Quotas Assigned Each Community and Precinct In County

Campaign to meet Haskell county's quota of $666,900 in bond purchases in the Third War Loan Drive was underway Thursday following a county-wide meeting of committeemen held in the district courtroom Wednesday morning, at which time R. C. Couch chairman of the County War Finance Committee, outlined the tremendous undertaking faced in subscribing the quota, which he pointed out was more than two and one-half times the quota the Second War Loan drive.

Representatives present at the meeting from every community and section of the county filled the district courtroom almost capacity.

After outlining the Third War Loan campaign, Mr. Couch announced quotas which had been assigned each community and precinct in the county, and community War Bond leaders discussed plans for community meetings during the next few days to organize every section of the county in a concerted movement to subscribe the county's quota at the earliest possible date.

In urging that every citizen in the county purchase their limit of Ward Bonds during September, Mr. Couch said:

"Our country wants everyone who can possibly as so to buy an extra $100 War Bond during September, over and above his regular Ward Bond purchases. And if you can afford more than that, don't stop there. Figure out for yourself how much you can put into War Bonds before you can honestly say "Yes, I'm doing all I can". And don't buy less.

"For a tremendous job ahead of us. We have taken the first step in our march on Berlin, and our march on Tokyo, but they are only first steps. Look at the G. A. McKinster, 75, resident of map and see how far we still have Haskell county since 1907 and who ahead. There are long and steady to go, how much fighting lies

"Our men in the service are ready for those battles. They are in their fox holes. They have already given up the comforts and luxuries which we are apt to think of as necessities. Even if we have to give up a few of those luxuries ourselves to buy Bonds it's no more than should be expected of us," he concluded. Quotas assigned each community and precinct were announced

CHAPTER XIII

"Well,' he said, hemming and hawing a little, 'three stripes means he's just a plain buck sergeant. Six stripes is a master sergeant. I'm a supply sergeant. That's two grades above a buck sergeant and one grade below a master sergeant. I'm expecting to be a master sergeant in a month or so. That's as high as you can get

"I didn't say anything for a while; just sat there looking like I was letting it soak in. Then I asked him, real calm-like and ignorant. How many stripes does a private first class have?"

"So help me, he looked like he was going to choke for a while. Then he came back with a snappy answer in a flash.

" Well,' he said, 'first-class privates have one stripe, just like us supply sergeants, only their stripe is bottom-upward from ours. Their stripes point down."

"Well, sir, I thought I'd die. I almost popped trying to keep from laughing, but I kept a straight face. Then I said, Things sure have changed since I was in the Army. Back then, three or four years ago, cident which might well be forgot- Center."

"That was all he had to say. He looked sort of foolish and pulled the cord to get off at the next stop. "So there was another bull ses sion shot to hell. Maybe it was for the best, though. I didn't have : chance against a fellow with that much talent."

I ran out of cigarettes this afternoon near my old cooks' battery, so I thought I'd drop in on First Sergeant Goldsmith, who smokes the same brand that I do. Sergeant Goldsmith is the old type of top sergeant, with a heart of GI shoe leather and a voice that would put the stoutest bugle to shame.

'Great gods and little paychecks. he railed. "Look what's loose again! What's the latest, little man, or aren't reporters supposed to know?

"The only news I've heard today," I told him, belping myself to a coffin nail from his desk, "is that they're sending all the first sergeants in the Replacement Center o Panama for lard-labor service detachments. Polish your brass and you might make acting corporal before the war's over."

"Oh, it's lovely to run into an old top sergeant who can't put you on kitchen police when you sass back at

"Well, son," said Goldie, "any time they need an instructor in coal hauling or fertilizer pitching. I'll write out a recommendation for you. We were going to give you a specialist's rating in cavalry sanitation before you left us."

"You haven't got a light, have you?" I asked, taking the lighted cigarette from his hand. I dumped three more fags from his pack into my hand and stuffed them into my shirt pocket. "Our photographer

From now on I must deny myself one of the fundamental rights and joys of mankind. I must quit bumming matches from those near and dear to me-that is, if I want them to remain near and dear to me. Whenever I ask anyone around Center Headquarters-even Mulvehill or Bishop or Bushemi-for a match, I get one of two answers, both of which are getting very tiresome by now. I hear either "What's the matter? Has your fire gone out?" or 'Just light your eigarette on one of our conflagrations; there should be a small arson in yonder corner." Since I am a patient and longsuffering child. I make no scathing remarks in return for these jaded witticisms. I merely shrug my frail shoulders pathetically and seek greener pastures. It isn't so bad, their refusing the match. The worst do credit to any mess sergeant's of Foresty was created in 1915 by part of it is the reminder of an in-

ten. The incident is of no consequence, but it might as well come off my chest.

Being a slave to the despoiler of human health and well-being, the eigarette, I still have a fondness for an occasional switch to a pipe. I don't especially enjoy the taste of pipe tobacco, and I don't believe even the most avid pipe smolter especially cares for it. Most of them like me, merely like the feel of a pipe in their mouths and the dignity and solemnity a pipe gives them when they punctuate their conversations by jabbing the air with it.

Smoking a pipe only occasionally, I still have not become overly proficient at keeping the little things burning. When I buy a can of tobacco. I buy a five-cent box of country matches with it. Half my smoke is tobacco; the other half is Georgia pine smoke from the matchsticks.

I was busy today typing out a story, and I had lit my pipe for about the twenty-second time. I threw the match into the wastebasket and forgot all about the whole thing. I was absorbed in my work.

I noticed by degrees that our office was becoming lighter and warmer. I noted the fact with a rich feeling of comfort, but no great interest in finding out the cause. It wasn't until I reached for another match to light that pipe again that I noticed my wastebasket. The thir had in it a cheerful little bibright enough to take action photo graphs on a moonless night.

There was nothing to get excited about. I told the remainder of the public relations staff, the sergeant major's corps of assistants, and the filing department. I nonchalantly put my foot into the basket and started stamping out the fire. The thing would have worked, too, except that the length of my foot was greater than the diameter of the wastebasket. The foot stuck and I could not stamp.

Corporal Sager, of Plans and Training, leaped to the rescue, pried the foot from the basket, grabbed the basket and sped away to the water cooler. I followed him and poured myself a cup of water. I still saw no cause for excitement. To the bystanders' catcalls, unseemly laughter, and accusations of arson, I turned a fatherly ear and a quieting voice. I explained patiently that setting fire to wastebaskets as an ancient and honored pastime in the newspaper world. I told them that one of the best newspaper men North Carolina has ever seen-"Uncle John" Dickson, former city editor of the News-used to set his wastebasket on fire at least twice a week by tossing cigarettes or burning matches into it. It was a mark of certain industry, a sign that a man was wrapped up in his work.

Nevertheless, the incident has established for me a new reputation of carelessness and absent-mindedness, one which I do not deserve. I shall be hooted at from the windows of the Service Club; even green rookies will snicker when I dodder down Headquarters Street.

It does no good to point out Bushemi, who often walks out of the mess hall with his dirty dishes in his hands, or Mulvehill, who puts new blades in his razor without removing the old ones and thereby gives his face the old bacon-slicer treatment. The sergeant lay on his lazy back reading Dorothy Parker. The windows of the room had been equipped with flimsy green curtains, and partered against them. On the wall above the bed hung a small oil painting of a forest, with an icy white mountain in the background. A writing table had been installed and on a shelf in over his bunk were a reading lamp, a small radio, and a neat array of books. I stood there surveying the place for a while. "What in the sweet name of military hardship have you got here?" I asked him. "All this place needs is a couple of Morris chairs and a sign reading. 'What is said. "Painted by a friend of mine up in Columbus. Guy knocks them off like that in about twenty minutes. How do you like it?" Aside from the fact that the water fall is a little frothy and the mountain looks like something from a

Living Longer

It is surprising to many Haskell people to learn that the effect of war on the public health is not detrimental. This is true in spite of a nation busy working, bustling, worrying with war programs. The people of the naton are surviving the strain so well that the death rate drops to the lowest level ever recorded in the country! This has happened in the United States in 1942, regardless of how much stewing and fretting, driving ourselves to extra endeavor and undergoing difficulties. During a war year living is speeded with a "tomorrow-we-maydie sort of attitude. Rationing entails restrains, personal responsibilities are increased and this brings additional worry. Thus we figure the general health will suffer. England found national health benefitted by a war diet and they surely have suffered closer contact with the actual fury than we. But we are advancing in medical knowledge, care of surrelves and surroundings, education in health restraints, certain extra health facilities offered during wartime have profitted the public. We have been able to meet the situation bravely, we have found within ourselves a reserve that we might not know we had, a stamina that perhaps we didn't feel was there, for adjusting our thoughts and our BUDGET Reddy: You're exactly right, Lady! Every other civilian service has been affected because of the war, but not electricity! It's still on hand every moment to make life easier and more pleasant for Lady: Did you say, "easier"? Reddy: Yes, that's what I said. You see, Lady, we realize what an important and patriotic person you are, with your Red Cross work, the Motor Corps, besides that very vital job out in the kitchen.

* TUNE IN "Report to the Nation," Tuesday Evening,

8:30, Columbia Broadcasting System.

Reddy: Of course, it is, and your electric company is now serving Army Training Camps and war-time industries, but it has also pledged itself to go right on serving you. Electric refrigeration keeps the food for your family safe and healthful; electric cookery retains vitamins and other valuable food elements essential to good health. Then there is your sweeper, iron, washer, and many other electric appliances, all at your finger tips to save your time and lessen the labor.

Ledy: But it's the least I can do for the war effort.

Lady: Whee, that's a big job!

Reddy: You bet it is, but it's our contribution to the War and to you. All of it adds up to friendly, dependable service at low cost. Ledy: And that sounds mighty good to me and my budget—and it's more than you can say about most items, since the war began.
