Clyde Kennel Dedicated To Tim Stone and James Trammell

CLYDE — Who can build a platform or a lecture stand? Who can weld these tables? At Clyde High School the answer is always the same — the "Ag boys." The 1973 Kennel is dedicated to the two men who provide the guidance and know-how for these, and many other like projects. Any given group of boys could probably perform these services, but because of their advisers, we felt that our Agriculture Department is one of the most willing, able, and ready to help our school and our community.

We proudly dedicate this year's Kennel to Mr. Tim Stone and Mr. James Trammell.

Truck-Bus Big Business In County, Employ 915 Persons

AUSTIN — Trucks and buses are big business in Callahan County, and figures recently released by Texas Motor Transportation Association prove it. In 1972, in this county alone, 915 persons were employed by the trucking industry. They earned $6,887,205.

According to TMTA, the state state association representing the truck and bus industry in Texas, truck registrations in Callahan County last year were 2,716 and the total value of trucks in use totaled $3,720,920.

Statewide, trucks and buses give employment to 677,000 — that's one out of every five non-farm paychecks. Obviously, the truck and bus industry is a big one. And no other business more directly affects the daily lives of all Texans than do these two forms of motor transportation. The clothes people wear, the food they eat, the items they use in making a living — all come at least part way by truck.

In fact, Texas needs trucks more than do most states because 62.2 per cent of the communities in the Lone Star State depend entirely on trucks for transportation. They have no other kind of shipping service. This number includes 49 county seats and 21 entire counties. And many of the communities which have other transportation service depend on trucks for the smaller shipments which railroads cannot handle.

The industries in Texas which are linked to the truck and bus industry are many. For example, trucks are irreplaceable in the movement of Texas fruits and vegetables.

More than $154 million in cash receipts were received by Texas farmers in 1971 for their production of fresh fruits and vegetables. Approximately 1.5 billion pounds were shipped to the nation's principle markets — of this amount, 1.2 billion pounds, or 78 per cent, arrived by truck.

And trucks not only transport Texas fruits and vegetables to the dining rooms of the nation, but also fill the markets and restaurants of Texas with vegetables and fruits from throughout the country. For instance, in 1971, 92.1 per cent of all fruit and vegetable shipments arriving in Dallas from other parts of the country were shipped by truck.

Trucks are also partners with the petroleum industry. Trucks provided the only means of transportation for the 302 rotary drilling rigs active in Texas in 1970. These rigs drilled 2,098 exploratory or wildcat wells, and 6,016 other holes during the year. From this activity came 4,911 producing oil and gas wells. Dry holes were produced from 2,811 drillings. Not included are 392 service wells, including stratigraphic and core tests.

Drilling these wells required more than 16,228 rig moves by oil field carriers during 1970. Each rig move required loading, unloading and transporting by truck more than 26 million tons of equipment.

In addition, more than 40 million feet of pipe and casing were hauled to well sites in order to complete new oil and gas wells and lay new service pipe lines. All of the supplies were handled by truck — the sole source of transportation to the oil fields.

The 215 Texas carriers who specialize in oil field hauling had a total payroll in excess of $25 million 1971.

Tank trucks transporting chemicals and refined petroleum products to Texas consumers have made possible the development of today's Texas petroleum industry.

The trucking industry and Texas are also partners in the transportation of livestock at major markets. In 1971, 98.2 per cent of the cattle, 97.4 per cent of the calves, 99.9 per cent of the hogs and 95.3 per cent of the sheep and lambs were transported to market by trucks.

Products manufactured in Texas are 2 other items which are often shipped by truck. In fact, according to the 1967 census of Transportation by the U. S. Department of Commerce, 54.9 per cent of the inter-city tonnage of Texas manufactured products was moved by truck. This figure includes 90 per cent of all apparel and 97 per cent of all furniture and fixtures. Another contribution which the truck and bus industry makes to the economy of Texas is that it spends millions of dollars annually on new equipment, in taxes and on truck and bus registration fees.

Though Texas trucks and buses represented only 22.7 per cent of total vehicle registrations in 1972, they paid 46.4 per cent, or $92,573,830 of all registration fees in the state.

And in 1972, the industry spent $566 million for new trucks, buses and trailers; $763 million for parts and accessories; $524.4 million for fuel (tax not included) and $50.1 million for lubricating oil.

In addition, truck and bus owners purchase large numbers of replacement tires and tubes annually, as well as invest large amounts of money in terminals and related equipment.

The Texas truck and bus industry, after purchasing $566 million worth of new vehicles in 1972, had a total investment in vehicles in excess of $2,138,000,000.

In fiscal year 1972, the Texas truck and bus industry paid a total of $432,142,389 in state and Federal highway taxes. This contribution is equivalent to 45 cents out of every dollar spent for the construction and maintenance of state administered highways; or 2 1/4 out of every 5 miles of highway constructed; or 1.1 million per day in special taxes. One large Texas truck combination pays more annual state road taxes than do 36 passenger cars.

Callahan County, Star, Callahan County, Texas, May 17, 1973

Texas trucks and buses paid $242,955,389 in Texas Highway User Taxes during 1972. This accounted for 41.8 per cent of the total $581,320,384 collected in all.

Of the total highway user taxes, 72.8 per cent went to the State Highway Fund, 15.1 per cent was allocated to the Available School Fund, 6.9 per cent went to the counties, 2 per cent was designed for the Department of Public Safety and 3.2

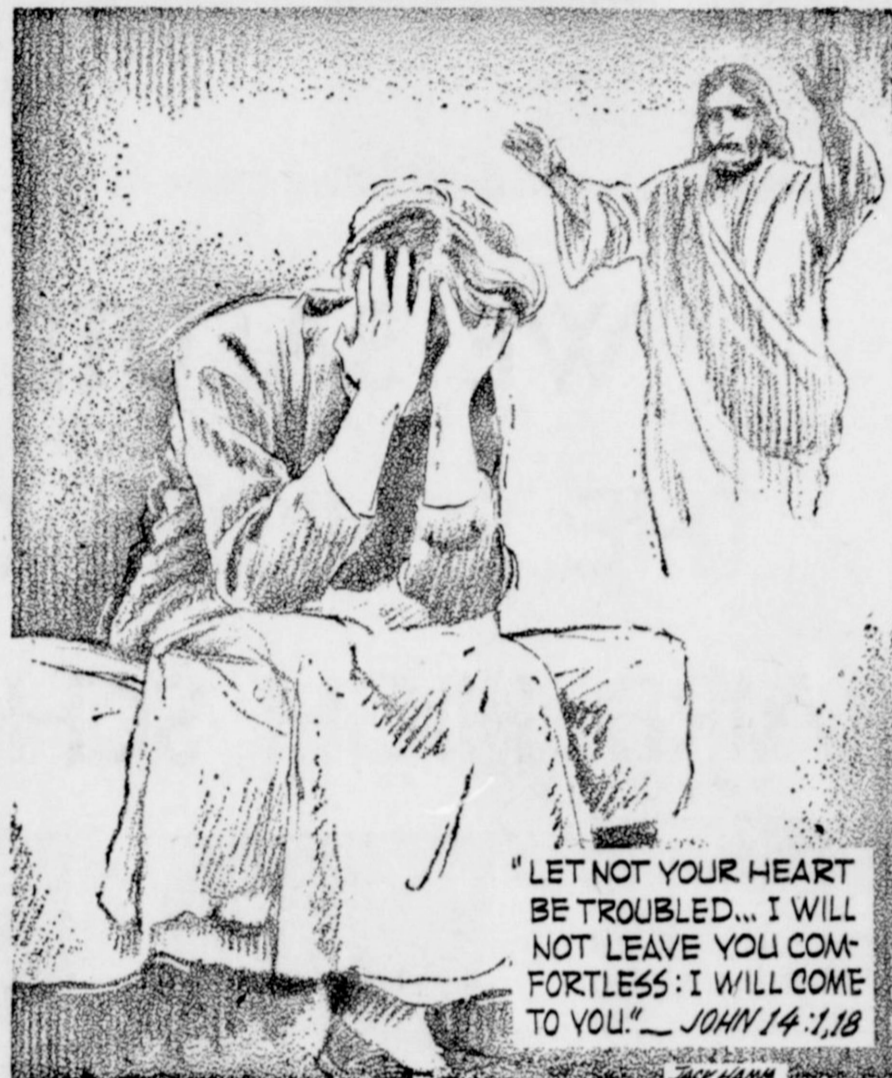

per cent was used for the cost of collection and for miscellaneous expenses.

By statute, 15 million is transferred annually from the state general funds to the Farm to Market Road Fund. More than off-setting this transfer in fiscal year 1972 was $167,120,832 collected from the 4 per cent motor vehicle sales tax. In this one special tax alone, highway users pay more taxes to the state of Texas than do all other forms of transportation combined.

And in addition to all of these taxes, the trucking industry pays the same general taxes and property taxes as all other business groups.

Senior Invitations Special This Year

CLYDE — The invitations being issued by the current senior class are very special in that they were designed by a group of students. This year's Student Council met several times to select the standardized invitation that will be used through the 1976 school year.

During the early part of the year, bids were submitted by several companies. After selecting the company to design the invitations, the students met with that company's representatives to work out the details.

The new invitations are of wood grain paper with a slim jim fold. A bulldog seal decorates the top left of the invitation with the class year written out in the bottom right corner. On the inside, a picture of the school building can be seen under the wording of the announcement.
