

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove WNU Service.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Edward Thomas Marion Lawton Hargrove, feature editor of the Charlotte (N. C.) News, receives notice from his draft board that he is to be inducted into the army. Before he begins an accounting of his actual experiences in training camp he issues his quota of free advice to prospective inductees. After his induction Hargrove, with his new buddies, leaves for Fort Bragg, where he is to receive his basic training.

CHAPTER II—Private Hargrove tells of the physical exam, the first few days of army, how he was outfitted with his uniform, and how on the sixth day he received his first KP duty. He is classified as a semi-skilled cook.

CHAPTER III—Hargrove relates his conversation with his sergeant who is trying to find out why he spends so much time on KP duty. He also reports on the session the trainees are put through by the exercise sergeant. He has trouble learning how to handle his rifle and is given plenty of special attention by the sergeant and corporal.

CHAPTER IV—Private Hargrove relates some of the incidents surrounding the advancement in rank by some of his friends. Why he fails to go forward is a puzzle to his sergeant, who inquires about it.

CHAPTER V—Hargrove is given a review of his faults by his sergeant who tells him to snap out of it and start working for his corporal's stripes. He also gets a lesson in the art of goldbricking.

CHAPTER VI—Private Hargrove lists a series of army slang definitions for the enlightenment of the civilian population. He also tells how he and two of his pals pull a perfectly good date for one Private Zuber. Going home on furlough he goes to visit a newspaperman friend who dominates their conversation recounting his experiences in the first World War. He also undergoes another trying experience at inspection.

CHAPTER VII

One of the nicest things about working in the kitchen in Battery C of the 13th Battalion has been the knowledge that its number-one chow hound, Buster Charney, would drop around after supper and the conversational fat. It's like a letter from home to listen to Buster's slow and mournful drawl, and his refreshingly dry humor is a pick-me-up at the end of a long, hot afternoon.

Buster came prancing up the chow line, the other evening with a grin that started at the back of his head and enveloped his face from the nose down.

"What's eating you, Walter," I asked him. "—besides that egg-sucking grin?"

"Leaving here, boy!" he sang. "You won't see me around for three months. And when you see me, son, you'll see stripes on my sleeves and a look of prosperity on my clean-cut Tarheel face!"

The man behind him wanted to get to the mashed potatoes, so Buster had to move on down the line. I got the whole story from one of the kayspees while I waited for him to make his evening call.

Of the 200-odd men in Battery C, two men had been selected for three months' training at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. At the end of their three months, they will come back as gunnery instructors, with a non-commissioned officer's rating and a specialist's extra pay on top of that. Mrs. Walter Charney's little boy Buster was one of the two men selected.

I was chipping kindling for breakfast when Buster came around again, and I pointed Fort Sill as a nest of jack rabbits, gophers, and rattlesnakes and assured him that Battery C was sending him to school to cut down the grocery bills. If we hadn't been insulting each other in a friendly fashion for years, I would have told him that I wasn't particularly astonished and that I was sure he'd make a good instructor and the kind of noncommissioned officer the boys borrow money from.

Battery C will miss Ole Buster while he's away. The cooks will miss him because he always remembers to compliment them when he likes the meat loaf or the cherry cooler. The mess sergeant will miss him because he livens the kitchen when it comes his turn to do kayspee. The boys will miss him because he's one of the best-liked boys there.

One of the sergeants near here came back from a recent leave with one of the most glorious shiners that ever darkened the human eye.

"Run into a door?" I asked him. "Gave a guy the wrong answer," he replied simply. "Or rather, the answer he didn't want."

I looked at his face; his teeth were all there and his jaw was still in one piece. I looked at his hands; the knuckles showed the marks of service.

"I was at a party," he went on. "When this fellow who lives next door to my folks wants to know 'how's the morale in the Army?' 'Excellent,' I tell him; 'excellent!' He looks me up and down sort of pitying-like and wants to know don't I read the magazine stories about how poor it is. Well, I tell him, 'I spend all my time with the boys and I believe what I see more than what I read.'"

He goes on from there making cracks at the Army and the country and the suckers we are for fighting our time for what's not worth fighting for in the first place. I listen politely for a while, because even though I'm not in uniform I don't want to look rowdy. I stand as much as I can and then I ask him to his feet. It isn't long before his three brothers join the fight. It was one of the brothers put his finger ring in my eye.

"Brother," I told him, "that ain't a black eye. That's a badge." "I lost the fight," he said. "You won the argument, though," I told him. "I'd like to use the sergeant's name, but he made me promise not to."

"I told the Old Man," he said, "that I got the shiner playing baseball." "How can I fit you into a coat," moaned Supply Sergeant Israel. "With you fidgeting around like a race horse at the post? Stand still, damn you, stand still!"

"Heavens to Betsy, Thomas," I complained, "you're acting to be the fuzziest old maid in the outfit. I'm not squirming!" "In the first place, my man," he said, "don't call me Thomas or try to get overly familiar with your elders and betters. In the second place, don't argue with me. In the third place, don't fidget in the first place. And in the fourth place, don't agitate me unnecessarily. I'm at the end of my patience with you and I ain't feeling in no holiday spirit anyway."

I buttoned the handsome winter blouse and he stepped back to inspect it with the eye of an artist. "Every time my wig gets mad at me, she has her picture taken to send to me. The picture I got today showed she's going to eat my heart out unmercifully when I can't put off my furlough any longer and I have to go home. And with domestic difficulties on my hands, I have to fit your winter uniforms."

He yanked at my coattail, straightened the collar and scratched his head. "Hargrove—37 long," he yelled to the boy at the desk.

"Man that is born of woman," I comforted him. "is of many days and full of trouble." "Get off the platform and into this overcoat," he sighed. He held the coat while I got into it and he slapped my hand for fidgeting again. "Sometimes I wonder why I go to so much trouble keeping you boys dressed right. Here I spend the whole afternoon wiping sweat out of my eyebrows, just to see that your clothes fit you and you won't look like a bunch of bums—which you are."

"Do you know what some ungrateful kitchen termite said the other day?" He started putting it around that the Army could double itself in half an hour by filling up the extra space in its trousers. Do your trousers fit you bum? He straightened the pleats in the back of the overcoat and gave the tail an unnecessarily vicious yank.

"Did I say they didn't?" I growled, raising my arms despairingly. Just because somebody else says you stretch the coat in the back so the man will think it fits right in the front, you have to go picking on me!"

"Me pick on you?" he screamed. "It's a wonder my nerves ain't completely shot! Do I come around and put signs on the door saying, 'Walk Up One Flight and Save Five Dollars'?" Do I throw gunny sacks on your bed and ask you to take up the cuffs two inches?"

"With my thankless job, it's a wonder I haven't collapsed before this. I wish I was a permanent kitchen police instead of a supply sergeant. Hargrove—37 long! NEXT!"

any man in the whole Army. Then they started this 'minute Army,' with a bunch of green ignorant Yankees—and I had to teach them what they had to know!"

The bull session nodded wisely and Corporal Ussery went on. "Now, this young Corporal Joe Gantt, for instance. Now, this Corporal Gantt, when he first came in, was one of the greenest rookies in the bunch. But he snapped out of it and made corporal in four months."

"Was that soldiering," a voice broke in, "or handshaking—as the Latins used to say, mittus fop-pus?"

"Much as I can't stand Gantt, I'll have to admit it was soldiering. That's the way it is. You sweat your head off hammering the drills and the callisthenics and the military courtesy and guard duty and the physical hygiene and the manual of arms into them. They're all clumsy and awkward as a bear in an egg crate at first, but then you can see them, after a while, snapping into it and getting better and better. By the time we've had them thirteen weeks, and they're ready to be assigned to their posts, they're as keen and alert as a bunch of West Point cadets. They're extra good cooks and better soldiers."

"Isn't a good soldier a specialist at griping and growling?" somebody asked him. "When a soldier can gripe," the corporal announced in a pontifical manner, "he's happy as a pig in the sunshine. When he doesn't gripe, there's something wrong with him. That's another thing you learn. When you first come here, you don't know the first principles of griping. You gripe about the clothes; you gripe about the beds; you gripe especially about having to go to bed at nine o'clock."

"Griping is an art, just like goldbricking is an art. Before you leave here, you learn that you don't enjoy griping a bit when you spread your energy all over everywhere, griping about everything. You learn to choose one thing and specialize in griping about that."

"If you want to be a specialist at griping, you have to get on your toes. You get to where your clothes are comfortable. Where you used to think the food was terrible, now you pretend that you don't get enough of it. You like the beds and by nine o'clock you're sleepy. So you have to find something special to gripe about. If you haven't got any originality at all, pick you out one special noncom and gripe about him."

"Now, you take Private Hargrove, for instance. First came here, he gripe about me telling him he was carrying his rifle wrong. Now he gripes when I tell him he's carrying it right. He might have something there. He still carries it like it was a 75-millimeter gun. He's getting so shiftless, even at griping, that he can't find anything to beef about except not getting any mail. I'm going to write all his creditors, so he won't even be able to gripe about the mail."

"That reminds me," I said. "Did I tell you boys what Sergeant Taylor told me about Ussery today?"

"Nine o'clock!" Ussery shouted. "Lights out! Break it up!"

Somewhere on the wild coast of South Carolina, the battalion in which I cook is being treated to a weekend to combine business with pleasure. We can romp in the Atlantic while we get a "taste of the field." With the wind blowing the sand into kitchens and pup tents alike, it will be nice to get back to

At night we sleep, or simulate sleep, in pup tents made by our own hands with loving care.

Fort Bragg for a taste of the food we eat. A vexed soldier here doesn't grate his teeth. He crunches them. We made the trip here in lorries, which are the mechanical age's nearest approach in appearance to covered wagons. You've probably seen them rolling noisily but smoothly through town—large canvas-topped trucks with a folding bench down each side inside. You'd expect to be hauled out of one of them, beaten to death, at the end of a 130-mile trip. They give a tolerably bumpy ride, just tolerably.

When we started pitching camp, about a quarter of a mile back from the beach, we found the place already inhabited — by cannibals. These creatures, which masquerade as harmless flies and even camouflage by the harmless sounding name of sand flies, must have vampire blood back in the line somewhere.

I don't bear any grudge against the easygoing, good-natured house fly—in fact, I feel rather cruel when I squash one for tickling me—but it arouses my pioneer fighting spirit to see a stunted horsefly light on me to see a stunted horsefly light on my forehead and start draining off my life's blood. But what can you do? Slapping one only serves to make him mad at you.

Young America Saves Tires and Gasoline

In millions of V-Homes throughout America the "express" wagon is returning to its own. Boys and girls, eager to do all they can to speed victory, are conserving rubber, gasoline and manpower by using their wagons for many of the small errands that formerly were done with a delivery truck or the family car. Just

Nationwide Molly Pitcher Tag Day

Washington, D. C.—On August 4th, Molly Pitcher is stepping out of the pages of American history to sell War Bonds and Stamps. The girl who carried water to thirty soldiers during the blistering Revolutionary Battle of Monmouth and took over her husband's cannon when he was wounded, has long been a symbol of the heroism of American women.

In her honor, brigades of modern Molly Pitchers will take their stands on nationwide Molly Pitcher Day at street corners, building entrances, and in public places to sell the bonds and stamps that back up our modern fighting men.

A red-white-and-blue Molly Pitcher Tag will be given to everyone who purchases a bond or stamp on that day. Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, and of the Independent Food Distributors Council unit of Molly Pitchers, will aid and augment local Women's War Savings Staffs to make up the volunteer sales force. They will use water pitchers to hold their supplies of tags and War Stamps. The slogan on the tags will read "Fill the Pitcher with Bonds and Stamps on Molly Pitcher Day," and the goal of the sales force will be to "tag" the total population.

At night we sleep, or at least we simulate sleep, in pup tents made by our own hands with loving care, blood, sweat, tears, two pieces of waterproof cloth, two lengths of rope, and a handful of turned lumber.

I share my little duplex with Private Warren, the new student cook who told me the story about the man at the boarding house. When I stumbled home last night, primed to the gills with a blend of sand and salt water, I discovered that we had an overnight guest! The chief cook on our shift, in the task of packing the field kitchen, had neglected to put his own field pack (tent half, blankets, etc.) on the truck, so he decided to drop over and have us put him up for the night.

A pup tent, as you probably don't need to be told, will accommodate two men, provided neither of them walks in his sleep. If three men are to sleep in one tent, at least two of them must be midgets or babes in arms. Cooks should never sleep two to a tent, because of their tendency toward plumpness.

We arranged ourselves in the tent by wrapping knees around the tent poles, putting all feet outside for the night and raising one side of the tent high enough to make a rustic sleeping porch of the whole affair.

The guest proved to be one of those loathsome creatures who pull all the covers to their side of the bed. We had quite a lot of trouble with him, since he slept in the middle and rolled up in both our blankets. We remedied this by waiting until he started snoring, then recovered our blankets, rolling ourselves in them and throwing a raincoat over him.

100 OCTANE GASOLINE

The 500 Millionth Gallon

Somewhere on one of the global war fronts, or at one of the busy training fields here at home, the 500 millionth gallon of powerful 100-octane aviation gasoline made the Humble Company has gone into action.

500 million gallons is a tremendous quantity of gasoline. Enough to fuel 200,000 four-engine bombers on a round trip raid deep into enemy territory. No, there aren't many bombers... maybe there never will be... 500 million gallons will fuel 1,000 of these giants for separate raids against the enemy.

Yes, 500 million gallons is lots of gasoline, and all of it has come from Humble's Baytown refinery which has the distinction of having produced more of this essential war product than any other plant in the world.

But the Humble Company's war work is not confined to the production of 100-octane gasoline. Humble refineries have also produced millions of gallons of 91-octane gasoline for commercial airliners and training planes, and quantities of the following petroleum products to ride in the raids with the bombers; toluene (since Pearl Harbor, Humble has produced much more toluene for high explosive than all other sources in the nation combined); aviation engine oils; Univis instrument oils; stratosphere greases and rust preventives. Humble soon will be producing synthetic rubber for tires, wire insulation, rubber boats, numerous other essential items needed by the air force.

The Humble Company feels keenly its obligation in the nation's war effort. The same engineering skill, the same refineries which give you Esso and Humble gasoline, E-997, and Velvet Motor Oils for your car and truck, your farm and industrial machinery, have been geared for production. And 13,000 Humble employees are dedicated to the job of delivering vital war goods in adequate quantities and on time.

HUMBLE PRODUCTS FOR THE MACHINES OF WAR: Asphalt, Aviation Gasoline and Aviation Engine Oil, Camouflage Paints, Diesel Fuel, Diesel Oil, Diesel Instrument Oil, Marine Paints, Navy Special Fuel, Gun Oil, Gun Oil, Gun-Base Protective Coatings, Stratosphere Grease, Toluene, Turbine Grease, Wax, Waterproof Lubricants and Synthetic Rubber for military use. FOR THE MACHINES OF WAR: Automotive Lubricants, Cutting Fluids, Greases, Diesel Fuel, Gun Industrial Lubricants, Lubricating Greases, Motor Oil, Paints, Petroleum Solvents, Quenching Oil, Rust Preventer, Wax. FOR YOUR CAR: Products and service to help you care for your car for your own protection.

Bill to Draft Labor Prepared By Paul McNutt

WASHINGTON — Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower Commissioner, said last week he would have a compulsory labor draft bill ready "if and when it seems necessary and the Administration is ready to press for national service."

There have been hints that the Administration was giving renewed consideration to asking such legislation when Congress reconvenes in September. Mr. McNutt told a press conference that the WMC is "working on" the subject now, as it has before.

"It's a matter of being ready when a need arises," he said, declining to express his views further.

Mr. McNutt said he had received "no complaint" that "lack of manpower" contributed to failure of war production to make hoped-for gains in May and June. He remarked in this connection that the WMC has no jurisdiction over strikes.

Asked about recruitment of Wacs and Waves, he said the WMC was opposed to intensive recruitment for these branches of the armed forces in areas of critical labor shortage.

A satisfactory settlement on this has been reached by the armed forces and the WMC, he said, adding that the WMC would seek to help recruit women for the military branches where it would not interfere with war production.

Meanwhile, he said, draft boards had been ordered to take up the cases of men who have left the essential jobs for which they were released from the armed services. Because of the number of men who left such jobs, the armed forces now furlough men for industrial work rather than give them outright releases, and thus retain a measure of control.

Mr. McNutt said the WMC

Management - Labor Committee is considering a plea of the railroad industry for exemption from some provisions of the programs restricting movement from one employer to another. Railroad spokesmen contended the WMC programs were hampering carriers in obtaining needed labor. Mr. McNutt said no other industry had made complaint.

WE'RE FAMOUS FOR OUR TIRE SERVICE

INSPECTION—First we inspect the tire thoroughly inside and out, never rely on guesswork. We can locate tire trouble like a dentist can spot a cavity.

BIG INJURY—If we find a big injury, the first thing we do is clean it out much like a dentist cleans out a tooth. Then a patch is applied and the repair vulcanized.

SMALL BREAK—If the break is small and does not go through the tire body, we make a "spot" repair. Then we vulcanize this to the rest of the tire—preventing it from causing trouble later.

TUBE PATCH—After all, it's the tube that holds the air—and if it has a tiny hole or a big tear, the air won't stay in. We can vulcanize even big rips securely so that the air can't get out.

You will like them very much and they will mean much to our church and the town. The night services will likely be held on the church lawn. We will not be able to secure enough lumber to have the place as well arranged as usual, but there will be many chairs and we will make it as comfortable as possible. You will enjoy it.

We will likely have our service this coming Sunday night on the church lawn. The chairs will be placed on the lawn late in the afternoon and we will have enough seats for a good crowd. The service will begin at nine o'clock and the pastor will speak on "The First New Testament Revival".

The subject for the morning service will be, "A Word of Warning From the Holy Spirit." The morning services are purely evangelistic and God is blessing them. The fellowship of the Christian people is worth a lot and the fellowship we have with God in these services is worth more.

Two Hundredth Claim Paid By Ideal Security

Tuesday of this week, Ideal Security Life Insurance Company of Anson, paid its 200th death claim, since the company was organized October 17, 1935.

This claim was paid to Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Clyburn of Knott, Texas, formerly of Hawley, as a result of the death of their son who lost his life in military service. This is the third military claim paid.

In approximately eight years of operation, and in consideration of the large number of policy holders, which is now near eight thousand, 200 claims is an extremely low death rate. Also as many of these policies were small, it has not kept the Mortuary Fund, from which death claims are paid, from growing continuously, which is the result of the careful handling of their business by W. H. Littlefield, treasurer of the company. Most of these claims were paid the same day they were notified of the death. This has made this company popular with the people of this territory.

Long-Term Credit Policies of F. S. A. Paying Dividends

Long-term credit at low interest rates to low-income farmers who get adequate credit anywhere else is not only paying dividends in food but is also a safe investment. Repayments on loans made by the Farm Security Administration in Haskell county are an indication.

Pope, County FSA Supervisor disclosed today that the beginning of the FSA program to last April 30, $319,000 had been loaned in the form of rehabilitation loans to families in Haskell County. That amount, $226,777.58 has been repaid and $238,506.43, including 6 percent interest, has been returned to the government by these families who were unable to obtain adequate credit from any other source.

BUTCHER: READ THIS REGULATION OF OPA

Mr. Butcher: Please figure out what this OPA paragraph from MPR No. 355, part of a 54-page regulation, means:

"Fourth, the excess loin (lumber) and pelvic (sacral) fat shall be trimmed from the inside of the full loin by placing the full loin upon a flat surface, with no other support to change its position, meat side down, and removing all fat which extends above a flat plane parallel with the flat surface supporting the full loin and on the level with the full length of the protruding edge of the lumbar section of the chine bone. Then all fat shall be removed which extends above a flat plane using the following two lines as guides for each edge of the plane: An imaginary line parallel with the full length of the protruding edge of the lumbar section of the chine bone, which line extends two inches from the flank edge, and running parallel with such edge for the full length of the loin. All fat obstructing the measurement of the second line shall first be removed. In addition to the foregoing all rough fat in the pelvic cavity of the heavy end of the loin (sirloin) shall be trimmed smooth and trimming by a knife shall be apparent. No fat remaining in the pelvic cavity shall exceed one inch in depth."

Humble Has High Production Record of War Essential

Houston, Texas — Humble Oil & Refining Company's Baytown Refinery, which has produced more 100-octane aviation gasoline than any other plant in the nation has passed the 500 million gallon mark in the manufacture of 100-octane gasoline and its components, according to an announcement in the Humble Refinery Bee, official company publication, just off the press.

It is estimated that this quantity of gasoline is sufficient for 200 raids of 1,000 bombers each over enemy territory. Humble's position as the nation's foremost producer of critical war products from petroleum dates back several years when existing refining facilities were converted into units for the manufacture of 100-octane aviation gasoline and its components. The company holds the distinction of placing in operation the first commercial alkylation plant in the nation. Alkylate, produced synthetically at this plant, is the prime ingredient required for manufacture of 100-octane aviation gasoline. Through the use of super-fractionation facilities, Humble has substantially improved its aviation gasoline base stock, thereby reducing the amount of alkylates required. This fortunate combination, and a plentiful supply of raw materials, plus the installation of additional modern equipment has enabled the company steadily to increase its output of high octane gasoline and maintain its leadership in this field. In addition to occupying first place in the manufacture of 100-octane aviation gasoline, the Humble Company, since Pearl Harbor, has produced much more synthetic toluene for explosives than all other sources in this country combined. Baytown Ordnance Works, where toluene is manufactured, was awarded the Army-Navy "E" in August, 1942, for high achievement in the production of war materials. Early this year a star was added to this flag for continued high production and efficiency. A 30,000 ton government owned butadiene plant for making the chief ingredient for Buna S rubber will shortly be placed in operation by Humble at Baytown. Later in the year, a Butyl Rubber plant, also government owned, and of equal capacity, will start operation at Baytown under Humble management. Another butadiene plant, smaller in capacity, will likewise be in operation at an early date at the Company's Ingleside refinery. This plant is a refinery conversion project.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

Happy are the people whose God is All-in-all, who ask only to be judged according to their works, who live to love. —Mary Baker Eddy

While Others Cheer

When the prospect of peace becomes more real, literally hundreds of millions of people will stand ready to join in a deafening tumult of relief and happiness. Victor and vanquished alike will revel in a reunion with loved ones.

But there is one group whose shouting will be muted—the doctors. For them the jobs of rebuilding the shattered wreck that humanity has made of itself and of the world, will begin. Many of them will not be able to return home. They will have to stay in far away places battling as they never battled during the war against disease and starvation. They will have to work against time to develop new aids and new techniques in a world-wide struggle to control the spread of fearful maladies. These men in white know that the war has created medical problems which if not solved could easily make the war itself look like a pink tea. No, the doctors will not cry out in carefree happiness when this war ends.

Laymen, who know so little of the grim task the doctors face, should endeavor to ease their burden wherever possible. The standards of our medical men are high. They serve rich and poor alike to the best of their ability, and the ability of American doctors is not surpassed. We should reflect soberly on these things in the years ahead when the doctors will be fighting the greatest battle of all time—for us—and pause before heeding an insatiable howl for an impossible medical Utopia under the banner of social reform.

Consider Him!

In the trend of complaining of food cost, produce limitations, black markets, coupon difficulties, we sort of forget a person who needs consideration in all of this regimentation and who seldom gets anything but a sigh of impatience for all his trouble. That's the fellow in the neighborhood grocery store who stands back of the counter with more worries over coupons, supplies, market and prices than you have. He will tell you that he is having his troubles and he is probably right when he says there are more to come. When we step to the counter and grumble because there isn't any of this, wonder why a shortage of that, question price, seek point answers, remember that his headache is worse than yours and he isn't any happier because he can't carry on 'business as usual' than you are.

Staying Home?

Are you one of those who will have no vacation this year? Many folks will not have much time away from their work in defense and relief and any productive labor that is tied in with the war effort. But this does not mean there are not certain beauties of nature to be found near Haskell in the country, moments of pure relaxation to be had in your own yard, simple pleasures to bring renewed interest in life inside your home. Snatch a few hours of peace along some stream, treasure a few hours in the shade of some tree with a calming book. Take advantage of leisure hours instead of moaning over the loss of leisure weeks or months that used to be.

No Letting Up

Our routing of the enemy in certain battle areas is heartening to every one in Haskell, as it is the proof that after long months of preparation we are progressing in the fight with a definite advance. The indirect part we played in many branches of defense work was a warming up in the important role to come. We are actively participating in the actual business of war on each front, carrying the fury to the door of the enemy. We suffered our reverses which taught us lessons no too late and which pointed out the danger that COULD happen here. We took our Pearl Harbor and Wake Island and through these sad experiences gained in wisdom at the cost of precious lives. It was a sore challenge to strength of character and courage and national morale, but now we are on our way! North Africa paved the way. We do not intend to slow down, we are planning for what is ahead. To taste of victory, remember, is not to participate in a full meal—we have had a taste. This must not make us overly confident and feel that the end is in sight, the war as good as won and victory at hand. Council has warned us otherwise and all of us know that we can't let up for one instant. To relax one minute in the united defense effort might lead to disaster. The idea is to keep production going with more determination and to press the fight the harder. Yes, we ARE gaining, we ARE moving forward, we ARE on the way.

Weekly Health Letter

By Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer

Austin, Texas—"Be sure that your preschool child will be ready to go to school in September," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, urges the parents of all children who will respond to the school bells for the first time next fall. "If you have not already done so, start now to prepare your child for the added strain of school life.

"First and foremost is the need for vaccination against smallpox. Parents and physicians should see that children are vaccinated before they are one year of age; the matter is entirely in the hands of parents and their doctors during the earliest years of life. At school age, however, vaccination becomes absolutely necessary. If your child has not been vaccinated, have it done immediately so that the scar will be completely healed before school opens."

Immunization against diphtheria is also highly desirable, Dr. Cox believes. This disease, which causes serious illness and deaths among young children, can be prevented with toxoid. The child who has never been protected should be given this safeguard against a dreaded disease. Even though he may have been immunized as a baby, doctors and health officers usually recommend an additional dose of toxoid to strengthen immunity before entrance into school.

"In addition, before you send your child to school you are urged to take him to your physician or to the nearest clinic for a complete physical examination," Dr. Cox adds. "You will want to know that he is in good physical condition and can compete with the other children on equal terms. If the check-up reveals any weakness or defect there will be time to build up his general health and correct defects before September. Don't let your child start his school life with any avoidable handicap."

Pictures of angels are represented as women because it doesn't embarrass a woman to fit around in nothing but a pair of wings.

A member of the human race learns in six days to open his mouth and put his foot into it—a performance it takes him upwards of 60 years to unlearn.

Moses had to take God's word, for "the selfsame day," which we read here came later. It came in God's own time, after He had, through Moses, humiliated and broken the hard will of Pharaoh. Then He gave His people the great memorial feast of the Passover, teaching them the needed lesson that redemption is by the shedding of blood.

In that night Jehovah did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt. That deliverance was as certain the day He made the first promise to Abraham (v. 3, and Gen. 12:1-3) hundreds of years before, as it was now that it had been accomplished.

History is really God's story, revealing His outworking of His plan for mankind. The torn and blotted pages are man's handiwork. Sin and unbelief have caused him to hinder the work of God, but God is not defeated, and in the midst of man's self-created chaos, He proceeds quietly to work out His own purpose.

The many prophecies of Scripture which have been fulfilled not only prove its divine inspiration, but demonstrate its dependability. Every promise of God is "yea and amen" in Christ (II Cor. 1:20, 21). We can count on that!

God's covenant with His people was established (v. 4). He had heard their cry (v. 5) and His deliverance was sure (v. 6). The only thing Moses had to do was to wait and see God work.

That word "wait" is a little one. It seems to call for no effort, to be easy of fulfillment; yet it seems to be the hardest thing for a human being to do. Men who carry the burden of active warfare with ease and with honor become discouraged and sick when they must sit in a prisoner's concentration camp and wait for deliverance.

Christians who can speak and work for God when things are active and moving become querulous and despondent when they have to wait for something to happen, or when they are laid aside for a time. His promise is sure. That is not just a religious sentiment. It is a fact, and it is proved by history. Note that in the case of Moses—

III. History said, "It Came to Pass the Selfsame Day" (Exod. 12: 51).

Outline of Present Cotton Market Situation Is Given By Specialist

Austin, Tex.—Texas farmers are you in a quandary about whether to sell your new cotton, or to hold it for better prices?

If so, Dr. A. B. Cox, University of Texas cotton marketing authority, has drawn up a list of "pros" and "cons" which may help you decide.

He won't recommend which you should do, but lists the arguments for and against as follows:

For holding:
1. Acreage this year is the lowest for nearly 50 years—21,995,000 acres, as compared with the peak of 44,608,000 acres in 1926.

2. Parity prices have gone up an average of 10 points per month during the last five months. In June the parity price was 20.34 cents, with a guaranteed loan of 90 percent of parity, or 18.31 cents in June.

3. Production this year will be 1,800,000 pounds less than last year's harvest if the acreage yield per acre is as much as the average for the past five years, or 246.1 points.

4. Civilian consumption, now curbed by the war, should be boosted by accumulated buying power when the war is over. Exports through lend-lease and other channels will likely be increased substantially for the duration as Allies recapture territory in Europe and reduce the Atlantic submarine menace.

5. The present seemingly large carryover in this country is low grade short staple cotton—which in normal times goes to export and will be in demand when the war closes. Consequently this should not push down prices of the current crop.

For immediate sale:
1. Mill consumption is trending downward since January, due to labor shortage, unsatisfactory results from three-shift operations.

2. Mills are reducing stocks, and delaying purchases, due to uncertainty as to the duration of the war, to "very optimistic" reports about the yield of the new crop, and to narrowing margins of profit.

3. Prices listed in future contracts are progressively lower from October to July of next year with July 1944, being quoted at $3 a bale under quotations for October, 1943.

4. Price ceilings on raw cotton may be established if prices threaten to rise above the 21.38 cents per pound for middling 15.

and the narrowing mill margins resulting from advancing cotton prices and "roll back" of finished products in some cases.

5. There is a substantial accumulation of Indian cotton in India which will be a depressing influence on the price of our grade short staple cotton when the war is over.

16 inch on April 7.
5. The average weight of consumption is much lighter than the average weight for war poses—which would mean bales would be required to mills at their present rate of lity when they return to lian orders.
6. There is a substantial cumulation of Indian cotton in India which will be a depressing influence on the price of our grade short staple cotton when the war is over.

GOD DELIVERS HIS PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 5:22, 23: 6:1-7: 12:31.

GOLDEN TEXT—Call upon me in the day of trouble; I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me.—Psalm 50:15.

Why doesn't God do something? People are quick to ask such a question in a time of crisis. Today they want to know why God permits the war to go on. In the day of our lesson Moses wanted to know why God did not deliver His people from Egypt. He and Aaron had been appointed of God to lead them out, but their first efforts only met with failure and increased persecution.

The complaint of Moses, and the response of God make an instructive story for our consideration and guidance. It will answer our questions.

I. Moses Said, "Thou Hast Not Delivered Thy People" (Exod. 5:22, 23).

When the efforts of Moses brought heavier burdens on the people they blamed him and Aaron for making their situation worse. This sorrow and shame made them doubt God's calling and commission. How quickly men are discouraged in their purpose to serve God.

The people were wrong in their attitude. They should have been patient. They ought not to have assumed that the loss of the first skirmish meant the loss of the whole campaign.

Are we not just like them? The new minister or the recently elected Sunday school superintendent makes a mistake and instead of helping him to pick up the pieces and start over, we decide that he just will not do, that we must have a change.

Even though the people were wrong, however, the man of God should not have lost his faith and accused God of failure to keep His promise. He was supposed to have learned the lesson of patience in the long years on the backside of the desert. Had he forgotten the experience of the burning bush?

II. God Said, "I Am Jehovah, Thou Shalt See What I Will Do" (Exod. 6:1-7).

In other words, Moses was to remember that he was dealing with the Eternal One, unchangeable, and always true to His word and able to make His will come to pass.

So often men in dealing with God think of Him in terms of their own weakness and failure. What we need is to have a Godlike conception of God, not a manlike idea of Him. God is the infinite and Eternal One with whom we have no right to quarrel, and whose dealings with us are too high for us to judge (Ps. 139:1-6).

God's covenant with His people was established (v. 4). He had heard their cry (v. 5) and His deliverance was sure (v. 6). The only thing Moses had to do was to wait and see God work.

That word "wait" is a little one. It seems to call for no effort, to be easy of fulfillment; yet it seems to be the hardest thing for a human being to do. Christmas Cards and Packages To Men Overseas Must Be Sent Between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15

CHRISTMAS—2-14
Christmas cards and parcels for army men overseas must be mailed between September 15 and October 15, and the sooner the better. Postmaster J. M. Diggs announced this week. Parcels and cards for men in the navy may be mailed as late as November 1.

No requests from the addresses are required in connection with Christmas parcels mailed in this period only. Patrons are encouraged to label each parcel "Christmas parcel."

Christmas parcels should not exceed the present weight of five pounds, or 15 inches in length or 36 inches in girth and length combined. Patrons are advised not to send food or clothing, as these are supplied men in the service. Attention is called to the fact that more than one parcel per week will not be accepted when sent to the same addressee on behalf of the same concern or person.

Owing to distance of transport all packages should be in metal, wood, solid fiberboard, strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard or strong fully telescoping cardboard boxes. The boxes should be securely wrapped in strong paper and tied with twine. As censorship is probable, delay in handling can be avoided by securing the covering so as to provide ready inspection of contents.

Remember, mailing period is from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15.

First Birthday of WAVES Finds 20,000 Women in Uniform

DALLAS, July 29—One year ago President Roosevelt signed the bill creating the Women's Reserve, U. S. Naval Reserve. As a result, the Navy is 20,000 stronger in manpower, for that number of women in the past 12 months have put on the uniform of their country, gone to training schools and taken their places at desks and machines all over the country.

And wherever a woman has taken over a job, a man has been released for combat duty.

The Dallas Naval Air Station is one of the various activities throughout the country where Navy women will mark July 30 as the first anniversary of the organization.

Here, where future Navy and Marine Corps fighting pilots get their primary flying instruction, 125 women in blue recently have gone on duty. They are serving in such jobs formerly held by men as parachute riggers, aviation machinist's mates, radio men, pharmacist's mates and as messengers, file clerks and telephone operators.

How well they have performed their duties is attested by Commander J. R. Rushenberger, USN, commanding the station.

"These women are doing the work assigned them in a most commendable manner," he said. "The same is true, I hear, all over the country."

Lieutenant (Junior grade) Rachel M. Clifford is the senior WAVES administrative officer at the Dallas Naval Air Station. She was formerly attached to the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, taking over her present post last June 19.

"I can't commend the WAVES' work too highly," she said. "They are sincere and intelligent women. The men of the station have been cooperative and welcome them as fellow workers in the Navy. "We're glad to have a part in training future Navy flyers."

The WAVES, by legislation are not yet permitted to serve outside continental United States.

There is a bill pending in Congress which would allow members of the Women's Reserve to volunteer for a foreign billet.

Cut-Rate Cash Grocery

J. D. TYLER, Prop.

WHAT'S THIS WAR ABOUT, DADDY?

Honey, in a place called China, children can never play as you can . . . because men in airplanes roar overhead and shoot them, and burn their homes.

In other places . . . in Norway and France, in Poland and Greece and Russia . . . children have their mothers and daddies taken away from them . . . led off to a prison called a concentration camp. Their children may never see their parents again.

Many of these children—boys and girls just like you—don't get enough to eat. Many of them have starved to death.

Why is all this happening? Because there are evil people in the world, who call themselves the Axis, who do these things. And it's our job to make them stop—to see that they never trouble the world again. That's what this war is all about.

To do our job we've got to knock out the Axis. And a lot of us Daddies would like to do it with our own fists . . . or our own guns. We can't all do that. There's other work that Uncle Sam wants us to do.

So let's help knock out the Axis with that work. Let's take a dime out of each dollar we earn while working and buy War Bonds and Stamps to turn our dollars into America's tough new tanks and planes.

So . . . tell your employer to set aside 10 percent of what you earn every payday in the War Bond Payroll Savings Plan. Then, each time it adds up to $18.75, you'll get a bond.

Your Government will use that money to smash the Axis. Every dollar is a nail in Hitler's coffin. Every bond a bomb to blow the Jap off this earth. And your money is an investment against that time when peace returns and you will no longer have to answer that question: "Daddy, what's this war about?"

WHY U. S. WAR BONDS ARE THE SAFEST PLACE YOU CAN PUT YOUR MONEY

1. They are obligations of the United States. If this isn't safe, nothing is!
2. For every $3.00 you invest in War Bonds you get back $4.00 at the end of 10 years.
3. They do not fluctuate in dollar value—are never worth less than you pay for them.
4. You can name one individual either as co-owner or as beneficiary right on the face of the bond.
5. Your savings in War Bonds cannot be lost or stolen. Each bond is registered at the Treasury Department.

Grandfather of Mrs. Stockdale Dies in Ft. Worth

District Attorney and Mrs. Fred Stockdale, who recently moved to this city from Aspermont, were called to Fort Worth last week to the bedside of Mrs. Stockdale's grandfather, M. A. Eitelman who died in that city July 21 and was buried Friday July 23.

Mr. Eitelman, 88, was one of the oldest living residents of Fort Worth, having lived there since 1877. For many years he was engaged in the blacksmith business. He has been in failing health for several years. Deceased is survived by one son, E. F. Eitelman of Ft. Worth; two daughters, Mrs. Emma Gilchrist and Mrs. Lillie Ingerson also of Ft. Worth; eight grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren.

Sicilian Invaders 'Pass the Ammunition'

Allied forces, in one of the greatest combined land, sea and air military operations of all time, swarmed over 100 miles of southeastern Sicilian coasts commencing the long-awaited European invasion. Men in sound-photos above are passing ammunition to attacking forces which rapidly pushed far inland. More than 2,000 Allied ships transported troops and helped pound the enemy. Despite the tremendous size of the attacking forces, most units were reported to have arrived at their objectives exactly on time.

Roger Babson Gives Some Sensible Advice On Everything — Babies To Bombers

By ROGER W. BABSON New York City, July 15.—This week I will write about my own line of business, namely, statistics. There are four things that this country should learn from statistics. I hope parents will cut this column out and save it for their children to read.

It is true that the birth rate has jumped since the draft went into effect, but all these babies are not the kind the country needs. In many instances they have been sired by timid fathers who are hoping a baby will get them exemption! The truth is that the U. S. birth rate has been going down for years. Even more serious is the fact that the decline is greatest among those more fit to raise good children. This tendency must be stopped or America will some day be conquered by some other race.

Higher education is raising havoc with our birth rate. Take two sisters for instance; one sister goes to college and usually either has no children or perhaps one; while the other who does not go to college, raises a good family of three or four. Women have not been allowed to fight in the battle lines, during the past centuries because they are far more valuable in raising fighters. This is a hint to the WAACS, WAVES and SPARS!

The real difficulty with our food situation is the impoverishment of our soils. For years, the cutting down of forests has caused a soil erosion which is a basic cause of the farmers' troubles. The big cities began to grow and they added to the difficulty. The beef and crops which contained the necessary minerals were shipped off the farm to the cities. Following their consumption these necessary minerals went down the sewers of these cities into the ocean. Farms have also suffered from automobiles since farmers began to buy gasoline. Thus there is no refuse from the horses and the necessary cover crops of hay and oats were lost, all of which had heretofore built up the soil.

Now the country has gone crazy over synthetics and is bragging about the manufacture of synthetic rubber, synthetic plastics, and synthetic textiles, all of which will rob the soil still further. The farmers are fighting to have the rubber made from alcohol; while the oil men want to sell petroleum. For every ton of rubber made—either from alcohol or petroleum—we are robbing our grandchildren at a criminal rate. This craze for synthetics may easily become an important factor in the downfall of America.

I have a great many letters from young folks wanting jobs, but very few want to work with their hands except to press the keys of a typewriter or some other machine. As a result, we are getting to an actual shortage of manual workers. The real reason that John L. Lewis has been able to hold up 136,500,000 people is because his union is made up exclusively of manual workers, namely, the miners. No labor union, consisting of those doing work that we can do for ourselves could hold us up. Hence, we should get back to the soil and be less dependent upon the labor of others.

The simple truth is that all of us were designed to do some manual work in order to live healthy, courageous and useful lives. In the long-run, we people cannot hire others to exercise for us and do all our manual work any more than we can hire others to eat for us, sleep for us, or breathe for us. If you want further advice on this subject, read the eleventh verse of the 4th chapter of First
