Before you endure hours of discomfort, baking in the hot sun, you should know that the healthful effects of a suntan are almost nil. In fact, excessive exposure to sun permanently damages the skin and leads to premature aging, wrinkling, a leathery texture, and can cause a cancerous condition of the skin. A quality suntan lotion reduces sun damage, as does limited exposure to the sun.

Industrial nations are beginning to realize that the refuse of their cities takes many forms: garbage, sewage and sludge, industrial and spoils dredged from waterways. Usually, everyone wants to get rid of these wastes, but not everyone wants to dump them at home or business. Frustrated municipal governments are picking up their garbage. "Everyone wants us to put it spread awareness of the hazards has caused us to look for conventional waste disposal to be replaced. It is no longer sufficient to incinerate except for a very small number of dangerous wastes, because of the by-product of air pollution. Dumping wastes into our oceans is no longer acceptable. And disposal by deep-well injection may harm underground water supplies.

sources. But in most cases it's simply too expensive to separate the mess.

A TAES soil scientist who is an authority on problems connected with both rural and urban waste disposal says the ideal solution to our growing waste problem is to recycle it at the highest value we can gain from it. Kirk Brown, TAES soil physicist, says several cities have found that they can profitably remove metal from garbage. Others are carrying it a step further and using the remaining material as a source of energy.

Despite all efforts, however, complete salvage and reuse is often not possible. Such things as the ash which remains after incineration of garbage and the wastes resulting from small batch processes must still be disposed of.

Brown says his research suggests we should look to nature for help. In nature much of the waste or dead material falls on the soil where it decomposes. Soil is in fact the medium in which nature disposes of most of her waste. The soil near the earth's surface provides an ideal medium for disposal.

Soil scientists have developed much information useful in designing a proper soil-based disposal system. Soil disposal must be done in such a way that the potentially harmful components of the wastes do not leach through the soil, are not washed off the field in the runoff, and are not blown away.

In addition, application rates must not be so large that material buildup in the soil would limit plant growth or make the vegetation harmful to the animals that might eat it. In short, soil disposal can and must be ecologically and environmentally safe.

"Soil based disposal is presently being done on a limited scale," Brown says. "Some cities are shredding their garbage and removing the ferrous metal by means of a magnet. The salvaged metal often pays for the shredding operation.

"The waste is then plowed into the soil where it rapidly decomposes. After one or two years the same soil can accept another application. Such applications can continue until heavy metals (mercury, zinc, copper, lead) build up in the soil.

"Similarly sewage sludge can be spread on the soil. Yearly application rates must be limited by the amount of nitrogen in the sludge. But again, the long term use of the land will be regulated by heavy metal build up."

Sewage plant effluent and the liquid waste from many industrial plants can be spread on the land via conventional irrigation techniques. But the applications must be scheduled so that runoff and erosion problems aren't created. A complete cover of growing plants for as much of the year as possible is desirable.

Many of the good agricultural practices developed to prevent erosion and increase crop growth including strip cropping, plowing on the contour, liming, fertilizing and maintaining coverage with plants are very important to a soil disposal system. Remember, the primary objective of such a system is to dispose of wastes; crop yield during or immediately after waste disposal must be of secondary concern.

"Soil as a waste disposal medium uses much less energy than conventional disposal methods and can cut our fuel consumption," says Brown. "The soil acts as a biological incinerator and needs no input of fossil fuel. And since materials are covered with only a shallow layer of soil, the expense of digging pits is avoided.

"Much is still to be learned about proper management and maintaining of the soil disposal system; but some cities and industries are already using it, and I'm convinced that its use will become widespread in the future," concludes Brown.

Shower Held For Bride-Elect

Teresa Thomas, bride-elect of Paul Hudspeth, was honored June 7th, with a bridal shower in the Haskell National Bank Community Room. In the receiving line with Miss Thomas were her mother, Mrs. Clois Thomas, her paternal grandmother, Mrs. John Thomas and Mrs. Frances Hudspeth, mother of the prospective bridegroom. Mrs. Roy David Pittman, sister of the bride-elect, registered guests in the bride's book with a white feather pen. The round register table was covered with a white floor length cloth, edged in lace. Silver scales of justice held bouquets of white daisies, white ligustrum, yellow parsley blooms and fern. A bow of white satin ribbon, silver wedding bells, and white doves was at the base of the scales.

The tea table was covered with a white, tiered, floor length cloth, edged in lace. An old fashioned bouquet of yellow daisies, blue carnations, and white baby's breath centered the round table. Yellow streamers with the names "Teresa" and "Paul" came from under the centerpiece. The appointments were of silver and crystal. Miss Judy Soloman and Miss Sissy Wright served petits fours, decorated with tiny yellow and blue wedding bells, golden lemon punch and pastel hued butter mints. Arrangements of white daisies in crystal vases were throughout the entertainment room.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Willie

Application of chemical brush management present several problems. I wish to take this opportunity to warn all property owners of these problems. It appears from field observation, that heavier normal insect damage to leaves this spring is evident. This is especially true in the southeast part of the county at this time. It is estimated that the insects are causing the damage to the area of Haskell County, southeast of Lake. The defoliation is very wide spread. Significant damage has been reported from counties south of Haskell County. At present we have not been able to determine what triggered intensified defoliation. Leaf loss becomes apparent in a pasture, less than 50% defoliation generally occurred to the where aerial spraying was done and will not be done for this season.

Secondly, the recent rains have started mesquite growing again, and over a wide-spread area of Haskell County, it is quite evident that the trees are now in a condition to absorb much of the chemical applied. If spraying is done under these conditions, only leaf defoliation will result. Very little root kill can be expected. It will be better to wait until all leaves have turned from the lacy light green color to the dark waxy green color.

The new method of chemical application, "low-volume, low-pressure" using 1/2 pound of 2, 4, 5-T (1 pint) and 1 pint of diesel oil and enough water (6 pints) to make a total application of one gallon application per acre, will afford good brush control without endangering crops in the near vicinity. One aerial applicator told me that there is practically no drift with this type of application, and that he felt that success could be obtained on pastures with cotton fields adjacent. However, each aerial applicator will be the judge of how near he wishes to spray to cotton fields. Several applicators in the area are equipped to handle this type of application.

It's Dairy Month... Pecan Prospects... Crops Continue to Progress.

This is Dairy Month in Texas. Now is the time to enjoy an extra glass of milk every day; dairymen hope you enjoy an extra glass of milk every day of the year.

Texas is in the top 10 in dairy states in the nation. Texas ranks ninth in total milk production, and it also ranks ninth in milk cows that have calved. The dairy industry is an integral part of the Texas agricultural economy. Milk production in 1974 totaled more than three billion pounds.

Most of the state's dairy production is in the eastern half. Hopkins County is the state's leading county in milk production. Other counties in the top 10 include Erath, Wise, Johnson, Grimes, Comanche, Cooke, Franklin, Archer, and Wood.

ever, each aerial applicator will be the judge of how near he wishes to spray to cotton fields. Several applicators in the area are equipped to handle this type of application.

Any applicator approved by the Texas Department of Agriculture for the application of low-volume-low pressure spray will be acceptable in Haskell County, providing that applicator is a registered vendor with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Be wise, save money-your money and ACP cost-share monies-by inspecting your pastures prior to aerial spraying. If you are not satisfied with your findings or your judgement of tree condition, please call on your SCS technicians. We will be glad to assist you with this phase of your conservation work.

Dairy producers through the years have consistently taken the lead in producing a top quality product. They have also been leaders in developing marketing programs.

As is the case with all agricultural producers, dairymen are caught in a cost-price squeeze. They have watched their costs of production skyrocket while the price they have received has not kept pace.

As a result, dairymen are continuing to search for new ways to cut costs of production and to increase efficiency. However, most dairymen are now doing about all that can be done in those areas.

Meanwhile, you can help the dairy industry as well as helping yourself to better health by drinking an extra glass of milk every day this month, and every day throughout the rest of the year.

TENT CATERPILLAR, walnut caterpillar, or webworms are causing damage to pecan trees and other trees in many parts of central and south central Texas. But in spite of this and recent wet weather, the pecan crop continues to make progress.

A survey was made recently of the pecan producing areas in West Texas by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Pecan trees in commercial orchards in that area total 401,900. Commercial orchards included in the survey each had 20 trees or more.

The 401,900 trees are on 7,520 acres in 19 West Texas counties. This represents an average of 53.4 trees per acre.

Growers intend to plant about 1,250 trees during the rest of this year. Virtually all West Texas pecan trees are under some type of irrigation.

Counties involved in the survey are Andrews, Brewster, Crane, Culberson, Ector, El Paso, Glasscock, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Presidio, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward, and Winkler.

WHILE COTTON AND SORGHUM planting for the state is nearing completion, harvest of wheat and oats is well underway. Rains have delayed harvest to some extent. Harvest thus far is only about half that compared to a year ago for wheat. Oat harvest is less than a fourth completed, a year ago about half that crop had been harvested. Flax harvest is complete.

Rice planting is finished; soybean planting has passed the halfway mark; peanut planting is also more than 50 per cent complete.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—HOPEFULLY, IT WILL BE A LITTLE RELIEF for the reader of these lines (and it is for the writer) to dwell for a moment on something other than all the problems which beset the Country and about which we constantly think.

THIS IS ABOUT SMOKEY THE BEAR. For 25 years, he has been a fixture at the National Zoo here in Washington. A few days ago, he turned in his hat and shovel to be taken over by Smokey, Jr. Smokey has done a great service for the Nation with his warnings about fire prevention and, of course, his advices come from firsthand knowledge. As everyone will remember, as a cub he was rescued from a devastating fire by a forest ranger in the mountains of Northern New Mexico. His feet were badly burned but his recovery was complete except for the scars. He is now heading back to New Mexico for retirement and was given a festival farewell on his departure.

BY HIS FAME AND PUBLICITY, SMOKEY WAS a favorite attraction at the National Zoo. The Chinese pandas may be more popular at the time but Smokey still has a loyal following. Over the years he has received thousands of letters and all sorts of presents. He has accumulated sufficient wealth to comfortable support himself and his wife Goldie who doubles as his personal secretary.

IF HE COULD TALK, AND HE ALMOST CAN IT SEEMS in a reminiscent mood he might be saying, "I am really looking forward to getting back to more peace and quiet. With four million two-legged gawkers tripping by my cage year after year, I get a little tired at times. I have to carry out my assignment and be pleasant to everyone. At least I can't growl and throw things back at visitors who sometimes toss me unusable objects."

"I KNOW VERY WELL THAT I HAD AN ASSIGNMENT and was being fed to do a job. I found that being famous was not always a bear's garden of roses."

"BY NOW, AT ZOO CLOSING TIME, I feel a little weary by giving the old 'up on the back feet' bit. When I was younger, I even enjoyed flash bulbs exploding in my eyes and those choruses of penetrating childish shrieks but now I am a little weary of it all. My arthritis and some backache have been making the days pretty long. I like to think of the fame and recognition which have come my way over the years but right now I am beginning to think that it is not worth one trout out of the mountain brook."

THESE MIGHT BE THE MUSINGS OF SMOKEY THE BEAR who, if he really knew, and he may, realize a great satisfaction out of a career made famous by a one liner, "Only you can prevent forest fires."

IN OUR BIG COUNTRY, WE DON'T HAVE MANY PLACES to accommodate what might be called forest fires, but we are susceptible to grass fires which, in dry weather, can cause real damage.
