HASKELL COUNTY HISTORY
 Brief Items Taken from Old Copies of The Free Press

20 Years Ago—Aug. 28, 1930
 First work-out for HS football players will be held Friday afternoon, at which time equipment will be issued to all who report. Mrs. and Mrs. John Rike of Aspermont visited relatives in Haskell last week. With a total of 3,476 votes polled in the second primary last Saturday, the run-off failed to attract as many voters as the July primary. In the only county race, O. L. Darden with 388 votes was elected commissioner of Precinct 4 over L. C. Phillips, who received 280. John E. Robertson and daughter Hazel have gone to Dallas to buy merchandise for the new store they are opening here. Tom Davis, R. E. Sherrill and Miss Mary Sherrill are spending a few days in Fort Worth. Miss Edwina Smith, who has been spending the summer months with Mrs. John P. Payne, has returned to her home in Dallas. Mrs. Morris U. Lively and her little daughter, Clara Ann, of Shreveport, La., are visiting Mrs. Lively's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Therwanger near Weinert. Mr. and Mrs. Theron Cahill visited relatives in Abilene last week. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bledsoe and son, Edwin visited relatives and friends in Ralls last week. Three large buses carrying 75 Abilene businessmen will visit

Haskell next Thursday, Sept. 4th. Director Joe Meacham announces that the High School Band will resume work Sept. 1st. He expects to have more than 30 members enrolled for the new school year. Mesdames J. D. Westbrook, J. C. Davis and Oswald Cole of Rule were guests in the home of Mrs. R. E. Sherrill Friday afternoon.

 The corner stone for the new Jones county court house at Anson was laid last week. Judge Jas. P. Kinnard of Haskell was the orator for the occasion. The Haskell Public Schools will open Monday, Sept. 12. Judge Chapman of Anson was here Thursday. J. L. Cox and family of Stillwell, Okla., who have been visiting the family of Burwell Cox here, left Tuesday to spend a few days in Galveston. Charley Killingsworth went to Abilene Tuesday night. Leonard Brooks and Frank Robertson are in Stephens county this week. Virgil Everhart of Grayson county arrived this week to attend the next session of school here. Miss Jewell McCullough, who has been visiting friends and relatives here for the past two weeks, has returned to her home at Lingleville. Frank Dodson, who has been Hooker and children of Kemah; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lewis Hooker and son of Kemah; Mrs. Emma Moss of Pine Bluff, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Brock and son of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. D. Meil and daughter of Stamford; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Harrell and son of Haskell; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. in Colorado for some time returned to his home here this week. John Oates is visiting in Wichita Falls this week. Mr. and Mrs. John Couch spent Sunday with relatives in Monday.

Lawyer W. H. Murchison has returned from Silverton, in Briscoe county, where he has been on legal business. He Killough, who has been on the Spur Ranch for quite a while, is visiting in the home of his sister, Mrs. H. R. Jones. A. W. McGregor was up from Waco this week, and from him we learn that his son, Lescher, who lately received a fractured skull when he was hit by the city street sprinkler, has about recovered. We understand that a shaft of the vehicle struck him in the temple and pressed a piece of his skull about the size of the end of the shaft into the little fellows brain. Surgeons removed the bone, and strange to say, the little boy never lost consciousness. Miss Mable Robertson of Petrolia is visiting Mrs. A. C. Sherrick.

50 Years Ago—Aug. 25, 1900

John H. Baker has been off this week placing his order for holiday merchandise. He says he thought he had a fairly large stock last year, but he has purchased considerably more for this year. Hon. W. M. Key, associate justice of the court of civil appeals at Austin, was here this week visiting his brother-in-law, S. W. Scott and family. We understand that W. P. Whitman plans to build a handsome 2-story residence on the place he recently purchased from W. L. Hills in the north part of town. Jud Jones and Tom Russell returned the first of the week from Oklahoma where they have been employed for several months. Mr. Peters the south side barber, is building a shop of his own. J. N. Ellis is fixing up his market house, preparatory to reopening for business. We have experienced several days of hot weather this week but for the constant breeze it would have been very uncomfortable. Wade Parks of Brownwood is visiting the family of R. R. McKee. Miss Bernice Fairbairn went home Monday after spending a week with relatives here. Tom Griffin, who has been employed for some time with the lumber firm of J. I. and L. W. Campbell at Stamford, has taken a lay-off and came home this week. W. H. Garrett of Eastland county visited his uncle, L. M. Garrett this week. He says he likes this section and may come back to stay. Jerold Hills has accepted a position with D. O. McRimmon & Co. at Stamford.

Facilities Improved For Making Cotton Insect Poison

A large increase in its capacity to produce benzene hexachloride for the control of cotton pests was announced today by the Du Pont Co. It is hoped that this will prevent shortages such as occurred last year. The capacity of Du Pont's benzene hexachloride plant has been increased by more than 9,000,000 pounds per year over what it was designed to produce when it went into operation early in 1949. Work on increasing its capacity further is now in progress. The greater production was made possible through engineering changes, improvements in processing techniques, and operating "know-how" acquired since Du Pont began making benzene hexachloride on a laboratory and pilot-plant scale during the war. Although benzene hexachloride was known in Europe more than 100 years ago, its properties as an insecticide were only discovered in 1942 by British scientists. Today benzene hexachloride is one of the most effective insecticides known for combating the major cotton pests. It protects cotton against the boll weevil, leaf hopper, flea worm, aphids, and other pests. Many farmers know it as "Lexone" insecticide, or as an ingredient in Du Pont Cotton Dust No. 10, which also contains DDT and sulphur. It is also sold in bulk to dust mixers.

"Orders Mean You've Got To Go," Naval Reservists Are Told

Orders are still orders in the Navy. When you get 'em, you've got to go, even though some hard-hat naval reservists may get temporary delays in reporting for active duty. This is the word from Eighth Naval District headquarters at New Orleans which controls naval reserve affairs in Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. Ten days, including travel, are usually allowed for recalled reservists to report. Rear Admiral W. K. Phillips, USN, district commandant, said. In exceptional cases longer periods are being granted, but each case is carefully considered by a board of senior officers. The average is much less, the Admiral said. Requests for deferment must be submitted in writing within 48 hours after orders are received, he warned. Department of Defense policy, announced in Washington several weeks ago, is closely followed to determine eligibility for deferment. The policy covers extreme hardship cases, key personnel in essential industry, scientific graduate students and research technicians and students who may be, depending on the merits of each case, deferred until the end of a school term. Don't rest easy because you've requested deferment," Rear Admiral Phillips counseled. Reservists whose requests are denied or who fail to receive replies in time must comply with orders, he said. Procedure has been set up, he added, to release eligible to inactive duty if they appeal their cases after reporting to duty. Written requests for deferment of recall should be sent via the same chain of command through which they were issued, it was announced.

President Commends Camp Fire Anti-Hoarding Project

Camp Fire Girls of America have been commended for their "I Won't Hoard" project during the current international situation. Miss Kathleen Crawford of this city, area Camp Fire executive, has received a copy of a letter from President Truman to Mrs. Richard Blalock, Beaumont, Texas, president of the National Council of Camp Fire Girls. The letter reads:

"Dear Mrs. Blalock: It is gratifying indeed to learn from your telegram of July 28th that the entire membership of the Camp Fire Girls of the United States are so wholeheartedly sponsoring community service projects to discourage hoarding in the present emergency. Such patriotic spirit is indeed commendable and I hope you will assure the membership of my deepest appreciation. Please accept my thanks for your thoughtfulness in wiring me as you did. Very sincerely yours, Signed: Harry Truman."

New Fishing and Game License Now Available

Ninety mail bags containing approximately four tons of assorted licenses were mailed out of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission headquarters in Austin late this week. The material was consigned to roughly 1800 agencies which help distribute individual licenses to Texas sportsmen. Most of the fishing, hunting and other licenses handled by the Game Department have to be renewed when the new fiscal year begins Sept. 1. The number of licenses ready for the new year totals approximately 600,000. The bulk of these are individual fishing and individual hunting licenses. All but a few thousand of the latter are taken out in the form of the new all-inclusive licenses which cost $2.15. The total number of licenses mailed out to the clerks, game wardens and Resident fishing license out totaled 237,000. The costs $1.65 and covers all of ordinary fresh water. Eleven of the thirty-day of licenses issued by the Department are available at the Commission headquarters in the Walton building in Austin. Others are available only at local agencies. The eleven licenses for game breeding fish and oyster truck dealers, wholesale fish and oyster dealers, fur bearing animal, commercial fishing, mussel shell permit, power dredge, rough fish and for antelope hunting.

Trigger Happy Hunters Cause Concern Of Sportsmen As Hunting Season Nears

The executive secretary of the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission reports that an increasing number of sportsmen have ex-cisicous shooting when the fall hunting season in Texas opens September 1.

He said letters to his office indicated particular concern over possible harm to the immature quail crop. The general state quail season opens December 1. Meanwhile, the first major phase of the scattering season will open Sept. 1, when mourning doves in the north zone become legal game. The south zone season does not open until Oct. 20.

The executive secretary suggested that the trigger happy few who "shoot at everything that moves" cause law-abiding sportsmen to worry about the welfare of species that are not legal game. He qualified this comment by pointing out that Texans are known for their good sportsmanship in the field and said that, as always, the overwhelming superiority of the genuine sportsmen will have a strong bearing on restraining the irresponsible element.

The serious minded hunter electing to the executive secretary, is not interested in mixing up his targets. For example, when he flushes the inevitable covey of quail while hunting doves, he just watches and doesn't shoot. By the same token he won't shoot doves while hunting quail and neither will he bang away at squirrels and rabbits while stalking deer or turkey. It is not only bad hunting discipline, but often illegal as well.

One sportsman wrote the Game Department that he had an outlet for the uncontrolled shooting enthusiasm of the trigger happy types, as well as for responsible sportsmen for that matter. He suggested they "take up the slack" by cracking down on the thousands of house cats that have reverted to the primitive in Texas outdoors and prey on the many species of bird life, as well as on small game generally.

Cotton farmers are urged to check the cotton sacks of all pickers who come from south Texas area for cotton bolls or seed cotton. Any material found in the sacks should be burned immediately because pink bollworm inspectors have found many worms and larvae in this material. The pink bollworm population in south Texas is high at this time.

September and October are among the best months for painting. Weather conditions are normally the best during this time... not too hot but usually clear and dry.

One or more porches on the farm home can add much comfort and pleasures of the family if designed for heavy usage like any other room in the house.

The pink bollworm has caused heavy losses to cotton farmers in some South Texas areas and cotton farmers in other sections of the state are warned to be on the alert for this insect pest.

Bollworm Spreading with Texas

Series losses have resulted from the insect in many cotton fields in Nueces and Cameron counties. Damage up to ten and fifteen percent is reported in many of the fields, and in some, damage estimates run as high as 30 to 40 percent.

Pink bollworms were found in first examinations of gin trash in Bexar, Caldwell, Gonzales, De Witt and Guadalupe counties. Curl says that finding pink bollworms in these counties this early in the season indicates a rather general infestation in the area. Since these counties are on the northern limit of pink bollworm infestation in South Texas, Curl says that there is a strong probability that the worms will be found in such counties as Lavaca, Colorado, Bastrop, Travis and perhaps others further removed from presently known infested areas.

Curl urges growers to take an insect with which they are not familiar to their county agent and ask that he place it in a preservative and send it to the Division of Pink Bollworm Control, P. O. Box 2448, San Antonio, Texas for identification.

Curl says that a pink bollworm larva, upon completion of feeding, cuts an almost perfectly round and clean-cut hole in the outer covering of a green boll from which it makes its escape form the inside of the boll.

He wants farmers to check the cotton sacks of arriving pickers from the South Texas area for seed cotton or cotton bolls and to burn any material found in the sacks immediately. Thousands of pickers have already been checked by road patrols set up on highways leading from South Texas, and pink bollworms were found in the confiscated seed cotton and cotton bolls. Three living pink bollworms were found in a single partly opened boll taken from a mechanical cotton picker by inspectors at one of the check stations.

Curl points out that the South Texas cotton industry is fully aware of the serious situation and is taking vigorous steps to remedy it. County and local committees organized to promote early stalk destruction are getting excellent results.

Thousands of acres of cotton stalks have already been rotted and plowed under. This prevents any more food being produced for the pink bollworm and kills the worms in bolls knocked onto the ground by the roller cutters. The worms cannot survive in the high surface soil temperatures that occur at this time of the year.

Curl says that gin trash inspection will be inaugurated in counties outside the regulated areas beginning August 28, and he requests that ginners cooperate with the department of agriculture in uncovering pink bollworm infestations at the earliest possible moment that proper control measures can be taken.

Farm Bureau Meet Held Thursday At Weinert

The first series of community meetings of Haskell County Farm Bureau was held last Thursday at the Weinert school building for members of that section. Cliff Dunnam acted as chairman in the absence of C. A. Dunnam Sr. Many participated in the informal discussion of Farm Bureau accomplishments and the insurance services available at cost, after which time refreshments were served on the school house lawn.

Haskell County Farm Bureau will continue to have these community meetings until all sections of the county have been reached. Each meeting will be in charge of a local director or member of that community.

There will be a County Farm Bureau meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 5, at 8 p. m. in the American Legion Hall in Haskell. All are invited to attend and special invitations are extended to the ladies.

September 12 is the tentative date for members of Mattson community meeting and Sept. 14th for Rule community. Definite building locations for each meeting will be decided at a later date and members will be advised accordingly.

The organization desires to reach every corner of the county and the goal of 70,000 for Texas Farm Bureau for this year will depend on many new members from this county Farm Bureau in the organization to look after the business of the farmer and every farmer will have a voice in the agriculture of the nation if he is organized with other farmers and his voice can be heard. Come out to the various meetings whenever possible so that you can be informed and support your local bureau. A Farm Bureau spokesman said.

Farmers Advised to Plant Good Baking Quality of Wheat

Good baking quality, as well as good yield, is important in the selection of a variety of wheat for planting, says E. A. Miller, extension agronomist of Texas A. & M. College.

Most of the wheat produced goes into the flour trade, and about 85 percent of the flour is used by commercial bakeries. The bakeries require a quality of flour with which they can bake the kind of bread that their customers demand.

Miller says that Texas formerly had a reputation for producing fine quality wheat which was demanded because it was nearly all produced from good baking varieties. This reputation has been temporarily lost because new wheat varieties with poor baking qualities have been brought in from other states.

However, Miller reports that recent surveys by the Texas-Oklahoma Wheat Improvement Program reveal that Texas is now regaining its reputation. The survey shows that there has been a 30 percent or approximately 1,500,000 acres, increase in the acreage of good wheat varieties planted in Texas from 1947 to 1950.

New improved varieties developed by Experiment Stations and private plant breeders are not only good yielders, Miller says, but there is no longer any need for planting varieties with poor baking quality.

As recommended varieties for the main wheat area of Texas, he lists Comanche and Westar for baker's flour and Wichita and Triumph for family trade flour. Tenmar and Turkey produce excellent quality baking flour, but do not give as high yields as Comanche and Westar. Millers point out that the big market demand is for the varieties of high quality baker's flour and that producers should keep this in mind when selecting their wheat varieties.

Miller says that as soon as more seed are available, the new Quana wheat variety will probably become popular in the Rolling Plains area and in North and Central Texas, where it is well adapted.

Freezing Ideal For Preserving Black Eye Peas

Texas homemakers are urged to take advantage of the plentiful supplies of black eye and other varieties of peas such as cream and purple hull that are now available, and to preserve a supply for use this winter. They are good frozen; are a nutritious food and will add variety to your meals later in the year, says Jimmie Nell Harris, associate extension foods and nutrition specialist of Texas A. & M. College.

Homemakers should remember that freezing does not improve the quality of a product and if you want a quality product, she points out, you must very carefully select the peas to be frozen. The peas should be tender and at the right stage for good eating. It is best to harvest them early in the morning before they absorb heat from the sun.

Once they have been picked, the preparation and processing for freezing should not be delayed. She says they should be washed, then shelled or cut as you would prepare them for eating or canning. Next they should be scalded in boiling water. She suggests that you use a large enamelware, aluminum or stainless steel kettle for the scalding operation. It should contain about one gallon of boiling water and only about one pound of the prepared peas should be placed in the kettle at one time. It is best to use a wire basket or a loose cheese cloth bag for holding the peas while they are in the boiling water. After the peas are placed in the kettle, replace the cover and keep the heat on high so that the water will continue to boil and don't, she cautions, attempt to scald large amounts of peas because the water will be cooled too much. Start timing as soon as the peas are immersed in the boiling water and for small peas containing a high percentage of snaps, scald for 3 minutes. Shelled green peas should be scalded for four minutes, she says.

Place the scalded black eye peas immediately in running cold water or in a container of ice water. This chilling stops any further cooking and prevents loss of quality, she adds. From two to three minutes will be required to cool the peas and next they should be drained and packed in air-tight, moisture-vapor - proof containers. Seal the containers immediately. Black eye peas which have been carefully selected, properly prepared and frozen may be stored in the freezer or locker box and will retain their quality for one year, says Miss Harris.

Homemakers should remember that frozen black eye or other peas will require only about one-half the cooking time of fresh peas. Here are suggestions from Miss Harris on cooking frozen peas. Bring one-half cup of salted water to a boil and add to it one pint of frozen peas and don't thaw the peas before cooking. Boil them, she says, from eight to 15 minutes and season exactly as you would fresh peas.

"Here are some basic facts about the electric power industry!"

The business-managed electric power and light companies are the second largest taxpayers in the nation. Last year the West Texas Utilities paid $2,238,634.00 in taxes—an amount equal to the total electric bill for all residential and farm customers for seven months!

Despite all the "whoop-de-doo" over hydroelectric energy, if all the available water power resources in the United States could be completely developed, this would produce only one-fifth of the total energy the nation will need by 1960. In order to insure ample electric power for West Texas, the West Texas Utilities Company began in 1947 a program to more than double its generating capacity!

Since World War II, the business-managed utilities have invested nearly $2,000,000,000.00 a year in new plants and equipment to serve the people. This is the largest construction program undertaken by any single industry. The West Texas Utilities is now in the midst of a $20,000,000.00 program expanding facilities to serve West Texas!

Electric service is the one item in the family budget that costs substantially less than in pre-war days. Since 1939—while the cost of living as a whole has risen nearly 70 per cent—the average cost of a kilowatt hour of electric service for West Texas household use has dropped 18 per cent!

Plan Now For Farm Planting Job This Fall
Since proper preparation for a good painting job takes some time, W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer-buildings of Texas A. & M. He points out that September and October are the best months for painting because the weather is too hot during the summer and too cold and rainy later on during November and December.

Indian Treaty Rocks Given To Texas Memorial Museum
Two rocks bearing records of an 1850 peace treaty between seven Indian tribes and the U. S. government, will soon be displayed in Texas Memorial Museum at the University of Texas Museum Director E. H. Sellards announced. Donated by Guy E. Risien, Leon Longley of San Saba, the rocks are symbols of the Indians' and white men's attempt to settle grievances and end hostilities in Texas. Soldiers, commanded by Major H. W. Merrill, left Fort Martin Scott at Fredericksburg and met representatives of the Indian tribes in San Saba County near Spring Creek, now known as Wallace Creek. There the treaty was signed December 10, 1850. Two rocks were engraved with the names of the tribes and of Merrill and J. H. Rollins, representing the U. S. The treaty was published in San Antonio and the stones set up at the place of parley.

KITCHEN MEMO
COMPLETE oven meals cook automatically while the cook is out of the kitchen. An automatic clock control turns the gas on and off at whatever time you decide. A hearty oven meal with all dishes baking at the same time and temperature of 350°F. for 1 1/2 hours includes Stuffed Pork Chops, Succotash, Sweet Potato Pudding and a Cherry Cobbler for dessert.
Sweet Potato Pudding: mix 2 beaten eggs, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 cup milk. Add to 2 1/2 cups grated raw sweet potato. Then add 1 tsp. nutmeg, 2 tbsps. butter, 1/2 orange, sliced thin. Succotash: mix together 1 cup canned corn, 1 cup canned or cooked lima beans, 1 cup minced tomatoes, 1 tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. minced onion, 1/2 cup liquid from vegetables, 3 tbsps. butter. Cover both dishes before sliding into the oven with the Pork Chops and Cherry Cobbler.
Keep cooked rice in covered container in your gas refrigerator. Handy for stuffed peppers, rice puffs, any fruit desserts using rice.
It saves time and gas to separate light weight fabrics from heavier clothes when drying them in the automatic gas dryer because the lighter laundry dries faster.
Cheese keeps fresh longer if it's wrapped in cloth that has been sprinkled with vinegar, dipped in water and wrung out. When cloth dries out, repeat vinegar and water treatment.
There's very little bother with ashes when garbage is burned in a gas incinerator because with average family waste, it takes nearly two weeks for the ash tray to fill up.
Tabasco Butter: Cream 1/2 tsp. Tabasco into 1/4 tsp. butter. Delicious with any seafood, chicken, meat or vegetables.

Retail Food Prices In Slight Decline During August

Retail food prices have fallen 0.3 per cent since July 31, the Bureau of Labor statistics reported today.

This tapering-off report on food follows a July 15 cost of living index which showed almost a record advance for the early summer.

The bureau estimated that the retail food price index for 56 large cities on Aug. 15 was 209.0—figuring the 1935-39 period as normal or 100. That index was 0.3 per cent below July 31 and 0.5 per cent below July 15.

The 209 index was about two per cent above June 15, before the Korean conflict, and about 3.5 per cent below the record high of July 1948.

An item-by-item survey in 13 large cities showed the index was normal or 100. That index was prices for such items as tomatoes, potatoes, onions, and bananas. The Bureau also noted a drop of 0.7 per cent in bread and 1.8 per cent in round steak.

Many other foods went up a little between July 31 and August 15, said Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics.

Weinert Girl Bride Of Arizona Man In Recent Rites

Miss Ethelene Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sanders of Weinert, became the bride of Darwin L. Slade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Slade of Eager, Ariz., Friday evening, August 11.

The single ring ceremony was read in the Foursquare Church in Wickenburg, Ariz., by the pastor.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Orville M. Kim of Phoenix, Ariz., wore a white slipper satin gown fashioned with portrait shoulder lace edged in chantilly lace over a fitted bodice that buttoned in the back with tiny self-covered buttons and long tapering sleeves that came to a point over her hands. Her tiered veil of imported illusion fell from a headpiece of illusion caught with a rope of pearls.

She carried a white Bible topped with a corsage of white gardenias against a background of milaine and satin ribbon. For tradition she wore old pearls, a broomed blue garter, and a penny in her shoe.

Mrs. O. M. Kim and Ann Mattox, bridesmaids, wore blue dresses with white accessories and carried white carnations. Frank Komadina, fraternity pal of the groom, was best man.

The bride attended school at Weinert graduating with the class of '49. Mr. Slade is a graduate of Round Valley high school, and a senior of Arizona State College at Tempe, finishing with the class in January. He served with the navy three years in the South Pacific.

They will live in Tempe where Mr. Slade is in college.

"When Will I Be Called?" Is Question Most Frequently Asked Draft Boards

Two of the most prevalent questions which men are asking state draft boards now are: "When will I have to take my physical exam?" and "When will I be drafted?"

"These are two questions which local boards cannot answer," Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state Selective Service director, said today, in commenting on queries which are coming in to the draft boards.

"These two questions can't be answered," the state director continued, "because there too many intangible factors involved."

General Wakefield listed some of the reasons why local boards can't answer these questions:

1. Local boards do not know whether calls will be for an increased number of men or not.
2. Local boards cannot tell how many of their registrants will be found acceptable for military service or how many will be rejected.
3. Local boards cannot tell whether the world situation will improve or get worse.
4. Local boards cannot tell how many men will enlist for service in the armed forces now and in the future.

"All these things have a bearing on the numbers which will be called for physical examination and induction," General Wakefield said. "Therefore, the

Porches Popular For Farm Homes, Survey Shows

Farm families want porches on their homes. A recent survey conducted by one of the Bureau of the USDA in cooperation with eight agricultural experiment stations in one section of the nation showed just how popular porches on the farm really are.

In commenting on the survey, Mrs. Bernice Claytor, extension home management specialist of Texas A. & M. College, says that 93 percent of the families interviewed wanted at least one porch, and more than half voted for two. They wanted the "front" porch—it may be either on the front or side of the house—primarily for leisure and recreation. A third of the families preferred an open porch while a slightly smaller number wanted a combination screened and glassed-in job. Less than one-fifth liked a screened front porch.

It was a different story when the back porch was considered. More than 60 percent of the families preferred either a screened or a combination of screening and glass. The back porch, says Mrs. Claytor, cuts down the amount of cold winds, hot sunshine, dust and mud that gets into the house.

The modern home, she points out is not complete unless some type of service porch is included in the house plans. This porch can serve a triple purpose; as a summer work room, a utility room or can be used by the family for recreational purposes. Many families like to eat their meals during the summer time on the back porch and if food is prepared or served on the porch, screening becomes a necessity. In many sections of the state where mosquitoes, flies and other insects create a problem, all porches should be either screened or glassed-in, says Mrs. Claytor.

In addition to the uses already mentioned, Mrs. Claytor says a properly designed porch or porches can add much to the appearance of the home. There are places about a house more inviting and restful, well shaded, wide, cool, a hot summer day and weather—rainy, cold and the porch actually gives to the house. She doubts es can be justified if but says they can add the comfort and pleasure family if they are doing heavy usage, just like a room in the house.

Haskell Woman In Berlin With Husband Writes of Trip Through Belgium and Holland

The need for making America so strong that no country would dare trespass on our freedom or the freedom-loving peoples of the world was pointedly stressed in a letter received recently by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Barnett of this city from their daughter-in-law, who is in Berlin with her husband, Chaplain James R. Barnett, former pastor of the Pinkerton Baptist Church.

The young woman writes of a trip she and Chaplain Barnett recently took in their car, from Berlin to Holland and Belgium. The interesting letter follows:

We had a really wonderful trip into Western Germany, Holland and Belgium. It was the first time that we had taken a trip out of Berlin in the car since we came and it seemed like old times when we traveled around in the U. S. in the car. We left here on Sunday afternoon around 1:30 and arrived in Hamm, Germany that night around 8:30—a distance of around 300 miles. When we got into the town we found that there was a big Sports Festival going on, and all the hotels were filled up. However, we looked up some British people who lived there and they put us up for the night. They were wonderful to us and we really enjoyed our little visit with them.

Then the next day we went on to Aachen, Germany, where there was such a big battle during the war. This was all territory that Bob had traveled over during the war, and we drove around the countryside, looking up little towns that he had been in.

It now looks so peaceful, its hard to realize that such fierce battles once raged in those little towns. But there are still many bombed-out buildings that have not been rebuilt. And most of the houses along the main streets of the town are full of bullet holes, giving evidence of much street fighting.

We went on to a little town called Koldscheid where Bob spent several weeks during the war. We visited a German family that he knew there. Monday night we spent in a German hotel in a town close to Koldscheid.

On Tuesday morning we crossed the border into Holland. Here in Europe it is quite an event to cross a border into another country. You have to tell just how much money you have with you, and answer a bunch of questions. I kept thinking, "Suppose we had to do this everytime we passed from one state to another in the United States!"

Holland is really wonderful. It is much more like "back home" than Germany is. And everything is so clean, and the houses are all very nice. They have lots of beautiful cattle and the most wonderful butter, cheese, ice cream, etc. that I've ever tasted. We went straight to Heerlen, where we visited friends that Bob made there during the war. He had spent many nights there in their home and they always treated him just like a son. We spent two nights with them and they were perfectly lovely to us. I thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the time we were there. In the day time, we would drive out on little trips to nearby towns.

We went to the American Military Cemetery there in Holland; and I don't know when I've ever seen anything that just broke my heart as this did.

I think every American should see one of these cemeteries on foreign soil. We have read how many thousands of men we lost in the war, but until you actually see those thousands of white crosses, I think you don't really know how many we did lose.

On Thursday we also visited our Military Cemetery in Belgium, and saw once again thousands of white crosses—many of them marked "unknown." These two cemeteries are in two different countries, but actually they are less than 20 miles apart. The thing that made us feel good, though, was the fact that the Dutch and Belgian people have not forgotten the price that America paid to win their freedom. And there was a constant stream of native people coming into these cemeteries. Many of them bringing flowers to place on one particular grave. Others seemed to be coming to visit all the graves. They walked reverently and silently down the long rows of white crosses. I think that if every American could see one of these cemeteries, we would resolve that we would do our part to see that America is kept so strong that no country would dare trespass on our freedom or the freedom-loving peoples of the world.

To many of the peoples of Europe, our country is a wonderful symbol; but I am terribly afraid that if they could actually see our country and realize just how much many of our people have forgotten about the last war, they might be just a little disappointed.

In Belgium we went to Malmédy, and St. Vith and some of the other scenes of battles. In Malmédy we visited the little monument that the Belgian people have erected in memory of our American soldiers who were taken prisoner by the Germans there in Malmédy and then killed them. Again we were made to realize that "These people have not forgotten."

On Thursday morning we crossed over the Belgian border back into Germany. We stopped in Dinseldorf for a little while and did some shopping. Then we arrived in Bonn that night where we found a wonderful American hotel and ate supper and spent the night. We arrived back in Berlin on Friday night, with the memory of a wonderful trip behind us.

The German highways are wonderful, and you can make such good time on them. They are four-lane highways, and they miss all the towns and cities, and there are no cross-roads. You never have to slow down for anything—unless you want to stop and eat or get gasoline. Unlike in America, there are no places along the way to buy food. So we carried a huge box of food in the car with us, and we ate out of that box all week. We would find a nice shady place, and spread our table cloth, and get out our sardines, cheese, cocoa-cola, and all kinds of goodies and have a picnic. It was really fun.

Fumigation Helps Control Insects In Stored Grain

Stored grain must be fumigated for insect control if the same quality grain is to be removed from the bin as was stored, cautions J. A. Deer, assistant extension entomologist of Texas A. & M. College.

Deer recommends that the initial fumigation be made within a month after the grain has been placed in the bin. Monthly inspections during warm weather are recommended to determine whether or not fumigation is necessary. Since insects are likely to be found near the surface of a bin, the degree of infestation can usually be determined by sifting a sample of the surface grain. If as many as two weevils or five bran beetles are found in a two pound sample, the bin should be re-fumigated.

If the grain is stored in wooden bins, 1000 bushels of the grain can be fumigated with a mixture of ten gallons of one part carbon tetrachloride and three parts ethylene dichloride. Other recommended dosages are eight gallons of carbon tetrachloride and one part carbon disulfide per 1000 bushels of grain. The dosages of the three fumigants can be reduced by 25 percent if the grain is stored in steel bins.

Fumigants should be applied from the outside of the bin by means of a bucket pump or other type sprayer, and they should be distributed evenly over the surface of the grain. Deer warns that it is unwise to attempt to apply the fumigant with a sprinkling can because the vapors are dangerous to breathe.

Deer cautions that the person applying the fumigant should avoid spilling the insecticide on his skin, clothing or in his shoes. If the clothing becomes wet, it should be removed at once, and the skin should be washed with soap and water to prevent blistering.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 28—Uncle Sam is going to start giving more attention to the labor and employment of his young citizens particularly those under 16.

That was apparent here this week when Harry B. Nunn, Field Office Supervisor of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions of the U. S. Department of Labor announced that his divisions had been directed by the U. S. Secretary of Labor to put special emphasis on the enforcement of those provisions of the Federal law which Congress enacted to protect the safety, health, well-being, and opportunities for schooling of youthful workers.

It is the Wage and Hour Division of the U. S. Labor Department which investigates such matters—and may insist on legal action when it finds that a violation of the law has occurred.

The penalties for such violations can amount to a fine of $10,000, and for a second conviction for a similar offense a fine of $10,000 and as much as six months imprisonment, or both.

Mr. Nunn pointed out that Congress, in adopting the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949, "paid particular attention to the child-labor provisions. The concern of Congress for the health and welfare of our children is clearly demonstrated by the language by which the child labor provisions of the law were strengthened.

"The intended curb on the employment of our youth at an age before they are ready to participate as members of our working force was made effective by directly prohibiting the employment of oppressive child-labor—generally boys and girls under 16 years of age—in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce."

In agriculture, it now is unlawful to employ children less than 16 years of age during school hours.

"That means," Mr. Nunn said, "that if the school for the district where such children currently live is in session, the children should be in school, and not in the fields."

There are only four exemptions from the child-labor provisions of the Federal law, he said. These four exemptions permit: (1) employment of children in agriculture outside of school hours for the school district where they live while so employed; (2) employment of children engaged in the delivery of newspapers to the consumer; (3) employment of children as actors or performers in motion pictures or in theatrical, radio, or television productions; (4) employment by a parent, or person standing in place of a parent, of his own child or a child in his custody under 16 years of age in any occupation other than manufacturing, mining, or one found by the Secretary to be particularly hazardous or detrimental to the health or well-being of children between 16 and 18.

The farmer is made responsible for knowing the correct age of the young worker he employs.

Mr. Nunn pointed out that the Federal law does not forbid children working in agriculture on their parent's own farm. But he emphasized that most states have school attendance laws and that the law which sets the higher standard, whether state or Federal, is the one which governs in any particular case.

He also emphasized that the Federal law with reference to child-labor in agriculture applies equally to local resident children and to migratory children.

"When school is in session, all children belong in school—and we are going to do our best to see that they are not illegally employed and so kept out of school," he declared.

23. Their daughter, Dahlia, received her BS degree.

The Walter League of the Zion Lutheran Church was entertained with a social in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Neinast and daughter Sunday night.

Opening of Dove Hunting Season Friday Finds Birds Plentiful In This Section

With the opening of the dove shooting season at hand, hunters will find the birds in more plentiful supply in this immediate section than in many years, due to several factors.

One was the ideal weather during the first hatching season, coupled with above normal food supply for the birds—sunflowers and the bumper feed crop grown this year. Ample rainfall also has provided plenty of watering places.

Doves are reported plentiful in all sections of the county, and full bag limits should be easily obtained, at least during the first few days of the season. As usual, there are reports of eager nimrods who have "jumped the gun" on the season, but this type of hunter is in the minority here, sportsmen declare.

The season opening tomorrow—Sept. 1, will run through October 15. Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The bag limit is ten birds per day and only ten birds in possession.

Hunters cannot shoot from public roads, and guns must be plugged to three shells to conform with state rules.

A hunter can use nothing bigger than a 10 gauge shotgun, no rifles. Also, it is advisable for hunters to secure permission before hunting on any enclosed property, as suit penalties can be imposed for trespassing.

Directors of Lions Club Meet Tuesday Morning

Directors of the Lions Club met Tuesday morning in the club room of the Texas Cafe, at which time they drafted several recommendations for presentation to the club. With President Theron G. Cahill presiding, directors present were Roy Johnson, Harold Spain, Payne Hattox, Wix Currie, Cecil Gregory and Horace O'Neal, secretary.

Directors voted to recommend a Negro Minstrel instead of the Lions Carnival held each year, and after discussion approved another recommendation for a Lions Club committee to work with the city on civic improvements. Particularly in mind as one project was the City Park, with Club directors expressing a willingness to sponsor the project if the City would agree to maintain the recreation spot.

Diesel With A Destiny Gets Grueling GMC Tests

Thousands of hours of tortuous travel over the famed General Motors Proving Ground at Milford, Mich., was but one of the soul-searching tests to which the new GMC diesel-powered 650 truck and its running mate the 640 were subjected before being okayed for production. Here, a GMC 650 takes a grade with ease as its two-cycle diesel engine—an exclusive GMC feature—pours on the power. The introduction of this new truck marks the first full-scale diesel invasion of the lighter end of the heavy-duty field by this General Motors division. New economy of operation through long life, low fuel consumption and low maintenance costs are features of this type of power plant, which hauls loads up to 55,000 pounds. The engine is the smaller brother of that used in the giant GM diesel locomotives.

Special Service Is Announced At The Church of Christ

Homer Hailey, who is conducting a Gospel Meeting at the church, will be the speaker.

On-the-Farm Grain Storage Needed For Huge Crop

With another bumper crop of grain sorghum being harvested in Texas, the farmer is again faced with the problem of disposing of his grain. Although several million bushels of storage space have been provided on Texas farms since last year, additional space may still be needed to take care of this year's crop.

F. W. Martin, county agent, points out that on-the-farm storage gives the farmer insurance that his crop can be taken care of and enables him to qualify for government loans. It also allows him to store his grain and feed it to livestock, if that appears to be his most profitable method of marketing it.

Storage facilities can be constructed at a cost from 15 to 50 cents a bushel, depending on the size of the structure. The larger the structure, the less the cost will be per bushel of storage space.

Due to lack of sufficient labor in many localities, some farmers may prefer to buy prefabricated bins or granaries. This year, most of these prefabricated structures are costing about 30 cents per bushel of storage capacity.

Martin cautions that regardless of whether the farmer builds his storage or buys a prefabricated bin, there are several things to be considered when planning for grain storage.

Low moisture content is necessary for long, safe storage of grain. This is particularly true of grain sorghum which should not test over 12 per cent. Construct a strong, durable building and eliminate cracks and holes through which moisture and insects may enter. Provide facilities for fumigation where necessary. Rat-proof the grain structure and locate it conveniently on a firm, dry site. Plan an easy way of moving the grain in and out. Build the structures so they will last for many years.

The qualifications of a government loan require that the grain be stored in bins or granaries where it will not be subject to damage from moisture, insects, rodents or other causes.

If you are need of blueprints and additional information about building on-the-farm storage, contact your county agent.

If you are going to store grain sorghum in a bin where it has been used the year before, the county agent recommends through cleaning of the bins to prevent the new crop of grain being mixed with old grain which is already infested. If the bins are constructed of wood, apply a residual spray to the walls and floor at the rate of two gallons of spray per 1000 square feet of surface area. Spray steel bins around the door frames and other places where the insects may be concealed.

Martin says that sprays consisting of two and one-half parts DDT or chlordane as mixtures of water suspensions have been found satisfactory for treating grain bins.
