Welcome Extended To Guests At Plant Materials Center Dedication Today, Sept. 7

Today's the day for the dedication of the Plant Materials Center four miles northwest of Knox City on Farm-to-Market Road 1292.

Approximately 1500 people are expected to be on hand for this special day for Wichita-Brazos Soil & Water Conservation District No. 527 which includes Knox and Haskell Counties.

Tours begin at 8:30 a.m. and will continue until 10:30. These tours will be made by wagon. At 11:00 the dedication program will begin, rain or shine. Donald A. Williams, SCS Administrator of Washington, D. C., will be the key speaker, and H. N. Smith of Temple, SCS State Conservationist, will serve as master of ceremonies. From 12 noon until 1:00 p.m., Jettons of Fort Worth will be serving a barbecue lunch for $1.75 per plate. The tours will resume from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.

The Plant Materials Center was built here to serve the State of Texas. The Soil Conservation Service leased 60 acres of land from Tom R. Campbell in 1964. He is a Cooperator of the Wichita-Brazos Soil and Water Conservation District. Tom constructed a 40 x 80 foot steel building in early 1965 and the field work was started. Arnold Davis and Ulric Lea made the first plantings in early May 1965. About 20 acres were planted the first year. Additional plantings were made during 1966 and 1967. About 35 acres are planted now. In late 1966 it was decided that part of western Oklahoma could also be helped by the Center and this area was included. Howard Carleton joined the staff as Assistant Manager in 1966. Irvin Brooks, Ted Herring, Dave Woodall, Mack Standlee, Hershell Tankersley, and Mrs. Wayne Watson all work part-time during the busy season.

Over 850 different plant collections are growing at the Center. They were brought in to Knox City from widely scattered points in Texas and Oklahoma. Also, many have been brought in from foreign countries. Most of these introductions are being grown for the first time in Texas.

These 850 collections, representing over 180 different kinds of plants, are being studied in short rows called "observation area." Here detailed notes are kept on each collection. They are rated to learn about their good and weak points. Most of the new plants being studied are grasses; some legumes and forbs are being grown also.

Many plants are showing promise for use in the two-state area. In fact, about 50 of the more promising are being grown in small fields for seed production at the Center. Some of these look good at Knox City, but the true test will come when they are planted on the farms and ranches of the Soil and Water Conservation District Cooperators. Here they are planted to compare them to a common market variety of grass under field conditions. A few of these new plants will prove to be better, or fit into the conservation program in a problem area. These will be the plants that will be released to the Soil and Water Conservation District Cooperators for seed production sale in the seed market. They will be range grasses, the pasture and waterway grasses and the wildlife and recreation plants of tomorrow.

Besides the interesting variety of grasses and other plants, visitors will have a chance to see the seed cleaning and farm equipment used for grass seed production. Other displays of seed processing methods and plants will be set up to show you "how it's done".

The Wichita-Brazos Soil and Water Conservation District, Lions Club, and the Knox City Chamber of Commerce have all worked together to make the dedication a success. Everyone is invited to come out and meet your neighbors — TODAY!

First Bale Of Cotton

M. H. Mansfield brought in the first bale of cotton in Knox County Thursday, according to John Crowner, manager of the Paymaster Gin here.

Mr. Mansfield gathered the bale from 3 to 4 acres of dry-land cotton on his farm six miles northeast of here. The 2,110 pounds of seed cotton produced a 505-pound bale.

Last year's first bale came in about three weeks earlier, but planting this year was late, according to Crowner.

IN HUNTSMAN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Hass Huntsman had their sons and their families here for a visit last weekend. They were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Huntsman of Carlsbad, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Huntsman, Glenn Ray and Terrie of Artesia, N. M.

RPCG Urges Farmers To Study Cotton Program

A national production of 12.8 million bales, at the very most, could be expected under the kind of 1968 cotton program recommended in Lubbock this week at the USDA hearing. More than likely less than 12 million would actually be raised. The majority of growers speaking at the meeting advocated leaving the program as it is and simply lifting the penalties now levied on skip-row planting patterns to get increased production needed to service cotton's markets in 1968-69 season.

"But there is another side to the coin" said Charles Stenholm, executive vice president of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers. "That far too often we farmers fail to look at that side that deals with the future, not just next year."

The market off-take for 1968-69 is now expected to total about 14.2 million bales including 9.4 million bales in domestic channels and 4.8 million for export uses. Carryover stocks, now expected to be at a normal level of about 7 million bales by the start of the next marketing year, will contain no significant cushion in the more desirable qualities.

These and other factors mean next year's crop must be adequate to meet domestic and export demands in various quality ranges or cotton will lose markets to foreign growth or to synthetic fibers, according to many reliable sources. And market loss by such default may be gone forever. This is the key policy area where cotton differs in large measure from such commodities as wheat and feed grains.

"Export markets are the real key to the future of a healthy cotton industry, especially here in the Rolling Plains" said Stenholm. "70% of the cotton we grow ends up in export markets. From 1956 to 1960 U. S. exports averaged 6 million bales per year. From 1961 to 1966 U. S. exports averaged 4.3 million bales. Had we maintained our exports at the 1956-60 rate we would have never built a surplus of cotton that caused our current dilemma.

"Now", continued Stenholm, "We have the real opportunity to regain our share of the world market but we find that the tight supply of longer staples and resulting higher prices are already causing foreign producers to boost their acreage. With better yields than last year, foreign production may go up a million bales, even though wider price differentials among qualities may result in short staples comprising a greater proportion of the exports of American cotton during the next season.

"I hope that our farmers will stop for a moment and examine the past, present and future of cotton", said Stenholm, "before arriving at any conclusions regarding the 1968 program. Many of our farmers apparently have grown to like planting 65% of their allotment in cotton. They've indicated they want to continue doing this while getting full federal payments and temporary price rises that could be expected when government policies create shortages.

"But what kind of future are we building for cotton when we spend a dollar a bale for building U. S. markets, we clamor for a six million bale export of cotton so that we may regain world markets and then say we do not want to raise the cotton to sell in 1968? Our price problem is a short term problem but decisions made now can affect us greatly in the future. To achieve a sound healthy future for the cotton industry, RPCG testified in Lubbock that adequate supplies of all qualities of cotton must be maintained in 1968. However, if farmers interests are kept foremost in mind, any changes in the cotton program for 1968 must be made using restraint, good judgment and fairmindedness. With this in mind, RPCG made the following recommendations for 1968:

1. That exports during the 1967-68 year total at least 6 million bales.
2. That skip-row planting be allowed without penalty.
3. That mandatory diversion be kept at 12 1/2% of allotted acres.
4. That voluntary diversion be allowed of no less than 12 1/2% of allotted acres with full payment.
5. That government programs that give away U. S. cotton should to the greatest extent possible encourage the use of these qualities of cotton in surplus.
6. That projected yields for all States, counties and individual farmers be fairly administered in 1968.

Mumps--- Swollen Jaws? Be Careful

Mumps is a virus infection of the parotid gland, one of the salivary glands, immediately below the ear lobe and behind the angle of the jaw, says Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association.

The best sign of mumps is a tender, smooth, firm swelling that covers the corner of the jawbone where it turns upward toward the ear, the magazine reports.

Mumps in a child is usually only mildly incapacitating and moderately uncomfortable. Many cases in children are so mild as to go unnoticed by parents. A mild medication for fever and the discomfort of mild headache and muscle aches may be used as needed.

Normally the child recovers in five to seven days.

In the teen-ager or adult mumps is more serious. The virus is more likely to involve other areas such as the pancreas, and to result in nausea, abdominal pains

Variations on a Mayonnaise Theme

Start with a cup of mayonnaise and take it from there. By following the recipes in a new mayonnaise cookbook you can make any of a dozen different dressings. There's cucumber dressing. There's celery, horseradish, mustard, tomato, avocado, chive, parmesan, lemon and herbed dressings. Then there's that perennial favorite that men like -- Blue Cheese Salad Dressing, especially when served with tomato and lettuce.

If you want to be inspired, take a look at this chic and exciting new cookbook. It is being offered by the makers of Hellmann's mayonnaise and is packed with a variety of recipes, appetizing color pictures and informative bits of copy concerning things about the kitchen. A special feature are a group of recipes by the Chef's of famous restaurants.

For a copy of the book, send your name and address and 25 cents plus a label from a jar of Hellmann's mayonnaise (50 cents without a label) to Mayonnaise Cookbook, Box 166-F, Brooklyn, New York 11202.

Blue Cheese Salad Dressing

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1 cup Hellmann's real mayonnaise | 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce |
| 1/2 cup commercial sour cream | 1 tablespoon sugar |
| 1/2 cup (1 3-ounce package) crumbled blue cheese | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar | 1 clove garlic, finely chopped (optional) |

Blend mayonnaise, sour cream and blue cheese. Gradually stir in vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, sugar, salt, pepper and garlic. Chill. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

and severe food or fluid intolerances.

The tendency for mumps with its attendant pain to settle in the ovary or testicle is well known. The chance of sterility is highly and emotionally overrated, however. Physicians usually prescribe complete bed rest for adults with mumps. Greater physical activity brings greater chance of complications.

Mumps is not excessively contagious and almost direct contact with the afflicted -- such as drinking from the same cup or being sneezed at -- is required to contract the disease.

One can get mumps twice, but it is a rare occurrence. Most cases of "mumps the second time" were the result of previous misdiagnosis of swollen neck glands from an infected throat. Odds are about one in 400 of having bona fide mumps as a repeat illness. Mumps cannot be prevented at present, but recent research promises a vaccine soon.

Computer Aids Scholarship Bid For Students

A computerized service has been developed to help students locate financial aid for college.

According to the developers of the new service, North American Educational Computer Services, Inc., Princeton, N. J., the computerized scholarship search will match an individual student's qualifications to the requirements of over 700,000 items of national scholarships, grants, loans, and other financial assistance contained in the computer's memory bank. The ESCS service, which was demonstrated at the National Educational Assn. Convention recently, is expected to provide access to the $30 million dollars in available scholastic aid which was unclaimed in 1966. The ESC computer has been programmed with more than $500 million in financial aid. Interested students will be required to complete detailed questionnaires about their background and aims. The computer will analyze the questionnaire and return a letter to the student listing the names and addresses of donors offering financial aid for which he is eligible.

Birth Certificate, A Must For Obtaining A Driver's License

Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Department of Public Safety, reminded Texans today that any person, regardless of age, must have a birth certificate or other legal document showing birthdate in possession at the time they first make application for a driver license. "Apparently many applicants are unfamiliar with this new requirement in the law," Garrison advised, "and large numbers of prospective drivers are being turned away until they return home and get such a document. This part of the law applies only to those drivers who make application for their first Texas driver license, and not to those wishing to renew a license."

Garrison outlined the procedure to be followed to obtain a license in order to clear up any misconceptions brought about by changes in the driver license law.

First, the applicant must be the proper age. A person 16 years old may obtain a license provided he has completed an approved course of driver education or has a certificate showing that such a course is not taught at the school regularly attended by the applicant. Persons 18 years of age or older may qualify for an Operator's License without taking driver education. Persons 15 years of age or older may be licensed to operate a 5-brake horsepower motor scooter.

The applicant, with the necessary birth certificate, goes to any examining office of the DPS. If he wishes to take the driving portion of the examination, he must provide a vehicle in which to be tested. After January 1, 1968, applicants for the motorcycle license must provide, in addition to the motorcycle, a car and a licensed driver to convey the License Examiner during the road test.

Upon arriving at the Examining Office, the applicant will fill in necessary forms and be given a vision test and a written test. If he completes both of these satisfactorily, he will be given the road test. If he completes all phases of the examination satisfactorily, he will be issued a temporary permit which will enable him to drive until receiving his license from DPS headquarters in Austin. If the person has not had sufficient experience in operating a vehicle, he may pass the written and vision portions of the examination and be given a temporary learner's permit which will enable him to drive as long as a licensed operator over the age of 21 is in the front seat of the vehicle at the same time.

More than 100,000 men have been designated Naval Aviators at the U. S. Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., since naval aviation began in 1914.

"Before honour is humility." (Prov. 15:33)
God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble and he heareth their cry and forgetteth them not. With great humility and sweetness of Spirit is grace and power, which leads you into the riches of God, giving you peace of mind and assurance that God is real. It will help you to search out your heart and give you great understanding on how to believe God for your every need and how to have peace and power through prayer. Remember He honoreth them who humbly trust.

By—Vern Sanford
An unweighted mullet sank gently into the azure Gulf of Mexico. Raymond Muchowich was holding his light, two-handed rod intently and watching the bait vanish into the depths.
Suddenly, the monofilament snapped taut.
Almost simultaneously Muchowich yanked back on the rod. The tip heeled over and throbbed. The small star-drag reel whined in protest as a speedy king mackerel (kingfish, if you prefer) ripped off monofilament.
Muchowich yelled gleefully as the streamlined fish bored deep. It pushed somewhere out in the desolate vastness of the gulf and Muchowich gained back some line only to lose it again, as the king made another frantic run.

After several matching rushes the king settled down to a tenuous battle of give-and-take. Finally, Muchowich worked the king to a spot alongside the boat and we could see its outline in the clear water.
The boat captain stood poised with the gaff.
Suddenly the fish made one last feeble rush for freedom. Muchowich snubbed the line up tight and brought the fish twisting to the surface.
Then it was that the captain struck swiftly with the gaff and brought 15 pounds of flossing kingfish aboard.

Muchowich looked around and grinned. "What did I tell you?" he chortled. "Great sport, no?"
I didn't have time to answer because I was busy battling one of the sporty fish with my freshwater spinning outfit. On the light tackle it was cutting all sorts of capers.
Muchowich had brought me out in the gulf to demonstrate the popular new concept of king-fishing.

Most kings are caught by trolling, using derrick-like tackle that will quickly sap the strength of even the largest of them.
Muchowich, who operates a fleet of charter fishing boats out of Freeport, prefers to anchor on an offshore reef and cast for the kings with light tackle. It's immaterial to him whether he fishes with artificial bait such as a large wobbling spoon, or with natural baits like frozen mullet or live shrimp.
When using the natural baits he fishes without any weight on the line so the bait will sink slowly toward the bottom.
"The kingfish makes his best showing on that first, fast run," Muchowich explained. "When the boat is moving and you're using heavy tackle, the fish hasn't got a chance. You kill its spirit before it has an opportunity to show what it's made of."
"But on light tackle... well that's something a fisherman really must try in order to appreciate it."

And appreciating it, I was. As the javelin-shaped fish came up grudgingly from the depth, I realized that this mode of king fishing was indeed sporting.
It used to be that guides along the Texas coast tried to fix things so that their clients could catch the greatest amount of fish in the shortest time possible. But after awhile some guides got to thinking that such wholesale slaughtering of fish, most of which were left to rot on the docks, was only depleting the available supply.
Now many fishermen are changing their technique. They are going to light tackle. Most such tackle is not much larger than that used to catch bass on inland lakes and streams. True, this type of sport fishing decreases the size of the catch. But it increases the fun. And it definitely is more sporting.

Ideal rig for this type fishing is a medium to stiff fresh-water or light salt-water outfit, either conventional or spinning, equipped with about fifteen-pound test line.
A reel with built-in drag is preferred since it is almost impossible to stop the mad rush of a king by biting down on the reel arbor with your thumb without losing several inches of skin.
Kingfish are found in tremendous numbers along the Texas coast. Usually they put in an appearance in May (Memorial Day normally signals the beginning of the peak kingfish

A new type, super-efficiency seawater desalting plant, that may make possible substantial reductions in the cost of desalting seawater was dedicated recently in San Diego, Calif.
Built by Aqua-Chem, Inc., of Waukesha, Wis., the plant will produce one-million gallons per day.
According to Aqua-Chem officials, the new design technology and operating data that are provided by the plant will be utilized in the design and construction of the nuclear-powered 150 million gallon per day plant now planned by the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California on the 43 acre man-made Bolsa Island off Huntington Beach at a cost of some $485 million.
The Bolsa Island plant will more than double the total installed capacity of all desalting plants in operation throughout the world today.

Mellowed Metallics for Fall
Fall fashions are aglow with mellowed metallics, with the look of muted elegance coming into a more subtle lime-light Silver and gold mix with new colors to glitter through everything from formal evening wear to fanciful stockings.
Betsey Johnson uses a new fabric from Novelty Textiles to create a late-day-into-evening fashion. The unusual color combination of bronze and pewter are brought to a sparkling glow with silver Luxure from Dow Badische. Surprisingly, the dress is leather-light in weight.
The dress is high and round at the neckline, falling into a slight A-line at the new mid-length. The over-size triangle scarf can be worn as shown or dropped to form a wrap around the shoulders.
The shiny patent leather boots complete the costume for a total fashion look.

Tipsy Testator

"Don't drink before driving," warn the safety experts.
Don't drink before making your will, either. If you do, you are opening the possibility that, some distant day, the document may be held null and void in a courtroom.
Of course, intoxication is a matter of degree. A man who fortified himself with a couple of drinks, and then proceeded to discuss and sign his will with obvious understanding of what he was doing, was held to have made a valid will.
What concerns the law is the man who is too intoxicated to exercise judgment. For then the document he signs does not truly express his "will" at all.
The crucial time is the moment of signing. Even a chronic alcoholic may make a valid will if he executes it during a sober interval.

Tougher problems arise in the case of drugs. Not infrequently, a person makes his will while under treatment for a serious illness. Drugs he is taking, particularly the painkillers, may have side effects that lower his testamentary capacity, at least temporarily.
As a rule, mild side effects—perhaps some anxiety or euphoria—will not invalidate a will. Thus, a court upheld a will made by a heart patient a few hours after taking a small dose of a narcotic drug. The court pointed out that, while the dosage may have made him sleepy or slowed his reactions, it did not rob him of his essential awareness of the proceedings.
Can anything be done if a patient is receiving such strong sedatives, or such mind-distorting drugs, that there is real doubt of his ability to make a will?
One possibility, in such circumstances, is to ease up temporarily on the medication—provided, of course, that this is medically justifiable.
Another possibility is to prepare the will in relatively simple form. This may help to convince a court, later on, that the patient was able to comprehend what he was signing.
On the whole, the law will bend over backward to hold a will good. Better to give reasonable weight to the testator's intentions, imperfectly expressed, than to give them no weight at all.

My Neighbors
"Ah—Uncle George, remember when you bounced me on your knee—how I'd love to recapture those moments again!"

What Is a Farmer?
A farmer is a paradox—
He is an overall executive with his home his office; a scientist using fertilizer attachments; a purchasing agent in an old straw hat; a personnel director with grease under his fingernails; a dietitian with a passion for alfalfa, amino's, and antibiotics; a production expert with a surplus, and a manager battling a price-cost squeeze.
He manages more capital than most of the businessmen in town.
He likes sunshine, good food, state fairs, dinner at noon, auctions, his neighbors, his shirt collar unbuttoned, and above all, a good soaking rain in August.
He is not much for droughts, ditches, thoroughways, experts, weeds, the eight-hour day, grasshoppers or helping with housework.
Farmers are found in fields—plowing up, seeding down, rotating from planting to, fertilizing with, spraying for, and harvesting. Wives help them, little boys follow them, the agriculture department confuses them, city relatives visit them, salesmen detain them and wait for them, weather can delay them, but it takes heaven to stop them.
A farmer is both faith and fatalist—he must have faith to continually meet the challenges of his capacities amid an ever-present possibility that an act of God (a late spring, an early frost, tornado, flood, drought) can bring his business to a standstill. You can reduce his acreage but you can't restrain his ambition.
Might as well put up with him—he is your friend, your competitor, your customer, your source of food, fiber, and self-reliant young citizens to help replenish your cities. He is your countryman—a denim-dressed, business-wise, fast-growing statesman of stature. And when he comes in at noon, having spent the energy of his hopes and dreams, he can be recharged anew with the magic words: "The Market's Up."

Shown above and to the left is Mary Nelle McElroy Kainer of Cedar Falls, Iowa. She and her friend are wearing old and new sweatshirts showing the name change of their Alma Mater from State College of Iowa to the University of Northern Iowa.

Mary Nelle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. McElroy of Knox City and a KCHS graduate of 1961. She attended Texas Tech where she met her husband, Carl Kainer of Rule. He is an engineer for the John Deere plant at Cedar Falls. Mary Nelle graduated in January from the State College of Iowa, majoring in physical education.

This past summer she worked as a staff writer on the Cedar Falls Daily Record, doing many feature articles, complete with by-line. This was true-to-form for her, considering her interest in high school ready writing. She was also active in science, winning in 1958 fourth place in the biological division at the National Science Fair in Hartford, Connecticut with her exhibit on "The Effect of Fusicurium on Terracotta Clay."

It's not surprising, then, that there is a scientific slant on her new career beginning this fall - supervising the physical education programs of several schools in and around Cedar Falls. The instructors are working on a theory that the schools' slow readers are the same children who missed some basic physical exercises in their youth. If the connection is proved, steps will be taken to help the children in their physical fitness program.

Mary Nelle is just another 'ex' Knox Citians should be proud of.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Rhoads of O'Brien were recently notified that their son, LaCarlton, will return home from Vietnam around the first of November. Chaplain Donald White, Morale Officer, sent them a tongue-in-cheek letter telling them to recondition the young man to American ways. "... show no alarm if he prefers to squat rather than to sit on a chair, pads around in thongs and towel, slyly offers to sell cigarettes to the mailman, and picks suspiciously at his food as if you were trying to poison him. Be tolerant when he tries to buy everything at less than half the asking price, accuses the grocer of being a thief, and refuses to enter an establishment that doesn't have steel mesh screens over the windows and doors. Any of the following sights should be avoided since they can produce an advanced state of shock: People dancing, television, and 'round-eyed women'. In a relatively short time his profanity will decrease enough to permit him to associate with mixed groups. He may also complain of sleeping in a room and refuse to go to bed without a mosquito net and a weapon by his side.

Make no flattering remarks about exotic Southeast Asia, avoid mention of the benefits of overseas duty, seasonal weather, and above all, ask before mentioning the food delicacies of the East, such as Fried Rice. The mere mention of these subjects may trigger an awesome display of violence and uncontrollable weeping.

Keep in mind that beneath his tanned and rugged exterior there beats a heart of gold. Treasure this, for it is the only thing of value that he has left. Treat him with kindness, tolerance, and an occasional fifth of scotch, and you will be able to rehabilitate this hollow shell of the man you once knew."

News From Austin

Senator Jack Hightower from Vernon just returned from White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia where he represented the State of Texas at the 16th Annual Legislative Work Conference of the Southern Regional Education Board.

The program included a look at the function of two-year colleges, the relationship between private and state institutions and the impact of federal activity on the structure of state higher education programs.

Senator Hightower pointed out that even though Texas has pushed ahead with its development of higher education facilities in Texas, much more needs to be accomplished to place a college degree in reach of more high school graduates.

The 60th Legislature enacted laws exempting cold war veterans from paying tuition and fees to state colleges and universities and also exempted Texans under 25 from low income families making $4,800 a year or less.

Wedding Of Margie Sue Paul To Eugene Paul Loher Told

Miss Margie Sue Paul, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Paul of Knox City and the late Mr. Paul, was wed on Saturday, August 19, to Mr. Eugene Paul Loher, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Loher of Seattle, Washington. Vows were exchanged in the Dickerson Chapel of the First Methodist Church in Dallas at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Donald W. Collier, vice president, research, of the Chicago based firm.

The Borg-Warner educational system, demonstrated on the eve of the American Management Association's annual conference on education and training, embodies a combination of features believed to be unique in the field. Dr. Collier said.

He added that the machine unit can give individualized instruction on a wide variety of subjects and is capable of diagnosing each student's knowledge on a subject and prescribing appropriate instruction. Also the system is simple enough to design so young children can operate it without teacher assistance and also is suited for adult training and home use.

Ninety percent of the service stations in the U. S. are owned or operated by independent local businessmen, Petroleum Today reports.

Only about one in every 33 oil wells drilled in new areas turns out to be a commercial producer, Petroleum Today observes.

The Reverend Harold A. Raines, associate pastor, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Eugene McNellie of Arlington.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Eugene McNellie of Arlington, and two other sisters, Mrs. Vernon Crabbe of Bakersfield, California, and Mrs. Eugene Brown of Irving served as bridesmaids. Jeffery Brown, nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer. Charles McLaughlin and Bill Morell were ushers.

The bride's dress was a formal sheath gown of silk organza. It featured a sleeveless empire bodice of chantilly lace and a scalloped sabrina neckline complemented with seed pearls. Tiny buttons with an organza bow enhanced the back of the dress. The coat train of silk organza had elbow length chantilly lace sleeves was softly pleated and caught at the shoulders with bridal bows. Her silk illusion veil fell to her shoulders from a band of pearls. She carried a white orchid atop a white Bible covered with chantilly lace and pearls.

The attendants were dressed in identical sheath dresses of gold and maize. The dresses featured lace over taffeta empire bodices with skirts of chiffon over taffeta. The backs of their dresses were enhanced by floor length lace over taffeta trains caught in the center back with a bow. Their veils were fashioned with a gold satin bow and nylon tulle. They carried colonial bouquets of daisies.

The new Mrs. Loher is a graduate of Knox City High School and has attended The University of Texas at Arlington. She is a member of Dallas Big Sisters Incorporated, and is currently employed at Texas Instruments in Dallas.

The groom is a graduate of Seattle University and is presently employed at Crown Zellerbach Incorporated, Dallas.

A reception was held at the Hilton Inn immediately following the ceremony. After the reception, the couple left for Acapulco and Mexico City for a honeymoon.

The couple is now at home at 11043 Joymeadow in Dallas.

Audio Visual Breakthrough Forecast Soon

Borg-Warner Corp. announced recently it has developed a new type of audio-visual educational system that can perform teaching functions of computerized devices costing "many thousands of dollars," and could be sold to schools for under $400.

The company, which is not divulging its marketing plans at this time, considers the versatile system to be a "breakthrough in meeting a world-wide need for reasonably priced audio-visual systems designed for individual instruction," according to Dr.

TWO NEW RIDES AT SIX FLAGS

New ride called the Jet Set has just been completed at Six Flags Over Texas. The sophisticated electro-hydraulic steering system enables guests to "fly" these scaled-down models almost exactly like regular aircraft by climbing, banking right or left and diving, responding to the commands of the "pilot" working the control stick.

An additional mid-season $250,000 expansion program at Six Flags Over Texas has just been completed with the opening of two new rides.

The rides, dubbed "The Jet Set" and "Spindletop," are located in an area across the narrow-gauge railroad tracks, paralleling the modern U. S. A. section of the Park, towards Boomtown. Reinhold Spindletop, an engineer from Switzerland, supervised the installation of "The Jet Set." This ride, designed by Intamin Company of Bern, Switzerland, consists of 12 scaled-down airplane, approximately 10 feet long with a 9-foot wingspread, which operate almost exactly like regular aircraft. Visitors "fly" the craft by an electro-hydraulic system, and the planes, which are attached to steel girders, climb, bank right or left, and dive, responding to the commands of the "pilot" working the control stick.

Intamin Company spent two years on the ride in research and development, and the installation at Six Flags is the first one in the United States.

Adjacent to Boomtown is the new "Spindletop" derrick and revolving drum ride, which operates on a centrifugal force principle. Twenty-five to thirty guests at a time are stationed in a circle standing on the floor inside a huge barrel. The barrel begins to spin slowly and gains speed until about 28 revolutions per minute are attained. Centrifugal force causes the riders to adhere to the walls inside the drum. The floor is then lowered, leaving the riders suspended about 3 feet above the floor. The action is reversed as the ride comes to a close.

Together the new rides can accommodate approximately 2,000 visitors per hour.

The rides are set in about two acres of newly landscaped grounds with beautiful trees, flowers and shrubs as well as 2 lakes and 3 waterfalls.

Attendance this season continues to exceed projections. As of Sunday, August 13, a total of 1,422,295 visitors have attended the Park, a gain of about 58,000 compared to last year's attendance on the same date.

'Hap' Pendleton, Munday Business Man Dies

Services for Homer A. (Hap) Pendleton were held at 3 p.m. Thursday, August 31, 1967, in the First Methodist Church with the Rev. Walter Hadley, pastor, officiating. Assisting was Dr. Luther Kirk of Pampa.

Burial was in the Johnson Memorial Cemetery under direction of McCauley Funeral Home.

Mr. Pendleton, 79, died en route to the Knox County Hospital at 5 a.m. Wednesday, following an illness of about three weeks.

Born May 6, 1888, in Farmersville, he married Marguerite Shine October 14, 1908 and the couple moved to Munday in 1911.

He graduated from Farmersville High School, went to the Allen Academy a year and then finished college at Texas A&M. He went to work in 1908 for Carver and Dale Company, cotton merchants in Farmersville. He was transferred to Oklahoma City as a farm shipping clerk, then transferred to Greenville and to San Angelo. In 1909 he entered a wholesale feed business, handling cottonseed by-products and farm products which were grown on the farm owned by his father at Farmersville. In 1911 he was transferred to Munday as manager of the Munday Cotton Co.

When he came to Munday there were no lights, no electricity or water here and he helped secure the right of way for W. T. Swenson of Abilene to run the first light system over this part of the country. He helped organize the first Munday Chamber of Commerce, serving as its first secretary, and served as city alderman for many years.

He moved to Wichita Falls in 1925 and went into the oil business, acting as field superintendent for the drilling rigs. In 1927 the Munday Cotton Co. sold to Anderson and Clayton and he was moved back to Munday to manage four gins for them.

From 1932 to 1946 he operated the gins as the Pendleton Gin Co. He then sold his interest to Anderson and Clayton. He was made district gin manager, and he retired in 1960.

Mr. Pendleton was a cotton buyer, maintaining his office until his illness.

He served as vice president of the First National Bank in Munday for 18 years, and was a member of the Munday Methodist Church, serving as a member of the board of stewards for many years. CATTLE FEEDING AT BEEVILLE DRAWS WIDE INTEREST

Research in cattle feeding underway at the Coastal Bend Experiment Station near Beeville, may provide additional help for Texas commercial cattle feeders.

With 15 percent more cattle and calves on feed for slaughter markets in Texas on August 1, than for the comparable period a year ago, increased interest is being shown in feed lot performance.

Experiment Station Superintendent Ed Neal and his staff explained some high-lights of a 120 day roughage-concentrate drylot feeding test involving 150 crossbred steers, during a recent beef cattle open house at the station. The researchers reviewed results of the first 84 days of the tests.

Groups of 10 steers each are being fed five levels of ground Coastal Bermuda hay and cottonseed hulls at the rates of 10, 20, 30, 50 and 70 percent of the total ration.

Highest average daily gains for the 84 days were recorded by steers receiving 50 percent ground coastal ration with 4.08 pounds each. Next highest gainers were steers getting 30 percent coastal hay with an average daily gain of 3.94 pounds. They were followed by steers being fed a 50 percent ration of cottonseed hulls, which gained 3.89 pounds each.

"All of the rations were formulated to contain 12 percent crude protein, 1 percent bone meal, .5 percent Ammonium Chloride and 4.4 mg. of antibiotic and 1,000 international units of Vitamin A per pound of mixed feed," explained B. E. Conrad, Assistant Agronomist and Animal Husbandman at the station.

Six Flags Open Only On Weekends

After Monday, September 4, the last day of the Labor Day Weekend, Six Flags Over Texas will be open on weekends only, beginning with Saturday, September 9.

Operating hours on both Saturday and Sundays will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. This schedule will remain in effect until Six Flags closes for the season on November 26.

Previously the closing date had been announced as October 29. Mr. Angus C. Wynne, Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation, owner-operator of the popular tourist attraction, said that "in order that Six Flags may comfortably handle the unprecedented large number of advance group ticket holders as well as individuals expressing their desire for Six Flags to stay open through November as it has in previous years, we are extending the season one month."

One of the highlights of the season at Six Flags Over Texas occurred recently on August 21 when the total number of visitors to the historical-theme park since opening in 1961 passed the 10,000,000 mark.

Executive Director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency, Frank Hildebrand, commented on the attendance milestone by saying, "According to surveys, Six Flags is maintaining its position as the most popular single tourist attraction in the State of Texas."
