Soil Improvement Termed First Step Toward Increasing Farm Production

Farmers of Haskell County who are stepping up production to meet defense needs are reminded by George B. Pool, member of the county PMA committee, that one of the first steps is to improve soil conditions. As he explains it, soil improvement is the key that opens the door to increased production through the use of improved seed, more efficient machinery, more effective pesticides and all other developments for increasing production.

Good fertile soil with adequate moisture throughout, the growing season are essential to good yields. And, Mr. Pool explains, it is the function of the Agricultural Conservation program to help farmers improve their soil and keep it in good condition.

To illustrate, he points out that conservation practices which slow down runoff, also help put more moisture into the soil for the use of growing crops. The green manure and cover crops which protect the land against erosion while they are growing add to the fertility and improve the condition of the soil when they are plowed under. The lime and phosphate and potash used to improve the stands and increase the growth of grass and legume crops also serve to increase the productivity of the soil for other crops.

Hybrid seed, 2-4D, and improvements but without a good ed tillage tools are important developments which would be greatly reduced.

Information on soil improving Agricultural Conservation Program practices is available at the county Production and Marketing Administration office at Haskell.

How does it feel to drive a Buick?

If you think perhaps we're hinting that it would be a good idea for you to try out a Buick—mister, you've never been so right. It does a lot of things for you and to you that will be something new in your driving experience. Take the way it feels beneath your hands on the wheel—eager and willing and anxious to please. It spurts when you want to spurt—rolls with effortless momentum when you want to cruise. When you take a curve, it snugs down to the road with sure-footed confidence. After you make a turn, the front wheels instinctively seek a straight course. This car seems to guide itself. When you come to a bumpy stretch, each separate wheel on its own coil spring steps you smoothly along on a level keel. Then there's power that surges into action at a nudge of your toe—sends your speedometer needle soaring up to any speed the law allows, in a matter of seconds.

And there is also thrift—the gas-saving thrift that comes from a high-compression valve-in-head Fireball Engine found in no other car. To top all this, there is Dynaflo Drive*—that feeds power in a steady, falterless flow—lets you ride relaxed in busy traffic or on a day-long cross-country drive. We're willing to stand on the statement that no other car rides,

NO OTHER CAR PROVIDES ALL THIS:

- DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FIREBALL ENGINE
- PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT • WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS • 4-WHEEL COIL SPRING
- TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE • DUAL VENTILATION

Search For Oil In Texas Involves Almost Every Branch Of Science In Locating "Traps" Far Below Surface

The biggest hunt in Texas' history is now taking place. All over the state shooting parties are hunting for traps—traps that are full of oil. But these traps are a mile or two below the ground and the hunters have to shoot from the surface.

Oil in Texas once was found by accident, or because it seeped to the surface of springs or leaked into water wells. But the days of finding oil by accident are gone. Men now hunt for oil using every branch of science and a program of drilling thousands of wells a year. According to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, Texas operators drilled about 16,500 wells last year as part of this search and about 21 per cent of those were wildcat wells in unexplored areas. Oil traps are peculiar combinations of rock formations that occur hundreds of feet underground. The word "pool" is a holdover from the days when men thought oil existed as underground lakes and rivers. Now it is well established that oil is locked tightly in certain types of porous rocks. They are limestone or sandstone rocks with oil and associated material packed tightly around each tiny grain of sand. Oil men use a theory of how oil was formed which works out satisfactorily in enabling them to locate traps. Millions of years ago Texas was an ocean. Animal or vegetable life settled to the bottom of the ocean and decayed. Under heat and pressure from huge mud deposits that settled on top, this decayed matter was gradually transformed into oil. As more mud, lime, salt, and sea shells settled and as the earth heaved and wrinkled during its formations into different types of land surfaces, the mud layers were squeezed into many different types of rocks.

The tremendous pressure squeezed the oil into nearby layers of porous sandstone or limestone, which absorbed it like a sponge. There was salt water all through these layers of rock and it pushed the oil upward when the formation was on a slant. This process took millions of years. The porous layers became twisted on a slant as the earth's surface buckled into mountains, valleys, domes, and basins. As more mud settled, the ocean floor filled up and finally emerged above the surface.

An oil trap may be in the top of a wrinkle in porous rock which has directly above it a layer of non-porous rock. Or, it may be in what is called a "stratigraphic" trap, where the upper end of the layer of oil bearing rock thins out into non-porous rock. Locating these oil traps has become an expensive and challenging science. At mid-year, about 152 seismograph crews and 19 gravity meter crews were operating in Texas. Monthly operating costs of these geophysical exploration crews are about $20,000 for seismograph and $6,000 for gravity meter.

To shoot for traps, the crews drill small holes in the ground and set off dynamite charges at the bottoms. This causes shock waves to travel through the various rock layers, which in turn are recorded on the delicate seismograph. Waves travel at various speeds through different rock layers, so by timing the waves and measuring their strength, the crews can measure the depth and thickness of porous and non-porous rock layers. In this way they can measure the dips and convolutions of the old ocean bottom. Their shooting and mapping is completed when a study of the layers indicates a combination of conditions likely to form an oil trap. Then, that is the place to drill a wildcat well.

But there is a catch. All traps do not have oil in them, and there is evidence by the fact that of the 3,443 Texas wildcat wells drilled in 1950, a total of 2,755 were dry holes.

The risk involved in drilling is why the oil business is still so financially hazardous. A conservative estimate of $10 a foot is a lot of money to put into a well that may find nothing but salt water after drilling 4,000 feet or so. Texas operators lost an estimated one quarter billion dollars in 1950 as a result of dry holes, which had a total footage of 22,554,980.

But shooting traps is still the basic way of hunting oil and the current high demand for petroleum for civilian and military sources has put a record number of oil-trap shooters to work all over Texas this year.

W. E. Skains Named Industrial Scrap Steel Chairman

W. E. Skains of Haskell was named industrial scrap chairman by the National Production Authority for Haskell County.

In making the announcement today, Ernest L. Tutt, NPA regional director, said the nation's steel mills need 2,000 carloads of scrap iron and steel daily in order to continue our present rate of steel production for our defense efforts at home and abroad. Haskell businessmen may contact Mr. Skains or Hallie Chapman, President, Chamber of Commerce of Haskell, for scrap recovery of obsolete machines and equipment, no longer used jigs and fixtures, worn out or broken tools, wheels, pulleys, cars, chains, rails, pipe, tanks, abandoned steel structures, etc., according to Tutt.

"Farm scrap in the form of worn out or abandoned tractors, plows, cultivators, and old mill and water towers, also will add vitally to the scrap drive," Tutt said.

Herb Emery, Dallas NPA Scrap Drive director, was in Haskell Sept. 28, conferring with Haskell officials.

Fall Quail Hunting Prospects Termed "Fairly Good"

Prospects for the coming fall quail hunt were described as "fairly good" by the Director of Wildlife Restoration for the Game and Fish Commission at Austin. He said the field reports were inadequate to give the quail population pattern for the entire state but added that in scattered areas not devastated by the drought the outlook is better.

The Director explained that the original hatch was "average" in much of the state since nesting was well advanced before the drought began to sear the state during July and August.

He said there may be a scarcity of herbaceous cover in general and that it may be too light to stand up under fall rains and frost. As a result the birds may have to look for tougher cover such as brush, bushes and thickets.

From a food viewpoint, the Director of Wildlife Restoration predicted that there "is certain to be a reduced production of weed and grass seeds as well as the berries and seeds from trees and shrubs."

He observed that hunting conditions in most recent seasons have not been favorable to the sportsmen since the fall droughts have hampered scouting by bird dogs. Quail hunting is one of the top fall field sports in Texas which has one of the largest quail populations in the country. The pursuit of the crafty bobwhite and blue quail has unusual significance for the hunters this fall in view of the sparse dove shooting to date.

Representative Of Salvation Army To Visit Haskell

Major Bernice Lyons, Field representative for the Salvation Army in Texas, will visit Haskell County the week beginning Oct. 8 to continue the work of W. D. Pedigo who recently retired.

Major Lyons will conduct the Salvation Army's Annual appeal in Haskell County to help finance the statewide program which the Salvation Army is carrying out in Texas. Among other projects of interest to citizens all over the state are the Salvation Army's home and hospital in San Antonio for unwed mothers, the work of the Army in prisons, jails its missing persons service, its relief work in time of disaster, and its welfare work in the more than 200 Texas communities that benefit greatly from the work of this humanitarian organization.

The work of the Army in Texas is rapidly expanding, and the Salvation Army must depend on its many friends to support the necessary work being done.

Major Lyons was assigned to Texas shortly after her graduation from Salvation Army Officers' Training School and for the past 20 years has worked in almost every section of the state.

One place of special interest they visited was the birthplace of the late Mrs. W. F. Weaver, mother of Mrs. Guess and Mr. Chapman. The old home place is owned by Lon Sellers, brother of Mrs. Weaver, and although it is 92 years old it is in perfect condition and is a very lovely place. Other places visited were the homes of Mrs. Mary Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eperon and Mrs. May Bell, sisters of Mrs. Weaver. While Mr. Chapman had not visited the country since 1909, he could name the farms and hills and call a lot of old settlers by name, much as he would in Haskell County.

Mother of Haskell Lad Afflicted With Rare Disease Believes Research Work Only Hope of Discovering Method for Treating or Prevention of Malady

Cooperation and support of Haskell people in the work and aims of the National Muscular Dystrophy Research Foundation, Inc., of Liberty, Texas, is being asked by Mrs. Owen Cox of this city, who has first-hand knowledge of the tragic shadow which the mysterious malady has cast over many homes.

The 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cox, a prominent Haskell farm family, has been afflicted with progressive muscular dystrophy since the age of two years. The aid of leading specialists and hospitals throughout the nation has been of no help to the child. Through the specialists, Mrs. Cox learned of the work being done by the Texas foundation in research on the disease. She believes this is the only hope for eventually bringing the disease under control.

DAVID WAYNE COX

Mrs. Cox outlines the case history of progressive muscular dystrophy as the disease has affected her son as follows: "When David Wayne was born in September, 1942, he seemed a normal and healthy child until it became time for him to crawl and walk. Then he was slow about starting both, and advanced slowly. He began walking alone at 18 months, but very slow and faulty. He had very little balance and would fall easily. It was always hard for him to get up and he needed help to get up or down steps. "At the age of two years, he was at his best, but began going downhill after that. At the age of three years, he began limping for days at a time once a month, and kept this up for about a year. Then that stopped and he began falling, at first just once in a Sealy at Galveston, and Mayo Bros. in Minnesota. They all knew about the disease but they do not know what causes it, therefore they do not know what to do for it. There has never been any research on the malady, and so far it has been a neglected field. "In recent months, David Wayne's arms and shoulders have become affected, and they are noticeably weaker, and he has very little use of his arms today. He is as alert in mind as ever, the disease having affected only his muscular movements." With the hope that eventually doctors will discover some method of treating or preventing the disease, Mrs. Cox told of work being done toward that end: "At Liberty, Texas, there are two girls, Sallie and Nadine Woods, who are afflicted with the Progressive Muscular Dystrophy, the same disease our boy has. They, with the help of many of our finest doctors and influential people all over the United States are trying to start clinics for that purpose. It requires a minimum of approximately $25,000 yearly to support one dystrophy research project. "Our goal is $1,000,000 for the National Muscular Dystrophy Research Foundation, which like the National Polio Foundation, will sponsor research projects over the country to study the cause and treatment of muscular dystrophy. "Therefore, it will be impossible for anyone connected with the organization to benefit financially. The National Muscular Dystrophy Research Foundation would like the cooperation and assistance of local civic and social clubs, churches and county medical groups." Mrs. Cox said.

Cotton Strippers Come Into Use In This Area

Although mechanical cotton harvesters have generally been considered an experiment by many cotton producers, Will and Brack Gilmore, local implement dealers, believe that the mechanical stripper will be found the answer to profitably gathering of the "short" crop in this area.

They report the sale of 14 John Deere two-row strippers to farmers in the Haskell vicinity, and the machine is rapidly proving a profitable replacement for high-priced and scarce labor. Also, as Will Gilmore pointed out, many of the transient workers who come here during the harvesting season will not accept employment where the cotton crop is stunted or short, which has been the case this year as the result of dry, hot weather.

Gilmore cited the instance of a farmer in the Weiner section who had started plowing under his cotton crop, which he did not figure was worth gathering at the current picking price. He agreed to a demonstration of the cotton stripper and as a result harvested several bales of cotton, Will Gilmore said.

The Haskell dealers are advertising "custom harvesting" with the John Deere stripper, and invite farmers to contact them for a trial demonstration.

Indians Ready For Conference Opener, Q-B Club Told

In their meeting Tuesday night, members of the Quarterback Club were reminded that the HHS Indians will be entering conference play for the first time this season Friday night against the Roby Lions. Club president Thos. B. Robertson called on every member to rally behind the Indians in their first encounter with a conference foe.

And despite the fact that full-back Eldon Ammonett will be out for several games due to a fractured shoulder, and Willard Mullins remains on the injured list, the Indians will still have a formidable squad that has shown a great deal of improvement as a result of their pre-season encounters with Class AA teams. Robertson told the quarterbacks. Coach Royce Smith in a brief talk, reported the squad doing better in their scrimmage and practice, expressed the belief that the boys were in the proper shape and spirit to give a good account of themselves in Friday night's conference opener.

All Quarterback members are expected to turn out for the downtown Pep Rally Friday at 3 p. m. on the northwest corner of the square, Robertson said. In addition to the Pep Squad and Band program at the rally, brief talks will be made by County Attorney Royce Adkins and others, Robertson announced.

Five new members were reported for the Club to bring total membership to 146—54 short of the goal. Several present pledged themselves to bring at last one new member to next Tuesday night's meeting.

Entertainment feature of the evening was a film of the State championship. A game of 1950 between Wharton and Kermit, won by Wharton 13-9.

District Meeting of TSTA Held Here Tuesday

About 65 classroom teachers, principals and superintendents from local units in District 7 of the Texas State Teachers Association were in attendance Tuesday at a district meeting held in the auditorium of Haskell High School.

Sam B. Culpepper of Austin, who is with the Field Service of TSTA, gave the keynote address opening the general session Tuesday morning. Dr. John S. Carroll, head of the school of education at Texas Technological College and scheduled as speaker, was unable to attend because of a conflict in date with the County Superintendent's meeting in Dallas.

Following the general session, group meetings were held for various divisions.

Consultants with various groups were C. O. Chandler, superintendent of the Orange, Texas, schools, consultant for public relations group and teacher retirement group.

Reading consultants were Mrs. Furr from Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, and Miss Evelyn Miller, educational consultant with Houghton, Mifflin Co., Dallas.

Jeanette Henshaw Receives Wings As Air Line Hostess

Jeanette Henshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henshaw of Haskell, recently received her wings as a Continental Air Lines hostess after graduation from an advanced training class at Denver, Colo. Miss Henshaw was among a group of eight young women who completed the course. A photograph of the ceremony in which the new hostesses received their wings and hats appeared in last Thursday's Denver Post.

The eight young women will be placed on scheduled Continental Air Lines flights in Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, New Mexico and Missouri.

In a letter to her parents this week, Jeanette told of making a flight last week end to El Paso, where she met her brother, Pfc. Bobby Henshaw who came there from the Marine Base at Ocean-side, Calif., and they spent the week end together.
