JIM BOB MICKLER

JOE D. MICKLER

Two Haskell brothers, Jim Bob and Joe D. Mickler were elected yell leaders at Texas A&M University April 8. They were the top vote getters in the elections. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Ross Mickler. Jim Bob will be a senior animal science major next year and will be head yell leader. He is Inspector General on the Corps Staff and on the R.V. 21 Gun Salute team.

Joe is an animal science major and is Scholastics officer on Wing Staff.

As far as can be determined, this is the first time ever for brothers to be elected yell leaders at the same time.

Another note worthy fact is that in recent years several other Haskell students have been yell leaders at A&M. They include: Mike Overton, Ricky Perry, Terry and Keith Chapman. The Micklers make the fifth and sixth yell leaders from Haskell County which might very well be another record for Haskell.

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME ...

Germ Warfare Is Declared on Mosquitoes

Mosquitoes, those blood-sucking parasites that make life a misery for animals and mankind, have parasites of their own! And it's to the enemies of the mosquito that entomologists are looking for help in controlling these pests.

Insecticides alone can't do the job; in the last few years some species of mosquitoes have developed resistance. In many places, larger and larger doses of insecticide give less and less control.

This resistance, plus widespread concern for the safety of our environment, has emphasized the need for a variety of control methods.

The biological approach to mosquito control offers great hope. It uses parasites, pathogens (disease) and predators to reduce mosquito populations to tolerable levels.

Entomologists with the Experiment Station say pathogens look especially promising as one answer to mosquito-related problems in Texas. Dr. Jim Olson, project leader for mosquito research, says there are a large number of pathogenic agents, discovered by scientists throughout the world, that show promise as mosquito control agents.

Among these agents, those that belong to the nematode (round worms), fungi and protozoa (single-celled animals) groups have received the most intensive study. This is because of their frequency of occurrence in natural mosquito populations and because of their demonstrated deadliness to mosquitoes under laboratory conditions.

Olson and his associates have been studying one such important "junk man."

R. W. plans to devote all his energies to the FLEAMK when he retires from teaching in a year or so, but until then, it is only a hobby.

The FLEAMK opens Saturday 10-6 and Sunday 1:00-6:00.

Former County Teacher Has Unique Hobby

R. W. Reynolds, superintendent of the Putnam Schools has an unusual hobby. It is an antique business housed in an old abandoned 70,000-barrel oil storage tank.

R. W., as his friends call him, opens his place called the FLEAMK on weekends and by appointment when it does not interfere with his school affairs.

He is a former teacher in Haskell and Paint Creek Schools.

There are two questions that are asked by most of those entering the big tank for the first time: Where do you get it and how long have you been collecting it?

The answer to the first one is easy because he has been "at it" for about five years. Answering the second is a bit more complicated because he makes auctions, estate sales, buys from other dealers and individuals and gets some of it from people who bring it to him. He usually concludes his explanation by saying that when people find out you are the "junk" man they bring it to you.

Word of the FLEAMK has gone all over the world via Ap, UPI, New York Times News Service, Wall Street Journal and, just recently, by CBS News.

In talking to R. W. you get the impression that he enjoys his hobby because the business is his to run the way he likes, and, according to him, "You don't have to think much to do it." In all, he seems to take a certain amount of pride that he is a much publicized and pretty shows a great deal of promise, however, the limitations to this approach must be recognized and accepted. I doubt there will be very many cases where mosquito populations are totally eliminated as the result of using parasites alone. Even when a parasite is effective, there are some mosquitoes that escape death.

Hence, the biological approach to mosquito control will need to be carefully and strategically blended with other approaches into integrated mosquito control programs. This will insure the continuous suppression of mosquito populations to levels that can be tolerated by man in terms of his and his the protected environment of the laboratory. However, when these same parasites are subjected to the rigors of nature, their effectiveness as mosquito control agents may fall far below expectations.

So, scientists must investigate not only whether a parasite can effectively control mosquitoes in the laboratory, but also they must determine the natural factors that may limit or even eliminate the effectiveness of the parasite.

"Confinement of mosquito larvae (immature stage) in close proximity to the infective stages of the parasite appears to be one of the important conditions for effectiveness," states Olson.

"Of the 79 mosquito species known to occur in Texas, several pass their larval stages in more or less confined habitats. These habitats include everything from old tin cans to crab holes, tree holes and rock pools along rivers and creeks. On the basis of confinement, these mosquito species would be the ones that we would look to first in terms of using parasite control," says Olson.

"Resistance of some mosquitoes to infection by a parasite is also a problem. In the case of the protozoan that we are investigating, we have found some mosquito species that can resist infections even under confined laboratory conditions.

"Thus, we either have to figure out how to compromise this resistance or just accept the fact that we cannot use the parasite for the control of these particular species. Failure of a given pathogen to work in some cases is a fact of life that scientists must learn to live with. When this happens, you use the parasite where it will work and look for other parasites or other control methods that are effective in cases where your parasite doesn't work.

"The use of parasites in future mosquito control work animals' health.

"Anyone reading this can help in mosquito control by insuring that mosquito breeding conditions are not on your property. One of standing water can be the necessary condition required by some of these blood-sucking insects. Water that is in old tires, tin cans, bottles, children's pools and flower pots are breeding sites for mosquitoes. Elimination of these sites go a long way in solving the problem in the vicinity of where you live," Olson concluded.

IVES JUNE AMAN

Rule Grad Named To "Who's Who"

North Texas State University paid tribute to its outstanding students and faculty members at an Honors Day Banquet Friday evening (April 25) in the NTSU Coliseum, with Dr. Lorene Rogers, ad interim president of the University of Texas at Austin, as principal speaker.

Some 98 students and their parents were guests of the university at the banquet. The students were recognized for their achievements through departmental, university-wide and NTSU Alumni Association awards and by designation to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Faculty members honored Friday were chosen for awards by the Student Government Association.

Among the students honored Friday was Ives June Aman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Norwood, Rule.

Ives June Casey Aman, A.A., B.S., M.Ed., doctoral student at North Texas State University of Denton, has been selected by the University Committee as a graduate student to receive the award of "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" for the 1974-75 academic year. Some 100 faculty and students from the 15,000 member student body were honored at the annual Honors Day Banquet held in the NTSU Coliseum April 25, 7:15 p.m.

Ives June, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Norwood, graduated from Rule High School in 1957. Her major field of doctoral study is Academic Administration and Student Personnel Work. She graduated Cum Laude from NTSU with a B.S. in 1972, and the following year obtained her M.Ed. in Counseling and Student Services with a grade point average of 3.9.

She is a member of the Texas Personnel Guidance Association, North Central Texas Personnel Guidance Association, Phi Delta Kappa, North Central Texas College Student Personnel Association, NTSU Graduate Student Council and Doctoral Club, Kappa Delta Phi and Alpha Kappa Delta. In addition to activities at the university she is an active member in the community and sponsors a local Church Youth Group.

In the past two years she has been a facilitator of Interpersonal Communication Skills Workshops in Texas, presented programs to the annual Texas Personnel Guidance Association Conventions, Consultant to Adult Education Workshops and worked as a Research Assistant developing Instructional Modules for Vocational Technical Teachers. She also worked with the newly approved Guidance Association Program at NTSU.

FIRST BUSINESS HALL OF FAME

Baseball players have a Hall of Fame—why not businessmen? Why not, indeed?

With this in mind, 2,000 of America's top corporate executives recently convened in Chicago at the National Business Leadership Conference. Sponsored by Junior Achievement, Inc., the nation's oldest economic program for youth, the Conference was initiated to honor the vital role of business in the growth of the nation and to herald its interest in the development of young people. And appropriately, it concluded with the creation of America's first Business Hall of Fame.

Selected by Fortune magazine's board of editors, the first Business Hall of Fame members from the past are: Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller, J. Pierpont Morgan, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., A.P. Giannini, George Washington, Eli Whitney, Cyrus H. McCormick, Andrew Carnegie, Theodore N. Vail, Alexander T. Stewart, Thomas A. Edison, J. Edgar Thomson, David Sarnoff and George Eastman. The first four living members are: M.J. Rathbone, J. Erik Jonsson, William M. Allen and Royal Little.

With a Hall of Fame all to themselves, it's not unreasonable to expect to see outstanding businessmen signing autographs for baseball greats.

Farm-facts

A Weekly Report Of Agr. Business News

Compiled From Sources
Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Same Story, Fifth Verse... Lowest in 50 Years... Crops Progressing.

Any way you figure it, agriculture income continues to erode. For the fifth consecutive month, farm prices have shown declines. Parity as of the middle of March is 68. That is down a point from a month ago and down 21 points from a year ago.

But for the first time in many months, the livestock and livestock products index did manage to show a meager one per cent increase over the previous month. But in perspective, it is down 27 per cent from the 1974 level. Contributing to the slight increase were higher prices for hogs, lambs, turkeys, and eggs.

Texas farm prices continue in the doldrums. All categories of livestock, with the exception of sheep, continue well below parity levels. Hogs, for example, in Texas averaged $37.30 per hundred pounds, while parity is $46.40.

Calf prices continue to show the most significant difference. Average calf price in Texas is 21.70 cents per pound; parity is 65.60 cents per pound. Thus, calves are bringing less than a third of the parity figure.

Crops are also in similar difficulties. Cotton in Texas averaged 25 cents per pound; parity is 75.28 cents per pound. Grain sorghum averaged $3.99 per hundredweight. This is down 20 cents from a month ago and compares with a parity price of $4.94. Wheat averaged $3.45 while parity is $4.43.

Turkeys at 37 cents per pound average compare with a 45.2 cents per pound parity. Eggs are more than a dime a dozen below parity. Wool and mohair are also at below parity prices, as is milk.

TEXAS IS FAR and away the nation's leading producer of mohair. But mohair production in the state is now at its lowest level in 50 years.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that production of mohair in the state in 1974 amounted to 8,400,000 pounds. This is the smallest since 1924. The 1974 production is down 15 per cent below 1973.

The average price for mohair was $1.37 per pound; this is down 50 cents from the 1973 high of $1.87. Total value of the 1974 mohair clip is $11.5 million, which is down 38 per cent from the 1973 value.

The number of goats and kids clipped in 1974 was set at 1,175,000 head, which is a decline of 19 per cent from 1973.

SPRINGTIME throughout the state finds crops making good progress. The winter wheat crop will be harvested in Texas in May. Wheat and oats are making good to excellent progress.

Most livestock have been removed from fields where a grain crop is expected and many fields in the southern half of the state have already headed out.

Cotton planting for the state is ahead of last year's schedule. Some replanting was necessary in the coastal bend and Lower Rio Grande valley as the result of cutworm and wind damage.

Sorghum planting is about on schedule with last year. More than a third of the crop has been seeded.

Corn planting is more than half completed. Some damage has been reported due to high winds, and cutworms.

Sugarbeet seeding is about 50 per cent complete at this time. Peanut planting is underway. Peach trees are blooming throughout the state, and pecan buds have filled out over Texas.

Cuddly kittens, a long necked swan, horses and heifers were among the stars in the first National 4-H Photo Exhibition sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company in cooperation with the Cooperative Extension Service, the National 4-H Service Committee and the National 4-H Foundation.

All 230 prints in the exhibit were taken by 4-H members representing 39 states and a cross-section of creative 4-H photographers from 9 to 18 years old. Shown initially at the 53rd National 4-H Congress in Chicago, the exhibit now is traveling to numerous national and regional 4-H events and will be displayed at the National 4-H Center in Washington.

Subjects of the photographs illustrate the love many 4-H'ers have for animals. Sherri Clements of Independence, Mo., showed a cruising swan in one of her photos and two apes conversing in another. Pam Bailey, 16, of Douglas, Kans., photographed four worried kittens perched on a tree branch. John Robinson, 16, of Sperry, Okla., pictured a girl on a fence feeding her horse. And William Peterson of Madison, Wis., bagged an elusive squirrel with his camera.

Other photographic subjects ran the gamut of 4-H members' interest. Frank Collier, 16, of Laramie, Wyo., photographed a proud young man with his horse. Cheri Dale, 17, of Rye, Colo., pictured a 4-H member helping cheer retirees and Dann Blackwood, 17, of Danville, Va., photographed the textures of objects on his family's farm.

To most of the enthusiastic exhibit-goers at 4-H Congress, the display clearly accomplished its purpose of promoting and strengthening the 4-H program. The second National Photo Exhibition, public's understanding of 4-H and locating and utilizing photographs which Congress in Chicago.

Grow Your Own Groceries

Some 30 insect pests attack home vegetable gardens throughout the growing season, causing reduced yields and quality of produce. But losses can be minimized with an effective insect control program utilizing both cultural and chemical control methods, points out Max Stapleton, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
 The agent offers the following suggestions to minimize insect damage in home gardens:
 1. Clean debris, weeds and grasses from the garden area prior to planting and maintain a weed-free garden. Many insects feed and multiply in weeds and grass.
 2. Turn under or compost spent plants when vegetables have been harvested.
 3. Inspect plants frequently for insect infestations.
 4. Light infestations of some species such as the tomato hornworm may be controlled by hand picking and destroying the pest.
 5. Isolated infestations may be controlled by removing one to several infested plants from the garden to prevent spread of a pest.
 6. Anticipate insect problems and apply insecticides before insect populations become established in large numbers.
 7. Select insecticides which are effective against a large number of pests and are registered for use on a wide variety of plants. This reduces the purchase and storage of a large number of different compounds.
 8. Read the label and observe all restrictions when using pesticides.
 These guidelines should be followed throughout the growing season to keep insect numbers and damage at a minimum, reminds Mr. Stapleton.

NEWS OF SAFETY

SAFETY IN A BOTTLE
 It happens all the time: you're washing a child's hair, or a youngster is pouring herself a glass of milk, or you're about to give your floor a good scouring with ammonia, when suddenly, the bottle slips from wet fingers onto the floor.
 But this time nothing breaks. Now an increasing number of home, car, and personal care products, as well as many foods, are being packaged in safe, sanitary plastic containers, reports the Plastic Bottle Institute. These bottles can't shatter and are much less likely to slip out of hands, since they often have molded-in handles or ribbed sides for easy handling. Some even provide other safety features such as molded shields and dispensers to protect hands from harsh chemicals. Finally, they're lighter than most other kinds of containers for easier handling at home or in the supermarket.
 It seems safe to say that there are a lot of safe features in plastic bottles.

BANKING IS EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Joint Ownership—The Old Love Trap

By Willis W. Alexander
Executive Vice President
American Bankers Association

When you and your spouse tied the knot, whether 50 years ago or six months ago, you probably agreed that your partnership would be complete in every respect. No longer would things be "mine" and "yours," everything would be "ours."

And after all, isn't that as it should be? American tradition says yes, but that isn't necessarily based on sound financial judgment.

The American Bankers Association (ABA) points out that there are both advantages and disadvantages in legal joint ownership and that both should be considered when either beginning or reviewing the financial base of a marital partnership. On the plus side of "joint ownership with right of survivorship," there are two big points. The property (real estate, bank accounts or securities) passes immediately to the survivor, and many administrative costs of settling an estate are avoided.

But let's look at two personal banking situations where problems can develop. In a jointly held bank account, it's usually possible for one of the owners to withdraw all the money without the consent of the other—and that in itself could cause problems. When one party dies, however, the account may be sealed, with the bank ending withdrawals and/or stopping payment on checks until a review has been made by state tax agents. In this situation, a new widow or widower could be unnecessarily strapped for funds. To avoid this possibility, the ABA recommends that each partner retain some funds in his or her own name.

Then, too, there are instances in which joint bank accounts may be subject to gift taxes. The Internal Revenue Service considers that in most cases, the funds held in a joint account have been deposited by the husband. If the wife should subsequently remove an amount above the husband's exemptions (under gift and tax laws) to purchase property in her own name, gift taxes would be levied. Obviously, where funds are deposited by both parties, adequate records should be kept to avoid the gift designation.

And don't forget safe deposit boxes. These, too, are generally sealed by law upon the death of one owner until the appropriate taxing authority has taken an inventory for state inheritance tax purposes. Consequently, the ABA advises that duplicate copies of all wills, insurance papers and burial instructions be retained at all times in a safe place. For all of the financial planning that bank trust officers encourage, it's a common and shouldn't be lightly.

No matter what you're doing, you can do it better with your community. And do yourself at the same time. To see how much Volunteer, Wash. D.C. 20013. Your help is very wanted.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFICIARY is 72 years of age. He or she can receive $210.00 per month. If he or she is losing a part of his security income, Rules which force retirement when a person reaches a certain age compound the tragedy of the situation for many people covered by the law. Those who are physically and mentally alert should be given the right to work or to do so. The Social Security Act of 1935 was amended to allow persons of AMERICAN BIRTH to carry on employment long beyond the age of 65 years. Many of these people are capable of doing their job far beyond the age of 65. To set rules which force retirement at a certain age is to discriminate against this group. It is a simple matter that all people are of the same, mentally or physically, when they reach a certain age. Some should be allowed to work much earlier than a certain age because they just do it. Some should never be forced to retire and are willing to do so in a healthy body, an active mind and valuable experience are put on the shelf because of age, we not only lose these contributions but condemn many citizens to an unproductive and an earlier retirement than they would otherwise have. AGAIN, EVERYONE IS NOT THE SAME. WE CAN conclude that some people retire more easily than others and find reason for living. Others find freedom in greeting a new day with a dull, monotone and the feeling of being doped up and accomplishing nothing. Depression and a loss of spirit follows. IN AN EMPLOYEE IS ATTEND WASHINGTON CONFERENCE--Participating in the 1975 Texas Farm Bureau Presidents Conference April 22-24 in Washington, D. C. were Hilton Keeter-Pres. of Throckmorton Co. Farm Bureau, Congressman Omar Burleson, J. W. Aycock-Pres. of Haskell Co. Farm Bureau, and Dan Griffith-Membership Chairman of Haskell Co. Farm Bureau.

Part of a group of some 240 Texans (county FB leaders and some wives and Texas Farm Bureau staff) attending the conference, the leaders met with Texas Congressmen, Senators, and Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz. A group question and answer session was held with Texas Senators John Tower and Loyd Benson.

A banquet was held for the group which featured American Farm Bureau Federation President William J. Kuhfuss and the Washington, D. C. AFBF office staff in a discussion of "The Washington Situation."

They saw the usual sights in Washington, including Ford's Theater; Capitol building; Supreme Court Building; Library of Congress; White House; Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln Monuments; Cherry Trees; Smithsonian Museum; National Gallery of Art; and Arlington National Cemetery.

FORCED, BY REASON OF AGE ALONE, TO RETIRE from a particular company and it becomes impossible for him or her to get employment with another company, discrimination results, about which so much is said in other circumstances. Even back in teens, long before anything called Civil Rights was referred to as such, the U. S. Supreme Court, in a case brought under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution said: "It requires no argument to show that the right to work for a living in the common occupations of the community, is of the very essence of the personal freedom and opportunity that it was the purpose of the Amendment to secure."

THE ONE WHO VOLUN-

TARILY RETIRES IS, OF COURSE, SOMETHING ELSE. He may find disappointment in his decision but that was his judgment. Others look forward and plan for the day. Either way, it is by choice and not by force.

RETIREMENT SHOULD BE VOLUNTARY INsofar AS POSSIBLE unless there are reasons involving public safety or the safety of those who may have to depend on the individual in certain occupational circumstances. Even in such cases there are those who want to continue busy in a job requiring less responsibility but are not permitted to do so.

IT IS OF INTEREST THAT A LARGE PERCENTAGE of the major accomplishments in our Nation are from individuals over 65 years of age. In most cases, this may be the culmination of their life-work, but is is certainly a factor to be considered.

IN VIEW OF THE FACT THAT PEOPLE ARE LIVING LONGER and receiving better medical care, it seems time for a new look at rules, policy and law should be taken in connection with forced retirement, based on age alone.

Additional Vet Benefits Now Available

Some veterans who suffered severe disabilities during their service in the Armed Forces of the United States are eligible for Government financial assistance in purchasing a personal automobile or other conveyance. According to C. H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, many veterans are unaware of their entitlement to this particular benefit from the Veterans Administration.

Eligible for the financial assistance are veterans who, because of disease or injury during military or naval service have suffered the loss or loss of use of one or more limbs, or blindness. A recent law, which went into effect on February 1, 1975, liberalized the eligibility requirements and increased the maximum amount which the VA can pay toward the purchase of an automobile. Prior to the recent change, a veteran whose disabilities were incurred since January 31, 1955, was eligible only if such conditions were the direct result of the performance of military duty. Effective February 1, 1975, this requirement was repealed. The basic requirement now is that the loss or loss of use of limbs or eyesight must have been caused by service-connected disabilities.

When a veteran is shown to be eligible, the VA is authorized to pay up to $3,300 toward the purchase of the automobile of the veteran's choice. In addition, the VA may also pay extra amounts for certain optional equipment which may be needed because of a veteran's particular type of disability. As an example, if a veteran has lost an arm, he will require power steering to safely operate the vehicle. Even if a veteran has previously used his entitlement for the automobile grant, he may still be eligible for VA assistance to purchase needed optional equipment when he obtains a new vehicle.

Any veteran who wishes to determine whether he is eligible for the automobile grant from the VA should contact his local Veterans Service Officer.

KC Girl Signs With WT College

Temi Baker, 5-8 senior forward on the Knox City Houndette basketball team, has signed a letter of intent with Western Texas College, Dr. Sid Simpson, WTC athletic director, said.

Miss Baker was recently named to the third All-State Team selected by the Amarillo Globe-News. She was a unanimous choice for the District 7-A All-District basketball team this year. During her high school career, she played on four district championship teams, two bi-district championship teams and one regional runner-up team.

During her senior year, Miss Baker hit on 56 per cent of her field goals and 71 per cent of her free throws to score a total of 885 points. She averaged 27.8 points per game, 8.8 rebounds per game and had a total of 96 assists.

"Temi is not only an excellent ball player but has a tremendous attitude," Dr. Simpson said. "Despite her scoring ability, she is an unselfish player and has the mobility to adapt easily to college basketball. We think Temi will give us the ball handling and outside shooting to make us a real contender for NJCAA Region V honors."

Miss Baker, daughter of Knox City Superintendent and Mrs. W. R. (Bill) Baker, plans to enroll at WTC for the Traveling Seminar in American Studies set for June 11-30 before beginning the 1975-76 semester.

Texas cities set pace for celebration in US

Texans who just now are becoming aware of the extensive Bicentennial programming in the state might be surprised to learn how long preparation for the celebration actually has been underway.

The first city in the state to apply for endorsement by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission (ARBC) of Texas was Temple. The Central Texas city's application was approved by the state commission on September 5, 1971, and since that time scores of communities have been similarly endorsed.

Temple and three other Texas cities share the honor of being among the first eight cities in the nation to receive national endorsement of their programs. On July 4, 1973, the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) in Washington, D.C. announced the national designation of Temple, San Antonio, San Marcos, Lubbock, Baton Rouge and Shreveport, La., Charleston, S.C., and Lansing, Mich.

The programs initiated in the first four Texas cities continue to be outstanding examples of community planning and involvement.

Lubbock is particularly proud of the Ranch Headquarters, an interpretative outdoor ranching museum. A Heritage '76 Bicentennial project, the headquarters tells the story of ranching from the Spanish era of the 1700's to the present century. The site contains 22 authentic ranch buildings moved from their original locations to illustrate various periods.

The Ranch Headquarters will be open to the public in 1975 from May to October on Sundays from 2:00 to 4:30 p.m. Group tours at other times can be arranged with the Ranch Headquarters staff.

Another Bicentennial project in the West Texas city delves a bit farther into history than the 1700's. The Lubbock Lake Site is an archaeological site showing evidence of 15,000 years of man and his environment. As part of the Lubbock Bicentennial celebration, an interpretive center will be located at the site and the general public will be permitted to tour.

Anyone who might question the celebration of the Bicentennial outside of the 13 original colonies will get a quick answer from the people of San Antonio, who remind us that their city was in existence in 1718, 58 years before the birth of the nation. The San Antonio Bicentennial program focuses on the city's rich heritage, its flair for festivities and its future as a rapidly growing metropolitan area.

One Heritage '76 project is establishment of a calendar of events for the village of San Antonio in 1776. The city's famed Farmers Market is being restored for the Bicentennial as is La Villita, which will be a prime tourist attraction, example of Spanish colonial architecture and local recreational area.

San Antonio will officially kick off its Bicentennial celebration on March 20 with a performance by the Bob Hope Show. The Hope Show, sponsored by a local savings and loan association, will be staged at HemisFair Arena as a salute to the Bicentennial. The Bicentennial Committee will receive the net proceeds of the show to help finance the city's observance of the nation's 200th birthday.

The Bicentennial celebration in San Marcos is focused on the scenic San Marcos River. The Horizons '76 project, "Beauty Along the River," features a lighted trail in a naturally landscaped parkland. The one and one quarter mile trail unites three areas of city parkland. The river walk has been funded by local citizens and businesses.

Two Festival U.S.A. events in San Marcos, Rio Roundelay and the Music Along the River Festival, incorporate the town's scenic Hill Country location and Mexican heritage. The Music Along the River Festival is held every April 19. Rio Roundelay is staged on Flag Day, June 14, the date established by the city council in 1972 as the day to officially observe the Bicentennial in San Marcos. Other events in the city include the Chilympiad, Fiesta de San Juan and Cinco de Mayo.

Part of Temple's Bicentennial planning focuses on the city's railroading heritage. The Santa Fe depot formerly located in Moody was moved to Temple in March, 1973, and is being restored on city property to house over 7,000 artifacts of railroading life in Temple.

As a tribute to one of the founders of the 76-year-old Scott and White Memorial Hospital, a hospital museum is being created in the log cabin once belonging to Dr. A. C. Scott Sr. The cabin has been restored on the hospital grounds and houses a collection of Dr. Scott's instruments and medical papers.

Temple residents played an important role in the planning of the Bicentennial cultural exchange between Texas and Guatemala. Initiated in 1973, the exchange program has brought artists, dancers and musicians to Texas from the Central American country.
