According to the Carolyn Schur, assistant county extension agent, the fashion show and awards presentation will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church, Fourth and Avenue D in Knox City. The public is invited and encouraged to attend. Theme of this year's Revue is "Wheels of Fashion". Commentators include Sue Stephens of O'Brien and Shirley Hudgens of Rochester.

Entries include Junior I - age 9-10 years; Junior II - 11-13 years; and Senior - age 14-19 years. Age is determined from January 1, 1977. Special awards have been made and sponsored by the Knox County Council and Home Demonstration Clubs. Winners of the Junior and Senior division will be eligible to compete at the District Dress Revue July 8 in Abilene.

The Dress Revue is a national 4-H awards program conducted in Texas by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for youth ages 9-19. Objectives of the program include:

1. Build self-confidence through developing:
 - an understanding of one's self in order to select and make clothing and to express the personality, skills in planning, selecting, and constructing clothing.
 - an ability to select and use suitable and becoming accessories for a total look.
 - an awareness and interpretation of current fashion for the individual.
2. Make and model a garment that is an asset to the wardrobe.
3. Develop poise, good posture and habits of good grooming.

Homstad Receives Certificate

Dean W. Homstad, city employee, has received his Grade D water certificate after passing the examination in Abilene last month. He had previously received his Grade D water certificate.

Under Texas law, all water plants must be under the supervision of a competent waterworks operator holding a valid certificate of competency issued under the direction of the Texas State Department of Health.

Texas Sanitation and Health Protection Law provides that the management of every public sewerage treatment plant shall employ a sewerage plant operator holding a valid certificate of competency issued under the direction of the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Homstad, who was first employed by the city in July 1975, was re-hired November 22, 1976. He is a member of Lone Star Water Utilities Association. Water employees from some eighteen towns are members of this association.

Homstad moved to Knox City from Hallock, Minnesota, in 1974 and is married to the former Debbie Curd.

Cattle Producers 'Hotline' Available

The Texas Beef Development Taskforce (BDT) has established a toll-free "Hotline" to answer questions from cattle producers about the Beef Referendum.

Registration for the long-awaited Referendum is taking place June 6-17 at nearly 2,000 county ASCS offices across the nation. Cattle producers who wish to vote must register before the June 17 deadline. Actual voting will take place back at the ASCS offices between July 5-15.

"Beef producers who have a question about the program can call 1-800-682-4106 weekdays between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m.," says Texas BDT Chairman J.D. Sartwell of Sealy.

The Referendum, if approved by two-thirds of the cattle producers voting, would authorize the first nationwide self-help program for the beef industry. Using the value-added system, each cattle producer would contribute 3/10 of 1% (.30 per $100) of the value of each animal sold. This rate would raise $30 million to $40 million per year for beef research, education and promotion, says Sartwell.

Hometown Boy Goes To Hollywood

'What worried me most was my lack of experience and background.'

By Billye Angle

Many of us as teenagers have dreams and fantasies of what we would like to be when we 'grow up', but few actually follow through.

However, this is not true for former resident and 1966 KCHS graduate Larry White.

It did take a few years, Larry explained in a recent interview, but finally after much persistence, he is 'breaking through' to the television and movie world as an actor, the dream he had as a young boy, now being realized.

After working for Southwestern Bell as a cable splicer and repairman for seven years, Larry knew that his desires still were to make good in Hollywood. He occasionally would mention the idea to a close friend and usually he'd get the "You know you don't have the nerve" comeback.

Larry tried his hand in the used car business and oil field work, saving every penny he could before he finally decided to go to California and see if he could make it on his own.

It was in October 1975 that Larry drove to Oxnard, California, a town about 70 miles from Los Angeles. However, he explained by the time he drove through the traffic to Los Angeles, waited his turn in a casting agency and drove to a location, the time would get completely away. He decided to take a job in a health spa in Ventura, realizing that he could get in shape himself as well as earn money. It was he could get in shape himself as well as earn money. It was here that he met a young doctor from Kentucky who had just moved to California. In conversation, the doctor learned of Larry's hopes and told Larry that so many persons had helped him attain his career that he would like to help someone in return. He later invited Larry to move into his home for three months and occupy his son's room. He explained, "If you're going to get anywhere with this idea, you'll know by the time my son returns home." Larry hesitated to accept his offer at first, but decided that it would be an excellent opportunity for him to be in Los Angeles and have plenty of time to pursue his dream.

Not only did the good doctor provide a temporary 'roof' over his head, he introduced Larry to a very influential person in the media of educational programs, who gave Larry leads on four persons, one of whom was a public relations man for the Association of Motion Pictures and Television Producers. It was his secretary who took the time to suggest how Larry should go about answering casting calls. One of these led to Larry's first break. He was asked to appear in a free benefit "New Faces of '76" at the Universal Sheraton Hotel. One week later, he was among those chosen as a waiver for the Universal movie "Two Minute Warning" with David Janssen, Walter Pidgeon, and Beau Bridges.

Later, only moments before he was preparing to shave off his beard, a friend called that one agency was looking for bearded men to appear in the Steve McQueen movie "An Enemy of the People", to be released soon. Larry was chosen to appear with a group of Norwegian townsmen gathered around a boat workshop.

Following his work in this movie, the biggest break thus far in his career came last November when he 'got his foot in the door' and was accepted as a member of the Screen Extras Guild. Larry explained that the investment in this membership card had repaid him time and time again. One of his friends has been there six years and hadn't been able to get his membership until two months ago.

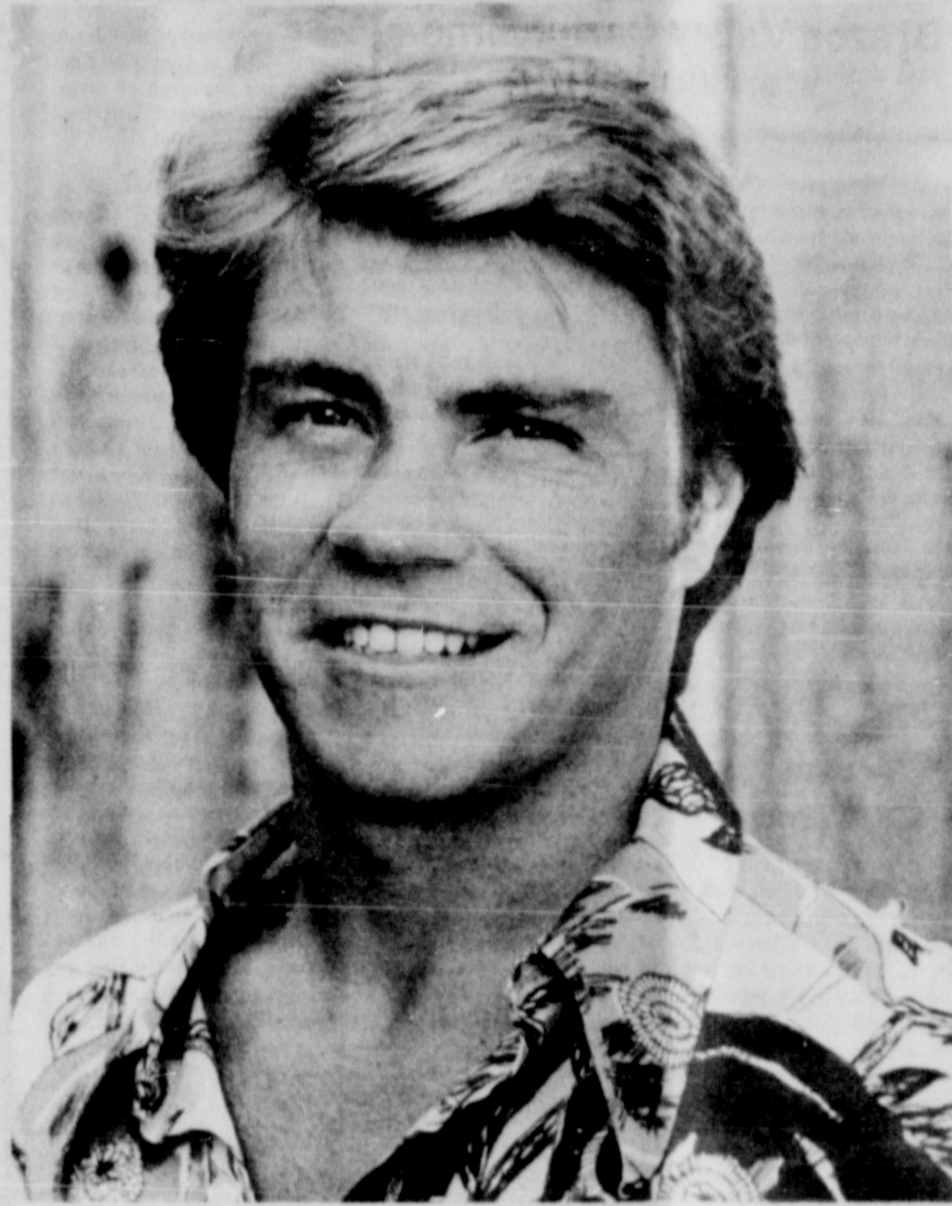

Things began to roll after this for Larry. Since then he has appeared in such TV favorites as Serpico, The Hunter, Rhineman Exchange, Rockford Files, Charlie's Angels, and Six Million Dollar Man.

His first silent bit came in December, 1976, in a Starsky and Hutch program, in which he was cast as a policeman in an assassination plot of an underworld figure.

Other silent bits have come his way in the TV programs Emergency, Delvecchio, Baa Baa Black Sheep, Tales of the Unknown, The Waltons, Family, West City Medical, The coaster, Looking For Mr. Goodbar, Sextette with Mae West, along with pilots for movies, Busters, Telefon, Logan's Run, Man With Power, Bad News Bears No. 2, a pilot for a series named Sam, Alexandria, The Other Side of Dawn, First Love with Susan Dey, Washington, D.C., Testimony of Two Men (a two-part special), and Delta County. Last, but far from least, he spent seven days on the Queen Mary in the series, Nancy Drew.

Other interesting parts have come Larry's way in the Larry, whose mother is Anita White, has been visiting here during a slight summer lull in the movies and TV programs.

He met his fiancée, Sue Eads of Oxnard, California, Tuesday night of this week at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport. Sue, who will graduate from Ventura College Nursing Program June 16, will be returning to California with Larry this weekend.

In addition to all of the parts in television and movies, Larry has enjoyed, profitably we might add, doing TV commercials for Schlitz Lite Beer, Sears Insurance, Fish 'n Chips (a local Califor-

Seymour Observing Nat'l. Soaring Week

SEYMOUR -- The sport of soaring is becoming increasingly popular in the local area according to Daniel B. Jackson, M.D. President of the Seymour Soaring Association, Seymour Municipal Airport, a center for glider flight instruction and soaring activities.

Seymour Municipal Airport is participating this week in National Soaring Week, aimed at increasing the exposure of the sport to a broader segment of the public. "Almost anyone is eligible to fly a glider," says Jackson, "not just young people. There are many pilots still active in their 70's. And not just men - there are many licensed pilots who are housewives and grandmothers." No medical examination is required to solo; the student pilot need only certify that he has no physical disability which would make him unsafe in the air.

After soloing, which requires an average of 10 hours of flight instruction in the air for the novice, many students go on to obtain a private glider rating enabling them to take others up with them. (Power pilots generally can solo in a sailplane in a few flights; a minimum of 10 solo flights are required for an add-on private glider rating.) Some students go on to learn cross-country flying and compete in regional and national contests. Others aspire to make record-breaking distance or altitude flights. The current world distance record is over 1000 miles in a single flight and the altitude record is over 46,000 feet above sea level.

The events of National Soaring Week, in which Seymour Municipal Airport is participating along with most of the 220 other gliderports in the U.S., are sponsored by the Soaring Society of America. The Society numbers about 15,000 members and is the publisher of SOARING, the glider pilots' monthly magazine. They also publish a wide variety of soaring literature, sponsor contests, and set guidelines for flight and safety standards. Additional information can be obtained direct from the Soaring Society of America, 3200 Airport Avenue, Santa Monica, California 90405.

Fashion FORECASTS WHAT TO EXPECT

Many of the bright and fashionable people are getting into the swim with a sparkle.

Fashion's shining star in swimwear this season is the strapless maillot along with the sparkling sheen of a new fabric blend of "Antron" nylon and "Lycra" spandex. Innovative, award winning designer, Monika Tilley in her current collection for Elon, introduced the new fabric which she developed with Darlington Mills. This lustrous glittery look is the coming direction in swimwear fabrics.

Growing in popularity, un-structured suits such as this frostily flowered confection with the flattering tie-front achieve their body-hugging comfort and fit from the stretch of "Lycra."

Many women are finding that wearing one of these smart and shiny suits can help spark off some glittering compliments.

Antilley Completes Special Soil Training

SEYMOUR -- Tommy Antilley, County Extension Agent in Knox County, has completed special training in soil testing procedures at the Rolling Plains Soil Test Laboratory, according to Ed Garnett, District Extension Agent.

The soil test laboratory, located in the Baylor County Extension Building, has served successfully the Rolling Plains for a number of years, Garnett pointed out.

Carla Day Honored Girl

Carla Day of Arlington, granddaughter of former Knox City residents Mr. and Mrs. B.F. Cornett of Big Bow, Kansas, has been named as the highest honored girl student in her class of over five hundred students at Arlington High School where she graduated June 1.

Miss Day, the daughter of Charlotte Cornett Trexler of Grand Prairie, was also selected as Who's Who in HECE by the journalism department at the annual honors assembly recently.

Demonstration studies, some over the past 14 years, dramatically emphasize that using fertilizers based on soil test results has produced the highest net profit per acre on small grains year after year, Garnett said.

Lowell Cure, Baylor County Extension Agent, is in charge of the soils laboratory and translates the test results into fertility recommendations.

Joyce Green serves as soil laboratory technician.

A nominal fee for a soil test from the laboratory is required and results and recommendations are returned in less than two weeks, Cure said.

Soil test containers, and mailing instructions may be picked up at any local county agricultural Extension agent's office.

HOW TO MAKE HOME IMPROVEMENTS 'JUST THAT'

To make home improvements be "just that," consumers should follow some simple precautions.

--Before calling a contractor know what you need done.

This will help identify the work, you believe most important and it will help make sure you don't get talked into additional jobs.

--Get at least three estimates on any job.

Be sure the estimates are comparable, that each contains what will be done, and that each says exactly how much the entire job will cost.

--Before deciding on a contractor, check out the firm's reputation.

Check that the company has a permanent place of business in the community - an itinerant contractor will not be around later to handle complaints.

Request references from the company and check them out. Ask other customers if they were satisfied with that company's work.

--After deciding on a contractor, carefully read the contract that is drawn up.

Don't sign a contract with any blank spaces and do not sign a contract before reading it.

Be sure the contract spells out what is to be done, the starting and completion dates, types of materials, the total cost, and has a provision outlining who is responsible in case of an accident by an employee or damage to your property.

--Never hand over payment for the entire job in advance.

Pay at the end of the job - or make only a small down payment in advance, if necessary. Another alternative is paying in portions as the job is completed.

En route home they enjoyed touring Carlsbad Caverns again and also had an unusual experience when they were stopped near White Sands Missile Range and told that a missile would be launched "shortly." They observed the launching along with a number of other tourists on the highway, Mrs. Denton said.

Dear Billye Bess:

I didn't write the Senior trip story. The Seniors took turns writing it and contributing to it on the bus ride home - before they all scattered. Frankie Baker and I added to it and edited a little.

One nice thing we forgot to mention was the women of the Foursquare Church sent along a care package of Cokes, doughnuts and candy that got us through the trip going. (The O'Brien Baptist ladies had the lovely reception following graduation - these and all the church sponsored activities already mentioned in the paper were appreciated by all the seniors.)

Thank you for all the help you and the News staff have given this year with Senior news, activities, projects, ads, programs, etc., etc., etc.

O'Brien Happenings

By CHARLENE BROTHERS

Well, it finally happened, someone was fired from his job because he was working too much! This was in the Abilene paper Sunday, it happened in another state, but can you imagine someone being fired because he was doing too much? There is just one about this, around the O'Brien area we have several that will never be fired because they are working too much or too hard, most of them see how little they can do and get by with. I cannot figure out what is going to happen to our world if people do not change. Some think the world owes them a living, but if you will study your Bible you can very well see that the Lord expects us all to do our part.

As you will see in another part of the paper the City of O'Brien is finally going to try to do something about the stray dogs. We have had some trouble with them for some time and maybe we can help the situation some. You will notice you have until July 1 to get your pet shot and collared, with the tags, or they will be picked up and kept for ten (10) days and then if they are not claimed they will be shot. So if everyone will cooperate we can make it safer for our people to walk around town or ride their bicycles.

Applying Spray Paint To Wicker Furniture

Editor's Note: This is the final article in a four-part series on restoring wicker furniture.

Applying spray paint to a wicker surface will likely require some practice.

Get the 'feel' by practicing a few strokes on cardboard boxes or newspapers before applying the finish to the wicker.

Aerosol-spray Painting

Distance from the spray nozzle to the work surface should be about 12 to 15 inches. If the nozzle is held closer to the surface, too much paint will be applied, causing runs and sags.

Holding the nozzle farther away will result in particles of paint drying out before they reach the surface. The resulting finish will be gritty and rough.

Always move the can in a straight uniform manner at right angle and parallel to the surface, the resulting finish will be poorly distributed.

Too heavy a coat will be applied in the center and a very thin coat at the ends of the stroke. Be sure that each stroke overlaps the preceding stroke by one-half. This will assure a streak-free finish.

Keep a small clean paint brush nearby to dab up any blobs of paint that collect in the wicker crevices. These practices apply also to application with a spray gun.

When using aerosol paint finishes, be sure to read the manufacturer's instructions before applying the finish.

A professional looking paint finish on large wicker pieces can best - and most economically - be obtained by using a spray gun.

It is vital that the finishing material - whether polyurethane, latex or oil base enamel - be thinned to spraying consistency with the proper thinning medium.

Consult the direction on the paint can. Some enamels require dilution with naphtha rather than turpentine. Polyurethane can usually be thinned with mineral spirits.

Spray guns may be rented from paint stores or rental outlets. Some vacuum cleaners are equipped with special attachments that may also be used.

As with aerosol sprays, experiment to be sure you have a smooth, even spray, and practice the kind of last week. We had an enrollment of 36, which was small, this included three year olds through the sixth grade. The superintendent for the school was Kathy Cameron; three, four, and five year olds, Charlene Brothers; kindergarten - third grade, Susan Emerson and Brenda Correll and fourth - sixth grade Kathy Cameron and Angelia Reid. Friday night was the commencement and as usual the smaller ones captured the show. I had seven to enroll in the three, four, and five year olds and without a helper I could not have managed any more. This age group is something else to work with, but you really have to be on your toes or they will show you up. I enjoyed having them and hope they learned a little something.

Applying Spray Paint To Wicker Furniture

strokes and the distance away from the work necessary to get the paint well inside the weaving of the wicker rather than just covering the surface.

If the paint is too thick, it will clog the spray gun and build up between the reed.

If it is mixed too thin, it will require several coats to cover. Usually if thinned to the consistency of coffee cream, good coverage can be obtained. One coat may be adequate where new paint is the same color as that already on the piece.

Olney Man Addresses Texas S & L League

EL PASO -- Savings and loan associations must use the weight they possess as an industry to avoid being constantly on the defensive on legislative and regulatory matters, an S & L executive said here today.

D.D. McClatchy, president of the National Savings and Loan League, addressing the annual meeting of the Texas Savings and Loan League, said to do this, the industry must "pull together" on financial institution reform and other key legislation affecting its operation. McClatchy is also president of Olney Savings Association, Olney, Texas. The National League is a trade association for savings and loans.

So far this year, the industry has come up with a series of "False starts," McClatchy said. He pointed to the Administration's foot dragging on the appointment of a chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the industry's primary regulator, as a major stumbling block.

"For the past two years, this industry has had to operate at the national level without a full complement at the Federal Home Loan Bank Board," said McClatchy. At the same time other competitive industries have been "able to make deeper inroads to legislation through aggressive regulatory actions while our industry has had to be content with treading water," he added.

McClatchy said the industry for too long has been able only to agree on the need to keep intact Regulation Q and the one quarter percent differential paid to savers who place their funds with S & L's, which do the bulk of home mortgage lending throughout the nation.

The Congress has been able to hold the industry hostage to that one factor, McClatchy said, and would continue to do so unless the industry gets together on other important legislation.

McClatchy urged the industry to press Congressional support of upcoming legislation to give thrift institutions relief from their current mortgage lending restrictions. He also requested the industry's support of a bill to remove S & Ls from regulatory jurisdiction of the Federal Trade Commission, and to give clear regulatory jurisdiction of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

McClatchy pointed out another issue which, he said, has put the savings and loan industry on the defensive. The Federal Reserve Board's recent action to eliminate the differential on retirement fund accounts is "damaging to families seeking home financing" because it reduces the amount of funds available to homebuyers, he said.

The industry must not let this inequitable situation occur, McClatchy said. "We need to talk to, educate and convince some of our Congressmen and Senators once again about how this industry of ours performs every day for the people of the nation," he said.

Improve Tractor Efficiency To Conserve Diesel Fuel

Increasing fuel prices call for a closer look at better tractor efficiency. For example, one gallon of diesel fuel can provide up to 13 drawbar horsepower for an hour, but few tractors obtain this amount.

One big step to improve tractor performance is to properly match tractors to implement loads during tillage. Many large tractors have more power than required for most operations, so excess diesel fuel is burned for the extra unneeded power.

If a 150 horsepower (hp) tractor is doing only a 100 hp job throttle it back. Operating in a higher gear at reduced engine speed can save 12 to 34 percent on fuel consumption. For a 150 hp tractor this could be two gallons per hour.

Slippage during tillage is also a fuel waster. Soft soils and inadequate tractor weight can easily cause 20 per cent wheel slippage. Maximum slip for good power use is 15 percent. Two-thirds to one gallon of diesel may be lost by excessive slippage. A 10 per cent increase in slip also results in a 40 per cent increase in tire wear.

For top power and fuel economy, keep the diesel engine in A-1 shape. Dirty air cleaners and injectors are power wasters as well as fuel wasters. Diesels don't need service as frequently as gasoline engines, but don't neglect them. Failure to service the pump, fuel filters, injectors and air filters can cost one gallon of five per hour on a 150 hp tractor before the problem becomes obvious.

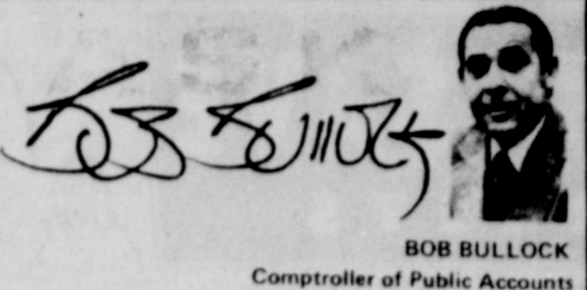

Proper tractor operations also boosts fuel economy. A 150 hp tractor idling for an hour wastes one-half gallon of diesel fuel. When the stops for lubrication, refilling sprayer tanks, measuring land or lunch breaks are added up, these can total an hour per day.

With a 150 hp tractor, improper operation, maintenance and management add up to sizable fuel costs. It's possible to use as much excess fuel as 2.5 gallons per hour. In a 12-hour day, this is 30 gallons of diesel of $15 (at 50 cents per gallon).

Fuel cost is less than half the cost of inefficiency. Either 25 percent more area could have been tilled or equipment operating time decreased. In many instances it will cost more than $10 per hour to operate a 150 hp tractor. So the total cost of inefficiency is much greater than the fuel burned. Inefficiencies may total $30 a day even though fuel costs are $15 per day.

Efficient operators can get up to one more day of tractor operation per week than inefficient operators on the same fuel. So, take a close look at how you're operating your tractor. You might be able to cut fuel costs even with the rising prices.

BOB BULLOCK
Comptroller of Public Accounts

DEAR MR. BULLOCK: Do out-of-state residents who purchase goods in Texas have to pay the state and local sales tax?

In general terms, if the out-of-state buyer actually takes possession of the merchandise in Texas, the purchase is subject to the state and local sales tax. If the merchandise is shipped out of state to the purchaser, no tax is due.

DEAR SIR: I have just opened a small farm supply store in West Texas. Do I have to have a farmer fill out an exemption certificate each time he buys tax-exempt supplies from us? No. One blanket exemption is acceptable from each purchaser.

MR. BULLOCK: How long must I keep the sales and purchase records for my business? These records should be kept for a minimum of four years.

DEAR SIR: Are tillers and other tools for use in home gardens subject to the state and local sales tax? Yes. A home garden is not a farm, and therefore the tiller and tools you purchased are taxable.

MR. BULLOCK: In going over some of my old state tax returns, I found that I overpaid my sales taxes in 1975. Can I still get a refund? Yes, you may apply for a refund. The statute of limitations for such refunds is four years. If you need assistance in filing for your refund, contact the Comptroller's Field Office nearest you, or call our toll-free tax information number, 1-800-252-5555.

DEAR SIR: Are caskets subject to the sales tax? Yes - if the mortuary bills you separately for the casket. But if the mortician renders a lump sum charge for the funeral, he would pay the sales tax on the casket and other items. Those taxes, of course, probably would be included in the final bill you receive.

RECENT VISITORS: Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Wall recently were their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Wall Jr. of Albuquerque, New Mexico and their daughter, Rowena Lane of San Antonio.

Retirement Party Honors Mrs. Smith

Former resident Elsie Graham Smith, who retired after more than twenty years of teaching in public schools, was honored with a retirement party Sunday afternoon, May 30, at the Dimmitt Country Club.

Mrs. Smith taught for 13 years in the Dimmitt schools with a three-year break. She taught in the fifth and the sixth grades.

"I first started teaching in Knox City with first graders," Mrs. Smith said. "I made $80 a month back then."

Elsie was born in Granbury, grew up in Knox City and graduated from high school here. She attended Texas Women's University for two years and received a teaching certificate.

During her four years of teaching at Knox City, she met Bedford Smith, a Christian Church minister, at a revival. After their marriage, Elsie took a year's instruction in Bible teaching at Phillips University in preparation for her life as a minister's wife.

Mrs. Smith taught language arts in seventh and eighth grades for three years in Bridge City, later gaining her bachelor's degree in elementary education through summer courses at West Texas State University and Lamar University during her years at Dimmitt.

Mrs. Smith remarked that she had seen lots of changes come and go during her years of teaching. She said that Dimmitt had changed a lot, too, since she had been there. "The school has vastly improved in every way - numbers, methods, materials and facilities," she explained.

Some of the changes Mrs. Smith spoke about included society's changing attitudes about moral conditions and discipline.

"I'm certainly for going back to basics," Mrs. Smith commented, "and there does seem to be a trend in that direction - back to old math, for example. I think we also need to put more emphasis on teaching good citizenship."

Mrs. Smith was recently recognized as the Conservation Teacher of the Year by the Running Water Soil and Water Conservation District at Dimmitt in connection with a greenhouse project Mrs. Smith's sixth grade class undertook.

She is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, an international teachers' sorority, and serves as pianist and organist for the First Christian Church of Dimmitt, where her husband served as minister until his retirement.

Concerning her retirement activities, Elsie said she is looking forward to relaxing and taking it easy for awhile and having time to work in the yard and garden and with her flowers.

Elsie and Bedford have two children. Their son, B. David, is a professor of literature at Kearney State University in Nebraska. Their daughter, Mrs. Samuel (Kay) Koble, teaches piano in Cushing, Oklahoma.

Elsie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L.W. Graham were present for her retirement party, as were her daughter, Mrs. Koble and grandson, Richard. (Editor's note: We are indebted to The Castro County News, Dimmitt, for the above article.)
