

Baptist Revival Will Start on August 7th

Rev. B. B. Crimm Will Conduct Two-Week Service

Annual revival meeting by the First Baptist will begin Monday night. The meeting will be for two weeks and the ability that it might cover of three weeks. Since of religion is the world's need we must do our best to have a great revival in it takes more than two weeks will feel free to congregate leaders pointed out, preparing to take care of the church lawn. We will have more than a hundred chairs that need. If necessary people will be brought from other towns and will be represented in the services. Crimm will be the evangelist. He is well known throughout the state. He has often been subjected to criticism and you. Since none of us are all subject to it. If you were perfect you would be criticized. It seems to me some criticized the pastor and some so hated that they crucified Him. B. B. wears a large hat, boots and sometimes rides horse, but not so bad after all. He is morally and fights the sin you cannot fight sin without a wasp's nest. Baptist had a little along this line. Preachers have tried to Crimm, but he imitates him. He is the original. He has the ability to preach the Gospel in all its purity. It is to judge any preacher service. If you will attend services you will receive blessing. Crimm Party is composed of singer and pianist as a great evangelist. Great in store for us. Knock door of prayer and God as the spiritual blessing so much need.

Operators May Use Own Records On Tire Reports

Operators of commercial motor vehicles were informed today by Richard E. Wood, of Lubbock, district manager of the Highway Transport Department of the Office of Defense Transportation, they may use simplified forms of their own making in keeping tire inspection records of vehicles covered by Certificates of War Necessity.

Records of miles traveled, motor fuel consumed and inspections were said by the district manager to be more necessary today than ever before but use of ODT forms, heretofore required, will not be necessary. Operators, who still have Forms 17 and 17-A on hand, may continue to use them until they are exhausted if they desire. However, no new ones will be supplied. Records are subject to periodic inspection by ODT officials. Information required includes a record of tire inspection for each vehicle, date of inspection, inspection station number, county and state, serial number or brand of tires requiring service and description of the required services, certification of inspector that no service is necessary or certification that such service was required to use them. Tires must be inspected every 3,000 miles or every six months, whichever comes first.

Weather Service Reporting Vital In War Effort

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (Special)—The success of flying the air lines, whether a plane is on a combat or training mission depends upon the weather, and as the airplane becomes an increasingly deciding factor in modern warfare, weather is assuming an even more important role. To meet the need for the best weather service the world has ever seen the Army Air Forces Weather Service has trained thousands of select young men from all walks of life for the highly technical meteorological work. One of these is Pvt. William P. McCollum, whose wife, Mary, lives at Haskell.

Private McCollum is a member of the 3rd Weather Squadron which has its headquarters in San Antonio with Lt. Colonel Oscar A. Heinlein as Commanding Officer. He is on duty as a weather observer on detached service at the Base Weather Station, Biggs Field, El Paso, Texas.

Work as a weather observer at an AAF station has to be accomplished at all hours of day and night as the station is operated 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. His tasks are many and varied.

The observer takes observations at least once every hour and makes a report, plots complete weather maps every six hours with data received by teletype transmission from all parts of the continent does adiabatic and upper air charts, files hourly weather reports and performs many other duties at the station.

School Lunch Program Again to Be Available

Texas school children again will have nutritious noon-day lunches when schools open this fall, according to Dan L. Boyd, Amarillo, Acting District Representative, WFA's Office of Distribution.

In operation in 63 West Texas and Panhandle counties, highest participation in the Community School Lunch Program was in Taylor County where children in 23 schools enjoyed daily lunches, he said. Other counties were El Paso with 15, Jones and Potter with 14 lunchrooms each, Young, Wichita, and Childress with 13 lunchrooms each.

Throughout Texas 1,788 schools served lunches to 210,000 children and for the nation 31,000 schools served more than 4,000,000 children.

The Community School Lunch Program, for which Congress recently appropriated $50,000,000 for continued operation, was created to safeguard the health of school children by assuring them wholesome foods which provide at least one-third of their daily nutritive requirements, Boyd said.

Locally operating lunchrooms provide outlets for commodities purchased at WFA support prices and will help move seasonally abundant foods and give farmers and food distributors additional outlets for their products.

The School Lunch Program is designed to operate under local sponsorship of school boards or school organizations, parent-teacher groups, civic groups and other non-profit organizations, Boyd explained, adding WFA will reimburse local sponsors for their food purchases up to a maximum amount determined by the type of lunches served.

SS Field Office Affords Help To Parents, Children

Sometimes young widows, aged parents, and orphans do not know they are eligible for benefits under the Social Security Act, and lose money through delay in filing their claims.

In addition to the monthly old-age benefits payable to the insured worker himself at age 65 or after, the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance system provides for monthly benefits to members of his family. Benefits are also payable to his family at his death, whatever his age.

Benefits totaling over 16 million dollars a month were in force at the end of 1943 for almost 900,000 beneficiaries. The sharpest increase in number was in widow's benefits, which rose 62 per cent.

A safe rule is this: When in doubt about your right to old-age and survivors insurance benefits, visit the local office of the Social Security Board. No matter where you work or live, you're probably not very far from a Social Security Board field office or from one of its part-time service points.

The Social Security Board field office servicing this area is located at Abilene, Texas.

CAN FOR QUALITY FOOD PRODUCTS
(Louise Newman, County Home Demonstration Agent)

One of the most common problems which the home canner faces is the loss of liquid in jars. While this loss of liquid does not cause spoilage or make the food unsuitable to eat, it does cause discoloration and poor texture at the top of the product.

Containers should be full if the food is hot when sealed. Always have 1/2 inch or more of liquid over solid food. For shelled peas, shelled beans, and corn, it is best to have about 1 to 1 1/2 inches of liquid above the solid food. In greens and hominy, 2 to 2 1/2 inches liquid is more desirable. Do not pack greens too tightly because it prevents heat penetration to the center.

Food should be hot when sealed. Do not let it cool between the filling and sealing or the steaming and sealing processes.

Recent studies show that exhausting or letting the steam escape from the petcock is a very necessary process. Cookers should be exhausted seven to ten minutes, the cookers holding seven or more quarts should be exhausted ten minutes before closing the petcock. If this is not done, air pockets are left in the cooker and the pressure is not evenly distributed. This results in the loss of liquid in some jars and not in others.

Liquid will be drawn from jars if the pressure is not kept even during the processing period. If the safety valve pops off, liquid will be drawn out.

Many people make the mistake of letting the steam off too quickly and draw the liquid from the jars. Let the pressure gauge return to zero and remain a minute or two before opening the petcock, then open it gradually so that the steam escapes slowly. Do not put your cooker in a draft or cover with a damp cloth to run the pressure down for this is likely to warp or crack the cooker.

When the lid of the pressure cooker is taken off, leave jars of vegetables in the cooker from ten to fifteen minutes before removing; leave jars of meats about twenty minutes. If the jars are moved too soon or tilted a little while the liquid is still boiling inside the jar, it often causes the liquid to boil out or prevents a perfect seal. Remember that there is still some extra pressure inside the jar and that there is danger of explosion if jars are handled too soon after removing the cooker lid.

Jars which have lost liquid in processing should never be opened so that more liquid may be added unless the jar is again sealed and reprocessed the original length of time.

Loss of liquid in fruits or tomatoes processed in water bath is due to jars not standing level, jars being packed too full of solid food, water not boiling evenly and continuously over and around the jars and the jars not being covered with at least 1/2 inch of water.

Army Answers Questions

Your questions on allotments insurance, legal problems or other matters as they relate to Army personnel and their dependents will be answered in this column or by letter. Write Headquarters, Eighth Service Command, Dallas 2, Texas.

Q. Will you please explain to me what the G. I. Bill of Rights is?

A. The "G. I. Bill of Rights" is the popular name given to a law recently passed by the House and Senate and signed by the President, which will assure the welfare of the veteran in his return to civil life in the post war world. Among the benefits which will be available to the veterans are education and loans for small businesses, home-building and hospitalization.

Q. I have some legal papers which my husband who is in the Army overseas must sign. What is the best way to send them to him so they won't get lost?

A. You may arrange with your postmaster to send legal papers by a special registered mail service reserved for papers needing the attention of service men overseas.

Q. Is there a new ruling about women with children under 14 joining the Women's Army Corps?

A. Yes. A woman with a child under 14 may now enlist in the Women's Army Corps if she presents an affidavit stating that she has not had the actual care of the child for at least 18 months prior to the date of her application.

Q. My son is overseas in the Army. He owes some bills at home. Could I cash in some of his War Bonds to pay those bills?

A. Only if you are named as co-owner of the bonds. If you are not named as co-owner, it will be necessary for him to fill out PD Form No. 1762, by which he may name you as co-owner of bonds already purchased. With this form, the bonds may be cashed and a check issued in your name.

Q. The allowance check from my husband got torn and nobody will cash it. Can I turn it in and get a new check?

A. Yes. Send the check to the Office of Dependency Benefits, 213 Washington St., Newark, New Jersey, requesting that a new check be issued. If the remains are not recognizable, you will be required to post a bond before you get the new check. Be sure to include your husband's name, rank, serial number and unit in your application.

YOU GET SO MUCH FOR SO LITTLE!

War causes costs to go up. Your dollar buys less of almost everything. It takes plenty more of them to run your business and your home. Taxes have soared, but one thing that remains the same is your electricity. Your dollar buys twice as much electricity for your home as it did in 1939. Today your electricity is carrying two jobs... a war job and its regular job of peace. You are asked not to be wasteful in its use, but in spite of this double task your electricity has been there when and where you wanted it... there is never any "standing in line."

Weekly Health Letter

By Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer
 AUSTIN, Texas.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, urges the parents of all children who will respond to the school bell for the first time in September to be sure the child is physically ready for school duties.
 "First and foremost is the need for vaccination against smallpox. Parents and physicians should see that children are vaccinated before they are one year of age; however if not done previously, at school age vaccination becomes absolutely necessary," Dr. Cox said. "If your child has not been vaccinated, have it done immediately so that the scar will be completely healed before school opens."

 Immunization against diphtheria is also highly desirable, Dr. Cox believes. This disease, which causes serious illness and deaths among young children, can be prevented with toxoid. The child who has never been protected should be given this safeguard against a dreaded disease. Even though he may have been immunized as a baby, doctors and health officers usually recommend an additional dose of toxoid to strengthen immunity before entrance into school.

 "In addition, before you send your child to school you are urged to take him to your family physician and dentist for a thorough examination," Dr. Cox adds. "You will want to know that he is in good physical condition and can compete with the other children on equal terms

If the check-up reveals any weakness or defect there will be time to build up his general health and correct dental defects before school opens. Don't let your child start his school life with any avoidable handicap."

A mind conscious of integrity seems to say more than it means to perform.—Robert Burns

Free Men or Public Servants

Electric power development has been made such a political issue by the Federal government's great hydro-electric dams, that the people lose sight of the real principle involved. It is common practice for administrators of tax-exempt Federal projects to argue that they furnish power cheaper than can highly-taxed private enterprise.

If it is important for the government to go into the generation of electricity in order to save the private householder a few cents a month on the electric bill, why should it not go the rest of the way and furnish food, clothing and rent "at cost," which items constitute the bulk of his financial worries?

The people should get this issue straight and decide whether they want to change our country from a nation of private enterprise to one of state socialism. Public ownership of power is socialism, any way you look at it. When you eliminate profit, you eliminate private opportunity.

Do It The Voluntary Way

The Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill for socialized medicine in the United States is doing one good thing—it is bringing to light the fact that millions of people in this nation, through voluntary group action, are already protected by pre-payment plans for medical and hospital attendance. The American medical profession is encouraging such group action as the surest way to retain incentive in the medical profession and assure our people of the finest medical and hospital service in the world, free from the blighting effect of compulsory Federal control over the highly personal relationship between doctor and patient.

Of the thousands of group health plans now in operation, the one inaugurated by the Abbott Laboratories ten years ago is typical. Under it, an employee paying 33c a month is covered with a $10-a-week accident and sick benefit, a $500 accidental death and dismemberment policy, hospitalization benefits amounting to $5 a day for hospital room and board, with $25 additional for special hospital fees, and up to $150 for surgical fees. Each married employee who becomes a father is given a production bonus of $50. Dependents can be included under the plan for a nominal contribution.

Ready for Emergencies

The people of the United States are fortunate in the fact that private enterprise, whose life depends on tireless initiative and constant progress, was the foundation of our war production effort. On a moment's notice our basic industries were ready to take up the war load without a quiver. Nowhere was this better illustrated than in aviation.

The Air Transport Command, only three years old, last year flew more than 2,100,000 hours. It moved the equivalent of 1,000,000 men from Los Angeles to Seattle. On one day it transported 680,000 pounds of material, munitions and supplies by air to one theater of operations. In addition, the men and women of the Command last year delivered safely 99.7 per cent of all the planes they accepted for service in all parts of the world. The Naval Air Transport Service conducted parallel operations.

While such a record by the armed services is deserving of the highest credit, it would have been impossible of accomplishment without the contributions of the Commercial Air Lines of the country. They were ready to meet the emergency by giving freely of their aircraft, their operational skills, their trained men, their ground facilities and their overall knowledge. They made possible an outstanding air transport record which was an indispensable contribution to the war effort.

Shortage or Plenty

Government agencies have conducted consumer surveys which bear out the general belief that at the end of the war American consumers will be in the market for every luxury and necessity in the book. Alarm clocks and garbage cans, carpet sweepers and teakettles, lawn mowers and frying pans are but a few of the common articles needed. And it is predicted that demand for refrigerators, automobiles, new homes and even yachts will be insatiable.

If these surveys prove correct, the next job will be to fill the demand. Whether that can be done will depend upon the ability of American manufacturers and retailers to produce the goods and distribute them at prices the people can pay. War wages and material costs must be met and overcome, if possible, by unprejudiced operating efficiency.

POWER THROUGH SELF-DISCIPLINE (TEMPERANCE LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 17:10; Jeremiah 33:10; 1 Corinthians 9:24-27; 1 Thessalonians 5:22.

GOLDEN TEXT—And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things.—1 Corinthians 9:25.

Discipline — that word doesn't sound exactly attractive, does it? It makes us think of punishment for wrongdoing, when in reality it is a very helpful word which means teaching. Disciples learn, and thus are disciplined, so that life becomes safer, simpler, and more efficient.

When the Morro Castle caught fire, there was time for everyone to escape, but 134 out of the 500 on board perished because they fought each other. When the President Coolidge sank in the South Seas 4,500 soldiers escaped alive. What made the difference? Discipline, that's all, but it was enough.

There are many kinds of discipline, and all have their important place in preparing men to live well ordered and useful lives. The disciplined life has power to meet trials and temptations. We find in our lesson three kinds of discipline:

I. Home Discipline (Prov. 1:7-10).

The training received by the child early in life from his parents is of the utmost importance in forming character. Children should learn the true standards of life, and be held to obedience to them if they are later to walk in the right way.

II. Social Discipline (Jer. 35:5-10).

The social order, which concerns our relation to our fellow men, disciplines each of us. It makes many and what sometimes seem burdensome demands of us in order that we, as well as those around us, may have the privilege of living ordered and useful lives.

III. Self-Discipline (1 Cor. 9:24-27; 1 Thess. 5:22).

In the life of every one of us there should be that determined purpose that life shall not be lived in careless disorder, or be permitted to run out at loose ends.

We are all running a race (v. 24), and it is for us so to run that we may achieve success. We cannot run with uncertainty (v. 26), we must know where we are going.

We are fighting a fight, and at times it is a desperate, life-and-death struggle. We must not beat the air (v. 26), but strike home the telling blows which will bring victory over our enemies, the world, the flesh, and the devil.

To do this calls for training and self-discipline. It means bringing the body and its demands into subjection. The man who runs in a race does not destroy his chances for victory by using intoxicants, or other detrimental things. Surely we who run the race for Christ must be even more determined that self shall be disciplined for God's glory.

The standard for the conduct of the Christian is higher than is commonly supposed, for he withdraws himself from "every form of evil."

The disciplined believer knows that sin is sin—that what looks comparatively innocent often wears a false face covering real wickedness, or it is the first step on a downward path. To start on that way is to invite disaster. A striking example of this is the social drink—the fashionable cocktail—the friendly glass. Abstain is the word—"abstain from every form of evil."

Social Justice

Against 130 million potential entries in a race the winner must be pretty good — excellent, in fact. That's why occasional winners in America's business competition have been so distinguished. Out of 130 million, they were best in their line. Nobody is barred from competition in America. Anybody can take part who feels fit and has the urge.

Enterprise has been free here since 1776. Education was free in some parts of the country even earlier than that. By keeping the doors to competition wide open; by equalizing, as far as possible, opportunities to qualify for the game, Uncle Sam has managed to discover his most competent people automatically and quickly. Besides, he keeps the sport attractive by rewarding winners quite lavishly sometimes.

Theorists Are Busy

Touting for government supervision of industry, government ownership of just about everything, has grown to epidemic size in the last year. With military victory near in the European war theatre, tantalizingly near, perhaps America's enemies think they must overthrow democracy by trickery if at all.

Critics of America's governmental and economic system always make a lot of noise about inequalities they observe in the rewards of competitive business. Their strategy is to point out abuses of Private Enterprise rather than its normal results. This serves to frown a better light on whatever novelty they may be recommending for use "After Democracy fails" — usually some embroidered version of Socialism.

The East Ever

Practical and patriotic people never have claimed that America's competitive system was without defect. If it had been perfect there would have been no need for rules to regulate it. Yet, wherever competition has existed, in America or elsewhere, recently or long ago, it has been necessary to enact laws forbidding the strong, the shrewd, and the rich from taking advantage of the weak, the trusting, and the poor. A nation that deserves liberty is capable of restraint.

Laws do not make everything right. Some injustices occur in spite of law. With the Ten Commandments still imperfectly enforced we can't expect too much of the Sherman Law. Just the same, both are needed, and Private Enterprise, judged, faults-and-all, by results to humanity, is still the most successful economic system on record. On the other hand, all the fancy forms of Socialism proposed in America have been tried elsewhere and failed.

Proved in Service

Inventors, mechanical engineers, and fabricators of machinery have a handy language. They often suggest, concerning a new machine, "Put it in service and work the bugs out of it." They mean: find and correct its defects. Nothing is so useful in this regard as actual experience—a field test for a combine, a road test for a truck.

Private Enterprise is far advanced in this process. It has been used well by an intelligent watchful people, able to find defects and correct them. Beginning all over to "work the bugs out" of some new governmental system would be downright folly: It never has worked. Discarding a system (political or economic) because of imperfections, after it has made America the world's leading nation, is like scrapping a speed boat that never lost a race and setting forth on a raft.

4-H Club Goes All Out in War Bond Effort

The Four-H Clubs of America, 1,700,000 strong, are making a vital contribution to the war program helping in the gigantic problem of keeping the food supply line strong and in buying War Bonds. Here are some scenes of 4-H boys and girls at their war work. No. 1 shows Glenn Whittenberg, of Hidalgo County, Texas, with his fine litter which will help the food supply. Glenn is putting his profits in War Bonds. No. 2 shows an ambulance purchased by the 37,000 members of the 4-H Clubs, members of Virginia. Representing the Virginia Clubs in the picture is Carolyn Steele, Fairview, and Richard Fleming, of Branesville. Major Bernard Sobol, USA, is accepting the ambulance, with Director M. L. Wilson of the Extension Service Department of Agriculture, looking on. No. 3 shows Fleming of Fairfax County, Virginia, helping with the chores. Billy is putting his earnings into War Bonds. 4-H Club members own 90,000 head of cattle. No. 4—4-H Clubs make a mighty contribution to the poultry and egg supply, raising 9 million chickens in 1943. Here is Helen Wheeling, Brown Co., South Dakota, with a couple of her birds. She buys War Bonds with her profits. No. 4—4-H Clubs are also Victory Gardeners. Here is Jane Babbler, Frederick County, Maryland, in her garden. These youngsters raised 5 million bushels of garden produce last year. Back the Attack—Buy More Than Me!

DISEASES OF WHEAT:

RUSTS: Both leaf (red rust) and stem rust (black stem rust) cause important damage to grain in Texas. Both are fungus diseases which are spread by tiny red spores and the favored by frequent rains and heavy dews. Leaf rust attacks the leaves and ear sheathes producing small, round, salmon red pustules or spots which later turn black. Although the disease does not cause spectacular losses like stem rust, the losses average as great as those of stem rust. Varieties resistant or moderately resistant to the disease include Austin, Denton, Mediterranean, some strains of Red May, Comanche and Westar. Stem rust attacks all parts of
