THE EDITOR.

This war must end sometime. Your whole family, your neighbors, are praying it ends soon and those fighting boys of yours will come home safely.

But will you be ready for whatever happens when peace comes? Will you have something laid away? We're all hoping there'll be jobs aplenty, jobs which mean making something for somebody's happiness and not for somebody's sorrow. That's where your War Bonds come into the picture. Sure, Americans own billions of dollars of War Bonds now; and before this 4th War Loan ends they will have put away billions more. But how about you? they will have put away billions more. But how about you? You're the one that counts. The bigger the pile of War Bonds you have when peace comes, the bigger chance you'll have to slip right into the post-war world you're dreaming about tonight. So "Let's All Back the Attack."

Solid black areas are those parts of Poland which she would retain from the line of demarcation set by the German-Russian treaty of 1939, which in other respects matches the Curzon line. KEEP ON Eacking the Attack

This is what we've been working for all along. This is the year to hit and hart the enemy. This is the time when everything you do counts double. If we all get together and do all we can, we'll be over this hurdle and well on our way to complete and crushing victory.

No question about the men in uniform—they'll go "all out." But can we count on you to back them all the way?
Your quota is where you work
—you've got to buy your War
Bonds and then buy more, until every last loose cent

you have is fighting. Tough? Of course, it's tough—unless it is a sacrifice you're simply not doing your share! Make the sacrifice now—buy more than the extra $100 Bond your country counts on you for—winning the war is worth any sacrifice you make. Besides, you aren't giving. you're lending to America! You'll get back every dollar you invest in War Bonds, with interest. An extra $100 War Bond now is the minimum for everybody—can't we count on you for more?

Notes From

We received notice that material had been shipped for Army Kits instead of Navy. The letter stated that the yardage for Navy Kits was issued before our quota could be filled, but that the Army Kits were URGENTLY needed. Haskell County Chapter shipped 801 kits in 1943 and we have 58 in the work room and Rule Chapter has a few to be filled when the supplies are available.

Mesdames Gilliam and Risley made 12 kits since January 1st and have requested a large quota of the new shipment. We are deeply grateful for the generous contributions to the kit fund: T. E. L. Class-$6.25.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

All people can and should be just, merciful; they should never envy, elbow, slander, hate, or try to injure, but always should try to bless their fellowmortals.-Mary Baker Eddy.

Hole or Doughnut?

The views Americans have on strikes may make a lot of difference in what they see in the figures on strikes just put out by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Some folk are going to note only that the number of strikes in 1943 was double the average for the fifteen years from 1927 to 1941. Others are going to note that the man-days lost were below the fifteen-year average although the working force had vastly increased. Again to some people the most notable figures will be those showing that strikes were more nu-merous in 1943 than in 1942 and the man-days of idleness were three times as great. Others will remark that the man days lost in 1943 were about half as many as in 1941 and amounted to only 15 100ths of 1 per cent of the possible working time.

To us it seems that any time lost by strikes runs the risk of prolonging the war and that it would be well-possibly by a national service act, certainly by the pressure of public opinion-to bring home to every worker that striking on the home front can delay victory as much as a mutiny on the battle front. But we also think labor has had more than its share of the blame for laxity on the home front and that it would be worth while to pay more attention to the hours worked and the devotion given to the job.

Morale on Home Front Vital

The whole idea of morale on the home front, which in turn vitally affects morale on the fighting fronts, is intertwined with the purposes for which men and women work and men fight, and, no doubt, not all persons are equally stimulated to exertion in the war effort by the same motives. The same was true in the last war, but due to the eloquence and personality of Woodrow Wilson, of whom a nationally known editor of that day said, measured by his capacity to sway audiences, Woodrow Wilson was the greatest orator of his time," the country responded quickly and eagerly to such slogans as "Work or Fight," "Make the World Safe for Democracy," "Food Will Win the War—Don't Waste It," and numerous other phrases, each and all carefully calulated to stir one section or another or all groups into fervent action to help win the war.

Many who lived through World War I will agree that in this war there is n such crusading feeling are all united to make this world a better place in which to live, not merely for the few but for every-

There are several reasons which come to mind as to why there are these differences in the attitudes of the people between the two years. Following World War I, the county had a painful let own and disillusionment-the hoped-for Utopia did not arrive, but in its stead human frailties stalked the corridors of the world as of yore and men and women still had the daily grind to face, though not all of them seemed to realize how vastly harder that daily grind would have been had the Allies lost the war and the arrogance of German rule

This may have made the people of today more rophisticated and, therefore, less responsive to the crusading spirit. Also, in this war, to a far greater degree than in World War I, ideological considerations are mingled with nationalistic motives. The Four Freedoms and the Atlantic Charter, of course, stir men's emotions, but after all they are of necessity generalizations and their application to concrete cases may cause honest differences of opinion in the postwar era.

Then another factor affecting morale on the home front is taxation. One group of economists wants to tax people out of all their savings because the present supply of money is greater than the consumer goods available for purchase and they hold that this would check inflation, or at least go a long way toward doing so. Just what is so terrible about people saving money is not made clear by those columnists of the daily press who advocate governmental absorption of all savings.

But the stark fact remains that there is a world war being fought and people must consider what it would mean were the Axis powers to win this war. Facing that issue frankly and squarely answers all the inconveniences and sacrifices persons at home and abroad are undergoing. True, there should be an effort made by Government and citizens alike to bring about equality of sacrifice as nearly as humanly possibble. When we consider the paraships and dangers which our Armed Forces constantly face, the inconveniences on the home front appear petty in ontrast and should spur us, one and all, to do our utmost to win the war

JESUS TEACHES IN PARABLES

LESSON TEXT-Mark 4:1-9, 26-32. GOLDEN TEXT-If any man hath ears to hear, let him hear.—Mark 4:23.

Parables were often used by our Lord, particularly when He had truth to reveal which was not for unbelieving hearts that had hardened themselves against it (see Matt. 13:10-16). The method is that of telling an earthly story, true to life (hence, not a fable), which is placed alongside of the spiritual truth it is designed to teach. It thus differs from an allegory, which gives the meaning with the story (see John 15:1-6). Jesus used parables in our lesson to teach the truth that the good seed of the Word of God will be received in various ways and will bring forth widely differing results. He-the Lord-was the Sower, and the field was the world (Matt. 13:37, 38). We note first that in that field

I. Four Kinds of Soil (Mark

The reception of the seed is determined by the condition of the soil. The great field was essentially of one kind of soil, but it had become widely different in its ability to take in the seed and bear fruit.

The interpretation of this parable is given by our Lord in the verses immediately following (vv. 3-20). It has striking application to our day.

common thing in the fields of Pales- ruary 20. tine. On such hard soil a seed found no place to grow, and the birds carried it away. Such is the condition of a man who permits the heavy and sinful traffic of this world to harden his heart against spiritual truth. If our heart has reached that stage we should ask God to break it up. The birds (always a symbol of evil in the Bible) are Satan and his emissaries. They are always busy about carrying away the Word of God when it is truly preached.

The rocky soil was a thin layer of good soil on a rocky ledge. At first this caused rapid growth, but withthe heat of summer. This is the one no stability when persecution comes. fective February 1.

The thorny ground-where the growing grain was choked by weeds -typifies the professed believer who lives in worldliness. The friend of the world is God's enemy (James 4:4). Note the things which destroy spiritual life (v. 19), and shun them, In the good ground-open to receive and ready to yield itself for the Why not be a "hundredfold" be-

Changing the picture a little our Lord now speaks of-II. Normal Growth and a Good

Harvest (4:28-29). This parable, found only in Mark, has a lesson for the sower. He is not to expect the harvest immediately after the time of sowing. There is a period of patient waiting while God is producing the growth (and only He can do it!) - then the joy of

There are many lessons to learn here. We who serve the Lord in teaching or preaching the Word are too impatient, too eager to be able to announce results. God is always willing that things should mature naturally and in due season. Let us wait for Him and be at rest in our spirits (v. 27) Then let us be glad as the seed begins to show signs of maturing. but let us not be slow to gather the harvest when it is ready. Some forget to gather the spiritual fruit of their labors, possibly having long since lost patience and interest.

We should also be encouraged by this parable to continue sowing the seed, knowing that it will find place in the hearts of some and bring forth fruit unto eternal life. Next we are warned to be on our

Harvest (4:30-32). The mustard is an herb, not a tree; hence this parable gave warning that there would be an overgrown religious system calling itself Christian. The birds are (as in the parable of the kinds of soil) evil men, or "isms," or organizations eager to take shelter in a religious system without spiritual power.

The church had such an abnormal growth when Constantine espoused Christianity as a political move, mixed it with paganism, and elevated it to a position of worldly power.

All this was and still is contrary to God's plan for the church. He wanted a spiritual body distinguished by lowliness, meekness and service. These are the things that mark the true Christian spirit. The marks of true Christianity are always those of likeness to Him who said: "I am meek and lowly in heart," who came

AUSTIN, Tex.-Commenting or the fact that there were approximately 25,000 cases of flu report ed in Texas last week, Dr. Geo W. Cox, State Heath Officer, said today that there is no way to estimate the number of addi tional cases not atended by a physician, therefore not reported.

Dr. Cox urged every Texan to and his family from the danger of influenza and its possible com plications and stressed the fac that it is not a disease to be re garded lightly.

"It is a serious mistake to try to fight flu, on your feet. Complete bed rest, lots of liquids, a light diet, and treatment prescribed by a competent physician are the steps most necessary to early recover," Dr. Cox said.

"Pneumonia is a frequent complication of influenza, and with vitality low from the effects of flu, pneumonia can be an unusual-ly serious menace," Dr. Cox

The State Health Officer said that avoiding undue exposure to cold, wet weather, main aining good ventilation, obtaining suf-ficient sleep and eating a nour-ishing well-balanced diet will aid in building up physical resistance and may help to ward off influenza. If, in spite of these precau tions, fever, boneache, and other flu symptoms appear, the patient should go to bed immediately and consult his family physician,

"No, not yet. I aim to get my old one with the Circle Dot." He knocked out his pipe and put it in the side pocket of his rawhide coat, standing there afterward with the thumb of his right hand hooked over the pocket edge.

"If you've been north three times and know enough," the man suggested, "maybe you can get a better deal here. What routes do you know?'

"My own," he said and smiled faintly. "And that knowledge comes "Keep it then!"

"Sure. I'm not asking you for a job." Puzzled, he turned away. He had thought this was a camp of horse thieves.

"Well, I'll tell you." The decision came slowly, still with a guarded reluctance. "We need a good man. We're shorthanded on a herd starting north temerrow. The right and can draw seventy a month."

His groping fingers touched the reins' smooth leather. He heard the animal's nostrils rattle in a snort, telt a quick pull, yet could not take his eyes from the men. He start-ed to say. "Easy, boy-" when a rope slapped out of the air behind him, pinned his arms and jerked him over backward to the ground.

Afterward, coming out of the sudden darkness that a downward blow against his jaw had brought, he felt first the dull ache where he had been struck and then the tight rope that held him. He was lying off at one side of the camp, where they had bound him with the thoroughness of experts, ankles together, hands tied behind his back, a length of rope snubbing him close to the trunk of a tree. All five were crouched now at the ashes of their fire, again in that attitude of waiting.

It was still another moment before he caught the drumming run of a horse. Unchecked, the rush of hoofbeats aimed in toward the willows, slowing only when they reached the outer edge. Then the rider entered with no signal-someone wholly familiar in the camp.

He twisted his head for a better look, but could see no more than a dim shape of man and animal blended together. A voice growled, 'You're late!"

The blended shape moved a little. The rider's answer seemed forced out of him in a desperate way: "You're lucky I came at all! told you last night there'd be no

Something cold and hard tightened down the long length of his body. He'd recognize this voice anywhere. Clay Manning!

"I've filled your bargain, I'm through!"

"You think so!" There was a shifting movement of the dim figures standing on the ground. "We don't. Quit now and you know what happens."

"That's what I rode to tell you." Clay Manning's voice and the blurred whirling of his horse came in the same instant. "Not tonight!"

One of the group yelled, "Stop him!" and a gun's yellow flame streaked across the dark. But the crash of Clay Manning's horse through the willows continued, and then he was running free down the

The men made a quick shuttling leather. Then someone came and of bent over him, jerked at the knots, testing them, and without a word ran back. The horses were visible now and the shapes of the riders swinging up. He heard a moment's mutter of talk, like a plan being made and changed and suddenly decided upon. Bolting from the camp, they, too, aimed their headlong run toward the south.

Twisting, he made another savage attempt to loosen the ropes until the breath went out of him in a

Momen of Umenia It's up to you!

OUR ENEMIES have boasted that American women are pampered, luxury-loving morons who would be of no help to our fighting men at war. But - they were wrong. American women everywhere are doing a bangup job-in the service, in industry, in business, on the farm and in the home.

But-bigger incomes are tempting some women to buy luxuries they've wanted, perhaps for years, but which they don't really need now.

Every true American woman prays that the war will end-soon. But you've got to do more to hasten victory, for 1944 is the year of decision. You've got to do your full duty by our boys at the front by keeping up your regular purchases of War Bonds by buying at least one extra $100 Bond during this Drive and by saving every cent you can in the world's best investment-War Bonds of the Fourth War Loan. When the war is over, you'll
