Legs Broken In Accident

Earl Garrett of Abilene, barber supply man who makes this city each week, is in Stamford hospital with both legs broken the result of a car accident.

Mr. Garrett came to Knox City on Thursday of last week. He called on the various barbers in the city and failed to have sufficient supplies. He started back to Abilene for more supplies and about seven miles this side of Stamford he ran into a wagon. He was uninjured as he got out of his car to stop another rapidly approaching car from the rear. Believing Garrett to be a hijacker, the man in the approaching machine failed to slow and ran over Garrett, breaking both legs. Even then the man failed to stop but kept going. The next car passing stopped and picked Garrett up. He was carried to the hospital.

Mr. Garrett is well known by the Knox City barbers. He is a distant relative of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Gumb, who recently moved here. The latter couple visited Garrett in Stamford Sunday.

KNOX CITY AND RULE PLAY SCORELESS TIE

Woodson to Play Here Friday

The Knox City Greyhounds and the Rule Bobcats battled to a scoreless tie last Friday afternoon at Rule. The Bobcats had the upper hand almost all the way threatening to score several times while the Greyhounds could not get their running attack to going and therefore never seriously threatened the Rule goal line.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith are thrilled over the arrival of a bouncing baby boy at their home on the 6th. There isn't a doubt but that is the only boy. Of course we know that Daisy Dean has a right to believe this but we can't see how John gets that way.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve all day Saturday in the Red Cross building. They will have sandwiches, cake, pies, hot chocolate, chickens and coffee. These may be bought in any quantity, either a slice of cake or a whole cake. The ladies will appreciate your patronage.

All patrons of the school will no doubt be on hand for the "School Night in Town".

It was made in a new Ford V-8.

Garland drew the picture himself and made the presentation, stating that he hoped this picture of our present great leader would be an inspiration to boys and girls to make finer and better accomplishments.

The school, through the Superintendent, responded with much appreciation for the picture.

City Gin Reports

At one o'clock Thursday, October 12 the Knox City and the O'Brien gins had a total of 8,807 bales. Cotton prices ranging from 9.35 to 9.60

According to cotton authorities of the city our territory will bring from 13,000 to 15,000 bales this year. According to this report the present crop is around 75 per cent out or will be by Saturday night.

This week is the 5th week of big harvest busines for Knox City. The peak of the Fall returns has past and the progression of the transient population is seen drifting further west, to the plains where the cotton is later opening. It is estimated that 25 per cent of the transients have moved on already with the others leaving probably more rapidly than has this first per cent.

Knox City has had many weeks of constant sunshine and work. So much so that the streets are cut to pieces with use. Last Saturday the city fire boys pleased the town by thoroughly sprinkling main street early in the morning. This helped keep the dust down most of the day. This plan will be followed again this coming Saturday.

Who Pays Taxes?

The Chamber of Commerce met in regular session Tuesday evening at the Sanitary Cafe. The purpose of the meeting was for an investigation report on the delinquent taxes of city, school and county. Facts concerning the unpaid taxes were stated, following a thorough investigation.

The unpaid taxes are those of the small tax payer, records showing that the larger per cent of the big tax payers having paid their taxes. This is getting to be a deplorable situation. The small per cent of citizens is carrying the burden of the whole. It is absolutely urgent that every person pay his taxes that the burden may be divided.

35 to 40 per cent of the school, city and county taxes are delinquent. There are more unpaid taxes in the city and school than the county proportionately.

Everyone is willing to share in the benefits given from taxes received; therefore, all should be willing to pay his taxes. A committee composed of O. B. King and O. L. Jamison has been appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to launch a campaign for informing the people concerning the paid and unpaid taxes. You are privileged to ask either of these two men any question concerning same. Information concerning this subject will be given tonight through the loud speaker at the Red Cross Room.

CHAPEL AT SCHOOL

The Knox City high school is having a chapel program each Friday morning over a period of 45 minutes. Each class of high school is sponsoring a program. The program of the past Friday was given by the senior class. It was composed of a reading by Miss Faye McAuley and a talk by Brother Sharp. Then a pep rally.

The fact that there is no piano in the high school building makes it difficult to arrange Chapel programs. For some unknown reason the Junior class, which was to give the program for chapel this Friday, swapped with the Sophomore class. Evidently the sophs expect to "do their stuff" Friday from 10:00 to 10:45. Patrons are invited if they care to attend.

F. F. F. CLUB ORGANIZED

The F. F. F. club was organized Wednesday night in the home of Miss Claydene Hoge when the Knox City school teachers met there. Mrs. O. L. Jamison was selected sponsor of the club which is to meet once each month. The husbands and wives of teachers are to be accepted guests of this club.

Following the social hour Wednesday evening Miss Hoge served cakes and grape juice.

Today and Tomorrow

By Frank Parker Stockbridge
LIFE—in its living

A good man died last Sunday. The world had never heard of him. The newspapers never printed his picture. He lived simply, in a small town, thriftily, on a small income. But thousands of officers of the United States Army knew him as a friend and wise counselor when they were young cadets at West Point, where he was one of the minor members of the academic staff.

He was content to work hard, to serve his church and his community, to live without vices or bad habits, and get his satisfaction in life through leading a helping hand to others. I cannot escape the feeling that his sixty years on earth left humanity somewhat better than it was. I shall never lose the scar his passing has left, but I shall always be proud to

BOOM—due in building

The next big boom will be a building boom. I think it has already begun, in spots, and if I am any good at reading the signs of the times, we will be putting up new houses and rebuilding old ones all over the United States by next Spring.

Driving around the country roads near my farm, in one day recently I counted seven new houses and five barns that were under construction, all of them in one township of less than 2,000 inhabitants. And I noticed the same day a report in a New York newspaper that building materials were leading all other commodities in increased sales.

We have to rebuild the white country every forty years. We are away behind our normal building program. When we start in earnest to take up the slack, that industry alone, with all the other industries that contribute to it, will assure prosperity for several years.

FIRE—in hard times

I had to renew the three-year fire insurance policy on my house and barns the other day. My policies are in a mutual company operating mostly in one country. I found that the usual dividend returnable to policy holders had been cut to a quarter of what it used to be.

"Hard times," the insurance agent explained, "Always more fire losses in hard times."

I began to wonder whether the worst effect of hard times is not the loss of moral fibre, more than the loss of money. I don't know that any of the fires in our town the past two years was anything but an accident, but I feel pretty sure that some people whom everybody, including themselves, have always believed to be honest, have found it beyond them to resist temptation under stress.

ARTIST—neighbor Dan

People drive from miles around to see the gardens of my neighbor, Daniele Roviaro. Daniele learned gardening in his native Italy. He was chief gardener of a large estate for many years. Now, in his old age, he has made the acre of land lying around his little cottage into one of the most beautiful and productive flower and vegetable gardens I have ever seen. He has laid out his hillside plot into interesting designs and has built odd-shaped islands in the clear brook at the bottom of the hill, producing an effect as attractive as the terraced mountain-side farms of his native land.

In the winter Daniele devotes himself to wood-carving. A sculptured Madonna carved from a block of salar maple won a place in the country Art Exhibition last summer. He carves native woods into interesting canes and other shapes, and prizes a letter from President Roosevelt, thanking him for a cane he sent him.

I think Daniele Roviaro is the only perfect example I have known of a contented fan.

SCOTT—and his hands

When I was a boy the United States Army was pretty busy fighting Indians. I remember when the Custer Massacre was news, and Sitting Bull and other famous chiefs, including Geronimo, the Apaches, were giving Uncle Sam plenty trouble.

What reminded me of that was seeing a piece in the paper about General Hugh Scott. He was a young lieutenant when he was out West with the Indian fighters, but unlike some Army men, he tried to understand the Indians and get their point of view. So, among other things, he learned the sign language which was common to all the Indians of the Great Plains. The Apaches named Scott "Man-Who-Can-Talk-With-His Hands."

Scott returned from the Army in 1919, and celebrated his 50th birthday last month. But in the past three years he has been putting on paper in picture and description, the ancient sign language of the vanishing Indians, and now he is at work making them into motion pictures.

COZY DAYS AHEAD.

for HOMES HEATED WITH IMPROVED GAS APPLIANCES

It's time to think of comfort, to plan so that when winter winds begin to blow, your home will be a haven of warmth—a cheerful, cozy place where raw chill is barred from every room—a place where the whole family can enjoy life comfortably, luxuriously.

You can modernize your home heating most easily these days, with so many improved types of gas heating appliances at your command.

There are floor furnaces that require only a small space beneath the floor, yet heat large areas efficiently. There are circulators that provide healthful, circulating warm air for rooms that are hard to heat. There are individual gas steam radiators, manufacturing steam heat on the spot. For the larger home, there are gas-fired central heating plants that circulate warmth all over the house, and gas conversion burners to modernize old heating systems. And there are many styles of improved space heaters ranging from the simplest

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn
PAUL IN ANTIOCH
Lesson for October 15th, Acts 11:19-30

Golden Text: Romans 1:16
The lesson introduces us to a new city, a new man, and a new world. The new city is Antioch, the capital of Syria, at that time the third metropolises of the world, with a population of half a million, and conspicuous for its wealth and magnificence. It was the first city in which Gentiles were converted in any large numbers, and thus naturally became the headquarters for the impressive missionary work among them carried on by Paul and his colleagues. All of the apostle's three missionary journeys began at Antioch.

The new man is Barnabas, one of the most attractive figures in the New Testament. We caught a brief glimpse of him in chapter 9, at Damascus. But here he occupies the center of the stage.

Now Barnabas was a beautiful incarnation of the generous spirit. There was nothing petty about him. Note that he championed Paul at a time when the genuineness of the apostle's conversation was under suspicion. Later he came to the defense of John Mark, whose conduct had angered Paul. His generosity was more than sentiment. It revealed itself in loving deeds, for the lesson tells us that relief, probably a caravan of provisions, was sent in a time of famine from Antioch to Jerusalem.

The new word is "Christians." "The disciples," we read, "were called Christians first in Antioch." Other names in the New Testament are friends, believers, apostles, brethren, saints, followers "of this way." But all these yielded to the term "Christians," now so honorable and universal, although when applied to this small company of primitive disciples in Antioch it was, a designation of contempt.

Today we all rejoice in the name. But do we take it seriously? To what extent is the title "Christian" a mere convention? Are we prepared to assume all the obligations it heralds?

Announcer Hamm created no little amusement Thursday at noon when he took charge of the broadcast station BVD from the Hughes studio next door to the Herald office. Hamm has a gift in greeting and describing folks. Whoz did he say was the best tobacco chewer in town? And that mustach! Who owned it? Oh, Hamm is clever.

WALKING ALONE

When last we caught a glimpse of the people following Jesus they were cheering his name beside the lake, seeking to force him to be their king. He eluded them and retired into the mountain to think and pray. It must have been a dramatic moment when he reappeared. Only a single "Yes" was needed and they would have lifted him on their shoulders and borne him in triumph to the city gates.

Hushed and expectant they waited for his answer--what an answer! "I am not come to restore the kingdom of Jerusalem," he cried. "Mine is a spiritual mission; I am the bread of life. You have cheered me because I fed you in the wilderness, but I tell you now that what I have come to give you is myself, that by knowing me you may know your Father." They could not have been more stunned if he had struck their leaders across the face. What did he mean by this senseless mysticism, this talk about "the bread of life"? Hadn't they seen him heal the sick and conquer the Pharisees in debate were not these signs that he was the these signs that he was the leader, so long promised, who would rout the Romans and restore the throne to David?

"The Jews therefore murmured concerning him, because he said 'I am the bread that came down from Heaven.' It was sacrilege or nonsense, one or the other. Gentiles might continue to follow him, if they chose, but his company was clearly no place for a self-respecting Jew.

Silently the cautious people slipped away, and afterward denied that they had ever had anything to do with him. Those who were more daring, or devoted, continued with him through the rest of the week, and on the Sabbath crowded in to the synagogue where they knew that he would speak.

The days had given him time to reconsider and compose his thoughts perhaps now we would make a reasonable reply to their hopes. But there was no compromise. Again he repeated his seemingly senseless talk about the "bread of life."

And then the note of tragedy "Upon this many of his disciples went back and walked with him no more."

The tide had turned. Jesus realized it clearly though the disciples could not. At every opportunity he sought to build up in them an increased sense of responsibility. He must go into Jerusalem," he told them, "and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed."

"I know tile sub-irrigation is the very thing for this country and this year I plan to start early and 'by twice as much as we laid last year," said Mrs. J. R. Spivey, Gilliland 4-H pantry demonstrator, who laid some 200 feet of tile in March of the past club year.

"There was certainly a marked difference in two rows of tomatoes that I planted and watched this year. One was on tile and one was not. The one on tile bore very heavily and is still bearing while the one irrigated with surface irrigation barely exhibited and was gone long ago."

How I Improved My Bedroom

"I know I am going to enjoy the fruits of my labors", said Mrs. J. J. A. McCantles, Benjamin Bedroom Demonstrator, in giving her report at the achievement program of the Benjamin Home Demonstration Club. "First I will try to give you an idea as to how my room looked before I began work. At one time a partition was made to this room which left a division in the floor. This division left a crack which has gradually widened as the house settled and pulled apart. The walls on the north side was bulged out at the divide and the paper was soiled and hung from the ceiling and walls.

First I removed all the paper and canvas and thoroughly cleaned all door and window frames. Then I had the floor leveled and some new flooring put in where it was so badly worn. The windows in the north wall in the corner of the room and my closet door opened across it, so I had it moved about mid-way the wall making the room cooler. This also did away with the bulge in the wall. I had a book case built in the south wall which added much to the appearance and convenience of the room. I filled all the cracks in the wall with rags and tacked strong cloth over them. Then I recanvassed the ceiling and wall.

My paper is very pretty, with touches of pink, green and orchid. I painted my bed and dresser orchid, and I've planned to have green curtains and a green spread for my bed. The wood work is done in Ivory. My floor will have to be painted and I plan a braided rug with a bit of yellow, orchid and green in it.

I can hardly give an estimate of the cost of the room as I have not confined my improvements to the bedroom alone. I have made quite a change all over my house, but that is another story. I have done a lot of work, and for one who has not tried, I will say that it takes a long time to renovate an old house.
