

Murder Fugitive Is Being Sought In This Section

J. Edgar Hoover, Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C., today released to all law enforcement agencies wanted notices reflecting the fingerprint impressions and photograph of Randell Odell Thorneberry, with aliases J. C. Kirby, Randell Odell Thorneberry, Randell Thorneburg, R. O. Thorneberry, Randall Thorneberry, and "Brown" who is wanted for Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution for murder and for a violation of the National Motor Vehicle Theft Act.

Randell Odell Thorneberry was born October 20, 1917, at Cleburne, Texas, the son of Frank M. Thorneberry and Elizabeth Thorneberry. Since 1934, Randell Thorneberry has been arrested on numerous occasions in Texas, Missouri, Arkansas, Wyoming and Colorado on various charges including robbery with firearms and murder.

Randell Thorneberry is married to Reba Hurt Thorneberry and has two young sons, aged two and five. Investigation has indicated the probability that Thorneberry's wife and sons are with him. This individual is a brother of O. B. Thorneberry, convict, who was apprehended by Special Agents of the Sheriff's Office at Waco, Texas, on December 3, 1943. The two brothers had disagreement and became separated prior to the time of O. B. Thorneberry's arrest. O. B. Thorneberry was sentenced on April 18, 1944, to serve thirty-four years to life imprisonment in the Colorado State Penitentiary. J. Edgar Hoover, Director, FBI, stated that the apprehension of O. B. Thorneberry was the result of splendid cooperative effort by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local law enforcement agencies.

The Thorneberry brothers were arrested at Saratoga, Wyoming, August 10, 1943, by a member of the Sheriff's Office at Rawlins and a member of the Wyoming Highway Patrol on information that these brothers were contemplating robbery of a gambling establishment in Rawlins, Wyoming. Found in their possessions at the time of this arrest were eight firearms; a 16 gauge Sears-Roebuck shotgun, a Montg-mery-Ward bolt action 22 repeater rifle, a Frontier Model 44 revolver, a .12 gauge Martin shotgun, a model No. 1894 30.30 Winchester, a .410 Massachusetts Firearm Company shotgun, a Winchester No. 1894 model 32.40 bolt action rifle and a 22 calibre single-shot Winchester. The last two firearms were the possession of Ethelbert Purdy, a sheep-herder who had been found dead in his sheep wagon at his camp approximately fourteen miles south of Hayden, Colorado, on August 11, 1943. The Thorneberry brothers admitted having robbed and bound this individual prior to the time of their arrest. They were transferred to the County Jail at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, on August 17, 1943, to await trial for murder.

At 3:15 p. m. on October 8, 1943, Randell and O. B. Thorneberry escaped from the County Jail at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, by assaulting and overpowering the Sheriff from whom they stole his billfold, credentials, gasoline rationing coupons and the keys to the sheriff's automobile, a 1942 maroon Pontiac coach. At the time this automobile was stolen it contained a .22 calibre pistol, a .45 calibre revolver and at least one box of ammunition. This automobile was recovered abandoned after having been burned on January 12, 1944, near Poteau, Oklahoma.

On October 30, 1943, the Thorneberry brothers were charged with a violation of the National Motor Vehicle Theft Act in connection with the theft and interstate transportation of the Sheriff's automobile. Prosecution was initiated against them on November 1, 1943, in Colorado for Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution for murder.

Randell Odell Thorneberry was described as being twenty-six years of age, five feet ten inches in height, weighing one hundred and forty pounds. His eyes and hair are brown, his complexion is described as medium and his build as slender. His former occupations include truck driver, water, laborer and tailor. He is known to have traveled as an itinerant farm laborer and an alleged sewing machine repair man. The initials "R.T." are tattooed on his left forearm there is a one-half inch scar over his right eye, a scar above the little finger of his left hand, and a four-point scar on the inside of his left forearm.

Randell Thorneberry is believed to be armed and is considered a dangerous fugitive.

Thorneberry's wife, Reba Hurt Thorneberry, age twenty-three, is described as being approximately five feet six inches tall, weighing one hundred thirty pounds, with blonde hair and blue eyes. Dean R. Morley, Special Agent in Charge of the Dallas Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation requested that any person having information that may assist in locating Randell Odell Thorneberry is requested to communicate with the FBI Division Office, 1318 Mercantile Bank Building, telephone Riverside 6101, Dallas, Texas, or with any local law enforcement agency.

REBORN P-39 FIGHTER PLANE NAMED "SPARE PARTS"

"Spare Parts" is the name of this reborn Bell P-39 Airacobra fighter. Riddled by Jap bullets in the South Pacific, it was tough enough to be patched together again with odds and ends after officers at first thought it was ready for the junk pile. The picture is an official U. S. Air Forces photo and shows some of the men who put their spare parts to good use.

Ingenuity—as someone has pointed out—is one of the real secrets weapons of American soldiers. And, to prove the point, the story has just drifted back to this country about how a group of mechanical-minded boys in a South Pacific theater took a bullet-riddled plane, a collection of odds and ends, a lot of elbow-grease—and, with these ingredients, put together a fighter plane that no one expected to see. They started with a wrecked Bell Aircraft Airacobra (P-39) shot down in combat by the Japs. It was all ready for the junk heap. But they scrambled around and got together enough salvaged parts to put the plane back into flying trim again. Appropriately enough, they named the ship "Spare Parts." Builders of the plane are members of the Sky Riders Squadron of the Seventh Air Force. Written off the books, no longer boasting a serial number, the reborn fighter, at last reports, was still doing a job in the air.

Army Answers Questions

Your questions on allotments, insurance, legal problems or other matters as they relate to Army personnel and their dependents will be answered in this column or by letter. Write Headquarters Eighth Service Command, Dallas 2, Texas.

Q. Is it appropriate for a mother to wear the Purple Heart awarded to her son who died in the service?

A. Since the right to wear military decorations is reserved for those to whom they were awarded, it is not considered appropriate for even the mother of a soldier who died in the service to wear her son's Purple Heart.

Q. Can a stepchild fully dependent on its stepfather get an allowance from the stepfather in the Army if the child is not legally adopted?

A. Yes, providing the child is a member of the soldier's household.

Q. Can a wife draw an allowance from her husband in the Army if he does not want her to?

A. The wife of a soldier may apply for a family allowance to which her husband must contribute, whether he desires it or not. She must fill out War Department AGO Form No. 625 and mail it to the War Department Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark 2, New Jersey with certified proof of the marriage. There is one exception, however. If the soldier husband is a master sergeant, first sergeant, technical sergeant, staff sergeant or technical third grade and already has a monetary allowance in lieu of quarters which he wishes to continue instead of the family allowance, his wife will not receive the family allowance.

Q. My husband will soon be a master sergeant. How much will he get a month?

A. He will receive pay of $138.00 per month. For each three years of service he is entitled to an additional five percent of this base pay. He is further entitled to receive either a family allowance for you and the children, if any. If he was receiving a monetary allowance of $37.50 per month for quarters before last November, he may choose to accept this instead of the family allowance.

Q. Do overseas soldiers get more pay than the soldiers in the United States?

A. An enlisted man receives an increase in his pay of 20 percent while serving on sea duty, in Alaska or beyond the continental limits of the United States. An officer receives an increase in his base pay of ten per cent for similar service.

Q. Does the government pay money toward family allowances for WACS as well as soldiers?

A. Yes. Members of the Women's Army Corps may be granted a family allowance for dependent children, dependent husband, and also for dependent brothers and sisters.

Q. My father, who was a veteran of World War I, is buried in a national cemetery. Mother does not have long to live, and it would ease my mind if she knew she could be buried in the same cemetery. Is this possible?

A. Yes. Burial in a national cemetery may be arranged for the widow of an honorably discharged veteran.

Q. My husband just wrote me from overseas that he is now drawing his first "foggy". What does that mean?

A. A "foggy" is army slang for a five per cent increase in basic pay given for each three years of service.

Q. My son, who is 17, just graduated from high school. Is it true that he can join the Army and go to college at Army expense?

A. A 17 year-old youth, on joining the Enlisted Reserve Corps or Air Corps Enlisted Reserve, is eligible for college training at Army expense if he passes an examination which may be taken at any Army Air Forces Examining Board or at any recruiting and induction station. He is subject, however, to be called to active service with the Army when he reaches 18.

Q. Does a veteran who held a civil service job before he was inducted get his job back when he is discharged?

A. Yes. If a serviceman is an employee of the government under a civil service status, he must be restored to a position of like seniority, status and pay, provided he is physically able to work and makes application within 40 days after being honorably discharged from the Army, Navy or Marine Corps.

Certificates of War Necessity to Be Kept as Record

Operators of commercial motor vehicles are required to keep records of the operation of all vehicles covered by certificates of war necessity although they may use simplified forms of their own, the Office of Defense Transportation announced today.

While the ODT feels that records of miles traveled, motor fuel used and tire inspections made are more necessary today than ever before, such records may be kept on forms suitable to the convenience of the operators if it was explained.

Forms 17 and 17-a, formerly required by the ODT for report of operations and tire inspections, have been canceled and will no longer be supplied. Operators still having a supply of these forms, however, may continue to use them, the ODT said. All records will be subject to periodic inspections by ODT officials.

Information required of operators in keeping records of vehicles operations include a record of tire inspection for each vehicle, date of inspection; inspection station number, county and State; serial number or brand of tires requiring service and description of the required tire or vehicle services; certification of inspector that no service is necessary, or certification that such service as was required has been performed.

Tires must be inspected at the end of 5,000 miles of operation or at the end of six months, whichever comes first, the ODT said.

With certain exceptions, a record of loads transported is required to be kept for each vehicle. Certificate holders engaged in nondistributive operations are required to keep such records only in respect of loads transported in over-the-road operations. Generally speaking, the ODT pointed out, certificate holders are not required to keep a record of loads transported in vehicles engaged in (1) retail distribution service (other than tank vehicles); (2) construction operations; (3) maintenance or repair services; (4) transportation of property wholly within the boundaries of any property under common carrier control or management or between such properties when not separated by more than one mile; (5) public health, safety or public utility service; and (6) farming or the transportation of farm products or supplies (not including for-hire vehicles).

Every certificate holder who operates a property-carrying vehicle is required to keep a record for each vehicle of the number of days the vehicle was idle with the reasons therefor, the ODT explained.

Some classes of operators, such as local and over-the-road common carriers, and petroleum tank truck operators, are presently required by the ODT to file a monthly operating report. The forms for these reports are mailed directly to the operators by the ODT and are required to be filled out and returned by the 15th of the month following the month indicated on the face of the form. Operators were advised not to mail in monthly reports unless specifically requested to do so. The ODT told operators it is "trying to simplify for you the task of keeping all truck records."

Delegates Return From State Convention of H.-D. Clubs

Delegates from Haskell county to the Texas Home Demonstration convention which was held in Austin, August 1, 2 and 3 returned to their homes Friday.

This was indeed a most interesting meeting as it was held in the Senate chamber of our own State Capitol, where all our State laws are made.

The convention passed a resolution that the next legislation request to amend the law so that board members to the A. and M. college be selected from each senatorial district and that rural women be included on the A. and M. board. There are 31 senatorial districts.

One of the recommendations for study in all H.-D. clubs was to ask Tom Connally and Cordell Hull that T.H.D.A. representatives be asked to sit on postwar board—many other study programs were recommended. Our own governor, Coke Stevenson spoke to the convention on the first afternoon. His subject was "Rural Women in Postwar Conditions".

Governor Stevenson invited all women to the mansion for a reception that afternoon at 5 o'clock—punch and home-made cookies were served to all visitors. They were then shown through the mansion where we met the governor's mother, who is 83. The governor himself helped wash dishes and can be wash dishes.

468 rural women from every county in Texas attended this THDA meeting. Those attending from Haskell county were: Mrs. Cecil Hutchinson, Mrs. Bill Reeves, Mrs. Alfred Force, as delegates and Miss Nora Walters as a member of the State Marketing Committee.

These women had the pleasure of meeting our former County Judge, J. C. Davis, Jr., who was indeed glad to meet friends from home and sent his regards to all.

This was indeed a most colorful and historical meeting and will not be soon forgotten by any those attending.—Nora Walters.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McClintock of Levelland, former resident here spent Wednesday visiting friends in this city. They were en route to Fort Worth where they plan to make their home in the future. Mr. McClintock was formerly connected with the Haskell Telephone Company and was chief of the Haskell Fire Department before going to Levelland.

Mrs. R. C. Whitmore returned home last week from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. W. D. Smith and family of Ft. Worth. While away she also visited her sisters, Mrs. Ike Hollbrooks and family of Greenville, and Mrs. R. E. Haul and family of Campbell, Texas.

A Soldiers' Prayer

The following was written by Sergeant Howard F. Coble shortly before he was killed in action somewhere in Italy on November 28, 1943:

Dear Lord, that makes each man that lives on earth, and die truly make the world, remake it now. Dear Lord, remake it with your peace, and send your grace upon us.

Troubles of an earthly care are now and always in our hearts. An these strong hearts we'll gladly give, dear Lord, for thy people to live in a better world.

To all of those who think of us at home, rest their loving souls. Let them know that we fight for them, because we love them so.

And we pray, let the strength of those who wait for us keep going until the end. For surely now we know that somewhere, despite this greed and hate, somewhere our dreams will live again, and soon perhaps people will love again, instead of kill.

I've grown to know you these past two years of war. And many of my dear friends have answered to your call. Surely some day now, dear Lord, I'll hear you calling out, and on that day I'll see "Thee face to face with all of those friends."

I pray, dear Lord, not for my life, nor for sweet things at home, because I've found that this life of mine is but a small part of this war. My earnest prayer, dear Lord is this: Let all the world know peace. Give to all the world a greater life on earth and truly let them learn of a greater life beyond.

None but a soldier's fighting heart and a soul that's not afraid can see far ahead just now. None can see of things that are yet to come. And all we can do is but to give our thanks to thee dear Lord, that you give this to the world long after most of us are gone.

Our road is dark, but we fight for the light of peace. This peace we fight for we give to our friends. May they treat it with care for many lives have paid the price; many souls have gone to rest and many more perhaps are yet to go.

Some people think that in a soldier's hands the face of the world is cast; but we dear Lord, as soldiers we know that we but touch it with our hands as we pass it on to you. Our hands have blood on them, we have killed our fellowman and we are not their friend. So we but place the world into Thy care, dear Lord, for here we know is peace.

Dear Lord, I wish all people could see this soon, how you long to comfort all, and how each life will be repaid that now fights long side with You.

Now this we as soldiers must all understand, that while we are fighting for your cause some of us will be called to rest. But many will live to see the day that they will return to loved ones in homes far away.

Dear Lord, we pray, as soldiers that we may face death full of pride and easily. Then please, dear Lord, tell those who live after us to learn and understand the peace of life for life is yet unknown to many. It is while a man is out here in the darkness that he can look and whisper to himself and God—"I'll learn to love the simple things of life—just to have a bed to sleep in and best of all just to rest when night is here. Just to see a friendly face and smiles instead of tears."

Dear Lord, give me strength to carry on, for the fight is made for you. And let each fighting heart have one last glimpse of your promised life before he is spent.

I'll wait for those I love to come and I'll meet them half way, because I know, dear Lord, that one of us must be first to go. My fight is made for peace and as I fight and run my race I know that some day I will live again and meet my Lord face to face. And when upon his judgment day I stand and lift my eyes to see His grace may I truly say in my secret heart—"I've run my race as best I could, ran it true and straight, and lived and died knowing peace with God. And while some are yet in chains on earth, a time will come that they too will know the peace of God in a different world. —Amen.

MOST FEED CROPS MAKE GOOD SILAGE
 COLLEGE STATION.—Any crop which cattle will eat makes good silage provided it is put in the silo correctly, says E. R. Eudaly, dairy husbandman for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

Corn, grain sorghums and sweet sorghums are the varieties most often used for trench-stored feed, but Johnson and sudan grasses, while not as good as corn and sorghums, also make excellent silage. But all of the legumes such as alfalfa, clovers, soybeans, carrots, beets and other vegetables also are easily adapted to silage. The same is true of the grains which will keep indefinitely and can be fed to any kind of livestock.

Eudaly says that legumes must be cured about two-thirds dry enough to bale for hay before being put down regardless of the stage of maturity. But in all cases the partly dried feeds should be dampened to about the extent of a heavy dew. Hay or dry bundle feed must be added when potatoes or other vegetables are put into the silo, using one pound of the dry feed to three pounds of vegetables. For this purpose the carbonaceous feeds such as grain and sweet sorghums and Johnson and sudan grasses are more suitable than alfalfa, clover, soybeans, cowpeas or other legumes. The carbonaceous feeds contain more starch and sugar, the element which induce proper fermentation, than do the legumes.

Grains should be dampened if they are put into the silo, and it also is best to grind the ear corn and grain sorghum heads as they go in. In this form they pack and keep better, and there is less loss in feeding.

For feeding cattle it will be better to grind threshed grains—oats, wheat and barley—as they are put into the silo. For horses, hogs and poultry, however, the grain need not be ground. Although whole grains and grain sorghum heads keep well in a silo without grinding, cattle digest ground grain better Eudaly says.

It is better to do the grinding as it goes into the silo because it is slightly damp when taken out and does not grind well. Also, each day's feeding would have to be ground since the damp grain would mold 12 to 24 hours after being exposed.

BUTTER CAN BE CANNED
 COLLEGE STATION.—Canning of butter is possible, but it is practical only under certain conditions.

This opinion comes from Mrs. Winifred J. Leverenz, specialist in food preservation for the A. and M. College Extension Service, who says she has received numerous inquiries on the subject from homemakers throughout the state.

Unlike "Army spread" which is said to withstand melting at high temperatures, canned butter is not mixed with defatted vegetable oils. On the contrary, Mrs. Leverenz says the most important step is to begin with a pure, good quality butter made from sweet or slightly sour cream. Pasteurized sweet cream can be made into a butter which will keep longer.

The specialist says it is important to wash the milk out of the butter, but it should not be "worked" too much. Addition of three-fourths tablespoon of salt to each pound helps both the flavor and keeping quality. Enamelled tin cans are best, but jars can be used if they can be stored in a dark place, or wrapped in paper to keep out of the light.

Canned butter is not heated. Mrs. Laverenz says the cans should be filled with butter, and only a small amount should be placed in the can at a time. Tight packing to remove air space is one of the secrets of successful preservation. There should be no space between the lid and the butter. After the can is sealed it is not processed but stored in as cool a place as possible, preferably in a freezer locker or in cellar. The lower the temperature, the longer canned butter will keep.

Families who have difficulty in keeping a year's round supply of butter may find it practical to can some while milk production is seasonably high, the specialist says. She adds that it is also possible to preserve butter in a brine.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Robertson and son, Lavoyd of Hale Center, arrived here last week for a visit with their children. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson are former residents of Haskell, having moved to Hale Center, last year.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC—Any erroneous reflection upon the character, reputation or standing of any firm, individual or corporation will be gladly corrected upon being called to the attention of the publishers.

To preserve a long course of years still and uniform, amid the uniform darkness of storm and cloud and tempest, requires strength from above.

Price Stabilization

Deliveries that will permit rapid turn-over, labels will sell merchandise, and the reinstatement of advertising allowances, are among the requests by chains and supermarkets of manufacturers of food products, for the post war period.

A survey indicates that such manufacturers should make prompt postwar deliveries in as large or small quantities as the buyer desires, and at lowest prices, to permit rapid turnover, and that labels should be designed to give them life in a modern store.

The chain stores in all fields, including grocery, variety and dry goods goods, will be a powerful influence in stabilizing prices and bringing back the quality and variety of goods which American consumers will seek at the end of the war.

Something Really New

Over 17,000,000 American homes are heated today by stoves.

For about as many centuries as we know, mankind's primary wants have been palatable food, a comfortable mate, shelter and bodily warmth.

As to heat, Benjamin Franklin observed that there had been almost no progress for 2,000 years and put together his famous idea in home heating.

But at last a new stove that is really a furnace is here—a stove that can forget for a week in moderate winter weather—that burns up its own smoke—that works one-third off the coal bill for a starter—that can heat an entire bungalow snugly—that will cost less than a hundred dollars—that is ready for postwar use.

This new departure in heating embraces the most radical and revolutionary principles that have ever been advanced for economical comfort for the great bulk of American homes.

Haskell County History

30 Years Ago—Aut. 15, 1914

The news was thinned in early Tuesday morning to Mrs. J. V. Spurr, who was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Spurr, in this city, that her husband, Dr. Morris, had been shot.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Hunt returned the first of the week from a visit to relatives at Merrell.

About the luckiest farmer we can think of in Haskell is M. A. Clifton, who sowed 20 acres of millet on the 8th. The next day a big rain came to insure a fine crop this fall.

H. L. Sherill of Temple was in this city this week. He owns several good farms in this county.

Uncle George Reeves of Merrell visited the Haskell friends several days this week.

Wm. Peterson and family of Greenville arrived Tuesday and are visiting Mr. Peterson's parents and other relatives here this week.

Miss Estelle Dodson is at home from Fort Worth where she has been in charge of the South Side Kindergarten during the past spring and summer.

L. C. Cunningham got back from Fort Worth where she has spent the week. She disposed of a shipment of calves at satisfactory prices.

J. A. Couch and wife and L. W. Roberts and family went to Monday Thursday to spend a few days with relatives.

The baseball game last Saturday between the Haskell and Cliff teams resulted in a score of 37 to 18 in favor of the Haskell boys.

Panic

That word has an ominous sound in nearly all congregations of people where fire occurs. Panic ensues in discussing this subject from the standpoint of loss of life.

History is a record of catastrophes which cause death and injury from panic. Whole armies have fled in disorder when panic mastered a few and then was transmitted to the mass.

Five panic hazards exist in many places, including theaters, night clubs, cabarets, schools, factories, stores, churches, hotels and apartments.

Adequate exits well placed, will go far toward giving a sense of security to crowds and will lessen the panic hazard. But toxic gases caused by fire cut off people before they have a chance to move, where the gases can sweep upward through open stairways.

The answer to the danger of panic says the National Board is to "provide security of mind, which means make it visible to the eye or repeat it in print or otherwise until it is a subconscious reality that the place is of good and preferably fireproof type of construction, that there is little quick burning material, that where there are conditions do not exist, the place is protected by automatic sprinklers that adequate well marked exits exist and last, but not least, that these exits are usable."

Public cooperation is indispensable in avoiding panics which destroy life.

Our Chance for Lasting Peace

The two most pressing domestic problems after the war will be jobs and taxes. And they both hinge on the profitable operations of private industry. That raises the question, "Where Will Our Industries Find Their Markets?"

In the future, with air transportation, shrinking the globe to little more than a 24-hour trip to any point, our markets must be worldwide. Therefore, we must have a foreign trade policy that will enable us to sell as well as buy from our neighbors. Recognizing this condition, the statement of the newly organized Committee on International and Economic Policy of what Winthrop W. Aldrich is chairman, calls for a multilateral trade agreement for the United Nations creating an international economic charter to define the rights of traders and investors in foreign countries.

On this statement of fundamentals, Harry D. Gideonse, President of Brooklyn College, says: "This is an excellent doctrine, elementary free enterprise economics and sound political thinking. The resolution of the trade agreement program at this juncture would be a national tragedy. After the war there will be a crying demand for goods from every country in the world. If we maintain a liberal policy regarding imports, this demand will create thousands of positive jobs in this country, utilizing industrial and agricultural capacity which otherwise would be idle."

But to export, we must be willing to import. Hence, the repeal of the trade agreements program is essential for maintenance of employment and business activity at a high level after the war. Moreover, in the Atlantic Charter, the U. S. is pledged to the Atlantic principle that all nations great and small should have access on equal terms to the trade and raw materials of the world.

"Every country, therefore, if it wishes to promote the expansion of world trade, which is a fundamental condition for the establishment of a durable peace, must show greater willingness to accept the goods of other countries. In other words, the lowering of tariffs under the leadership of the great trading nations, is an essential means of realizing the program of economic and political cooperation endorsed by the United Nations."

THE PRIEST IN THE LIFE OF ISRAEL

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 2:1-36. 2:1-13-16

GOLDEN TEXT—For every high priest taken from among men is ordained for war in things pertaining to God.—Hebrews 5:1.

Failure to observe God's law inevitably brings disaster. That is true in the family, and in the nation. It follows even though the man who sins is in a high and favored position in God's service.

Our lesson which brings before us the work of the priest in Israel also reminds us of the sacred relationship of father and son. These are important matters inviting our careful study.

I. A Holy Calling (2:1, 26)

Eli was the high priest in Israel, at office ordained of God, and by Him established in the household of Aaron. The priest was to stand between God and man, there to seek His forgiveness for the sins of the people, and His grace and mercy upon them. He was to teach them the law of God and to seek for them divine guidance. He was subject to special laws, and had great privileges of service.

Such a man must not only be holy himself, but unusually diligent about properly rearing his sons who would follow him in this office, which was God's ordinance an hereditary one. He had to be both a good minister and a good father. Eli was the former, but he failed as a father.

In the New Testament, Christ becomes our High Priest (Heb. 7:23, 9:11), and those who minister for Him are to bring men to Him—the "one Mediator between God and Man" (1 Tim. 2:5; Heb. 9:15). In this new covenant the minister has a high and holy calling, but it also is made clear that all believers have the liberty to come boldly to the throne of grace (Heb. 4:16); hence they too are called "a holy priesthood" (1 Pet. 2:9).

II. A High Responsibility (2:23, 35)

As already suggested, Eli was evidently a man of personal piety and integrity in office. We honor him for that, but we regret his failure to properly rear his sons who were to succeed him.

It is not enough to meet one phase of our responsibility before God and men, because of our faithfulness there to seek to justify weakness elsewhere. One sometimes hears the expression, "But he is such a good man," as an excuse for failure. Eli did reconvert with his boys, but he waited until it was too late or did it in such a way and at such a time as to be ineffective. His failure at this point is declared by 2:23 to be a pleasing of his sons above God in his thinking.

What a solemn warning to indulgent parents! "Not to rule and repress our children, to give them their own way, is to honor them more than God. Ere we think it, weakness becomes wickedness in ourselves and in our children too."

God has "made every parent a king in his home, that he may command his children in the way of the Lord" (Andrew Murray). God will not permit such an attitude to pass unnoticed. He will set aside those who fail Him (2:30) and bring their iniquity home. He has others who are willing to serve Him (2:35). Evidently young Samuel was the one in mind here.

It is both significant and encouraging to note that in the midst of the wicked and immoral surroundings created by Eli's sons, God had the tender vine of His own planting—the life of the boy Samuel, growing up in the temple. He was already hearing God's voice and learning to obey the call.

III. A Heavy Judgment (4:1-10)

The Israelites went on to battle against the Philistines. Meeting defeat, they thought to gain victory by bringing the ark of the covenant into battle, and who had the effrontery to appear as "priests" with the ark. The ark was lost to the heathen Philistines, and the two sons of Eli were killed. When Eli heard the news of what had taken place, he fell and died. Here was the ripe end of a life that had begun with promise, and all because of weakness, failure and sin.

There is a pointed lesson here for us. The people of Israel depended on the ark itself, an outward symbol of godliness, when there was no spiritual life in the heart—and they went down to failure. Will we go through the motions of religious exercises, talk easily of prayer, appoint men who please our itching ears (2 Tim. 4:3) to preach to us, and then go on our careless, worldly, indifferent way, supposing that our formal religion will save us? Paul tells us in 2 Timothy 3:1-4 that "having a form of godliness but denying the power thereof" is a sign of the "last days," of "perilous times" which have come upon us. May God save us!

LOOKING AHEAD LESSON by GEORGE S. BENSON, President, Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas

Victory Material

The United States is winning a war for humanity in 1944 as a direct result of what our pioneer ancestors did in 1776. This nation has had 168 years of freedom. Its citizens (its fighters abroad and its workers at home) have in their distinct advantage 168 years of experience at minding their own business and taking care of themselves and a system of free competitive enterprise. It's a great asset.

I wish every child in America, at about the sixth grade where serious study of synonyms and antonyms begins, could be impressed that liberty is the direct opposite of slavery.—impressed so clearly they couldn't forget. I am afraid words that mean freedom have grown poetical and abstract to all of us. To our colonial forebears, don't forget, liberty meant: escape from something decidedly awful.

Pardonable Pride

Bragging about ancestors never was a habit of mine but this year, along with millions of other citizens of the United States, I am glad my grandfather's great-grandfather was a free man. Do you wonder what he ever did for me that did me any good? Just this: He taught my grandfather's grandfather to love liberty and to understand the responsibilities of freedom. These ideas seemed to gain strength until I picked them up from my dad.

Of course this freedom would have very little value if it were exclusive to the Bensons, but it's not. There were if young men, back in 1776, who could qualify as my grandfather's great-grandfather and they have a lot of posterity by now. Besides, they all had liberty-loving friends that year, comrades in arms perhaps, who laid the foundation of the world's greatest nation.

Our Way Is Best

Getting accustomed to civil liberty takes time, perhaps as much time as getting used to slavery. Usually it takes a liberated nation longer than one man's life-span to become adjusted to freedom. But our freedom came six generations ago and it's being unimpairedly useful now. The U. S., currently making half the world's war material, has won its war of production, has done more in three years than our enemies managed to do in 23 years.

Raising, training and equipping a huge army for a fast-moving war has been Germany's everyday task since World War I officially ended. The Japs have been prowling around civilized countries marking the soft spots ever longer than that. Meanwhile America all but forgot the other war and went ahead learning and building, buying and selling with malice toward none.

On Being Prepared

Hitler figured the Germans, a sturdy and warlike people, could conquer the world if they all had his objective. As a ruler he disciplined them to obey him, but he is making them fail. Obedience is important but Hitler knows now that it's no substitute for wit. This is a war of iron-fisted discipline against personal liberty and the personal ability that grows out of liberty. Who's winning?

Free enterprise is military preparation. In the "dictator countries" people forget how to think because their centralized governments think for them. Thinkers get scarce while the masses grow stupid from being bullied. In America, keen minds wrestled only in free competition get brighter and more competent. The American system qualifies people to live in peace and plenty, in safety too, because alert people can meet emergencies.

"JP" Planes Have Long History; Some Studies Over 2,000 Years Old

A model of a proposed horseless carriage invented by Isaac Newton. The car was supposed to generate steam which, blowing out the rear pipe, would drive the vehicle forward. Unlike present day "JP" planes, this device didn't work.

Jet propulsion is a brand new way of driving airplanes through the skies without propellers—but, like so many other modern inventions, jet propulsion has behind it a long history of research.

In fact, the story of jet propulsion in its more primitive forms goes back over two thousand years. Probably the first known interest in jet propulsion came around the first century B.C., when Hero, the Alexandrian philosopher, built the aeolipile. This was a hollow sphere supported by two tubes, one of which was hollow and led from a closed vessel over a fire. On opposite sides of the sphere were two right angle pipes. Steam generated in the closed vessel went through the hollow pipe and into the sphere which was caused to revolve by the jet effect of the steam escaping through the nozzles of the small angle pipes.

The eminent English scientist, Sir Isaac Newton, best known for his laws of gravitation, built a model car in 1680 which made use of jet propulsion for motive power. It was a four-wheeled carriage with a spherical boiler which had a nozzle pointing to the rear. The reaction of the jet of steam was supposed to drive the carriage forward—but it didn't work.

Other scientists and inventors worked on jet propulsion schemes and several important contributions to the field were made in the early 1900's, notably by Marconnet, Lorn, and Dr. Gustav Eichelberg of Switzerland.

Interest in jet propulsion was rekindled after 1930 when Frank Whittle of England and S. Campini of Italy began their development of jet power plants for aircraft.

Performance figures of Bell's new jet fighter are necessarily shrouded in military secrecy but engineers believe that the field of jet propulsion will open up new vistas of speed and altitude which will be of greatest importance to the future of aviation, both military and commercial.

Fundamentally the driving power of the jet propulsion airplane is generated by taking the air in the forward part of the engine, mixing it with fuel, and igniting the fuel. The burning of the gaseous mixture creates a hot blast of air which, driving backward with terrific force, pushes the plane ahead through the air at great speed and at high altitudes.

started in a few of the southern sections of the low rolling plains. A record yield is expected.

A clean-up of the Panhandle wheat harvest, especially in Dallam county, was hampered by rain late in the month, but the interference was not serious since 70 per cent of the cutting had been completed. Reports from the Panhandle area indicate that several counties need tractor operators and year-round hands.

FARM INFLATIONARY SIGNS

Elements that might contribute to inflation continue to be seen at the end of the second quarter of this year as compared to the end of the same period last year, according to data made available by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Demand deposits in country banks, consisting largely of checking accounts, were up 28 per cent—an increase partly accounted for by large deposits of government funds. These checking accounts would be inflationary if used to bid up the price of land and scarce goods. Another inflationary sign is that average per acre value of Farm Real Estate as of July 1 was up 15 per cent over a year ago. For the quarter cash receipts from farm marketings were up six per cent over a year ago and prices paid by farmers for the things they buy—including interest and taxes—were up five per cent. The only non-inflationary factor, more than offset by increased receipts from farm marketings, was a decline of one per cent in prices received by farmers.

THIS ONE FOR YOU KIDS

More low cost candy and better price control for candy are two of the aims of the OPA in setting up four new advisory committees of candy manufacturers. Just in case you kids are interested, these manufacturers represent "general line candy," "candy bars," "package goods" and "wholesale candy."

POTATO PRICES UP 90 CENTS

To compensate for a substantial reduction in yield due to drought, OPA has increased maximum prices of potatoes at the shipping point during August 90 cents a hundred pounds in 16 states — including retail cost of potatoes grown in these states about one cent a pound. The increase was granted for potatoes produced in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, West Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

TIRES FOR FARM VEHICLES

Because farm vehicles must be kept in service, they may be equipped with used truck tires if available, as well as with used passenger tires, OPA announces.

MOST BEEF TO BE RATION-FREE

Beginning next Monday, August 13, all beef will be ration-free except commercial, good and choice steaks and roasts, WFA has announced.

STORIES OF TWO HARVESTS

Many of the German prisoners of war captured in Normandy volunteered to help with the harvest in Great Britain, according to a BBC broadcast reported to the Office of War Information. Inexperienced workers are paid six pence a day and experienced workers, one shilling. The broadcast also reported a story about the harvest in northern Italy where the facts were quite different. Italian patriots drove the German occupation troops from one village and captured the entire harvest, which was all ready for shipment to Germany.

ASKS COMPLETE SOCIAL SECURITY

"We will not have a just system of Social Security until all workers, no matter what their employment, are covered," Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator, declared in connection with the announcement that on August 8 the Social Security Board would begin to pay off on its one millionth benefit in favor of Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. The beneficiaries are a war worker's widow, Mrs. Mary Rex Thompson, Parma, Ohio, and her two children Mrs. Thompson's husband and his employer each paid $145 in premiums. Benefits now amount to $58.49 a month and may total as much as $15,182.93. Although 12 million farm workers and eight million other types of workers and self-employed persons are not now covered by Social Security Benefits, the Social Security Board has recommended to Congress that coverage be extended to all these groups now excluded.

ROUND-UP

OPA Says — no more special gasoline rations for travel to Victory Gardens will be issued after August 15—there will be a slight increase in the prices of cookies, crackers, toast and crumbs now sold in retail stores as a result of a change in OPA regulations.

Pfc. Merle S. Ivy, son of County Judge and Mrs. John Ivy, was wounded when the Marines landed on the Marianas Islands, his parents were told in a letter from the 23-year-old Marine this week. The letter was dated July 29 and was written aboard a hospital ship. Pfc. Ivy said that he had been hit in the leg by a bullet but was able to "hop around some" and that he expected to get back with his outfit soon.

Young Ivy enlisted in the Marines August 17, 1942, and went overseas in February, 1943. Previous to the action against the Marianas Island, he was with the Marines taking part in the capture of Bougainville Island.
