AGENT TEXAS EXTENSION SERVICE

Boll Weevil and Cotton Fleas Damaging Cotton

Survey of the numerous Haskell County cotton fields during the past week by G. R. Schumann County Agriculture Agent of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service revealed a heavy infestation of cotton fleas hoppers in most cotton fields examined, and a light infestation of boll weevil in all fields examined. Some farmers have reported a heavy infestation of boll weevil, but only light infestations of boll weevil were found in those fields examined by the County Agent.

Hot dry weather during the next two or three weeks will go a long way toward checking the boll weevil infestation to such an extent where the weevils could become a serious menace to one of the most promising cotton crops in the history of this county.

Farmers are urged to check their fields weekly for both boll weevil and cotton flea hoppers, and when a heavy infestation of either of these insects is found, control measures should be started at once. Boll weevil and cotton flea hoppers can be controlled by proper methods of control. Dusting equipment will be needed for the control of either of these insects. Specific measures are as follows:

1. Cotton Flea Hopper. Examine terminal buds of cotton weekly, and if flea hoppers are damaging cotton, small, blackened squares will be found. The cotton flea hopper will be found in the terminal bud.

2. When 15 to 25 flea hoppers are found in each 100 terminal buds examined, cotton should be dusted with from 10 to 15 lbs. of dusting sulphur—the amount to be used will depend upon the size of the cotton.

3. Two or three applications of sulphur may be necessary to control the flea hopper.

1. Boll Weevil. Examine cotton weekly for punctured squares.

2. When 10 percent of the squares examined are found to be punctured, dusting should be started immediately.

3. Dust with calcium arsenate: use 5 to 7 pounds of calcium arsenate per acre; apply at intervals of 5 to 7 days until a crop of squares has been set. Usually two or three applications of Calcium arsenate will do the job.

Where boll weevil and cotton flea hoppers are both present in a field, a calcium arsenate-sulphur mixture can be applied to control both insects. The mixture should contain 10 pounds of sulphur and 5 pounds of calcium arsenate per acre of cotton.

For further information regarding the control of these insects farmers are urged to contact their County Agricultural Agent.
