SUDDEN HEART ATTACK FATAL TO OWEN FOUTS

Well-Known Haskell Man Dies in Graham Wednesday

Owen Fouts, 46, former Haskell resident and filling station operator who for the past two years has been employed by the Gratek Refining Company in Graham, succumbed to a sudden heart attack at his home in that city Wednesday evening about 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Fouts had suffered with a mild heart ailment for several years, but apparently was in good health and he and his wife had spent the week-end in Haskell with relatives and friends. Wednesday afternoon Mr. Fouts complained to fellow workmen of feeling ill and went to his home. Just after reaching home and telling his wife that he was ill, Mr. Fouts collapsed in his bedroom and died instantly.

Wheat Loan Price Has Been Raised Cent Per Bushel

Government wheat loan prices have been raised one cent per bushel, but those who have already obtained loans on 1943 wheat will not receive the extra cent per bushel until the wheat is sold or title is taken by the Commodity Credit Corporation, according to A. C. Norman, Haskell county director for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Soldier Cables From England For Record of Divorce Granted Here

The budding romance of an American soldier in England who doubtless has found a girl more to his liking than the Texas bride he gave an uncontested divorce five years ago in Haskell county courts was indicated in a cablegram received this week by County Judge John F. Ivy. The cable to Judge Ivy requested that he furnish information as to the exact date on which the divorce decree became absolute between the American soldier and his former wife, and was signed "Superintendent Registrar, Town Hall, Saint Marylebone, London."

Grain Storage Bins Available to Farmers Here

Several Haskell county farmers have taken advantage of the opportunity to secure pre-fabricated grain storage bins through the Haskell county A.C.A. office, and A. C. Norman, secretary of the ACA announced this week that a carload of the ready-built bins had been ordered and would arrive within the next week or ten days. The carload shipment is made up of five 1843 bushel capacity bins, which sell for a delivered price of $270. They are ready to set up, and are built of good quality lumber with a priming coat of paint. The bins are ideal for the storage of grain, feed sorghum, etc., and can be adapted to many other farm uses.

Don't worry if you're too young for the WAACS or WAVES. There's another important job for you. Save all the extra vegetables from your Victory Garden by home-canning. A few jars a day take little time and add up to well-filled shelves by the end of the season. Food costs are high in the stores and may be higher, but food grown at home still costs a few cents a jar.

There's a deep satisfaction in growing and canning your own food. Wait and see. You'll take inventory of your garden each day to see which vegetables are right for the table and how many extras there are to put in glass jars. Make it a point each day to gather everything at its prime, and make it a point of honor to get the extras into glass jars before they lose freshness.

That's the big secret of delicious, nutritious, home-grown foods—freshness. Home-grown, home-canned foods often have many more vitamins than those bought at the store, because they are fresh. And when you get a reliable home-canning booklet, you'll be surprised at how many different things may be put away for later use in glass jars.

Be sure to have the very best canning instructions and recipes. One fruit jar company offers a Blue Book free with a coupon packed with each dozen jars—or for ten cents if you have no coupon. The instructions are easy to follow. It is not necessary to have elaborate or expensive equipment. Form a canning club and have fun while you can!

Emergency Program Goes Into Effect To Permit Purchase of Farm Hardware

Several hard-to-get farm supplies which farmers need for increased food and feed production will be available at once the Texas USDA War Board has announced.

Under an emergency program which already has gone into effect, the War Production Board has asked manufacturers and distributors to get into retail channels without delay adequate quantities of approximately 66 items most urgently needed by farmers. Later, a program to meet long-range needs will replace the emergency program and 78 items will be available, making a total of 144 with high priority rating.

Items included in the emergency program are auger bits, batteries, kerosene and gasoline cans, various types of chains, grain scoops, hoes, harness, well casing, pliers, screw drivers and shovels.

Additional items in the long-range program include axes, bit braces, blowers and forges, bolts and nuts, hacksaw blades and frames, jacks for farm tractors, mule shoes, horseshoe nails, pump rods and couplings.

Explaining operation of the program, B. F. Vance, chairman of the board, said the priority regulation provides that whenever a farmer orders any of the farm supplies from a dealer who has them in stock, he will sign a certificate specifying his needs. A certificate which entitles purchase up to $25 of any of the items on the list, may be furnished by the dealer or written out by the farmer.

Certificates which exceed the $25 limitation must be approved by local county farm rationing committees before purchase may be made, he explained.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Rural Electrification has made great strides during the past ten years, bringing to thousands of farm homes the conveniences of their city brothers. Today, however, copper wiring, fixtures—all the materials which are required for rural electrification—are "out" for the duration.

The farmers of the nation, however, can start now buying rural electrification and all the equipment which goes with it through purchase of War Bonds. Your War Bonds today will buy the materials needed to get your back to work for the future.

At a Lady Leatherneck Training Camp

In snappy sharp cadence a unit of women marines (at top) march smartly to their classes at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C. The lady leathernecks are wearing their raincoats. At lower left two women marines check the water and oil of a jeep. This is part of the toughening up course which these girls go through before they relieve a male marine so that he can get into a more active post. As part of their course, women marines must take lessons in sailing. A group is shown at right in sailboats. One of the most pleasing experiences for the girls at Camp Lejeune is being served by male waiters in the mess.

Know Texas

A. Garland Adair, Commissioner Texas Centennial of Statehood Commission, Austin

Q. What is being done about Texas celebrating her centennial of statehood?

A. A centennial of statehood is being organized, of which Dr. Karl Hohlitzelle is the chairman, which commission will plan a program for a statewide observance officially authorized to be held in 1945 and 1946 by the 47th Texas Legislature.

Q. Who was the largest governor Texas ever had?

A. Governor Richard B. Hubbard of Tyler, who weighed over 400 pounds and who succeeded Richard Coke when the latter resigned the governor's office to enter the United States Senate.

Q. What is the title of the most recent book which publishes facts about governors of Texas?

A. "A Century of Texas Governors and Capitols" is the title of a 68 page brochure dated June 14, 1943, "Flag Day" and prepared by the Texas Centennial of Statehood. It contains the answer to hundreds of questions about the history and makers of history in Texas.

Q. To whom should I write for a copy of "A Century of Texas Governors and Capitols"?

A. For a copy of "A Century of Texas Governors and Capitols," write to Texas Centennial Statehood Commission, 612 Norwood Building, Austin, Texas. The brochure contains the entire collection of paintings in the rotunda of the capitol which portray all of the governors and the early chief executives of the Republic, together with eight pencil drawings by P. B. Searcy of the Texas Memorial staff, which sketch the capitols of Texas, including Washington-on-the-Brazos, Columbia, Houston, and the four at Austin. The capitol of Columbia where the first congress met in 1836 was destroyed in 1888 when the present capitol was opened. The present capitol was built without one cent of cost to the taxpayers.

Q. Who was the first white man to perform a surgical operation in Texas?

A. Cabeza de Vaca performed the first surgical operation in Texas, extracting an arrow from the body of an Indian. He lived for seven years, largely by his wits, in Texas, as a medicine man and doing other things which the Indians regarded as miracles. Cabeza landed in Texas in 1528, after shipwreck and landing on Malhado Island. These and numerous other facts are brought out in the Texas Centennial of Statehood's book on a "Century of Texas Governors and Capitols."

Q. How many governors has Texas had and where were they from?

A. Thirty-three men and one woman have served as governors of Texas. Ten of them were born in Texas and twenty-four in 12 other states, Virginia, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Louisiana, Alabama, Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Connecticut, Mississippi and Florida.

Q. Who is the President of the Texas State Historical Association?

A. L. W. Kemp of Houston is the President of the Texas State Historical Society. He is also a member of the Historical Council, Statehood Commission.

Nancy Collins of Fort Worth was the week-end guest of Wylene Quattlebaum of this city. She returned to her home Tuesday morning.

It's A People's War

We are paying more in taxes than ever before... and likely will pay more. But we cannot rely on taxes to finance the war. It would not be fair to base a tax on the average single family income when many families have more than one income. We could borrow all the money from the banks, but for both economic and social reasons this is undesirable. The government would then sacrifice its greatest dam against inflation. This is a People's War and the people should finance it. The people WANT to finance it. Sale of War Bonds has mounted consistently since Pearl Harbor. They give their lives... You lend your money.

(Today, John Jones is just an average American, wrestling with all the doubts and worries and problems that beset every one of us right now. But let's skip ahead 10 years. Let's look at John Jones then—and listen to him . . .)

"I've got a little money coming in, regularly. Not much—but enough. And I tell you, when you can go to bed every night with nothing on your mind except the fun you're going to have tomorrow—that's as near Heaven as a man gets on this earth!"

know that every single payday we have more money put aside! John, if we can only keep up this saving, think what it can mean! Maybe someday you won't have to work. Maybe we can own a home. And oh, how good it would feel to know that we need never worry about money when we're old!"

"SOMETIMES I feel so good it almost scares me. 'This house—I wouldn't swap a shingle off its roof for any other house on earth. This little valley, with the pond down in the hollow at the back, is the spot I like best in all the world. 'And they're mine. I own 'em. Nobody can take 'em away from me.

"It wasn't always so. 'Back in '43—that was our second year of war, when we were really getting into it—I needed cash. Taxes were tough, and then Ellen got sick. Like most everybody else, I was buying War Bonds through the Payroll Plan—and I figured on cashing some of them in. But sick as she was, it was Ellen who talked me out of it. 'Don't do it, John!' she said. 'Please don't! For the first time in our lives, we're really saving money. It's wonderful to

"Well, even after she got better, I stayed away from the weekly poker game—quit dropping a little cash at the hot spots now and then—gave up some of the things a man feels he has a right to. We made clothes do—cut out fancy foods. We didn't have as much fun for awhile but we paid our taxes and the doctor and—we didn't touch the War Bonds.

"We didn't touch the War Bonds then, or any other time. And I know this: The world wouldn't be such a swell place today if we had!"

tributed with the fruit. Home demonstration club women in Stephens County bought 150 dozen pineapples during the last 10 days of May. The transaction was handled with the help of local merchants, and the county home demonstration agent gave assistance on canning the product to each club. Jones County club women had "pineapple chairmen" taking orders and money for cooperative purchases by women in 33 communities.

A first order of 25 dozen bought through the marketing committee of the Wheeler County home demonstration council has been delivered, and a second order is now being made. Contract price for the fruit was $4 a dozen, and fruit was of good quality and well handled. About 600 pints of pineapple were canned during May by Hudspeth County club women.

REDUCING SUMMER LOSSES IN EGGS

Blood rings, or heat damage, to fertile eggs are causing Texas egg producers substantial loss daily. This was reflected in a series of egg grading schools conducted recently in scattered sections of Texas by George P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman for the A. and M. College Extension Service. If losses corresponding to this sampling prevail throughout the state the supply of one of our important food items is being curtailed, McCarthy says.

Heat sets up germination and renders a fertile egg inedible. But this may be prevented by disposing of all male birds during the summer and thereby producing only infertile eggs. Eggs are highly perishable and cannot be subjected to heat without destroying quality. When laid, the temperature of an egg is about equal to that of the hen's body—104 to 107 degrees Fahrenheit. Therefore, proper cooling is essential. During the summer, eggs should be gathered two or three times daily and placed in a wire basket for cooling. Producers can use cellars or home-made cooling devices. An inexpensive and serviceable cooler may be made by covering the sides and ends of a frame with coarse burlap sack, and keeping the cloth moist by putting one end of it in a pan of water placed on top of the frame. The eggs are kept in wire baskets within this frame until cooled, and then placed in a standard egg case which also is kept in the cooler.

Plans for this type of cooler may be obtained from county Extension agents or by writing to the extension Service at College Station. McCarthy cautions that eggs should not be held for more than one week before marketing. As far as possible they should be turned daily by shifting the position of the case. This prevents the yolk from settling and sticking to the shell membrane.

FARM NEWS from FOOD FOR FREEDOM Texas A&M College Extension Service G. R. Schumann, County Agent

PINEAPPLE CANNING FLOURISHES Cooperative buying of pineapple for canning, a practice established in pre-ration book days, has been flourishing in Texas the last few weeks. Through the marketing committee of the Young County Home Demonstration Council, about 275 dozens of pineapple were sold to more than 500 families in the county recently. The fruit was obtained at a cost of $3.50 per dozen. According to reports received by Olyne Jeffries, county home demonstration agent, the 3,294 pineapple yielded approximately 12,000 pints of canned fruit. Each pineapple weighed from four to seven pounds, with the average exceeding five pounds in weight. The highest known yield was 60 pints per dozen fruit. Townspeople of Graham and Olney also benefited from the cooperative purchase. Their orders were taken by sec'or and block leaders of the QCD organization and by the Olney Chamber of Commerce. Recipes for preparation and preservation were distributed with the fruit.
