New City Officers Take Oath Of Office

Induction of the newcity administration into office was effected Wednesday evening at the city hall. Mayor Herman Schwartz and five councilmen took the oath. Aldermen are Hugh Ross, Ben F. Russell, Curtis Sutphen, Earl Johnson and Jim Lawrence. Ben F. Russell administered the the oath to R. L. Elliott, city marshall. The latter administered oaths to the mayor and councilmen in lieu of Judge Ben L. Russell.

The mayor read his message on the status of the city, especially financially. The city council decided to allow an extra 1,000 gallons of water at the minimum rate of $1.50, the present being 3,000 gallons. WALT DISNEY has learned that "The Three Little Pigs" have never lost their popularity; that picture is the most popular short that he's ever made. So he very sensibly has decided to make a sequel. It will be "The Practical Pig" and not only will the three original pigs appear in it, but there will be three new characters, the three little wolves. The success of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" has encouraged him in his plan to continue with a fairy tale series; before long we'll be seeing "The Brave Little Tailor, or Seven at One Blow," in which he will star Mickey and Minnie Mouse. It begins to look as if Disney is superstitious about the numbers three and seven, doesn't it?

Merle Oberon was awfully glad to get home-and home, to her, means the United States. After spending more that, a year in England, making pictures, she went to the Riviera for a vacation, and the sunshine and swimming made her homesick for Malibu beach; that's how she found 'out that neither Tasmania, where she was born, nor England, where she grew up, any longer mean home to her. You'll see her next in "Graustark," with Gary Cooper and Sigurd Gurie.

She's awfully glad that Samuel Goldwyn did something about changing her from an exotic looking siren to a normal girl; seems she didn't care for the type of beauty that was wished on her when she first came to this country to make pictures, any more than Myrna Loy cared about playing Oriental vamps just because her eyes were set on

If Joan Crawford decided that she wanted to fly to Mars she'd probably succeed. Time after time she has set her heart on doing a thing, she accomplished it. Now it's singing that keeps her busy when she is not acting before the screen; she wants to sing in opera, so probably she will. Never has anyone had more determination than that girl possesses! She went to New York recently, and her admirers promptly gathered about the carriage entrance of her hotel. They proved, when she last visited New York, that they were as determined as she. Morning, noon and night some of them were there, and she, unlike some movie stars, admitted that she was delighted. Furthermore, she let them know it.

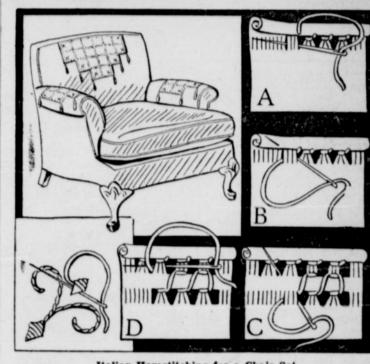

Columbia university undergraduates have acquired the habit of voting for Madeleine Carroll in a poll that is held each spring. The students vote for the girl who would be "the most desirable companion on a desert island," and she is the winner for 1937 and 1938. Their reasons - her ability to speak French, her blue eyes, blonde hair, classic profile and attractive figure.

Paul Whiteman and his wife, Margaret Livingston, have been looking for a country home for what seems to them an endless time. They finally found what they wanted-147 acres in New Jersey, on the Delaware river, not far from the farm that Sylvia Sidney recently bought. Recovery in Prospect, But Not Immediate

Nearly all his life, when he was ill, Mark Twain was inundated with letters from well-wishers, one offering this, and another offering that marvelous remedy for his malady, whatever it might be, says his daughter, Clara Clemens (in "My Father: Mark Twain").

He tried to acknowledge all such messages and sometimes did so in a whimsical way. Here is one of his replies: "Dear Sir (or Madam): I try

Value of Calcium in Bone Building

Minerals Have Important Part in Body Structure

By EDITH M. BARBER

BRICKS cannot be made without straw. Neither can bodies grow and develop without certain mineral elements which are sometimes known as the ash constituents of the body. If the total amount of mineral content in the bones, tissues and blood should be weighed, there would not be much by weight, but this would be no indication of the importance.

While it is not possible to differentiate among minerals as to which of the number are most necessary. there is none which bears a more important relation to the structure of the body than calcium. Ninetynine per cent of this mineral is found in the bone, and if the calcium and phosphorus are removed from bone we find only flexible tissue remaining. Sometimes bones will continue to grow in size when this element is taken in too small quantities, and in this case bowed legs and other deformities result. Calcium is also necessary for other body processes, such as the regulation of the way the heart beats and the manner in which the nerves react. It also enables the blood to clot quickly, after wounds either accidental or the result of an opera-

We find in milk, both in its fresh or evaporated form, our most liberal source of calcium. This is one of the reasons why milk is so important in the infant's diet. Certain vegetables, such as beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, peas and others, provide us with a certain amount of calcium. Some nuts and some fruits, such as those of the citrus family and a sew others, also contribute. Egg yolk ranks next to milk when scored for caleium content. Cheese, as you would expect, equals milk on this count.

Cheese With Vegetables.

- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 cups grated cheese 34 cups canned corn
- 1 pimiento 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup tomato juice
- teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon paprika 6 slices bread
- 1 clove garlic or onion to suit taste

In the melted butter stir the cheese until it is melted. Then add the corn and pimiento; stir for a moment and add the egg yolks beaten and mixed with the tomato juice and the salt and paprika. Have ready the bread toasted on one side and very lightly rubbed on untoasted side with garlic or onion. Pour the mixture over untoasted side of bread and serve at once. Baked Onions With Milk.

Peel onions, put in baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) half an hour. Add two cups of milk and continue baking for another half hour.

Toasted Cheese.

1/2 pound American cheese 1/2 teaspoon mustard Paprika

1 egg 1/2 to 1 cup milk

Cut the cheese into small pieces. Place in a greased pan, sprinkle with mixed seasonings. Beat the egg in slightly and add one-half cup milk; add enough more milk to cover. Put pan in another pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes, until cheese is brown.

Cheese Filling.

- 1 tablespoon butter
- tablespoons flour ½ cup milk
- cup grated cheese 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Pepper Cayenne

1 egg Melt butter, stir in flour, add milk and stir constantly over low fire until mixtures boil. Add cheese and seasonings mixed with slightly beaten egg and stir until smooth Use as a filling for small cream puffs or tiny pastry tart shells. Eggs With Mushrooms.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

GOODNESS ME, we're always hearing about people who "come into" a little money, but we don't often meet one of them face to face. But now that one of our readers has come into a few hundred, we feel as if it were in the family, so to speak, and we are all of a flutter because we are going to have a chance to help spend it, at least she's written to ask us to tell her how! There's nothing we like to do more!

"I am up a tree," she writes, "I want a new rug and a living room set but am worried about the colors I should get. You see, I want the colors to fit in easily with the rest of my things in the living room and dining room. So perhaps I'd better give you an outline of our present

"We have a little girl of two, so anything we get must be durable. Already we have a gold brocade barrel chair and a rust occasional chair which will have a new cover. The tables and incidental chairs are mahogany; the lamps are green and gold. The dining furniture is Eighteenth century mahogany with oyswhite leatherette seats. The rug is plain textural green and the draperies are cream and green with shades of rose in the flowers. Most of the rest of the house is fully furnished and now we want to get the living room in order. Since we're new housekeepers, we'd appreciate any ideas on colors, accessories, wall paper, etc. Though we're mainly concerned about the rug and the living-room set."

Since the dining room is permanently committed to green because of the rug, we'd suggest a plan for the living room that would be congenial with this color. Of course you could have the same green in the living room, though it might be more interesting to use something in a little different tone. How would you like a textural rug in a much lighter green? That still wouldn't show foot marks and would be harmonious with the dining room. Then you could have your new sofa in a good purple burgundy which would be lovely with that light green in the rug. Then you might consider a very pale gray for the walls if the room is sunny enough. For dra-peries you could use the same linen as you have on that chair, and for accessories some interesting pieces of pewter and brass.

Red and Rose.

"I was digging in an old trunk the other day," writes Mrs. M. S. S., "and I ran across a piece of glazed chintz more than a hundred years old. It's wonderful fabric in dark red with large rose colored flowers scattered over it. So I'm using it in doing over one of my bedrooms into what I call my old-fashioned room, using family heirlooms. have a canopy poster bed, a chest of drawers, washstand, several old mahogany mirrors and three ladder back chairs.

"I have had the walls papered in a pale pink with a pattern of old time dark red and tan flowers. How shall I curtain the windows? There are two of them side by side. What use shall I make of the chintz? I have a piece seven yards long and twenty-two inches wide. The chest is mahogany. The chairs will have to be painted as the wood isn't good enough for a natural finish. The bed, I found after removing the varnish, is maple. Shall I stain it ma-hogany color? The natural maple is lovely, but I suppose it wouldn't go with the other woods. What kind of spreads and curtains shall I have for the bed?'

How lucky to have that old chintz! I think it would do nicely for the bedspread.

For the windows, could you get light blue window shades, then use sheer lace net curtains over them, looped in lovely wide swoops. Then if you could have a soft grayblue plain rug, that would be nice. You could use light gray-blue in quilted material for slip covers for a pair of easy chairs-if you've any red chintz left, you can add little fat round cushions of it.

Leave the bed maple. I think it will be quite all right with the other woods—in fact I'd like it.

Your BAKER knows THERE'S NOTHING LIKE TEXAS GAS FOR BAKING

Texas Bread Week

We salute the Bakers of Texas! "Texas Bread Week," which they are sponsoring, deserves the support of everyone. This industry means an annual volume of business for the state of nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars with an annual payroll estimated at $10,000,000.

It is the quality of breads and pastries offered to his customers that largely determines the popularity of a baker's products. That's why practically all bakeries in Texas, wherever gas service is available, use heat-controlled gas bake ovens. For every baker knows that the even heat distribution and perfect temperature control by automatic regulators which these ovens provide are essential to his success in baking quality breads, cakes, pies and pastries. And, too, his operating costs are less with gas because of its cheapness, the efficiency of modern appliances and because of thick insulation which cuts down heat losses. For baking, your baker knows gas is best.

A friend of this writer, an oil operator who has reasons for remainng anonymous, brings news from Mexico that the big, swarthy Mestizo, the most conspicuous hold-out on the state agrarian program, is gaining a following in a long sweep of Mexican provinces, and, in this view, dissident factions will swarm in behind him, if there is a further drift toward civil war.

12 MILLION JOBLESS

One-Seventh of Population Receives Public Aid . . First Report of Senate Committee on Relief

Emergency rationing of troops by airplane and parachute was successfully accomplished in Texas by the army air corps during maneuvers. This picture shows metal food container for personnel rations, bale of hay and a 130-pound sack of oats, with parachutes attached, ready to be loaded on the bomb racks of the Martin bomber, seen in background.

SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

One in Seven on Relief

Twelve million American work-ers are totally unemployed. More than 18,000,000 persons, or oneseventh of the population of the country, are receiving public assistance from the federal, state or local governments. From 1933 to 1937 inclusive the federal and state governments have spent $19,400,000,000 for work relief and other forms of public assistance.

These far from Harry Hopkins cheerful figures were in a preliminary report of the senate committee on relief and unemployment submitted by Chairman

At the time the report came in. Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, was telling the house appropriations committee, holding hearings on the administration's recovery-relief program, that the proposed $1,250,000,-000 relief appropriation would enable 200,000 to be added to federal aid rolls, bringing the total number to 2,800,000 persons.

This money, he said, would last only for the first seven months of the coming fiscal year. He refused to estimate how much would be needed thereafter.

The senate committee report in general absolved the WPA from charges of graft, waste and inefficiency, but in some respects it sharply criticized the administration's relief policies.

To the discomfiture of administration leaders, the committee recommended that the senate's revenue When Dr. James H. One Spending Bill Passed WITHOUT a record vote the house passed the first of the new spending bills, appropriating $903,000,000 for the Department of Agriculture during the next fiscal year. Of the total sum, 201 millions are for the building of new roads, this being one of the President's pump-priming suggestions.

Help for Utilities

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT now is planning to extend government aid to the public utilities, which have suffered severely from government competition. This was learned after he had conferred with RFC Chairman Jones, and Douglas and Hanes of the SEC. The purpose is to aid the utilities in financing new construction, through the RFC lending program. Employment of now idle workers is the aim.

A.F. of L. Follows C.I.O. Lead

A MERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, following the example of the rival C. I. O., entered politics on a national scale by forming an organization to back selected candidates for public office.

The action, emphasizing anew the split between the two labor associations, indicated that the labor vote will be divided in many state primaries and November congressional elections.

Fight in Pennsylvania

DEMOCRATS of Pennsylvania are split wide open over the campaign for the May primaries, and Gov. George Earle is in the middle of the hot fight. He is seeking the nomination for senator. Mayor Wilson of Philadelphia, supported by Senator Guffey and John L. Lewis, is opposing him. Wilson charged that Earle had borrowed large sums from M. H. McCloskey, contractor and co-leader of the especially about Kirshehr, Yozgad Philadelphia Democratic organiza- and Tchorum.

tion, and Chairman Green of the Republican state committee promptly demanded that Earle resign or face impeachment. The governor admitted financial dealings with McCloskey but said his debt had been reduced to $6,000. Earle declared Guffey was trying to wreck the state party organization "so he can control the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention in 1940 and team up with Southern Democrats to get the nomination for vice president."

Hitler Reviews Army

REICHSFUEHRER HITLER celebrated his forty-ninth birthday by reviewing his new Pan-German army, and it developed that he and his military leaders are expecting that open warfare will be the form of future conflicts. The 10,000 troops that marched along Unter den Linden, led by an Austrian battalion that had not yet learned the goosestep, were equipped for mobile fighting and armed with a new machine gun. In the parade were 500 tanks of medium size and armored cars with radio.

It was announced in Vienna that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Archduke Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne. A Berlin newspaper said the Austrian properties of the Hapsburgs had been confiscated.

Members of the German American bund held a meeting in New York on Hitler's birthday which developed into a riot. Seven men wearing American Legion caps were severely beaten by "Storm Troopers" in uniform. J. W. Hill, national secretary of the bund, asked a congressional investigation of the activities of Representative Dickstein of dent. meeting were held.

TVA Investigators

WHEN Sen. James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, Republican, consented to serve on the joint congressional committee to investigate the Tennessee Valley authority, that group was complete. Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, author of the resolution calling for the inquiry, was left off the committee, contrary to precedent. The other senators named by Vice President Garner are:

Sen. Donahey Vic Donahey of Ohio, Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire, H. H. Schwartz of Wyoming, Democrats; and Lynn Frazier of North Dakota, radical Republican. House members are J. M. Mead of New York, W. J. Driver of Arkansas, R. Ewing Thomason of Texas, Democrats; C. A. Wolverton of New Jersey and T. A. Jenkins of Ohio, Republicans. It was presumed that Senator

Donahey would be chairman of the committee. He is not marked as prejudiced either way in the mat-In the senate he is almost never heard.

Investigators were to be put in the field as soon as possible, and after congress adjourns the joint committee will hold public hearings, probably in Knoxville, Tenn., and in Washington.

Almost of paramount importance politically is New York. No "purge" has been proposed there, but one of the most loyal of the 77 Democratic senators, Robert F. Wagner, bucked the President on this issue, to everyone's surprise. Of course Sen. Royal S. Copeland also voted against the President on this bill, but it is Wagner, who is up for re-election this year, not Copeland, whom the President would very much like to see retired to private life.

In the house, Rep. John J. O'Connor, chairman of the powerful rules committee, has been troublesome to the New Deal for some time. As chairman of that committee he has had much to do with blocking the wages and hours regulation bill. He issued a blast against the reorganization bill as soon as it had passed the senate, and then voted against

But-so did nine other New York Democrats, of whom all but one, Alfred F. Beiter, come from the Greater City. And an additional New York city Democrat, Martin J. Kennedy, was paired against the bill! So it is rather difficult to figure the organization leaders helping to organize a move to eliminate the insurgents when primary day comes. Especially when it is remembered that several important functionaries in this group of leaders, particularly Ed Flynn of the Bronx, bucked the President's wishes rather forcefully when he attempted to get approval for Robert H. Irritating Thorns

In Maryland, where the President would love to see Sen. Millard E. Tydings replaced by a New Dealer. Tydings having sided against the President on every controversial issue of any importance, four of the six Democrats voted against the President.

In Ohio, where there are all sorts of anti-New Deal rumblings, and whose senator Vic Donahey, was the first named of the TVA investigating senators, 12 of the 21 Democrats voted against the President.

In Texas, where Sen. Tom Connally was among the first to insurge on the Supreme court enlargement proposal, eight Democrats refused to follow their own Sam Rayburn, majority leader.

Virginia, whose senators, Carter Glass and Harry F. Byrd, have been the most irritating thorns on Capitol Hill so far as the White House is concerned, was even worse. Seven of her nine Democratic representatives voted against the Presi-

Senator James F. Byrnes, led the fight for the reorganization bill in the senate, did not do so well. Three of her six Democrats voted wrong from the White House standpoint, Which may not be so displeasing to Sen. Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith, whom the White House would like to see beaten this fall.

The one senator who comes up this year that the President is most anxious to save is "Dear Alben" Barkley of Kentucky, who defeated Pat Marrison for senate leader by one vote due entirely to White House pressure. He is now seriously threatened in the primary. But four of the eight Kentucky Democratic representatives voted against the President on the reorganization bill. And so it goes through most of the delegations.

A Chuckle Here

Just a few days before the house so surprisingly scuttled the President's pet government reorganization bill, Mr. Roosevelt was talking with a group of visitors. As they told the story afterward they had the impression that the President was not greatly concerned about what congress might do about anything, but he grew rather forceful when decrying any real danger of dictatorship in this country.

Toward the conclusion of the interview, the visitors reported, the President asked them dramatically if they could name any power he possessed that the two preceding Presidents, Coolidge and Hoover, had not had.

The visitors were not politically minded. As a matter of fact, they were chuckling as they came out of the White House about the retort one of their number had made. This gentleman had said to the President, when asked what powers he had that his two predecessors had lacked: "The power of expression."

But it did not occur to them until several hours later that after all the power to allocate a couple of billion dollars a year to projects all over the country, with the power to say to Senator Blank that he would either vote for administration measures or power of patronage, which of course both Coolidge and Hoover had, had been enormously increased through the tremendous multiplication of the number of good jobs on the federal pay roll.

All of which is very significant now because of the new insurrection on Capitol Hill—that against voting the President huge sums for relief, which he can then allocate as he

May Turn on Heat

It must be admitted that there seems very little prospect of this latest revolt succeeding. But then it seemed rather unlikely, after the White House turned on the heat for the reorganization bill and was able to get it through the senate, that it would be upset in the house.

At least three times every one watching the situation has been sure, within the last 18 months, that the wages and hours regulation bill would be enacted, only to see it sidetracked. So that predictions at the moment seem rather daring. This new revolt just might get somewhere, unlikely as it seems now.

The great importance of it is that if it should, it would clip the President's power so effectively that it is scarcely likely he would be able to force any measure through congress for the remainder of his present term. It would mean that from now on congress would come mighty close to determining its decisions on its own political and economic judgment. It would mean the end of White House domination of Capitol

Just one reservation has to be made to this. The President still has that "power of expression." It is not impossible that his strength with the people in certain states and districts would be such that he could bring about the defeat in the Democratic primaries this year of a dozen or more outstanding figures among the insurgents. That, should it occur, would be apt to bring congress back to heel very decidedly.

Probe to Be Unique

The TVA investigation will be unique among the outstanding congressional inquiries of the last quarter of a century in one particularit will not have a prosecutor!

Some senator or member of the house among the ten who compose the committee may decide, after the thing gets started, to take a real interest and try to get somewhere with it. There is no such promise to those who know the men from looking over their names, but surprises do happen.

But in the past it has been the custom, when a committee was appointed to delve into something, to pick out the particular man who had been doing most of the crusading on that subject, and put him on the investigating body, if not as chairman, then at least as a mem-ry M. Daugherty, then attorney general under President Harding. bitterly for weeks, and virtually forced the appointment of an investigating committee, he was appointed on it. He was not made chairman, for the simple reason that he was a Democratic senator, and the Republicans were in control of the senate, so that all chairmanships were given to Republicans.

But - everybody knew when Wheeler was appointed that he would really run the committee, and

Walsh Made History

When Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, father of the present senator of the same name, finally got his resolution for investigation of the lease of Teapot Donie passed, Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, who agreed with La Follette about it and was known as a relentless prosecutor, was named chairman.

Walsh made history, digging in for the carefully hidden trails long after nearly everyone but Walsh and La Follette was persuaded that actu-ally the whole thing was all right.

This has always been the rule in both houses, though frequently committee chairmen, especially in the house of representatives, have stolen the thunder of the special prosecutors simply because they outprosecuted them. House members have a little harder time getting publicity than senators, and hence are less loath to do battle when they get a chance for the front pages.

If the normal course of procedure had been followed in the TVA investigation, Sen. H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire would have been named as one of the Republican members. He would not have been put at the head of the senate list, because he is a Republican, but certainly he would have been put on the committee, because he is the one senator who has been exhaustively investigating the situation and studying the subject for more than a year-knows more about it than anyone else in either house in all probability. @ Bell Syndicate.-WNU Service

OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Ice Age in the Bronx" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

For a long time I've been telling the cockeyed world that you don't have to go places to find adventure. I remember once saying that you could get more thrills just by sticking around your own home town than you could by signing up with Admiral Byrd for one of his exploring trips to the South pole.

And now, here comes John Standmann of the Bronx to tell me I was right about that South pole business. Admiral Byrd went down into the Antarctic to study the ice age, but Jack Standmann stayed home and studied another ice age-in the Bronx.

The Admiral loaded up a boat, signed on a crew, and sailed away toward the South pole, but Jack just put on his coat and a pair of gloves and, in ten minutes, found a spot that was just as cold as anything the Byrd expedition was able to dig up in a year's stay way down there at the bottom of the world.

It was in June, 1932, which is a doggone strange time for a man to Arctic adventuring in the Bronx. Jack was working in an ice-cream factory and that more or less explains everything. The plant was a new one, and a lot of new-fangled machinery had been installed in it. One of the machines was the big steel conveyor that carried packaged ice-cream into the freezing chamber. That machine was the special bane of Jack's existence. The freezing chamber was a long tunnel where the temperature ran around 40 below zero. Moisture used to gather in there and turn into ice. During a week's time, enough of it used to collect so that there was danger of it stopping the machinery. Then, Jack found himself facing a job he didn't like very well.

Working in Forty Below Zero.

The job was to crawl inside the freezing tunnel and hack and chip out all the ice. It was a chore that took every bit of two hours, but it had to be done a little at a time, for no man could stand that 40 below zero temperature for more than 20 minutes at a stretch. It couldn't be done while the plant was operating. It had to be done after closing time. The result was that Jack had to work overtime, and spend most of the evening

On this particular day, the plant had been working overtime itself. The minute the machinery stopped running Jack put on a lot of heavy clothes. slipped his hands into a pair of thick warm gloves, and crawled about 30 feet along the belt conveyor into that freezing tunnel. He worked as fast as he could, but he had been in there only about a quarter of an hour when his clothes were frozen so stiff that he could hardly move about and his gloves were so hard and brittle that he could scarcely use his

He had just about decided to crawl back and thaw out when suddenly he heard the door of the tunnel open, saw the lights go out, and then heard the door slam shut again.

Locked in the Tunnel to Die.

It was cold enough in that tunnel, but Jack suddenly went colder. He knew all too well the meaning of that slamming door. The light switch was just inside it. The watchman, not realizing that anybody was in there, had turned out the lights and locked the tunnel door. Even with the door open, Jack couldn't have groped his way out of the tunnel along the perplexing maze of conveyor belts. He had been abandoned in that freezing hole-to die.

Jack started to yell-he yelled until he was hoarse. But it was like For example, after Sen. Burton yelling in a vacuum. The walls of the tunnel were insulated and sound proof. He began to crawl along the tunnel, his clothes freezi steel at every foot of the way. His gloves were as stiff as boards. The cold was penetrating to the very marrow of his bones. Pretty soon he would begin to get sleepy-and then-

Nearly Crazed With Horror.

It wasn't a pleasant subject, but Jack couldn't help thinking about it. Would they find him dead in the morning? Another idea struck him -a gristly, ghastly thought. When morning came, they would start the conveyor, and his stiff, dead body would be ground to pieces by the cogs of the great steel belt. Out of that machine, built to deliver the fixings for parties and the makings for kids' ice-cream cones, would come a sickening mass of frozen and lacerated flesh-flesh that had once been Jack Standmann.

A prey to thoughts like that, Jack almost went crazy. "It's hard to explain the horror of freezing to death in a pitch dark tunnel," he says. "In my frenzy I imagined I had been in there for hours. I knew I'd be as stiff as my own gloves long before morning. But suddenly it occurred to me that I might try knocking on the wall."

Jack didn't have much hope that that would work. The walls were too thick. But at one point-a place where a cold storage compartment adjoined the tunnel, the wall was not insulated at all. And at that point he started hammering with all his strength. Would anyone go into that compartment? Would anyone hear his frantic signal?

Jack pounded for a long time. His body and face were numb, and his flailing arms were the only parts of him that had any feeling left in them, when suddenly, the lights went on. Someone yelled to him, and Jack doesn't remember whether he answered or not. But presently he felt himself being lifted out of the tunnel and carried out into the warm

So, amid great grumblings from Angustias, whose pet Chichi had developed a dangerous cold from the fogs and sea air of Monterey, the gubernatorial party embarked on the San Antonio for the Mission and Presidio of San Francisco. Angustias had at last settled herself in some comfort in the Governor's palace, and had, she confided to the Gobernadora, just got the cramps out of her bones from the long journey she pack and move on again. As she fussed over the little trunk that held the layette, she scolded, "A rolling stone gathers no moss."

Eulalia laughed. "And a dog that stays at home never finds any bones!" she countered.

The San Antonio was drifting be tween Points Lobos and Bonita that guard the gates of the great Bay of San Francisco. It was sunset, and as the Governor stood on the bridge of the clumsy ship, he looked west into the sky, all vivid with color. where islands called the Farralones could be seen rising dimly above

But her pride and pleasure in the royal greeting were interrupted by a feeling of great uneasiness, followed by acute discomfort. "Eulalia. Eulalia . . ." "Pedro . . . Oh, merciful God," she whispered.

A day later Fray Palou, with a pleased expression on his kindly face, drew toward him the great Register of the Mission Dolores at San Francisco, and inscribed in his fine scholarly hand, that was to record so many priceless records for the annals of California, these

Some ten days later the young daughter of the Governor, his little him. flower as he called her, was christened with as much pomp as was possible in the shabby little mission church. Fray Palou proudly pointed out, however, the cornerstone already laid for a new temple to be erected.

Then the party returned gaily to the mansion of the Commandante of the Presidio of San Francisco, Don Jose Moraga, and his wife, Maria del Pilar de Leon y Barcelo, who were the padrino and padrina of the

The rain poured ceaselessly, doing still greater damage to the little houses, and the wall around the presidio which had already, earlier in the year, been partly destroyed by a severe storm.

The Commandante hesitated. "Of course I will excuse you. But is necessary to leave"-he stole a glance at La Gobernadora-"just

"I do not see it," she said coldly. "You shall not go."

Still he did not speak, nor make a move toward her. The love that she pleaded for from his eyes did not kindle. There was only bitterness in his face. Eulalia grew afraid. "You . . . you are not going?" she whispered pitifully.

"I started. But I came back," he said shortly.
"Ah, my lover." Again she reached toward him.

By weakening resistance, it opens the way to numberless diseases. Serious complications, such as irritation of the appendix, may occur as a result of the friction of hard masses of waste against the delicate walls of the intestine. Piles have frequently been laid at the door of faulty elimination.

Do you wonder that I consider prompt, regular elimination the keystone of good health.

The amount of the evacuation varies in bulk with the amount of indigestible roughage contained in the food. When there is insufficient bulk to promote normal peristalsis, waste accumulates and we have the condition known as constipation with all its resulting evils. Bacteria prey upon the stagnating material, producing poisons which may be absorbed by the body.

There is not the slightest excuse for allowing this condition to develop. For the misery and wretchedness of constipation may easily

Questions Answered

Mrs. B. T. M .- Do not worry if tables and fruits are sworn foes your child prefers the egg yolk to the white. The white is chiefly protein, and he can easily obtain protein from other foods, especially milk. But the yolk contains an abundance of minerals and vitamins in addition to protein and fat. Nutritionists have determined that the inclusion of one egg yolk daily in an otherwise adequate etables; such cooked vegetables diet is an effective method of balancing the intake and output of iron in a child's diet. Miss S. B .- No, the generous use of cream cannot be considered as a substitute for taking milk as a beverage or in cooked dishes. Cream is much higher in fat and contains less protein, minerals and vitamins, with the exception of vitamin A. Cream deserves to be included in the dietary for its vitamin A content, but it should not replace milk. Mrs. A. Mck. - Strawberries contain vitamins A, B and C. Recent experiments indicate that they rank with citrus fruits and tomatoes as a source of vitamin C. © WNU-C. Houston Goudiss-1938.

Hidden Benefits Few housewives realize the underlying advantage of the use of a good light-oil furniture polish! Most polish is used only for the luster it bestows on the chairs, tables, piano, woodwork in the Rubbing the polish on cleans the furniture-works up a glow-and the outward effect is fresh and sparkling! But that is only part of the housewife's reward. For out of this domestic routine comes definite benefit to the furniture! A reputable polish, with a light oil base, does what is known as "feeding" the finish. The "massage" causes the oil to penetrate, seep into the pores of the wood—just enough to lubricate -and keep it healthy! Here, it is important to note that cheap polishes are made with a heavy oil base-and are "greasy" and unpleasant to use. The best polish -made with a fine light-oil baseis never greasy. Applied on a damp cloth (according to directions), it is neat to use and proves a boon to the furniture! Lack of polishing-or the use of a poor polish-will cause the finest wood to dry out, crack, split-for wood is a product of Nature and needs a certain amount of oily moistness. So polish the furniture regularly! Use a quality oil polish-it
